

Columbia University in the City of New York

LIBRARY

This book is due two weeks from the last date stamped below, and if not returned at or before that time a fine of five cents a day will be incurred.

SERIES OF CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY OF

THE LORDS OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY

UNDER THE DIRECTION OF

THE RIGHT HONOURABLE THE LORD CLERK-REGISTER

OF SCOTLAND.

CHRONICLES OF THE PICTS,
CHRONICLES OF THE SCOTS,

AND OTHER

EARLY MEMORIALS OF SCOTTISH HISTORY.

CHRONICLES OF THE PICTS,

CHRONICLES OF THE SCOTS,

AND OTHER

EARLY MEMORIALS OF SCOTTISH HISTORY.

EDITED BY

WILLIAM F. SKENE, LL.D.

PUBLISHED BY THE AUTHORITY OF THE LORDS COMMISSIONERS OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY, UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE LORD CLERK-REGISTER OF SCOTLAND.

H. M. GENERAL REGISTER HOUSE, EDINBURGH.

1867.

5
5
5
5

5 - 6.8 - |

EDINBURGH : T. CONSTABLE, PRINTER TO THE QUEEN, AND TO THE UNIVERSITY.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

PREFACE—

	PAGE
I. Object and Limits of the Work,	ix
2. Account of the Chronicles and Memorials inserted in this Collection,	xvii
3. Name of Scotia, and ancient Topography of the Country, .	lxxv
4. Inhabitants of the Country, their Legends and History prior to A.D. 634,	lxxxviii
5. Relative position of Four Nations during the century subsequent to A.D. 634,	exiv
6. Variance of Chronicles, and suppressed Century in the History of the Scots,	exxiii
7. Substantial agreement of Chronicles subsequent to A.D. 850,	exxxiii
8. Development of the Scottish Fable,	cxlix
9. Indications and Fragments of History of Eighth and Ninth Centuries,	clxxxii

CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS—

TENTH CENTURY.

	PAGE	PAGE
I. The Pictish Chronicle, DCCCLXXI.-DCCCCXCV., .	xviii	3
II. Saxon and Welsh Additions to the Historia Britonum, DCCCLXXVII.,	xxiii	11
III. From the Tripartite Life of St. Patrick, Tenth Century,	xxix	17

ELEVENTH CENTURY.

	PAGE	PAGE
IV. Synchronisms of Flann Mainistreach, <small>MXIV.-MXX.,</small>	xxx	18
V. Irish and Pietish Additions to the " Historia " Britonum," <small>MXL.-MLXXII.,</small>	xxxi	23
VI. The Duan Albanach, <small>MLXX.,</small>	xxxvi	57
VII. From the Chronicle of Marianns Seotus, <small>MLXXXVIII.,</small>	xxxviii	65
VIII. From the Annals of Tighernac, <small>MLXXXVIII.,</small>	xxxviii	66
IX. The Prophecy of St. Berchan, <small>MXCIV.-MXCVII.,</small>	xxxix	79
X. From the Life of St. Cadroe, Eleventh Cen- tury,	xli	106

TWELFTH CENTURY.

XI. Metrical Prophecy, <small>MCIV.-MCXXIV.,</small>	xlii	117
XII. Continuation of Synchronisms of Flann Main- istreach, <small>MCXIX.,</small>	xlii	119
XIII. From the Welsh Bruts, <small>MCXX.-MCXXXIV.,</small>	xliii	120
XIV. Tract on the Piets, before MC LX.,	xlvii	125
XV. Tract on the Tributes paid to Baedan, King of Ulster, before MC LX.,	xlvii	127
XVI. Chronicle of the Scots, <small>MC LXV.,</small>	xlvii	130
XVII. Description of Scotland, <small>MC LXV.,</small>	xlix	135
XVIII. Legend of St. Andrew, <small>MC LXV.,</small>	li	138
XIX. Continuation of the Annals of Tighernac, <small>MC LXXXVIII.,</small>	li	141
XX. From the Life of St. Patrick, by Joceline, <small>MC LXXXV.,</small>	lii	142
XXI. Genealogy of King William the Lyon, <small>MC LXXXV.,</small>	lii	144
XXII. From Giraldus Cambrensis, Topographia Hi- berniae, <small>MC LXXXVI.,</small>	lii	146
XXIII. Chronicle of the Scots and Piets, <small>MC LXXXVII.,</small>	lii	148
XXIV. Description of Britain, Twelfth Century,	liii	153

THIRTEENTH CENTURY.

	PAGE	PAGE
XXV. From Layamon's Brut, MCCIV.,	lili	155
XXVI. Welsh Chronicle, MCCXI.,	liv	161
XXVII. From Giraldus Cambrensis, De Instruc- tione Principum, MCCXIV.,	liv	163
XXVIII. From the Annals of Inisfallen, MCCXV.,	liv	167
XXIX. Chronicle of the Picts and Scots, MCCLI.,	lv	171
XXX. The Metrical Chronicle, commonly called the Cronicon Elegiacum, MCCLXX.,	lvi	177
XXXI. Legend of St. Andrew, MCCLXXIX.,	lviii	183
XXXII. Chronicle of the Picts and Scots, MCCLXXX.,	lviii	194
XXXIII. Chronicle of Huntingdon, MCCXC.,	lix	209
XXXIV. Description of Scotland, MCCXII.-MCCXCVI..	lxii	214

FOURTEENTH CENTURY.

XXXV. From Tracts relating to the English Claims, MCCCI.,	lxii	216
XXXVI. Chronicle of the Picts and Scots, MCCXVII.,	lxv	285
XXXVII. Letter by the Barons of Scotland to the Pope, MCCXX.,	lxvi	291
XXXVIII. Chronicle of the Scots, MCCCXXXIII.-IV.,	lxvi	295
XXXIX. Chronicles of the Scots, MCCCXLVIII.,	lxvii	298
XL. Chronicle of the Scots, Fourteenth Century,
XLI. Tract on the Scots of Dalriada, before MCCELXXII.,	lxvii	304
XLII. Tract on the Picts, before MCCLXIII.,	lxviii	308
XLIII. Tract on the Picts, before MCCCXCI.,	lxviii	318

FIFTEENTH CENTURY.

XLIV. Tract on the Picts, before MCCCXVIII.,	lxix	323
XLV. Tract on the Scots, with Metrical Pro- phecy, before MCCCXXXVII.,	lxix	330
XLVI. Metrical Chronicle, commonly called the Chronicon Rhythmicum, MCCCXLVII.,	lxix	332

	PAGE	PAGE
XLVII. From Metrical History, by William Arch-bishop of York, MCCCCL.-MCCCCLX.,	lxxi	341
XLVIII. From the Annals of Senait Mac Manus, commonly called the Annals of Ulster, MCCCCXCVIII.,	lxxii	343
XLIX. Legend of St. Andrew, before MDIV.,	lxxii	375
L. Chronicle of the Scots, MCCCCLXXXIJ.-MDXXX.,	lxxiii	378

APPENDIX—

I. Passages from Isidore of Seville, illustrating Pictish Chronicle,	lxxiii	393
II. Irish Version of Pictish Chronicle,	lxxiii	396
III. Passages from the Annals of MacFirbis,	lxxiv	401
IV. From Life of Saint Adomnan,	lxxiv	408
V. From Life of Saint Boethius,	lxxiv	410
VI. Life of Saint Servanus,	lxxiv	412
VII. Legend of Saint Bonifacius,	lxxiv	421
VIII. Legend of Saint Adrian,	lxxiv	424
INDEX,	429

PREFACE.

P R E F A C E.

I.

IN the latter part of the fourteenth century, John OBJECT AND LIMITS OF THE
WORK. of Fordun, a priest of the diocese of St. Andrews, and chaplain of the church of Aberdeen, compiled John of For-
dun. the first formal history of Scotland. He did not live to complete it. He left behind him the first five books of his history, bringing it down to the death of David the First, and the materials for the rest of his history arranged by himself, the last date in which is 1385. Between the years 1420 and 1424, Andrew of Wyntoun, a canon regular of St. Andrews, and prior of the monastery of St. Serf's Inch, in Loch Leven, wrote his “Orygynale Cronykil “ of Scotland.” He does not appear to have known of Fordun’s history ; but not long after, in the year 1441, Walter Bower, or Bowmaker, Abbot of Inchcolm, wrote a continuation of Fordun’s history, bringing it down to the year 1437, in which he not only added the history of the additional period to the death of James the First, but interpolated the five books composed by Fordun with additional matter, and styled the whole work the “Scotiero-“nicon.” The work was now made public, and numerous copies of it were made, and transcripts preserved, in the principal religious houses, which became known under the name of the “Book of “Paisley,” the “Book of Scone,” the “Book of “Cupar,” the “Chronicle of Icolmkill,” etc. In some of these copies, the continuation bears to be by two other writers ; viz., Patrick Russell, a Carthusian monk of the monastery of Charter-house in Perth, and Magnus MacCulloch, who was secretary to William Schevez, Archbishop of St. Andrews ; but although these names are attached to some of the continuations, they are all in substance that compiled by Walter Bower.¹

Leading features of Fordun's history.

The leading features of the early history of Scotland, as told by Fordun in his five books, are these : The Scots derived their origin from Gaythe-los, son of Neolus, king of Greece, who went to Egypt in the days of Moses, where he married Scota, daughter of Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and led the Scots from thence to Spain. From this country several colonies went to Ireland, the last under

¹ There are twenty-one MSS. of the “Scoticronicon” still preserved, and, besides the imperfect copy printed in Gale’s “Scriptores,” vol. iii., two separate printed editions, one by Thomas Hearne in 1722, the text of which is taken from a MS. in Trinity College, Cambridge, which appears to contain the work as Fordun left it ; and another by

Walter Goodall in 1759, taken mainly from the Edinburgh College MS., which contains Bower’s additions. A new edition of Fordun, from a collation of all the MSS., and discriminating between the original text and the additions of the different continuators, would be a great boon to the Scottish historian.

Symon Brek, son of the king of Spain, who brought the marble chair on which the kings were crowned to Ireland, and under his great-grandson, Ethachius Rothay, the Scots passed over into Scotland, and gave the name of Seotia to that part of the island formerly called Albion. Some time after, the Piets settled in Scotland, and married wives of the Scots. In the year 330 before the Christian era, the Scots, who had come over from Ireland and settled in Scotland, elected Fergus, the son of Ferchard, their king, who brought over from Ireland the marble chair, and whose kingdom extended from the sea and the Western Isles to Drumalban. His great-grandson Rether brought another colony of Scots from Ireland, and united them with the Scots inhabiting the islands and mainland of Scotland. In the year 203 after the Christian era, the Scots were converted to Christianity, and in the year 360, Eugenius, king of the Scots, was slain by the Piets and Britons, and the Scots, under his brother Ethodius, and Erth the son of Ethodius, were driven by them out of the country and expelled to Ireland. Immediately after, the relies of St. Andrew are brought to Scotland and received by Hurgurst, king of the Piets. In the year 403, the Scots return under Fergus, the son of Erth, and occupy Ergadia. Fordun states, that from Fergus, son of Ferchard, there reigned forty-five kings over the Scots, but he does not give the names of any of them, except the two above mentioned. From Fergus, the son of Erth, he gives a succession of kings down to Kenneth Macalpin, who led the Scots out of Ergadia, conquered and destroyed the Piets, and became monarch of the whole of Scotland ; and he then gives the reigns of the kings of Scotland from Kenneth Macalpin to David the First.

Extent to which the older chronicles have been printed.

In the year 1729, Thomas Innes, a priest of the Scotch College at Paris, published his critical essay on the ancient inhabitants of Scotland. This admirable essay was the first attempt to subject the early history of Scotland prior to the reign of Kenneth Macalpin, as given by Fordun, to a critical examination, and to bring such fragments as remained of the more ancient Chronicles of Scotland to bear upon it ; and, in the appendix to the first volume, he printed six ancient pieces, which were then for the first time made public. Four of these were taken from the ms. in the Imperial Library at Paris, called the Colbertine ms., viz., the “Pictish Chronicle,” which he divided into two pieces (No. I.) ; the “Description of Scotland” (No. xvii.) ; and the “Chronicle of the Scots” (No. xvi.) ; the fifth was the “Chronicle of the Piets and Scots,” in the register of the priory of St. Andrews (No. xxix.) ; and the sixth was the “Chronicon Rhythmicum” (No. xlvi.) John Pinkerton, in his Inquiry into the History of Scotland, first published in 1789, printed a collation of the first four pieces which had been published by Innes, and added to them the “Legend of St. Andrew” (No. xviii.) ; the “Metrical Prophecy” from the Colbertine ms. (No. xi.) ; the “Legend of St. Andrew,” from the register of the priory of St. Andrews (No. xxxi.) ; and three pieces which had been furnished to him by Charles O’Connor of Belnagare, viz., the “Albanic Duan” (No. vi.) ; the extracts from the “Annals of Ulster” (No. xlvi.) ; and a very inaccurate copy of part of the Irish Nennius (No. v. d.) The publication of the ancient “Irish Annals” by Doctor O’Connor in 1812, made the text of these valuable documents accessible to the public ; and in the “Collectanea de rebus Albanicis,” published by the Iona Club, a collection of extracts from these Irish annalists were printed along with a better text and translation of the “Albanic Duan ;” and a series of extracts from the Norse Sagas of all passages bearing upon the early history of Scotland. In 1848 the Irish version of Nennius was published, with a translation and copious notes, by the Irish Archaeological Society, and, in that work, various tracts bearing upon the early history of Scotland, contained in the Irish mss., were brought to light ; and in the works printed for the Bannatyne and Maitland Clubs, several short chronicles, contained in mss. in the British Museum, were contributed from time to time by the Rev. Joseph Stevenson ; but these are accessible only to their members.

Such is the extent to which the ancient chronicles ^{Plan of this} and other early memorials of Scottish history have ^{Work.}

already been published ; but the field is by no means exhausted. There still remain a considerable number in mss., which have never yet been published, while the text of those contained in the foregoing works is, to a considerable extent, either not strictly accurate, or not printed from the best mss. When the series of the Scottish Record Publications was projected, it was suggested by the late Dr. Joseph Robertson, under whose superintendence the publication was placed, that the series should commence with a volume in which the whole of these scattered pieces should be collected together, and printed after careful collation with the original mss., and that as many more documents should be added to them as still existed in ms., so as to form a complete collection of the early Chronicles and Memorials of Scotland, prior to the works of Fordun and Wyntoun. As it was proposed to include in this collection such materials as could be found in Irish and Welsh mss., for which some knowledge of the Celtic dialects was indispensable, the present Editor was requested to undertake the task. Though feeling that, in some respects, he was not fully qualified to do justice to the work, and that his other avocations would prevent him from giving as much time as was desirable to an undertaking necessarily requiring frequent and lengthened visits to the various libraries in which these mss. are deposited for the purpose of collation, he was induced to do what he could towards editing the work.

The object of this work therefore is, to form and bring together into one volume as complete a collection as possible of the fragments which still remain of the early chronicles and memorials of Scotland, prior to the publication of Fordun's History. It will contain a reprint of those pieces which have already appeared in scattered publications, after collation with every ms. which was accessible to the Editor, with the addition of all such pieces as still remain in ms., including the materials bearing upon the history of Scotland in Welsh and Irish mss. The great object of the Editor has been to make this collection of the materials for the early history of Scotland complete, and in his anxiety to attain this object, he may occasionally have included pieces which hardly seem to deserve a place in this collection. In making the selection, it was, of course, necessary to do so within certain defined limits. His geographical limit has been the kingdom of Scotland in its present extent; and every event, which can be supposed to have happened within the limits of that territory, has been considered as falling within the scope of this work. As the Anglic kingdom of Northumbria extended to the Firth of Forth, and the Cymric population to the Firth of Clyde, this has led him to include many events connected with the early Saxon and Welsh annals. He has fixed his limit in point of time at the conclusion of the reign of Alexander the Third, in the year 1285, and he has not thought it necessary to include documents containing a record of events subsequent to that date. As a general rule, he has confined this collection to pieces which appear to have been compiled prior to the fifteenth century.

The work will thus present, it is hoped, an accurate text of these ancient fragments of the early annals of Scotland. It will include every thing which the Editor could find in the ms. collections in the British Museum, in the Bodleian, in Cambridge, in the Advocates' Library at Edinburgh, in the Imperial Library at Paris, and in the private collection of Sir Thomas Phillipps of Middle Hill, bearing upon the early history of Scotland within these limits ; and in addition to this, the Welsh mss. in the British Museum, in Jesus College, Oxford, and in the Hengwrt collection now the property of Mr. Wynne of Peniarth, and the Irish mss. in Trinity College, Dublin, the Royal Irish Academy, the British Museum, the Bodleian, and the Advocates' Library, have been carefully examined, and every thing tending to illustrate the early history of Scotland extracted and printed, with a translation. For the ready access which the Editor obtained to these ms. collections, he has to record his obligation to Mr. Coxe of the Bodleian ; the Principal and Fellows of Jesus College, Oxford ; the Master and Fellows of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge ; the Reverend Doctor Todd of Trinity College, Dublin ; Mr. Clibborn of the Royal Irish Academy ; Monsieur Claude of the Imperial Library, Paris ; and especially to Sir Thomas Phillipps, and Mr. Wynne, for the kind manner in which they made their valuable private collections available to him.

Throughout the greater part of this work, the Editor has had the advantage of the valuable and ready assistance of the late Dr. Joseph Robertson, who permitted him to refer to him in all matters of doubt or difficulty ; and it is while these sheets were passing through the press, that this distinguished archaeologist and able man has been taken from us. The Editor has also to record his thanks to the Rev. Dr. Reeves of Armagh, Professor Connellan of Dublin, and Professor Cosmo Innes, for assistance which they readily afforded to him when he applied to them.

II.

The Chronicles and Memorials contained in this collection are placed in chronological order, so far as the Editor has been enabled, from indications afforded by each document, to determine the period at which it was probably compiled, and the date so assigned to it is placed after the title of the document. This date is to some extent conjectural ; but the reasons which led the Editor to assign it will be stated in the account of each piece. This date has no reference whatever to the date of the mss. from which the documents are printed, the oldest copy found being often

ACCOUNT OF THE CHRO-NICLES AND MEMORIALS INSERTED IN THIS COLLEC-TION.

much posterior to the date contained in the document itself. These pieces are in some cases to be found in one ms. only, and in others, there are different editions of them found in different mss. Where only one ms. authority exists, the text has been carefully printed from it. Where there is more than one ms., the oldest ms. is as a general rule selected for the text, and the collations with the other mss. printed at the foot of the page. The reference to the ms. used for the text is placed under the title, and where there is reference to more than one ms., the first named is the one from which the text is taken. Where it is written in old French, Welsh, or Irish, a translation has been appended.

As these pieces consist in the main of fragments of old chronicles and other early memorials, in which the exact form of every name, and the exact construction of every sentence, may be of importance, the Editor has, as a general rule, resolved, after full consideration, to make no conjectural emendations, either in the orthography or in the construction, but to present the document in the exact shape in which he found it, and he has rarely departed from this rule.

X. century.
The Pictish
Chronicle.

1. THE PICTISH CHRONICLE.—The first piece, both in point of time and of importance, is that usually known by the name of the “Pictish Chronicle.” It has already been printed, both by Innes and by Pinkerton; but a more correct text is now given, with a facsimile of the entire chronicle as it appears in the Colbertine ms., from which it has been printed. This ms. is of the fourteenth century, and has evidently been transcribed at York, by Robert de Populton, as there appears in folio 211, “Ora pro Popilton qui me compilavit “Eboraci,” and again at folios 213 and 262, “Ora “pro fratre Roberto de Populton.”¹ He appears to have transcribed it from another ms., and not always correctly.² It contains five pieces relating to the early history of Scotland, all of which are printed in this collection; and these pieces seem to have been known to Ranulph Higden, as he quotes from them in his “Polichronicon,” while the preface, and a great part of his chronicle, down to the reign of Edward the Third, is contained in this ms., the last year mentioned being the year 1316.

The Pictish Chronicle, which is the most important piece in this ms., consists of three parts: first, a preface, containing passages extracted and adapted from the “Origines” of Isidore of Seville; secondly, a list of Pictish kings, from Cruithne, the eponymus of the race, to Bred, the last king; and, thirdly, a chronicle of the kings

¹ On 19th May 1334 the Archbishop of York mentions “Wil-“liam de Populton seneschal of “our hospice.”

² At page 6, line 35, he has “Nectonius in vita julie manens,” which has no meaning, and has probably been incorrectly copied.

On referring to the facsimile, a line seems to be omitted, the one ending with m, and the next beginning with necis.

At page 9, line 5, he has “Ciri-“ciuum filium,” omitting the name of the father, which, from the Irish editions, appears to have been Dungel.

from Kenneth Macalpin to Kenneth, son of Malcolm, with the leading events under each reign. Innes, however, was mistaken in supposing that this latter appears in the Colbertine ms. as a separate chronicle. All three pieces are evidently transcribed as one chronicle, though possibly compiled from different sources ; but there appears to be something omitted between the second and third division of the chronicle, as, in giving the events under the reign of Kenneth Macalpin, the expression occurs in the latter, “Pictavia autem a Pictis est nominata quos ut diximus Cinadius delevit,” while there is no mention of the destruction of the Picts in the previous part of the chronicle. What the omitted part was, may be gathered from Higden’s “Polichronicon,” where his quotation of this very part of the chronicle is preceded by a short account of the destruction of the Picts by the treacherous slaughter of their nobles at a meeting with the Scots. It is the same account which is narrated at large by Giraldus Cambrensis in a chapter of his work, “De instructione Principum,” printed in this collection (No. xxvii.), also, in the same connexion, in the chronicle extracted from the “Scalacronica” (No. xxxii.), and in the chronicle (No. xxxix.), in which it is given in the very words of Higden. On the margin of Giraldus’ account is the expression, “De Pictis Scotorum prodicione deletis,” and the account in the latter chronicle concludes with the expression, “Sicque de duobus populis gens bellico- “ sior totaliter est deleta.” The tale is certainly an old one, as it is alluded to in the “ Propheey of St. “ Berchan,” and probably originally preceded the third division of the chronicle.

The second and third divisions of this chronicle have obviously been translated into Latin from an Irish or old Gaelic original, as the translator has left some words untranslated, which he appears not to have understood. Thus, in the second division, he gives “ Dadrest” as the name of a king who reigned one year; but it is followed by “ Drest “ filius Girom et Drest filius Udrost 5 annis “ conregnaverunt.” It is plain that the syllable Da is the Irish numeral two, and the meaning is two Drests, viz., Drest son of Girom, and Drest son of Udrost, reigned five years together. Again, in the third division, under the reign of Constantine, son of Kenneth, he writes, “ Occisi sunt Scotti eo “ Achcochlam,” where eo is the Irish preposition at, and the meaning is “ at Acheochlam.” Again, under the reign of Constantine, son of Ed, he mentions the death of “ Adhelstan filius Advær rig “ Saxan,” which is Irish for “ king of the Saxons.” Then in the following reign, he mentions that Malcolm plundered the English to the river Tees, and adds, “ quam predam vocaverunt Scotti predam “ albidosorum idem nainndisi.” Na is the genitive plural of the Irish definite article; Fionn is Irish for albus or white, and forms fhinn, the f when aspirated being silent; Dese is a multitude or troupe; and albidosorum is thus an attempt to translate na[fh]inndisi. Fodresach, now Fetteresso, is also mentioned as being in Claideom, and this appears also to be an Irish word, as Fetteresso is in the district of the Merns, known to the Irish by the name of Maghcircin, or the plain of Circin; and in two of the Irish legends of the Picts, they are said to have occupied this district as their Claideamtir, or sword land.¹ Several other instances might be noted; but it will suffice to add that the Irish word Dun appears to be translated by oppidum, “ oppidum Fother” being a rendering of Dunfother, and “ oppidum Eden” of Dunedene; and that the chronicle concludes under the reign of Kenneth, son of Malcolm, “ Hic est qui tribuit magnam “ civitatem Brechne Domino.” Brechne is in Irish the form for the genitive case of the word Brechin.

The chronicle is evidently connected with this part of the country, for, under the reign of the later kings, it records the deaths of the Maormors of Angus, and in giving the names of the seven sons of Cruithne, who are mythically supposed to have reigned after their father, but who represent seven districts of Scotland, while all other editions of this part of the chronicle commence the series with Fibh of Suer-chlanna, or free tribes, whose land was converted into Fearann - cloidhinh, or sword-land, in their own territory, and who remained in it, in bondage, under the power of their enemies.

¹ See Nos. XLII. and XLIV. M'Firbis, in his smaller genealogical work, states that there were six classes of Daer-chlanna, or servile tribes, among the ancient Irish. The third were the race

or Fife, and place Circin at the end, the Pictish chronicle transposes these two, and commences the list with Circin, maintaining in other respects the same order. It is in Magheircin, or the plain of Circin, that Brechin is situated ; and as the chronicle terminates with the foundation of an ecclesiastical settlement there, this chronicle was probably compiled by the monks of Brechin. The termination of the chronicle in the middle of the reign of Kenneth, son of Malcolm, and the fact that while the years of the reign of the other kings are given, the years of Kenneth's reign are left blank, point to his reign as the period of its compilation. Kenneth reigned from 977 to 995, and the chronicle has accordingly been placed in this series between these dates.

2. SAXON AND WELSH ADDITIONS TO THE “HIS-“TORIA BRITONUM.”—Some time in the course of the seventh or eighth centuries, a work was composed termed the “Historia Britonum,” containing an account of the early traditions of the different races inhabiting Britain, with the events of their history, partly legendary and partly real, from the departure of the Romans till the final subjugation of the island by the Saxons. The original work appears to have terminated with the foundation of the kingdom of Northumbria in 547. It seems to have been at once adopted by the Britons as the most popular exposition of their early history, and to have become the basis upon which subsequent writers interwove or attached additional matter ; and edi-

Saxon and Welsh Additions to the “Historia Bri-tonum.”

tions of this work were produced from time to time with such additions as had been then added to it. It would not, in the opinion of the Editor, be an altogether impossible task to disentangle it from these interpolations and additions, and to reduce it to what was probably its original form; but the attempt would be out of place here. It is enough to say that the date and authors of two of the editions can be pretty well established: one by Mark the anchorite in 822, and another by Nennius in 858; and although the work is attributed by many of the MSS. to Gildas, yet it has generally been identified with the latter edition attributed to Nennius. So popular was this work, that there exist no fewer than thirty-three MSS. of Nennius, and the Editor believes that in the traditions contained in this work, and in the interpolations and additions to it, is to be found the earliest statement of the legendary annals of the different races who peopled Britain. He has therefore included extracts from these additions, so far as they bear on the history of Scotland, in the present collection. The MSS. of Nennius may be divided into five classes: first, the Harleian MS., 3859, of the tenth century,¹ and those which correspond with it. Second, the Vatican MS. of the same period,² and the Paris MS. (Bib. Imp. Latin, 11108), which corresponds with it. Third, a class of later mss., with additions written on the margin. These mss. are all more or less connected with Durham. Fourth, a class of mss. in which these marginal additions have been incorporated into the text; and it is from one of these that the usual text of Nennius has been edited. And fifth, the Irish translations. The dates of the Christian era in Nennius are given in two forms; either “a passione Christi,” or “ab incarnatione Christi,” and sometimes both are given together, on the principle that the date from the Passion is thirty-three years prior to the real date. It was, however, a custom among early writers to use the date from the Passion as equivalent to that from the Incarnation, on the idea that the Passion or sufferings of Christ really commeneed with his assumption of humanity in his incarnation;¹ and a closer examination of the dates in Nennius will show that he used it in this sense; that his date from the Passion is equivalent to the true date; and that the later date added from the Incarnation is an interpolation. Thus, in the Vatican ms. the dates are thus given: “a passione Christi peraeti sunt anni Deccc.xlvi. Ab incarnatione autem ejus sunt anni Deccc.lxxvi. et v annus Eadmundi regis Anglorum.” The fifth year of King Edward, however, corresponds with the year 946 of the Christian era, and not with the year 976. It is therefore plain that the latter date is an interpolation, and that the passage originally ran, “a passione Christi peracti sunt anni Deeee.xlvi “et v annus Eadmundi regis Anglorum.” In precisely similar terms, the date in the Harleian ms. is thus given : “a passione autem Christi peracti sunt anni septingenti nonaginta sex, ab incarnatione autem ejus anni sunt octingenti triginta unus,” when, no doubt, the year 796 is the true date intended, and the later date is a subsequent interpolation. Some of the mss. in the third class have the date from the Passion, of 879 in place of 796. When the date 946 in the Vatican ms. is said to be the fifth year of the reign of King Edmund, there must have been some reason for connecting that date with a particular year in the reign of a Saxon king. The Editor believes that reason to have been that, in the fifth year of King Edmund, he conquered the Welsh kingdom of Cumbria or Strath Clyde, and the conquest may have brought the “Historia Britonum” to the knowledge of the Saxons. This conjecture is supported by the fact that the Paris ms., which almost entirely corresponds with the Vatican ms., is the only ms. of Nennius in which the proper names appear in the Saxon and not in the Welsh form.

¹ The text of Mr. Stevenson's edition of Nennius, 1838, is taken from this MS.

² Published by Mr. Gunn in 1819.

¹ Du Cange says, “Passio Domini pro ejusdem incarnatione interdum accipi, ex Charta ann. 1083, in Tabular. Eccl. Carnot “supra observatum est in voce ‘annus,’ where he gives some other instances of it.”

The Harleian ms. attaches to the text of Nennius’ additions, consisting, first, of genealogies of the Saxon kings ; secondly, of a Welsh chronicle ; and thirdly, of Welsh genealogies. The Saxon genealogies are also attached to the text in other mss.; but it appears that they had already existed prior to 858, as, in the edition of 858 by Nennius, they were rejected by him, while the genealogies and events recorded in them come no lower down than the year 738. There is therefore every reason to conclude that they belong to the edition of 796, if not to an earlier edition. Those parts of the genealogies which relate to that part of the Northumbrian kingdom, afterwards included within the limits of the kingdom of Scotland, are here inserted from the Harleian ms. in the extracts marked A and B. The chronicle marked C, from which extracts relating to events connected with Scotland are here printed, is the chronicle which, combined with two later chronicles, has been edited first by Mr. Petrie in his "Monumenta," and afterwards by Mr. Williams, under the title of "Annales Cambriæ." It bears, in point of fact, no such title, and in its original form in the Harleian ms. is a true addition to the text of the "Historia Britonum." This is plain from a comparison of the earlier part of the chronicle with the genealogies of the Saxons; for the events there recorded are likewise recorded in this chronicle, the names of the battles are the same, the same spelling of the proper names is preserved, and a peculiarity in the designation of one of the Northumbrian kings, Oswald, who in the "genealogia" alone of all the kings is termed "Rex Nordorum," appears in the chronicle where the same designation is applied to him. The chronology of this chronicle is indicated by the repetition of the word annus for each successive year, whether blank or otherwise, and every tenth year is marked by a number. Although the last event recorded corresponds with the year 956, the word annus is repeated till the last recurrence of it corresponds with the year 977, in which year the chronicle in its original form was no doubt written. Mr. Duffus Hardy, in his Introduction to the “Monumenta,” observes that “the era on “which its chronology rests would concur with “the year 444 of the Incarnation, though no pro-“bable reason can be assigned for this particular “period having been selected for its commence-“ment.” He also states that the earlier portion appears to have been taken from an Irish chronicle. The present Editor is of the same opinion ; but the following entry from the “Annals of Ulster” may explain why the era of the MS. was 444 : “Anno “Dominicccc.xliii Ardmacha fundata est.” It was the era of the foundation of Armagh, and the Irish chronicle, on which it was based, may have been connected with Armagh. The Welsh genealogies, extracts of those parts of which connected with Scotland are printed under letter D, are as plainly connected with the “genealogia” as the chronicle is. In the “genealogia” it is stated, in connexion with the reign of Hussa, “Contra illum quatuo regis, Urbgen, et Riderechen “et Guallauc et Morecant dimicarunt ;” and in the Welsh genealogies, the pedigrees of Urien, Rederch, Guallauc, and Morcant follow in the same order. The pedigree of the kings of Wales, which is not here given, commences with Uen, son of Hywel dda, who reigned from 949 to 987, and thus the date of the compilation of these genealogies corresponds with that of the chronicle. The Welsh genealogies attached to this ms. of Nennius have not been hitherto published, and their main value for the history of Scotland consists in the fact that they contain a pedigree of the British kings of Strath Clyde, terminating with Run,¹ the father of Eocha, king of Alban, by the daughter of Kenneth Macalpin, in which most of the recorded kings of Strath Clyde will be found.

3. THE TRIPARTITE LIFE OF ST. PATRICK.—The Tripartite Life of St. Patrick.

Among the lives of St. Patrick published by Colgan in his “Trias Thaumaturga,” appears a Latin life, which he terms “Vita Tripartita.” He so calls it, because it was a Latin translation, made by himself from three Irish mss., containing editions of the same life in old Irish. The Irish mss. used by Colgan cannot now be found or identified; but the late Professor Currie, when employed to catalogue the Irish mss. in the British Museum, discovered in the list of the Pictish kings, it will be seen that the letters are the same, and the letter u has a — over it, which has been omitted in their copies. The name is Run, a common British name.

¹ In the copies of the Pictish chronicle published by Innes and Pinkerton, this name has been printed Ku, but the letters K and R in the original can hardly be distinguished. If compared with the name Ru, the twenty-eighth

an Irish life of St. Patrick, which, on comparing it with Colgan's Latin version, he ascertained to be an Irish version of the "Tripartite Life," and subsequently another Irish version of the same life was discovered by Dr. Todd in the Bodleian, which he considered to be still older. Professor Currie, in his lectures on the ms. materials of Irish history, considers this life to have been compiled in the eighth century. The Editor cannot place so old a date upon it, at least in its present form. The language even of the Bodleian ms. is not older than the eleventh century, and, after consideration of all the circumstances, he has, with some hesitation, placed the compilation of the life itself in the tenth century. This life contains a very important notice of the settlement of the Scots in Britain under Aedan, king of Dalriada. There are indications that this notice formed a part of the oldest forms of the lives of St. Patrick, and it is here printed from the Bodleian ms., collated with that in the British Museum, as probably the earliest authentic notice of the Dalriadic colony.

XI. century.

Synchronisms of Flann Mainistreach.

4. SYNCHRONISMS OF FLANN MAINISTREACH.— Among the ancient pieces in the Irish mss. which throw light on the history of Scotland, and which have not yet been published, are the "Synchronisms of Flann Mainistreach," or "of Bute," who died in the year 1056, in which he synchronizes the provincial kings of Ireland with the monarchs of the whole island, and includes among the former the kings of Dalriada in Scotland, and the subsequent kings of Scotland down to Malcolm the Second. These synchronisms were continued by another hand to the death of Muircheartach O'Brien in 1119, sixty-five years after Flann's death. The synchronisms with their continuation are preserved in the "Book of Lecain," a ms. of 1418, and the Editor has found another copy in the older "Book of Glendaloch," in the Bodleian (Rawlinson, B. 512). There is, however, a ms. in the Kilbride Collection, in the Advocates' Library, which gives the synchronisms, without the continuation, terminating with Malcolm the Second, who died during the life of Flann; and as the rest of this ms. consists of poems which are the undoubted works of Flann himself, there seems little reason to doubt that it contains the work of Flann in its original shape. Professor Currie considers that these poems and prose pieces were written between the years 1014 and 1023. The lists of the kings of Scotland contained in the synchronisms are now printed from these mss. for the first time. Since the text of this work has gone to press, the Editor has found another copy of the synchronisms, corresponding with those in the Kilbride ms., in ms. Rawlinson, B. 486, in the Bodleian, a ms. of the fourteenth century.¹

5. IRISH AND PICTISH ADDITIONS TO THE "HIS-

Irish and Pictish additions to the "Historia Britonum."

¹ In page 22 the Editor has omitted to notice that b and c insert after Dub mac Malecolaim— | Aear mac Malecolaim. This king does not occur in a nor in the list in MS. Bodl., Rawlinson, B. 486.

“TORIA BRITONUM.”—The Irish mss. contain several versions of an Irish translation of the “Historia Britonum,” with additions connected with the legendary history of the Picts and of the Scots of Ireland. This translation is said in one ms. to have been the work of Gillacaemhin, who died in the year 1072, and every indication afforded by the translation itself corresponds with this date. The earliest copy of the version appears in the “Leabhar na h-uidhre,” a ms. compiled by Maelmure, who died in the year 1106, of which a fragment only is preserved. A complete copy is preserved in the “Book of Ballimote,” a ms. of 1391. Another complete copy, and part of a fourth, in the “Book of Leccain,” a ms. of 1418, and another copy in a ms. in Trinity College, Dublin, which cannot be dated earlier than the sixteenth century, and which was probably compiled in the year 1577. The Irish version of Nennius has been published by the Irish Archaeological Society, edited by the Rev. Dr. Todd ; but it is much to be regretted that the latest ms., that of the sixteenth century, has been selected for the text of this work. That ms. differs very much in its order from the older mss., and bears evident marks of more modern interpolation and alteration. The whole text has been brought to correspond too much with the Latin text of Nennius, instead of presenting the version of Gillacaemhin, with its additions interwoven into the text in their original form, which in the Editor’s opinion are better represented by the older versions in the books of Ballimote and Lecain. In the notes, various other pieces are inserted, which certainly formed no part of the Irish translator's additions. The notes marked T are judicious and valuable, and worthy of all attention. Those marked H are of no value in elucidating the version, and are only calculated to mislead the unwary reader. The character of these notes, and the school to which their author obviously belonged, ought, in the Editor's opinion, to have excluded them from any work published by the Irish Archæological Society. The "Irish and Pictish additions to the "Historia Britonum'" in this translation are here printed from the "Book of Ballimote," collated with that of Lecain. The other pieces, which do not belong to the additions to the "Historia Britonum," are inserted in their proper places, where they will be duly noticed. The passage marked A, taken from the text, seems to contain the original form of a passage which is much corrupted in the Latin text, and presents probably the oldest form of the legend of the settlement of the Piets. The passage under letter B, which is the first of the additions made to the text, contains what may be called the Pictish legend of their settlement, and is, in point of fact, an amplification of the previous passage. It describes the settlement of the Piets under their eponymus Cruithne, and the division of Alban among his seven sons, and corresponds with the first part of the second division of the "Pictish “ Chronicle.” This legend is expressly said to have been taken from the books of the Piets. The copy in the “Book of Ballimote” and the second copy in the “Book of Lecain” have apparently been transcribed from some older copy, without adverting to its being written in double columns, as the list of the thirty Brudes is mixed up with the rest of the text; but fortunately the first copy in the “Book of Lecain” is without this element of confusion, and enables the correct text to be easily restored.¹ It is followed by a fragment, which has been printed under c, from a ms. in the Bodleian, which appears to have contained a copy of the Irish Nennius, and gives the list of the subsequent kings as they are found in the “Pictish Chronie.” The passage in Irish, which is printed in italics, having apparently been inserted by the Irish scribe to adapt it to Irish traditions, and the last four kings having, from the use of Irish words, been likewise apparently added by him. The additions under letter d, appear to contain the Irish form of the legend of the settlement of the Piets, in connexion with the Milesian fable, in which they are brought direct to Ireland, and from Ireland to Scotland. This addition consists, first, of a prose statement, and, secondly, of a poem, which bears within it evidence of having been compiled not later than the end of the reign of Maebeth, in 1058. It is to this form of the tradition the statement belongs, that seventy kings reigned over the Picts from Cathluan, the first king, to Constantin, the last of the Picts ; and the statement first appears in connexion with these additions to the “ Historia Britonum. ” By the “ Pictish Chronicle, ” this Constantin is identified with Constantin, king of the Picts, the seventieth king in that list, who reigned from 790 to 820. As he was succeeded by his brother Angus, and Angus by Drust, the son of Constantine, he could in no sense have been the last king of the Picts, and this expression could only have been applied to him, if the passage was first written in his reign. It is remarkable that the first edition of the “ Historia ” which can be dated, that of 796, falls within his reign. By the poem, which follows the prose tradition, Constantin, the last of the Picts, appears to be identified with Constantin, termed in the “ Irish Annals ” king of the Picts, who reigned from 862 to 876, as it is stated that sixty-six kings reigned over the Picts before Kenneth Macalpin, which would make him the sixty-ninth king. But he likewise was succeeded by his brother ; the annals have antedated these reigns two years, which places his death in 878 ; and another edition of the “ Historia Britonum ” is dated in 879, one year after his death. The passage under letter E is a separate legend, found in the “ Book of Leccain ” only. Among the additions to the Irish Nennius found in the “ Book of Leccain ” is a poem, prefixed to which, in a later hand, are the words Maelmuru cecinit; there is an older copy of this poem in the book of Leinster, a ms. of 1160; Maelmuru, the author, is said to have died in the year 884; but whether the poem be as old as that date, it certainly contains the oldest form of the tradition of the Picts having obtained Irish wives; and being attached in the “Book of Lecain” to the Irish Nennius, as much of the poem is here inserted under letter F as has any bearing on the early legendary history of Scotland. The tract inserted under letter G is found in the Irish version of Nennius, contained in the “Book of Ballimote” alone, and immediately precedes the account of the reign of Vortigern and the arrival of the Saxons, as contained in the text of Nennius. Dr. Todd’s translations of these pieces have been adopted with some modifications.

¹ See No. XLIV. for a transcript of the same piece, containing a similar confusion.

The Duan
Albanach.

6. THE DUAN ALBANACH.—The “Duan Albanach” was first printed, but very incorrectly, by Pinkerton, who received his copy from Charles O’Connor of Belnagare, but whence he derived it is not stated. A more correct copy was printed by his son, Dr. O’Connor, in his “Rerum Hibernicarum Scriptores “veteres,” and his text was adopted in the “Collectione de rebus Albanicis.” In the Irish Nennius published by the Irish Archæological Society, a still better text was printed from a ms. compiled by Dudly M’Firbis, one of a celebrated race of Irish Sennachies, in the year 1650. No older version is now known to exist; but it is quoted by Colgan in his “Trias Thaumaturga,” which was published a few years earlier, and it is said to have originally formed part of the “Psalter of Cashel.” The poem itself bears to have been written in the reign of Malcolm the Third, and contains within itself abundant marks of its authenticity. It has usually been dealt with as if, because it treats of the history of Scotland, it must necessarily have been written by a Scotchman, and afford an early specimen of the Scotch dialect of the Irish language. But there is nothing whatever in the poem itself to show this; on the contrary, the presumption is that it is an Irish document. It contains the Irish form of the traditions, and the opinion of the Editor is, that it is the work of Gillacaemhin, the Irish translator of Nennius. His reasons are: first, that it bears to have been written in the reign of Malcolm III., and Gillacaemhin died in that reign, in the year 1072; secondly, that the statement of the early settlements in Scotland exactly correspond with those stated in the Irish Nennius, of which Gillacaemhin was the translator, under letter D; and, thirdly, that the poem begins with the line, and Gillacaemhin wrote a precisely similar poem regarding the kings of Ireland, which is his undoubted work, and which begins with the line,

“A eolcha Alban uile ;”

“A eolcha Eireann airde,” showing an obvious similarity of style.

The text of this poem is taken from M‘Firbis’

MS. of 1650, and Dr. Todd's translation is adopted, with some modifications. The last stanza of the poem appears to be a later addition.

The Chronicle of Marianus Scotus.

7. THE CHRONICLE OF MARIANUS SCOTUS.—The MSS. of Marianus Scotus in this country, and the usual printed copies, do not contain the passages here printed, with the exception of the well-known passage regarding Macbeth, in 1040. They are, however, contained in the version of his chronicle, edited by Waiz, in Pertz's magnificent collection of historians, from the Vatican ms., which he considers the autograph. This ms. is not accessible to the Editor, but he has printed these passages from that ms., because they are of great importance for the history of Scotland: first, as containing the earliest notice of the name of Scotia applied to this country; and, secondly, because Marianus, having been born in the reign of Malcolm the Second, in the year 1028, and having died in that of Malcolm the Third, in the year 1081, is narrating events which occurred in his own lifetime.

The Annals of Tighernac.

8. THE ANNALS OF TIGHERNAC.—These annals were written by Tighernac of Cloinmaenois, who died in the year 1088, and were continued by a subsequent hand to the year 1178. The text of these annals was first made public by Dr. O'Connor, who printed them, but somewhat incorrectly, from two MSS. in the Bodleian. Besides these MSS., there is a later MS. of these annals in Trinity College, Dublin, and an older fragment of a part of the annals which seems to present them in their earliest form. The mss. in Trinity College appear to have been unknown to Dr. O'Connor. The dates given by Dr. O'Connor were not taken from any ms. of Tighernac, but were affixed by himself from the dates of similar events in the "Annals of Ulster." Tighernac's chronology is indicated by prefixing to each event the character Kl. for Kalends, accompanied by the feria or day of the week on which the first of January fell in each year. He seems to have written them in their order, one after another, and to have annexed to each the event he had to record under that year. On comparing his dates, as indicated by the feriae, with the dates in the "Annals of Ulster," they appear to precede the true date by four years; but he has apparently mis-calculated the day dropped out in each period of six days by the recurrence of leap year, and the feriae are irregularly given, and are entirely omitted after the year 651.

The extracts from the annals here given have been carefully collated with the oldest ms., that in the Bodleian (Rawlinson, B. 488). The dates added on the margin are those indicated by the feriae in the "Annals of Ulster," which appear to correspond with the true date.¹

9. PROPHECY OF ST. BERCHAN.—About this period Prophecy of St. Berchan.

¹ A new edition of the "Annals of Tighernac," from a collation of all the mss., of which Professor Currie enumerates seven, and with a correct translation, is greatly to be desired.

a fashion, which seems to have commenced in Wales and spread to Ireland, came in, of writing history in the form of propheey, supposed to have been uttered by some one who lived long before the time of the actual writer. The “Cy-voesi Myrddin” is a good example of this, in which a history written, part of it in the reign of Hywel dda in the tenth century, and part as late as the reign of Henry the Second, is given in the shape of a prophecy supposed to be uttered by Myrddin in the sixth century. In some cases the proper names of the kings are plainly given; in others they are cloaked under epithets. There are several specimens of this kind of prophetical history in the Irish mss., but the most remarkable are the propheeies of St. Berchan. They contain a history of the Irish kings down to the reign of Muircheartach O'Brien, who died in the year 1119; and likewise an aeeount of the mission of St. Columba to Scotland, of the reign of Aedan, king of Dalriada, and of the kings of Scotland, from Kenneth Macalpin to Donald Bain, in whose time this part of the poem appears to have been written. The whole is attributed as a propheey to St. Berchan, who lived towards the end of the seventh century. The latter part of the poem, relating to Scotland, is here printed. The names of the kings are concealed under epithets, but there is little difficulty in identifying them, and it is full of curious allusions to the character and events of their reign, which are not to be found elsewhere. It is now printed for the first time from two mss. in the Royal Irish Academy.

10. THE LIFE OF ST. CADROE.—This life is of ^{The Life of St. Cadroe.} importance for the history of Scotland for the traditional account which it gives of the settlement of the Scots in Ireland, and of their emigration to Scotland, which is not to be found elsewhere, and likewise for the indications of contemporary history connected with the visit of Cadroe to Scotland, in the reign of Constantine, in the early part of the tenth century. Cadroe himself died about the year 976, and the author of the life states that he received his information from disciples of St. Cadroe. The Editor has therefore placed the life in the eleventh century. It was first printed by Colgan in his “Acta Sanctorum,” from a ms. which belonged to the Monastery of St. Hubert, in the Ardennes, a copy of which was sent by the abbot to Colgan. It is likewise printed by Bollandists in their “Acta Sanctorum,” but they omit the part containing the Irish tradition, and it is obvious that they have taken their text from that of Colgan. The Monastery of St. Hubert was dismantled in the French revolution, and its library dispersed. A few remains of it were purchased by Sir Thomas Phillipps of Middlehill, and are now in his collection; but this ms. is not among them, and the original ms. appears to be irretrievably lost. Neither is the copy used by Colgan to be found. The parts of this life which relate to Scotland are too important, from the early period at which it was written, to be excluded from this collection ; but the Editor has been obliged to print these extracts from Colgan's text, though it bears the marks of being extremely inaccurate.

XII. century.
Metrical Prophecy.

11. METRICAL PROPHECY.—This is another instance of the prevalent fashion of writing history in the form of prophecy. It has been very incorrectly printed by Pinkerton from the Colbertine MS., and the correct text from that MS. is here given. The Princeps Noricus, who had annexed to himself lands surrounded by the sea, can only refer to Magnus Barefoot, king of Norway, who conquered the Western Islands, and the period of twice three years and nine months, during which the land was without its king, probably refers to the interval between the termination of the reign of Malcolm the Third and the firm establishment of Edgar on the throne. The compilation of this prophecy is therefore attributed to the reign of the latter. The prophecy is referred in the poem itself to Gildas and to Merlin. There is an imperfect copy in the Royal Library, 9. b. ix., with which the text has been collated.

Continuation of the Synchronisms of Flann Mainistreach.

12. CONTINUATION OF THE SYNCHRONISMS OF FLANN MAINISTREACH.—This passage, containing a list of the kings of Scotland from Malcolm the Second to Malcolm the Third, is taken from the continuation of the “Synchronisms of Flann of Bute,” before referred to. It is incorrect in so far as it supposes that there were two Duncans who succeeded each other ; Duncan Mae Malcolm having in point of fact no existence.

13. THE WELSH “BRUTS.”—The publication of the so-called History of Britain by Geoffrey of Monmouth produced a complete revolution in the traditional history of the country ; and the legends which had hitherto prevailed as to the origin of the races in Britain assumed a totally new shape. Instead of the mythic genealogy contained in Nennius, in which the population of North and South Britain appeared under the form of two brothers, Brutus and Albanus, the sons of Isicon, Brutus now appears as the leader of a colony to Britain, and as having three sons, Locrinus, Camber, and Albanactus, among whom Britain was divided into three parts : Loëgria, or England ; Cambria, or Wales ; and Albania, or Scotland. This fable played so conspicuous a part in the controversy between England and Scotland, that it is desirable to include it in this collection in the form in which it appears in the Welsh mss. Whether Geoffrey of Monmouth deduced his statement of these fables from older authority, or whether he himself invented them, is a question of much difficulty. His work is dedicated to Robert Duke of Gloucester, son of Henry the First who died in 1135, and appears to have been composed while his father still lived. In his epistle dedicatory, he states that he translated his work from an ancient book in the British language, given him by Walter, Archdeacon of Oxford. That there was such a person at the period is undoubted, though he has been confounded with Walter de Mapes, a very different person, who lived somewhat later. In the Welsh Archæology there have been printed from Welsh mss. two versions of this history in Welsh, one containing the substance of Geoffrey's history, but leaving out a good deal of matter, and said to be taken from the "Red Book of Hergest;" another, to which the title of "Brut G. Ap Arthur" has been given, and which exactly corresponds with the Latin version of Geoffrey of Monmouth. It has been supposed that the first is the Welsh book which Geoffrey obtained from Walter, Archdeacon of Oxford, and that it is an older work which has been conjectured to have been composed by Tyssilio, who lived some centuries earlier. An examination of the mss. does not bear out this theory. The Welsh version of the "Brut" in the "Red Book of Hergest" is not the same as the text of the "Brut Tyssilio," printed in the Welsh Archæology, but is in point of fact almost the same as the "Brut G. Ap Arthur," and corresponds with the Latin version of Geoffrey. The Editor has found another copy of this version in a ms. of the commencement of the fourteenth century, in the Hengwrt collection, and a third in the same collection, which varies slightly from it. These are obviously Welsh versions of the Latin text of Geoffrey of Monmouth. There is, however, in the Cottonian Library (Cleopatra, b. v.) a Welsh version, which approaches more nearly to what is termed the "Brut Tyssilio." The whole of the mss. agree in the statement that Walter, Archdeacon of Oxford, had a Welsh book which he translated into Latin ; that Geoffrey wrote his history from it, which he then re-translated into Welsh ; and if we add the assumption that Geoffrey added additional matter to Walter's Latin text, the existing Welsh versions correspond very well with that statement. But they all differ as to what the original of Walter's text was. The "Red Book of Hergest" says that it was a ms. written in the Breton language ; the Hengwrt ms., that it was a ms. in the Cymric or Welsh language ; and the Cottonian ms., that the original was a Latin version. Be this as it may, there seems clearly enough to have been a Welsh version prior to the composition of Geoffrey's Latin text, and a Welsh version into which the latter was translated. The Welsh tradition as to the origin of the races of Britain, and as to the settlement of the Picts, is here given from the first Welsh version, and the additions in the latter Welsh version are added in the notes below. They are included in this collection mainly as affording the Welsh form of the Pictish tradition, and the explanation of their Welsh designation of Gwyddyl Ffichti.

“Bruts.”

In the conclusion of Geoffrey's history, he states that he leaves the history of the kings that succeeded in Wales subsequent to his history, which terminates with the reign of Cadwallader, "to Caradoc of Llancarvan, my contemporary ;" and, accordingly, most of the mss. of the Welsh text are followed by a chronicle, which appears in two forms, one combined with events in Saxon history, and called “Brut y Saeson,” and the other containing purely Welsh events, to which the title of “Brut y Tywysogion” has been given. The Welsh version in the Cottonian ms. (Cleopatra, B. v.) is followed by the former, that in the “Red Book of Hergest” by the latter. The present Editor does not agree with the opinions of previous editors, that the “Brut y Saeson” was a bad copy of the “Brut y Tywysogion,” which was afterwards combined with the “Winchester Annals” of Richard of Devizes. On the contrary, he thinks the “Brut y Saeson” the older of the two, and the original form in which Caradoc composed his chronicle, and that the Saxon events have been omitted in the so-called “Brut y Tywysogion;” but the events which relate to Scotland are the same in both, and therefore he has given under letter D the text from the Cottonian ms.,¹ collated with that from the “Red Book of Hergest.”

Tract on the Picts.

14. TRACT ON THE PICTS.—Several of the Irish mss. contain a tract termed the “Leabhar Gabhala, “or the Book of Conquests or Invasions.” This tract contains an account of the wanderings of the Milesians, and their settlement in Ireland, and, in connexion with it, the Irish form of the Pictish tradition. One of the oldest mss. in which this tract appears, is ¹ In the preface to the “Mōnumēta,” Mr. Duffus Hardy states in a note that a copy of the “Brut y Saeson” is also in another Cottonian ms. (Cleopatra,

A. XIV.) It may be as well to note here that this is a mistake. That ms. does not contain the “Brut y Saeson,” but a copy of the laws of Hywel dda.

the “Book of Leinster,” a ms. of 1160, and this notice of the Piets is extracted from it. The date attached to it is the date of the ms. in which it appears.

15. TRACT ON THE TRIBUTES PAID TO BAEDAN, Tract on the KING OF ULSTER.—This curious little tract is found in several Irish mss. The oldest which the Editor has met with is the book of Leinster. The coast of the province of Ulster over against Scotland was occupied in the sixth century by three different tribes. The most northerly, extending from the north coast to Lough Neagh, was the tribe of Dalriada, from which the Scottish colony of the sixth century proceeded to Argyleshire. Immediately south of them were the Dalnaraidhe, who were the remains of the old Cruithne, the original inhabitants of the whole province of Ulster. Their territory was called Dalaradia. The third tribe, who were the most southerly, were the Dalfiatach, who were of the same Scottish race as the tribe of Dalriada. The kings of the Dalnaraidhe and the kings of the Dalfiatach were alternately provincial kings of Ulster, and Baedan was of the latter tribe. The tract is here given on account of its connexion with the history of Aedan, king of Dalriada in Scotland. The date assigned to it is that of the oldest ms. in which it appears.

16. CHRONICLE OF THE SCOTS.—This chronicle is one of the six pieces printed by Innes in his appendix. It is now reprinted from the Colbertine MS., and is the earliest in date of the series of Latin

Tributes paid to Baedan, King of Ulster.

Chronicle of
the Scots.

lists of the Scottish kings which have come down to us. A very slight examination will show that it is made up of two separate chronicles which have been pieced together. The title is “Chronica regum Scotorum. ccc. et iij. annorum,” and this is followed by twenty-two kings, reigning from Fergus to Alpin inclusive, whose years, as stated, make up nearly that amount. When added, they amount to 302. Then follows “Kynedus filius Alpini primus rex Scottorum,” which shows the commencement of another chronicle, and then occurs, after the accession of William the Lion, “Ab anno primo Willielmi regnum Scottorum anni ccc.xv.,” the period during which the kings from Kenneth Macalpin reigned.

The first year of King William the Lion was the year 1165, it follows therefore that the era from which the duration of this latter kingdom of the Scots was counted was the year 850. As the years of the reign of William the Lion are left unfilled up, and the duration of the kingdom of the Scots is reckoned to the first year of his reign, the natural inference is that the chronicle was put together in that year. It is followed by a genealogy of King William the Lion. It appears from the terms in which the writer speaks of King David the First, that he was an ardent admirer of that monarch; and the epithets which he applies to the Cistercian monastery at Melrose, seem to indicate that he was himself a Cistercian monk. It is hardly possible to avoid the suspicion that the compiler was no other than Ailred, the biographer and panegyrist of King David, and the abbot of the Cistercian monastery of Rievaux. That such a compilation was not foreign to his literary habits we know, as he wrote a genealogy of the kings of England, and a part of the “Chronicon Elegiacum,” written probably in the same year, is attributed to him.

17. DESCRIPTION OF SCOTLAND.—This tract is Description of Scotland. also one of the six pieces printed by Innes in his appendix, and it is now reprinted from the Colbertine ms. That this collation was very necessary appears from this, that Innes, in printing that part of it which gives the various theories for the etymology of the name Arregathel, has the following sentence: “Vel id circa quia Scotti ibi “habitabant primitus post redditum suam de “Hibernia,” while in the original, the people named are not the Scotti only, but Scotti Picti. In the previous sentence he states that the Scotti “gener-“ aliter Gattheli dicuntur,” from which we may infer that he uses Scoti as equivalent to the Irish Gaidheal, and to the Welsh Gwyddyl; and the expression Scoti Picti is simply the Latin rendering of the Welsh Gwyddyl Ffichti. The same statement occurs in this tract as in the chronicle, that the Scots had reigned for 315 years to the year when William the Lion succeeded to the throne, which places its composition in the same year. Innes was of opinion that this tract was the work of Giraldus Cambrensis. He founded this view on the fact that Ranulph Higden quotes the following sentence from this tract under the name of Giraldus :—“Nunc autem corrupte vocatur Scotia a Scotis de Hibernia venientibus et in ea regnantibus per spatium trecentorum quindecim annorum usque scilicet ad regnum Willelmi Rifi fratris Malcomi;” and that in his “Topographia Hiberniae” Giraldus mentions his intention of writing upon the topography of Scotland ; but the Editor cannot adopt this opinion. Passages are frequently given in Ranulph to which a name is prefixed, when perhaps only a word or two is taken from that author, and the rest of the passage from another source. As an instance of this, in the end of the same chapter he gives, under reference to Giraldus, “Distinctione prima capitulo octavo decimo,” a long passage containing an abstract of the “Legend of St. Andrew,” while in point of fact the first ten words only are quoted from Giraldus’ “De Instructione Principum;” and in the quotation before referred to the words printed in italics are not in this tract. They seem taken from the passage in his “Topographia Hiberniae,” printed in No. xxii. A. In a subsequent chapter he has another quotation from this very tract, which he places under the name of Marianus ; further, Giraldus did not write his topography of Ireland till the year 1186, and this tract is unquestionably an earlier work. In fact, Higden, who was acquainted with these pieces in the Colbertine ms., interweaves quotations from them with a few words from Giraldus and other writers, to which alone the names prefixed apply.

From the reference to Andrew, Bishop of Caithness, as nacione Scotus, the author was not a Scotchman, and from his using Romane instead of Anglice, in reference to the word Scottewattre, he was probably an Angle. The tract is apparently of the same date, if not by the same author, as the previous chronicle.

18. LEGEND OF ST. ANDREW.—This tract was Legend of St. Andrew. first printed by Pinkerton in the appendix to his introduction of the History of Scotland, and is here reprinted from the Colbertine ms. It belongs evidently to the same period with the two previous tracts. Mr. Duffus Hardy, in his descriptive catalogue of materials relating to the history of Great Britain and Ireland, mentions another copy of this tract as existing in a ms. of the twelfth or thirteenth century, belonging to Lord Gosford. The Editor has made every effort to obtain access to this ms., but without success ; the impression, however, made upon his mind by the title quoted by Mr. Hardy is, that it is a later and not an earlier version of this tract.

19. CONTINUATION OF THE ANNALS OF TIGHER-NAC.—This extract is taken from the continuation Continuation of the Annal of Tighearnac of the “Annals of Tighearnac,” from the year 1088 to the year 1178. They have not hitherto been printed, but this is the only event recorded in them which relates to Scotland.

The Life of St. Patrick,
by Joceline.

20. THE LIFE OF ST. PATRICK, BY JOCELINE.—This passage is given from Joceline in illustration of the passage previously extracted from the Irish “Tripartite Life,” and as a later form of the same legend. It has been collated with two MSS. in the Bodleian. Joeeline wrote in the year 1185.

Genealogy of King William
the Lyon.

21. GENEALOGY OF KING WILLIAM THE LYON.—This little tract has not been before printed. It is taken from one of the Cottonian MSS. (Faustina, A. VIII.), and bears on the margin the date of 1185.

Giraldus
Cambrensis,
Topographia Hiberniae.

22. GIRALDUS CAMBRENSIS, TOPOGRAPHIA HIBERNIÆ.—As one of the most important notices of the Picts is printed in this collection from an unpublished MS. of Giraldus, it has been deemed advisable to insert here, under its proper date, the passages which relate to Scotland in his “Topographia Hiberniae.” The MSS. of this work are very numerous, but the passages have been collated with two MSS. in the Bodleian.

Chronicle of the Scots and Picts.

23. CHRONICLE OF THE SCOTS AND PICTS.—This chronicle has not hitherto been printed. It is contained in a MS. in the Advocates’ Library (34. 7. 3.), written by James Gray, priest of the diocese of Dunblane, in the reign of James the Fifth. The chronicle itself, however, is an older composition. It contains within it the indication of its own date in the statement, “Summa Scotorum post Pictos ccexxxvii. anni “et v. menses.” Taking the year 850 as the era from which these calculations were made, this places the compilation of this chronicle in the year 1187. The transcript by James Gray, however, is a very bad one, and the proper names are most inaccurately given.

24. DESCRIPTION OF BRITAIN.—This description of Britain. is printed from one of the Cottonian mss. (Claudius, D. II.), and is here inserted for the notices of the provinces of Scotland which it contains. The ms. is probably not older than the fourteenth century, but the expression, “Albania que modo Scocia vocatur,” points so plainly to the twelfth century, that the Editor has no hesitation in placing the compilation of the document at that period.

25. LAYAMON'S BRUT.—This extract from Layamon's “Brut” is inserted in illustration of the extract XIII. century.
Layamon's
Brut. from the Welsh Bruts, containing the Welsh legend of the settlement of the Piets. Sir Frederick Madden states, in the preface to his edition, that Layamon's “Brut” is taken from the Anglo-Norman metrical chronicle of the Brut translated from the well-known “Historia Britonum” of Geoffrey of Monmouth by Wace, but that it contains additions and amplifications which are not to be found in the original; among these he includes the narrative of the settlement of the Piets in Caithness, and the introduction of the Irish language among them. It has therefore been inserted here to complete the collection of Pictish legends. The text and translation of this passage are taken from Sir Frederick Madden's edition. He places the composition of the work in the year 1204.

Welsh
Chronicle.

26. WELSH CHRONICLE.—These few extracts are taken from a Welsh chronicle in the “Red Book of “Hergest,” which appears to have been composed in the reign of King John of England. They are collated with another copy in the Hengwrt collection. The events are the same as those mentioned in the chronicle annexed to the Harleian ms. of Nennius.

Giraldus Cambrensis, De Instructione Principum.

27. GIRALDUS CAMBRENSIS, DE INSTRUCTIONE PRINCIPUM.—This tract is printed from the Cottonian ms. (Julius B. XIII.) containing Giraldus' work, “De Instructione Principum,” which was completed about the year 1214, as the oldest version of the legendary destruction of the Picts by the treachery of the Scots. A few passages from this chapter were printed by Mr. Brewer in his edition of that work, but the whole chapter is now printed for the first time.

The Annals of Inisfallen.

28. THE ANNALS OF INISFALLEN.—Two versions of the “Annals of Inisfallen” were printed by Dr. O'Connor in his “Rerum Hibernicarum Scriptores veteres;” one from a ms. in the Bodleian, and the other from a Dublin ms. The Bodleian ms. alone, however, contains the real “Annals of Inis-fallen,” which were compiled in the year 1215. The Annals contained in the Dublin ms. have no good claim to that title, and are a much later composition. The extracts here printed have been carefully collated with the ms. in the Bodleian (Rawlin-son, B. 503). The dates on the margin of this ms. are in a late hand. The chronology of the Annals is indicated by the occasional occurrence of a date, and the repetition of the letters Kl., marking each succeeding year, and the dates contained in O'Connor's copy, are added by him as the corresponding years ; but, as the years marked by the letters Kl., in which no events are recorded, seem to be frequently omitted, this does not afford an accurate clue to the real dates, which thus occasionally fall far behind the true date. The dates on the margin of these extracts are taken from the "Annals of Ulster."¹

29. CHRONICLE OF THE PICTS AND SCOTS.—This Chronicle of the Picts and Scots. chronicle is also one of the six pieces published by Innes in his appendix, from the register of the priory of St. Andrews. The principal register, according to Dalrymple, has been missing ever since 1660, when it was last seen in the hands of James Bairn, minister at the abbey of Holyrood House. A list of the contents of the register, and some extracts from it, had been previously taken, and passed into the library of Sir Robert Sibbald, who communicated them to Innes. Sibbald's ms. seems also to be now missing ; but a copy, taken from it, is preserved in the Harleian ms., 4628. This copy must have been written in or after the year 1708.² The title of it is “Excerpta quædam de magno registro prioratus Sanctæ Andreæ,” and then follows the table of contents, beginning with the sentence, “In registro prioratus Sanctæ Andreæ sunt,” and concluding with the sentence, “et sic finitus registrum, fol. 121.” Then follows the extracts with the title, “A registro prioratus Sanctæ Andreæ, fol. 46,” and the first extract is the chronicle here printed. It is of course a late copy, and full of inaccuracies.

¹ In the text, p. 167, the Editor has inadvertently omitted to insert the date of the compilation of these Annals, MCCXV., after the title.

² The ms. contains a copy of a dissertation by the Earl of Cromarty, which he presented to the General Assembly in 1708.

It contains the following calculation of the date —“Summa annorum a Kinat mae Alpin ad regnum Alexandri 501 annis,” and the date of the coronation of Alexander as given in the following paragraph is 1251.¹ From 850, the era of Kenneth Macalpin, to the year 1251, is exactly 401 years. It is therefore plain that an additional century had now been added to the period of the duration of the kingdom of the Scots founded by Kenneth Macalpin.

The Metrical Chronicle, commonly called the Cronicon Elegiacum.

30. THE METRICAL CHRONICLE, COMMONLY CALLED THE CRONICON ELEGIACUM.—The only complete copy of this chronicle is to be found in a ms. in the Bodleian, of the middle of the fourteenth century (c. iv. 3), and this copy bears to have been composed in the reign of Alexander the Third, from the expression in the last line, “qui modo sceptræ tenet.” It is inserted in a fragmentary manner in the “Chronicle of Melrose,” under the reign of the different kings, to whom the verses refer, terminating, however, with the reign of Malcolm the Fourth. The “Chronicle of Melrose” appears to have been written in the reign of Alexander the Third, and terminates with the year 1270, which was probably about the time when the “Cronicon Elegiacum” was completed. There is reason, however, to think that part of the Cronicon is much older, and was composed by Ailred, Abbot of Rievaux, as John, Abbot of Peterborough, refers, under the year 975, to a chronicle, “in libro sancti Aldredi abbatis ‘qui intitulatur Epitaphium regum Scotorum.’” Ailred died in the second year of King William the Lyon, in the year 1166, and he probably composed that part of the chronicle which terminates with Malcolm the Fourth, and concludes with these lines—

¹ The true date of the coronation is 1249.

“Quatuor hii reges jam sunt in pace sepulti,
In tumbaque jacent Rex ubi Malcolmus.”

This part of the chronicle may have been written by him in the year succeeding Malcolm’s death, viz., 1165, and continued by another hand in the reign of Alexander the Third.

Part of the Cronicon also is inserted in “Wyn-toun’s Chronicle,” along with part of a prose chronicle, and more of it by the continuators of Fordun in the “Scotieronicon.” The Editor has collated the copy in the Bodleian ms. with that in the “Chronicle of Melrose,” and in “Wyntoun’s Chronicle.”¹

¹ The Editor has not collated with the mss. of Fordun, because he considers these copies, like every document inserted in Fordun’s history, tainted with alterations made to adapt them to

Legend of
St. Andrew.

31. LEGEND OF ST. ANDREW.—This legend was incorrectly printed by Pinkerton in the appendix to his work ; it is now printed from the copy in the Harleian MS., 4628. From the reference to the bishops of St. Andrews which follows it, it occupies a place in the register, which suggests the date of 1279. It is an amplification of the “Legend of St. “ Andrew” in the Colbertine MS., and is remarkable as quoting a supposed grant by King Hungus before a number of witnesses, said to be “ex regali “ prosapia.” An examination of the names, however, will show that they are taken almost without exception from the names of the early kings in the Pictish lists. The passage, “ Thana filius Dudabradch hoc “ monumentum scripsit Regi Pherath filio Bergeth “ in villa Migdele,” is more curious, and may have some foundation in fact, as the King “ Ferat filius “ Batot” appears in the “ Chronicle of St. Andrews” as the second last king of the Picts, and the “ villa “ Migdele,” obviously refers to the town of Meigle ; but how much of the legend may be intended to be referred to as having been then written, it is impossible to say.

Chronicle of the
Picts and Scots.

32. CHRONICLE OF THE PICTS AND SCOTS.—This chronicle is quoted at length in the “ Sealaeronica,” and has been carefully collated with the original MS. at Cambridge. It has obviously been translated into Norman French from a Latin original. It is stated at the end of the chronicle that the sum of the years between Kenneth Macalpin and King Alexander was 430 years one month and seven days, which, added to the year 850, as the era of Kenneth, fixes the date of the chronicle at the year 1280. But though the substance of the chronicle may have been compiled in this year, it is obvious that the narrative is interspersed with statements of a later date, such as the reference to the marble stone having been removed to Westminster. There is a peculiarity in this chronicle which seems to indicate its source. The king of the Picts, usually termed Brude, son of Derili, is here called Brude son of Dergert, and it is added “in which time came St. ‘Servanus to Fife.’” This is the only chronicle which contains any notice of St. Servanus; and in the chartulary of St. Andrews (p. 113) there is a note of the foundation charter of the priory of the island of Lochleven, said to have been granted by Brude filius Dergard to St. Servanus and the Cul-dees. It may therefore be inferred that the chronicle inserted in the “Sealaeronica” was the “Chronicle of Lochleven.”

Fordun’s history, and that they do not contain a genuine edition of the poem. It would only mislead to collate with MSS. which substitute Abthanus for Abbas.

33. CHRONICLE OF HUNTINGDON.—In the year Chronicle of Huntingdon 1290, writs were addressed by Edward the First to the cathedrals and principal monasteries throughout England, commanding them to search their chronicles and archives for all matters relating to Scotland, and to transmit the same to the king under their common seals. The returns made to these writs, which are still extant, contain numerous extracts and fragments of chronicles, which are printed by Sir Francis Palgrave in his “Documents and Records illustrative of the History of Scotland,” published by the Record Commission; but among them is one chronicle so important for the history of Scotland that it is included in this collection. It was sent by the canons of the priory of St. Mary of Huntingdon, founded in the year 1140; and as David the First acquired the honour of Huntingdon through his wife Matilda, which was afterwards conferred upon his son Henry in the year 1136, the earlier part of this chronicle, prior to Malcolm Canmore, was no doubt derived from a Scottish source. The chronicle commences with the contest between Alpin, king of the Scots, and the Piets, in the year 834; and the marginal title bears that, according to their chronicles, the Scots had possessed the country for four hundred and forty-six years from Alpin, from whom King Malcolm derived his descent, which, added to 834, brings us to the year 1290 as that in which the return was made. The original ms. is preserved in the Record House in London, but it has suffered so much from time, that many words cannot now be decyphered. Some of these blanks occur in the most important part of the chronicle for Scottish history, viz., the narrative of the reigns of Alpin and his son Kenneth; but this narrative has fortunately been interwoven by Fordun into his own account of these reigns, and the obliterated words can be supplied from his text with every presumption of accuracy.

34. DESCRIPTION OF SCOTLAND.—This short description of Scotland is contained in one of the Cottonian mss. (Nero, d. 11). It was printed for the Maitland Club by Mr. Joseph Stevenson, and is rightly placed by him between the years 1292 and 1296. It has again been collated with the original ms., and is here printed to complete the early topographical tracts relating to Scotland.

35. TRACTS RELATING TO THE ENGLISH CLAIMS.—In the years 1300 and 1301, a discussion arose between the Pope, the king of England, and the Scottish Government with regard to the independence of Scotland. It commenced in the year 1300, by a bull directed by Pope Boniface the Eighth to Edward, king of England, which was replied to by the English Parliament, and afterwards by the king himself. The Pope then directed a bull to the bishops of Scotland, while the Government of Scotland sent instructions to their commissioners in Rome, and this was followed by an argument written by Baldred Bisset, rector of Kinghorn, in the diocese of St. Andrews, who was one of these commissioners. The discussion is valuable, because each party founded their argument upon premises deduced from facts in the early history of the country. They thus show the form which the legends had then assumed, and the view which was taken on both sides of the early history of Scotland. Four of the documents in this discussion are here printed. Under letter a is the bull of the Pope to the King of England, and under letter b the King of England's reply. They are to be found in Fordun's history, and they have also been printed in the last edition of Rhymers "Foedera," from ms. copies in the public records in London. They have been collated with the latter for the Editor by his friend Mr. Joseph Stevenson. Under letter c are the instructions to the Scotch commissioners, and under letter d the argument by Baldred Bisset. These two documents are to be found in the mss. of Fordun's history alone. They have been printed by Hearne from the ms. in Trinity College, Cambridge, which, it is supposed, contained the original of that part of the work composed by Fordun himself, with the materials prepared by him for the rest of his work. They are also printed by Goodall in his edition of Fordun. Goodall's edition of Fordun is mainly taken from the fine ms. in Edinburgh College, which contains the continuation of Fordun by Bower, but, on examining these documents in the Edinburgh College ms., it appears that the "Instructions" differ very materially from the copy printed by Hearne, and that while Goodall, in the rest of his work, has mainly followed the Edinburgh College ms., he here deserts it, and prints the text of his "Instructions" from a ms. which contains nearly the same version of it as that printed by Hearne. The Editor has had the advantage of examining the fine ms. of Fordun in the library of the Earl of Moray at Donibristle, which formerly belonged to the monastery of Inchcolme,¹ and the conclusion he has come to on examining the different mss. is, that the differences do not consist merely of the ordinary variations of transcribers, but that there are, in point of fact, two entirely distinct versions of this document ; of one of these versions, the text in the Edinburgh College ms. may be taken as an example, and of the other, that printed by Hearne. The differences between them consist to a great extent of intentional alterations. At the first view, it might be supposed that Hearne's copy, being taken from the oldest ms., is probably that nearest to the original, but, on the other hand, the differences consist of additions and interpolations in Hearne's edition, and, when these additions are examined, they appear to have been made for the purpose of bringing the document nearer to the statements in Fordun's own history. Thus, in stating the conversion of the Scots by relies of St. Andrew, the copy in the Edinburgh College ms. says, “ ibidem Hungo rege tunc reg-“ nante.” Hearne's edition adds, “ et super Scotos“ Erth filii Echadii fratris Eugenii.” Now, the introduction of Erth, the son of Echadius, the brother of Eugenius, was first made by Fordun in his history, and in Book III. chap. i., he appears in almost the same words, “Fergusius filius Erth filii “Echadii, qui fuit frater Eugenii regis.” Again, when the Edinburgh College version mentions Duncan, the son of Malcolm the Third, he calls him simply “Duncanus primogenitus ejusdem Mal-“colmi regis,” while Hearne’s edition inserts after “primogenitus” the words “sed nothus.” This epithet is unknown to the early Scottish chronicles. It appears for the first time in the English part of the “Chronicle of Huntingdon,” and was adopted by Fordun in his history, as in Book V. chap. xxiv., in mentioning “Duncanus Malcolmi regis,” he adds “filius nothus.”

¹ This ms. has at the end the following sentence :—“ Hunc librum scribi fecit Dominus Symon Fynlay Capellanus Altaris Sancti Michaelis ecclesie Sancti Egidii | “ de Edinburgo quem post suum obitum reliquit canonicis monasterii insule Sancti Columbe de Emonia. Orate pro eo. Eius alienator anathema sit.”

Taking the view, then, that these differences consisted of additions subsequently made to the original document, and not of passages omitted from it, the text in the Edinburgh College ms., and in the Donibristle ms. which closely corresponds with it, has the best claim to represent the original, and the probability is that the text in Hearne’s ms. was altered by Fordun to adapt it to his own history, as he has altered most documents which he made use of, and that the other text most nearly represents the original. The Donibristle ms. indicates the source from which this text was taken, as after the “Instructiones” is the following addition in the same hand—“Cujus copia cum processu ipsius Bal-

“ dredi contra regem Anglie in quodam libello scripto
“ per Alanum de Monross habetur cum multis literis “ ad eandem litem pertinentibus.” The Editor has printed his text from the Edinburgh College ms., collated with the Donibristle ms.; but he has printed Hearne’s edition below, to show the variations between the two.

The “Processus” by Baldred Bisset does not require to be treated in the same way, as the text is nearly the same in all the mss.

36. CHRONICLE OF THE PICTS AND SCOTS.—<sup>Chronicle of the Picts and
Scots.</sup> This chronicle is contained in a ms. of the fourteenth century, in the collection of Sir Thomas Phillipps of Middlehill. It very closely resembles the chronicle which was contained in the register of the priory of St. Andrews (No. xxix.), and the same mistake occurs in it of adding a century to the duration of the Scottish monarchy. The “summa “annorum” from Kenneth Macalpin is here stated to be 567 years, and, deducting the added century, and calculating the duration from the year of Kenneth Macalpin, viz., 850, this gives 1317 as the date of the compilation of the chronicle. The date of the ms. corresponds with this period. It may be observed, with regard to this chronicle, that it states the number of Pictish kings prior to Kenneth as sixty-five. This corresponds very closely with the statement in the old Pietish poem, page 44, in which the number of the Pictish kings is stated to be sixty-six; but on comparing this chronicle with the “Chronicle of “ St. Andrews,” it will be seen that, in order to bring out this number, the compiler has repeated four of the kings after Nectan, son of Derile.

Letter by the Barons of Scotland to the Pope.

37. LETTER BY THE BARONS OF SCOTLAND TO THE POPE.—This document is contained in the continuation to Fordun's history, and has also been printed in the first volume of the “ Acts of Parliament of Scotland,” published by the Record Commission. The original is in the Register House at Edinburgh, and it is here reprinted after collation with the original, because it contains the deliberate statement by the baronage of Scotland at that time of their conception of the early history of the country.

Chronicle of
the Scots.

38. CHRONICLE OF THE SCOTS.—This chronicle was printed by Mr. Joseph Stevenson for the Bannatyne Club, and it is here reprinted after collation with the original ms. It is a chronicle of the kings of Scotland, from Kenneth Macalpin down to David the Second, and has been correctly dated by Mr. Stevenson as having been compiled in the year 1333-4. This chronicle is remarkable as containing a reference to variations in the list of kings contained in other chronicles. The first of these is, that Constantine, the son of Kenneth, reigned, according to others, only six years. The second is, that Grig was succeeded by his brother Constantine. It is very remarkable that the only document which supports these two variations is the “ Prophecy of St. Berehan.” Another variation in this chronicle is that Duf, the son of Malecolm, was succeeded by his son Kenneth, and he, by Culen the son of Indulf; and this variation is to be found alone in the “Chronicle of Huntingdon.”

39. CHRONICLES OF THE SCOTS.—These chronicles Chronicles of the Scots. are taken from a document in one of the Cottonian mss. (Vitellius, A. xx.) bearing the title of “Historia Angliae a Bruto ad annum Domini, “1348,”” and the ms. appears to be of the fourteenth century. They have not been hitherto printed. The second of the two chronicles is obviously a copy of part of the “Chronicle of St. Andrews,” as it closely corresponds with it, and the “summa annorum” is the same, viz., 501 years. The prologue is taken verbatim from Higden’s “Polyeronicon.”

40. CHRONICLE OF THE SCOTS.—This chronicle Chronicle of the Scots. has been printed from one of the Harleian mss. (1808). The “summa annorum,” from Kenneth Macalpin to William the Lyon, is stated to be 506 years, which is an obvious mistake, and the chronicle must have been compiled at a later date, and probably by an Englishman, as it shows great ignorance of the history during the latter part. Thus, Henry, the son of David the First, is made to have reigned after him, and the three sisters, Margareta, Ysabella, and Ada, the daughters of his youngest son David, Earl of Huntingdon, are here made the daughters of King David the First and the sisters of Henry. The date 1465 has been added in a different hand, but the Editor is of opinion that the chronicle cannot have been written after the publication of Fordun’s history, and that it belongs to the fourteenth century.

Tract on the Scots of Dal-
riada.

41. TRACT ON THE SCOTS OF DALRIADA.—This very curious document is to be found in three different Irish MSS., viz., the “Book of Ballimote,” the “Book “of Lecain,” and the Trinity College MS. (H. 2. 7). The two former pretty nearly correspond ; the latter is somewhat different. Lynch, in his “Cam-“breensis Eversus,” published in 1662, quotes this tract without hesitation as the work of John O’Dugan, a well-known Irish Sennachy. He was one of the compilers of the “Book of Hy Many,” and died in the year 1372. As the Trinity College MS. is a transcript of part of the “Book of Hy Many,” and the text of this tract contained in it appears to the Editor to be the most correct, he has selected it for the text.

Tract on the
Picts.

42. TRACT ON THE PICTS.—This tract is contained in the “Book of Lecain,” and the latter part of it was printed by Dr. Todd in the Irish Nennius. Why the whole was not printed the Editor does not know, but the Editor has found an older copy of it in a MS. in the Bodleian (Rawlinson, B. 506). This MS. is stated to have been written by John O’Cianan for his brother Adam O’Cianan. The latter was a well-known Sennachy, who died in the year 1373, and this copy has therefore been taken as the text. This tract contains an entirely different form of the Pietish legend, and is mainly valuable for the account which it gives of the districts in Scotland conquered and occupied by them.

Tract on the
Picts.

43. TRACT ON THE PICTS.—This little fragment is taken from the version of the “Leabhar Gabhala, or “Book of Conquests,” contained in the “Book of “Ballimote.” So far as it goes, it corresponds very closely with the preceding legend. The date attached to it is that of the “Book of Ballimote.”

44. TRACT ON THE PICTS.—This tract is taken ^{XV. century.} from two separate versions of the “Leabhar Gabhala, <sup>Tract on the Picts.</sup> “or Book of Conquests,” contained in the “Book of “Leeain.” It consists, in point of fact, of a résumé of the Pietish legends which were attached to the Irish translations of Nennius, with some additions which are not without value. The date attached to them is that of the “Book of Lecain.”

45. TRACT ON THE SCOTS, WITH METRICAL PRO-<sup>Tract on the Scots, with
Metrical Pro-</sup> PHECY.—This little tract is found in the beginning ^{phecy.} of the Royal ms. of Fordun (13 E. x.) The metrical portion of it consists of three lines which occur in the “Chronicon Rhythmicum,” and of twenty-five lines, of which the first four are taken from the old “Metrical Prophecy” (No. xi.), and the last twenty-one lines are quoted in Fordun’s history, and were afterwards interpolated in the “Chronicon Rhythmicum.” This tract is here printed, as, if it was the original from which Fordun made his quotation, it must precede him in date.

46. METRICAL CHRONICLE, COMMONLY CALLED THE CHRONICON RHYTHMICUM.—This metrical chronicle is one of the six pieces printed by Innes in his appendix. It is to be found only in the mss. of Fordun, either prefixed to or added to his work; and there are two editions of it—one in the ms. of Fordun, which belonged to the Scotch College of Paris ; the other a version containing numerous additions, which is to be found in the Edinburgh College ms., the Royal ms., and several others. Innes considered that these additions were later interpolations, and that the Scotch College ms. presented the poem in its original form. He also considered that the poem consisted of two parts : the first of which was composed in the reign of Alexander the Third ; and the second in the year 1447, the date given in the end of the poem itself, as that of its composition. Pinkerton, in a paper in the appendix to the first volume of his essay, has controverted this opinion of Innes, and argues that the whole poem was composed at the same time, viz., the year 1447 ; but the Editor concurs with Innes in his opinion that a part of the poem must have been written in or shortly after the reign of Alexander the Third, for in the “ Instructiones,” and in the “ Processus ” of Baldred Bisset in 1301, reference is made to the “ Versus,”—

“ A muliere Scota vocetatur Scocia tota ;”

and this line is found in the early part of the “ Chronicon Rhythmicum. ” In both versions there is a prose prologue ; that in the Scotch College ms. is as follows :—

“ Quum huius precedentis Scotieronicon voluminis prolixitas, “ hominum quoque memoria labilitas et incerti temporis brevitas,
“ non sinunt universa que inibi scripta sunt animo scire multa “cipientes, similiterque semel comprehendendi; ideo mihi¹ visum “est pro ingeniosi mei capacitate quedam inde extrahere; et in “unius corpus codicili quodam compendio, scripto veteri metrico, “et nouo² ad propositum respondente, quasi sub quodam epilogo “summatim redigere, precipue que facere videntur ad noticiam

 “temporum inclitorum regum Scotorum; de qua stirpe, quave “origine ad istas oras deuenerunt; et quanto tempore et quanto “ante Pictos, cum eisdem, et post eos, vicissim regnauerunt; et “qualiter nunc stirps Scotigena miscetur cum Saxonica, qualiter“que Britannia stirpe multigena variatur, et quomodo rex Seocie “modernus de jure delicto debet tam Anglie quam Seocie “prefici regnis.”

It shows that the poem consisted partly of an older poem incorporated into one more recent.

The Editor likewise concurs with Innes in his preference for the copy in the Scotch College ms. He considers that this was the original form of the poem, and that it was subsequently added to, probably by the same author, after the completion of the “Scotichronicon,” who inserted in it the lines quoted by Fordun, to whom the poem itself was apparently unknown, from another poem, and added several chapters to give it a more ambitious appearance. These additions are of no importance for the early history of Scotland, and the Editor has printed his text from the Scotch College ms., which is now in the Catholic library in Edinburgh, and collated it with the Edinburgh College ms.

47. METRICAL HISTORY BY WILLIAM, ARCH- BISHOP OF YORK.—This poem, written by William

¹ The Edin. College ms. inserts here, “tamen subsequens croni-“carum magnum volumen per me
 “presens scriptum reueluenti.”

² The Edin. College ms. reads, “partem ex metris veteribus et “partim ex recentibus.”

Metrical History by William, Archbishop of York

Bosche, Archbishop of York, is found in one of the Cottonian mss. (Cleopatra, c. iv.) It contains a chapter “De aduentu Scotorum in Britannia ;” and as William Bosche was archbishop from 1452 to 1462, it appears to fall within the limits of this collection. It has not previously been printed.

Annals of Senait Mac
Manus, commonly called the Annals of Ulster.

48. ANNALS OF SENAIT MAC MANUS, COMMONLY CALLED THE ANNALS OF ULSTER.—The text of the “Annals of Ulster” was first printed by Doctor O’Connor in his “Rerum Hibernicarum Scriptores veteres,” from the Bodleian ms. (Rawlinson, B. 489). It is by no means accurate, and there is an equally fine ms. in Trinity College, Dublin, which O’Connor appears not to have consulted. He printed the text down to the year 1131 only, though the Annals were compiled in the year 1498. The extracts here printed have been collated with both mss., and those subsequent to the year 1131 have not been hitherto printed. In both mss. a date is prefixed to the events of each year, and likewise the kalends and feriae. The date of the Christian era given is, generally speaking, one year behind the true date, but the feriae invariably represent one year in advance, and that date has been selected as the marginal date for all the extracts from the “Irish Annals” given in this collection.

Legend of
St. Andrew.

49. LEGEND OF ST. ANDREW.—This legend has been taken from the “Breviary of Aberdeen,” and has been added in order to complete the “Legends of St. Andrew” in this collection. As the “Pro-

“ pria Sanctorum ” in the “ Breviary ” was compiled by Bishop Elphinstone in the year 1504, that date has been attached to this form of the legend.

50. CHRONICLE OF THE SCOTS.—This chronicle, ^{Chronicle of the Scots.} which is written in the Scottish language, is found in the Royal ms. (17. D. xx.), at the end of “ Wyn- “ toun’s Chronicle,” and appears to have been transcribed about the year 1530, as the writer states that the conquest of the Piets was “ donne sewyn “ hundir zeire synne, yat is to say, ye zeire of oure “ Lord aucht hundir xxx. and od zeiris ;” but the chronicle itself is brought down to the year 1482 only, in which year it may have been compiled. At the end is the signature, William le Neue, York. The latter part, from the year 1400, has been printed in Pinkerton’s “ History of Scotland ” (Vol. I. Appendix, No. xxi.), but the former part has not been previously printed. It is here inserted as fitly concluding the series of Chronicles and Memorials contained in this collection.

In the Appendix are inserted several pieces either ^{APPENDIX.} illustrative of the foregoing documents, or which the Editor has been unable to place in their proper position in the chronological series. No. I. are passages from the “ Origines ” of Isidore of Seville, to illustrate the introduction to the “ Pictish Chronicle.” No. II. is an Irish version of the “ Pictish Chronicle ” contained in the Trinity College ms. (H. 3. 17.) It is obviously transcribed from an older text, and the scribe appears not to have understood the Latin he was copying. No. III. are extracts bearing upon the early history of Scotland, from the “Fragments of ‘Irish Annals transcribed by MacFirbis,’” printed by the Irish Archaeological Society from a ms. in the Burgundian Library at Brussels. The date of these annals cannot be ascertained, but some of the events recorded in them are probably taken from older authorities. No. IV. is an extract from an Irish life of St. Adomnan, of uncertain date, but evidently containing genuine tradition. The Editor is indebted to the Rev. Dr. Reeves, of Armagh, for this extract. No. V. is an extract from a Latin life of St. Boethius, the Buite son of Bronaig, whose death is recorded in the “Irish Annals” in the same year with the birth of St. Columba. There is a good copy of this life in the Bodleian (Rawlinson, B. 505), and a very bad one in the British Museum (Clarendon, XXXIX.) The former has been selected as the text. No. VI. is a life of St. Servanus, contained in a ms. in Bishop Marsh’s Library, Dublin, along with a version of Joceline’s “Life of St. Kentigern.” It is here inserted, because it is manifestly a version of the life which Wyntoun made use of in the “Legend of St. Serf,” or Servanus, which he inserted in his chronicle. Nos. VII. and VIII. are the legends of Saint Bonifacius and Saint Adrian, from the Aberdeen Breviary. They are here inserted from their bearing on the early history of Scotland.

Vol. II.

III.

Such being the series of the fragments of our chronicles anterior to the time of Fordun, which are still to be found, it remains to say something of their bearing upon the scheme of the early history of Scotland presented by that writer in his “Scoticon ;” and for this purpose it will be necessary first to advert to the ancient topography of the country.

NAME OF SCOTIA AND ANCIENT TOPO-GRAPHY OF THE COUNTRY.

Taking the frontier of the kingdom of Scotland in the time of Fordun, viz., the Tweed, the Cheviots, and the Solway, as the geographical limits of our inquiry, it may be stated as an undoubted fact, and one lying at the very foundation of the real history of the country, that, prior to the tenth century, the name of Scotland, or Scotia, whether in its Saxon or in its Latin form, was not applied to the whole, or any part of this territory. Prior to that period, these names were appropriated exclusively to Ireland. The territory forming the kingdom of Scotland was included under the general term of Britannia, the name applied to the whole island, but the northern part of Britannia was likewise known by the Celtic name of Alba, or Alban. The more ancient name of Ireland was Hibernia, and its Celtic name Eire or Erin, or, in its Welsh form, Ywerdon. From an early period, Ireland likewise received the name of Scotia, as the patria or mother country of the Scots. But while the name of Scotia was exclusively applied to Ireland prior to the tenth century, it is not correct to say, as many Irish writers do, that the term Scotus or Scoti was exclusively used to designate its inhabitants. Scotia was a territorial or geographical term, and was limited to the country which bore it for the time, but Scotus was a name of race or generic term, implying people as well as country. The geographical and the generic terms, though connected with the same people, are rarely co-extensive, and as the race extends beyond the limits of their original country, so does the generic term. The name of Scotus was no doubt applied to those of the race of the Scoti wherever they were found. While Bede talks of Ireland as being the “Patria Scotorum,” and applies the name of Scotia exclusively to that island, he also mentions the Dalriads as the “Scoti qui Britanniam “inhabitant;” and there can be little doubt that while the geographical term of Scotia was confined to the island of Ireland, the generic term of Scoti embraced the people of that race whether inhabiting Ireland or Britain. As this term of Scotia was a geographical term derived from the generic name of a people, it was to some extent a fluctuating name, and though applied at first to Ireland, which possessed the more distinctive name of Hibernia, as the principal seat of the race from whom the name was derived, it is obvious that, if the people from whom the name was taken inhabited other countries, the name itself would have a tendency to pass from the one to the other, according to the prominence which the different settlements of the race assumed in the history of the world ; and as the race of the Scots in Britain became more extended, and their power more formidable, the territorial name would have a tendency to fix itself where the race had become most conspicuous. The name, under its Saxon form of Scotland, passed from Ireland to Britain in the beginning of the tenth century, and was applied by the Saxon historians to the kingdom of Constantine, king of the Scots of Britain, who reigned from the year 900 to 940.¹ The name, in its Latin form of Scotia, was transferred from Ireland to Scotland in the reign of Malcolm the Second, who reigned from 1004 to 1034.² It was thus in the beginning of the tenth century

¹ According to the best authorities, that part of the "Saxon Chronicle" which precedes the death of King Alfred in 901 was compiled in his reign, and in this part of the chronicle the name of Scotland is nowhere applied to North Britain ; while, in King Alfred's translation of "Orosius," he translates the passage "Hi-
" bernia qui a gentibus Scotorum
" colitur," "Igbernia, which we
" call Scotland." Down to that period the name of Scotland was applied to Ireland ; but in that part of the chronicle which extends from 925 to 975, and which, if not contemporary, was at least compiled in the latter year, there is, in 933, "Her for Aethelstan

"Cyning in on Scotland," plainly applying that name to North Britain ; and in the contemporary poem on the battle of Brunanburg, in 937, Constantine's people are called Scotta, and the name applied to Ireland is Yraland.

² The "Pictish Chronicle," compiled before 997, knows nothing of the name of Scotia as applied to North Britain ; but Marianus Scotus, who lived from 1028 to 1081, calls Malcolm the Second "rex Scotiar," and Brian, king of Ireland, "rex Hibernie." The author of the "Life of St. Cadroe," in the eleventh century, likewise applies the name of Scotia to North Britain.

that the name of Scotland was applied to any part of the subsequent kingdom of that name, and in the beginning of the eleventh century that the name of Scotia was so used. It is equally clear that, when first applied to any part of North Britain, its use was restricted to a district, bounded on the south by the Firth of Forth, on the west by the mountain-range which separated Perthshire from Argyleshire, and on the north by the river Spey,¹ and that it subsequently spread over the whole of the territory which formed the later kingdom of Scotland, as the different provinces lying beyond these limits were fully incorporated into the kingdom.

Firths of Forth and Clyde a great natural feature.

The great natural features of the Firths of Forth and Clyde, approaching, as they do, within no great distance of each other, and leaving an isthmus of little more than between thirty and forty miles in breadth, could not fail to exercise a powerful influence in fixing the limits of the different races occupying the country; and even as early as the expedition of Agricola, his historian Tacitus notices that the tides of the opposite seas, flowing very far up the estuaries of Clota and Bodotria, almost intersect the country, leaving only a narrow neck of land, and throwing the territory beyond it as it were into another island. The Celtic term of Alba or Alban seems to have been confined to the country north of the Firths of Forth and Clyde, and it is to part of this country that the name of Scotia was first applied.

¹ Scotia is repeatedly distinguished from Arregaitel on the west, Moravia on the north, and Laodouia on the south, which implies that it was confined to a district within these limits.

South of the Firths, on the east, the kingdom of Lothian. Northumbria extended from the Humber to the Firth of Forth, and certainly reached as far west as the river Esk, while the Angles possessed settlements beyond that river along the south shores of the Firth as far as Abercorn. The Scottish chronicles apply to this part of the south of Scotland the general name of Saxonia ; but after the district from the Tweed to the Firth of Forth was ceded by Eadulf Cudel, Earl of Northumbria, to Malcolm the Second, in the year 1020, and became part of his dominions, it went under the general name of Laodonia or Lothian. On the west, the kingdom of Cumbria, or Strathclyde. Clyde, inhabited by a Welsh population, and governed by its own proper monarchs, extended from the Firth of Clyde far into England, and included Cumberland and part of Westmoreland.¹ On the north of the Solway Firth, and surrounded by Galloway. the territories of the Strathclyde Britons, was the district of Galloway, comprising the counties of Wigtown and Kirkeudbright. The ancient Celtic name for this district was, in Irish, Gallgaedhel, and in Welsh, Galwydel, which is its equivalent in that language ;² in Welsh, the letter d is

¹ Its southern boundary appears to have been the river Derwent, which now divides the diocese of Carlisle from that of Chester.

² Though the Gallgaedhel, as softened by aspiration to th, and from this name was formed the Latin denominations of Gallovidia and Gallweithia. The kingdom of Cumbria was conquered by Edmund, king of the Saxons, in 946, and transferred to Malcolm, king of the Scots ; and, when the boundary between England and Scotland was finally fixed at the Solway Firth, the name of Gallovidia or Galloway was applied to the whole of the western districts, extending from the Solway Firth to the Firth of Clyde.

Calatria and Campus Man-
ann.

Between the kingdom of Northumbria and that of the Strathclyde Britons lay two small districts, termed Calatria and Campus Manann. Calatria was the district extending from Falkirk to the shore of the Firth, comprising what is called the Carse of Falkirk, and probably equivalent to the ancient parish of that name, which included the modern parishes of Falkirk, Denny, Polmont, and Muiravonside. The Celtic name of this district was Calathros. It was bounded on the north by the

the name of a people, probably included the inhabitants of the Western Isles, Gallgaedel, as a territorial name, was Galloway. This is proved by the entry in the "Annals of Ulster" in the year 1199, in which Roland, Lord of Galloway, appears as "Rolant "mac Uchraig ri Gallgaidhel," and by comparing the entry in the "Chronicle of Melrose," under the year 1234, "obiiit Alanus filius "Rolandi dominus Galwethie," with that in the "Annals of "Ulster" in the same year, "Ailin "mac Uchraig ri Gallgaidhel mor- "tuus est." It appears in its Welsh form of Galwydel in the "Prif Cyvarch Taliessin, Eingl "Galwydel gwnaont eu ryfel," "the Angles and Galwegians made "their war." Galloway was also called simply Gall or Gal. MacFir-bis terms the Lord of Galloway, Maormor Gall. Urien is called by Llywarch hen Eryr Gal, or the Eagle of Gal. Ailred calls the Galwegians also Galli.

Carron, on the south by the Avon, and on the east by the Firth.¹ West of this lay the district called Campus Manand or Manann. The name Manand is the same in form with the Irish name of the Isle of Man, also called Manand. The epithet Campus or plain was probably applied to it to distinguish it from the island. The Welsh form of the name is Manau, and the Isle of Man was likewise known to them by that name. The district they termed Manau Gododin, to distinguish it from the island, and it is described in the Saxon and Welsh additions to the “Historia Britonum” as “Regio que vocatur Manau Gododin in parte sinistrali,” or the north of Britain. This name is still preserved in that flat and barren moor forming the parish of Slamannan, and called of old Slamannan Muir.² The name Slamannan is the Gaelic Sliabh Mannan, the word Sliabh meaning a moor, but it certainly extended as far as the river Almond, and may possibly have included the whole of the modern county of Linlithgow; and as this county approaches at the Queensferry within a short distance of the opposite coast of the Firth, it may have even extended beyond it, and left another trace of its name in the county of Clackmannan.

¹ Ailred, in his history “De Bello Standardi,” puts the following expression into the mouth of Walter Espec:—“Isti sunt utique qui nobis quondam non resistendum sed cedendum putavimus cum Angliae victor Willielmus Laodoniam, Calatriam, Scotiam usque ad Abernithum penetravit.” In the “Chartulari-

“lary of Glasgow,” p. 9, Dufotyr de Calatelia witnesses a charter of King David. Calathros appears frequently in the “Irish Annals.”

² Tighernac, in 711, has “Strages Pictorum in Campo Manand a Saxonis.” The “Saxon Chronicle” gives the same event as happening “betwix Haefe and Caere”—the Avon and the Carron.

Two great mountain-chains, the Mounth and Drumalban.

Beyond the Firths of Forth and Clyde the great leading physical features which influenced its territorial distribution were two great mountain-chains. One, termed the Mounth, extended right across the island, from sea to sea, in one continuous and unbroken ridge. Its western termination was the great mountain of Ben Nevis, rising in one unbroken mass from a plain a little above the level of the sea to the height of 4370 feet, from thence it extended along the south side of Glen Spean and by the hill of Ben Alder between Loch Laggan and Loch Ericht ; it then forms the boundary between the counties of Perth and Inverness, till it reaches the hills at the head of the Dee, rivalling Ben Nevis in height, and it continues along the south side of the Dee, forming the great barrier between the county of Aberdeen on the one hand, and those of Forfar and Kincardine on the other, until it finally sinks into the plain near the eastern sea. Its name is still preserved in the latter part of the range in the pass over the hills called the Cairn o' Mounth. The second great mountain-chain cuts it at right angles, and forms the great wind and water shear which separates the waters flowing into the western sea from those running eastwards. It was called in Latin Dorsum Britanniae and Dorsi Montes Britannici, and its Gaelic name was Drumalban, the Gaelic word Drum being the equivalent of the Latin

Dorsum. It might be fitly viewed as the backbone or ridge of Scotland, from which the rivers and glens radiated like ribs on each side. It takes its rise north of the level isthmus which separates the Firths of Forth and Clyde in the mountains lying on the east side of Loch Lomond, of which Ben Lomond is the chief, and proceeds by the head of Loch Katrine to the Braes of Balquhidder, and then forms the chain which divides the county of Perth from that of Argyle. This part of the range is termed, in the description of Scotland (No. xvii.), the “Montes “qui dividunt Scotiam ab Arregaithel,” and traces of the name are found in Cairndrum and Tyndrum, at the head of Glen Dochart, meaning “the cairn of “the Drum” and “the house of the Drum.¹ The chain is broken by the great moor of Rannoch, but intersects the main ridge of the Mounth or Grampians at Ben Alder, and proceeds north, crossing the great glen of Scotland between the Oich and the Lochy at a place called Achadrum, or “the “field of the Drum;” it then proceeds through the centre of Ross-shire, dividing the eastern and western waters, and crosses the strath called the Dearymore, extending from Dingwall to Loch

¹ In the “Description of Scot-“land” (No. xvii.), Albania is said to have in it the figure of a man. The head and neck are in Arre-gaithel. The body is “mons “Mound” extending from the west to the east sea. The arms are the “montes qui dividunt “Scociam ab Arregaithel,” pro-jecting from each side of the “mons Mound” at right angles. The legs are the Spey and the Tay.

When the diocese of Dunkeld was divided into deaneries, the first was “in limitibus Athole et “Drumalbane.”

Broom, at a place where the waters, running east and west, flow from a little lake called Loch Droma, or “the Lake of the Drum,” till it finally loses itself in the mountains of Sutherland.¹

Provinces north of the Forth
and Clyde.

Of the early territorial divisions of the country north of the Firths of Forth and Clyde, two accounts have been preserved to us, in the “Description of “Scotland” (No. xvii.), which, though differing in detail, state the provinces into which it was divided as having been seven in number. The first account states the seven provinces as having consisted, first, of Angus and Mearns, or the counties of Forfar and Kineardine ; second, Athole and Gowrie, being Perthshire east of the Tay and north of Dunkeld ; third, Strathearn and Monteath, forming the south-western part of Perthshire ; fourth, Fife and Fothreve, forming the modern counties of Fife and Kinross ; fifth, Mar and Buchan, or the counties of Aberdeen and Banff ; sixth, Murray and Ross, or the counties of Elgin, Nairn, Inverness, Ross, and Cromarty ; and seventh, Cathanesia, or the counties of Sutherland and Caithness.

The second account states the seven provinces as follows :—The first consisted of a district described as extending from the Forth to the Tay, that is, of Monteath and Strathearn ; the second is a district

¹ This range was likewise called Brunalban or Brunhere, that is, the Bruinn, borders or limit of Alban or of Eire, according as it was viewed with reference to Albania on the east, or to Erin and its colony of Dalriada on the west. The slopes or “braes” on the east were termed Braighanalban, now softened into Breadalbane.

described as extending from the Tay to the Hilef, and then as the sea sweeps round the district till it reaches a mountain at Athran, near Stirling. If by Hilef is here meant the Isla, the description is inapplicable to the boundary of any district ; but the county of Perth meets the county of Forfar on the shore of the Firth of Tay at a stream called the Liff, and there is a tradition that the Isla once flowed into the sea here. If the Liff is the stream meant, the description is plain enough, as there is no doubt that Athran is the modern Aithrey, formerly called Atheray, near Stirling. This province, then, included Gowrie, Fife, Kinross, and Clackmannan. The third district is described as extending from the Hilef or Liff to the Dee—that is, the modern counties of Forfar and Kinardine. The fourth extends from the Dee to the Spey, including the counties of Aberdeen and Banff ; the fifth, from the Spey to Brunalban, or the district of Athole ; the sixth, Murray and Ross ; and the seventh, Arregaithel. These two different accounts of the seven provinces obviously belong to different periods in the history of the country, and probably both existed in their own period. The leading differences between the two are that, in the second account, Gowrie is detached from Athole and included in the same district with Fife and Fothreve, and that this district is extended west as far as Aithrey, near Stirling; and, secondly, that Cathanesia is omitted, and Arregaithel substituted for it.

The first account probably belongs to a period prior to the Scottish conquest, while the little kingdom of Dalriada on the west coast was independent of the kingdom of the Piets, and these seven provinces belonged to the latter kingdom only. They formed the territory which was termed by the old Irish writers Cruithintuaith, and by the Latin chroniclers Pictavia.

The second account probably belongs to a period after the Scottish conquest, when the country forming the centre of the Pietish kingdom, of which Scone, in the district of Gowrie, was the chief seat, was more immediately subjected by them ; when Cathanesia had been taken possession of by the Norwegian Earls of Orkney ; and Arregaitel united to the rest of the kingdom.

In the twelfth century, the territory forming the later kingdom of Scotland presented itself as consisting of the following provinces :—South of the Firths of Forth and Clyde, the districts were comprised under the two designations of Lanoia on the east, and Gallowedia on the west. North of the Firths, lay a district bounded by the Firth of Forth on the south, Drumalban on the west, and the Spey on the north, which first acquired the name of Albania, and afterwards that of Scotia, when that name was first applied to any part of Scotland. It was usually termed in documents of that period Albania, quæ modo dicitur Scotia. North of it, beyond the Spey, lay the district of Moravia, consisting of Murray and Ross ; and west of it extended the great district of Ergadia, divided from it by the montes qui dividunt Scotiam ab Arregaithel. This district extended as far north as Loch Broom, and seems to have consisted of three parts : the southern part, Ergadia quæ ad Scotiam pertinet ; the middle part, Ergadia quæ ad Moraviam pertinet ; and the northern part, Ergadia Borealis quæ est comitis de Ros. It was also termed Oirirgael and Oirir Alban, and was divided into Oirir an deas, or the southern Oirir, and Oirir an tuaith, or the northern Oirir. West of this, in the sea, lay the Inchegall, or Western Isles, termed by the Norwegians the Sudreyar, or Sudreys.¹

¹ In the “Description of Britain” (No. xxiv.), the provinces within the limits of Scotland are thus enumerated : from Tede to Forthi, (1) Loonia and (2) Galweya, then “(3) Albania tota, que modo “ Scocia vocatur, et (4) Morouia, “ et (5) omnes insule occidentales “oceani usque ad Norwegiam et usque “ Daciam, scilicet, Kathenes-“ sia, Orkaneya, Enchegal, et Man, “ et Ordas, et Gurth, et cetere insule “ occidentalis oceani circa “ Norwegiam et Daciam.” In one of the laws of King William the Lyon (de lege que vocatur Clarematan) these provinces are very clearly indicated. It commences—“ De catallo furato et calumpniato “ statuit dominus Rex apud Perth “ quod in quacunque provincia sit “ inventum,” etc. It then refers to them thus :—“Si ille qui “ calumpniatus est de catallo “ furato vel rapto vocat warentum “ suum aliquem hominem man-“ entem inter Spey et Forth vel “ inter Drumalban et Forth,” that is, a district bounded by the Spey, Drumalban, and Forth. Then we have “Et si quis ultra “ illas dirisas valet in Moravia vel “ in Ros vel in Katenes vel in “ Ergadia vel in Kintyre.” Then we have “Ergadia que pertinet “ ad Morariam.” Then “Si “ calumpniatus vocaverit waren-“ tum aliquem in Ergadia que “ pertinet ad Scociam tunc veniat “ ad Comitem Atholie,” showing that the part of Ergadia next Athole was said to belong to Scocia as distinguished from Moravia. Then we have “Omnes “ illi qui ultra Forth manserint in “ Landonia vel in Galwelia.” In

IV.

INHABITANTS OF THE COUN-TRY, THEIR LEGENDS AND HISTORY PRIOR
TO 634.

There can be no question that the territory forming the subsequent kingdom of Scotland was, in the seventh century, when we have sure historic data to go upon, peopled by four races, the Piets, Scots, Angles, and Britons or Welsh. For this we have the authority of Bede. Writing of a period when his testimony cannot be questioned, he says of Oswald, king of Northumbria, who reigned from 634 to 642 : “ Denique omnes nationes et provincias Brittaniæ, quæ in quatuor linguas, id est, “ Brittonum, Pictorum, Scottorum et Anglorum “ divisæ sunt, in ditione accepit ” (Lib. III. c. vi.) ; and this statement affords us a certain basis to start from. What the earlier relations of these four races towards each other had been, we learn from a passage of the Roman historian, Ammianus Marcellinus, who describes the first great outburst of the Barbaric tribes upon the Roman province in Britain, in the year 360, when he says, under the year 364, “ Picti Saxonesque et Scotti et Attacoti Britannos “ ærumnis vexavere continuis.” The Britons were the inhabitants of the Roman province, which then extended to the Firths of Forth and Clyde, and was protected from the Barbaric tribes by the Roman

the charter by Robert the First to Thomas Randolph of the king's lands in Moravia, they are said to extend “ ad marchias borealis “ Ergadie que est comitis de wall between these estuaries ; and the Piets, Scots, and Saxons were then the assailants of the province.

“ Ros.” The names of Oirirgael, Oirir an tuaith and Oirir an deas occur frequently in M'Vurich's MSS.

Two centuries and a half afterwards, all four nations occupied fixed settlements in Britain, and had formed permanent kingdoms within its limits.

When Bede states emphatically that, in the year The Angles. 449, the “Gens Anglorum sive Saxonum” had been invited by King Vortigern to protect the Britons against the Piets and Scots, and then settled for the first time in the island, there can be little doubt that he had affixed a purely artificial date to what was a mere legendary account of their first settlement ; and there is every reason to believe that tribes of the great confederate nation of the Saxons had effected settlements on the east coast of Britain long before that period. The author of the “Historia Britonum,” certainly writing at a period equally early, dates the first arrival of the Saxons in the 347th year after the Passion of Christ ; and in a Welsh chronicle printed in this collection (No. xxvi.), the age of Vortigern is said to have been 128 years before the battle of Badwn, which the chronicle attached to the “Historia Britonum” dates at 516, thus removing him to the year 388. When Bede, however, in the short summary contained in his last chapter, states, “Anno DCLVII. Ida regnare cœpit, a quo regalis Nordanhymbrorum prosapia originem tenet, et duodecim annis in regno permansit,” he probably states a fact, the date of which was well ascertained, while the narrative in the “Historia Britonum” is brought down, “usque ad tempus quo Ida regnavit, “qui fuit Eobba filius, ipse fuit primus rex in “Beornicia, id est, im Berneich.” It is with Bernicia alone that we have here to do, though it formed only a part of the kingdom of Northumbria ; but being that part of it which lay to the north of the river Tyne, it alone was comprised within the limits of the kingdom of Scotland in the days of Fordun. We may hold it then as certain that, prior to the year 547, there were settlements of Angles on the east coast of Britain, lying between the Humber and the Firth of Forth, and that in that year, Ida had formed a kingdom in the old British district called Bryneich, the chief seat of which was the Castle of Bamborough, and which extended by degrees northwards till it reached the Firth of Forth. Ida, according to Bede, died in the year 559, but while the possessions of the Angles in Deira, which lay south of the Tees, fell under the sway of Ella, a chief of the Angles, to whom a different pedigree is given, Ida was succeeded in Bernicia by eight of his sons, who reigned one after another. Their names are given in the additions to Nennius, but in the order in which they are stated to have reigned by him, by Florence of Worcester, and by Simeon of Durham, they differ very much from each other. All the lists agree in making Adda the successor of Ida, but a comparison of the lists shows very clearly that the author of the Saxon additions to Nennius has simply inverted the order of his successors.

The following table will show the real order of their reigns, with the event noted by Nennius under each :—

A.D.
547-559.	Ida, first king of Bernicia,				reigned 12 years.			Table of the
559-566.	Adda, son of Ida,	.	.	.	" 7	"		kings of Ber-
566-567.	Clappa, son of Ida,	.	.	.	" 1	"		nicia.
567-574.	Hussa, son of Ida,	.	.	.	" 7	"
		Contra illum quatuor reges Urbgen et Riderchen et Guallae et Morcant dimieaverunt.
574-580.	Freodulf, son of Ida,	.	.	.	" 6	"
580-587.	Theodric, son of Ida,	.	.	.	" 7	"
		Contra illum Urbgen cum filiis dimi- cabat fortiter. In illo tempore aliquan- do hostes, nunc cives, vincebantur.
587-594.	Athelric, son of Ida,	.	.	.	" 7	"
594-617.	Ethelfrid, son of Athelric,	.	.	.	" 24	"
		Rex fortissimus et gloriae cupidissi- mus, qui plus omnibus Anglorum pri- matibus gentem vastavit Britonum.
		Nemo enim in tribunis, nemo in regibus plures eorum terras extermi- natis vel subjugatis indigenis aut tri- butarias genti Anglorum aut habita- biles fecit.
617-633.	Edwin, son of Ella,	.	.	.	" 17	"
633-634.	Aufrid, son of Ethelfred,	.	.	.	" 1	"
		634. Oswald, son of Ethelfred, rex Nordorum.

On the death of Ethelfred, Edwin, the son of Ella, king of the Angles of Deira, drove his sons out of Bernicia, and united both divisions of Northumbria under his own rule. Three of the sons of Ethelfred who afterwards reigned, viz., Eanfrid, Oswald, and Osway, according to Bede, had taken refuge with the Picts or Scots, and remained in exile during the whole of the reign of Edwin. We know from Bede that Oswald took refuge in Iona among the Columban monks of the Scottish race. Eanfrid seems to have been received by the Pictish king, and to have married a Pictish princess, whose son afterwards reigned over the Piets. After a reign of seventeen years, Edwin was slain in battle by Ceadwalla, king of the Britons, who had invaded his territories in conjunction with Penda, king of the Mercians. The battle in which he was slain was fought, according to Bede, on 12th October 633, at a place which he calls Haethfelth, supposed to be Hatfield, in the West Riding of Yorkshire ; but in the additions to the “ Historia Britonum,” it is called the battle of Meicen. On the death of Edwin, Eanfred, the son of Ethelfred, was recalled, and placed over Bernicia, but was slain by the British king after a year, who was in his turn slain in battle by Oswald at a place called by Bede, Denisesburna, or Hefenfelth, near the Roman wall, but which, in the additions to the “ Historia Britonum,” is called the battle of Catscaul. Although Bede does not name the British king who was slain in this battle, he certainly implies that it was the same Ceadwalla who slew King Edwin in the previous year ; but Tighernac seems to indicate that they were different persons, for he calls the king who fought with Edwin “ Con, Rex Britonum,” while he terms the king who slew Eanfrid, and was himself slain by Oswald, “Cathlon, Rex Britonum.”

The short notices of events under the reigns of The Britons. the sons of Ida, given in the additions to the “Historia Britonum,” show that soon after Ida’s death they had come into contact with kings of the northern Britons, and they appear, before the accession of Edwin, to have extended their territories to the Firth of Forth, and to have wrested the whole of the eastern districts from them,—conquests which were completed and firmly established by Edwin himself, who, according to Bede, “Omnis Britanniae fines, “qua vel ipsorum vel Britonum provinciae habitant, “sub ditione acceperit” (Lib. II. c. ix.) The Britons appear from the notices of their conflicts with the sons of Ida to have been divided into several petty states, under their own kinglets, and were now confined to the western districts, extending from the Mersey to the Firth of Clyde. A great battle, however, was fought in the year 573, at a place called Ardderyd, which can be clearly identified with Arthuret, on the banks of the river Esk, about five miles north of Carlisle, in the narrow plain which forms, as it were, a great pass between the British territories lying north and south of the Solway. This battle, though the subject of much bardic tradition, seems undoubtedly to have been a historical event, and the result of it was to unite the greater part of these districts under the sway of one monarch, termed, in the additions to the “Historia Britonum,” Ryderchen, who fixed his seat at the strong fortification termed by Bede Alclyde, and known to the Gaelic population by the name of Dunbreatan, or the fort of the Britons, afterwards corrupted into Dumbarton. We are now on historic ground, as this king is mentioned by Adomnan in his “Life of St. Columba,” who entitles one of his chapters, “De rege Roderco filio Tothail, qui in Petra Cloithe regnavit, Beati viri prophetia ;” and a succession of kings of the same race followed him till the reign of Constantine, king of Scots, in the beginning of the tenth century, when, on the death of Donald, king of the Britons, the brother of the Scottish king was elected his successor, and, in the year 946, the kingdom of Strath Clyde, or Cumbria, was invaded and conquered by Edmund, king of England, and given by him to Maleolm, the Scottish king. A genealogy of these British kings of Strath Clyde is fortunately preserved in the additions to the “Historia Britonum” (No. II. D.), and serves to connect the scattered notices of them which occur in the chronicles. The following table will show their bearing upon each other :—

	Ceretic guletic	Table of the kings of Strath- clyde.
	Cinuit
	Dungual hen
Guipno
Neithon
Beli		573-601 Rodercus filius Totali regnavit in Petra Cloithe.—Adom.
Eugein		658 Mors Gureit regis Aloc-huaithe.—An. Ult.
Elfin		693 Brude mac Bile rig Fortren moritur.—Tigh.
Beli		694 Donall mac Auin rex Aloc-huaithe moritur.—Tigh.
Teudebur		722 Beli filius Elfin rex Aloc-huaithe moritur.—Tigh.
Dunnagual		750 Teudubr filius Beli rex Aloc-huaithe moritur.—Tigh.
Eugein		760 Dunnagual filius Teudubr moritur.—An. Cam.
Riderch
Dunnagual
Arthgal		872 Artgha rex Britannorum Srathclade cousinio Constantini filii Cinadon occisus est.—An. Ult.
Run		878 Echodius filius Run regis Britonum.—P. C.

If that part of Scotland which lay to the south ^{The Picts.} of the Firths of Forth and Clyde was thus divided between an Angie and a British or Welsh population, the northern regions beyond these great natural landmarks were apparently shared between the Pictish and the Scottish nations; while Bede, who makes the Scots a colony from Ireland, indicates that before their arrival, the Picts were in the exclusive possession of that part of Scotland. The tradition of the settlement of the Picts is represented to us in several distinct forms. By Bede, by the "Historia Britonum," and by the Welsh traditions, they appear as a people coming from Scythia, and acquiring first Orkney, and afterwards Caithness, and then spreading over Scotland from the north. In the "Pictish Chronicle" the Picti and the Scotti are both derived from the Albani of Albania in Asia, and are made two branches of the same people. In the additions to the Irish Nennius they appear under the name of Cruithne, and are said to have been originally Agathyrsi, and to have taken possession of the islands Orkney, from whence they spread over the north of Britain, under their eponymus Cruithne, who had seven sons, who divided the land into seven divisions ; from thence a portion of them go to France, and build the city of Pictavis or Poitiers, and return from thence to Ireland, from whence they are once more driven to Scotland ; and part of this tradition appears in a more extended shape, and is said to have been taken from the books of the Picts (No. v., A. B. c.) In another form of the tradition, they come from Thrace, under six brothers, and land in Ireland, where a part remain and colonize the plain of Bregia, in Meath, and the rest go to Scotland, under the leading of Cathluan, from whom seventy kings reign in Scotland to Constantine, the last of the Picts (No. v., d.) In another form, it is Cruthnechan who is sent by the sons of Milesius from Ireland to assist the Britons of Fortren against the Saxons, and wrests from the latter the district of Magheircin, or the Mearns, which he retains as his sword-land (No. v., e.) In another form, they are eighteen soldiers of Thrace, who encounter the Milesians in Germany, on their wanderings from Egypt, and accompany them to Ireland, where they are put in possession of Cruithintuaith or Pictavia, in Scotland ; and in one form of this tradition, the Cruithne of Ulster are likewise identified with them (Nos. XLII., XLIII.) In all of these traditions it is obvious that they are taken in their wanderings to every part of Europe where the name of Pieti or Pietones could be found, and connected with every people who resembled them either in name, or of whom the custom of painting the body, by puncturing the skin, which was their peculiar characteristic, is recorded. Of these traditions, some are probably of British origin, some are the traditions of the Picts themselves, and some connected with the Irish fables. It is undoubted that a great part of the population of Ulster, though latterly confined within narrow limits, consisted of a people termed likewise Cruithne, and that there was also a settlement of them in Meath; and there can be little doubt that they were, in point of fact, the same people. There is even reason to conclude that, down to the beginning of the seventh century, they were so closely connected as to form but one nation. At a time when the whole of the north of Scotland and part of the north of Ireland was peopled by the same race of Cruithne, there must have been much intercourse between them, and both countries must have been viewed by them as one territory. Whether, therefore, the traditions represent them as first arriving in Ireland and proceeding to Scotland, or first arriving in Scotland and passing over to Ireland, it amounts, in point of fact, to no more than that Cruithne of the same race were to be found in both countries.

One common feature, however, accompanies almost every form of this tradition, viz., that the Cruithne or Picts were a colony of soldiers who married wives whom they had obtained from the Irish. This feature existed at a very early date, as it is mentioned by Bede, and acquired strength from the fact that it was connected with a peculiar form of succession through females among the Picts, of whom it was supposed to indicate the origin. According to Bede, they applied for and obtained wives from the Scoti. In the Welsh traditions, they are said to have applied first to the Britons, by whom they were refused, and afterwards gone to Ireland and obtained wives of Gwyddyl. In the Irish traditions, they apply to the sons of Milesius to give them the wives of a party of Milesians who had been drowned on their voyage to Ireland. The original form of the tale probably is, that they are said to have obtained wives of the race of Gwyddyl, or Gaël.

All such legends, however fanciful or childish they appear to be, express some truth, or contain within them some ethnologic fact, and it is the existence of the peculiar truth or fact which creates, as it were, the legend which is supposed to account for it. Such legends either express the popular explanation of some social or ethnologic peculiarity, or a genuine tradition is conveyed under the form of a symbolic or allegoric tale. This kind of legend of a colony of soldiers marrying wives from a population which preceded them in the country is not peculiar to the Picts, and its meaning is well indicated by the analogous case of the Britons of Armorica. Nennius, in relating the legendary settlement of the Britons in Armorica under Maximus, has this addition in some copies : “Acceptisque eorum uxoribus et filiabus in con-“jugium, omnes earum linguas amputaverunt, ne “eorum successio maternam linguam diseret ;” that is, in order to prevent their descendants speaking the language of their mothers' race, they cut out their tongues. According to the legend, if this had not been done, the colonizing Britons would have spoken the language of the people from whom they had obtained wives. The legend is based upon the conception that children learn their language from their mothers, and is conveyed in the popular expression “the mother tongue.” As soon, therefore, as the idea took root that the Picts were not the old inhabitants of the country, but a foreign colony who settled among them, if their language was at all akin to that of the older population, the popular explanation must at once have arisen, that they had married wives of the older race, from whom they learned their language ; but while the primary idea in this legend is a linguistic one, it certainly may also have been intended to account for an obvious mixture of race. In the Welsh legends, the Picts are said from this marriage with wives of the race of the Gwyddyl, to have been called Gwyddyl Ffichti; but in the form of it in Layamon's "Brut" it is undoubtedly used to explain the language of the Picts :—

" Through the same women,
Who there long dwelt,
The folk gan to speak
Ireland's speech ;"

and the same idea is expressed in the chronicle quoted in the "Scala Chronica," which states that they obtained their wives from Ireland, "on condition that their issue should speak Irish."

The other peculiarity, which this legend was supposed to account for, was the law of succession among the Picts through females. Bede states that they obtained their wives from the Scots, "ea solum conditione, ut ubi res perveniret in dubium, magis de feminea regum prosapia, quam de masculina, regem sibi eligerent, quod usque hodie apud Pictos constat esse servatum" (Lib. I. c. i.) This testimony of Bede shows that such a rule of succession undoubtedly existed and was in force among the Picts in his day. It implies that succession through males took place up to a certain point, and that, when that failed, succession through females was preferred. The same idea is expressed in the Irish legends in different forms. On examining the list of the Pictish kings down to the times of Bede, we find that there are numerous instances of brothers succeeding each other, but that in no one instance does a son succeed his father. Where, therefore, there were several sons of the same mother, they appear to have succeeded each other according to a law of male succession of very general application, which preferred brothers before sons ; but when the last brother had succeeded, the period seems to have arrived expressed by Bede in the words, “ubi res perveniret in dubium,” and then the succession went through daughters in preference to sons. Such a custom must manifestly have arisen from an originally lax relation among the sexes, when no filiation could be predicated with certainty, except between a son and a mother, and thus alone the continuance of the royal blood could be secured.

But the lists of the Pictish kings present, on examination, some further peculiarities. First, The names of the fathers and of the sons are quite different. In no case does the name borne by any of the sons appear among the names of the fathers, nor, conversely, is there an instance of the father's name appearing among the sons. Second,

The names of the sons consist of a few Pictish names borne by sons of different fathers. There are—6 Drusts, 5 Talorgs, 3 Nectans, 2 Galans, 6 Garthnaidhs, 4 Brndes. In no case does the name of a father occur twice in the list of fathers. Third, In the list there are two cases of sons bearing Pictish names whose fathers are known to have been strangers, and these are the only fathers of whom we have any account. They are—1. Talorg Mac Ainfrit. His father was undoubtedly Ainfrit, son of Aethelfrit, king of Northumbria, who took refuge among the Picts, and afterwards became king of Northumbria. 2. Brude Mac Bile. His father was a Welshman, king of the Strathclyde Britons. In an old poem, Brude Mac Bile is called son of the king of Ailchuaide, i.e., Dumbarton ; and when, by the battle of Dunnichen, he became king of the Picts, another old poem says, “to-day “Brude fights a battle about the land of his grand-“father.” Mr. M’Lennan, in his very original work on primitive marriage, to whom these facts were communicated by the Editor, states that they raise a strong presumption “that all the fathers “were men of other tribes. At any rate, there re-“mains the fact that, after every deduction has been “made, the fathers and mothers were in no case of “the same family name ;” and he refers its origin to the existence among them at an early period of what he calls “polyandry,” with which he considers that the system of kinship through females only is invariably connected. To this it may be added that the children of foreign parents by Pictish mothers bearing exclusively Pictish names show that they were adopted into the tribe of their mothers ; and if it was a social law of the Picts that the women could alone marry either strangers or men of a different tribe, while the language of the people was akin to that spoken by the Gwyddyl or Gael, it may not unnaturally have given rise to the legend that the Picts were a stranger people, who had married wives of the race of the Gwyddyl on condition that their succession should take place through females only.

Turning now to the legend which is expressly said to have been taken from the books of the Piets, and therefore applies more peculiarly to their kingdom in Scotland, we find it there stated that Cruithne, the eponymus of the race, had seven sons, Fib, Fidaeh, Fodla, Fortren, Cait, Ce, Cirie, and that they divided the country into seven portions. This means simply that the territory occupied by the Cruithne in Scotland consisted of seven provinces bearing these names. Five of these can be identified. Fib is obviously Fife, Fortren can be identified with the western parts of the county of Perth, including the vale of Strathearn ; Fodla appears in the name Atfodla, the old form of the word now corrupted into Athole ; Cirie or Circin, as he appears in the “Pietish Chronicle,” is found in the name Magheircin, now corrupted into Mearns ; Cait is Cathanesia or Caithness ; and the only two names unidentified, are Fidach and Ce. In one of the legends, the Piets are said to have extended from Cait to Foreu. The former is Caithness, the latter obviously the word Forch or Froch, the name given to the Forth, in which it is still preserved ; and this whole territory, which was divided into these seven provinces, was called Cruithintuaith. This legend proceeds to say that Oenbecan, the son of Cait, was king over the whole seven provinces, and that Finechta was king over Erin, that is, over the Cruithne of Ireland ; and it is added that he took hostages of the Cruithne. This little fact stated, affords a clue to the date of the foundation of the great kingdom of the Piets ; for the same legend states that thirty kings of the Piets ruled over Alban and Erin for 150 years ; and another form of the Irish legend states that there were thirty kings of the Cruithne over Erin and Alban, viz., of the Cruithne of Alban, and of the Cruithne of Erin, from Ollamhan to Fiachna Mac Baedain, who fettered the hostages of Erin and Alban. Finechta is there given as the son and successor of Ollamhan, and if he took hostages of the Cruithne, and Fiachna Mac Baedan fettered the hostages of Erin and Alban, we seem to have a terminus a quo and a terminus ad quem for the union of the Cruithne of the two countries under the same supreme sovereignty. Fiachna Mac Baedan reigned over Dalnaraidhie, or the Irish Piets, from 592 to 626, and a period of 150 years taken from these dates gives us a year between 442 and 476 for the commencement of the Pictish monarchy,—a date not many years after the event recorded by Gildas, where he says, “Picti in extrema parte insulæ tum primum et deinceps requirerunt.” Finechta is followed by four kings, the last two of whom are Gest and Urgest, and then follows Brude Pont, and it is added, that there were thirty Brudes, but twenty-eight only are enumerated; fourteen of them have a monosyllabic epithet after their name, and the other fourteen the same monosyllable, with the prefix U: It is probable, therefore, that Gest and Urgest should be added to make up the thirty. It is added that these are the names of the men, and the portions of the men; and the whole is said to be taken from the books of the Piets. That these monosyllables enter into the composition of the Pictish proper names is plain enough; but they probably also entered into the names of smaller districts, which cannot now be identified.

The southern portion of the Picts, which, according to Bede, were divided from the northern, “Arduis atque horrentibus montium jugis,” had been before this time converted to Christianity by the preaching of St. Ninian; and Bede states that in the ninth year of Brude, son of Maelcon, who reigned over the northern Piets, that division of the nation was converted to Christianity by St. Columba. We now find ourselves upon historic ground, for this king is likewise mentioned by Adomnan in his “Life of St. Columba,” who describes him as having his palace on the banks of the river Ness, where it issues from the lake of that name. He also occurs in all the lists of the Pictish kings as having reigned thirty years, and his death is recorded by Tighernac in the year 583, which would place his ninth year in the year 562, while he records the mission of St. Columba in the following year. The chronicles, in the main, agree in his successors down to the period of the reign of Oswald. Brude was succeeded by Garnait, son of Donald, and he by Neetan, son or grandson of Verb,¹ after whom comes Cinoch, son of Luchtren, and he is followed by three brothers, who reigned in succession, Garnad, Bredei, and Talore, sons of Wid or Foith, who occupied the Pictish throne during the whole of the reign of Oswald.

The Picts then possessed the whole of Scotland north of the Firths of Forth and Clyde, with the exception of the comparatively small district lying to the north of the Firth of Clyde, termed Dalriada,

¹ The “Irish Annals” mention the death of Garnad in 599, of Cinaeth mae Luchtren in 531, and of Garnad mae Foith in 635, Brude mae Foith in 641, and Echtolarg mae Foith in 653, but omit Neetan. He is also omitted in two of the lists of Pictish kings, Nos. xxiii. and xxxii. The “Pictish Chronicle” has an earlier Neetan, son of Erp, who founds

Abernethy. This foundation is attributed by the other lists to Garnad, who died in 599; and as the “Chronicle of St. Andrews” adds after this Neetan, “Hic fundavit Abernethy,” it is probable that the later date of the foundation has caused the reinsertion of the same Nectan after Garnad.

and occupied by the Scots, and were separated from them by Drumalban. This part of their kingdom was termed Cruithentuaith or Pictavia.

South of the Firths, they formed the population of the two districts of the “Campus Manann”¹ and of Galloway. This statement appears at first sight to be inconsistent with the language of Bede, which certainly implies that he knew of no Piets south of the Firth of Forth; but what he states so emphatically is, that the Firth of Forth divided the Regnum Anglorum from the Regnum Pictorum. This excludes the idea that the kingdom of the Piets extended south of the Firth, or that there was any independent kingdom of the Piets south of that estuary; but it does not exclude the possibility of districts embraced within the “Regnum Anglorum” having had a Pictish population any more than it does districts having a British population, which we know existed within the limits of the Anglic kingdom. In the passages of Bede which are founded on, he is obviously talking more of the boundaries and extension of kingdoms and governments, than of the under population; and from his mere silence in a work of this kind, no safe argument can be adduced. The few and scattered notices of the “Campus Manann” evidently point to a Pictish population subject to the Anglic kingdom, whose attempts at resistance were suppressed by the Anglie Ealdermen ; while the existence of a Pietish population in Galloway at a later period is so undoubted, that the only question is how and when they came there. Chalmers maintains that they were a settlement of the Irish Cruithne in the eighth century, and he has been followed by subsequent writers ; but there is absolutely no authority whatever for this supposed settlement ; his theory having obviously been based upon passages in the “Irish Annals,” in which he mistook the fort of Maghline in Ulster, which plays a great part in Irish history, for the town of Mauchline in Ayrshire, and applies notices of the Irish Cruithne to the latter which belong to the former ; but the language of Gildas, when he says of the last incursion of the Picts, “Omnem aquil-“onalem extremamque terræ partem pro indi-“genis murotenus eapessunt,” implies so strongly that they settled in these districts as permanent inhabitants, that we can hardly avoid the conclusion that the population of these two districts were the remains of that settlement.

¹ The tract on the Corca Laidhe, contained in the Books of “Balli-“mote” and “Lecain,” mentions “Scal balbh ri Cruithentuaithi

“acus Manaind,” that is, Scal balbh, king of Cruithentuaith and Manann, showing the two as forming one kingdom.

Bede likewise states that the Picts originally occupied the district north of the Firth of Clyde, afterwards possessed by the Seots ; and this tradition appears in the old description of Scotland in the Colbertine ms., which states that the first inhabitants of Arregaithel were the Scotti Picti, an obvious rendering into Latin of the Welsh name for the Picts, the Gwyddyl Ffichti.

The Scots first appear in the year 360, as one of the Scots, the barbaric tribes who then assailed the Roman province in Britain, and continued to ravage it till they were finally driven back by Theodosius in 369, and the Roman province restored. The language of Claudian leaves no room to doubt that these Scots came from Ireland, and again returned to Ireland when the province was finally freed from their ravages. They again joined the Picts in their incursions upon the Roman province after Maximus, who usurped the empire, had left the country ; but the language of Gildas, who records these incursions, is equally clear that these Scots likewise came from Ireland, and again returned to Ireland. While he describes the Picts as coming ab aquilone, i.e., the regions north of the Roman wall, he adds that the Scots came a circione, that is from a more westerly direction ; and he concludes by saying, that while the Picts settled down in the country, the Scots, whom he denominates “Hiberni grassatores,” returned home.

The first permanent settlement of the Scots, for which there is any real basis in historic record, is the colony led from Irish Dalriada by the three sons of Erc, Lorn, Fergus, and Angus. Flanu Mainistrach and Tigernac record this, and know of no other, nor is any other mentioned in any authentic document. The allusions to earlier settlements which occur in Irish legends may all be referred to the two occasions above mentioned, when the Scots temporarily invaded the country. Flann Mainstreach gives the date of this settlement thus :—he says that forty-three years had elapsed from the coming of St. Patriek to the battle of Ocha, and twenty years from that battle to the arrival of the sons of Ere in Britain. Taking the date of 432 as that of the coming of St. Patriek, and adding sixty-three years, will give us the year 495 as the date of the colony. Tighernac has under 501 the following :—“ Feargus mor mae Earea cum gente Dalriada partem Britanniæ tenuit et ibi mortuus est;” but while this passage states the fact of a colony, the date obviously refers to the death of Fergus. Almost all the chronicles agree that he reigned three years, and this makes the date of the colony 498. We may therefore assume that it took place only two or three years before the commencement of the sixth century. Tighernac terms the next three kings, Righ Alban, or kings of Albania. He has under 505 the death of Domangart Macnissi, Righ Alban. Under 538 he has the death of Comgall, son of Domangart, Righ Alban, in the thirty-fifth year of his reign. Under 560 he has the death of Gabran, son of Domangart, Righ Alban. Under the same year, he has “ Flight of the Albanich before Bruide, son of Maelcon, king of the Cruithne ;” and after this, he changes the designation of the king from that of Righ Alban to Righ Dalriada. It is obvious that the event referred to as the flight of the Albanich before Bruide, son of Maeleon, was a defeat of the Scots by the Pictish king, who were then driven back, and that in consequence of it their designation was narrowed from that of kings of Alban to that of kings of Dalriada. The Dublin ms. of the “Annals of Ulster” uses instead of “flight” the still stronger expression of inmirge, or “expulsion;” and the explanation probably is, that the invading Scots extended themselves at first beyond Drumalban into the district termed Albania, and were driven back by the Pictish king in 560, and confined within the limits of Dalriada proper. Three years after this defeat, St. Columba came over from Ireland to Britain to convert the northern Piets. And we are now on historic ground, as his biographer Adomnan states that he appeared on his arrival, “eoram Conallo rege, filio ‘Comgall.’” Bede and Walafred Strabo state that the island of Iona was given to Columba by the Piets; on the other hand, Tighernac states that it was given to him by Conall, king of Dalriada; but if Iona and the neighbouring islands formed a part of the territory which had been at first overrun by Scots, and from which they had been afterwards expelled by the Piets, it is intelligible enough that the British historians should have recorded the grant as having been made by the Piets, and that the Irish annalists should have equally confidently asserted that it had been made by the king of Dalriada. On the death of Conall, Columba solemnly inaugurated Aedan, the son of Gabran, king of Dalriada; and at the eouncil of Drumceat, held in Ireland in the same year, he obtained that the kings of Dalriada and Scotland should no longer be subject to the kings of Irish Dalriada, as the mother state, but should in future be independent monarchs. It is clear that after the defeat of 560, a part of the Scots remained in Britain, but it is probable that a part also returned to Ireland, and that Aedan brought a fresh colony over, as the old Irish lives of St. Patrick refer to him as the first who established a monarchy in Britain, and the “Prophecy of St. Berchan” takes the same view. Aedan reigned thirty-seven years, and appears to have thoroughly established the kingdom of Dalriada. He is recorded as having fought four battles,—the battle of Manann in 582 or 583 ; that of Leithrig in 590 ; that of Circhind in 596 ; and finally, the battle with Ethelfred, king of Bernicia, in 600, which is obviously the same battle as that recorded by Bede in the year 603, in which Aedan appears to have led an army of Britons and Scots into Northumbria. He died in the year 606. We have the authority of Adomnan for the fact that he was succeeded by his son Eochodius or Eocha Buidhe, and he by his sons. These were Conadh Cerr, who reigned but three months after him, and Donald Brec, who was king of Dalriada at the time that Oswald ruled over Northumbria.¹

¹ The chronicles insert Ferchar, son of Conadh Cerr, between him and Donald Brec, and give him a reign of sixteen years. The “Irish ‘Annals’” do not mention him. If he reigned, he must either have reigned in conjunction with

Donald Brec, or have followed him. The latter is most probable, as in the “Annals of Ulster” the death of Ferchar, son of Conadh Cerr, is misplaced in 694, after the last of the equally misplaced notices of Donald Brec.

The territories which constituted the petty kingdom of Dalriada can be pretty well defined. They were bounded on the south by the Firth of Clyde, and they were separated on the east from the Pictish kingdom by the ridge of the great mountain chain called Drumalban. They consisted of four tribes,—the genus or Cinel Lorn, descended from Lorn, the elder of the three brothers ; the Cinel Gabran and Cinel Comgall, descended from two sons of Doman-gart, son of Fergus, the second of the brothers ; and the Cinel Angus, descended from the third brother, Angus. The Cinel Comgall inhabited the district formerly called Comgall, now corrupted to Cowall. The Cinel Gabran inhabited what was called the Airgiallas, or the district of Argyle proper, and Kintyre. The Cinel Angus inhabited the islands of Islay and Jura, and the Cinel Lorn, the district of Lorn. Beyond this, on the north, the districts between Lorn and the promontory of Ardnamurchan, i.e., the island of Mull, the district of Morven, Ard-gower, and probably part of Lochaber, seem to have formed a sort of debateable ground, the population of which was Pictish, while the Scots had settlements among them. In the centre of the possessions of the Cinel Gabran, at the head of the well-sheltered loch of Crinan, lies the great Moss of Crinan, with the river Add flowing through it. In the centre of the moss, and on the side of the river, rises an isolated rocky hill called Dunadd, the top of which is strongly fortified. This was the capital of Dalriada, and many a stone obelisk in the moss around it bears silent testimony to the contests of which it was the centre. The picturesque position of Dunolly Castle, on a rock at the entrance of the equally sheltered bay of Oban, afforded another fortified summit, which was the chief stronghold of the tribe of Lorn. Of Dunstaffnage, as a royal seat, history knows nothing.

V.

RELATIVE POSITION OF THE FOUR NATIONS DURING THE CENTURY SUBSEQUENT TO 634.

Such, then, were the four kingdoms which, in the year 634, when Oswald ascended the throne of Northumbria, are found within the limits of the territory of the subsequent kingdom of Scotland. The kingdom of Bernicia, with its Anglie population, and its chief seat Bamborough, extending from the Tyne to the Firth of Forth ; the kingdom of Cumbria, with its British population, extending from the Firth of Clyde far into Westmoreland, and on the banks of the Firth of Clyde, the striking rock of Dumbarton, with the fort of Alclyde on the summit, its chief seat. North of the Firth of Forth, the great monarchy of the Piets, extending over the whole of the northern and eastern districts of Scotland, and embracing within its compass all the east flowing waters from their sources, with its capital near the town of Inverness ; and on the west the small Scottish kingdom of Dalriada, corresponding, with the exception probably of Ardnamurchan, very nearly to the modern county of Argyle, with the hill fort of Dunadd as its chief seat, called also, from its situation in the centre of the moss of Crinan, Dunmonaidh, or the fort of the moss. And in the centre of Scotland these four kingdoms met in a sort of neutral ground or debateable land, extending from the river Forth to the river Almond, and comprising the modern counties of Stirling and Linlithgow, which was occupied by a mixed population of Picts, Angles, and Britons, and into which the kings of the Scots frequently carried their arms. In it lay the small districts of Calatria and Manann ; and within its limits, the different races generally encountered each other in the struggle for the mastery, and most of the battles were fought. In these contests the Scots and the Britons usually combined, on the one hand, and the Angles and Picts on the other,—the nations of the west against the nations of the east. Here, during the reign of Oswald, Donald Bree was defeated in the year 638, according to Tighernac, in the battle of Glenmairison,¹ and Etin, probably Caeredin, was besieged, and here, two years after the death of Oswald, who, after a reign of eight years, was slain by Penda, king of the Mercians, at a place called by Bede, Maserfelth, in a battle, which is called, in the additions to the “ Historia Britonum,” the battle of Cocboy, on the 5th of August misplaced entry of the same transaction under 678 implies that it was in Calathros.

¹ Glenmairison must not be confounded with Glenmoriston in Inverness-shire. The transactions are clearly in the south, and a

642, a battle was fought in Strathcarron, between the Britons and Donald Brec, king of the Scots of Dalriada, in which the latter was slain, in the year 642, according to Tighernac, which corresponds to the year 644 of Bede ; and in the same year a battle was fought between Oswy, king of Bernicia, and the Britons.

Ten years afterwards, Penda, the Pagan king of Mercia, invaded Bernicia. He is described by Bede, in one passage, as coming to Bamborough with a hostile army, destroying all he could with fire and sword, and burning down the town and the church ; and after a vain attempt to buy him off with gifts, Oswy encountered him at a place near the river, called by Bede, Uinuaed, where he was entirely defeated, and, of thirty royal commanders who were with him, almost the whole were slain. Bede adds that Oswy brought this war to a conclusion in “ Regione Loidis,” in the thirteenth year of his reign, on the 17th of the Kalends of December, that is, on the 15th of November, 655. Tighernac mentions the same battle under two different years, 650 and 656. The identity of the events is shown by the mention of thirty kings on each occasion. It has generally been assumed that Penda was killed in the battle of Uinuaed, and that it must therefore have been fought within the “ Regio Loidis. ” Bede uses this latter expression, undoubtedly, for the district around the town of Leeds ; but it is admitted that no trace can be found of the name of Uinuaed having been applied to a river in that district. Bede, however, does not say that the battle of Uinwaed was fought there. He first describes the battle, and then adds afterwards that the war was brought to a conclusion by the slaughter of Penda within that district. In the additions to the "Historia Britonum," this battle is termed the "Strages Gai Campi" and the thirty kings are said to have been kings of the Britons, who had gone out with King Penda in an expedition as far as the city which is called Judiu, and this city appears from the same passage to have been either within or in the neighbourhood of Manau or Manann. The battle, therefore, probably took place in the extreme north of the territories of Bernicia, and Penda appears to have fled after his defeat into Deira, where he was slain near the town of Leeds.¹ By this defeat the Britons of Strathclyde appear to have fallen into the power of Oswy, and the Scots of Dalriada seem to have shared the same fate.

Three years afterwards Oswy is said by Bede to have subjected "Gentem Pictorum, maxima ex

¹ The view that the battle was fought in Scotland was first broached by Mr. Nash, in a very ingenious paper in the "Cambrian Journal" for 1861, p. 1. The Editor has been driven to the same conclusion, but he cannot adopt Mr. Nash's view, that Bede's regio Loidis was Lothian. This is inconsistent with the language of Bede in another place; but he thinks Bede's meaning has been misunderstood, and that it does not follow that the battle and the slaughter of Penda were the same event. He has come to be of opinion that the river Uinuaed of Bede is the Carron, the old forms of which were Caruin and Cauin.

“parte regno Anglorum.” This falls under the year 658.

Subjection of Picts and Scots
by Oswy.

Oswy had now completed the subjugation of the Britons of Strathclyde, the Scots of Dalriada, and a considerable part of the Picts ; and the mutual relations of these four nations to each other were so far altered that the Angles had, temporarily at least, established their supremacy over the other three. Tighernac records, in 657, the death of Tolargan, son of Ainfred, king of the Cruithne ; and the “Annals of Ulster” record, in 658, the death of Gureit, or Guriad, king of Alclyde. The Irish annalists do not record any king of Dalriada after the death of Donald Brec in 642. Tolargan, the king of the Picts, was no doubt the son of that Ainfred, son of Ethelfred, king of Bernicia, who had remained in exile among the Picts during the reign of Edwin, and succeeded him in Bernicia as king for one year. Tolargan must have obtained the Pictish throne through his mother, according to the Pictish law of succession ; but Oswy thus stood to him in the relation of father’s brother, and may have made this the pretext for invading the kingdom of the Picts. Oswy maintained possession of the Pictish territory he had conquered during his life, as Bede records that, in 669, Wilfrid not only presided over the church of York and of all Northumbria, “sed et Pictorum, quousque rex Osuius imperium protendere poterat” (Lib. iv. c. iii.) Oswy died, according to Bede, in the year 670, and was succeeded by his son Ecgfrid ; and in 681, when he divided the diocese of York into four portions, he appointed Trumwin “ad provinciam Pictorum, quæ tune ‘temporis Anglorum erat imperio subjecta” (Lib. iv. c. xii.) The province of the Picts thus remained still subject to the Angles, but some attempts seem now to have been made to throw off the yoke ; for, in 681, the “Annals of Ulster” record the siege of Dunfoter, and in 683, the siege of Dunnat and Dunduirn. Dunfoter and Dunduirn were the chief seats of two of the seven provinces of the Picts, and Dunnat was the capital of Dalriada. In 685, Bede records that Ecgfrid led an army “ad vastandum ‘Pictorum provinciam” (Lib. iv. c. xxvi.), and that having been led by a feigned flight of his enemies in “angustias inaccessorum montium,” he was there cut off with his whole army on the 15th day before the Kalends of June. Tighernac records the same battle as having taken place on Saturday the 20th day of May, which was the 15th before the Kalends of June, in the year 686, at a place called Dunnechtan, between Ecgfrid Mac Ossu, rex Saxonum, and Brude Mac Bile, rex Fortrenn ; but the 20th day of May fell on a Saturday in the previous year, 685, which confirms the date of Bede. Dunnechtan is the modern Dunnichen, which is situated in a narrow pass in the range of the Sidlaw hills, which separate Strathmore from the plains of Forfarshire. It is obvious, from the language of Bede, that the “Provincia Pictorum” which Ecgfrid devastated, was the same province which was subject to the Angles, and which must have extended at least as far as the Sidlaw mountains. Brude, who defeated him, is called king of Fortren, which was one of the seven provinces of the Picts, and lay to the west of the river Tay. Dundurn was its chief seat, as Dunfother was the chief seat of Magheircin, or the Mearns, and these parts of Pictland probably remained independent, while the part subject to the Angles lay between them, and consisted apparently of Fife, Kinross, Gowrie, and part of Forfarshire ; in short, very nearly the same district which forms the second province in the second list of seven provinces contained in the “Description,” No. xvii. The effect of this defeat upon the four nations is thus described by Bede :

Termination of Anglic rule.

“ Ex quo tempore spes cœpit et virtus regni Anglo-“ rum fluere et retro sublapsa referri. Nam et Picti “ terram possessionis suæ quam tenuerunt Angli
“ et Scoti qui erant in Britannia, Britonum quoque “ pars nonnulla, libertatem reeiperunt, quam et haec“ tenus habent per annos circiter quadraginta et “ sex ;” and he adds, that Trumwin retired with his clergy, “ qui erant in monasterio Aebbereurnig, “ posito quidam in regione Anglorum, sed in vicinia
“ freti quod Anglorum terras Pictorumque deter“ minat” (Lib. iv. c. xxvi.), which shows still more clearly that the lands of the Picts subject to the Angles lay north of the Firth of Forth. The Irish annalists now record Brude, son of Bile, as king of the Picts. He is said in the Irish “Life of St. Adom-“nan” (Ap. No. iv.) to have been the son of the king of Alclyde, so that his right to the Pictish throne must have been through his mother ; and Bile appears in the line of the British kings of Strathelyde in the Welsh additions to the “Historia Britonum.” He is also said in an old poem, quoted in the “Annals of MacFirbis,” (Ap. No. iii.) to have recovered the kingdom of his grandfather ; and in the Saxon additions to the “Historia Britonum,” he and Ecgfrid are said to have been “fratruleles,” that is, descended from brothers. His mother must therefore have been the daughter of Tolargan, son of Ainfred who was the brother of Oswy, the father of Ecgfrid. The death of Brude Mac Bile ri For-tren is recorded in the “Irish Annals,” in the year 693, and all the lists agree in his three successors : Taran, son of Entefidich, expelled in 997 ; Brude, son of Derile, whose death is recorded in 706 ; and Nectan, his brother, whose “Clericatus” is mentioned by the “Irish Annals” in 724. Ferchar fada, or the tall, now appears as king of Dalriada. Prior to the conquest of Oswy, the kings of Dalriada were exclusively of the race of Fergus ; but Ferchar fada was the head of the rival race of Lorn, who appear to have taken the lead in recovering the independence of the Scots. His death is given by the “Irish Annals” in 697. The Latin lists agree in making his successor, Eocha rinamuil, grandson of Donald brec, by his son Domangart, and giving him a reign of two or three years, and in placing after him Ainbhceallach, son of Ferchar fada ; but the “ Irish Annals ” do not mention Eocha, and record, under 698, the “ Expulsio Ainbhceallach de regno,” thus making him the immediate successor of his father. Donald, the son of Ewen, appears as king of Alclyde, and his father Ewen, or Eugene, is to be found in the genealogy of the Strathclyde kings, and, in 722, the “ Irish Annals ” record the death of Bile Mac Elpin, king of Strathclyde.

Position of four nations in 731.

Bede closes his history in the year 731, and up to that date no change appears to have taken place in the condition of the four nations. He states, “ Pic“ tornm quoque natio tempore hoc et foedus pacis
 “ cum gente habet Anglorum, et catholicæ pacis ac “ veritatis cum universalí ecclesia particeps existeret
 “ gaudet. Scotti qui Brittaniam incolunt suis con“ tenti finibus nil contra gentem Anglorum insidia-“ rum moliuntur aut fraudium. Brittones, quamvis “ et maxima ex parte domestico sibi odio gentem
 “ Anglorum, et totius catholicæ ecclesiæ statum
 “ Pascha minus recte moribusque improbis impug“ nent; tamen et divina sibi et humana prorsus “ resistente virtute, in neutro cupitum possunt ob-“ tinere propositum; quippe qui quamvis ex parte
 “ sui sint juris, nonnulla tamen ex parte Anglorum
 “ sunt servitio mancipati” (Lib. v. c. xxiii.)

VI.

After the valuable light afforded by the narrative of Bede forsakes us, we are left almost entirely to the guidance of the lists of the kings contained in the chronicles, with the few and scattered notices of them in the "Irish Annals." From the termination of the Anglic dominion over the Piets and Scots, to the close of Bede's history, the chronicles in the main agree, but after that date there occurs considerable variation in the lists of the Pictish kings, and likewise in those of the Scots. In the list of the Pictish kings, this variation exists between that of the "Pictish Chronicle" and the lists in the Irish additions to the "Historia Britonum" on the one hand, and the lists in the Latin Chronicles on the other. The following table will show wherein they differ:—

PICTISH CHRONICLE.	LATIN CHRONICLES.	Table of kings of the Piets.
Brude filius Bile, 21	Brude filius Bile, . . . 21
Taran filius Entifidich, . . 4	Taran filius Amfedeeh, 14
Brnde filius Derile, . . . 11	Brude filius Derile, . . 31
Nectan filius Derile, . . . 15	Neetan frater ejus, . . 18
Drest et Alpin conregnave- runt, 5	Garnath filius Ferath, . 24
Onnust filius Urgust, . . 30	Oengusa filius Fergusa, 16
Brude filius Urgust, . . 2	Neetan filius Derile, . . 0 ³ ₄
Cinoid filius Uradech, . . 12	Alpin filius Ferat, . . 0¹₂
Alpin filius Wroid, . . . 3 ¹ ₂	Oengus filius Brude, . . 0¹₂
	Alpin filius Ferat, iterum, 36
	Brude filius Oengus, . . 2
	Alpin filius Oengus, . . 2
Drust filius Talorgen, 4 or 5	Drust filius Talergan, . . 1
	Talargan filius Drust, . . 4
Talorgen filius Onnist, . . 2 ¹ ₂	Talargan filius Oengus, . . 5
Canaul filius Tarla, . . 5

Constantin filius Urgust,	35	Constantiu filius Fergus,	42
Unuist filius Urgust,	12	Hungus filius Fergus,	10
Drust filius Constantin et Talorgen filius Uthoil,	3	Dustalorg,	4
Uen filius Unust,	3	Eoganan filius Hungus,	3
Wrad filius Bargot,	3	Ferat filius Batot,	3
Bred,	1	Brude filius Ferat,	0½
		Kinat filius Ferat,	0½
		Brude filius Fotel,	2
		Drust filius Ferat,	3

The first four kings correspond in both. They reigned in the period from the termination of the Anglic subjection of the Picts and Scots to the close of Bede's history. The main differences after that are, that the “Pictish Chronicle” gives the joint reign of Drest and Alpin for five years, and then the reign of Angus, son of Fergus, for thirty years ; while the other lists give, during this period, Garnad, son of Ferat, twenty-four years, followed by Angus, son of Fergus, only sixteen years ; again, the “Pictish Chronicle” gives Kenneth, the son of Uradech, twelve years, followed by Alpin, son of Uroid, three and a half years ; while the other lists make Alpin, son of Ferat, reign thirty or thirty-six years, embracing the whole period of Kenneth's reign. Again, the Latin lists insert a family, consisting of Angus, son of Brude, and Brude and Alpin, sons of Angus, who are unknown to the “Pictish “Chronicle ;” and, finally, they add three kings at the end of the list in addition to those in the “Pictish Chronicle.”

The “Pictish Chronicle” is entirely supported in its statements by the Irish annalists. They know nothing of Garnad, the son of Ferat; but, according to them, Angus, the son of Fergus, made his way to the Pictish throne by defeating the three previous kings,—Drest, Alpin, and Nectan. They record, in 724, the Clericatus of Nectan, king of the Picts, and that Drust succeeded him. Then, in 726, that Drust was driven out, and that Alpin succeeded him. Then two battles between Alpin and Angus, the son of Fergus, at Moncrief and at Caislen Credi, or Scone, in which Alpin was defeated, and Angus took his territories, while Nectan, the son of Derile, resumed the kingdom. Then, in 729, the battle of Monitearno, between Angus and Nechtan, in which the latter was defeated, and the battle of Drumdearg, between Angus and Drust, king of the Picts, in which the latter was slain. Again, in 775, the “Irish Annals” record the death of Cinadon, regis Pictorum.

On examining the differences between these two lists, it will be seen that the Latin list mainly inserts kings not to be found in the other, and that these generally belong to the same family. Thus, Garnad is the son of Ferat; Alpin, who reigns so much longer in the one list than in the other, is also the son of Ferat, and two of the three kings added at the end of the list are likewise sons of Ferat. It is clear, even from the “Pictish Chronicle,” that more than one king reigned at the same time in different parts of the country, and it is probable that these additional kings are local kings, recorded by the one chronicler and not by the other. The “Pictish Chronicle” is, in fact, the “Chronicle of “Brechin,” and probably records the kings of that part of the country ; on the other hand, the kings of the house of Ferat seem peculiarly connected with the district of Gowrie. Alpin is defeated at Moncrief, and afterwards at Scone. Ferat, the son of Bargot, had his seat at Migdele, or Meigle ; and Druskin, the son of Ferat, was defeated, according to some, at Forteviot, according to others at Scone. It is probable that while the “Pictish Chronicle” records the kings who reigned over that part of the Pictish territories in which Brechin was situated, the later lists include those who reigned at Scone, whether they were kings of the whole of Pictland, or of the district around Scone only.¹

Variation in lists of kings of the Scots.

The variation between the list of the Scottish kings of Dalriada subsequent to the close of Bede’s narrative is of much more importance, and enters far more deeply into the very foundation of Scottish

¹ The “Irish Annals” record in 780 the death of “Elpin rex “Saxonum,” which corresponds with the end of the reign of Alpin, son of Uroid or Ferat, and the district in which Scone and Meigle are situated appears to have formed part of Oswy’s conquest, so that this family may have been mainly supported by the Saxons. If he reigned thirty years in this district, it brings us to 750, in which the “Annals” record a great battle between the Picts and the Britons, in which the Picts were defeated, and the brother of Angus, son of Fergus, slain. His reign of sixteen years, allowing a year for the short reigns there given, brings us to 733, the year after the death of Nectan, son of Derile, in 732, and Garnad, son of Ferat, must have reigned in this district during the reigns of Nectan and Drust, that is, from 706 to 729.

history, than that between the lists of the Pictish kings. The lists of the Scottish kings which thus diverge so radically from each other, consist, on the one hand, of the lists contained in the "Synchronisms of Flann Mainistreach," and in the "Albanic "Duan;" and, on the other hand, of the lists contained in the Latin chronicles, and it may be as well to give them from the commencement to the end of the Dalriadic kingdom.

They are as follows. The dates added to the latter part of the Latin list are taken from the prose chronicle interpolated in the "Chronicle of Melrose."

LISTS OF ELEVENTH CENTURY.

Five kings, 478-565.

Fergus mor mae Erc,	. 27
Angus mor mae Erc,	. 5
Domangart mae Fergus,	. 5
Comgall mae Domangart,	24
Gabran mae Domangart,	. 2

Two kings, 565-598.

Conal mac Comgall,	. . 15
Aedan, son of Gabran,	. 24

Four kings, 598-642.

Eocho buide mac Aedan,	. 17
Conad cerr, his son,	. . 0 $\frac{1}{4}$
Ferchair mae Conaing,	. 16
Donald bree mac Eocho buide, 14

Nine kings, 642-743.

Conall Crandomna,	{	10
Dunchad mac Duban.	{
Domnal Donn,	13
Maillduin mac Conall,	. .	17

LATIN LISTS.

Table of the kings of Dal-
riada.

Fergus filius Eric, 3
Domangart filius ejus,	. . 5
Congel filius Domangart,	. 33
Goueran frater Congel,	. 22
Conel filius Congel,	. . 14
Edan filius Goueran,	. . 34
Eochad flavus filius Edan,	16
Kinat sumetes filius Conal,	0 $\frac{1}{4}$
Ferehear filius ejus,	. . 16
Dovenald varius filius Eochid, 14

Ferchar Fada,	21	Ferchar Longus,	21
Eocho Rianamhail, . . .	2	Eochal habens curvum nasum, 3
Ainbheallach mac Ferchar, 1		Arinchellac filius Ferchar, 1
Selbach mac Ferchar,		741 ob. Ewen filius Ferchar longi ,	13
Eochaig Angbaidh		744 ob. Murechat filius Arinchellac ,	3
Thirteen kings, 743-879.
Dungal mac Selbaig, . . .	7	747 ob. Ewen filius Murechat , 3
Alpin mac Echach, . . .	4
Muredac ua Daiti , . . .	3
Aed Aireatach,	30	777 ob. Edalbus filius Eochal , 30
Fergus, Eochoid ,		781 ob. Fergus filius Hedalbi , 3
Domnall mac Custantin , .	24	804 ob. Selvach filius Eogan , 24
Conall Caemh ,	2
Conall, his brother , . . .	4	834 ob. Eochal venenosus filius Hedalbi , 30
Custantin mac Fergusa , .	9	841 ob. Dunegal filius Sel-
Acngus mac Fergusa , . .	9	vach ,	7
Aed mac Boanta ,	4	843 ob. Alpin filius Eochal , 3
Eoganan mac Aengusa , . .	13	Cinaed filius Alpin , . . 16
Cinaed mac Alpin,	30

The blank which occurs in the Latin lists from Donald bree to Ferchar fada exactly corresponds with the period of the Anglic dominion over Dalriada, when there was no independent king, and may be thrown out of view as amounting to any substantial disagreement.¹ The three following kings agree in both lists.

After that the difference between them is very re-

¹ The continuator of "Tighernac," who wrote in 1178, after the first of the Latin lists appeared, seems to have extended the reign of Donald bree over the blank, and has re-inserted the battle in which he was defeated in 638, under 678, and the battle of Strathcarron, in which he was slain, under 686, the same year in which Egfrid was slain and the Scots recovered their independence.

markable, and is obviously artificial. There are six kings which agree in both, Edfin, Fergus, Selvach, Echadh, Dungal, and Alpin. In the one list the last four, i.e., Selvach, Echadh, Dungal, and Alpin are placed first. Then, after a King Muredach, Aed and Fergus are placed, and then follow eight kings which are not in the other list at all. In the Latin lists the four kings, Selvach, Echadh, Dungal, and Alpin, are placed last. Before them are placed Aedfin and Fergus, and before them are placed three kings who are not in the first list. Now the remarkable thing is this, that the deaths of Aedfin Mac Echach Ri Dalriada and Fergus Mac Echach Ri Dalriada are given in the "Irish Annals" as occurring in 778 and 781 respectively, and this agrees with their date in both lists ; the amount of the reigns after them in the one list amounting to sixty-five years, and in the other to sixty-four. The real difference between the two lists consists in this, that the four kings, Selvach, Echadh, Dungal, and Alpin, commence the list in the one and terminate it in the other. They reigned, according to the one, in the eighth, and, according to the other, in the ninth centuries, and there is a difference of a century between the period of each. This is obviously a difference arising from an intentional alteration in one or other of the lists for chronological purposes, and it is of course of importance to ascertain which represents the true history. In the first place, the lists which place those four kings in the earlier century belong to the eleventh century, while the oldest of the Latin lists which place them in the ninth century, was compiled in the year 1165, a century later ; and the oldest of the eleventh century lists, i.e., that by Flann Mainstreac'h, synchronizes these kings of Dalriada with the monarchs of Ireland, so as to leave no doubt as to the period to which he refers them. In the second place, the Irish annalists entirely support the older lists. The question is whether these four kings reigned in the first half of the eighth century, or in the first half of the ninth century ; but the "Irish Annals" mention in the year 719 the battle of Finglinne between the two sons of Ferchar fada (Ainbheeallach and Selvach) in which Ainbheeallach was slain, and the sea battle of Ardeanesbie, between the genus Gabhran under Dunean Bee, and the genus Lorn under Selvach ; and in 723 the clericatus of Selvach regis Dalriada. They mention Dungal as being expelled from his kingdom in 726, and Echadh, son of Echadh, beginning his reign in that year. In 727 they mention a conflict at Rossfeochan between Selvach and the "familia "Eehdach nepotis Domnall," that is, the family of which Eoха, a son of Eehach, the grandson of Donald bree, was the head. They have the death of Echadh, son of Echadh, king of Dalriada in 733, and mention an expedition by Dungal, the son of Selvach ; and in 736 they again mention Dungal, son of Selvach, as having been taken and bound by the king of the Piets. Alpin is not mentioned in the “Irish Annals,” but they clearly show that the first three of the four kings in question reigned in the early part of the eighth century, and not in that of the ninth century. Further, they likewise show that, at a period coincident with the last of these four kings, Dalriada was conquered by the king of the Piets ; and that the kings who are mentioned in the older lists as succeeding Alpin must have been of the Pictish race. In 734, Talorgan, son of Drostan, king of Athole, is taken and bound near Dunolly, and Dungal, the king of Dalriada, flies to Ireland from the power of Angus ; and, in 736, Angus, son of Fergus, king of the Piets, lays waste the regions of Dalriada, obtains Dunad, burns Creich, and puts the two sons of Selvach, Dungal and Feradach, in chains. Dunad was the capital of Dalriada, and Creich is in the Ross of Mull, opposite the Sound of Iona. In 741, coincident with the last year of Alpin, we have the following significant entry : “Percussio Dalriatai la Oengus Mac “Ferguso ;” thus showing the complete conquest and subjection of Dalriada by the king of the Piets at the very time when this variance between the lists commences. The connexion of the subsequent kings of Dalriada in the older lists with Fortren is equally apparent. Thus, in 768, there is a battle in Fortren between Aedh and Kenneth, at the same period when Aedh appears as king of Dalriada ; and the older list of the Dahriadie kings shows Con-stantin, son of Fergus, succeeded by an Angus, son of Fergus, at the same time when the “Irish Annals” record a Constantin, son of Fergus, king of Fortren, succeeded by an Angus, son of Fergus, king of Fortren ; and, finally, the two last Dalriadic kings are Aedh son of Boanta, and Euganan son of Angus ; while, in 839, the “Irish Annals” record a “battle by the Gentiles against the men of Fortren, “in which Euganan son of Angus, and Bran son of “Angus, and Aedh son of Boanta, and innumerable “others fell.” These notices clearly identify the kings who followed Alpin in the older lists with the kings of Fortren and with the men of Fortren, who were undoubtedly Piets. The matter, therefore, stands thus, that by both lists the Scottish kings of Dalriada terminate with Alpin ; but in the Latin lists Alpin is brought down to the year 841, and identified with Alpin the father of Kenneth ; while by the older lists Alpin reigned from 736 to 741, and is followed by a list of eleven kings ; and the “Irish Annals” show that in 741 Dalriada had been completely conquered by the king of the Piets, and that the eleven kings who intervened between that Alpin and Kenneth Mac Alpin were of the Pictish race.

That the lists of kings of Dalriada given by the “Synchronisms of Flann Mainistreach,” and the “Albanic Duan,” agreeing so entirely with each other, supported as they are by the “Irish Annals,” and in direct antagonism to the later forms of the Scottish fable, present the true history, can hardly be doubted ; and the result of the comparison of the two lists is, that the compilers of the Latin lists suppressed the conquest of Dalriada by the Angles, by extending the reigns of the early kings till Donald brec is made the immediate predecessor of Ferchar fada, and that they, in like manner, suppressed the conquest of Dalriada by the Piets, and the century of Pictish rule in that kingdom, by placing the reigns of the last four Scottish kings a century later, and interpolating kings before them to fill up the vacant period.

VII.

Such being the variation in the lists of the Pictish kings, and likewise in those of the kings of Dalriada, whether Scottish or Pictish, we find that in all of these lists Kenneth Mac Alpin appears as their immediate successor ; that in him the lines both of the Piets and of the Dalriads unite ; and that there is little variation in the accounts given by the different chronicles of his successors. By all he is made a Scot, and is usually termed “Primus Scottorum,” and “Primus rex Scottorum.” By Flann Mainistreach he is said to have given the kingdom of Scone to the Gael ; and by St. Berchan he is called Ferbasach, the besieger, and the first king of the men of Erin ; he destroys the Cruithneach at Scone, and dies on the banks of the Earn. The “Pictish Chronicle” places his death at his palace of Forteviot, and the “Irish Annals” record it in the

SUBSTANTIAL AGREEMENT OF CHRONICLES
SUBSEQUENT
TO 850.

First four kings—called Kings of the Piets.

year 858. He is succeeded by his brother Donald Mac Alpin, who reigned, according to all the lists, four years. According to the "Pictish Chronicle," he died at his palace of Cinn Belachoir, according to the "Cronicon Elegiacum," at Secone, and to the Latin lists, at Rathinveramon. The two latter are separated from each other by the Tay. St. Berchan terms him the son of the Gaillsigh, gives him a reign of three years and three months, and places his death at Loch Adhbha, or the loch of the palace. His death is recorded by the "Irish Annals" in 862. He was succeeded by Constantine, the son of Kenneth, and he by Aedh, his brother. By the "Pictish Chronicle," Constantine is said to have reigned sixteen years; in his second and third years, Amlaib,¹ with his Gentiles, laid waste Pictavia, and is slain by him; in his fourteenth year, a battle is fought between the Danes and the Scots at Dollar, and a short time after, the Scots are slain at Ach-cochlum. His successor Aed reigned one year, and is slain at Nrurin. The "Irish Annals" record the invasion of Amlaiph in 866; the slaughter of Artga, king of the Strathclyde Britons, by the advice of Constantine, in 872; a conflict between the Dugalls and the Piets in 875; and the death of Constantine in 876, and that of Aedh by his own people in 878. By the Latin lists, Constantine is said to have been slain in battle by the Norwegians in Werdofatha or Inverdufatha, and Aed in Strathallan. St. Berchan gives the successor of Donald, without naming him, a reign of only five and a half years ; but the identity is clear, for he says he fought three battles against the Gentiles, and a fourth battle at Luaire, probably Carlowrie, against the Britons, and that he died in pools of blood at Inbherdubhroda ; but St. Berchan gives his successor, whom he terms the Dasachtach, or the fierce, a reign of nine years, making up the sixteen years between them, and says he died in a dangerous pass. In the chronicle annexed to the “ Historia Britonum,” Kenneth Mac Alpin is also termed Rex Pictorum, while in the “ Pictish Chronicle” the country in which he ruled is still called Pictavia. In the “ Irish Annals” these four kings are termed Reges Pictorum. Although, therefore, they were Scots by race, they were evidently viewed as having ascended the Pictish throne, and the Pictish monarchy was held to have still subsisted in their persons.

¹ According to the "Annals of MacFirbis," printed by the Irish Archaeological Society (p. 173), the wife of Amlaib was a daughter of Kenneth Mac Alpin, so that his invasion may have been connected with claims on the succession.

The succession, however, having been maintained in the family of Kenneth, was not in accordance with the Pictish law ; and after the death of Aedh an effort seems to have been made to enforce the old Pictish law of succession through females, as we find from the “ Pictish Chronicle” that Eocha, son of Run, king of the Britons, by the daughter of Kenneth Mac Alpin, is placed on the throne, to the exclusion of the direct male descendant, and along with him is associated in the government, Grig, son of

Grig and Eocha.

Dungal, who appears in most of the Latin lists as sole king. By the “Pictish Chronicle,” he is said to have been expelled from the kingdom with Eocha, after a reign of eleven years ; and by the Latin lists, Grig is said to have died at Dundurn, after a reign of twelve years according to some, and of eighteen years according to others. St. Berehan mentions Eocha as Tuiltigh the Brit from Cluaide, and gives him a reign of thirteen years. He terms Grig Mac Rath, the son of fortune, and states that, after reigning seventeen years, he was slain by the Firiu Fortren, or men of Fortren, at the noble house on the banks of the Earn. Grig is mentioned by Flann under the name of Cric ; but both he and Eocha are omitted by the “Albanic Duan,” and are unnoticed in the “Irish Annals.” It is difficult to ascertain whether Grig was of the Pictish or of the Scottish race, but the probabilities are rather in favour of the former. At this time, two of the old provinces of the Pictish kingdom south of the Grampians seem still to have been possessed by the Piets. The one was Fortren, of which Strathearn undoubtedly formed a part. The Firiu Fortren, or men of Fortren, are repeatedly mentioned during this time ; and their stronghold appears to have been the hill-fort of Dundurn, at the east end of Loch Earn, not far from St. Fillans.¹ The other province was that of Maghcircin, corrupted into Mearns ; and the “Viri na Moerne,” or men of the Mearns, appear likewise as a distinctive people ; their stronghold was Dunfother, the old name of Dunnottar, on the bold headland on which the ruined castle of Dunnottar now stands.¹ The districts lying between these two outlying provinces, probably formed the heart of the kingdom ruled by Kenneth and his successors, having Scone for its capital. Grig appears in remarkable connexion with both of these Pictish provinces. The old form of his name is Ciric, which is the same as the name of one of the seven sons of Cruithne, from whom Maghcircin took its designation. There is a curious notice in the “Pictish Chronicle,” that in his ninth year an eclipse of the sun took place “die Cirici.” The day of St. Cyricus fell on the 16th of June, and there actually was a great eclipse of the sun on the 16th of June 885, which corresponds tolerably well with his ninth year. This seems to show some connexion between his own name and that of the saint ; and it is curious that a church in the Mearns, dedicated to St. Cyricus, is called in old charters Ecclesgreig, but St. Berchan conclusively shows that it was Dundurn on Loch Earn. The “Statistical Account” says, “A dun, or fortified hill at the east end of Loch “Earn, gave name to Dundurn, or “Dun-d-earn.” It is a short distance from St. Fillans, and Fillan is called in the Irish calendars of Ratherend, or the Rath of the Earn. It is probably the royal “Castellum de Heryn,” mentioned in a charter of King William the Lyon, in the “Chartulary of Inchaffray, p. 6.

¹ Dundurn was, by later historians, identified with Dunadeer, in Aberdeenshire, and upon this | Chalmers built his theory, that Grig was Maormor of the region betwixt the Dee and the Spey ;

¹ The law of King William the Lyon, “De locis ad que Warenti debent venire,” has “In Mernys apud Dounnotter.”

or the Church of Greig. He seems, therefore, to have founded a church among the Piets of Maghcircin ; and, when expelled from the kingdom, to have taken refuge among the Piets of Fortren, where he was slain at Dundurn. His omission by the “Irish Annals,” and the “Albanic Duan,” rather favour the conclusion that he was not of the Scottish race, and that the omission of his name by the “Albanic Duan” was intentional, appears from this, that fourteen years have been added to the reign of Constantine, making the whole period of his reign thirty years, so as to extend his reign, and that of his successor, over the period of that of Grig. If Grig had completed his eighth year on 16th June 885, this places his accession in 877, which agrees sufficiently well with the dates in the “Irish Annals ;” his eleventh year would be completed in 888, his twelfth in 889, and his eighteenth in 895.

Kings of Alban.
Donald, son of Constantin.

His successor Donald, son of Constantine, son of Kenneth Mac Alpin, is said by the “Pictish Chronicle” to have ruled eleven years, and his death is placed by the “Irish Annals” in 900, which places his ascension in 889, after the expulsion of Grig and Eocha, while the death of Grig at Dundurn would fall in the seventh year of his reign. It is remarkable that the “Albanic Duan,” though ignoring Grig, gives Donald a reign of only four years, thus commencing at that date. St. Berchan terms this king An Garbh, the rough, and gives him a reign of nine years, but interposes a king termed An Bhaoth, the foolish, between him and Grig, whose reign commences at Dundurn, and lasts three years; but, according to one of the chronicles, Grig was succeeded by his brother Constantine, who reigned two years. The “Pictish Chronicle” records a battle in his reign, “in Uilibcollan inter Danarios et Scottos, Scotti habuerunt victoriam,” and adds, “oppidum Fother occisum est a gentibus.” The expression occisum can hardly be used to a fort or town, and is probably a mistake for occisus est, viz., that Donald was slain at “oppidum Fother.” The Latin lists remove his death to Forres, in Moray, but “oppidum Fother” is Dunfother, and St. Berchan indicates its situation, for he states that he fought with Galls and with Gaël, and that he dispersed his foes at Fotherdun, now Fordun, in the Mearns, where he lies on the brink of the waves.

After the accession of this Donald, there is a marked change in the designation of the kings and in the appellation of the country. In the “Irish Annals” they are no longer called Reges Pictorum, but Ri Alban, or kings of Alban. Pictavia disappears from the “Pictish Chronicle,” and the country in which they ruled is now called Albania. This implies that the contests by which Eocha and Grig had first been placed on the throne, and afterwards expelled by the male descendants of Kenneth, had really effected a revolution, under which the last vestiges of the Pictish monarchy had disappeared; and instead of a Pictish kingdom, ruled by a Scottish dynasty, it had become to all intents and purposes a monarchy, in which the supremacy of the Scots was fully established.

In each successive reign the power of the Scots became still further extended. Constantin, the successor of Donald, was the son of Aed, son of Kenneth Mac Alpin. The “Pictish Chronicle” gives him a reign of forty years, in which it is supported by some of the Latin lists, while others limit it to thirty and thirty-five years. The chronology of his reign is distinct enough. The “Pictish Chronicle” states that in his third year the Normanni laid waste Dunkeld and all Albania, and in the following year were slain in Strathearn, and that in his eighteenth year the battle of Tinmore was fought between Constantin and Regnall, in which the Scots were viatorious ; and the “Irish Annals” have the slaughter of Ivor O’Ivor by the men of Fortren in 904, and in 918 a great battle between Regnall, king of the Dugalls, and the men of Alban. In the latter part of his reign he was brought into contact with the Saxons, and, according to the “Saxon Chronicle,” placed himself in 924 under the protection of Edward, the elder king of England. In 926 he entered into a treaty with Athelstane, Edward’s successor, who, in 934, on the plea that the treaty had been broken, invaded Scotland both by sea and land, sent his fleet as far as Caithness, and penetrated with his land army as far as Duufœder and Wertermore. The

Constantin, son
of Aed.

former is no doubt the fort of Dunfother or Dunnottar ; and in 937 the great battle of Brunanburg was fought between Athelstane on the one hand and the whole Danish force of the islands, on whose side was ranged the Scots, with their king Constantin, on the other. In the prominent part taken by him in the struggle between the Danes and the Anglo-Saxons, he always appears as king of the Scots ; and finally, towards the end of his reign, the Saxons applied the term of Scotland to his kingdom,—a name which had previously been given by them to Ireland. The “ Pictish Chronicle ” states that in his old age he entered the Church, and transferred his kingdom to Malcolm, the son of Donald, and the Latin lists all agree that he became Abbot of the Culdees of St. Andrews. The “ Albanic Duan ” gives him a reign of forty-five years, and St. Berchan, who calls him Midhaise, forty-seven years, but the identity is clear, as he makes him retire to the “ monastery on the “ brink of the waves,” and states that he died in “ the house of the apostle.” In the reign of Constantine, his brother Donald had been elected king of the Strathclyde Britons ; and in the reign of Malcolm, the son of Donald, his successor, the Malcolm, son of Donald. kingdom of Cumbria was conquered by Edmund, king of the Saxons, and given to him. The “ Pictish Chronicle ” gives Malcolm a reign of eleven years, and the Latin lists of nine ; and the only other event recorded of him is his ravaging Northumbria as far as the Tees in his seventh year ; but the “Pictish Chronicle” adds that some attribute this expedition to Constantin, who resumed his kingdom for the purpose, and this will account for the reign of the latter being prolonged by some to forty-five and forty-seven years, and for the “Albanic Duan” assigning only four years to Malcolm. The “Pictish Chronicle” says he was slain by the Viri na Moerne at Fodresach. The Latin lists, as usual, remove the scene of his death to Moray, at a place they call Ulurn ; but St. Berchan, who calls him the Bodhdhearg, or dangerous red one, and gives him a reign of nine years, confirms the “Pictish Chronicle,” as he places his death on the brink of Dunfother, and thus establishes its identification with Dunnottar, which is close to Fetteresso. The “Irish Annals” place his death in 954.

Indulf, son of Constantin.

He was succeeded by Indulf, son of Constantin, to whom the “Pictish Chronicle” gives a reign of eight years, and the Latin lists of nine. In his reign the “oppidum Edin,” or Dunedin, that is Edinburgh, was yielded to the Scots by the Angles, and along with it probably the country between Stirling and Edinburgh. St. Berchan, who calls him the Ionsaightheach, or aggressor, and gives him a reign of nine and a half years, says that he lost no part of his territories, but added to his kingdom by an addition from a foreign land. The Latin lists say that he was slain by the Norwegians at Inverculan, but St. Berchan expressly states that he died “in the “house of the same pure apostle where his father “died,” that is, St. Andrews. The “Irish Annals” do not record his death.

Indulf was succeeded by Duf, the son of Malcolm, ^{Duf, son of Malcolm.} to whom the “Pictish Chronicle” gives a reign of five years, and the Latin lists of four and a half. The only event recorded in his reign is a battle between him and his successor, Culen, son of Indulf, at Duncrub, in which he was victorious, but was afterwards expelled by Culen. The Latin lists say he was slain at Forres, and add a strange story of his having been concealed under the bridge of Kinloss, during which time the sun did not shine.¹ St. Berchan, who calls him Dubh, or black, and his antagonist Culen Finn, or white, mentions the battle as an expedition to Magh Fortren, and adds obscurely that Dubh went where he did not turn back, and there fell. The “Irish Annals” record his death by the Albanich themselves in 967.

Culen, the son of Indulf, who succeeded him, also ^{Culen, son of Indulf.} reigned, according to the “Pictish Chronicle,” five years, and the Latin lists, four and a half. St. Berchan assigns nine years to both reigns. The only event recorded of him is his slaughter by the king of the Britons in Lothian. St. Berchan also says he got his death by the Britons, and that his grave is “on the brink of the waves.” The “Irish Annals” record his death by the Britons in 971.

He was succeeded by Kenneth, son of Malcolm; ^{Kenneth, son of Malcolm.} and here the “Pictish Chronicle,” after narrating the events of the early part of his reign, deserts us, as it appears to have been then compiled. It states his ravaging Britannia, by which is meant the territories of the Strathclyde Britons, and likewise Saxonia, by which those of the Northumbrians are intended ; his fortifying the banks of the fords of Forth, which shows the then southern limit of his kingdom ; and his donation of Brechin to the Church. By the Latin lists he has a reign of twenty-four years, and is said to have been slain by the treachery of Finuele or Findle Cunchar, Earl of Angus, corrupted into Finella, daughter of Cunchar, at Fettercairn. St. Berchan calls him the Fingalach, or fratricide, gives him a reign of twenty-four years, and says that he went to Maghsliabh at the great Monadh or Mounth, where he met his end. The “Irish Annals” record his slaughter by his own people in 995.

¹ There was an eclipse of the sun on 10th July 967.

Constantin, son
of Culen.

He was succeeded by Constantin, the son of Culen, to whom the Latin lists give a reign of one year and a half, but the “Albanic Duan” of seven years ; while St. Berchan, who calls him the feeble king, gives him also a reign of one year and a half. He was slain by Kenneth, son of Malcolm, at Inveramon. St. Berchan calls it a great battle, at the Sruthlinn, or stream pool, which is called Toe, by which the linn of Campsie on the Tay, not far from where it is joined by the Almond, is probably meant. His death in a battle among the Albanich themselves is recorded by the “Irish Annals” in 997.

He was succeeded by a king who is called by some of the Latin lists, and by Flann Mainistreach, and the “Irish Annals,” Cinaed, son of Duf; but by others of the Latin lists, Grig, son of Kinet, son of Dubh, to whom a reign of eight years is given here; by some lists Kinet, son of Duf, is made to succeed his father before Culen, and to have reigned one year and a half. The “Albanic Duan” calls him simply Macduib, and gives him a reign of four years. St. Berchan calls him the Donn, or “brown from strong ‘Duncath,’ ” and gives him a reign of eight years and a half. He is also apparently meant by the Kenneth, son of Malcolm, who slew Constantin. It is obvious that there is some confusion here which the loss of the “Pictish Chronicle” leaves no means of clearing up; but the probability is that the king who now reigned was Kenneth, son of Dubh, also called son of Malcolm, and that he had a son Grig, who may have reigned along with him. He is said by the Latin lists to have been slain by Malcolm, son of Kenneth, in Moighenard, now Monzievaird. St. Berchan says he was killed at his “stone of blood “between two glens” on the banks of the Earn. The “Irish Annals” record in 1005 a battle among the men of Alban, in which the king of Alban, i.e., Kenneth, son of Dubh, was slain.

For the reign of Malcolm, son of Kenneth, and his successors to Malcolm Canmore, we have the almost cotemporary authority of Marianus Scotus; and the confusion which exists in the short interval between the termination of the “Pictish Chronicle” and the reign of Malcolm the Second shows the value of that authority, and the danger of trusting exclusively to the Latin lists.

The two royal families, and their principal seat.

From the above short sketch of the reigns of the successors of Kenneth Mac Alpin, it is plain that after the termination of the reign of Grig, the son of Dungal, the kings belonged to two families, both descended from Kenneth Mac Alpin through his two sons Constantin and Aed, and that the members of each family occupied the throne alternately. It will also be apparent that the one family was more peculiarly connected with the northern districts, and the other with the southern. Thus, Donald, son of Constantin, died at Dunfother. His son Malcolm is said by the “Pictish Chronicle” to have invaded Moray, and died also at Fetteresso, or Dunfother. One of his sons, Dubh, died at Forres ; his other son, Kenneth, died at Fettercairn, and founded the church of Brechin ; and his son Malcolm at Glammis. On the other hand, Constantin fights in Lothian, and retires to St. Andrews, where he dies. His brother Donald is elected king of Strathclyde. His son Indulf acquires Dunedin and the territory around it, and also dies at St. Andrews. Indulf’s son, Culen, is slain in Lothian by the Britons, and his son Constantin is slain at Inveramon, on the Tay. This family seems to have come to an end in the person of Constantin, when their possessions probably fell to the other house, which at this time also divided itself into two branches, descended from the two brothers, Dubh and Kenneth, sons of Malcolm. In Kenneth, son of Dubh, and his son Grig, this line of kings came to an end ; but the “Irish Annals” record a Boede, son of Kenneth, whose grandson was slain in the year 1033 ; and it appears from the chartulary of St. Andrews that Gruoch filia Boede was wife of Macbeth, son of Finnloech, and reigned along with him, while Lulach, his successor, is termed in one of the Latin lists, “nepos filii Boede ;” and thus the rights of that family may have passed to her husband and to Lulach, and given rise to their claims upon the throne.

Malcolm, the son of Kenneth, is termed by the chronicles, “Rex Victoriosissimus,” and, by St. Berchan, the Forranach, or destroyer. He gives him a reign of thirty-five years, and says that “ten hosts were defeated before him.” He reigned from 1004 to 1034, and to him the province of Lothian, or that part of Bernicia which extended from the Tweed to the Forth, was ceded.

The kings of the race of Kenneth were now in possession of the four kingdoms of the Picts, the Scots, the Strathclyde Britons, and the Angles, north of the Tweed, and with Malcolm another change takes place in the designation of the king and of the territory he ruled over. The king is now termed ^{Kings of Scotia.} Rex Scotie, and the latter loses the name of Albania and assumes that of Scotia, but the name of Scotia was still applied to that part of his kingdom which had been previously termed Albania, and which lay between the Firth of Forth, the river Spey, and Drumalban. Although he ruled as king over the other districts, they appear still to have preserved their distinctive appellations, and to have been considered as separate provinces. It was only when they were fully incorporated into the kingdom of Scotland that the name of Scotia extended over the whole. Malcolmus Rex Scotiae died, according to Marianus Scotus, on the seventh day before the Kalends of December, or on the 25th of November 1034. Duncan Rex Scotiae, the son of his daughter, succeeded him, and was slain by Macbeth, whom he calls dux suus, on the nineteenth of the Kalends of September, or the 14th of August 1040, having reigned five years from St. Andrew's Day, and till the day which Marianus calls the Nativitas Sanctæ Mariæ, but by which the Feast of the Assumption, on the 15th of August, is meant. Macbeth, also called Rex Scotiae, was slain in August 1057, having reigned seventeen years to the same Missa Sanctæ Mariæ ; Lulach on the 17th March 1058, having reigned from the Missa Sanctæ Mariæ to the Missa Sancti Patricii ; Malcolm, son of Duncan, regit Scotiam, and had reigned twenty years to the same Missa Sancti Patricii, that is 17th March 1078, when these notices were written.

VIII.

This sketch of the history of the four nations which occupied the territory of the subsequent kingdom of Scotland, shows the Scots as occupying a very different position in true history from that assigned to them in the scheme of the early Scottish history propounded by John of Fordun. DEVELOPMENT OF THE SCOTTISH FABLE. Appearing for the first time in the year 360 as a people of Ireland, inhabiting Ireland, and joining with other barbaric tribes in incursions upon the Roman province in Britain, it was only about the year 498 that the Scots formed their first permanent settlement on the western shores of North Britain ; and, confined within limits differing but little from those of the modern county of Argyll, they remained a small Scottish colony in Britain for about 250 years, i.e., to nearly the middle of the eighth century, under their Scottish kings, without extending their territory beyond these limits. During this time they were subjected for a period of between thirty and forty years to the rule of the Angles, and at the end of it they were entirely crushed and subdued by the Pictish monarch. There was then an interval of as nearly as possible one century between the termination of the small Scottish kingdom of Dalriada and the subsequent Scottish kingdom founded by Kenneth Mac Alpin, during which we find a series of Pictish princes in Dalriada. In the middle of the ninth century a Scottish dynasty was placed on the Pictish throne under Kenneth Mae Alpin, who, after ruling for four reigns as kings of the Picts, succeeded in establishing the succession permanently in the Scottish line, while the Scots obtained so completely the supremacy under the monarchs of their own race that the kingdom became essentially Scottish, and their kings were termed either Reges Albanie, or Reges Scotorum. Under this line of kings and their successors, the different provinces forming the subsequent kingdom of Scotland came by degrees under their sway, until eventually they became kings of the whole territory of Scotland, and as these provinces became incorporated into the kingdom, it formed one compact monarchy. Such seems to be the true deduction from our oldest historical documents, compared with the narrative of Bede and other historians, writing at a period to make their statements of paramount authority ; and the question remains as one, the solution of which seems necessarily to complete the inquiry, How did this history of the Scots come to lose its true aspect, and transform itself into one of so different a character as that to which it had attained when John of Fordun compiled his history, and to what extent can the cause of this transformation be still traced ? Throughout the whole of the true history of the people, as recorded in the scattered notices of the annals, and the meagre lists of the chronicles, it is very apparent that the ecclesiastical element entered very largely into the course of their history, and exercised a powerful influence in the direction which it took ; and there seems little reason to doubt that this element enters equally largely into the causes which led to so great a change in the statement of their history, if it did not give the first impulse to it. The annals of the Christian Church in Scotland shed, therefore, a great light upon the course of its civil history ; and it is hardly possible to read the one aright without clearly apprehending the bearing and influence of the other.

When Church historians of Scotland commence their narrative by stating that the period of the introduction of Christianity into this country is uncertain, and its early history involved in obscurity, they express an opinion about as completely opposite to the real facts of the case as can well be imagined. The date of its introduction into every part of Scotland can be stated with more than usual precision. The Strathelyde Britons looked to St. Ninian as their first apostle, and as it is recorded of him that he heard of the death of St. Martin of Tours while the first Christian Church in that country was being built at Whitherne, its date is fixed to the year 397. The Angles of Northumbria were converted to Christianity by Paulinus in the year 625. Of the Picts, the southern division were converted by St. Ninian of Whitherne, and the northern Picts by St. Columba, who came from Ireland in the year 563 ; and the Scots were already Christians when they landed in Argyleshire in the year 498.

Two sources,
from whence derived.

The Christianity of Scotland was thus derived from two different sources : that of the Britons, the Angles, and the Southern Piets came from south Britain ; and that of the Scots and the northern Piets from Ireland ; and the Churches derived from each were very different in spirit and in character. The Church of the Britons of Strathclyde and of the Southern Piets was more immediately founded by St. Ninian, who derived his teaching from Rome ; the Church of the Angles was an offshoot of that founded by Augustine, a direct missionary from Rome. The Church of the Northern Piets and of the Scots was derived from that founded by St. Patrick in Ireland. The former seem not to have differed in their constitution from the churches of other countries. They possessed an episcopate in the full exercise of its ordinary jurisdiction and functions, and a secular clergy ; and, although monasticism existed in them to a great extent, it entered into the system as a distinct element attached to, but not coincident with, the clergy. On the other hand, monasticism had attained to a much more influential position in the Columban Church when it emerged from Ireland. It was a monastic church, in the fullest sense of the term, not merely that it possessed monastic institutions, and that these institutions occupied a wide and prominent position in the Church, but that the entire Church was monastic, and her whole clergy embraced within the fold of the monastic rule. As Bede expresses it, in talking of her offshoot at Lindisferne :—“ Omnes Presbyteri, “ Diaconi, Cantores, Lectores, ceterique gradus ecclesiastici, monachicam per omnia, cum ipso Episcopo, regulam servent” (Vit. S. Cuth. c. xvi.) She required the exercise of episcopal functions within her as much as any other church, and had the superior order of bishops, according to canonical rule, for the purpose ; but, just as the tendency of all monasteries within a church was to obtain exemption from the rule of the diocesan Bishop, and even to have within themselves a resident Bishop, for the exercise of episcopal functions in the monastery, to whose abbot he was subject, as being under the monastic rule ; so when the entire Church was monastic, the whole episcopate was necessarily in this position. There was nothing in it derogatory to the power of episcopal orders, and to the episcopal functions of which they are the source, but the mission, and the jurisdiction which flowed from it, was not in the Bishop, but in the monastery, and was necessarily exercised through the abbot, who was its monastic head.

These two Christian systems, derived from Two Churches. churches of different character, and entering Scotland from different quarters—the one from the south, and the other from the west—necessarily came in contact with each other in the common field of their missionary labours, and occasionally superseded each other, according as the one or other prevailed in the different districts, and, though the prominent points of difference were the proper time for keeping Easter and the tonsure, there can be little doubt that much of the antagonism between them lay in the different spirit and organization of the Churches. The church founded by St. Ninian originally embraced the whole of the country south of the Firths of Forth and Clyde ; while its population was entirely British, and extended beyond the former estuary into the regions occupied by the southern Piets ; but the Saxon colonies on the eastern shore, and the Angles who formed the kingdom of Bernicia, within the limits of his church, were pagans ; and the influence of this pagan population, and the decay of the Church naturally caused what is termed by the monastic writers an “apostasia.” The Church was revived among the Britons of Strathclyde in the sixth century, by Kentigern, who thus re-founded the Church in the same century with the arrival of St. Columba. The earlier part of his acts is probably fabulous ; but this seems certain, that, when the battle of Arderydd, in 573, established Rederchen as monarch of all the Strathclyde Britons, Kentigern came from Wales with a number of clergy, from the monastery of Llanelwy, which he had founded, and re-established the Church in Strathclyde, of which Glasgow became the chief seat. Although the Northumbrians were converted in the reign of Edwin by Paulinus in the year 625, according to the narrative of Bede, there is reason to conclude that the Church of Kentigern had a large share in their conversion; for, according to the additions to the "Historia Britonum," they are said to have been baptized by Run, the son of Urien; while Kentigern was, according to Welsh tradition, either the son or the grandson of the same Urien. The seat of this Church was fixed at York. If we may judge by the dedications of the churches, there is reason to believe that the Church of Kentigern likewise extended itself beyond the Firth of Forth into the regions of the southern Piets. On the other hand, the Columban Church, the principal seat of which was the Monastery of Iona, soon advanced beyond the frontiers of the northern Piets, and completely superseded the other Church over the whole territories of the Piets. In 633 the conquest of Northumbria by the pagan Penda, king of the Mercians, and the semi-pagan Ceadwalla, king of North Wales, and the death of Edwin, extinguished the infant Church which had been founded at York; and when the Christian Church was again restored by Oswald, who had dwelt in exile at Iona during the reign of Edmund, and been educated by its monks, he introduced the Columban Church into Northumbria, which remained the sole Church of that country for thirty years, having its chief seat in the small island of Lindisfarne, where they founded a monastery on the exact model of that of Iona. It is when alluding to Iona at the time of the introduction of the Columban Church into Northumbria, that Bede says of it, "Cujus

The Church of Ninian and Kentigern.

The Church
of Columba.

“monasterium in cunctis pene Septentrionalium Scotorum, et omnium Pictorum monasteriis non parvo tempore arcem tenebat, regendisque eorum populis præerat.” (Lib. III. c. iii.) When Oswy conquered the province of the Picts and added it to his dominions, the Church of Northumbria was still Columban, and therefore that conquest produced no change in its ecclesiastical relations ; but when the result of the Council of Whitby led to the departure of the Columban Church from Northumbria, and to the establishment of the ecclesiastical party of which Wilfrid was the head, and which identified itself with Rome, its influence must have extended itself wherever the dominion of the Angles reached. The chief seat of this Church was removed from Lindisfarne to York, which shows that the Church of Wilfrid considered itself the representative of the older Church at York ; and when Wilfrid himself was established as bishop in that city, we are expressly told that his diocese included the province of the Picts. The influence of this party must have been still further increased when Trumwin was constituted a separate bishop over the province of the Picts. The defeat of Ecgfrid in 685, and the overthrow of the Anglic rule, terminated for a time, at least, that influence ; and any Anglic clergy, who had penetrated beyond the Forth, must have followed Trumwin in his hasty flight from Abercorn. The Columban clergy were no doubt completely re-established in their possession of the whole Pictish of Wilfrid.

The Church

Re-establishment of Columban Church.

Church. The influence of the Angles and of their Church upon the Picts had not been without its effect; for Bede informs us that, in 710, Nectan, king of the Picts, renounced the error by which he and his nation had till then been held, in relation to the observance of Easter, and submitted, together with his people, to celebrate the Catholic time of our Lord's resurrection. He sent messengers to Ceolfrid, Abbot of Jarrow, in Northumberland, requesting instruction, and likewise that he would send architects that he might build a church after the Roman manner, which he promised to dedicate in honour of the blessed Peter, and that he and all his people would always follow the custom of the holy Roman Apostolic Church. Ceolfrid accordingly wrote a long letter in support of the Roman usages; and Bede goes on to say, that this letter being read in the presence of the king, and carefully interpreted into his own language by those who could understand it, he rejoiced, and declared that he would continually hereafter observe the Roman time of Easter, and that the tonsure should be received by his clergy. The cycles of nineteen years were sent throughout all the province of the Picts, and the nation, thus reformed, rejoiced, as being newly placed under the direction of St. Peter, and made secure under his protection.

This change must have been accompanied by the introduction of clergy of the Roman party from Northumbria. And the contest between the secular clergy,

Expulsion of Columban monastic clergy, and introduction of secular clergy.

clergy of that Church and the monastic priests of the Columban Church soon led to the latter being completely driven out of the Pictish territories ; for Tighernac records, in 717, “Expulsio familie Iae trans dorsum Britannie a Nectano Rege,” which implies that Nectan had driven the whole of the Columban clergy across Drumalban, which separated the Pictish kingdom from Dalriada ; and thus the entire Pictish people passed over from the Columban to the Angie Church. This great change evidently forms the subject of the “Legend of Bonifacius,” on 16th March (App. No. vii.) It shows us the introduction of a new clergy, and the foundation of new churches, which were dedicated to St. Peter, in the reign of a King Nectan. And the clergy thus introduced appear to be secular, as opposed to monastic. That such was the tradition appears from Wyntoun, who tells us of this King Nectan :—

“ In Res he fowndyd Rosmarkyne,
Dat dowyd wes wyth kyngys syne,
And made was a place cathedrale
Be-north Murraue severale ;
Quhare chanonwrys ar seculare
Wndyr Saynt Bonyface lyvand thare.”

The legend implies the same thing, for Bonifacius is accompanied by six bishops, seven presbyters, seven deacons, seven sub-deacons, seven acolytes, seven exorcists, seven lectors, and seven hostiarii. These formed the orders of the secular clergy ; and the number of bishops, including Bonifacius, being exactly seven, points so strongly to the seven provinces of the Pictish kingdom, that it seems to indicate the establishment of a diocesan episcopacy.

The “Legend of St. Servanus” (App. No. vi.) also belongs to this period, for he is said, according to the chronicle in the “Scalacronica,” to have entered Fife in the reign of Brude, brother of this Nectan ; and that he belonged to the same mission seems indicated by the fact that both he and Bonifacius are said to have been natione Israelitici, and that one of the seven bishops mentioned in the “Legend “ of Bonifacius ” is Servandus or Servanus.

With the departure of the Columban clergy, the veneration of St. Columba as the apostle of the northern Piets seems to have been given up, at least by the southern portion of that people, and St. Peter now became the patron saint of the kingdom, and continued to be so till the year 736, when Angus, the son of Fergus, established his power by the defeat of Nectan himself, and the other competitors for the throne. As this king rapidly brought the territories of the other Pictish families under his sway, and even added Dalriada to his kingdom, he seemed desirous to connect a new ecclesiastical influence with his reign, for, in the same year that he completed the conquest of Dalriada, he founded a church at St. Andrews, in which he placed a new body of clergy, who had brought the relics of St. Andrew with them, and this apostle soon became the more popular patron saint of the kingdom, while the previous patronage of St. Peter disappeared from its annals.

During the century which extended from the conquest of Dalriada by Angus MacFergus to the re-establishment of the Scots under Kenneth Mac Alpin, St. Andrew remained the patron saint of the whole kingdom, and the church at St. Andrews the head of the Pictish Church.

Return of Co-
lumban clergy.

It is hardly possible to suppose that the Columban Church thus ejected from the Pictish kingdom, and her clergy deprived of their ecclesiastical establishments in that part of the country, should have quietly acquiesced in their defeat, or given up the desire and the hope one day to recover their footing among the people whom their founder had converted ; and we may well believe that the whole of the Irish Church, of which they were but an offshoot, shared in the feeling. It is hardly possible, therefore, to doubt that, among the causes which led to the revolution which placed a Scottish dynasty on the Pictish throne, not the least influential must have been an effort on the part of the Columban clergy to recover possession of their old establishments. That such was one great cause of the overthrow of the Pictish kingdom, is indicated in the “Pictish Chronicle,” which states, “Deus enim eos “pro merito sue malitie alienos ac otiosos heredi-“tate dignatus est facere: quia illi non solum Domini “missam ac preceptum spreverunt; sed in jure “equitatis aliis equiparari noluerent.” They were overthrown, not only because they despised Domini missam ac preceptum, i.e., the doctrine and ritual of the Columban Church, but because they would not tolerate the Church itself. If the influx of the secular clergy under King Nectan is indicated by the “Legend of St. Bonifacius,” the return of the Columban clergy under Kenneth Mac Alpin seems likewise shadowed forth in the “Legend of St. Adrian,” on 4th March (App. No. viii.) He is said to have arrived “ad orientales Scocie partes que tunc a ‘Pictis occupabantur,’” and to have landed there with 6606 confessors, clergy, and people. These men, with their bishop Adrian, the Pictish kingdom being destroyed, dilati regno Pictorum, did many signs, but afterwards desired to have a residence on the Isle of May. The Danes, who then devastated the whole of Britain, came to the island, and there slew them. Their martyrdom is said to have taken place in the year 875. It will be observed that they are here said to have settled in the east part of Scotland, opposite to the Isle of May—that is, in Fife,—while the Picts still occupied it; that the Pictish kingdom is then said to have been destroyed; and that their martyrdom took place in 875, thirty years after the Scottish conquest under Kenneth Mac Alpin. Their arrival was therefore almost coincident with the Scottish conquest; and the large number said to have come—not the modest 21 who arrived with Regulus, but 6606 confessors, clergy, and people—shows that the traditionalary history was really one of an invasion, and leads to the suspicion at once that it was in reality a part of the Scottish occupation of the Pictish kingdom. That they were Scots appears from this, that the year 875, when they are said to have been slain by the Danes, falls in the reign of Constantin, son of Kenneth Mac Alpin, in his fourteenth year ; and this year the “Pictish Chronicle” records a battle between the Danes and the Scots, and adds that not long after it occisi sunt Scotti eo Acheochlam, which seems to refer to this very slaughter. The “Pictish Chronicle” likewise records that Kenneth Mac Alpin, in his seventh year, transferred the relics of St. Columba to a church which he had built. We learn from the “Irish Annals” that these relics had been removed to Ireland in the year 849, by the Abbot of Iona. They must now have been brought from thence ; and there is no doubt that the church which Kenneth had built was that of Dunkeld. During the first four reigns of the house of Kenneth, when the kings were termed Reges Pictorum, Dunkeld seems to have possessed the primacy, as in 865 the “Irish Annals” record the death of “Tuathal mac Artguso primus Episcopus Fortrenn & Abbas Duineailenn ;” but when, after the expulsion of Eocha and Grig, the succession was firmly established in the main line of the descendants of Kenneth, and their kings came to be called Righ Alban and Reges Scotorum, a new change took place in the ecclesiastical relations of the country. In the reign of Constantin Mac Aed, the “Pictish Chronicle” tells us that “Constantinus rex, et Cellachus episcopus, leges discipinasque fidei, atque jura ecclesiarum ewangeliorumque, pariter cum Scottis in colle Credulitatis prope regali civitate Scoan devoverunt custodiri.” We are now on historic ground. Cellach was undoubtedly Bishop of St. Andrews, and the scene of this event was Scone, the capital of the kingdom. On comparing the language of this passage with the passage previously quoted from the same chronicle, giving the cause of the overthrow of the Piets, the contrast between the two is very significant. In the one, the Picti in jure equitatis aliis, that is, the Scottish clergy, equiparari noluerunt; and in the other, the king and the Bishop of St. Andrews vowed to preserve the laws and discipline of the faith, pariter cum Scottis,—the thing that the Piets would not do. From this time the church of St. Andrews became the head of the Scottish Church, its bishops were termed epscop Alban or episcopi Albanie, and it became thoroughly identified with the Scottish kingdom and Scottish people.

The legends of the saints above quoted are not referred to as documents of historic authority, but as shadowing forth ecclesiastical legends in harmony with the facts indicated by the chronicles and annalists. This much seems certain, that the Columban Church remained the Church of the Pictish kingdom till the year 710 ; that between that year and 717 it was superseded by a church of a different character, and her monastic clergy driven out, while secular clergy of a different race replaced them ; that the kingdom, which had venerated St. Columba as its apostle, was placed under the patronage of St. Peter, and that the great power acquired twenty years later by Angus, son of Fergus, was accompanied by the foundation, in the year 736, of the church of St. Andrews, and the general adoption of St. Andrew as the patron saint of the kingdom ; that a century later the establishment of a king of the Scottish race on the Pictish throne was accompanied by the return of the Scottish clergy ; and that the Scottish Church again acquired the supremacy in the reign of Constantin, under the primacy of St. Andrews and its bishop. This Church now represented in a peculiar manner the Scottish population, and was intimately connected and closely allied with the Scottish royal house that occupied the throne. The territory forming the diocese of St. Andrews would almost seem to point out the limits of the Scottish population and the districts actually occupied by them as a people. North of the Firth of Forth it comprised the whole of Fife, Kinross, and Gowrie—what may be called the central portion of the Scottish kingdom, which was peculiarly, the kingdom of Seone. In Angus and Mearns it shared the churches with the diocese of Brechin in a manner so irregular and unsystematic as to point to a mixed population, of which some of the villages were Scottish and some Pictish ; while south of the Firth of Forth it comprised the districts acquired from time to time by the kings of the Scottish race from the Northumbrian kingdom.

Prior to the reign of Alexander the First, the ^{Controversy with England.} question of the independence of the kingdom of Scotland, or of its subjection to the king of England as its Lord Paramount, had not become the subject of discussion between the two countries. This controversy first arose under the Norman kings of England. It is true that, in the year 1072, King William the Conqueror entered Scotland with an army, penetrated as far as Abernethy on the Tay, and there received the homage of King Malcolm Canmore. It is true that his son William Rufus placed two of the sons of Malcolm, first Dunstan, and afterwards Edgar, by force of arms upon the throne of Scotland. It is likewise true that several of the kings of the Scots of the line of Kenneth Mac Alpin are alleged to have done homage to the Anglo-Saxon kings of England, as Bretwaldas of Britain ; but though these facts were founded on in the subsequent discussion of the question, the controversy itself had not then arisen,¹ and hence our

¹ Mr. Robertson, in the Appendix to his "Scotland under its Early Kings" on the English Claims, appears to the Editor to have completely disposed of the claims founded on the passages in the monkish historians prior to the Norman conquest. This paper appears to the Editor one of the acutest and most satisfactory of these very able essays.

oldest documents, the native record of the “Pictish Chronicle,” the “Albanic Duan,” and the Irish records, consisting of the “Synchronisms of Flann Mainistreach,” the “Irish additions to the Historia Britonum,” and the “Prophecy of St. Berchan” appear untainted by the introduction of fictitious matter through the exigencies of this controversy. They seem to have preserved genuine traditions of the early history of the country. When the controversy first arose it regarded more the independence of the Scottish Church than that of the Scottish nation, and was called forth by the elections of the bishops of St. Andrews. In the year 1072, the same year in which William the Conqueror invaded Scotland, a compact was formed by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Archbishop of York, by which all Britain north of the Humber was given to the jurisdiction of the latter. The Archbishop of York claimed the right of consecrating the Bishop of St. Andrews as his suffragan, which was resisted by Alexander the First, who maintained that the Bishop of St. Andrews, as the Episcopus Albaniæ, was the head of the Scottish Church, and that the Scottish Church was independent. It is unnecessary for our purpose to follow the details of this controversy; suffice it to say, that Robert, Prior of Scone, who had been elected during the reign of Alexander the First, but remained unconsecrated, was, in the reign of David the First, consecrated by Thurstan, Archbishop of York, in the year 1138, under reservation of the claim of the See of York, and the right of the See of St Andrews ; and that Arnold, the next bishop, was consecrated by William, Bishop of Murray, as the Pope's legate, in the presence of the king, and of the bishops, abbots, and princes of the land. He was succeeded by Richard, chaplain to King Malcolm the Fourth, who was elected in 1163, and consecrated in 1165, “apud Sanctum Andreiam in Scotia, ab Episcopis ejusdem terræ.” This controversy regarding the independence of the Scottish Church, and the independence of the See of St Andrews as its head, seemed to involve that of the Scottish nation likewise ; and we can well believe that the discussion called forth the highest pretensions to antiquity on behalf both of the Church and of the people. It is in the year 1165, the year of the consecration of Richard, Bishop of St. Andrews, by the bishops of the land, and the year in which William the Lion commenced his reign, that the first of the series of Latin lists purporting to contain the early history of Scotland appeared. They consist of the Chronicle, the Description of Scotland, and the “Legend of St. Andrew,” contained in the Colbertine ms. And the form which the chronicles had now assumed was simply this,—the foundation of St. Andrews by Angus, the son of Fergus, king of the Piets, in the eighth century, is transferred back to the fourth century, and connected with the removal of the relics from Constantinople to Patras in the reign of Constantine the Great. The interval between the death of Alpin, the last Scottish king of Dalriada, and the accession of Kenneth Mac Alpin, the first Scottish king who ruled over the Picts, extending to a century of Pictish rule in Dalriada, and during which time the foundation of St. Andrews really took place, is suppressed, and Alpin is made the immediate predecessor of Kenneth, and identified with his father, so as to unite the Scottish kingdom of Dalriada with the subsequent Scottish kingdom of Kenneth ; and, finally, the chain of connexion between them is completed by a genealogy of William the Lyon, in which his pedigree is taken through Kenneth Mac Alpin and the Scottish kings of Dalriada to Ireland through a long catalogue of Irish names. By this device, the monarchy of Scotland appears as a continuous Scottish kingdom as far back as the beginning of the sixth century, while the foundation of St. Andrews is removed to a period two centuries earlier. The artificial nature of this junction of separate lists is apparent from the expression of primus rex Scottorum being connected with the name of Kenneth Mac Alpin. This was true, when he was considered as the successor of the old Pictish kings,—and though himself of the race of the Scots, removed by a century from the last Scottish king of Dalriada,—but it was quite inconsistent with the supposition that he was the immediate successor of the Dalriadic Scots. This difficulty appears to have struck the compilers of the subsequent chronicles, and they try to evade it in different ways. In the prose chronicle attached to the “Cronicon Elegiacum” it is said, “Iste vocatus est rex primus, non quia fuit, sed quia primus leges Scotianas instituit, quas vocant leges Macalpin.” And in a later chronicle, in similar form, it is said of the Scottish kings of Dalriada, with a view to explain the apparent anomaly, “Isti omnes fere interficti sunt sed nec fuerunt reges quia non dominabantur per electionem neque per sanguinem sed per prodacionem.”

In the year 1174 William the Lyon was made prisoner by Henry, king of England, and carried over to Normandy. The Scots purchased his liberty by surrendering the independency of the nation; and with the consent of the Scottish barons and clergy, William became the liegeman of Henry for Scotland and all his other territories, and in 1176 the Church of Scotland was required to yield obedience to the English Church. In 1189 Henry, king of England, died, and his successor Richard agreed to renounce his claim to the dependence of Scotland for a sum of money. During this period the question of the right of England to supremacy over Scotland must have been the subject of discussion. In the whole of this discussion, in which both parties referred to the early legendary history of their respective countries, as if they possessed historic authority, great use was made by England of the Welsh tale, that Brutus was the first colonist of the country, and had divided it among his three sons, Locrinus, Camber, and Albanactus. The forcible argument derived from it was that the kings of England represented the eldest son, Locrinus, and that the early kings of Scotland, representing the younger son, Albanactus, must have been in subjection to them. This fable, in some shape or another, had hitherto been accepted by the Scotch, as we find it in the “Albanic Duan,” and it is likewise alluded to in the “Metrical Prophecy” in the Colbertine ms.; but as the controversy grew hotter, its bearing upon the discussion became more distasteful to the pleaders of the Scottish side. It was felt, as the “Metrical Prophecy” expresses it,—

“Candidus Albanus, patriotis causa ruine, Traditione sua Scotia regna premet ;”

and it was resolved, apparently, to get quit of it altogether. Accordingly, the “Cronica Brevis,” which bears to be compiled in the year 1187, commences with this statement, “Summa annorum pri“morum Scotorum, qui ante Pictos regnaverunt “cclx. annis et iij mensibus.” In the “Albanic “Duan,” Albanus had first settled in Scotland, and was succeeded by the seventy kings of the Picts, who in their turn were succeeded by Kenneth Mac Alpin, the first of the Scots. The tradition of Albanus or Albanaetus was now put aside altogether, and a Scottish kingdom was placed before the Picts.
They are said to have lasted for 260 years, which is as nearly as possible the duration of the Scottish kingdom of Dalriada, omitting the fictitious kings introduced ; and when we examine the list of kings in this chronicle, we find that it commences with the kings of Dalriada, from Fergus, son of Erth, to Alpin, the last king of them. Then follows the expression, “et tunc translatum est regnum Scotorum “in regnum Pictorum ;” and this is succeeded by the Pictish kings from Cruithne, the eponymus of the nation, to Drust, son of Ferat, their last king, who was followed by Kenneth Mae Alpin. In this form of the chronicle, the Scottish kings are removed from their position as the immediate predecessors of Kenneth Mac Alpin, and placed bodily before the kings of the Picts, so as to give them a high antiquity, and make the Scottish kingdom commence 443 years before the Incarnation.

In the year 1251, Alexander the Third did homage to the king of England for his English possessions. Henry demanded homage also for the kingdom of Scotland, “prout evidenter in cronicis locis multis “seribitur ;” but Alexander excused himself on the ground that he could not take a step so important without the knowledge and approbation of his Parliament. If the King of England referred to chronicles, similar documents were soon provided in Scotland to meet them, and we find one of them in the chronicle transcribed from the register of the priory of St. Andrews. It bears to have been compiled in the year 1251. It commences with the names of the kings who first reigned in Scotland ; and these are no other than the twenty-three kings of Dalriada, from Fergus Mac Erth to Alpin. Then occurs the expression, “et tunc translatum est “regnum Scotorum in regnum Pictorum.” Then follow the sixty kings of the Picts, with the title Nomina Regum Pictorum, and after them sequuntur nomina regum Scotorum commencing with Kenneth Mae Alpin, in whose reign we are again in historic ground. It is remarkable that in this chronicle, by the addition of a hundred years to the period said to have elapsed from the time of Kenneth Mac Alpin, it is removed back one century, so as to meet the date when the Scottish kingdom of Dalriada, in point of act, came to an end.

In 1269, the question of the independence of the Scottish Church was again raised, by an attempt on the part of the King of England to levy the tenths of the benefices in Scotland; and if the prose chronicle attached to the “Cronicon Elegiacum” in the copy inserted in the “Chronicle of Melrose” has been rightly assigned to the year 1270, we have the theory again asserted that the Scottish kings of Dalriada were the immediate predecessors of Kenneth Mae Alpin; and we find the later kings of Dalriada brought down a hundred years after their true date, and a few fictitious kings added to suit this theory.

In the year 1278, in the English Parliament, Alexander the Third of Scotland swore fealty to Edward the First of England in general terms.

Edward accepted it, “ salvo jure et clameo, de regno Scotiæ, cum inde loqui voluerint. ” Every act of homage on the part of Scottish kings seems to have revived the controversy and given birth to a new chronicle ; and this was followed in 1280 by a still more elaborate edition of the Scottish version of the story. It is contained in the chronicle quoted in the “ Scalachronica, ” and bearing to be compiled in this year. The tale is here much more circumstantially told. We have the origin of the Scots, their wanderings from Egypt to Spain, from thence to Ireland, and from Ireland to Scotland, where they settled under Fergus son of Ferthard. Then follows the statement that Fergus, son of Ferthard, was the first king of Scotland, and he is followed by the Scottish kings of Dalriada, ending with Alpin, who is said to have been the last of the Scots who reigned immediately before the Piets, and that the duration of their reign before the Piets was 305 years. We have then the tale of the arrival of the Piets, followed by the list of their kings, down to Drust, the son of Ferat, the last of them. We have then the introduction of a new colony of Scots from Ireland, and the destruction of the king and nobles of the Piets by them by stratagem, and the statement of the recommencement of the reign of the kingdom of the Scots after the failure of the kingdom of the Piets, which kingdom of the Scots had commenced before the Piets, 443 years before the Incarnation. Then follows the statement that the Picts, having been destroyed in this manner, Kenneth Mac Alpin reigned over the Scots, and was the first Scottish king after the Picts. This chronicle advances the fable one step further, for it substitutes for Fergus Mac Erch, Fergus son of Ferthard, who appears in the genealogy of William the Lyon as his remote ancestor, and thus suits better the distant period in which he is placed.

Two forms of
chronicles.

There were thus two forms of the Scottish chronicle : one which seems to have originated in the discussion regarding the independence of the Church, in which the Scottish kings of Dalriada, who reigned historically from 498 to 741, are extended over the interval of a hundred years, between their last king and Kenneth Mac Alpin, by the interpolation of fictitious kings, so as to bring the last king of the earlier Scottish kingdom in direct contact with the first king of what was the real commencement of the dynasty of the Scottish monarchs ; while the foundation of St. Andrews by Angus MacFergus, king of the Picts, which really took place in the interval between the two Scottish kingdoms, is removed back to an early period, so as to precede the first of them. The second form of the chronicle seems to have been produced by the exigencies of the controversy with England regarding the independence of the Scottish kingdom. In this form of the fable, the Scottish kings of Dalriada are removed back to a distant period, so as to place the commencement of the Scottish kingdom in the year 443 before the Christian era. They are followed by the whole list of the Pictish kings, and the last of these is succeeded by Kenneth Mac Alpin, the founder of the later Scottish kingdom.

In 1290, Edward king of England produced a vast body of extracts from chronicles collected from the monasteries in England; but no further statement appears on the Scottish side till the year 1301, when the controversy again broke out in a still more formal shape, in consequence of the interposition of the Pope, who addressed a letter to the king of England, which was followed by his reply, and by two documents emanating from the Scotch. In these the question was fully discussed, according to the aspect in which it was viewed on both sides, and in the Scotch documents the statement now first appears, that the Scotch were converted to Christianity by the clergy who introduced the relics of St. Andrew, and that they had been converted 400 years before the conversion of the Angles.

The Pope again interposed in the year 1317, after Robert the Bruce had firmly established himself on the Scottish throne; but this time the intervention was on the side of the English, and had no other effect than to draw forth from the high-spirited king of the Scotch an assertion of his rights as an independent monarch; but the date of this event coincides with that of the next chronicle, which was compiled in the same year. The lists of the kings of this chronicle is obviously taken from the same source as that of the "Chronicle of St. Andrews," but the order of the different groups of kings is inverted. It commences with the kings of the Piets, then follows the Scottish kings of Dalriada, who are immediately succeeded by the kings of the later Scottish kingdom, commencing with Kenneth Mac Alpin. That this was an artificial alteration of the one series of chronicles, with a view to bring them into conformity with the other, is apparent enough, because, while the Scottish kings of Dalriada are placed after the Pictish kings, the expression at the end of the former is retained, "et "tunc translatum est regnum Scotorum in regnum "Pictorum,"—an expression only applicable to a chronicle in which the Scottish kings of Dalriada precede the Pictish kings.

This chronicle was followed three years after (1320) by the celebrated letter of the Scottish barons to the Pope, in which they vindicate the independence of Scotland. In this letter the statement is repeated, that the Scots were converted to Christianity by St. Andrew; and the statement is added, that from the arrival of the Scots in Britain, 113 kings had reigned in the kingdom of Scotland.

Two forms combined
by Fordun.

Such was the shape which the chronicles had assumed when John of Fordun compiled his history. His object appears to have been to place the antiquity and continuity of the Scottish kingdom upon a firmer basis, by interweaving the statements of these previous chronicles into one harmonious whole, and interpolating matter of his own invention where it became necessary, in order to compact the somewhat discordant materials into one consistent narrative. The leading feature of his scheme of history is the combination of the two series of chronicles into one consistent system. He adopts the view of the one set of chronicles, that the Scottish kings of Dalriada were the immediate predecessors of Kenneth Mac Alpin ; but not content with extending them over the century which really intervened between the kingdom of the Scots of Dalriada and that of Kenneth Mac Alpin, by the interpolation of supposititious kings, he likewise extends them a century further back, by a similar process of interpolation, so as to make the kingdom commence under Fergus Mac Erch, in the year 403, instead of the subsequent century ; but while he adopts the one series of chronicles in this respect, he likewise gives effect to the scheme of the other, by placing an older Scottish kingdom of Scotland, which commenced under Fergus, son of Ferthard, 443 years before the Christian era. Instead, however, of terminating this older kingdom with the commencement of the long line of Pictish monarchs, he continues it to the year 360, when he supposes this older settlement of Scots to have terminated, and the Scottish people to have been expelled out of the country,—a part going to Ireland and part to Norway. This is immediately followed by the arrival of the relics of St. Andrew, and the foundation of St. Andrews. The Scots are then made to return under Fergus Mac Erch, forty-three years after their expulsion. While, however, he follows the earlier chronicles in placing the foundation of St. Andrews at that early period, he does not adopt the statement that the Scots were then converted to Christianity ; but finding it likewise stated that this conversion took place 400 years before that of the Angles, he applies that to the date of the conversion of the Saxons in 603, and thus brings out that the Scots were converted to Christianity in the year 203. Having thus effected his twofold object of assigning a great antiquity to the Scottish kingdom, and of bringing it down so as to place the last king of Dalriada in immediate contact with the first king of the later Scottish kingdom, Kenneth Mac Alpin, his next object is to show that the Scots whom Kenneth led into the kingdom of the Piets had been brought by him out of Dalriada, and were the same Scots which had formed the Dalriadic kingdom. He adopts as the basis of his narrative the same statement as that which is contained in the “ Chronicle of Huntingdon,” and a comparison of that chronicle with the text of Fordun will show how ingeniously he interpolates the matter necessary to adapt his materials to the scheme of his history.

CHRONICLE OF HUNTINGDON.

FORDUN.

Postquam Dungallus obisset Alpinus filius Achay statim coronatus, regni regimen suscepit, anno Domini Dcccxxi. regnavitque tribus annis. Bellum contra Pictos a prædecessoribus cœptum, infatigabili labore continuavit, eos semper exercitibus aut crebris irruptionibus devastando: Igitur anno tertio sui regni, in solemnitate Paschali, Scotti cum Pietis congressi sunt, et plures de suis nobilibus ceciderunt; unde fit, ut rex Alpinus victor existens, in superbiam elatus, eodem anno xiii. Kal. Augusti, temere cum eis altero conserto prælio, vincitur, capitur, et omni neglecta redemcione, capite detruetur.

Anno ab incarnatione Domini oectingintesimo tricesimo quarto congressi sunt Scotti cum Pictis in sollempnitate Paschali. Et plures de nobilioribus Pictorum ceciderunt. Sicque Alpinus Rex Scottorum victor extitit, unde in superbiam elatus ab [eis altero conserto] bello terecio decimo
Kl Augusti ejusdem anni a Pictis vincitur atque truncatur.

eu*jus* filius Kynadiu*s* [successit
in regno patris],

Filius autem Alpini Keno-thus successit in regno patris, anno Domini Dcccxxxiv. et in regno Pictorum, ipsis superatis Anno Domini Dcccxxxix.

*Hic mira calliditate duxit
Scotos in regno Pictorum, cuius hæc, ut sequitur causa fuit. . . .*

Anno deinde regni sui sexto, cum pirate Danorum, occupatis litoribus, Pietos sua defendentes non modica strage praedando maritima protrivissent, similiter et ipse Kynnedus in reliquos Pictorum terminos, montana finium suorum viz. dorsum Albanie, quod Scotice qui vii^o regni sui anno, cum pirate Danorum, occupatis li-toribus, Pictos sua defendantes, strage maxima pertrivissent, in reliquos Pictorum terminos

transiens
arma vertit, et multis occisis fugere compulit, sieque

Monarchiam tocius Albanie que nunc Scocia dicitur p[rimus] Scottorum Re[x conquisivit] et in ea primo super Scottos regnavit.

Qui anno xii^o regni sui septies in una die eum Pictis congre-ditur multisque pertritis regnum sibi confirmat.

Drumalban dicitur, transiens, arma vertit, et, multis Pictorum occisis, reliquos in fugam com-pulit, et amborum regnorum monarchiam conquisivit. Picti vero, reparatis aliquantulum Anglorum auxilio viribus, quatuor annis Kynnedum in-festabant. Sed consequenter postmodum inopinatis incursibus, et variis eos stragibus debilitans, duodecimo tandem anno regni sui septies uno die congreditur, et innumeris Pic-torum populis prostratis, regnum deinceps de fluvio Tyne juxta Northumbriam ad Orcadum insulas totum sibi ratifi-cat confirmatum.

It is needless to follow further this gradual development of the Scottish fable till it reaches the full-blown romance of Hector Boece. But it is remarkable how thoroughly it is connected throughout with St. Andrews. The ecclesiastical fable which disowned Columba as the apostle of the Picts, and Iona as his chief seat, and gave an extravagant antiquity to the foundation of St. Andrews, commenced with that community. The perversion of the true history, called forth by the exigencies of the controversy with England, originated more or less with them ; and every exponent of the Scottish fable, as it assumed, period after period, larger dimensions, was connected with that diocese, until at last John of Fordun, a priest of the diocese of St. Andrews, undertook the task of weaving the whole into a formal history of the kingdom ; but while his narrative is thus distorted, Scots made to assume undue dimensions, both in antiquity and in importance, and a system of artificial dates applied to their history, yet as his narrative consists of fragments of genuine chronicles woven into a fictitious scheme of history, there can be no doubt that true events are often narrated, though accompanied by false dates. When John of Fordun narrates that the Scots were expelled in the year 360 by Hungus, son of Hurgust king of the Picts ; that this was immediately followed by the arrival of the relics of St. Andrew and the foundation of St. Andrews, and that after that the Scots returned and founded a new Scottish kingdom, he has in point of fact transplanted the true events of the century which intervened between Alpin, the last king of Scottish Dalriada, and Kenneth Mac Alpin, the founder of the later Scottish kingdom, when a real Angus, son of Fergus, king of the Picts, conquered the Scots of Dalriada, received the relics of St. Andrew, and founded St. Andrews. That Fordun has in reality transplanted the events of this century to the earlier period is clear from this, that in the list of the Pietish kings he has Oengus, the son of Fergns, in his proper place, and seventy-nine years prior to him, Talargan filius Amfrud, who immediately preceded the Anglic conquest under Oswy ; while among the early kings he interpolates Hurgust filius Forgso, who received the relics of St. Andrew, and sixty-nine years prior he likewise interpolates Thalarger Amfrud, obviously the same kings.

IX.

INDICATIONS
AND FRAGMENTS OF HISTORY OF EIGHTH AND
NINTH CEN-TURIES.

From the preceding sketch it will be seen that the old Chronicles and Memorials which form the subject of this collection fall into two groups, first, those written in, and prior to, the eleventh century, which present the traditions of the country untainted by the bias produced by the subsequent controversy regarding the civil and ecclesiastical independence of Scotland ; and secondly, those which have been changed and distorted by the pressure of the exigencies of that controversy, and the oldest of which is dated in 1165.

According to the view which we have taken of the import of the older chronicles, written in, and prior to, the eleventh century, the kingdom of the Picts, comprising the territories reaching the Firth of Forth to Caithness, and from the Eastern Sea to the great wind and water-sheer dividing the eastern from the western watersheds, and known by the name of Drumalban, extended from the fifth century till the middle of the ninth century, when it was superseded by the later kingdom of the Scots, founded by Kenneth Mac Alpin. The smaller Scottish kingdom of Dalriada, restricted within the limits of the modern county of Argyle, existed parallel to the great Pictish monarchy, from the year 498 to the middle of the eighth century. Between Alpin, the last king of Scottish Dalriada, and Kenneth Mac Alpin, the first king of the later Scottish kingdom, they place an interval of a century, during which Dalriada was under Pictish rule ; and Alpin, the last king of Scottish Dalriada, was thus a different person from Alpin the father of Kenneth, who lived a century later.

The great events of this interval, which were affected by the subsequent controversy regarding the independence of Scotland, were first the foundation of St. Andrew by Angus, son of Fergus, king of the Picts ; and secondly, the existence of a Pictish kingdom in Dalriada, between the older and the later Scottish kingdoms ; and the change caused in the later chronicles by the pressure of the controversy regarding the independence of the Church was, regarding the first event, its transference from its true date to the fourth century, by attaching the legend connected with the arrival of the relics of St. Andrew into Scotland in the eighth century to the earlier legend connected with their removal from Constantinople in the fourth century, so as to give a remote antiquity to the church of St. Andrews. With regard to the other event of the Pictish rule in Dalriada,—the change produced on the chronicles by the controversy produced regarding the independence of Scotland was twofold, and led both to its suppression and amplification. In order to preserve the continuity of the Scottish kingdom, the two Alpins were identified, and the Scottish kingdom of Dalriada was extended over the intervening century. But the necessity of giving a much greater antiquity to the settlement of the Scots in the country, and a priority of occupation over the Picts, led to the Scottish kings of Dalriada being removed back, so as to place them entirely before the Pictish monarchy, and to give them a settlement in Scotland long prior to the Christian era. In this form of the fable the truth was preserved, that a period of Pictish rule did intervene between the two Scottish kingdoms, although it was extended to the whole duration of the Pictish monarchy, instead of being limited to the century of Pictish occupation in Dalriada. These two forms of the Scottish fable were finally combined in the scheme of history propounded by John of Fordun.

Chalmers, in his "Caledonia," early perceived an inconsistency between the legendary events of the life of Alpin, the father of Kenneth, with the facts recorded in the chronicles of Alpin, the last king of Scottish Dalriada; for the former is said to have attacked the Pictish kingdom, to have fought his battles in the east of Scotland, and to have been defeated and slain at Pitelpin, said to be a corruption of Basalpin, or the death of Alpin, in the Carse of Gowrie, while all the chronicles state that the latter "occisus est in Gallowethia postquam eam penitus destruxit et devastavit." Chalmers refers, in corroboration of the truth of this statement, to a charter by William the Lyon to a town of Ayr, which implies that a place called Laicht Alpin was in the border between Ayrshire and Galloway ; and he identifies it with an old ruin called Laicht Castle, on the bank of Loch Doon, which separates the county of Ayr from that of Kirkeudbright. The identification, however, is wrong, for the name of Laicht Alpin really belongs to the farms of Meikle and Little Laicht, on the eastern shore of Loch Ryan, which are within the county of Wigton, but adjoin that of Ayr, and on the very line of separation between the two counties is a large upright pillar-stone, to which the name of Laicht Alpin, or the monument or grave of Alpin, is actually appropriated. There can be little doubt that a fragment of true history has been preserved in the chronicle, which relates that he was slain by a man who lay in wait for him in a wood overhanging the entrance to the ford of a river as he was riding through it (No. XXXII.) The farm of Laicht is, in point of fact, on ground rising up to the north from the bank of a stream falling into Loch Ryan. It seems strange that Alpin, the last Scottish king of Dalriada, should have borne a peculiarly Pictish name, and that, when driven out of Dalriada, he should have seized on the province of Galloway, which had a Pictish population. We have his designation, even in the oldest lists, as the son of Echaeh, which was as peculiarly a Scottish name. It raises the presumption that, if his father was a Scot, his mother must have been Pictish, and that he had been adopted into her tribe. The case is exactly analogous to that of Tal-lorgan Mac Ainfrid, whose father was a brother of Oswy, king of the Angles, but whose mother was Pictish, through whom he had a Pictish name, and finally succeeded to the Pictish throne. The “Irish Annals” know of but one Alpin, i.e., the Alpin who succeeded Drust as king of the Piets in 726, and was driven out, and his territories taken from him, by Angus, son of Fergus, king of the Piets, in 728. Neither the “Irish Annals” nor the “Pictish Chronicle” give the name of his father, which raises a suspicion that he was an interloper; and it is hardly possible to suppose that there should have been an Alpin king of the Piets from 726 to 728, who was expelled, and his territories taken from him, by Angus, son of Fergus, king of the Piets, and whose existence is known to the “Irish Annals,” and that there should have been some years afterwards a different person appearing as king of Scottish Dal-riada, who also bore the Pictish name of Alpin, and was expelled from Scottish territories by the same Angus, but whose separate existence was unknown to the “Irish Annals.” On the assumption that they were the same person, and that there was but one Alpin, his history becomes clear and consistent. The son of the Scottish king Echach, by a Pictish princess, he became king of the Piets in 726, by the ejection of his predecessor, Drust, while his brother Echaid became king of Dalriada by the ejection of Dungal ; and probably the succession of the two brothers to their respective thrones was produced by the same revolution. Expelled from his Pictish territories in 728, he took refuge in Dalriada, where he succeeded the same Dungal, who had again obtained the throne. After the death of his brother Echach, and after he was again expelled from Dalriada by the same Angus in 741, he seized upon the Pictish territory in Galloway, where he was slain after having subdued it.

The father of Kenneth who lived a century later, bore likewise the Pictish name of Alpin, from which, as the chronicles are agreed in stating Kenneth, his son, to be of Scottish race, we may infer that his mother was Pictish. The “Chronicle of Huntingdon” contains an account of events in the life of this Alpin and his son Kenneth which are not to be found elsewhere, and which have been adopted by Fordun. It states that, “in the year “ 834, the Scots encountered the Picts on Easter “ Day, when many of the Pictish nobles fell, and “ Alpinus rex Scotorum was victorious, and that “ on the 13th day of the Kalends of August in the “ same year he was defeated by the Picts and slain. “ That his son Kenneth, in the seventh year of his “ reign, when the Danish pirates have occupied the “ shores, destroyed the Picts with a great slaughter, “ passed into the remainder of their territories, “ turned his arms against them, and having slain

“ many, compelled them to fly, and that thus he re“ gained the monarchy of the whole of Albania, and
“ first reigns in it over the Scots. That in the twelfth “ year of his reign he encountered the Picts seven “ times in one day, and having destroyed many,
“ he confirmed his kingdom, and reigned twenty-“ eight years.” This seems likewise a fragment of true history. If Kenneth succeeded Alpin in 834, and reigned twenty-eight years, this would place his death in the year 862. The “ Irish Annals” record his death in 858, but the “Pictish Chronicle” enables us to fix the exact year, for it states that he died in the Ides of February, on the third day of the week; and the Ides of February fell on a Tuesday, in the year 860. This chronicle, therefore, post-dates the commencement of his reign two years, which really began in the year 832. The seventh year of his reign thus falls in the year 839 ; and in this year the “ Irish Annals ” record the great battle by the Genntib or Danes against the Firu
Fortren, or men of Fortren, in which Euganan Mac
Angusa, king of the Picts, Bran his brother, Aed Mac Boanta the Pictish king of Dalriada, and many others were slain. It was this great defeat of the Picts which enabled Kenneth with his Scots to obtain possession of the rest of their territories.
The “Pictish Chronicle” records the reigns of two Pictish kings after Euganan, viz., Wrad son of Bargot, three years, and Bred, one year, whose joint reigns thus amounted to four years. This brings us to the end of 843, and in his twelfth year, which falls in the year 844, he defeated the Picts seven times in one day, and confirmed his kingdom. If he reigned twenty-eight years, this leaves sixteen years of his reign, which is the length of the reign given to him in the “Pictish Chronicle,” after the last king of the Picts. The later chronicles add three more kings to the Picts, Kinat son of Ferat, one month, Brude son of Fotel, two years, and Drust son of Ferat, three years, whose joint reigns amount to six years, and the last of whom was slain at Scone. This brings us to the year 850, the era from which the dates are reckoned in the later chronicles, which seem to have regarded Scone as the centre of the kingdom, and framed their lists of kings with especial reference to its occupation ; and this is the year to which the tale of the slaughter of Pictish nobles by the Scots at Scone belongs.

If in these events, then, some fragments of real history have been handed down to us, the question naturally arises, Where did the Scots come from who founded this later Scottish kingdom under Kenneth Mac Alpin ? It is thus answered by the later chronicles, “ Hic mira calliditate duxit Scotos “ de Ergadia in terra Pictorum ;” but this obviously belongs to the artificial system by which the later kingdom of the Scots was immediately connected with the earlier Scottish kingdom of Dalriada. The older documents are silent on the subject, with the exception of St. Berchan, who calls Kenneth the first king of the men of Erin. It is true that the “Pictish Chronicle” states of Kenneth, “Iste vero, biennio antequam veniret Pictaviam, Dalriete regnum suscepit;” but this chronicle places the accession of Kenneth in a year corresponding to the twelfth year of his reign according to the “Chronicle of Huntingdon,” or 844, and this would place his accession to the kingdom of Dalriada in the year 842, three years after the great battle in which Euganan mac Angus, a king of the Picts, and Aed mac Boanta, king of Dalriada, were slain. The expression in the “Pictish Chronicle,” “Pictavia autem a Pictis est nominata; quos, ut diximus, Cinadins delevit,” implies that it had originally contained some account of the destruction of the Picts which has been omitted by subsequent transcribers. The two authors to whom the documents of which transcripts are preserved in the Colbertine ms. appear to have been known are Giraldus Cambrensis and Ranulph Higden. In the treaty “De Instructione Principum” by the former, there is preserved an account of the destruction of the Picts (No. xxvii.) In this account the Scots are said to have been settled in Galloway, and to have slain the chief men of the Pictish nation by a stratagem, at a meeting to which they were invited by the Scots. The same account is given in an abridged form by Ranulph Higden, and is repeated in precisely the same terms in the chronicle (No. xxxix.) In the two latter it immediately precedes an account of the reign of Kenneth Mac Alpin, obviously taken from the same source with the “Pictish Chronicle.” In the chronicle preserved in the “Sealachronica,” the same account is placed between the last king of the Piets and the reign of Kenneth Mac Alpin. By this account a colony of Scots settled in Galloway, where they were mixed with the Piets, spread from that country into Argyle and the Isles, and in the reign of Drust, the son of Feradac, destroyed the Piets by inviting them to a general council, where they slew the king and the chief nobles. As the chronicle says of Drust, the last king, that he was slain at Scone par traisoun, it is clear that this event falls under the year 850, when Kenneth Mac Alpin obtained possession of Sccone ; and the “Prophecy of St. Berchan” alludes to the same event as having taken place at Scone. According to these authorities, the Scots whom Kenneth led into Pict-land were not the same colony of Scots who had founded the kingdom of Dalriada, but came out of Galloway, where they had lived mixed with the Piets, and spread from thence into Argyle and the Isles. There is, however, in the “Life of St. Cadroe,” a very remarkable account of the wanderings of the Scots, which differs from all others. They are there said to have entered Ireland, “to have obtained pos-“ session of Cloyne, then Armagh, and the whole “country between Loch Earne and Loch Neagh, then “Kildare, Cork, and finally to have entered Benchor

“ in Ulster ; then, after the expiration of many years,
“ they pass over into Iona, and proceed by the river “ Rosis to occupy the region of Rossia, and finally “ possess the cities of Rigmonath and Bellathor, “ situated at a distance from it.” The whole of the cities here mentioned were celebrated ecclesiastical establishments, and this legend seems to indicate the progress of an ecclesiastical party. The latter part of it can be identified. From Ireland they proceed to the isles, from thence they enter Rossia by the river Rosis. Rossia is of course the province of Ross ; and the Rosis is the river Rasay, the old name of the Blackwater, which rises in the small lake called Loch Droma, on the ridge separating the eastern and western watershed, and flows through the long valley leading from near the head of Loch Broom till it falls into the Conan at Contin, some miles above Dingwall. From thence they proceed southwards to Rigmonath, the old name of St.
Andrews, and to Bellathor, which must have been situated at or near Seone. The termination of the wanderings of this colony of Scots connect them at once with the invasion of Kenneth Mac Alpin, and the settlement of the Scots in his time at St. Andrews, his brother and successor, Donald Mac Alpin, having died, according to the “ Pictish Chronicle,” at Bellathor, and according to the “ Cronicon Elegiacum ” at Seone. The founder of the settlement of the Scots in Galloway is said, in the “ Scalachroniea,” to have been Redda, and he seems to have been the same person who is placed by Fordun among the early kings under the name of Rether, and is said to have brought a large body of men from Ireland, and to have entered Britain with them, along with the Scots of the islands, and those inhabiting the mainland of Albania. It is remarkable enough that Hector Boece gives this colony a direction which exactly corresponds with the line of that invasion given in the "Life of Cadroe." He says, "that he passed over from Ireland into the "Hebrides, and there having collected forces in "Albion, he entered Loch Broom, and proceeding "to the south, arrived at Dingwall, and thence "penetrated into the south of Britain."

By these legends, the Scots, led by Kenneth Mac Alpin, are made to emerge from Galloway, the very district, to which Alpin, the last king of Dalriada, led his Scots on his expulsion by Angus king of the Piets. We know, from the "Chronicle of Huntingdon," that the Danish pirates played a great part in the revolution which placed Kenneth, a man of Scottish race, on the throne of the Piets. The Norwegian or Danish pirates appeared on the west coast in the end of the eighth century, and the "Irish Annals" record their frequent incursions on the coasts of Ireland and Scotland, while, at this very time, the Gallgaedhel, or Gallwegians, appear as a body of Celtic pirates, taking part in their ravages; and at the same period a great effort appears to have been made by the Scottish clergy to repossess the churches in Scotland of which they had been deprived in the early part of the preceding century. It would appear, therefore, that these several bodies were combined in the revolution which overthrew the Pictish kingdom, and placed Kenneth Mac Alpin, with his Scots, on the throne ; and this exactly corresponds with the indications given us of the causes which led to this revolution ; for the Picts had, according to the “ Irish Annals,” sustained a great defeat from the Danish pirates, and Galloway was the very region to which Alpin the last king of Scottish Dalriada had fled, and which he had subdued, while the return of the Scottish clergy, who had been expelled by Nectan, king of the Picts, and their recovery of their old benefices, formed an important element in the foundation of the new kingdom.

Such considerations are offered more as speculations than as positive deductions from historic facts ; but in this attempt to discriminate between what are artificial alterations made in the structure of these old chronicles and lists of kings to suit the exigencies of a controversy in which the feelings of the nation, and the supposed honour of the country, were deeply involved, and what are the fragments of real history conveyed under the form of legendary narrative, it may not, it is hoped, be considered foreign to the object of this Preface to place them, such as they are, before the reader.

The Editor has gone over the ground of the early civil and ecclesiastical annals of Scotland, perhaps too minutely, at the risk of wearying the reader with a twice-told tale ; but his object has been to endeavour to indicate the causes which appear to have led to the gradual development of a fictitious scheme of history, and the extent to which the few and scattered facts contained in these meagre lists and annals can be used in reconstructing, at least in its leading features, the true history of that early period.

WILLIAM F. SKENE.

CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS.

windone fili' emge p̄z p̄c toro hitacū i hac i sula c.
āuis reguant. vii. filios ha buit hec sūt noīa e oī. ab.
fidach. fœclaid. forteim. ðer Seartam. Curn. ix. m̄. fidach vt. forteim. xv. fœclaid. xx.
ðot xii. xii. xv. fidach xxii.
Seceigudach. lxx. deusecan. c.
el. fœcta. ix. fœnid gaed bœchad
ch. ii. Seigudach. xl. Wurgest
xx. indebont aq' xxx. hui
de regnūmū hibnā r allbaā
p̄ centū. l. anor spaciū. xl. vīmā mū regū. i. hente pīnt. b. urpāt
d. leab. leo. b. nco. b. gant. b urgnant. b. ginch. b. urgnith. b tear. b. urtear. b. cal. b. urcal. b
aut. b. urtut. b. tecb. urfer. b ru. b. eru. b. gart. amgart. b. and Bureuid. Bmp. B. mriup. b. gnd
Burgad. b. mnd. b. nemnd.

Igidi. c. i. an regi tharmu
c. a. orleo. xv. deocalmū
xl. amorod fahus artos. vii. deo
ord. l. fheiblith. v. deccatū. fi
dm. xl. vscoubis. xxx. carmort
xl. deo arturis. xx. vist. l. xii. c Sarthiachic a quo gantian. in regna. vere. ix. a. reg. breth fili' buchit. vii. vifinguanet. xx an reg. canutilachama. iii. aū.
reg. Mra dechueda. ii. an reg.
Sartuaichdi uberr. ix. an reg. Sa lore fili' achimr. lxxv. an. regu.
drust fili' erp. c. an reg. x. c. bella pegit. ix. decimū an regu eius patens uē sc̄s adhibnā pueit
i uā. Salore fili' amel. iii. an reg.

29

Hactō moher fili' erp xxii
regatō āno regin eius dar hſdach. allutata calle tātide hili mā exulat. p̄ ē ad tātāmā scō āno adueniūs āno sinimolan
Vectomū aburnechige deo sc̄e brigde plente dauligdach q̄ cātanit allā sup istā hostā pralit ḡ necēius mag
mūs fili' wyp rex oīm pmūciap̄ pictor̄ ap̄ utuehige sc̄e brigde nū ad die mīdā cū cī hūs tūbz q̄ posite si alapic
i ap̄ infert ih ad lapidē nyx
c̄fthull. i. lethfoll. x. i. altū mīq adathan caula aū oblaom̄ hec est. Vectomū i mīca tūlie m nens frē suo drusto expulsat̄ se nū ad hibnā brigita scāni petūnū ut postulasset deū p̄ se Drās a. p̄ illo dixit. si p̄ uenes ad patām tuā dūc miserebit̄ mī regū pictor̄ i pate possit̄ rest. Suthimmo ch. xxx an regū. Galauau etilidi
xi. an reg. dadre st. i. drest fili' gyrem. i. drest fili' wdrost. v.
an. q̄ regū. drest fili' girem. xl
v. an. reg. Sarthiach fili' guom
vii. an. reg. Saitram fili' guom vno āno reg. Salong fili' muir cholaich. xi. an reg. drest fili' mymart vno āno reg. Salam ennaleph. vno āno reg. cū h̄ duo. i. āno h̄nder fili' amalco
xxx. an. reg. Ju octauo āno reg.

66
eius baptizatus est acolita
Sartnart. f. domelch. vi. an reg.
Hectu neq[ue]s uerd. ex. an reg.
Emroch. fili' lurtu. xiv. an. reg.
Sarnard. fili' vrid. viii. an. reg.
Liretri. fili' vrid. vi. an reg. Sa-lore fr̄ eoz. xii. an reg. Tullere fili' vifret. viii. an reg. Sarnan fili' domel. xi. an reg. et dumi-dū drest fr̄ eoz. xii. an. reg. Bredei fili' vli. xxi. an. reg. Tarn fentifidich. viii. an. reg. Brede fi derlei. vi. an. reg. Hecthō f.
derlei. xv. a. reg. drest et elpm cogganuit. x. a. Dmunt si vrgnust. xx. i. Bredet fili' vrgnust. ii. an. reg. Dmud. f.
vretech. xii. an. reg. Elpm si vred. vii. an. reg. et dmudū drat si talogen. viii. l. v. an
reg. Dalegen. si' omist. ii. a.
et dmudū i. v. Lauau. fili' tarla
v. a. reg. Latalau. si' vrgnust
xvi. v. a. reg. Dmunt. si' vrgnust
xii. a. reg. drat si' astam et ta-logen si' vrdhol. vii. an. n. ogga
mst. Amen. f. v. mst. vii. a.
reg. Vrid. f. vayrot. vii. a. bret vri an reg.

madus g^o fili^o alpin
pnius scator^r rexit feliat uta annis evi. pictam pictam & apicem est uenia ta q^o ut diemus ei uadi^r dele uit d^s eⁱ eos pniro sue ma lue alienes ac octos bedi tertio dicitur, natus est facte quod illi non solus domini missus ac prepucium spueunt et rursum equitatis alius eum patre ueluetum. Isti non bientate atque ne mire pictamam disticte regnum fiscepit septimum a regni sui re ligas sae colube transportant ad ecciam, quod struxerat in auctoritatis series saxorum, et geremant dominum atque marlos usurpatam beatum a geremant dulcissimum. Atque dana ri ualstauit pictamam ad duanan et dominalem. Aegidius enim est tamquam

a. id est filius i. palatio sothiur rabaechi. Dumenaldus f. o. tenimur ide regnum anni annis Iulii tepe ura ac legis regni epi filii eccach fecerunt gaudiem cum rege suo modum thaebach. Obiecto ipso latere anni beata dicit id est apl. ostanti filii a uadi regnauit annos xvi. primo
e anno mael lechus ill rex hibernie enim obiecto aeo. f. uel tenimur regnum ac post duos annos uista uit annis ab gentibus suis prie tamam. et hi cauicula ab aliis. Jammar nisi ad festum sacerdotum tunc thym anno undeviginti trahens ceterum agitato oculis est paulo p. Albo vello in xvij. e. f. id est in dolair ita danaros.
scoties occisi sunt scoti coadhochla neumam anni in regnum degerunt pictamam. dnis tenimur item anno en. ea bientate istore memori omne dauid si laudare uitium est ecclias. odo dicitur a filius rui

regis ita nec raps cura di ex filiis regi an̄. eti. tunc filii ali-dicunt huc regualis eē q̄ alipri⁹ ordiuate q̄; eochodio nebat an̄ s̄. an̄ aed fili⁹ neil merit. a i ix. c̄. an̄ i ip̄o die critici eclipsis sol⁹ fca ē. Bedodus cū alipri⁹ suo expulsus ē nūc de regno.

dominaldus fili⁹ alstatui⁹ tenui⁹
regni⁹ xi⁹ annos. nevināni⁹ ē nat⁹ taut⁹ pictaniā i⁹ hi⁹ regno bellū et tān⁹ mūluboli⁹ au⁹ rē denuo⁹ scottos scotti habuerit⁹ uictorā⁹ epcō⁹ foher⁹ occisi⁹ ē agētib⁹.

ostān' filius edū tenet regnū. xl. annos e' tō āno nor māni p̄ trānūt dūncalde om nēq; albiūa i' leq; a utiq; āno oculi sūt i' sindi h̄em uozuām ac i. vi. a. ostān' re'z cellach' e'z leges disciplinasq; fieri atq;
mīri ecclāz ev̄geliōr; p̄t c̄ scritis i' colle credulitatis p̄ igali curatā scōan deuōnūt autodid ab h̄ die coll' h̄ iniur
i' omē. . . coll' ednlratia z i' suo ecclāo āno cecidit exēlāsm?
ire h̄ibnēusūz arthiep' apō'
lauguedo. i. cerimacē fili' aile nan z mortin sūt i' tēpe h̄ done uald' rex b̄tāmoy z dūnenalo fili' e'z rex elig. a flāmi fili' ma lētēt nāll z māll f̄ e'z q̄ tēp bānt t̄z māns p̄ flām z c̄l

lū tunc mox filium est Ierim.
cōsūtētātū, i regnall i sōtā hībūrēt mōtōrāt & bellū dūt brūntē, i exx. m., ei īmō n ceadit filius astātū, a pōt vñ āmū mōctū ē. dubūtā
f' mōdēchtaig mōrūtār oēu gūsā adalstā. f' adnātāg bīrā feochāid. f' alpū mōrātātū a ītēnētātē deçptā bacūlū r p' a dñō suu tā regūnātā darī mael filio dūmās.

macclolum f^t domini mil. ei.
an. 107. cū ex exercitu suo mael colam p^revit in moech roca d^r celach i virano regim suu p^riu mt aglos ad annuē thesis a nisi tūdīem rapunt homiulta armata pcor q^d p^ram necāmūt locri p^d alibi dōre idē nāmudis elij a dicit a statim feasse hanc p^d q^r arege. i. maelclolum regnū dari s^t ad tēp ebdomadis ut instituit anglos vñ tu nō maelclolum fecit p^d i^t i^t age ut enī q^ratūr^t p^r. eius āno sub corona pentece i seruatore l^r roca d^rum namoerne mal colai i fodrelach. i iduicom dultus remuit reg^m vñ. am^r h tēp opidū eden uacuam e ae reliqu^t ē scottis usq; i hedierum ore

TENTH CENTURY.

I.

THE PICTISH CHRONICLE, DCCCCLXXI.-DCCCCXCV.

MS. COLE. BIB. IMP. PARIS, 4126.

CRONICA DE ORIGINE ANTIQUORUM PICTORUM.

Fol. 27.
recto. PICTI propria lingua nomen habent a picto corpore; eo quod, aculeis ferreis cum atramento, variarum figurarum stingmate annotantur. Scotti qui nunc corrupte vocantur Hibernenses quasi Sciti, quia a Scithia regione venerunt, et inde originem duxerunt; siue a Scotta filia Pharaonis regis Egypti, que fuit ut fertur regina Scottorum. Sciendum vero est quod Britones in tertia mundi etate ad Britanniam venerunt. Scite autem, id est, Scotti, in quarta etate Scociam, siue Hiberniam obtinuerunt. Gentes Scitie albo crine nascuntur ab assiduis nivibus; et ipsius capilli color genti nomen dedit, et inde dicuntur Albani: de quibus originem duxerunt Scotti et Picti. Horum glanca oculis, id est, picta inest pupilla, adeo ut nocte plusquam die cernant. Albani autem vicini Amazonibus fuerunt. Gothi a Magog filio Japheth nominati putantur, de similitudine ultime sillabe; quos veteres Greci magis Gethas, quam Gothos, vocaverunt. Gens fortis et potentissima, corporum mole ardua, armorum genere terribilis. De quibus Lucanus, Hinc Dacus premat, inde Gethi incurvant Hiberis.

Daci autem Gottorum soboles fuerunt: et dictos putant Dacos quasi Dagos, quia de Gottorum stirpe creati sunt: de quibus ille,

Ibis arcus procul usque Dacos.

Scithe et Gothi a Magog originem traxerunt. Scithia, quoque et Gothia, ab eodem Magog filio Japhet fertur cong dalli sonar lidiop' et celi it in bucham. Ep' fili' maelo lai reg'. v. anna forbach ep' p' saint' it' iger' camastu se' dor su' ari' i' quo ing' habuit me renam ubi ecclit duchad albis dunctalden a dubdonsa

Epis atcho chlach expullis
ing' de reguo a temut cau cul' bni tepe dominal f' camill mortu' e. Eulenrig'. v. a. i.
marti f. hroda laigt occasus et i' ecta sc' michael. leot a magatach excent ad romā maelbrig'd ep' parsant' cel lach. f' ferclalg' regnai' ma el brig'd. f' dubican obijt. cu ren a' fr' e' cochodi' ocali' sūt ab tombz. Enadi' fili' mael colam reg' aii. statu' p'rau' b'ram' a' eparate pedestres a uadi' ocali' sūt marina cre i'mon uacornat' scoti p'ca i'ust laeonā ad stāmon' a' ad dina' a' ad staugna terānu. Si uadi' a' uallanc' ipas nato' forthm' p' aii' p'xerit auadi'
a' p'raue' laeoniam a' tra duxit filiu' regis laeop' h' e qui t'biut magna auitate h'echne dno.

ergus sih'ene p'x fuq
p'm' q' desemine cho
uare suscepit regu' alban

.i. amōte dñallan usq; ad mar'
hilme a' ad indegal' iste regian'
iij. annus. Domangrat f' v. a.
L'ogel fili' denagrat. xxv. iii.
Souvera' ti' ogel. xxv. a.
Eonal ti' ogel. xiii. a.
Edan' ti' Soueran' xxvij. a.
Eochid flan' ti' edan'. xvij. a.
Eunat sunst' l' fili' conal. iij. mesib;
fertar fili' e'ui' xvi annus.
donevald uari' fili' Eochid. xiii.
fergar longus. xxv.
Eochal hūs curru' nasi. f' do negarth fili' conual uari'. iii.
Amichellac. f' ferchar lōgi. i. a.
Owen f' ferchar lōgi. xiv.
mirechat f' amichellac. iij. a.
Eugen f' murcerdach. ii.
E. dali' f' eochal curru' nasi. xxv
fergus f' hecalli. .ii.
Seluach fili' eogan. xxvij.
fodhal uenenosus. f' etalbi. xxv
Dinegal. f' Seluach vii.
Alpm. f' eochal uenenosi. ii.
Kined' f' alpm' p'm' rex scotop. xvij.
Soltual f' alpm' .iii.
Estatu' f' kinet. xx.
hed f' kinet. i. aii.
ong' f' Dinegal. xij.
dineual f' gstat'. xi.
Estatu' f' hed. xxv.
malcolm' f' dinueala. ii.
Iudal' f' gstat'. x.
dus' f' malcolm'. iij. a. xv. misib;
Eulen f' idus'. iij. a. & sex misib;

TENTH CENTURY.

I.

THE PICTISH CHRONICLE, DCCCCLXXI.-DCCCCXCV.

MS. COLB. BIB. IMP. PARIS, 4126.

CRONICA DE ORIGINE ANTIQUORUM PICTORUM.

PICTI propria lingua nomen habent a pecto corpore; eo quod, aculeis ferreis cum atramento, variarum figurarum stingmate annotantur. Scotti qui nunc corrupte vocantur Hibernenses quasi Sciti, quia a Scithia regione venerunt, et inde originem duxerunt; siue a Scotta filia Pharaonis regis Egypti, que fuit ut fertur regina Scottorum. Sciendum vero est quod Britones in tertia mundi etate ad Britanniam venerunt. Scite autem, id est, Scotti, in quarta etate Scociani, siue Hiberniam obtinuerunt. Gentes Scitie albo crine nascuntur ab assiduis nivibus; et ipsius capilli color genti nomen dedit, et inde dicuntur Albani: de quibus originem duxerunt Scotti et Picti. Horum glauca oculis, id est, picta inest pupilla, adeo ut nocte plusquam die cernant. Albani autem vicini Amazonibus fuerunt. Gothi a Magog filio Japheth nominati putantur, de similitudine ultime sillabe: quos veteres Greci magis Gethas, quam Gothos, vocaverunt. Gens fortis et potenterissima, corporum mole ardua, armorum genere terribilis. De quibus Lucanus,

Fol. 27.
recto.

Hinc Dacus premat, inde Gethi incurvant Hiberis.

Daci autem Gottorum soboles fuerunt: et dictos putant Dacos quasi Dagos, quia de Gottorum stirpe creati sunt: de quibus ille,

Ibis arcus procul usque Dacos.

Scithe et Gothi a Magog originem traxerunt. Scithia, quoque et Gothia, ab eodem Magog filio Japhet fertur connominata : cuius terra olim ingens fuit ; nam ab oriente Indie, a septentrione, per paludes Meotidas, inter Danubium et oceanum, usque ad Germanie fines porrigebatur. Postea minor effecta est a dextra orientis parte qui oceanus Sirius conditur, usque ad mare Caspium, quod est ad occasum. De hinc a meridie usque ad Caucasi jugum deducta est ; cui subjacet Hircania ab occasu : habens pariter gentes multas, propter terrarum infecunditatem, late vagantes, ex quibus quedam agros incolunt ; quedam portentuose ac truces, carnis humanis, et eorum sanguine, vivunt. Scithie plures terre sunt locupletes, inhabitabiles tum plures. Namque in plerisque locis auro et gemmis afflant ; griforum immanitate accessus hominum rarus est. Smaragdis autem optimis hec patria est. Cianeus quoque lapis, et cristallus purissimus Scithie est. Habent et flumina magna, Oscorim, Fasidem, et Araxen. Prima Europe regio Scithia inferiorum, que e Meotidis paludibus incipiens inter Danubium et oceanum septentrionalem, usque ad Germaniam porrigitur : que terra generaliter propter barbaras gentes quibus inhabitata barbarica dicitur. Hujus pars prima Alania est, que ad Meotidas paludes pertingit. Post hanc Dacia, ubi et Gothia. Deinde Germania, ubi plurimam partem Suevi incoluerunt. In partes Asiatice Scithie sunt gentes que posteros se Jasonis credunt : albo crine nascuntur ab assiduis nivibus. De his ista sufficiunt.

Cruidue filius Cinge, pater Pictorum habitantium in hac insula, c. annis regnavit.

Vij. filios habuit. Hec sunt nomina eorum : Fib, Fidach, Floclaid, Fortrenn, Got, Ce, Circinn.

Circin lx. regnavit.

Fidaich xl.

Fortrenn lxx.

Floclaid xxx.

Got xij.

C'e xv.

Fibaid xxiiij.

Gede olgudach lxxx.

Denbecan c.

Olfincta lx.

Guidid gaed brechach l.

Gest gurcich xl.

Wurgest xxx.

Brude bont, a quo xxx. Brude regnaverunt Hiberniam et Albaniam per centum l. annorum spaciun, xlviij. annis regnavit. Id est

Brude pant.

Brude urpant.

Brude leo.

Brude uleo.

Brude gant.

Brude urgant.

Brude gnith.

Brude urgnith.

Brude fecir.

Brude urfecir.

Brude cal.

Brude urcal.

Brude cint.

Brude urcint.

Brude fet.

Brude urfet.

Brude ru.

Brude eru.

Brude gart et urgart.

Brude cinid.

Brude urenid.

Brude uip.

Brude uruip.

Brude grid.

Brude urgrid.

Brude mund.

Brude urmund.

Gilgidi c. l. annis regnavit.

Tharain c.
 Morleo xv.
 Deocilunon xl.
 Cimoiod filius Arcois vij.
 Deoord l.
 Bliesblituth v.
 Dectotr'ie frater Diu xl.
 Usconbutz xxx.
 Carvorst xl.
 Deo ardivois xx.
 Vist l.
 Ru c.
 Garntaith loc, a quo Garnart iij. regnavere, ix. annis regnavit.
 Breth filius Butluth vij.
 Vipoig namet xxx. annis regnavit.
 Canutulachama iij. annis regnavit.
 Wradeeh uecla ii. annis regnavit.
 Garntaich diuberr lx. annis regnavit.
 Talore filius Achivir lxxv. annis regnavit.
 Drust filius Erp c. annis regnavit et c. bella peregit; ix decimo anno regni ejus Patricius episcopus sanctus ad Hiberniam pervenit insulam.
 Talore filius Aniel iij. annis regnavit.
 Necton morbet filius Erip xxiiij. regnavit. Tertio anno regni ejus Darlugdach abbatissa Cilledara de Hibernia exulat pro Christo ad Britanniam. Secundo anno adventus sui immolavit Nectonius Aburnethige Deo et Sancte Brigide presente Dairlugdach que cantavit alleluia super istam hostiam.

Optulit igitur Nectonius magnus filius Wirp, rex omnium provinciarum Pictorum, Apurnethige Sancte Brigide, usque ad diem judicii, cum suis finibus, que posite sunt a lapide iu Apurfeirt usque ad lapidem juxta Ceirfull, id est, Lethfoss, et inde in altum usque ad Athan. Causa autem oblationis hec est. Nectonius in vita julie manens fratre suo Drusto expulsante se usque ad Hiberniam Brigidam sanctam petivit ut postulasset Deum pro se. Orans autem pro illo dixit : Si pervenies ad patriam tuam Dominus miserebitur tui : regnum Pictorum in pace possidebis.

Drest Gurthinmoch xxx. annis regnavit.
 Galanan erilich xij. annis regnavit.
 Da Drest, id est, Drest filius Gyrom, id est, Drest filius Wdrost v. annis conregnaverunt. Drest filius Girom solus v. annis regnavit.
 Garthnach filius Girom vij. annis regnavit.
 Cailtram filius Girom uno anno regnavit.
 Talorg filius Muircholaich xi. annis regnavit.
 Drest filius Munait uno anno regnavit.
 Galam cennaleph uno anno regnavit.
 Cum Briduo i. anno.
 Bridei filius Mailcon xxx. annis regnavit. In octavo anno regni ejus baptizatus est sancto a Columba.
 Gartnart filius Domelch xi. annis regnavit.
 Nectu nepos Uerd xx. annis regnavit.
 Cinioch filius Lutrin xix. annis regnavit.
 Garnard filius Wid iiiij. annis regnavit.
 Breidei filius Wid v. annis regnavit.
 Talore frater eorum xii. annis regnavit.
 Tallorcen filius Enfret iiiij. annis regnavit.
 Gartnait filius Donnel vij. annis regnavit et dimidium.
 Drest frater ejus vij. annis regnavit.
 Bredei filius Bili xxi. annis regnavit.
 Taran filius Entifidich iiiij. annis regnavit.
 Bredei filius Derelei xi. annis regnavit.
 Neethon filius Derelei xv. annis regnavit.
 Drest et Elpin congregaverunt v. annis.
 Onnist filius Urguist xxx. regnavit.
 Bredei filius Wirgnist ij. annis regnavit.
 Ciniod filius Wredech xij. annis regnavit.
 Elpin filius Wroid iiij. annis regnavit et dimidium.
 Drest filius Talorgen iiiij. vel v. annis regnavit.
 Talorgen filius Onnist ij. annis et dimidium regnavit.
 Canaul filius Tarl'a v. annis regnavit.

Castantin filius Wrguist xxxv. annis regnavit.
 Unuist filius Wrguist xij. annis regnavit.
 Drest filius Constantini, et Talorgen filius Wthoil iij
 annis couregnauerunt.
 Uven filius Vnuist iij. annis regnavit.
 Wrad filius Bargoit iii. et,
 Bred uno anno regnauerunt.

Kinadius igitur filius Alpini, primus Scotorum, rexit feliciter istam annis xvi. Pictaviam. Pictavia autem a Pictis est nominata; quos, ut diximus, Cinadius delevit. Deus enim eos pro merito sue malitie alienos ac otiosos hereditate dignatus est facere: quia illi non solum Domini missam ac preceptum spreverunt; sed et in jure equitatis aliis equi parari noluerunt. Iste vero, biennio antequam veniret Pictaviam, Dalriete regnum suscepit. Septimo anno regni sui, reliquias Sancti Columbe transportavit ad ecclesiam quam construxit, et invasit sexies Saxoniam; et concremavit Dunbarre atque Marlos usurpata. Britanni autem concremaverunt Dubblain, atque Danari vastaverunt Pictaviam, ad Cluanan et Duncalden. Mortuus est tandem tumore ani, idus Februarii feria tertia in palacio Fothuirtabaicht.

Dunevaldus, frater ejus, tenuit idem regnum iiii. annis. In hujus tempore, jura ac leges regni Edi filii Ecdach fecerunt Goedeli cum rege suo in Fothiurthabaicht. Obiit in palacio Cinn Belachoir idus Aprilis.

Constantinus filius Cinadi regnavit annis xvi. Primo ejus anno Maelsechnaill rex Hibernensium obiit; et Aed filius Niel tenuit regnum; ac post duos annos vastavit Amlaib, cum gentibus suis, Pictaviam, et habitauit eam, a kalendis Januarii usque ad festum Sancti Patricii. Tertio iterum anno Amlaib, trahens centum, a Constantino occisus est. Paulo post ab eo bello in xiiij. ejus facto in Dolair inter Danarios et Scottos, occisi sunt Scotti co Achcochlam. Normanni annum integrum degerunt in Pictavia.

Eodus tenuit idem i. anno. Ejus etiam brevitas nil historie memorabile commendavit ; sed in civitate Nruim est occisus.

Eochodius autem filius Run regis Britannorum, nepos Cinadei ex filia, regnavit annis xi. Licet Ciricum filium alii dicunt hic regnasse ; eo quod alumpnus ordinatore Eochodio fiebat. Cujus secundo anno Aed filius Neil moritur ; ac in ix. ejus anno, in ipso die Cirici, eclipsis solis facta est. Eochodius, cum alumpno suo, expulsus est nunc de regno.

Donivaldus filius Constantini tenuit regnum xi. annos. Normanni tunc vastaverunt Pictaviam. In hujus regno bellum est factum Innisibsonian, inter Danarios et Scottos : Scotti habuerunt victoriam. Opidum Fother occisum est a gentibus.

Constantinus filius Edii tenuit regnum xl. annos. Cujus tertio anno Normanni predaverunt Duncalden, omnemque Albaniam. In sequenti utique anno occisi sunt in Sraithh'erni Normanni, ac in vi. anno Constantinus rex, et Cellachus episcopus, leges disciplinasque fidei, atque jura ecclesiarum ewangeliorumque, pariter cum Scottis in colle credulitatis, prope regali civitati Scoan devoverunt custodiri. Ab hoc die collis hoc meruit nomen, id est, collis credulitatis. Et in suo octavo anno cecidit excelsissimus rex Hibernensium et archiepiscopus, apud Laignechos, id est, Cormace filius Culennan. Et mortui sunt in tempore hujus, Doneualdus rex Britannorum, et Dunenaldus filius Ede rex eligitur ; et Flann filius Maelsethmaill, et Niall filius Ede, qui regnavit tribus annis post Flann, etc. Bellum Tinemore factum est in xviii. anno inter Constantinum et Regnall, et Scotti habuerunt victoriam. Et bellum Duinbrunde in xxxiiij. ejus anno ubi cecidit filius Constantini. Et post unum annum mortuus est Dubucan filius Indrechtaig, mormair Oengusa. Adalstan filius Advar rig Saxon, et Eochaid filius Alpini, mortui sunt. Et in senectute decrepitus baculum cepit, et Domino servivit : et regnum mandavit Mael filio Domnail.

Maelcolaim filius Domnaill xi. annis regnavit. Cum exercitu suo Maelcolaim perrexit in Moreb, et occidit Cellach. In vii^o anno regni sui predavit Anglicos ad amnem Thesis, et multitudinem rapuit hominum, et multa armenta pecorum: quam predam vocaverunt Scotti predam Albidosorum idem Nainndisi. Alii autem dicunt Constantinum fecisse hanc predam querens a rege, id est, Maelcolaim, regnum dari sibi ad tempus hebdomadis, ut visitaret Anglicos. Verum tamen non Maelcolam fecit predam, sed instigavit eum Constantinus, ut dixi. Mortuus est autem Constantinus in x. ejus anno sub corona penitenti in senectute bona. Et occiderunt viri na Moerne Malecolaim in Fodresach id est in Claideon.

Indulfus tenuit regnum viii. annis. In hujus tempore oppidum Eden vacuatum est, ac relictum est Scottis usque in hodiernum diem. Classi Somarlidiorum occisi sunt in Buchain.

Niger filius Maelcolaim regnavit v. annis. Fothach episcopus pausavit. [Bellum] inter Nigerum [et] Caniculum super Dorsum Crup, in quo Niger habuit victoriam: ubi cecidit Duchad abbas Duncalden et Dubdon satrapas Athochlach. Expulsus [est] Niger de regno, et tenuit Caniculus brevi tempore. Domnal filius Cairill mortuus est.

Culenring v. annis regnavit. Marcan filius Breodalaig occisus est in ecclesia Saneti Michaelis. Leot et Shagadach exierunt ad Romam. Maelbrigde episcopus pausavit. Cellach filius Ferdalaig regnavit. Maelbrigde filius Dubican obiit. Culen et frater ejus Eochodius occisi sunt a Britonibus.

Cinadius filius Maelcolaim regnavit annis. Statim predavit Britanniam ex parte. Pedestres Cinadi occisi sunt maxima eede in Moin Vaeornar. Scotti predaverunt Saxoniam ad Stanmoir, et ad Cluiam, et ad Stangna Dera'm. Cinadius autem vallavit ripas vadorum Forthin. Post annum perrexit Cinadius, et predavit Saxoniam, et traduxit filium regis Saxonum. Hic est qui tribuit magnam civitatem Brechne Domino.

II.

SAXON AND WELSH ADDITIONS TO THE "HISTORIA BRITONUM," DCCCCLXXVII.

MS. BRIT. MUS. HARL. 3859.

A.

[G]UODEN genuit Beldeg, genuit Beornec, genuit Gebrond, genuit Aluson, genuit Inguec, genuit Aedibirth, genuit Ossa, genuit Eobba, genuit Ida. Ida autem duodecem filios habuit, quorum nomina sunt Adda, Aeadldric, Decdric, Edrie, Deothere, Osmer, et unam reginam, Bearnoch, Ealrie. Ealdric genuit Aelfret, ipse est Aedlferd Flesaur: nam et ipse habuit filios septem quorum nomina sunt Anfrid, Osguald, Osbiu, Osguid, Osgudu, Oslapf, Offa. Osguid genuit Alcfrid et Aelfuin et Echfird. Echgrifid ipse est qui fecit bellum contra fratrele suum qui erat rex Pictorum nomine Birdei et ibi corruit eum omni rubore exercitus sui, et Picti cum rege suo victores extiterunt: et nunquam addiderunt Saxones Ambronum ut a Pictis vectigal exigerent. A tempore istius belli vocatur Gueith Lingaran. Osguid autem habuit duas uxores quarum una vocabatur Riennelth filia Royth filii Run, et altera vocabatur Eanfled filia Eadguini filii Alli.

B.

[G]uoden genuit Beldeyg Brond, genuit Siggar, genuit Sebald, genuit Zegulf, genuit Soemil. Ipse primus separavit Deur o Birneich. Soemil genuit Squerthing, genuit Giulglis, genuit Usfrean, genuit Iffi, genuit Ulli [genuit] Aedguin. Osfird et Eadfird duo filii Edguini erant et cum ipso cor-ruerunt in bello Meicen, et de origine illius nunquam iteratum est regnum quia non evasit unus de genere illius de isto bello sed interfecti omnes sunt cum illo ab exercitu Catguollauni regis Guendote regionis. Osguid genuit Ecgfird, ipse est Etgfird. Ailguin genuit Oslach, genuit Alhun, genuit Adlsing, genuit Echun, genuit Oslaph. Ida genuit Eadric, genuit Eegulf, genuit Liodguald, genuit Aetan, ipse est Eata Glimmaur; genuit Eadbyrth et Ecgbirth episcopum qui fuit primus de natione eorum.

[I]da filius Eobba tenuit regiones in sinistrali parte Britannie, id est, Umbri maris, et regnavit annis duodecim et junxit Dinguyrdi Guurth Berneich.

[T]unc Dutigirn in illo tempore fortiter dimicabat contra gentem Anglorum. Tunc Talhaern Tataguen in poemate claruit, et Neirin et Taliessin et Bluchbard et Cian qui vocatur Gueinthguaut simul uno tempore in poemate Britannico claruerunt.

[M]ailcunus magnus rex apud Brittones regnabat, id est, in regione Guenedote, quia attavus illius, id est, Cunedag, cum filiis suis quorun numerus octo erat venerat prius de parte sinistrali, id est, de regione que vocatur Manau Guotodin, centum quadraginta sex annis antequam Mailcun regnaret; et Scottos cum ingentissima clade expulerunt ab ipsis regionibus, et misquam reversi sunt iterum ad habitandum.

[A]dda filius Ida regnavit annis octo.

Aedlric filius Adda regnavit quatuor annis.

Deoric filius Ida regnavit septem annis.

Friodolguald regnavit sex annis.

In eius tempore regnum Cantiorum, mittente Gregorio, baptismum suscepit.

Hussa regnavit auni septem.

Contra illos quatuor reges Urbgen et Riderch hen et Guallauc et Morecant dimicaverunt.

Deodric.

Contra illum Urbgen cum filiis dimicabant fortiter.

In illo autem tempore aliquando hostes, nunc cives vincebantur et ipse conclusit eos tribus diebus et tribus noctibus in insula Metcaud; et dum erat in expeditione jugulatus est Morcanto destinante pro invidia, quia in ipso pre omnibus regibus virtus maxima erat instauratio belli.

Eadferd Flesaurs regnavit duodecem annis in Berneich, et alios duodecem in Deur: viginti quatuor annis inter duo regna regnavit, et dedit uxori sue Dinguoaroy que vocatur Bebbab, et de nomine sue uxorius suscepit nomen, id est, Bebbanburch.

Eoguin filius Alli regnavit annis decem et septem; et ipse occupavit Elmet et expulit Certic regem illius regionis. Eanfled filia illius, duodecimo die post Pentecosten baptismum accepit cum universis hominibus suis de viris et mulieribus cum ea. Eadguin vero in sequenti Pasea baptismum suscepit, et duodecem millia hominum baptizati sunt cum eo. Si quis scire voluerit quis eos baptizavit, [R]unn map Urbgen baptizavit eos, et per quadraginta dies non cessavit baptizare omne genus Ambromum, et per predicationem illius multi crediderunt in Christo.

Osuuald filius Eadfred regnavit novem annis.

Ipse est Osuuald Lamnguin. Ipse occidit Catgublaun regem Guenedote regionis in bello Catscaul cum magna clade exercitus sui.

Osguid filius Eadlfrid regnavit viginti octo annis et sex mensibus.

Dum ipse regnabat venit mortalitas hominum, Calgualart regnante apud Britones post patrem suum, et in ea periit. Et ipse occidit Pantha in Campo Gai, et nunc facta est strages Gai Campi, et reges Britonum interfici sunt qui exierant cum rege Pantha in expeditione usque ad urbem que vocatur Iudeu.

[T]unc reddidit Osguid omnes divitias que erant cum eo in urbe, usque in Manau, Pende et Penda distribuit ea regibus Britonum, id est, Atbret Iudeu. Solus autem Catgabail rex Guenedote regionis cum exercitu suo evasit de nocte consurgens: qua propter vocatus est Catgabail Catguommed.

Eegfrid filius Osbiu regnavit novem annis.

In tempore illius Sanctus Cudbertus episcopus obiit in insula Medeaut.

Ipse est qui fecit bellum contra Pictos et corruit ibi.

[P]enda filius Pybba regnavit decem annis.

Ipse primus separavit regnum Merciorum a regno Nordorum, et Onnan regem Easter Anglorum et sanctum Osuualdum regem Nordorum occidit per dolum. Ipse fecit bellum Cocboy, in quo cecidit Eoua filius Pippa frater ejus rex Mercionum et Osuuald rex Nordorum, et ipse victor fuit per diabolicam artem. Non erat baptizatus et nunquam Deo creditit.

A.D.

444

Annus i.

C.

516

Annus lxxii. Bellum Badonis in quo Arthur portavit crucem Domini nostri Jesu Christi tribus diebus et tribus noctibus in humeros suos et Britones victores fuerunt.

521

Annus lxxvii. Sanctus Columcille nascitur. Quies Sancte Brigide.

537

Annus xciii. Gueith Camlann in qua Arthur et Medraut corruere; et mortalitas in Britannia et in Hibernia fuit.

558

Annus exiv. Gabran filius Dungart moritur.

562

Annus cxviii. Columcille in Britannia exiit.

570

Annus cxxvi. Gildas obiit.

573

Annus cxxix. Bellus Arnterid.

580

Annus xxxvi. Guureci et Peretur moritur.

584

Annus exl. Belluni contra Euboniam.

589

Annus exlv. Conversio Constantini ad Dominum.

596

Annus cli. Columcille moritur.

607

Annus clxiii. Aidan map Gabran moritur.

612

Annus clxviii. Conthigirni obitus.

613

Annus clxix. Gueith Cair Legion, et ibi cecidit Selim filii Cinan, et Jacob filius Beli dormivit.

616

Annus clxxiv. Ceretic obiit.

626

Annus clxxxii. Etguin baptizatus est, et Run filius Urbgen baptizavit eum.

630

Annus clxxxvi. Gueith Meicen, et ibi imperfectus est Etguin cum duobus filiis suis. Catguollaun autem victor fuit.

A.D.

- 631 Annus clxxxvii. Bellum Cantseaul in quo Catguollaan corruit.
- 644 Annus cc. Bellum Cocboy in quo Osuuald rex Nor-dorum et Eoba rex Merciorum corruerunt.
- 656 Annus cxxii. Strages Gaii Campi.
- 657 Annus cxxiii. Pantha occisio.
- 665 Annus cxxxi. Bellum Badonis secundo. Morcant moritur.
- 684 Annus cexl. Terre motus in Eubonia factus est magnus.
- 704 Annus eclx. Dormitacio Adomnan.
- 722 Annus clxxxviii. Beli filius Elfin moritur.
- 728 Annus cclxxxiv. Bellum montis Carno.
- 736 Annus cxcii. Ougen rex Pictorum obiit.
- 750 Annus cccvi. Bellum inter Pictos et Brittones, id est gueith Mocetauc, et rex eorum Talargan a Brittonibus occiditur. Teudubr filius Beli moritur.
- 760 Annus cccxvi. Dunnagual filius Teudubr moritur.
- 776 Annus cccxxxii. Cemoyd rex Pictorum obiit.
- 856 Annus cccxii. Cemoyth rex Pictorum moritur.
- 870 Annus ccccxxvi. Arx Altclut a gentibus fracta est.
- 946 Annus dii. Strat Clut vastata est a Saxonibus.

D.

[R]un map Arthgal	map Cluim
map Dunnagual	map Cursalen
map Riderch	map Fer
map Eugein	map Confer ip-map Dunnagual	se est uero
map Teudebur	olitauc.
map Beli	dimor. me
map Elfin	ton. uendi
map Eugein	tus est.
map Beli
map Neithon	[R]iderch hen
map Guipno	map Tutagual
map Dungual hen	map Clinoch
map Cinuit	map Dumgual hen.
map Ceretic guletic
map Cynloyp	[C]linog Eitin
map Cinhil

16 SAXON AND WELSH ADDITIONS, ETC.

map Cinbelim	map Bran hen
map Dungual hen.	map Dungual moilmuit
[U]rbgen	map Garbaniaun
map Cinmarc	map Coyl hen
map Merchianun	map Guotepauc
map Gurgust	map Tecmant
map Coil hen	map Teuhant
[G]uallauc	map Telpuil
map Laenauc	map Urban
map Masguic clop	map Grat
map Ceneu	map Jumetel
map Coyl hen.	map Retigirn
[M]orcant	map Oudecant
map Coledauc	map Outigir
map Morecant. bulc	map Ebiud
map Cincar braut	map Eudos map Eudelen
	map Aballac
	map Beli

III.

FROM THE TRIPARTITE LIFE OF ST. PATRICK.

X. CENT.

a MS. BODL. RAWLINSON. B. 512.b MS. BRIT. MUS. EGERTON. 93.

FORANIC Patrice fainti isin tir la da mac deace Eircc 7
 ro radi Fergus mor mae Eircc fri Patrice. Dianam airmi-tesi mo brathir oe raind a feraind athoperainsi duitsiu 7
 ro edpart Patrice do epscop Olean in raindsin i. Airther maigi. Aspert Patrice fri Fergus. Cinip mor do brig lat braithri indiu, is tu bes ri. Bid huait rig eu brath isintarsi 7 for Fortrim 7 ised on ro comallad in Aedan mae Gabran ro gab Alban ar eicin. Foracaib Patrice mor do cellaib 7 do conghalaib i erich Dalriata.

TRANSLATION.

Patrick received welcome in that territory [i.e., Dalriada] from the twelve sons of Erc ; and Fergus mor, son of Erc, said to Patrick : If thy venerableness would sway my brother in dividing his land, I would give it to thee. And Patrick granted this division to Bishop Olean of Airthermuighe. Patrick said to Fergus : Though not great is thy land at this day among thy brothers, it is thou who shalt be king. From thee the kings of this territory shall for ever descend, and in Fortrenn. And this was fulfilled in Aedan, son of Gabran, who took Alban by force. Patrick left many of his churches and erections in the territory of Dalriada.

ELEVENTH CENTURY.

IV.

SYNCHRONISMS OF FLANN MAINISTREACH,

MXIV.-MXXII.

a MS. BIB. FAC. JUR. EDIN. KILBRIDE. 28.

b MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF LECAIN.

c MS. BODL. RAWLINSON. B. 512.

III. bliadhna ar xl. o thanic Patraic in Erinn eo cath Ocha.

Fichi bliadhna o ḡath Ocha condechatar clanna Eiree mic Echach Muindremair in Albain .i. se meic Eire .i. da Aengus, da Loorn, da Fergus.

XXIII.¹ bliadhna o chath Ocha co bas Diarmata mic Fergusa Cirrbheoil.

Coic righ for Albain friu sin .i.

Fergus mor mac Eircc.

Oengus mor mac Eircc.

Domangort mac Fergusa.

Comgoll mac Domangoirt.

TRANSLATION.

Forty-three years from the coming of Saint Patrick to Erin to the battle of Ocha.

Twenty years from the battle of Ocha till the children of Erc, son of Echach Muindremhar, passed over into Alban ; viz., the six sons of Erc, the two Anguses, the two Lorns, and the two Ferguses.

Twenty-four [eighty-four] years from the battle of Ocha to the death of Diarmed, son of Fergus Cerbheol (478-565).

Five kings over Alban during this time ; viz.,

Fergus mor, son of Erc.

Angus mor, son of Erc.

Domangart, son of Fergus.

Comgall, son of Domangart.

¹ XXIII. seems written by mistake for lxxxiii.

SYNCHRONISMS OF FLANN MAINISTREACH. 19

Gabran mac Domanguit.¹

VI. bliadhna ar xxx. o bas Diarmata mic Cerbaill co bas Aedha inic Aenmirech.

Da righ don for Albain fri sin i.

Conall mac Comgail 7.

Aedan mac Gabrain. v. bliadhna do Aedan tareisi Aedha mac Aimmirech.

Tri bliadhna lx. o bas Aeda mic Aimmirech co bas Domnaill mic Aeda.

Ceithri righ for Albain fri sin i.

Eocco buide (mac Aedain) 7.

Conad Cerr a mac, is lais adrochair (Fiacha) mac
Deman 7.

Ferchar mac Conaing 7.

Domnall brec mac Ethach buidhe.

Coic bliadhna ar ced o bas Domnall mic Aedha mic Aimmirech co bas Aeda Allain mic Fergaile.

IX. righ don for Albain fri sin i.

Gabran, son of Domangart.

Thirty-six years from the death of Diarmaid, son of Cerball, to the death of Aed, son of Aenmirech (565-598).

Two kings over Alban during this time ; viz.,

Conall, son of Comgall.

Aedan, son of Gabran. Five years to Aedan after Aed, son of Ainmirech.

Sixty-three years from the death of Aed, son of Aimmirech, to the death of Donald, son of Aed (598-642).

Four kings over Alban during that time ; viz.,

Eocco buidhe, son of Aedan.

Conad Cerr, his son ; it was by him that Fiacha, son of Deman, was slain.

Ferchar, son of Conaing.

Donald Brec, son of Ethach Buidhe.

One hundred and five years from the death of Donald, son of Aed, son of Aimmirech, to the death of Aeda Allan, son of Fergal (642-743).

Nine kings over Alban during this time ; viz.,

¹ The preceding part of this of the text is from a, and the names
tract is not legible in a, and is in | within parenthesis are added from inserted from b. The remainder | b and c.

20 SYNCHRONISMS OF FLANN MAINISTREACH.

Conall Crandomna¹ 7.
 Dunchad mac Dubain 7.
 Dondead² Donn 7.
 Duncad³ 7.
 Ferchair Foda 7.
 Echo Rianamhail (mac Aeda Find) 7.
 Ainbheallach mac Ferchair 7.
 Selbach mac Ferchair 7.
 Eochaig Angbaid a meadon flaith.
 Da bliadhna ar xxx. ar ced o bas Aeda Allain co bas
 Aeda Finnleith.
 III.⁴ righ deg don for Albain fri sin i.
 Dungal mac Selbaig 7.
 Alpin (mac Echach) 7.
 Muredac ua Daiti 7.
 Aed Aireatec⁵ 7.
 Fergus⁶ 7.

Conall Crandomna.
 Duncan, son of Dubain.
 Duncan Don.
 Duncan.
 Ferchar Fada.
 Echo Rineamhail, son of Aeda Fin.
 Aincellach, son of Ferchar.
 Selvach, son of Ferchar.
 Eochaig Angbaid to the middle of his chiefship.
 One hundred and thirty-two years from the death of Aeda Allan to the death of Aeda Finnleith (743-879).
 Thirteen kings over Alban during that time ; viz.,
 Dungai, son of Selvach.
 Alpin, son of Echach.
 Muredach, grandson of Daithi.
 Aed Aireatech.
 Fergus.

¹ b and c read Cramgamna.

² b and c read Domhnall more correctly.

³ b and c read Maileuin mac Co-nall, which seems the right reading.

⁴ instead of III, righ deg, b and c have XIII, righ.

⁵ b and c have Airgneach.

⁶ Not in b and c.

Eochoid 7.

Domnall (mac Custantin) 7.

Custantin¹ (mac Fergusa) 7.

Da Conall reime (.i. Conall Caeim 7 Conall aile a bra-thair) 7.

Aengus (mac Fergusa) 7.

Aed (mac Boanta) 7.

Eoganan (mac Aengusa) 7.

Cinaet mac² Alpin, ise cet righ ro gab righe Sgoinde, do Gaidelaib.

VIII. m-bliadhna ar xxx. ar ced o bas Aeda Finnleith co bas Briain mic Cennedig.

Ceithri ri dec³ for Albain fri sin .i.

Domnall mac Alpin.

Custantin mac Cinaeta.

(Aedh mac Cinaedha.)

Girg mac Dungaile 7.

Domnall Dasachtach (mac Custantin).

Eochoid.

Donald, son of Constantine.

Constantine, son of Fergus.

Two Conalls together, Conall Caemh and another Conall, his brother.

Angus, son of Fergus.

Aed, son of Boanta.

Eoganan, son of Angus.

Kenneth, son of Alpin ; he was the first king, who possessed the kingdom of Seone, of the Gael.

One hundred and thirty-eight years from the death of Aeda Finnleith to the death of Brian, son of Cenedig (879-1014).

Fourteen kings over Alban during that time ; viz.,

Donald, son of Alpin.

Constantine, son of Kenneth.

Aedh, son of Kenneth.

Grig, son of Dungal.

Donald Dasachtach, son of Constantine.

¹ b and c place Custantin after the two Conalls, which is preferable.

² Cinaet mac not in b and c.

³ b and c read V. rig dec fifteen kings.

22 SYNCHRONISMS OF FLANN MAINISTREACH.

Custantin mac Aeda 7.
Maelcolaim mac Domnall 7.
Illolb mac Custantin 7.
Dub mac Maelcolaim 7.
Cuillen mac Illiulb 7.
Cinaet mac Maelcolaim 7.
Custantin mac Cuilen 7.
Cinaet mac Dubh 7.
Maelcolaim mac Cinaeta. Finis.

Constantine, son of Aeda.
Malcolm, son of Donald.
Illolb, son of Constantine.
Dubh, son of Malcolm.
Cullen, son of Illolb.
Kenneth, son of Malcolm.
Constantine, son of Cullen.
Kenneth, son of Dubh.
Malcolm, son of Kenneth. Finis.

V.

IRISH AND PICTISH ADDITIONS TO THE “HISTORIA BRITONUM,” MXL.-MLXXII.

A.

a MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF BALLIMOTE.

b MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF LECAIN.

TANGADAR iarsin damh achtor gona loingis go ro
aitreib in Erenn 7 go ro gaib raind mora indte.

Firbolg umorro ro gabsad Manaind 7 ro gabhsat alaile indsi orcheana .i. Ara 7 Ila 7 Recca.

Clanda Gleoin mic Hercoil ro gabsat indsi Orcc .i.
Historend mac Histoirim mie Agom mic Agathirsi ro scailsead doridhisi a h-indsib Orc .i. do coidh Cruithne mac Cinge mic Luctai mic Parthai mic Histoirech co ro gaib tuaiscert indsi Breatan 7 go ro roindsed a secht meic in fearand i seacht randaibh 7 eo ro gaib Onbecan mac
Cait mic Cruithne airdrige na seacht rand.¹

A.

TRANSLATION.

Afterwards came a company of eight, with a fleet, and dwelt in Erin, and took possession of a great portion of it.

The Firbolg, moreover, took possession of Manand and certain islands in like manner, Ara and Ila and Recca.

The children of Gleoin, son of Ereol, took possession of the islands of Orcc, that is, Historend, son of Histoirim, son of Agam, son of Agathirsi, and were dispersed again from the islands of Orcc;
that is, Cruthne, son of Cinge, son of Luctai, son of Parthai, son of Histoirech, went and took possession of the north of the island of Britain, and his seven sons divided the land into seven divisions; and Onbecan, son of Caith, son of Cruthne, took the sovereignty of the seven divisions.

¹ This seems to be the original form of the passage in the Latin D-Nennius, which is manifestly corrupt: “Novissime venit Damli- | “suo usque hodie in Britanniam.
“Istorith lstorini filius tenuit Dal- | “Istorith lstorini filius tenuit Dal-
“rieta cum suis. Buile autem | “rieta cum suis. Buile autem
“cum suis tenuit Euboniam insu- | “cum suis tenuit Euboniam insu-
“uctor et ibi habitavit cum genere | “lam et alias circiter.”

Finach ba flaith Erenn is in re sin ro gabh giallu Cruithneach.

Do cedar umorro coigear do Cruithneachaibh a h-indsibh Orc .i. euig brathar athar Cruithnec eo Frang co go ro cundaighsead cathraigh and .i. Pictavis a h-aium co tangadar doridhiši doeum na h-indsi .i. go h-Erenn go ro badar re ciana ann eo ros dicoirsead Gaedhil dar muir docum a m-brathar.

B.

a MS. R. I. A. DUB. BOOK OF BALLIMOTE.

b MS. R. I. A. DUB. BOOK OF LECAIN.

c MS. TRIN. COLL. DUB. II. 2 17. PART OF BOOK OF LECAIN.

DE BUNADH CRUITHNEACH ANDSEO.

CRUITHNE mac Cinge mic Luchtai mic Parrthalan mic Agnoinn mic Buain mic Mais mic Fathecht mic Jafeth mic Noe.

Ise athair Cruithneach 7 cet bliadhna do irrigie.

Secht meic Cruithneach annso .i. Fib, Fidach, Fodla, Finach was lord of Erin at that time, and took hostages of the Cruthneach.

Five of the Cruthneach of the islands of Ore, moreover, viz., five brothers of the father of the Cruthneach, went to France and founded a city there, viz., Pictavis its name, and came again to the island, that is, to Erin, where they were for a long time, till the Gael drove them across the sea to their brethren.

B.

TRANSLATION.

Of the Origin of the Cruthneach here :

Cruithne, son of Cinge, son of Luchtai, son of Partalan, son of Agnoinn, son of Buain, son of Mais, son of Fathecht, son of Jafeth, son of Noe.

He was the father of the Cruthneach, and reigned a hundred years.

These are the seven sons of Cruithne, viz., Fib, Fidach, Fodla, Fortrend cathach, Cait, Ce, Cirigh. Et secht randaibh ro roindset in fearand, ut dixit Columeille.¹

Moirsheiser do Cruithne clann,
Raindset Albain i secht raind,
Cait, Ce, Cirig, cethach clann,
Fib, Fidach, Fotla, Fortrenn.

Ocus is e ainn gach fir dib fil for a fearand, ut est, Fib

7 Ce 7 Cait 7 reliqua.

XIII. ri dec do gabsad dib.²

Fib xxiiii. bliadhna irrigé.

Fidhach xl. bliadhna.

Fortrem lxx.

Cait da bliadhan ar xx.

Ce xii. bliadhan.

Cirig lxxx. bliadhan.

Aenbecan mac Cait xxx. bliadhan.

Finechta Ix. bliadhan.

Guidid gadbre i. geis i. bliadhan.

Fortrend, warlike, Cait, Ce, Cirig ; and they divided the land into seven divisions, as Columcille says :—

Seven children of Cruthne
Divided Albán into seven divisions.
Cait, Ce, Cirig, a warlike clan,
Fib, Fidach, Fotla, Fortrem.

And the name of each man is given to their territories, as, Fib, Ce, Cait, and the rest.

Thirteen kings of them took possession.

Fib reigned twenty-four years.

Fidhach, forty years.

Fortrem, seventy.

Cait, twenty-two years.

Ce, twelve years.

Cirig, eight years.

Aenbecan, son of Cait, thirty years.

Finechta, sixty years.

Guidid gadbre, that is, geis, one year.

¹ b has, amail adbert in t-rolach, as the learned man said.

² This line in b only.

Gest gurid xl.

Urges xxx. bliadhan.

Brude pont xxx. rig uad¹ 7 Bruide adberthea fri gach fir dib 7 randa na fear aile; ro gabsadar .l. ar. c. ut est illeabraig na Cruithneach.

Brude pont.

Brude urpont.

Brude leo.

Brude uleo.

Brude gant.

Brude urgant.

Brude gnith.

Brude urgnith.

Brude feth.

Brude urfeichir.

Brude cal.

Brude ucal.

Brude cint.

Brude urecint.

Brude feth.

Brude urfeth.

Brude ru.

Brude ero.

Brude gart.

Brude urgart.

Brude cind.

Brude urecind.

Brude nip.

Brude uruip.

Gest gurid, forty.

Urges, thirty years.

Brude pont, thirty kings of them, and Bruide was the name of each man of them, and of the divisions of the other men. They possessed an hundred and fifty years, as it is in the books of the Cruithneach.

Brude pont, etc.

¹ a. and c. read ri ulad kings of Ulster.

Brude grith.
Brude urgrith.
Brude muin.
Brude urmuin.

C.

MS. BODL. LAUD. 610.

Bruide urmuin. Regnaverunt cl. annis ut diximus 7 ro boe Albo eetrig fria re huile eo h-aimsir Gud cet ri ro gab Albain h-uile tri chomairli no ar cicin. Atberut araile comad he Cathluan mac Catmind no gabad rige ar eicin hi Cruthentuaith 7 in Eirind i. lx. bliadain 7 iar sin ro gab
Gud i. l.^a

Tarain c. annis regnavit.
Morleo xv. annis regnavit.
Deocillimon xl. annis regnavit.
Cinioiod mac Arteois vii. annis regnavit.
Deort l. annis regnavit.
Blieb'lith. v. annis regnavit.
Deototreie frater Tui xl. annis regnavit.
Usconbutis xx. annis regnavit.
Crautreie xl. annis regnavit.
Deordiuois xx. annis regnavit.
Uist l. annis regnavit.
Ru. c. annis regnavit.
Gartnait bole. iiiii. annis regnavit.
Gartnait ini ix. annis regnavit.
Breth mac Buthud iiiii. annis regnavit.
Uipo ignaviet xxx. annis regnavit.
Canutulahina iii. annis regnavit.

C.

TRANSLATION.

^a And Alban was without a king all that time, till the period of Gud, the first king who possessed all Alban by consent or by force.
Others say that it was Cathluan, son of Caitmind, who possessed the kingdom by force in Cruthintuath and in Erin for sixty years, and that after him Gud possessed fifty years.

Uuradech uetla, ii. annis regnavit.

Gartnait diuperr, ix. annis regnavit.

Talorc mac Achiuir, lxxv.

Drust mac Erp c. annis regnavit 7 cet cath rogni.^b Nono decimo anno regni eius Patricius sanctus episcopus ad Hiberniam pervenit insolam.

Talorc mac Ainel iiiii. annis regnavit.

Nectan morbrec mac Erip xxiiii. annis regnavit. Tertio anno regni eius Darlugdach abbatissa Cille Dara de Hibernia exultat pro Christo ad Britaniam, secundo autem anno aduentus sui immolavit Nectonius anno uno Apurnige Deo 7 sancte Brigte precente Darlugdach que cantavit alleluia super istam.

Drest Gurthimoth xxx. annis regnavit.

Galan arilith xv. annis regnavit.

Dadrest i. Drest filius Giron 7 Drest fin Budros xv. annis regnaverunt.

Drest fin Giron solus v. annis regnavit.

Gartnait fin Giron vii. annis regnavit.

Cailtarni fin. Girom uno anno regnavit.

Talorg filius Murtholoic xi. annis regnavit.

Drest filius Munaith uno anno regnavit.

Galam cennaleph iiiii. annis regnavit.

Cum Bridino iº anno regnavit.

Bruide mac Meleon xxx. annis regnavit. In octavo anno regni eius baptizatus est a Sancto Columba.

Gartnait f. Domech xi. annis regnavit.

Nectan nepos Uerb xx. annis regnavit.

Ciniath filius Lutrin xix. annis regnavit.

Gartnait mae Uuid v. annis regnavit.

Talorc frater eorum duodecim annis regnavit.

Talorean filius Enfreth iiiii. annis regnavit.

Gartnait filius Donuel vi. annis regnavit 7 dimidium anni.

Drust frater eius vii. annis regnavit.

Brude filius File xxi. annis regnavit.

^b And fought a hundred battles.

Taran filius Enfidaig iiiii. annis regnavit.
 Brei filius Derelei xi. annis regnavit.
 Nechtan filius Derilei x. annis regnavit.
 Drest γ Elpin conregnaverunt v. annis.
 Onuis filius Urguist xxx. regnavit.
 Brete filias Uurgut xv. annis regnavit.
 Ciniod filius Uuredeg xii. annis regnavit.
 Elpin filius Uuroid vi. annis γ dimidio regnavit.
 Drest filius Talorcen i^o anno regnavit.
 Talorcen filius Druisten iiiii. vel. v. annis regnavit.
 Talorcen filius Oinuist xii. γ dimidio annis regnavit.
 Canaul filius Tang v. annis regnavit.
 Constantin filius Uurguist xxx.v. annis regnavit.
 Uidnuist filius Uurguist xii. annis regnavit.
 Drest filius Constantin γ Talore filius Uuthoil iii. annis conregnaverunt.
 Unen filius Unuist iii. annis regnavit.
 Uurad filius Bargoit iii. annis regnavit γ .
 Bred i^o anno regnavit.
 Cinaed filius Alpin xvi. annis regnavit.
 Domnall filius Alpin iiiii. annis regnavit.
 Custantin filius Cinaeda xx. annis regnavit.
 Aed filius Cinaeda ii. annis regnavit.
 Giric mac Dungaile xi. vel. iii. annis regnavit.
 Domnull filius Constantin xi. annis regnavit.
 Custantin filius Aeda xl. annis regnavit.
 Maelcolaim filius Domnaill ix. annis regnavit.
 Culen filius Ildoilb filii Constantin iii. annis regnavit.
 Cinaed vel Dub filius Maelcolaim vii. annis regnavit.
 Culen filius Ildoilb iiiii. annis regnavit.
 Cinaed filius Coluim xxiiii. annis regnavit.
 Custantin filius Culean i^o γ dimidio.
 Cinaed filius Dnib viii. annis regnavit.
 Maelcoluim filius Cinaeda xxx. annis regnavit.
 Donnehad hwa Maelcolaim vi. annis regnavit.^c

^c Duncan, grandson of Malcolm, reigned six years.

Macbethad mac Fin mic Laig xvi. annis regnavit.

Luluch v. mis.

Maelcolaim mac Donnchatha iarssin.^d

D.

a MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF BALLIMOTE.

b MS. TRIN. COLL. DUBL. H. 2. 17. PART OF EBOOK OF LECAIN.

DO CRUITHNEACHAIB INCIPIT.

A tir Traicia tra tangadar Cruithnigh i. elanda Gleoin mic Ereoil iad. Aganthirsi a n-anmanda. Seisinr brathar tangadar toiseach i. Solen, Ulfa, Nechtan, Drostan, Aengus, Letend. Fatha a tiachtana i. Policornus ri Traigia do rad gradh da siuir co ro triall a breth gan tocra. Lodar iar sin tar Romanchu co Frangeu et eumtaigit sit cathair ann i. Pictavis a pictis i. o n-armtaibh. Ocns do rat ri Frange gradh dia shiur. Lodar for muir iar n-deg in t-sheiseadh brathar i. Leiteind. I eind da laa iar n dul for muir atbath a siur. Gabsat Cruithnigh inbher Slaine in Uibh Ceindselaigh. Atbert riu Cremhthand Sciatbheth ri ^d Macbeth, son of Fin, son of Laig, reigned sixteen years.

Luluch five months.

Malcolm, son of Duncan, thereafter.

D.

TRANSLATION.

Of the Cruthneach incipit.

The Cruthneach came from the land of Thracia: that is, they are the children of Gleoin, son of Ereol. Agathirsi was their name. Six brothers of them came at first, viz., Solen, Ulfa, Nechtan, Drostan, Aengus, Leithenn. The cause of their coming: Policornus king of Thrace fell in love with their sister, and proposed to take her without a dower. They after this passed across the Roman territory into France, and built a city there, viz., Pictavis, a pictis, that is, from their arms, and the king of France fell in love with their sister. They put to sea after the death of the sixth brother, viz., Leithinn, and in two days after going on the sea, their sister died. The Cruthneach took possession of Inbher Slaine in Uibh Cennselaigh. Crimthann Sgiathbheth, king of Leinster, said Laighen do beradh failti doibh ar dichur Tuaithe Fidhbha. Adbert Drostan drui Cruithneach i. bleagon vii. xx. bo find do dhortugh m-baille is fearfaidh in cath. Do ronnadh indi sin 7 do ronnadh in cath doibh i. cath Ardleamhnacha in Uibh Ceindselaigh. Gach aen no ghontis no laighedh is in leamnacht ni cumgadh a neimh ni do neoch dibh. Ro marbh-tha dan iartain Tuatha Fidhbha. Marb ceathrar do Cruith-neachaibh iar sin i. Drostan, Solen, Neachtan, Ulfa. Gabais. Gub 7 a mac i. Cathluan neart mor a n-Erenn gor indarbadar Erimhoin 7 go tarda mna na fear ro baitea immaile fri Dond doibh i. mna Breisse 7 Buanaisse 7 rl.

Anais sheiser dibh os Breaghmaigh. Is uaidibh gach geiss 7 gach sen 7 gach sreodh 7 gotha en 7 gach mana. Cathluan ba h-airdri orro uili 7 is e cet ri ro gabh dibh a n-Albain. lxx. righ dibh for Albain o Chathluan gu Constantin 7 is e Cruithneach deidhenach ros gabh. Da mac Cathluain i. Catinolodhor 7 Catinolachan. In da churaidh Im mac Pern 7 Cind athair Cruithne. Crus mac Cirigh a that he would give them welcome on the expulsion of the Tuatha Fidhbha. Drostan, the Druid of the Cruthneach, ordered that the milk of seven score white cows should be spilled when the battle should be fought. This was done, and the battle was fought by them, viz., Ardleamhnacha, in Ibh Ceianselaigh. Every one when they were wounded used to lie down in the new milk, and the poison did not injure any of them. The Tuatha Fidhbha were then slain. Four of the Cruithneach afterwards died, viz., Drostan, Solen, Nechtan, Ulfa. Gub and his son, Cathluan, acquired great power in Erin, until Herimon drove them out, and gave them the wives of the men who had been drowned along with Domn, viz., the wife of Bress and Buanaisse, etc.

Six of them remained over Breaghmuigh. From them are every spell, and every charm, and every sreod, and voices of birds, and every omen. Cathluan was sovereign over them all, and he was the first king of them who acquired Alban. Seventy kings of them over Alban from Cathluan to Constantin, and he was the last Cruthneach that possessed. The two sons of Cathluan were Catinoladar and Catinolachan. The two champions, Im, son of Pern, and Cind, the father of Cruithne ; Crus, son of Cirigh, their milidh. Uaisnemh a filidh. Cruithne a ceard. Domnall mac Ailpin is e toisech go ro marb Britus imni Isicon. Clanna Neimhidh ro gabsat iar m-Britus i. Iarglun. Cruithneach ro gabsat iar sin iar techt doibh a h-Erenn. Gaedil imorro ro gabsat iar sin i. meic Eire mic Eachdhabh.

Crnithnigh eid¹ dos farelam

I n-iath Alban n-amhra ?

Go n-a m-brigh bil beldha²

Cia tir as nach tarlla ?³

Cia foconn fos ro gluais

O ericaib in cogaidh ?

Cia lin long as teagar.

Fri snim tond do lodar ?⁴

Cia slondud fria tiachtain.

Do riachtaín na righe ?

As a n-airm fadhe.⁵

Is cia n-airm a tire ?

soldier ; Uaisnemh, their poet ; Cruithne, their artisan. Donald, son of Alpin, he was the first, till Britus, son of Isaacon, slew him. The clan Neimhidh possessed after Britus, viz., Iarglun. The Cruithneach possessed after that, after they had come from Erin. The Gael possessed after that, viz., the sons of Ere, son of Eachdach.

The Cruthneach, who established them

In the land of noble Alban ?

With glorious illustrious might

From what region did they come ?

What cause also moved them

From the countries in war ?

In what number of ships did they embark

And set out to traverse the waves ?

How were they named before they came

To attain their sovereignty ?

From their own weapons,

What was the name of their country ?

¹ Cul in b only.

² b reads belya.

³ b reads targa.

⁴ b reads :—

Fri snim tond dor sreathar.

Cia lin long do lodar.

⁵ b reads bodene.

Traicia aimm a tire,
 Go sire a seolta,
 Iar na thairciul teachta,
 A n-airthiur na h-Eorpa.

Agantirsi a n-anmann
 Am rand Erchtbhi.¹
 O ceaptardi a cuctli
 Adbertar eid Picti.

Picti in aieme at raibh
 Ros taitne teacht muir,
 Gan gnim n-deireoil n-dodchaidh.²
 Sil n-Geleoin³ mac Ereoil.

H-uadibh⁴ seisear brathar,
 Fri lathar gan liun,⁵
 Do shere blad go sood,
 In seachtmadh a siur.

Thracia was the name of their country,
 Till they spread their sails,
 After they had resolved to emigrate,
 In the east of Europe.

Agathyrsi was their name
 In the portion of Erchbi.
 From their tattooing their fair skins
 Were they called Picti.

The Picts, the tribe I speak of.
 Understood travelling over the sea,
 Without mean, unworthy deeds,
 The seed of Geleoin, son of Ereoil.

Six brothers of them
 With alacrity, unflinchings,
 For glory's sake set out ;
 The seventh was their sister.

¹ b reads Ercail-ithi.

³ b reads Ebolchoin.

² b reads :—

Ced gnum n-Ercail n-otchaidh
The hundred deeds of mighty Ercail.

⁴ b reads H-uathir.

⁵ b reads lind

Solen, Ulpa, Neachtain,
 Drostan, dechtain dretell,
 A n-anmand, a n-aebdus,
 Aengus 7 Leitend.

Lan ri Traigia treabhtha,
 Do dechra¹ a siuir sochla,
 Ro bo damna deabhtha,
 Gan tarba, gan tochra.

Tangadar lea in deigh-fhir,
 O thiribh, o treabhaibh,²
 Lucht nae³ long go lornudh,
 Nonbhur ar tri cedaibh.

Cingset seach ann erichu⁴
 Frangen, fiachu failgis,
 Gnid⁵ eathraighe arm aiblis
 D-iar ba aimm Pictabis.

Solen, Ulpha, Neehtain,
 Drostan the powerful diviner,
 Were their names and their order,
 Aengus and Leithenn.

The absolute king of populous Thrace
 Sought their lovely sister,
 It was the cause of conflict,
 Without gift, without dowry.

They came away with her, the good men,
 From their lands, from their houses,
 A company of nine ships in good order,
 Three hundred and nine persons.

They passed through the countries
 Of France, they cut down woods,
 They built a city, with their many weapons,
 Which was named Pictabis.

¹ b reads do cheothra, admired.

² b reads tredaibh, flocks.

³ b reads tri, three.

⁴ b reads tuind erichl.

⁵ Gnid added from b.

Pictabis a Pictis
 Abertis a cathraigh.
 Ba slonnudh slan sochraidh,
 Iarum dar sin rath-muir.

Ri ro char a siur,
 Tre gliadh go n-airge,¹
 Di foconn a ferge,
 A to[th] fund² for fairge.

For tracht mara meadhbhaidh
 Long lealaigh lucht lathair.
 Anais ar a feisuir³
 Accu⁴ in seiseadh brathar.

Badar in Pictave,
 Go⁵ n-grane Dia n-glenail,
 A n-ainm ro bo aedha,⁶ Aimu irraba Elair.

Pictabis a Pictis
 They named their city.
 It remained a good and free name
 Afterwards upon the fortress.

The king sought their sister
 By battle valiantly,
 And in consequence of his anger,
 They were driven upon the sea.

On the shore of the sea was shattered
 A ship swift sailing well manned,
 There remained, as we know,
 With them, the sixth brother.

They were in Pictave,
 With success attaching to them.
 Their name was renowned
 At the place where Elair was.

¹ b reads n-guirge, fiercely.

² A dtothfudh in b.

³ a reads seisuir.

⁴ Acin in b.

⁵ G in a

⁶ b reads f'hada, long

Elaid ass a chele,
 Co n-dhene fo diud,
 Cind da la gach lachtu,¹
 Atbath accu a siur.

Seach breatnaibh na reimini,
 Co h-Erinn na h-aime,
 Ro toghsat a tindremh
 Gobhsat inber Slaine.

Sligsit sluag fea² foglach,
 Dia fognam i nemni,³
 Tria a n-glundu⁴ garga,
 I cath Arda-leamhacht.

Laich angbaidhe, amble,⁵
 Fea faidbhe fudar.⁶

They stole away thence together
 In haste, under sorrow,
 At the end of two tempestuous days,
 Their sister died with them.

Passing by Britain in their voyage,
 To Erin the delightful
 They directed their course,
 And reached Inver Slaine.

They cut down the plundering host of Fea,
 Who were aided by poison,
 By their fierce deeds,
 In the battle of Ardleamnacht.

The heroes, valiant and numerous,
 Cut down knotty woods,

¹ b reads :

Cinto lu eo lochta
 From the fault of a stormy day.

² Fua in b only.

³ From b, a reads :—

Dia foguadh a n-deimhnacht.

⁴ a reads Drion a n-gluyniu.

⁵ b reads faidbe, cutting.

⁶ b reads :—

eo ngairbe re pudur, with roughness, with hurtfulness.

Gona danaibh go n-dhechraibh,¹
Do bhreadhnaibh a bunadh.

Ba marb nech no sectis,²
Acht teilgeis a fhuile,
Go bom tru doennc,³
Cidh en no cidh dune.

Drui Cruithneach in cardais,
Fuair ic amuis amlaidh,
Lemlacht is iunaladri
An a-thamall for tamail.⁴

Tugtha tainte treabh-clann,
La Cremhtand eoir cenn-bale,⁵
Co tomhlacht an aicmidh,⁶
For fraichthi⁷ Ardleannacht.

With wonderful arts,
From the Britons their origin.

Dead was every one they followed,
If but his blood they shed,
So that he wasted away on that account,
Whether a dog or whether a man.

A Druid of the Cruithnech, of friendship,
Discovered a cure for the wounded,
New milk in which were washed
In powerful bathing.

The herds of the tribes were brought,
By just Cremthand the headstrong,
Until the herd was milked
On the green of Ardleannacht.

¹ b reads co namib co n-decrab.

Those who lay upon the earth.

² b reads theiglis, struck,

³ b reads C'ebhale.

⁴ b reads con bo tru de sen e.

⁶ b reads a rach nem.

The meaning is the same.

¹ b reads :—

fri thonnoth for teluetin.

⁷ Not in b.

Slaigseat¹ sluagh Fea febach,²
 Gan treibh is gan tobach,³
 Ro chobhradh don tuath⁴ gliaidh,
 Creuntand sciathbel scorach.

Sguirsit ann in Cruitnigh,⁵
 Fri tuirtib tri maige,⁶
 Comdar ecla faebair⁶
 Na n-Gaedil⁷ go n-gloine.

Gar iar sin go n-apadhl⁸
 Cethur blathach brathan,⁹
 Solen, Neachtan,¹⁰ Drostan,
 Aengus, fosdan fathach.

They ent down the host of Fea Febach,
 Without peopling and without wresting,
 Protected by the host of battle,
 Was Crimthan Sciathbel of horses.

The Crníthnech settled themselves
 On the lands of the three plains.
 Until dread of their arms
 Had seized the noble Gael.

Soon after that died
 Four of the noble brothers,
 Solen, Nechtan, Drostan,
 Aengus, the prophetic pillar.

¹ In a Sligfeat.

² b reads Faebach, of sharp weapons.

³ b has gan trebad is gan torul without tillage and without produce.

⁴ b has dia n-dith, by their defeat.

⁵ b reads :—

Cuirid and tri maigi
Nu Crúithnigh eo u-gairi,

On the three plains planted
 The Crníthnigh with prosperity.

⁶ Faebar from b, a has abil.

⁷ b has Gaeigil.

⁸ b reads co-n gabad.

⁹ b has brathan bladach.

¹⁰ From b. a reads incorrectly Uphut.

Ro faith a n-dheas Ulfa,
 Iar n-urchra a charad,
 In a charnn¹ i m-Breagaibh,
 And ro meadair² malart.

Morthar³ occaib Cathluain,
 Nir bo a truag aire,
 Do rig foraibh uile
 Ria n-dul a tir n-aile.

Ar asbert friu⁴ Erimon
 As in Erin seachtar,⁵
 Ar na dearn dais⁶ deabaidh,
 Immon Teamair tectaidh.

Tri cet ban do breatha
 Doibh, ros tetha⁷ tlathaigh,
 Cidheadh ro bo tuachail,
 Gach bean go n-a brathair.

From the south Ulfa was sent,
 After the death of his friends,
 In his Carn in Bregia,
 Did he meditate a curse.

Cathluan was elevated by them,
 No despicable chieftain,
 As king over them all,
 Before they set out to another country.

For to them spake Erimon,
 Out of Erin they should go,
 Lest they should make battle,
 For Teamhar as a possession.

Three hundred women were given
 To them, they were agreeable,
 But they were most cunning,
 Each woman with her brother.

¹ b reads In Ruchraind, in Rachrin.

² b reads mebad.

³ b reads marbhfar, was killed.

⁴ b has A dubrad riu.

⁵ a repeats Erimon instead of Erin, which is obviously the reading,

⁶ b gives the line thus, sin n-

Eriind sin n-citair.

⁶ Dais not in b.

⁷ a reads cethet for tetha.

Badar ratha forro,¹
 Frid rennu² fri dire,
 Conidh soire a mathar,
 Ro gnath gabh³ irrighe.

Rerdair as in n-Erinn,
 Ina reimim rath-glind,
 Gen mureir, gan marc luag,
 Im Cathluan mac Caitmind.⁴

Cath-molodhor enap cruaidh.⁵
 Is Cath-machan enap gluair,⁶ Bhadar gilli⁷ glordha,
 Da meic crodha Cathluain.

A coraidh cruaidh commart,
 Ba dorm⁸ bale a thoirm seomh,

There were oaths imposed on them,
 By the stars, by the earth,
 That from the nobility of the mother,
 Should always be the right to the sovereignty.

They set out from Erin,
 On their oath-bound expedition,
 Without families, without cavalry,
 With Cathluan son of Caitmin.

Catmoladar the hard knobbed,
 And Cathmachan the bright knobbed,
 Were glorious youths,
 The two valiant sons of Cathluan

His hardy puissant champions,
 Strong their blows and their trampling,

¹ a reads erru for forro.

⁵ b reads elechtis for enap cruaidh.

² b reads demnu for rennu.

⁶ b reads enap ruaid, red

³ a reads gnathaigh for gnath knobbed.

gabh.

⁷ b inserts glant, pure.

⁴ a reads Caitnith.

⁸ b reads trom, heavy.

Cing cocerrnn dia cerrn-seomh,
Im mac Peirnn a h-ainm-seom.

H-Uaisem¹ ainm a file,
No sired insed-gin,²
Ro bo rus dia milidh,
Crus mac Cirigh Cetlim.³

Cruithne mac coir Cinca
Doibh ro thinchta tochmorc⁴
Co tue bannetrocht m-blath-glan,
Dar Athmaig⁵ dar Athgort.

Anait dibh a n-Ealga,⁶
Go lin cerda is curach⁷
Na ro ceised⁸ breagmach
Seisear demnach druadh.

Cing, victorious in their victories,
Im son of Pernn their names.

Huasem was the name of his poet,
Who sought out the path of pleasuretry.
Ruddy was his hero,
Crus son of Cirigh Cetlim.

Cruithne son of just Cing
Attended to their courtship,
So that he brought a company of fair women,
Over Athmagh, over Athgort.

There remained of them in Ealga,
With many artificers and warriors
They would not leave Breagmach,
Six demonlike Druids.

¹ b reads h-Uaisneam.

² b reads set gean.

³ b reads cheilem.

⁴ This line from b, a reads *Ro
tine a thcochmor*

⁵ Not in a.

⁶ a n-Ealga from b. a has Melgo.

⁷ curach from b. a has eruan.

⁸ b reads naid cesaid for.

Druidheacht is idlacht, maith,
 In aile min glan¹ mur glan,²
 Bare dibeirgi duan gil,
 Is uaidibh³ ro munadh.

Moradh sred⁴ is mana,
 Raga sin am sona,⁵
 Gotha en do faire
 Cairi gach eool econa.⁶

Cnuic as choirthe⁷ archora,
 Cen troga tuath taille,
 Ro rotogsat⁸ a tindremh,
 Gabsat⁹ inber m-Bhoinde.

Ba headh¹⁰ lodar h-uaine
 Go-n-għnaire na gribhe,

Necromancy and idolatry, illusion,
 In a fair and well-walled house,
 Plundering in ships, bright poems
 By them were taught.

The honouring of sredhs and omens,
 Choice of weather, lucky times,
 The watching the voice of birds,
 They practised without disguise.

Hills and rocks for the plough,
 Their sons were no thieves,
 They prepared their expedition,
 They reached Inver Boinne.

They passed away from us,
 With the splendour of swiftness,

¹ a reads marc min hale.

² a reads glas dibh ga.

³ b reads uaidibh.

⁴ sred in b. a reads sléagh.

⁵ From b. a has Rogha sen wi.

sonat.

⁶ From b. a has Chaire gan cel

eona.

⁷ b has coirei.

⁸ b reads tuargħiġset.

⁹ b reads Sund a.

¹⁰ b reads Ba h-Eadar, by Edar.

Imma iath¹ co drene
I tir iath seach² Ile.

Is as gabsat Albain,
Ardglain ailes thoirthiu,
Cen dith lucht³ la trebltu
O chrich Chath⁴ co Foirciu.

Ro bris Cathluain cathu
Gen tachu cen techtu,⁵
Nir bo ingarg tuchtu⁶
Co ro marb Breatnu.

Ba de gabsat Albain
Ard-glain talcain tlach-min,⁷

To dwell by valour
In the land of the country beyond Ile.

From thence they conquered Alba,
The noble nurse of fruitfulness.
Without destroying the people
From the region of Cat to Forehu.

Cathluan gained battles,
Without flinching or cowardice,
His onsets were not without fierceness
Until he had slain the Britons.

Thus did they conquer Alban
Noble, gentle hilled, smooth surfaced,

¹ b reads tuigh.

² i.e., Scotland. b for tir iath seach reads tir meisceach, the beautiful land; but the reading in a is more in accordance with history.

³ a reads lucht.

⁴ a reads chrichath.

⁵ a reads la trebltu.

¹ ⁶ a reads tuicin.

⁷ b gives these two lines:—
Ba de gabsad Cruithnig
Albain tarthig tlacht min.

Thus did the Cruithnig ac quire

Alban the fruitful, the smooth-surfaced.

Co n-imad Amlaebh,¹
Co Chinaeth mac n-Ailpin.

Ar creachadh n-ard n-aicnайдh,
For aitchibh een uchneim
Ni celldar in cochlaigh
As de adberar Cruithnigh.²

Coeca righ ceim crechach,
Mar aen do sil Echdach,
O Feargus ro firad,
Co mac m-brigach m-bhretach.

Se riga ar se deichib,
Dibh fri feithim ful crech.
Carsat sithe suichlech,
Gabsat rige Cruithneach.

Cruithnigh dos iarelam.³

To many Amlaebhs,
To Cinaeth son of Alpin.

For plundering known places,
And greens without remorse,
For not practising inactivity,
For this they are called Cruithneach.

Fifty kings of plundering career,
Every one of the race of Eochaigh,
From Fergus, most truly,
To the vigorous MacBrethach.

Six kings and six times ten
Of them, who attended to bloody plunder,
They loved merry forays,
They possessed the kingdom of the Crnithneach.

The Cruithneach established

¹ b has Ercod amlael. The remaining two stanzas are in a.
² This line is hopelessly corrupt in b, only.

both copies.

³ A repetition of the first line, which always marks the termination of a poem.

² The poem ends here in b. The termination of a poem.

E.

MS. TRIN. COLL. DUBL. II. 2.17, PART OF BOOK OF LECAIN.

Do chuaidh o macaib Milead Cruithnechan mac Lochit mac Ingi la Breatnu Foirtren do chathugud fri Saxain 7 ro chosain tir doib Cruithentuaith 7 anais fen aeo. Acht ni badar mna leo, ar bebais bandthrocht Alban. Do huid iarum Cruithnechan for culu do cum mac Miled 7 ro gab neam 7 talam 7 grian 7 esca, drueht 7 daithi, muir 7 tir ba do maithriu flaith forro co brath 7 do bert da mna dee foreraidi badar oc macaib Milead aro bate a fir is in fairrge tiar ar aen re Donn conad do fearaib h-Erind flaith for Cruithnib o sin dogres.

F.

a MS. TRIN. COLL. DUBL. II. 2. 18, BOOK OF LEINSTER.

b MS. TRIN. COLL. DUBL. II. 2. 17, PART OF BOOK OF LECAIN.

CAN a m-bunadas na n-Gaedel
Gair cloth n-gledend?

E.

TRANSLATION.

Cruithnechan, the son of Lochit, son of Ingi, went over from the sons of Mileadh to the Britons of Fortrenn to fight against the Saxons ; and he defended the country of Cruithentuaith for them, and he himself remained with them. But they had no women, for the women of Alba had died. And Cruithnechan went back to the sons of Mileadh, and he swore by heaven and by earth, and the sun and the moon, by the dew and the elements, by the sea and the land, that the regal succession among them for ever should be on the mother's side ; and he took away with him twelve women that were superabundant with the sons of Mileadh, for their husbands had been drowned in the western sea along with Donn ; so that the chiefs of the Cruithneach have been of the men of Erin from that time ever since.

F.

TRANSLATION.

Whence the origin of the Gaedhl
Of high renown in stiff battles !

Canas tarla¹ tondgur dilend
Dochum u-Erend?

Citne in ferand² in ro threbsat
Tuirfer fene
Cidh dos fue i terce tire
Do fhuinind grene.

Ciarso thucait rodos fogluais
Rem do thastiul,³
In do theched, no in do cenach,
No ind gasciud?

Ciad e as dilsiu doib for dhomun
Ind a taedin
Dia n-anmmigud in a n-atreb⁴
Seuitt no Gaedil.

Whence did the mighty stream of ocean
Waft them to Erin?

What was the land in which they lived
Lordly men, The Fene?
What brought them for want of land
To the setting of the sun?

What was the cause that sent them forth
Upon their wanderings?
Was it in flight or for commerce
Or from valour?

What is the proper name for them,
As a nation,
By which they were called in their own country,
Seuitt or Gaedhil?

¹ b reads Can dos rala.

² b reads Cessi urraund, what was the division.

³ These two lines thus in b.—

Ciatsi tucait in ro fogluais
Rem iar taistuil.

⁴ These three lines thus in b:—

O'e diae asa disliu daib

Tindiu taiden

Dia n-anmmigud ina u-dairnib.

Ciamdis Fene atbertha
 Do anmand doib
 Aeus Gaedel andos gleid
 Can dosroid.¹

Cidne remend fossa robdar
 Rinch fergach ?
 No eia mac do maccab Miles
 Cuis a m-bearrthar ?²

[Thirty-nine Stanzas omitted.]³

Rue Cruithne mac Cinge a mna uadib.
 Rossar⁴ n-direch
 Inge Tea ben h-Erimon
 Mic Miled.

Mor saethair cesait uili
 For each mh-buadre

Why was Fene said to be
 A name for them ?
 And Gaedhil—which is the better,
 Whence was it derived ?

What adventure were they upon
 In their angry course ?
 Or what sons of the sons of Milidh
 Are they to be traced to ?

[Thirty-nine Stanzas omitted.]

Cruthne, son of Cing, took their women from them,
 It is directly stated,
 Except Tea wife of Herimon
 Son of Milesadh.

Great labour did they all undergo
 In every tumult

¹ This stanza in b :—
Cetis fine asa m-beardais
Friu mhu oinim doib
Ocus in Gaeilil rus gleig
Can dos rodig.

² This stanza is in b only

These stanzas contain a curious account of the wanderings of the Milesians from Scitia till they landed in Ireland ; but it has no bearing upon Scotland.

³ b reads Lereb.

La mna Bresse, la mna Basse,
La mna Buaigne.

Banba a sleib Miss eo na shluagaib
Sirinc tuislech¹
Fotla in Eblinne asnac hEriu in Uisnrich.

Adocorsat Tuatha Dea
Triu chert clitach,²
O tir tidach³ dar noi tonnail
Don lir lethán.

Ro gab⁴ h-Erimon colleith in tshluraig
Iar n-urd tolgdai
Timehell atuaid ba gen merge⁵
D'inber Cholpthai.

With the wife of Bress, with the wife of Bass
With the wife of Buaigne

Banba at Sleibh Mis with her hosts,
Faint, wearied :
Fotla at Eibhlinne, murmuring.
Eire at Uisneach.

The Tuatha Dea sent them forth,
According to the laws of war,
From the firm land over nine waves
Of the proud sea.

Hermion went forth with half the host
In proud array,
Round the north, it was without sorrow,
To Inbher Colptha.

¹ b reads scréach tuislead.

³ b reads o thir thaithlech,

From the pleasant land.

² b reads tre chert chrechach,

⁴ b reads luid, went.

with plundering might.

⁵ b reads bain ean merge.

Ro gab Dond do sin leith aile
 Iar n-urd innais
 Ba marb ic ascenam cen chomais¹
 Descert h-irrais.

Co tuarebad² corn la lia a cheneoil
 As lir lethach³
 Sen treb tontech⁴ conid tech Duinn
 De don garar.

Ba h-esin a h-edacht abbul⁵
 Dia chlaind chetaich
 C'uecum dom tie tissaid uili
 Iar bar n-eaib.

Ic Inbiur Scene ro saurset
 Seel cen dunad
 Sruth dian dermar in ros fhothraie
 Fial ben Lugdach.

Donn went with the other half
 In progressive order,
 He died as he was sailing, without strength,
 At the south of Irrus.

There was raised a cairn with the stone of his race,
 Over the broad sea,
 An ancient stormy dwelling : and Tech Duinn,
 It is ealled.

This was his great testament
 To his numerous children,
 To me, to my house, come ye all
 After your deaths.

At Inhber Scene they landed
 The story is not concealed
 The rapid great stream in which bathed
 Fial, wife of Lughadh.

¹ b reads tunguis.

³ b reads soutech, bold.

² b reads ar torbad.

⁵ b reads Combaí tetacht abbul

⁴ b reads auishe ar laimtheach.

Luid Eremon do Inber Boinde
 Faitoirm n-dene,
 Gabais Emer o sar Duind
 Do Inber Feile.¹

Ros dailset fo h-Erind oraig,
 Mar atberid,
 Gniiset cora fri Firn Bolg,
 Fri cland Nemid.

Nis batar mma soirbe soire,
 Ce a noglea,²
 Ar n-gait³ a m-ban gabsat cleannas
 Tuath Dea.

Do breth⁴ doib leth cech forba,⁵
 Co muiр medbas,⁶
 Iar sin charddine choir chomdes,⁷
 Iar sin cleannas.

Herimon went to Inber Boinde
 With impetuous endeavour,
 Heber took from noble Donn
 To Inber Feile.

They spread themselves thro' Erin, to her coasts,
 As is recorded,
 They made an alliance with the Firbolg,
 With the clan Nemhedh.

There were no charming noble wives
 For their young men.
 Their women having been stolen, they made affinity
 With the Tuatha Dea.

Unto them was given the half of each territory
 To the boisterous sea,
 After this just and jndicious alliance,
 After this affinity.

¹ This stanza in b only.

² b reads Ciu ro ngleit.

³ b reads Tardgart.

⁴ b reads Dorata.

⁵ a reads arba.

⁶ b reads meblas.

⁷ b reads :—

Iar sin chairt michair m chombris.

Ro gab¹ h-Erimon in tuascert
 Du dia ciniud,²
 Co na sencus, co na solud,³ Co na n-dligud.

Co na n-dunib, co na cathaib,
 Gairge regthe,
 Co na n-debthaige tria oibhne,
 Co na cethre.⁴

Ro gab Eber desert n-Erenn,
 Ord ro chinnius,
 Co na utmaille, co na chomnus,⁵
 Co na binnius.

Co na buadaib, co na h-uile,⁶
 Co na aege,⁷

Herimon took the north
 As the inheritance of his race,
 With their antiquity, with their prosperity,
 With their rights.

With its fortresses, with its troops,
 Fierce, active ;
 With their rash fights,
 With their cattle.

Eber took the south of Erin,
 The order was agreed on,
 With its activity, with its power,
 With its harmony.

With its victories, with its grandeur,
 With its hospitality,

¹ b reads gabais.

With its pride, with its wars,

² b reads Cona chinead,

Shouts of distress

With his race.

With its failures from its rashness

³ b reads tholuch.

With its wings.

⁴ b reads :—

Cona duimas, cona chadhai,

⁵ b reads cen chomas, without

Gairchur cigni

power.

Cona theipthich tria opni

⁶ b reads umla, humility.

Cona citri.

⁷ b reads fhcigi.

Co na dersaide tria dure,¹
Co na chaine,² co na dene.³

[The rest omitted.]⁴

G.

MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF BALLIMOTE.

GABAS Saran rigi mBretan iartain γ gabais neart Saxon γ Cruithneach γ tug do shetigh ingean righ Alban .i. Babona ingean Loairnd mic Eire γ ni h-i ro naisced do acht a siur .i. Erc inghean Loairnd gor trulla la Muiredhach mac Eoghain mhic Neill co h-Erind γ eo rue ceithri macu do .i. Muirceartach mac Erc a γ Fearadhach γ Tighearnach γ Maian.

Clanais umorro Saran Babona co ro tuismeadh leo .u. meic .i. Luirig γ Cairnech γ Epscop Dallan γ Caemlach γ atbail iar coseur γ iar m-buaidh i taigh Martain.

With its vivacity, with hardness,
With its loveliness, with its purity.

[The rest omitted.]

G.

TRANSLATION.

Saran assumed the sovereignty of Britain after this, and established his power over the Saxons and the Cruthneach, and he took to wife the daughter of the king of Alban, viz., Babona daughter of Loarn, son of Erc, and it was not she that was married to him but her sister, viz., Erc, daughter of Loarn, until she eloped with Muredach, son of Eoghan, son of Niall, to Erin, and she bore him four sons, viz., Mureertach mac Erc, and Feradach, and Tighearnach, and Maian.

Saran moreover had issue by Babona, and there were begotten by them five sons, viz., Luirig and Cairnech, and Bishop Dallain, and Caemlach, and he died after victory and after triumph, in the house of Martan.

¹ b has een duiri, without harshness.

² not in b.

³ b has fille, festivity

⁴ The rest of the poem contains a list of the tribes in Ireland, descended from the sons of Milesius.

Luirig imorro ro gab iar sin go n-erecht a neart for Saxana 7 con n-era catair foirechmeach i uail mainistrech Cairnich .i. a brathair. Muirecartach mac Ercia in tan sin i uail rig Breatan ig foglaim gaisceidh iar na dichur a h-Erind ar na Crossana do marbadh 7 iar na dichor iartain a h-Albain ar marbadh a seanathar .i. Loairnd rig Alban; conas tarla do coisearcadh a arm in tan sin eo Cairndech eo mac deirbhhsheathar a mathar; eo n-ebairt Cairnech ris bod rig Erenn 7 Bretan tu chaidhchehi 7 do gebha neamh iardain acht eo n-dichuirea Luirig do neart ata for in n-eclais. Andsin luigh mac Ercia ga righ 7 atbert a h-aithease iar ruachtain .i. Na eunthaig do chathair i uail Cairnich ep scop. Dar mo De bhruth ar Luirich as calma form in peata aighi alltai fil aicei andas fein 7 in Coimhde dia n-adhair. Teid mac Ercia fria chulu Cairnech iartain agus sloridis a h-aithease. Gabais fearg mor Cairnech dothain 7 dixit m-itchi romechoimdit rom Dia co rop in adbur na h-aighi sin ro gaba bas 7 leatsu a mic Ercia. h-Erailis Cairneach annsin ar mac Ercia techt do dichur a brathar 7

Luirig moreover took after this, so that he extended his power over the Saxons, and forcibly built a fort within the precincts of the monastery of Cairnech his brother. Murecertach mac Ercia happened to be at the time with the king of Britain, learning military science, after he was expelled from Erin, for having killed the Crossans, and after having been subsequently expelled from Alban, for having killed his grandfather, Loarn, king of Alban. It happened that he was at the time getting his arms consecrated by Cairnech, the son of his mother's sister; then Cairnech said to him, Thou shalt be king of Erin and of Britain for ever, and shalt go to heaven after, provided thou caust prevent Lairig from exercising his power against the Church. Then MaeErcia went to the king, and after he came, he told his message, viz., Build not thy city in the precincts of Cairnech the Bishop. As God is my judge, said Luirig, I think more of the power of the pet wild fawn he has, than of his own, or that of the Lord God whom he adores. MacErcia returned to Cairnech and told him the result. Great wrath suddenly seized Cairnech, and he said, My prayer to my Lord, to my God, is, that that very fawn may be the cause of his death, and by thee, O MacErcia gabais dothain ar aedh comrac ⁊ na huidh di h-erail Cairnich do dichur in righ. Co n-dearna Dia mor mirbhуili ar Cairneach andsin i cor fhaedh agh n-allaligh as in t-sleibh co h-aerecht ind righ gor derlair in shnagh na dhiaidh ach in righ gona bandalaibh; ⁊ dixit Mac Erc mat cialla chach a tigearna frit clereach daig bud fulli gach aimnedh lene in cumthachta fri Luirigh. Andsin suidis Mac Erc in lorg catha i slis in righ cor comtrom; ⁊ curthaid ga clerigh ⁊ cend lais re comartha ⁊ dixit cend do brathar duid a Cairnie; et dixit Cairneach leic damsas an enaimh ⁊ tomailsiu in smir ⁊ rofia gac treas comarba sund eo brath ⁊ in Erind.

Techtais geill ⁊ neart in tiri annsin ⁊ Cairnech fri secht m-bliadhna im mor rigi Bretan ⁊ Cat ⁊ Orc ⁊ Saxon.

Co n-dearna Mac Erc fuillind in peccaidh i. bean Luiric do tabairt iar cathagad ⁊ iar comlengaibh co mor fri righ Frange a cosnam a ingene fris co n-dorchair ic Mac Erc Cairnech then commanded MacErc to go forth and destroy his brother, and he immediately took upon himself to fight him, and he went forth at the command of Cairnech to destroy the king. And God worked a great miracle there for Cairnech, viz., He sent a wild fawn out of the mountain into the king's assembly, and the host all went in pursuit of it, except the king himself and his women. And said MacErc, If you had been just, my lord, towards your Cleric, it is certain that it would give increased happiness to have the royal robe on Luirig. Then MacErc thrust his battle staff into the king's side, so that it was balanced, and he returned to his cleric with the head with him as a token, and said, Here is thy brother's head for thee, O Cairnech. And said Cairnech, Leave me the bone, and eat thou the marrow, and every third Coarb shall be thine for ever, here and in Erin.

Then he took hostages and power in the land, and Cairnech, for seven years, as also the sovereignty of Britain, and Cat, and Orc, and Saxony.

MacErc committed an additional sin, that is, he took the wife of Luirig after many battles and conflicts with the king of France, to take his daughter from him; until at last the daughter fell into MacErc's hands, and she bare him four sons, fodheoidh in ingen 7 eu rue ceithri meic do i. Constantin 7 Gaedheal Ficht o taat ruirigh Bretan 7 rig Breatan Cornd; Nellend a quo gens Nellan 7 Scandal in mac ele a quo gens Scandail i. a n-Eirinn o tait clanna na desi sin.

Co ndernad mor-thinol clerech n-Eorpa eo Torinis Martin .i. secht n-espucie .xxx. ar. ccc. ma comarba Peadair do saighidh Cairnich epsecop Toirindsi 7 Bretan cornd 7 na n-uili Breatnach do dichur eacha h-eirsí 7 do cheartugndh gacha tiri immurt na h-ecalsa; 7 adrophart condacht martra in beatha do Chairnech ar rob e a thogha beatha martra; 7 fuair Cairnech ill. epsecop do thoghmar mar mailli re Cairndech dia n-eletri 7 do choidh in Lien da h-eilithri i. a dualus Mic Ercá 7 Muireadaig.

Do luidh Cairndech reimhe go Bretnaibh Cornd no Carnticeon 7 ro cumdaigead cathoir fo talmain lais ar doigh na faicidh se tir na tahumh na h-eoir; cor fuissestair nert 7 righi Mic Ercá re bliadhna 7 eo tainic co n-Eirind remhe conadhbh h-e eet epsecop claindi Neill 7 Temrach 7 gor viz., Constantine, and Gaedel Ficht, from whom descend the provincial kings of Britain, and the kings of Cornwall, Nellen from whom the Gens Nellen, and Scandal the other son, from whom the gens Scandal. It is in Erin the descendants of the two last are.

Now a great synod of the clergy of Europe was made at Tours of Martin, viz., three hundred and thirty-seven bishops with the Coarb of Peter to meet Cairnech, bishop of Tours and of Cornwall, and of all the Britons, to cast out every heresy, and to reduce every country to the discipline of the church. And the chieftainship of the martyrs of the world was given to Cairnech, because martyrdom was his own choice. And Cairnech found thrice fifty bishops, who made it also their choice to accompany Cairnech in pilgrimage, and that number went to Lien in pilgrimage for the sake of Mac Ercá and Muredach.

Cairnech then set out to the Britons of Cornwall or of Carnticeon, and a city was built by him under ground, in order that he might not see the earth, nor the country, nor the sky; and he increased the power and sovereignty of MacErcá for a year, and he went to Erin before him, so that he was the first bishop of the Clann Neill and of Temhar, and he was the first martyr and bhe ced mairtir 7 ced manach Erend 7 cetna bretheamh fear n-Erend fos

Cor chaithaidhsedar umorro Frainge 7 Saxain dia eis fri Mac Erca 7 gor togladh a crich 7 a cathair re cian
d-aimsir 7 gor milleadh erichadh 7 cumachta na tiri ba neassa do re mete a chumhachta 7 a nert; 7 go tanic iar sin a mor longeas do gabail righi na h-Erend; go deisidh ie Fan na long for Boind gor loiscthe lais a longa i.
gonadh uadha Fan long 7 gor marbad coigedhaigh na
h-Erend iartain 7 go ro gaib a righi do dhiles eo brath do fein 7 da chloind. Gor milleadh cumachta 7 neart Bretan dia h-eisi indsín.

the first monk of Erin, and the first Brehon of the men of Erin also.

Now after this the Franks and Saxons made war against Mae-Erca, and he destroyed their country and their cities after a long contest, and the country, and the power of the territories adjacent to him were also destroyed by the greatness of his power and of his strength, and after this he came with a large fleet to take the sovereignty of Erin. He landed at Fan-na-long, on the Boyne, when he burned his ships, from which comes the name Fan-na-long, and he killed the provincial kings of Eriu afterwards, and took their sovereignty by right for ever for himself, and for his descendants. And then the power and strength of Britain was destroyed after him.

VI.

THE DUAN ALBANACH, MLXX.

MS. R. I. A. DUBL. M'FIREIS.

AEOLCHA Alban uile,
 A shluagh feuta foltbhuidhe,
 Cia ceud ghabhail, an eol duibh,
 Ro ghabhasdair Albanbruigh.

Albanus ro ghabh, lia a shlogh,
 Mac sen oirderc Isicon,
 Brathair is Briutus gan brath,
 O raitear Alba eathrach.

Ro ionnarb a brathair bras,
 Briotus tar muir n-Ieht n-amhmas,
 Ro gabh Briutus Albain ain,
 Go rinn fhiadhmaech Fotudain.

O all ye learned of Alban,
 Ye well skilled host of yellow hair,
 What was the first invasion—is it known to you?
 Which took the land of Alban?

Albanus possessed it, numerous his hosts,
 He was the illustrious son of Isacon,
 He and Briutus were brothers without deceit,
 From him Alban of ships has its name.

Briutus banished his active brother
 Across the stormy sea of Ieht,
 Briutus possessed the noble Alban
 As far as the conspicuous promontory of Fotudain.

Foda iar m-Briutus m-blaith, m-bil,
 Ro ghabhsad clanna Nemhidh,
 Erglan iar tteacht as a loing,
 Do aithle thoghla thuir Conuing.

Cruithnigh ros gabhsad iarttain,
 Iar ttiachtain a h-Ereann-mhuigh,
 .X. righ tri fichit righ ran
 Gabhsad diobh an Cruithean-chlar.

Cathluan an eed righ dioblh-soin,
 Aisnedhfead daoibh go cumair,
 Rob e an righ degheanach dhibh
 An cur calma Cusaintin.

Clanna Eathach ina n-diaigh,
 Gabhsad Albain iar n-airdghliaidh.
 Clanna Conaire an chaomhfhair,
 Toghaidhe na treun Ghaoidhil.

Long after Briutus the prosperous, the good,
 The raee of Neimhidh took it,
 Erglan, after coming out of his ship,
 After the destruction of the tower of Conung.

The Cruithnigh took it afterwards,
 After coming from the plain of Erin,
 Seventy noble kings of them
 Possessed the Cruithnian plain.

Cathluan was the first king of them,
 I tell unto you briefly,
 The last king of them was
 The brave hero Cusantin.

The children of Eochadh after them
 Took Alban, after great wars,
 The children of Conaire, the mild man,
 The chosen of the strong Gaill.

Tri mec Erc mec Eachdach ait,
 Triar fuair beannachtair Patraice,
 Ghabhsad Albain, ard a n-gus,
 Loarn, Fearghus is Aonghus.

Dech m-bliadhna Loarn, ler bladh,
 I fflaitheas Oirir Alban,
 Tar es Loarn fhel go n-gus,
 Seacht m-bliadhna ficheat Fearghus.

Domhangart mac d'Fearghus ard,
 Aireamh cuig m-bliadhan m-biothgarg,
 A .xxiiii. gan troid,
 Do Comghall mac Domhangort.

Da bhliadhan Conaing gan tair,
 Tar es Comhghaill do Gobhran,

The three sons of Erc son of Eochaidh, the valiant,
 Three who obtained the blessing of Patrick,
 Took Albain, exalted their courage,
 Loarn, Feargus and Aongus.

Ten years Loarn, it is known to fame,
 In the government of Oirir Alban.¹
 After the generous courageous Loarn,
 Seven and twenty years, Feargus.

Domangart son of noble Feargus,
 Numbered five turbulent years.
 Twenty-four without a battle,
 To Congall son of Domangart.

Two prosperous years without contempt,
 After Congall, to Gabran.

¹ Oirir Alban was a name applied to the districts on the west coast of Inverness-shire and Argyll-shire. It was divided into Oirir an tuath and Oirir an deas, the northern and southern Oirirs.

Tri bliadhna fo euig gan roinn
Ba ri Conall mac Comhghoill.

Cethre bliadhna ficheat tall
Ba ri Aodhan na n-iol-rann,
Dech m-bliadhna fo¹ seacht, seol u-gle,
I fflaitheas Eathach buidhe.

Connchadh Cearr raithe, rel bladh,
A. xvi. dia mac Fearchar,
Tar es Fearchair, feaghaidh rainn,
.xiii. bliadhna Domhnaill.

Tar es Domhnaill bric na m-bla,
Conall, Dunghall .x. m-bliadhna,
.xiii. bliadhna Domhnuill duinn
Tar es Dungail is Chonull.

Three years five times, without interruption,
Was king, Conall son of Comgall.

Four years and twenty in possession
Was Aodhan king of many divisions.
Ten years and seven, a glorious career,
In the sovereignty, Eochaidh Buidhe.

Connehead Cearr, a quarter, renowned in fame,
Sixteen, his son Fearchar,
After Fearchar, inspect the poems.
Fourteen years, Domnall.

After Domnall breace, of the towns,
Conall, Dungall, ten years,
Thirteen years Domnall donn,
After Dungall and Conall.

¹ Fo is here obviously written in mistake for ar.

Maolduin mac Conaill na ecreach
 A. xvii. do go dlighteach,
 Fearchair foda, feagha leat,
 Do chaith bliadhain ar .xx.

Da bliadhain Eachdach na-n-each,
 Ro ba calma an ri rightheach,
 Aoin bliadhain ba flaith iarttain,
 Ainceallach maith mac Fearchair.

Seacht m-bliadhna Dunghail dein,
 Aeus a ceathair do Ailpen,
 Tri bliadhna Muireadhiogh mhaith,
 .xxx. do Aodh na ardfhlaith.

A ceathair ticeat, uir fhann,
 Do bhliadhnaibh do chaith Domhnall,
 Da bhliadhain Conaill, cem n-gle,
 Is a ceathair Chonall ele.

Maolduin son of Conall of forays,
 Seventeen years legitimately,
 Fearchar the long, behold thou,
 Passed one year over twenty.

Two years, Eochaidh of steeds,
 He was brave, the king of royal mansions,
 One year was chief afterwards,
 Ainechallach the good son of Fearchair.

Seven years, Dungal the impetuous,
 And four to Alpin,
 Three years, Muireadhach the good,
 Thirty to Aodh the high chief.

Four-and-twenty, not imbeeile,
 Of years spent Donnall,
 Two years, Conall, of glorious career.
 And four, another Conall.

Naoi m-bliadhna Cusaintin chain,
 A naoi Aongusa ar Albain,
 Cethre bliadhna Aodha ain,
 Is a tri deug Eoghanain.

Triocha bliadhain Cionaoith chruaidh,
 A ceathair Domhnall drechruaidh,
 .xxx. bliadhain eo na bhrigh,
 Don churadhl do Cusaintin.

Da bhliadhain, ba daor a dath,
 Da brathair do Aodh fhionnseothach,
 Domhnall mac Cusaintin chain,
 Ro chaith bliadhain fa cheathair.

Cusaintin ba calma a gheac,
 Ro chaith a se is da fhicheat,
 Maolcoluim cethre bliadhna.
 Iondolbh a h-ocht airdriaghla.

Nine years, Cusantin the fair,
 And nine, Aongus over Alban,
 Four years, Aodh the noble,
 And thirteen, Eoganam.

Thirty years, Cionaoith the hardy,
 Four, Domhnall of the ruddy countenance,
 Thirty years, with his vigour,
 To the hero, to Cusantin.

Two years, hard was his complexion,
 To his brother, to Aodh of white flowers,
 Domhnall son of Cusantin the fair,
 Reigned a year four times.

Cusantin, brave was his combat,
 Reigned six and twicce twenty.
 Maoleoluim, four years,
 Indolbh, eight of supreme sovereignty.

Seacht m-bliadhna Dubhoda den,
 Aeus a ceathair Cuilen,
 A .xxvii. os gach cloinn,
 Do Cionaoth mac Maolcholuim.

Seacht m-bliadhna Cusaintin eluin,
 Aeus a ceathair Macdhuibh,
 Triochadh bliadhain, breacaid rainn,
 Ba ri Monaidh Maolcolaim.¹

Se bliadhma Dounchaid glain gaoith,
 .xvii. bliadhna mac Fionnlaoich,
 Tar es Mecbeathaidh go m-blaidh,
 .vii. mis i fhaithios Lughlaigh.

Maoleoluim anosa as ri,
 Mac Dounchaidh dhata dhrechbhui,

Seven years, Dubhoda the vehement,
 And four, Cuilean,
 And twenty seven, over every clann,
 To Cionaoth son of Maoleoluim.

Seven years, Cusantin, listen !
 And four, Maednibh,
 Thirty years, verses mark,
 Was king of Monaidh, Maoleoluim.

Six years, Domnehad the wise,
 Seventeen years, the son of Fionnlaoch,
 After Maebeathadh, the renowned,
 Seven months in the lordship, Luglaigh.

Maoleoluim is now the king,
 Son of Domnehad, the florid of lively visage,

¹ Monaidh is applied to great mountain ranges in Scotland, as Dunmonadh, the capital of Dal riada, and is therefore left unruadh, and the Monadh mor or translated.

A rc noch a n-fidir neach,
 Acht an t-eolach as eolach.
 A eolcha.¹

Da righ for chaogad, cluine,
 Go mac Domnehaidh drech ruire,
 Do shiol Erc ardghlain anoir,
 Gabsad Albain, a eolaigh.

His duration knoweth no man
 But the wise one, the most wise.
 O ye learned.

Two kings over fifty, listen,
 To the son of Donnchadh of royal countenance.
 Of the race of Erc, the noble, in the East,
 Obtained Alban, O ye learned.

¹ The repetition of the first words of the poem marks its original termination, and the stanza which follows must have been a later addition.

VII.

FROM THE CHRONICLE OF MARIANUS
SCOTUS, MLXXVIII.

MS. VATICAN NO. 830, AS PRINTED IN PERTZ.
MON. GERM. HIST. SCRIPT. V. 5, PP. 556-558.

A.D.

1034. MOELCOLUIM Rex Scotiae obiit 7 Kal. Decembr. Donechad, filius filie ejus, sibi successit annis 5, mensibus 9.
1040. Donnchad rex Scotiae in autumno occiditur (19 Kal. Sept.) a duce suo Macbethad mae Finnloech, cui successit in regnum annis 17.
1050. Rex Scottiae Macbethad Romæ argentum pauperibus seminando distribuit.
1057. (Macfinlaeg occiditur in Augusto. Lulag successit et occiditur in Martio; cui Moelcol. successit.) Moelcoluim filius Donchaed regit Scottiam. (Donchad regnavit annis 5 hoc est a missa sancti Andreæ ad eandem et insuper ad nativitatem sancte Marie. Inde Macfinlaeg regnavit annis 17 ad eandem missam Sancte Marie. Lulach a nativitate sanctæ Mariæ ad missam sancti Patricii in mensi Martio regnavit. Inde Moelcolum regnavit annis 20 usque ad missam sancti Patricii.)

VIII.

FROM THE ANNALS OF TIGHERNAC, MLXXXVIII.

MS. BODL. RAWLINSON, B. 488.

A.D.

- 501 K. i. [k. ii. 501] FEARGUS Mor mac Earca cum gente Dalraida partem Britanniae tenuit ¶ ibi mortuus est.
- 504 K. vi. [k. v. 504] Cath Manand la h-Aedhan mic Gabrain.^a
- 505 K. i. [506] Bass Bruidi mic Macleon Ri Cruithnch.
Bass Domanguirt mic Nissi Righ Alban.^b
- 508 K. iii. [508] Cath Arda-coraind.^c
- 520 K. iii. [520] Buitte mac Bronaig obit. Colamchille natus est de quibus dictum est.
Gen chain Colaim an cleirig,
Indiu os Erin colraig,
For acn lith ni rugh nuabair,
Bas bain buadhaig mie Bronaigh.^d
- 536 K. i. [534] Nativitas Baithine dalta^e Choluimchille.

TRANSLATION.¹^a The battle of Manan by Aedan, son of Gabrain.^b The death of Bruidi, son of Maeleon, king of the Cruithneeh.
The death of Domangart, son of Nissi, King of Alban.^c The battle of Ardeorain.^d The beloved Columba the elerk is born,
This day in Ireland the most learned,
On the same festival, I do not speak ignorantly,
With the fair triumphant death of the son of Bronaig.
^e fosterchild.

¹ The passages in Irish are alone translated. The Irish words, cath battle, bas death, Ri king, la by, itir between, often occur in sentences the rest of which are in Latin. It has not been thought necessary always to translate these words.

- 538 K. v. [537] Comgall mac Domanguirt Rig Alban obit
xxx. suo anno regni sui.
- 560 K. i. [k. ii. 557] Bass Gabrain mic Domanguirt Ri Alban. Teicedh do Albanchaib ria m-Bruidi mic Maelchon Ri Cruithnecch.^f
- 563 K. i. [562] Navigacio Columcilli ad insulam Je etatis sue xlii^o.
- 570 K. ii. [k. iii. 569] Gillas quievit.
- 574 K. vii. [k. vi. 572] Bass Conaill mac Comgaill Ri Dalriada
xiii. anno regni sui qui oferavit Insolam Ja Colaimcille.
Cath Delgon a Cindtire in quo Dunchadh mac Conaill mic Comgaill γ alii multi de sociis filiorum Garbain ecciderunt.
- 577 K. iii. [575] Primum periculum Ulad an Eamain. Cuthlocha da Eiges.
- 578 K. iv. [576] Abarversio Ulad de Umania.
- 580 K. vii. [578] Cendaeladh Rex Pictorum mortuus est.
- 582 K. i. [579] Cath Manand in quo victor erat. Aedan
mac Gabrain mortuus est. Feargna mac Caiblene mortuus
est. Baidan mac Cairill Ri Uladh obit.^g
- 583 K. ii. [580] Cath Manand in quo victor erat Aedan
mac Galhran. mors Fergna mac Caiblene agus isc a fhir.^h
- 584 K. iii. [k. iv. 581] Mors Bruidhe mac Maelchon Rig Cruithnecach.
- 588 K. iii. [586] Conversio Constantini ad Dominum et nix magna.
- 589 K. iv. [587] David *Cillmuine.*¹
- 590 K. v. [588] *Cath Leithrig la h- Aedhan mic Gabrain.*ⁱ Obitus Lughdach Lismoir.
- 592 K. i. [590] Obitus Lugdach Lissmoir .i. Moluoc.

^f The death of Gabrain, son of Domangart, King of Alban. Flight of the Albanich before Bruide, son of Maelecon, King of the Cruithne.

^g Baidan, son of Cairill king of Ulster, died.

^h and that is true.

ⁱ Battle of Leithrig, by Aedan, son of Gabran.

¹ Cillmuine the Irish name of Menevia or St. Davids.

- 595 K. iiiii. [k. v. 593] Quies Coluimcelle in nocte Dominica Penticosten v. Id. Iuni anno perigrinacionis sue xxxv; etatis vero lxxvii.

*Teora bliadhna bai cen less
Colum in a duib regless.
Luid eo h-aingliu as a cacht
Iar vii m-bliadhna seethmogal.*^j

Bass Eogain mae Gabrain.

- 596 K. vi. [594] Cath Ratha in druadh γ eath Ardsendoim. Jugulacio filiorum Aedan, i. Bran γ Domangort γ Eochach find γ Artuir i eath Chirehind in quo victus est Aedhan γ eath Coraind.

- 598 K. i. [596] Quies Baethin Abbatis Ea anno lxvi etatis sue.

- 599 K. ii. [k. iii. 597] Bass Gartnaidh Regis Pictorum. Saxanaig do dul cum credim.^k

- 600 K. v. [599] Cuth Saxanum la h-Aedan ubi cecidit Eanfraich frater Etalfraich la Macluma mac Baedain in quo victus erat.

- 605 K. iii. [603] Obitus Lasren Abbas Iea.

- 606 K. ivii. [604] Bass Aedhain mae Gabrain anno xxxviii regni sui, etatis vero lxxiiii.

- 608 K. vii. [606] Bass Fiachrach chraich mic Baedan la Cruithnachu.^l

- 611 K. ii. [608] Neman Abbas Lesmoir.

- 613 K. vi. [611] Cath Caire Legion ubi Sancti occissi sunt et cecidit Solon mac Conain Rex Bretannorum γ Cetula rex cecidit. Etalfraidh victor erat qui pro statim obit.

^j Thirty years without dispute was Columba in his dark monastery ;
He passed with the angels out of the body
After seven years and seventy.

^k The Saxons come to the faith.

^l The death of Fiachrach chraich, son of Baedan by the Piets.

617 K. iii. [615] Combustio Domnain Ega hi xv. kalendas Mai cum clericis martiribus et vastatio Toraighe.

621 K. ii. [619] Duncadh mac Eoganain et Neethan mac Canand et Aed obierunt. Hoc tempore constructa est ecclesia Toraidhi. Cath Cindelgthen in quo ceciderunt da mie Libren mie Illaind mie Cerbaill. Conall mac Suibne victor erat et Domnoll breacc cum eo. Conaing mac Aedain mie Gabrain dimersus est. Bimudine eiceas cecinit.

*Tonda mara morglan
Grian rodotoicsitar,
Ma crach, fleachadh find
For Conaing cond coscatar.
In bean rola a mong find,
In churac fri Conaing,
Iacd ro tibi agen
Andiu fri Bili tortan.^m*

Bass Fergna Abbas Iae.

624 K. vi. [622] Bass Adomnain Abbatis Hie.

625 K. i. [624] Baptismum Etun mie Elle qui primus ereditid in regionibus Saxonum.

627 K. ii. [k. iii. 625] Cath Airdcoraind in Dailriada; Lacht-nene mac Toirbene Abbach victores erant in quo cecidit Fiachna mac Demain la Connadh Cerr Ri Dalriada. Visio Fursii ostensa est.

629 K. v. [627] Cath Fedhaeoin in quo Maeleraith mac Scan-dail Rex Cruithniu victor erat. Dalriada cecidit. Connadh Cerr Rex Dalriada cecidit 7 Dieuill mac Eachach Rex Ceneoil Cruithne cecidit 7 nepotes Aedan ceciderunt, id est, Rigullan mac Conaing 7 Failbe mac Eachach 7

^m The resplendent billows of the sea,
The sun that raised them,
My grief, the pale storms
Against Conang with his army;
The woman of the fair locks
Was in the curach with Conang;
Lamentation for mirth with us
This day at Bili Tortan.

Oisiric mac Albruit Righ domna^u Saxon cum strage maxima suorum. Eocha Buidhi mac Aedain victor erat in quo cecidit Guaire Gaillsech mac Forannai.

- 630 K. vi. [628] Bass Conaing Chirr ut alii dicunt anno primo regni sui qui victus est in cath Fhedhaeoin. Bas Ailli Ri Saxon.
- 631 K. vii. [k. i. 629] Cath itir Etuin mac Ailli Regis Saxonum qui totam Britanniam regnavit, in quo victus est a Chon Regi Britonum γ Panta Saxano.
Bas Cinaetha mac Luchtren Regis Pictorum.
- 632 K. ii. [630] Cath la Cathlon γ Anfraith qui decollatus est, in quo Osualt mac Etalfraith vicerat γ Catlon Rex Britonum cecidit. Inis Metgoit¹ fundata est.
- 633 K. iii. [631] Cath Iudruis Ri Bretun qui in eo cecidit.
- 635 K. iii. [632] Seigine Abbas Je Ecclesiam Recharnn fundavit. Congregatio Saxonum contra Osualt. Eocha Abbas Lismoir quievit.
Cath Seghuisse in quo cecidit Lochene mac Nechtain Cennfota γ Cumaseach mac Aengusa.
- 638 K. i. [635] Cath Glinne Mairison in quo muindert Domhnall bricc do tcichel^o γ obsessio Etain.
- 639 K. ii. [636] Cath Osualt contra Planta in quo Osualt cecidit.
- 642 K. v. [638] Domhnall breec in cath Srathacauin^p in fine anni in Decembre interfectus est xv regni sui ab Ohan rege Britonum. Cath Ossueius inimun^q γ Britones.
- 643 K. vi. [639] Cath Cindeon, loscadh iar n-Duidb mac Gartnaidh^r.
- 645 K. i. [k. ii. 641] Lochene mac Fingen Ri Cruithne mortuus est.

^u future king.

^o The battle of Glenmairison, in which the people of Donald bree were put to flight.

^p the battle of Stratheauin.

^q between him.

^r The battle of Cindeou, the burning afterwards of Duibh, son of Gartnaidh.

¹ Inis Metgoit was the Irish name for Lindisfarne.

- 650 K. i. [646] Cath Ossu fri^s Pante in quo Panta cum xxx regibus cecidit. Bass Catasaigh mac Domhmail briec.
- 651 K. vi. [650] Quies Aidain Episcopi Saxon.
- 652 K. Obitus Seghine Abbas Iea .i. filii Fiachna.
- 653 K. Bass Ferich mac Totalain. Ectolaig mac Fooith Regis Pictorum.
- 654 K. Cath Sratha Ethairt re Tolartach mac Anfrait Rig Cruithne i torchair Duncall mac Conaing & Congal mac Ronain.^t Aed Roin mac Mailcobha mortuus est.
- 656 K. Cath Pante regis Saxorum in quo ipse cum xxx regibus cecidit. Ossiu victor erat.
- 657 K. . Quies Suibne mac Cuirthre Abbatis Iea. Cath Delend in quo interfectus est Maelded mac Conaing. Bas Tolarcain mac Ainfrith Ri Cruithne.^u
- 660 K. . Obitus Fmain mac Rimeda Episcopi & Daniel Episcopi Cindgaradh. Conall Crandamna mortuus est. Eoganan mac Tuathalain mortuus est.
- 663 Kl. Mors Gartnaith mac Domnaill Rig Cruithnach & Domhnaill mac Tuathalain & Tuathal mac Morgainn.
- 664 Kl. Terre motus in Britannia.
- 668 Kl. Navigatio Colmani Episcopi cum reliquis sanctorum ad insolam Vacce Albe in quo fundavit Ecclesiam & Navigatio filiorum Gartnaith ad Iberniam cum plebe Seith.
- 669 Kl. Obitus Cumaiue Ailbe Abbatis Iea. & Critan abbatis Benchair. Itharnan & Corindu apud Pictores defuncti sunt.
- 670 Kl. Jugulatio Maillduin nepotis Ronain. Venit gens Gartnait de Hibernia. Mors Duncada nepotis Ronain.
- 671 Kl. Mors Ossu mac Etilbrith Ri Saxon. Macluba in Britanniam navigat.
- 672 Kl. Expulsio Drosto de regno & combustio Benmchair Britonum.
- 673 K. l. Guin Domainguit mic Domhnill briec Ri Dail-

^s against^t The battle of Strath Ethart by Tolartach, the son of Anfrait, King of the Cruithne, in which Duncan, the son of Conan, and Congal, the son of Ronan, were slain.^u The death of Tokarean, son of Ainfrith, King of the Picts.

- riuta.*^v Navigatio Failbe Abbatis Iea in Hiberniam. Maclrubia fundabit ecclesiam Aporcrosan. Combustio Muighe Luinge.
- 675 Kl. Mors ix. mic Dainel. Mors filii Pantea.
- 676 Kl. Failbe de Hibernia revertitur. Comgal mac Maileduin et filii Scandail γ Urthuile jugulati sunt.
- 677 Kl. Beccan Ruimean quievit in insula Britannia.
- 678 Kl. Etir Ferchairs fectio generis i. fotai γ Britones qui victores erant Loairn *itir inn.*¹ Bass Drosto mic Domnall. Cath i Calitros in quo victus est Domhnall breace.^w
- 679 Kl. Quies Failbe Abbatis Iea. Dormitacio Nechtain.
- 680 Kl. Cath Saxonum ubi cecidit Almuine filius Ossu.
- 681 Kl. Bass Conaill chail mic Dunchadh i Cinltire. Bass Sechnusaigh mic Airmidhaig γ Conaing mic Congall.^x
- 682 Kl. Orcadeis delete sunt la Bruidhe.
- 683 Kl. Dormitacio Airmedhaigh na Craebe.
- 686 Kl. Cath Duin Nechtain xx^o die mensis Maii Sabbati die factum est in quo Ecfrit mac Ossu Rex Saxonum, xv anno regni sui consummato magno cum caterva militum suorum interfectus la Brudhi mic bili Rege Fortrenn. Tolair aithicain obit. Domnall breace mae Eacha buidhi do toitim la Haan Righ Breatan in cath Srath Carn.^y Jugulatio Rotechtaigh γ Dargarto filii Fingaine.
- 687 Kl. Adomnanus captivos reduxit ad Hiberniam lx.
- 688 Kl. Occisio Canonn mic Gartnain.

^v The slaughter of Domangart, the son of Donald bree, King of Dahlriada.

^w The slaughter of the tribe of Lorn, in a battle between Ferchairs fata and the Britons, who were victorious. The death of Drost, the son of Donald. Battle in Calitros, in which Donald bree was vanquished.

^x The death of Conall chail, the son of Duncan, in Kintyre. The death of Sechnusagh, the son of Armidhag, and Conau, the son of Congal.

^y Donald bree, the son of Eacha buidhe, fell by Hoan, King of the Britons, in the battle of Strathearn.

¹ This passage is corrupt. It should read—"Interfectio generis γ Britones qui victores erant." "Loarn itir inn. i.e. itir Ferchairs"

- 689 Kl. Iohann Episcopus Cindgalarath obit. Mors Cathasaig hua Domhnall brice mic Feredhaig mic Tuathail mic Maileduin mic Conall Crandomnai.
- 690 Kl. Coblait filia Canond mortua.
- 692 Kl. Adomnanus xiiii annis post pausam Failbe Ea ad Hiberniam pergit.
- 693 Kl. Bruidhe mae Bile Rex Fortrend moritur γ Alpin mac Nechtain.
- 694 Kl. Domhnall mac Auin Rex Alochluaithe moritur.
- 696 Kl. Jugulatio Conail Crandomna.
- 697 Kl. Tarachin ar na scriss as a flaithius. Fearcar fota moritur. Adomnan tuc recht lecsa in Erind an bliadhna seo.^z
- 698 Kl. Cath etir Saxones γ Pictos ubi cecidit filius Bernith qui dicebatur Brechtraig.
- 704 Kl. Strages Dailriada in Glenlemmae. Adamnamus lxxvii anno etatis sue, in nonas kalendis Octobris Abbas Ie pausat.
- 706 Kl. Bruide [mac] Derile mortuus est.
- 707 Kl. Dunchadl Principatum Iae tenuit.
- 710 Kl. Conmael mac Abbatis Cillidara Iea pausat.
- 711 Kl. Strages Pictorum in campo Manand ab Saxonis ubi Findgaine mac Deleroith immatura morte jaenit. Congressio Brittonum et Dalriadha for Loirgeclat, ubi Britones devicti.
- 712 Kl. Ceode Episcopus Iea pausat.
- 713 Kl. Cinaedli mac Derili γ filius Mathgernan jugulati sunt. Dorbeni Cathedram Jae obtinuit, γ v mensibus peractis in primatu, v. kalendis Novembris die Sabati, obit. Tolarg mac Drostain ligatus apud fratrem suum Nechtan regem.
- 714 Kl. Dunollaig construitur apud Selbacum. Ailen na ingen strubitur.
- 715 Kl. Dorbene Abbas Iae.
- 716 Kl. Pasca in Eo civitate commotatur. Faelchu mac

^z Tarachin was driven out of his kingdom. Ferchar fada dies. Adomnan brought a law with him this year to Ireland.

- Doirbeni Cathedram Columbe lxxxvii etatis anno, in iiiii kl. Septembbris die Sabbati, suscepit.
- 717 Kl. Dunchadh mac Cindfaeladh Abbas Ie obit. Expulsio familie Ie trans dorsum Britannie a Nectono rege. Congressio Dalriada γ Britonum in lapide qui vocatur Minvirec γ Britones devicti sunt.
- 718 Kl. Tonsura Corona super familiam Iea datur.
- 719 K. Cath Finnglinne itir da mcic^a Fearchair fota in quo Ainbheellach jugulatus est die quinte ferie Id. Septembbris. Cath maritimum Arddeanesbi ctir Dunchadh m-becc cum genere Gabrain γ Selbac cum genere Loairn γ versus est super Selbacum ii Non. Octobris die iii. ferie in quo quidam comites corruerunt.
- 721 Kl. Duncadh becc Ri Cindtiri mortuus est.
- 722 Kl. Maelruba in Apurcroson, anno lxxx etatis γ tribus mensibus γ xix diebus peractis, in xi kl. Mai, tercie ferie die pausat. Bili mac Elphine rex Alohluaithe moritur. Feidhlimidh principatum Iea tenet.
- 723 Kl. Clericatus Selbaigh regis Dalriada.
- 724 Kl. Faelchu mac Dorbene Abbas dormivit. Cillenius longus ei in primatum Ie successit. Clericatum Eactain regis Pictorum. Druyst post eum regnat.
- 725 Kl. Simal filius Druist constringitur.
- 726 Kl. Nechtain mac Derili constringitur apud Druist regem. Cillenus longus Abbas Ie pausat. Dungal de regno ejectus est γ Druist de regno Pictorum ejectus γ Elphin pro eo regnat. Eochach me Eachach regnare incipit.
- 727 Kl. Adamnani reliquie transferuntur in Hiberniam et lex renovatur.
- 728 Kl. Cath Monaigh craebi itir Picardachaib fein. i. Aengus γ Alpinus issiat tue in cath γ ro mbaigh ria n-Aengus γ ro murbadh mac Ailpin andsin γ ro gab Aengus ncert.^b

^a between the two sons of.

^b The battle of Monaigh Craebi between the Picardach themselves. Angus and Alpin fought that battle, and the victory was with Angus; and the son of Alpin was slain there, and Angus took his power.

Cath truadh itir Picardachaibh ac Caislen Credhi 7 ro mebaigh ar in Alpin ectna, 7 ro bearadh a ericha 7 a daine de uile 7 ro gab Nechtain mae Derili Righi na Picardach.^c

729 Kl. Tri l. long Piccardach do brisidh irrois Cuissine sa bliadhna ectna. Cath Droma Derg Blathmig cir Piccardaibh i. Druist 7 Aengus Ri na Piccardach 7 ro marbh-adh Drust andsin in dura la deg do mi Aughivist.^d

731 Kl. Cath itir Cruithniu 7 Dalriada in Murbulg ubi Cruithne devicti. Cath etir mac Aengusa 7 mac Congusa sunt, Brudheus vicit Talorecum fugientem.

732 Kl. Nechtan mc Derile mortuus.

733 Kl. *Dunyal mae Selbaig dorindi toise a Toraigh 7 toise aile an inis Cumennraighe corairg.^e Mureadbach me Aimbh cellaig regnum generis Loairn assumit. Flaithebertach classem Dalriada in Iberniam duxit 7 cedes magna facta est deis in insola Honie, ubi hi trucidantur viri Conocbar me Lochein 7 Branchu me Brain 7 multi in flumine dimersi sunt deis in Banna. Eochach mac Echach Ri Dailriada 7 Conall mac Concobair mortui sunt.*

734 Kl. Tolarg mae Congusa a brathair fen dia gabail 7 tuc illaimh na Piccardach 7 ro baighed leosiden h-e.^f

736 Kl. Aengus mac Fergusa, Rex Pictorum vastavit regiones Dailriata 7 obtinuit Dunad 7 compussit Creic 7

^c An unfortunate battle between the Piccardach at the Castle of Credi, and the victory was against the same Alpin, and his territories and all his men were taken, and Nechtan the son of Derili obtained the kingdom of the Piccardach.

^d Three times fifty ships of the Piccardach were wrecked this year on Irois Cuissine. The battle of Drumderg Blathmig between the Piccardach, that is, Drust and Angus king of the Piccardach, and Drust was slain there, on the twelfth day of the month of August.

^e Dungal, the son of Selbaigh made an expedition to Toraighe, and another expedition to the island of Cumennraighe for plunder.

^f Tolarg, the son of Congus, was seized by his own brother, and delivered into the hands of the Piccardach, and drowned by them.

- duos filios Selbaiche catenis alligavit i. Dondgal γ Feradach γ paulo post Brudeus mac Aengusa mic Fergusa obit.
- 737 Kl. Bass Romain Abbatis Cindgaradh. *Failbe mac Guaire. Macl eire bai eiris i. Apuorcrossain*¹ in profundo Pelagi dimersus est cum suis nautis numero xxii.^g
- 739 Kl. Tolarecan mac Drostan Rex Athfhotla a bathadh la h-Aengus.^h
- 747 Kl. Mors Tuathalain Abbas Cind Righ Monaigh.
- 749 Kl. Jugulatio Cathasaig mac Aillella Ri Cruithne in Raith Betheach. Ventus magnus. Demersi familie Iea.
- 750 Kl. Cath etir Pictones γ Britones id est a Tolargan mac Fergusa γ a brathair γ ar Piccardach imaille friss.ⁱ
- 752 Kl. Mors Cilline Droictigh Ancorite Iea. *Taudar mac Bile Ri Alochlandaib*² mortuus est. Cath a srith in terra Circin inter Pictones invicem in quo cecidit Bruidhi mac Maelchon. Bass Cilline mac Congaile in Hi.
- 754 Kl. Sleibine Abbas Iea in Hiberniam venit.
- 756 Kl. Combustio Benchair moir i feria Patricii.
- 757 Kl. Lex Colum eille la Slebine.
- 758 Kl. Elpine Glaisinaindin. Reversio Slebine in Hiberniam.
- 759 Kl. Aengus Ri Alban mortuus.
- 761 Kl. Aengus mac Fergusa Rex Pictorum mortuus.
- 763 K. Bruidhi Ri Fortcherrn mortuus est.

[A leaf wanting from 756 to 973.]

^g The death of Ronan, abbot of Kingarth. Failbe, the son of Guare, the successor of Malruba in Apurerossan, was drowned in the open sea with all his sailors, to the number of twenty-two.

^h Tolarecan, the son of Drostan, king of Atholl, drowned by Angus.

ⁱ A battle between the Pictones and the Britons, viz., Tolargan, the son of Fergus, and his brother, and the slaughter of the Piccardach along with them.

^j Taudar mac Bile, king of Alochluithe died. The battle of Strath in the land of Circin, between the Pictones, in which Bruidhi mac Malcon was slain. Death of Cilline mac Congaile in Hi.

¹ This passage is corrupt, it should read,—Failbe mac Guairi for Alochluithe or Alelyde. ciris Malrubai i. Apuorrossan.

² Alochlandaib is here written

- 975 Kl. Domnall mac Eoain Ri Britain in ailitri.^k
- 976 Kl. Scrín Colaimeille do argain do Domnall mic Murchadha. Creach la Gillacolaim hua Canandan Ri Cencoil Conail in Uib Failge corfagaib Fergal mae Fogartaig Ri Cairpre moire, Cellach mae Findghaine, Cellach mac Bairedha, Donnchadh mac Morgaind, tri Mormair Alban andsin.^l
- 977 Kl. Amlaim mac Illuibh Ri Alban domarbadh la Cinachth mic Maelcolaim.^m
- 989 Kl. Gofraig mac Arailt Ri Indsi Gall do toitem la Duiliada.ⁿ
- 995 Kl. Cinaeth mac Maelcolaim Ri Alban a suis occissus est.
- 997 Kl. Cath etir Albañcho itorchair Constantin mac Cuilindain Ri Alban et alii multi. Domnall mac Donleodha find do dalladh do Maelsechnall mic Domnall. Maelcolaim mac Domnaill Ri Breatain tuaiscert mortuus est.^o
- 1020 Kl. iii. f. l. ii. [k. iii. l. xiv.] Findlaec mac Ruaidhri Mormaer Moreb a filiis fratris sui Maellbrigdi occisus est.
- 1029 Kl. iii. f. l. xii. [k. ii. l. iv.] Maccolaim mac Maelbrigdi mie Ruadri Ri Alban mortuus est.
- 1034 Kl. Maelcolaim mac Cinachtha Ri Alpan ordan iarthair Eorpa uile dey. Suibne mac Cinachtha Ri Gallgaedel moritur.^p ^k Donald, son of Eoain, king of Britain, goes into pilgrimage.

^l The shrine of Columeille plundered by Donald mae Murchadha. Foray, by Gillaeollum O Canandan, king of the Cenel Conall, in O'Failge, and Fergal, son of Fogartaig, king of Cairpre mor; Cellach, son of Findgaine, Cellach, son of Baireda, Duncan son of Morgaind, three Mormairs of Alban, were there.

^m Amlain, son of Illuib, king of Alban, slain by Kenneth, son of Malelm.

ⁿ Gofraig, son of Aralt, King of Innsegall, slain by the Dalriads.

^o Battle between the Albanich, in which Constantin, son of Cuilindan, king of Alban, was slain, and many others. Donald, the son of Duncan the fair, was blinded by Maelsechnall, the son of Donald. Malcolm, son of Donald, King of the Northern Britons, died.

^p Malcolm, son of Kenneth, king of Alban, head of the nobility of the whole of Western Europe, died. Suibne, son of Kenneth, king of Galloway, died.

- 1040 Kl. Domeadh mae Crinan Airdri Alban immatura etate
a suis occissus est.
- 1045 Kl. iii. f. luan ix. [kl. i. l. 18] Cath etir Albancho araen- rian eur marbadh andsin Crinan Ab. Duincalland 7 sochaighe maille fris i. nac xx lacch.^a
- 1054 Kl. iii. f. l. xvii. [kl. v. l. 27] Cat etir Albancho 7
Saxancho in artoitset moran do miledaib.^r
- 1055 Kl. i. f. l. xxix. [kl. vi. l. 28] Maclduin mac Gillaodran
espeop Alban 7 ordan Gaedel o cleireib in Christo quievit.^s
- 1057 Kl. ii. f. l. ii. m. l. viii. Lulach Rig Alban domarbadh
Colum mic Donnchada per dolum. Longes la mae Ri Loch-land con gallaib indsi Orce 7 indsi Gall 7 Atacliath do gabail rigi Saxon acht no cor dc onaig dia sin. Mac Bethadh mic Findlaich Airdri Alban domarbad do Maclcolaim mic Dondcadha.^t
- 1062 Kl. iii. f. l. xii [kl. i. l. 7] Hua Maildoraig comarba
Colaimcilli quievit.^u
- 1072 Kl. Diarmuit mac Mailnambo Ri Breatan 7 indsi Gall
7 Athacliat 7 Leithi moghannadhad domarbadh la Conco- bur hua Maelsechnaill a Cath Odha 7 ardiarimthe do Gall 7 do Laing uime.^v

^a Battle between the Albanich on both sides, in whieh Crinan, abbot of Dunkeld, was slain there, and many with him, viz., nine times twenty heroes.

^r Battle between the Albanich and the Saxons, in which many of the soldiers were slain.

^s Mallluin, son of Gillaodran, Bishop of Alban, the giver of orders to the clergy, died in Christ.

^t Lulac, king of Alban, slain by Malcolm, son of Duncan, by stratagem. Maritime expedition by the son of the king of Lochlan with the Galls of Orkney and Innse Gall and Dublin, to subject the kingdom of the Saxons, but God was against them in that affair. Macbeth, son of Finlay, supreme king of Alban, slain by Malcolm, son of Duncan.

^u O Maildoraig Corbe of Colaimcille dics.

^v Diarmed, son of Malnambo, king of the Britons, and Innse-Gall, and Dublin, slain by Concobur O Malsechlán in the battle of Odha, and great slaughter made of the Galls and men of Leinster with him.

IX.

THE PROPHECY OF ST. BERCHAN, MXCIV-MXCVII.

a MS. R. I. A. DUBL. NO. 6. 5.b MS. R. I. A. DUBL. H. & S. NO. 221.

TRI fichid bliadhain o a marac,
 Ait leam chraoidh cia raladh,
 Go n-geine Mac i Rath cro.¹
 Dia mo lan Alban is Eire.

Ba saoith, ba faidh, ba file,
 Ba ecnuidh mic De neimhe,
 Ba laoch, ba cleirech, glan, gharce,
 Ba mac oighe, ba saccart.

Is e bhias priomhfhaidh dar meis,
 Is e nach epscop² re an eis,
 Ba lan Nemh is talamh dhe,
 Don mhac ga ta tairngaire.

Three score years from to-morrow,
 Pleasant to my heart what happens,
 Till the youth shall be born at Rathero
 Of whom was full Alban and Erin.

He was a sage, he was a prophet, he was a poet,
 He was a wise one of the son of the God of Heaven,
 He was a hero, he was a cleric, pure, austere,
 He was a son of virginity, he was a priest.

It is he that shall be a prime prophet beyond measure,
 It is he that was not a bishop thenceforth,
 Heaven and earth was full of him,
 To the youth belongs the prophecy.

¹ On margin i.e. Colaimelle an Mac. ² b has a n-aire epscop, the chief bishop. Columba was the youth.

Ni bhia Eire gan eagna,
 Deis Bhrigde is Pattruig eachtaigh,¹
 Lais in Mac athbuir aimne
 Anbadh cath Cula Dreimhne.

Marec Eire ro chluine in cath,
 Marec maccu,² maирг rioghraидh,
 Marec saor, marec daor, marec daoine,
 Muir is tir da eacaoine.

Do lar Daire theid in Mac,
 Colum, seach Cuaille Ciannacht,
 Go gchuin tri gaire dia eis,
 Adbear fria churchair na adhruis.

Loch Feabhail fa thunmaibh ero,
 Gol na h-eanlaithe ni go,
 An gaoth fri Doire at asfruigh.
 Ag caoine inn allithrigh.

Erin shall not be without a wise one
 After Bridget and Patrick of great deeds ;
 With the youth himself was the cause of
 The great slaughter of the battle of Cul Dremhne.

Woe to Erin when that battle shall be heard,
 Woe to the youths, woe to the kings,
 Woe to freemen, woe to bondmen, woe to the people,
 Sea and land complaining.

From the middle of Derry goeth the youth,
 Columba, past Cuaille Ciannacht,
 When he hears three shouts after him,
 He speaks with the boatman in worship.

Loch Foyle under waves of blood,
 The lament of the Birds, no deceit,
 The wind at Derry is furious,
 He lamenting in pilgrimage.

¹ b has Euchtraigh, an adulterer or foreigner. | ² b reads Macha Macha, or Ard-magh.

Conidh annsin adbheara,
 Aittesg fir, nach do chela,
 Go fras dear dar gruadhborm-glan
 Do mhaeraidh nimhe is talmhan.

Mo rath in h-I gan chaire,
 Ocus m'anam a n-Doire,
 Ocus mo chorpan fo'n leic
 Fo tta is Brighid is Patruig.

Dom bheraid Aingil a nair
 Do chum n-Erenn as Albain,
 Ionmhain aoidhidh tiucfadhlann
 As Albain do chum n-Eirenn.

Ocus is dearbh leom, cath hi,
 Ni ba easbhathach in h-I,
 Gach n-aon la a n-Doire 'na chlais,
 Ocus i chorp i Lethghlaiss.

It is then that he shall speak
 A true saying, which I shall not conceal,
 While a shower of tears on his clear blue cheek
 To the sons of Heaven and Earth.

My grace in Hi without crime,
 And my soul in Derry,
 And my body under the stone
 Under which are Bridget and Patrick.

Angels shall bear me from the East
 Unto Erin out of Alban,
 Beloved the guest who shall come there
 From Alban unto Erin.

And I am certain, altho' he comes,
 That he shall not be wanting in Hi,
 Every day in Derry in his choir,
 And his body in [Dunda]lethglas.

Adchim Athair ocus Mac
 Ocus Spirit chainh choimhniert,
 Gair cian conach tias ar ceal,
 Daicce air in Ailithrech.

Mairee Cruithnigh cos roicfe soir,
 Da bfestaois an ni da bful,
 Nir ba samh leis gur ba righ thair
 Erinn fa Chruithnechaibh.

Fa gairde bheid da reir thair,
 No thingfa dar a bhreithir,
 A trath no chraidhfeadh ni ba righ
 Fo ciocra Cruithnigh a u-dimbrigh.

Ise ced fhear thurghbas tsoir,
 Iar na chradh do Chruithnechaibh,
 Ba lasair dhearce, dhuisfeas cath,
 In taistearach inmeadhach.¹

I beseech the Father and the Son
 And the mild co-powerful Spirit,
 That it be long till he goes to death,
 To the pure mould, the pilgrim.

Woe to the Cruithnigh to whom he will go eastward,
 He knew the thing that is,
 Nor was it happy with him that an Erinach
 Should be king in the east under the Cruithnigh.

Short shall he be at their bidding in the east,
 He will oppose their words,
 When he shall enbitter them, he would not be king
 Under the ravenous Cruithnigh in weakness.

He is the first man who shall possess in the east,
 After the vexation to the Cruithnigh,
 He was a red flame, he awakened battle,
 The anxious traveller.

¹ In margin i.e. Aodhan mat Gabhrain.

Scéimnid gai do bhile sciath,
 Lais ba imtheachtaidh a leith,
 Marcach in eich lúaith, ni go,
 Shirfes Eirinn an aon lo.

Tri bliadhna deag, einn ar chinn,
 Fri shluagh Cruithnech, cain in mhinn,
 An tráth ad bhela, ni ba rígh,
 Dia dardaoine hi Cinn-tire.

Geabhaidh mac do chloinn a mhic
 Righe Alban a los a neirt,
 Fear bhiadhfeas baidhblí, bhrisfeas cath,
 Diam bo aimni an Ferbasach.

Is e ced Ri gheabhas tsoir
 D'fearaibh Eireann in Albain,
 Ba iar nert gai is claoilheimh
 Iar n-dian bhas, iar n-dian aoidheth.

Darts shall bound from the edges of shields,
 With him shall go forth his grey men,
 The rider of the swift horse, no lie,
 Shall traverse Erin in one day.

Thirteen years altogether
 Against the hosts of the Cruithnigh, mild the illustrious,
 When he died, he was not king,
 On Thursday in Kintyre.

A son of the Clan of his son will possess
 The kingdom of Alban, by virtue of his strength,
 A man who shall feed ravens, break battles,
 His name was the Ferbasach.¹

He is the first king who possessed in the east
 Of the men of Erin in Alban,
 It was by the strength of darts and swords,
 By violent deaths, by violent fates.

¹ The conqueror. The prophecy here passes from Aedan mac Gabhráin to Kenneth MacAlpin.

Is lais brectair thair na buirb,
 Tochlait talmhan, tren an chard,
 Brodlainn bodhbha, bas, n-airgne,
 For lar Scoine sciath-airde.

Seacht m-bliadhna deag, dingnaibh gal,
 In airbrighe na h-Alban,
 Iar nar Cruithneach, iar ecradh Gall,
 Adbail for bruinnibh Eirenn.

Ba olc bhias Albain de,
 Cian go ttiucfadhl a letheid,
 Gair cian conus gabhaidh in Ri,
 An mear mhac na Gaillsighthe.

Tri bliadhna do na Ri,
 Ocus tri mis, cia rimhi,

By him are deceived in the East the fierce ones,
 He shall dig in the earth, powerful the art,
 Dangerous goad blades, death, pillage,
 On the middle of Scone of high shields.¹

Seventeen years of warding valour
 In the sovereignty of Alban,
 After slaughtering Cruithneach, after imbittering Galls,
 He dies on the banks of the Earn.

It was bad with Alban then,
 Long ere another like him shall eome,
 It was a short time till took the kingdom,
 The wanton son of the Gaillsighe.²

Three years to the king,
 And three months, who shall number them,

¹ Alludes to the stratagem by which the Pictish nobles are said to have been slain. See Giraldus, De Instructione Principum, dis. iii. cap. xviii.

² This was Donald mac Alpin, who reigned four years.

Os Loch Adhbha bhias a leacht,
Adbail do galar ainfhecht.

Nos geabha oicc Ri eile,
Mo chion bhias ga arnaighe,
Buachaill buaile bo Cruithnech,
An finn fada finn-shoichleach.

Gnus treas mebhsad tri catha
For Gheintibh, glaine datha,
Cethramha cath, cath Luaire,
For Ri m-Bretan m-bratuaine.

Mo chin Albain ins n-gebhaidh,
Acht is gairid dos mealadh,
Cuig bliadhna co leith, lathair glain,
Don Ri na Ri Alban.

On Loeh Adhbha¹ shall be his grave,²
He dies of disease suddenly.

Another young king shall possess,
Happy those who are in expectation,
The herd of the eowshed of the Cruithneach,
The tall fair man, the wine bountiful.³

The hazard thro' which three battles are gained
Against the Gentiles, of pure colour,
The fourth battle, the battle of Luaire,
Against the king of the Britons of green standard.

Happy Alban that shall possess him,
But short the time she enjoyed him,
Five years and a half, of pure vigour,
To the king as king of Alban,

¹ Adhba signifies a palace. It may be rendered the loch of the palace.

mac Kenneth, who reigned, according to the Pictish Chronicle, ten years; but, according to another chronicle, only six years, and was slain at Inverdufatha. The allusion in the third line I am unable to explain.

² Leacht means a grave or a monument.

³ The king meant was Constantin

Dia dardaoin na linntibh fola,
For traigh Inbhir Dubhroda.

Nos ghebhaidh Ri aile ann,
Bec do tharbhadh nis comhbrainn,
Mairee Albain o sin a mach
Dia mbiaidh h-ainm in Dasachtach.

Fodh gairde bhias for Albain,
Ni bhiaidh deighruis² gan argain.
Mairee Albain lais in n-geille,
Mairg al liubhra, mairee a ttionna.³

Naoi m-bliadhna do ina righe
Sloinnfed dioibh, ba sgeal fire,
Adbhail gan chlocc, gan chomhna,
Feasgul a m-bealach bodlibha.

On Thursday, in pools of blood,
On the shore of Inbhir Dubhroda.

Another king shall possess it,
Little of gain is his portion,
Woe to Alban from that time out,
Whose name shall be Dasachtach.⁴

Though short he shall be over Alban,
There shall not be a highway without robbery.
Woe to Alban in subjection to him,
Woe its books, woe its testaments.

Nine years to him as king,
I shall relate to you, the tale was true,
He dies without bell, without communion,
In the evening in a dangerous Pass.

¹ These two lines left blank in both MSS.

² a reads Deighruis.

³ a reads anionna.

⁴ The fierce. This epithet is applied by the Duan Albanach to a later king, Donald, son of Constantine.

Iar sin nodas gheabhaidh in Ri,
 Dia m-ba h-aium in Tuilti,
 Uch ! mo chraoidh, siar is tsair,
 Britt do bhreith for Ghaoidhelaibh.

Nos gheabhaidh an Britt a Cluaide,
 Mac mna o Dhun Guaire,
 Tri bliadua deag, diongnaibh gail,
 In airdrighe¹ na h-Alban.

Conas ragha an Mac Rath,
 Shuaithfes for Albain d'aon-fhlaithe,
 Ba isel Breatain friaa linn,
 Ba ard Albain chathair² bhimu.

Is ait leam chroidhe is leam chorpa,³
 Feibh ro shloinn damh mo spiorat,

Afterwards a king shall possess,
 Whose name was the Tuiltigh⁴
 Ah ! my heart, west and east,
 A Briton shall rule the Gael.

The Briton from Clyde shall possess,
 Son of the woman from Dun Guaire,
 Thirteen years of warding valour,
 In the sovereignty of Alban.

Till the Mac Rath⁵ shall come,
 He shall sit over Alban as sole chief,
 Low was Britain in his time,
 High was Alban of melodious cities.

Pleasant is it to my heart and body,
 My spirit relates good to me,

¹ In a is interlined ruire, lord.

² a reads cathar, ships.

³ a reads sport.

⁴ The floods. This was Eocha, son of Run, king of the Britons, and grandson of Kenneth Macalpin.

⁵ Son of Fortune. This was Grig, son of Dungaile, who is said by the Pictish Chronicle to have reigned along with Eocha, and who died at Dundurn.

Righ an Mac Raith na thir soir,
Fo chiochra dochoir d' Albain

Seacht m-bliadna deag, diongna gal,
I n-airdrighe na h-Albain.
Biaidh daora leis in a thigh,
Saxain, Gaill is Brethnaigh.

Is lais fichtir in teach teamn,
Uch ! mo chraoidhe, ar bhrughadh Eirenn.
Biaidh dath dearg atteagh mo 'cheann,
Do faoth le Feraibh Forthenn.

Ba ole bhias Albain de,
Timfac dhoibh mo thairngaire,
Deis an Mheic Raith, rathaibh clann,
Do faoth la Feraibh Fortrenn.

Iar sin nos geabhaidh an Ri
Do lar Duine Duirn, drechbhuidhe,

As king the son of fortune in the eastern land
Under ravenous misfortune to Alban.

Seventeen years, of warding valour,
In the sovereignty of Alban.
There shall be slaves to him in his house,
Saxons, Galls, and Britons.

By him shall be attacked the powerful house,
Ah ! my heart, on the banks of the Earn.
Red shall be the colour in the house before him,
He shall fall by the men of Fortrenn.

Bad shall it be in Alban then,
To them shall come my prophecy,
After the son of fortune, of a prosperous clan,
Shall fall by the men of Fortrenn.

Afterwards the king shall possess
From the middle of Dundurn, yellow faced,

In Bhaoth as Dun Duirn duanach,
Cidh adhmhar ni h-ilbhuaadhach.

Tri bliadna do na Righ,
Sloinnfed dioibh ba sgel fire,
Is ann bhias a leacht an troch
Idir Leitir is Claonloch.

Iar sin nos geabhaidh in Garbh,
Lais ba beg brigh mionn is psalm,
Ba aistrech Albain lais,
Ni thiubhraidh fior for eislis.¹

Bia imarcai creach fria re,
Fria righe an Ghairbh, cia be,
Mescfaidh Albain ima chenn,
Ba fuis fe bhenfas beimenn.

The Baoth² from Dundurn of songs,
Though fortunate yet not all conquering.

Three years to the king,
I shall relate to you, the tale was true,
The grave of the eoward shall be Between Letir and Claonloch.

Afterwards the Garbh³ shall possess,
With him were shrines and psalms of little worth,
Alban was changed with him,
He will not deliver what is true to neglect.

There will be abundance of forays in his time,
During the reign of the Garbh whoe'er he be.
Alban will be disturbed on his account,
He was active when blows shall be struck.

¹ a reads cis lais.

ceeded by a brother, Constantine, who reigned two years.

² The weak one. Whom this represents is not clear. According to one Chronicle, Grig was suc-

³ The rough one. The king meant is Donald, son of Constantine, who reigned nine years.

Traochfaid Gaidhela geala,
 Fasaighfid a u-inbhera,
 Coifed ba bruidhte mairbh,
 Fri righe an eactaigh a Ghairbh.

Naoi m-bliadna do ina Ri,
 Ag imthecht a ccoigri,
 Cinn ar chinn, for each du,
 Fri Gallaibh, fri Gaidhelu.

Saoifid Gaidhil fris a run,
 Ar an luircc os Fother-dhun,
 For bhrus tuinne tinne do,
 Soir, na leabaidh leathan-chro.

Iar sin nos gebhaidh Ri, ni cheal,
 No chanfad air, cidh adbear,
 Leath an laoi¹ nos geibh, becc ni,
 Teid ria u-aidliche for nemhni.

He shall put down the fair Gael,
 He shall lay waste their Invers,
 It shall be seen, they were crushed and slain,
 During the reign of deed-doing Garbh.

Nine years to the king,
 Traversing the borders,
 One after another, in every place,
 With Galls, with Gael.

He will disperse the Gael for a purpose,
 At the end over Fotherdun,
 Upon the brink of the waves he lies,
 In the east, in his broad gory bed.

Afterwards a king will possess, I will not conceal,
 I will not sing of him, though I mention him,
 Half a day he will possess, a little thing,
 He will fall before night into nothingness.

¹ a reads tan.

Ni mor ro¹ marbhthar i ccath,
 Ni dian ar, ni duine bath,
 Bail as ticc, as eadha teide,
 Mo nuar ! is taibhse bhreige.

Mo chen ! mo chen ! maiseadh e !
 Fada ata a ttairnguire,
 Righ na righ, ni radh m-braisi,
 Dianad ainm an Midhaise.

Ba lomlan Albain o a la,
 Ba h-i an righe fhinn-fhoda,
 Ba ba caire coimse cath,
 Seacht m-bliadna ocus da fhichid.

Go mes for chraobhaidh caola,
 Go ecuirm, go cceol, go ccaomha,

He is not great, killed in battle,
 It is not violent slaughter, he was not a man of slaughter,
 The place whence he comes, thither he goes,
 Alas ! he is a false apparition.²

My joy ! my joy ! If it be he,
 Long is the prophecy,
 King of kings, 'tis no rash saying,
 Whose name is the Midhaise.³

Alban was brimful from his day,
 His was the fair long reign,
 He was just, competent to battle
 Seven years and two score.

With fruits on slender trees,
 With ale, with musie, with fellowship,

¹ a reads ba.

² Who this was does not appear.

³ The king meant is Constantine son of Aed, who reigned, according to some chronicles, forty, to others forty-five, years, and retired to the monastery of St. Andrews, where he died.

Go nith, go m-blocht, go m-buar m-brais,
Go muail, go nadh, go nerbhias.

Ni gheabhadh catha fria a ghnuis,
Ba ban gach aighedh fria dbnis,
Ni rachaidh rinne triana chnes,
Mac an fhir Dia do diles.

An trath bhias deine righ an Ri,
Iar geur namhad ar nemhui,
Ro fhichfa an Ball dearg iar siu,
Cona marbh a h-Albain.

Cona iar sin is lor truadh,
Fir Alban fa chosaibh cuain,
Amail scuaba lin da m-badhadh,
Gau airdri gan iomshnaige.

Iar sin ro chongair Dia de,
Go Recles for blru tuinne,

With corn, with milk, with active kine,
With pride, with success, with eleganee.

Battles will not be maintained against his faee,
Pale was each complexion in his presencee,
No spear shall pierce through his skin,
Son of the man, God loves him.

When the kingdom of the king was more violent,
After annihilating his enemies,
He will fight the Baldearg then,
Till he kill him in Alban.

Afterwards are greatly to be pitied
The men of Alban under the feet of wolves,
Like unto sheafs of flax, when steeped,
Without a sovereign protecting them.

Afterwards God did call him
To the monastery on the brink of the waves,

A ttig an Apstail theid ar ceal,
Ba iodhan an t-Ailither.

Is an Albain ard dhrechlerce,
Gair cian nos geabhaidh an Bodhbhderce,
Beitt astruigh gradhadh leis,
I n-iath aineoil gan eisleis.

Nid ba fadhal a righe,
Sloinnfed daoibh ba sgeal, fire,
La each gach uair as gach du,
La Galla, la Gaedhelu.

Naoi m-bliadna do na righe,
Ag imtheact a ecoigrioghe
For bhru Duna Foitheir feact
Gairfid Gaidhil im a lecht.

Nos gebhaidh daigh ri dathrach,
Albain dar eis dagh athar,

In the house of the apostle he came to death,
Undefiled was the pilgrim.

In high slope-faced Alban,
Short the time Bodhbhdearg¹ possesses,
There shall be on the strand graduates with him,
In a strange land without neglect.

No fable was his reign,
I shall reveal to you, the tale was true,
With each, every time, and every place,
With Galls, with Gael.

Nine years to his reign,
Traversing the borders,
On the brink of Dun Fother, at last,
Will shout the Gael around his grave.

A good well coloured king will possess,
Alban had after that a good father,

¹ Dangerous red man. This was Malcolm, son of Donald, who reigned, according to some chroni- cles, eleven, to others nine, years, and was slain at Feteresso, in the Mearns.

Mairee a naimhde lais a mach,
Dianad aimm an t-Ionsaighthech.

Bretain, Saxain, mairee fria a linn,
Fria a re an Ionsaightheigh airmghrinn
Mo ghenar Albancha leis
Idir Thuauth is Eglais.

Ni ghearrfaidh gearradh aga
Albain ethrach fhionn-fhada,
Is tuille cuige ro gheibh
Do thuauth aineoil ar eiccin,

Naoi m-bliadna go leith, lathair n-gle,
Doib for Albain in airdrigh,
I ttigh an Apstoil chetna chaigh
Adbail, adbeala a Athair.

Da righ iar sin for Albain
Inn dis doibh ac comhargain

Woe to his enemies without,
Whose name was the Jonsaightheach.¹

Britons, Saxons, woe in his time,
During the time of the Jonsaightheach of fine arms
Happy the Albanach with him
Between land and church.

No severance will he sever,
Of Alban of ships of long territories,
It is an addition to his kinglom he will take
From a foreign land by force.

Nine years and a half, of bright fame,
For him over Alban in the sovereignty,
In the house of the same pure apostle
He died, where died his father.

Two kings after that over Alban,
Both of them at mutual strife,

¹ The aggressor. This was Indulph, son of Constantine, who reigned nine years.

Fionn is Dubh ima leith,
Mairee dar geabhadh ccoimhrighe.

Naoi m-bliadhna doibh na righ,
Mairee dar geabha a ccoimhhdhine,
Ba h-ole bhias Albain dhe,
Mairee bhias aga ni arnaidhe.

Rachaидh Ri dhiobh for fecht fann
Dar Muna i Maigh Forthrenn
Cia dig nocha ttig for eul
Dos faoth Dubh na ttri n-dubhramm

Nos geabhaidh an Fionn, da eis,
Albain, iar m-beith fo aindeis,
Go teacttain deinair aga
Albain ettrocctt fhionnu-foda

Lecht an Fhinn for bhru tuinne
Timnfes rinn,

Fionn and Dubh¹ together,
Woe ! who took them in joint reign.

Nine years for them in their reign,
Woe ! who took them in joint sovereignty,
It will be bad for Alban then,
Woe ! those who were in expectation.

One of the kings shall go upon a weak expedition
Over Munna to Magh Fortrenn,
Who goes will not turn back,
Dubh of the three black divisions fell.

The Fionn will possess, after him,
Alban, after being under affliction,
By right of violence he holds
Alban the splendid, fair, and long.

The grave of Fionn on the brink of the waves,
A spear shall sever,

¹ The White, the Black. Fionn | of Malcolm ; they each reigned seems to be intended for Cuilean, | four years and a half. son of Indulph, Dubh is Dubh, son

A n-iath aineoil ar ttaighidh,
Ba le Brethnaigh a bhith aidhidh.

Albain gan ri o shin a mach
Conus gabhaidh an Fionnghalach,
Mairce, mairce a naimhde aga,
Mairce a gearidle go foda.

Do bhera for chach baoghal,
Ni ba faigside a saoghal,
Ceithre bliadhna fichid, iar fior,
Is e a remhes an Airdri
Acc argain Gaidheal na taigh,
Cinn ar chinn fria bliodhbha.

Fo cingfe ceim, ni chomhaigh,
Go Maigh-sliabh an mhoir Mhonaidh.
Gairfid Gaidhil ima chenn
Ba h-e a aidhe a fhoirchenn.

In a strange high valiant land,
It was by the Britons shall be his death.

Alban without a king thenceforth
Till the Fingalach¹ shall possess,
Woe ! woe ! his enemies with him,
Woe ! his friends afar off.

He brings upon every one peril,
Not shorter was his life,
Four and twenty years, of a truth,
Is the power of the sovereign,
Plundering the Gael in their houses,
One after another with his enemies.

He will bend his steps, no neighbourly act,
To Maghsliabh at the great Monadh,
The Gael will shout aronnd his head,
His death was the end of it.

¹ The fratricide. This was Kenneth, son of Malcolm, who reigned twenty-four years.

Nos geabha Rí, na ba righ,
 Albain dia eis ba nemhni,
 Ba e an fann dar eis an treoin,
 Cidh fior no raidhedh mo bheoil.

Rí co n-aithis uachtair cinn,
 Mairg Albain fria ghairid linn,
 Beid fir faona imbe,
 I n-iath Scoine sciath-bhimne.

Bliadhain go leith, lathar n-gle,
 Ba h-e sin a lan righe,
 Do ghabhail Gaidheal, teid ar ceal,
 Do faoth, do thuit a mhuintir.

Ferfaid a n-Albain mor catha,
 Ri aithes cinn claoifid datha,
 A ccoman catha ba h-e,
 De Sruthlinn frisi n-abar Toe.

A king shall possess, who was not king,
 Alban after him was nothing,
 He was feeble after the strong,
 Though true what my mouth will say.

A king with reproach on the top of his head,
 Woe to Alban through his short time,
 Men will be feeble around him
 In the land of Seone of sounding shields.

A year and a half, bright the deeds,
 That was his full reign,
 Seizing the Gael, he goes to death,
 He fell, they fall his people.¹

A great battle shall be fought in Alban,
 With the shame of his head colours shall be changed,
 The leader of the hosts was he
 Of Sruthlinn which is called Toe.

¹ This king was Constantine, | and a half. The allusions are very son of Cuilean, who reigned a year | obscure.

Nos geabhaidh an Donn dhaifles graicc,
 Scaoilfes catha a Saxanchaibh,
 Iar lo chatha nos gheabha,
 Meabhra leam a airdsgela.

Ba labar i righe shoir,
 Fo gairde bhias for Albain,
 Ba neartmhar fri a nainmhde a mach,
 In Donn as Dunchath cruadhach.

Ocht m-bliadna go leith, lathar n-gle,
 Don¹ Donn i n-airdri
 Fo gairde go ttisad fris
 Mo nuar Gaidhil do rithes.

Condreaccaid Gaidhil imme,
 An lo no mairbhfid linne,
 Na lighe cro eidir da ghleann
 Ni cian o bhruinnibh Eirenn

The Donn² will possess who will dispense steeds,
 He will scatter hosts of the Saxons,
 After the day of battle he will possess,
 I remember the high tale.

Told is his reign in the east,
 Short shall it be over Alban,
 Great strength was against his enemies without,
 The Donn from strong Duncath.

Eight years and half, bright the deeds,
 To the Donn in the sovereignty,
 'Twas short till they came against him,
 Alas ! the Gael again.

The Gael gathered around him,
 The day in which he will be killed by us,
 At his stone of blood between two glens
 Not far from the banks of the Earn.

¹ a inserts linne before Don.

² The brown one. This was Grig, | son of Kenneth, son of Dubh, who reigned eight years.

Iar sin nos geabhadh Albain ard,
 Cathach, rathach, raidhid baird,
 Craoidhe fergach fheras cath,
 Dianid ainm an Forranach.

Ba dath lana fir dhomhain de,
 Aingil ga ttu tairngire,
 Tromchathach tuaithe tinne,
 Daigh-ri dherccfas dercc rinne.

Mac mna Laighean leam tre cath,
 An fordhercc, an Forranach,
 Biobha Bretan, badhudh Gall, Loingseach Ile ocus Arann.

Macc bo bronn as brugh Liffé,
 Ba dearg sliocht a luaith chreiche,
 On chu is as Albain uile,
 Lais teidsead Gaidhil glan uile.

Afterwards shall possess high Alban,
 A warrior, fortunate, praised of bards,
 A wrathful heart which fights the battle,
 Whose name is the Forranach.¹

The men of the world were full of good of him,
 Angels are prophesying of him,
 Heavy warrior of a strong people,
 A good king who will redder red spears.

Son of the woman of Leinster, strong thro battle,
 More excellent, the Forrannach,
 Danger of Britons, extinction of Galls
 Mariner of Ile and Arann

The son of the cowbreast from the banks of the Liffy,
 He was of the red race of swift spoil,
 A wolf-dog who shall eat up all Alban,
 With him shall come all the pure Gael.

¹ The oppressor or destroyer. This was Malcolm, son of Kenneth, who reigned thirty years.

Deich ceatha meibhsed roimhe,
 Aingil ga ttu tairnguire,
 Coig bliadna triochadh a re
 For Albain in airdrighe.

Cos in la teite don chath,
 A ccomhdail na bfionghalach,
 Do luaith leim maidne Mona,
 Maircc Alban na n-er chomhair.

Do faothsad Gaidhil san gcath,
 Dreifid re sin Fhoirranach,
 Mairg cos rig, maireec cos teidi
 Sloinnfed dibh ni sgel breige.

Ba h-olc tra bhias Eire de
 Rienidh chuca in fhaistine,
 La each uair as gach du,
 La Gallu, la Gaoidhelu.

Ten hosts were defeated before him,
 Angels it is that prophesy,
 Five years and thirty his time
 Over Alban in the sovereignty.

Till the day he goes to the battle,
 At the meeting of the fratricides,
 To the quick morning leap of Monaigh,
 Woe to Alban over against him.

The Gael will fall in the battle,
 They will contend with the Forrannach,
 Woe to whom he comes, woe to whom he goes,
 I will reveal it to you, no false tale.

Bad was the time Eire shall be of him,
 The propheey will be fulfilled to them,
 With each time and each place,
 With Galls, with Gael.

Nos geibh da eis gan anadh,
 Ri dianid ainm an t-Ilghalrach,
 Ni ba occ in ri, acht ba sean,
 Fuithfeas¹ for ghiallaibh Gaoidhl.

Ni leimhthar Albain fria linn,
 An fhir ilghalraigh, ilbhinn,
 Meirge dearg oir² dhuisgves cath,
 Ba h-e an Seanoir somharthain.

Mo chion Albain fris n-geabha,
 Acht as gairid dos meala,
 Coig bliadna go leith, lathar n-gle,
 For Albain in airdrighe.

Iar sin nos geibh Ri galrach,
 Dianid ainm an t-Ilghalrach
 Don ghalar sin adbeala,
 Ba iad sin a ardsgela.

Then shall take after him without delay,
 A king whose name is Ilgalrach.³
 The king was not young, but was old,
 He will send for the hostages of the Gael.

Alban shall not be defended in the time
 Of the many diseased, many melodied man,
 The banner of red gold will awaken battle,
 He was the senior of sufficiency.

Happy Alban with his possession,
 But short does it enjoy him,
 Five years and a half, bright the deeds,
 Over Ablan in the sovereignty.

Afterwards the diseased king takes
 Whose name was the Ilgalrach,
 Of that disease he dies,
 Such were his high tales.

¹ a reads suithfes.

² a reads deigor.

³ Much diseased. Duncan, son of Crinan, and grandson of Malcolm

Iar sin nos geibh in Ri deircc
 Righe Alban ard dreachleirecc,
 Iar n-ar Gaoidheal, iar n-ar Gall,
 Nos geabhaidh fial-ri Foirthrenn.

In ruadh ba fionnbuidhe foda,
 Ba aoibhinn damhsa oceu,
 Ba lomlan Albain shiar, shoir,
 Fri righe an Deircc dasachtaigh.

Fiche bliadhna is deich m-bliadhna
 For Albain in airdri riaghla,
 For lar Scoine, sceithfidh fuile,
 Fescur aidhche iar n-iomargain.

Iar sin nos geabha Tairbidh,
 Mac laidh as aedhidh,
 Ba lana fir domhain de,
 'S co Loch Debhru a librine.

Afterwards the red king will possess
 The kingdom of high slope faced Alban,
 After slaughter of Gael, after slaughter of Galls,
 The liberal king will possess Fortrenn.

The red one was fair yellow tall,
 Pleasant was the youth to me,
 Brimful was Alban east and west,
 During the reign of Dearg the fierce.

Twenty years and ten years
 Over Alban the sovereign reigned,
 On the middle of Scone, it will vomit blood,
 The evening of a night in much contention.¹

Afterwards the Tairbith² will possess,
 Son of death and slaughter,
 The men of the world were full of him,
 And at Loch Deabhra his habitation.

¹ Macbeth. Pichedh, twenty, seems here written for seacht, seven. Macbeth reigned seventeen years.

² Misfortune, under this name Lulach seems to be meant.

An Fionn, an Donn, dhailfes graigh,
 Ri as fearr gheabhas Albain,
 Ba h-e Righ na Righ go rath,
 Ba h-e an brath bruidte biodhbha.

Ni rug ben, ni bheارadh soir,
 Righ bus mo reacht for Albain,
 'S ni gheinfe go m-brath m-brais,
 Ba mo agh ocus ernas.

Triocha bliadhna, seacht m-bliadhna,
 Is seadh ro shloinn damhsa an fiadhedh,
 In airdri n-Ghaidheal n-glan,
 Mo gheanar firn Alban.

Ni bhearaidh gai na claidheamh¹
 Ni theid do rinn na d'aighedh,
 Ba ir Roimh Lethu adbela,
 Biaid² sin a airdscela.

The fair, the brown will give love
 A king the best who possessed Alban,³
 He was a king of kings fortunate,
 He was the vigilant ernisher of enemies.

No woman bore or will bring forth in the East
 A king whose rule will be greater over Alban,
 And there shall not be born for ever,
 One who had more fortune and greatness.

Thirty years and seven years
 Is what the Lord declared to me
 In the sovereignty of the pure Gael,
 Happy for the men of Alban.

Nor spear nor sword shall take him,
 He comes not to the knife point nor to death,
 It was at Rome in Latium he died,
 They shall be there the high tales.

¹ a reads sciaith, shields.

² b reads Ba h-iad.

³ Malcolm Canmore, who reigned thirty-seven years.

Mo nuar ! ann¹ nos gebhadh righe
 Ceithre oidche is aon mhi,
 Truagh leam no muirfeidh Gaidhel,
 Maircc bhias co a chomh-maidhemh.

Nos geabhaidh an Ri ruaimnes gail
 Mac na mna do Saxanaibh,
 Ni ba gairid, acht ba fada,
 Ba lomlan Albain occu.

Tiocfaidh² bliadhain is da bliadhain
 Sloinnfidh dibh uair as diamhair,
 Ba lomlan Albain shiar is shoir
 Truagh leam nos mairfe a bhrathair.

Iar sin nos geabhaidh Domnall Ban,
 Uch ! Uch ! mo chroidhe aga chradh,
 Is fria re tiaghaid a nall,
 Fir Albain do chum n-Eirenn.

Alas ! a king will possess
 Four nights and one month,
 Woe is me ! the Gael will slay him,
 Woe will be to the common joy.

The king will possess, casting slaughter,
 Son of the woman of the Saxons,
 It was not short but it was long,
 Brimful was Alban with him.

A year and two years will come,
 I will declare to you, the time is dark,
 Brimful was Alban, east and west,
 Woe is me, his brother will slay him.

After him will possess Domnall Ban,
 Alas ! alas ! my heart is pain to me,
 It is in his time will come over,
 The men of Alban to Erin.³

¹ Not in b.

² a reads fiche, twenty.

³ These stanzas allude to the reigns of Donaldbane and of Duncan, whose death is said to have been caused by his brother Edmund, who reigned after him in conjunction with Donaldhane.

Ceithre Ri fichid sin,
 On geed Ri gheabhas Albain
 Go Domhnall Ban dhailes graigh,
 Fhagbhas Albain do Gheintibh.

Co n-denaid a ttighe 'sa fhos,
 Fir Albain gan imarbhos,
 Ceithre¹ Righ diobh go m-brath m-bras
 For Eirinn in airches.

Four and twenty kings are there
 From the first king who will possess Alban
 To Domnall Ban who gives love,
 He will leave Alban to the Gentiles.

May they build their houses and their camps
 The men of Alban without sorrow,
 Four kings of them for ever
 Upon Erin in hostility.

¹ In a, coig, five, interlined.

X.

FROM THE LIFE OF SAINT CADROE, XI. CENT.

MS. S. HUBERT, AS PRINTED BY COLGAN, ACTA SANCTORUM, 6 MARCH.

PIETAS omnipotentis Dei sciens humanam naturam assidue inhiare caducis, ut tandem valeret aspirare manus, ex incomprehensibilis et æterni jure consilij ordinato tempore apparuit cum gratia erudiens nos, ut abnegantes impietatem et sæcularia desideria sobrie et iuste et pie vivamus, et tersa caligine vetusti erroris, portas vitæ cum exultatione intremus. Ne vero in extrema huius exulatus quis patriam petens deficeret. Venite, inquit, ad me omnes qui laboratis et onerati estis et ego reficiem vos. Et ne ignotum inchoetis iter: Ego, ait, sum via. Quid autem præmij euntem maneat, ostendit: per me, inquiens, si quis introierit, saluabitur. Huius ergo pactionis promissor, quo ad spem vitæ animaret consortes fragilitatis, mortalitatisque nostræ ad iter salutis excitatos, debilitati infirmorum, in speculum exempli assidue proponere voluit; quorum multi ad justitiam verbo erudentes plurimos, iam fulgent ut stellæ in perpetuas æternitates. Plurimi exemplo suorum actuum, ad portam beatitudinis alios appulere, atque in domo Dei, qui ubique pro se laborantibus hilaris remunerator occurrit, ut eorum quisque potuit insundavere. Verum quia nostri iam aevi inertia, quibus ex iniquitatis abundantia refriguit charitas, usque adeo detorpuit, ut non modo collaboret, aut laborantes attendat, sed nec olim in vinea nostri Patris-familie laborantium actus, qui nobis solatio conscripti sunt, perserutari curet; indeficiens largitas Dei semper invenit quos preferat, ut si priorum negligimus lectionem, præsentium excitemur visione. Quorum, videlicet, monumentum honorum operum, et si cohors imitatores habet decorum est habeat scriptores, quia manus Domini non erit invalida, ut per id aliquando aliquos suæ servituti adjiciat, in hoc insistentibus mercede æternæ re nunc rationis salua. Quam multi appetentes, ad profectu, in quos fines sæculorum devenerunt, non tantum visa sed audita transmittentes, in domo Dei, aurum, argentum, lapides pretiosos, obtulerunt. Et nos qui pilos caprarum vix consecuti sumus, ad hæc applicuerunt, ut si imitandos sequi tardi simus, tamquam si cæcus iter monstrare velit, aliquem qui imitari debeat et possit, describere andeamus: et si diu¹ non valeamus, olim volentibus et valentibus stili materiam prebeamus.

Pactolus igitur Asiae fluvius, Choriam, Lydiamque regiones dividit super quem Chorischon urbem manus antiqua fundavit; eujus incole lingua et cultu nationeque Græci, multimodi laboris negotiis serviebant. Quorum obtenu navibus concensis per Pathmos Abidosque, Hellesponti Insulas, Thraciam superiorem devenerunt: opulentiaque regionis capti, patriam repedarunt: nec multo post constructa classe cum conjugibus et liberis univer saque supellectili, junctis sibi Pergamis et Lacedemoniis, ut cupitam terram possessuri peterent delegerunt. Jam ingressis Hellespontum exoritur aquilo cui frustra renitentes, eis Ephesus et Melos insulæ devolvuntur: sicque Ortigiam translegentes secus Cycladas insulas per mare Curpatium, Cretam incurrisse mirati sunt. Unde spe patriæ, consensa classe, vulturno a prora exorto, in Sicinum sinum detorquentur: moxque ut mare magnum Africum devenissent, nisi nimia vi ventorum acti, inter Coreiam et Inclytam, qui, mirum dictu, laesis oculis præbent medelam furibus afferunt cæcitatem; per Gallicum pelagus, Illirios simus errantes intrassent. Quid enim facerent? Sol occultaverat, luna et astra, profusa caligine damnaverant diem. Nusquam erat terra, hyems horrida cælestibus, ut ita credas, terrenas miscuerat undis, ut, antiquo redeunte, chaos omnia crederes miscuisse. Ablata erat miseris spes vivendi: quis euim tanta eorum non hor reat pericula ? Nam neque Æneas aut Ulisses, quos historiæ tradunt plurima pertulisse, tanta perferre potuerunt.

¹ Dñe in orig.

Itaque Illiricos exeuntes fluctus, inter Baleares insulas devecti, Ebusum Hispanticum intraverunt. Nec multo post per Gaditanas undas occidentale pelagus ingressi, appulsi sunt, rupibus quæ visus hominum altitudine excedentes, antiqui erroris fama, columnæ Herculis dictæ fuerunt. Hinc illinc Africo vento exurgente post immensa pericula in Tyle ultimam detorquentur : ibi vero superno intuitu, qui futura, miseratione, vocabo, inquit, non gentem meam, gentem meam, et non misericordiam consecutam, misericordiam consecutam ; Ventos compescuit, æquora placavit. Tunc quo venissent quia nesciebant, aliquantis per recreati aliquando refectis navibus ut gentiles se fortunæ, vela ventis, classem Neptuno committunt, et Deo jubente tandem prospero cursu juxta Cruachan feli, montem Hiberniae applicuerunt.

Crassus Chaldæam in suo sanguine cruentaverat : Magnus Pompeius Reipublicæ urbis consulebat : Julius Cæsar Gallos rebelles septennali congressione damnabat. Igitur ad terram egressi, ut moris est, situm locorum, mores et habitum hominum explorare, gentem Pictaneorum reperiunt. Cloin urbs est antiqua Hiberniæ, super Synam fluvium; hujus habitatores advenientium naves succendere volentes mox armis devicti privati sunt : post vero Chorischii videntes terram lactis et mellis fertilem frequenti congressione insulanos illos debellantes Artmacham Metropolim, totamque terram inter lacus Erne et Ethioch invaserunt, longe lateque diffusi: Cedar civitatem, Corach quoque Muminensis urbem ceperunt. Jamque consortati Benchor Vllidiae urbem obcessam intraverunt.

Fluxerunt [ali]quot anni, et mare sibi proximum transfretantes Eucam insulam, quæ nunc Ioua dicitur, repleverunt. Nec satis, post pelagus Britanniæ contiguum perlegentes, per Rosim amuem, Rossiam regionem manserunt:¹ Rigionath quoque Bellethor urbes, a se procul

¹ Manserunt probably for invaserunt.

positas, petentes, possessuri vicerunt ; sieque totam terram suo nomine Chorischiam nominatam, post eujusdam Lacedemonii Æneæ filium nomine Nelum, seu Niulum, qui Princeps eorum fuerat, et olim Ægyptiam conjugem bello meruerat, nomine Scottam, ex vocabulo conjugis, patrio sermone depravato, Scotiam vocaverunt, atque post annorum curricula, per beatum Patricium, armis induiti fidei, Christo Domino colla submiserunt ; quorum multi fuere, qui legitime in stadio fidei decertantes, æternæ remunerationis palmam adepti, in sacrario Divinitatis laureati, Christo assistunt. Sed quia beati eorum actus, proprias repleverunt paginas, ne alieno labori onerati¹ simus, quæ nota sunt supersedenda judicavimus.

Quoniam vero in ignem semel manum externæ gentis viros describendo, misimus ab eis minus recedentes, licet in culto sermone filium ecclesiae novellam olivam, ortam in campus sylvæ statuere promisisimus. Regii igitur sanguinis, opibus eximiis vir quidam nomine Fait-each fuit, qui divitiis et nobilitate similem sibi sortitus est conjugem, nomine Baniam, quæ in flore juventutis suæ ex priore viro suo filios suscepserat, sed post huic conjuncta sterilis permanebat. Unde post multa sanctorum suffragia, quæ ad piissimas Dei Omnipotentis aures admoverat Beati Columbani, cum viro suo adivit merita ; nec suo voto est frustrata, namque cum ad sepulchrum ejus, cum jejunis et orationibus pernoctassent vix obdormierunt, et singulas se tenere candelas cum lumine indissimiliter videbant, quas cum attenderunt lætantes, subito in unum lumen compactas mirabantur : et ecce vir præclarí habitus apparuit, tuæ, inquiens, mulier, meam inficerunt stolam lachrymæ et in conspectu Dei astiterunt preces ; et qui oranti Annæ concessit Samuelem, petentique Jacobo conceptum dedit Rebeccæ, jussit ut concipias et parias filium, nomine Kaddroe, futurum lumen Ecclesiæ, qui juxta nominis sui virtutem [habuit]. Bellator in castris Domini invictus ascendet ex adverso opponens murum, paratus stare in prælio pro domo Israël. Somno itaque excitati, cum gratiarum actione congratulantur visioni, nec incerti de promissa misericordia domum cum exultatione redeunt; quod talem suscepturi essent prolem, fit commune gaudium.

¹ Oneri in orig.

Interea concepit mulier et peperit filium cui juxta Domini mandatum, Kaddroë imposuit vocabulum. Fama nati pueri finitimas repleverat regiones; ut moris est patriæ, accurrit vulgus nobile, diversum sexu et aetate, avidus puerum educare. Mater ergo tantorum nobilium potentium cavens, scilicet, inimicitias, cui Deus juberet dari, respondit se subtrahere non posse. Forte strato decubuerat, cum illi inter tantos somnus obrepstis, vixque leniter per membra diffusus videre fecit quasi domum circumvolasse accipitrem, et omnibus semotis matronæ cuiusdam vertici insedisse. Expergefacta, dehinc circumstantibus, quid viderit, narrat. Tunc vero communione omnium consultu, matronea nutriendus traditur. Qui sublatus in domum mulieris atque ablactatus est. Cujus pater jam in tenera indole futuram praesentiens industriam sacerdotalibus rebus innutrire tentabat.

Erat autem pueri patruelis, Beanus nomine, ab ineunte aetate Christi gaudens, servitute, pervagil in orationibus, eleemosinis intentus, servator sui: qui, si fieri posset, omnes ad Christum trahere volens, conversus ad Deum pro pueri salute totis incubuit precibus: mox Divina clementia affuit, atque in visu senem, a patre puerum ad scholas reposci jussit. Paruit senex, et viro, super negotio convenit. Abnegat ille et senem quasi errantem risit; denuo vero rem repetere jussus, patrem pueri repetivit, mandata pandit, utque puer ei, qui dederat, reddi debeat insistit. Tunc homo aegre se ferre a viro importune infestari, que nolebat reposci, senem errare judicio, non posse se amittere filium sibi per repromotionem in senectute matris generatum, baculum senectutis parentum, quem tanta familia expectabat Dominum.

Itaque sene recedente sine effectu, visitavit Dominus matrem pueri, concepitque iterum et genuit filium nomine Mattadanum, adjecitque Dominus admonere senem, vade, inquiens, dic patri pueri; age homo, repeto abs te puerum, jussus a Deo, qui tibi substituit alterum illius loco: qui si noluerit, die illi imminere iram Divinæ animadversionis. Nec mora virum adiit pro re allocuturus. Cui renuenti; adquiesce, inquit, ne contradicentem te invadat districtio supernæ ultiionis. Quod si me non jussum ex meo dicere adscribis, imminentis tibi ire indicio, equus, qui tibi melior est, moritur. Mira velocitas. Adhuc volvabantur in ore senis verba, cum puer stabularius interitum nunciat. Quo auditio irruit viro terror, dirigitque et calor ossa reliquit. Tandem viro illachrymans licet invitus cum matre pergens ad tumulum Beati Columbani, infantem Deo qui petebat afferens, seni praedicto nutriendum tradidit. Susceptum igitur puerum senex curavit atque in Divina lege, ut potuit eruditivit. Jam infantia emerserat, et adolescentiæ proximus, acris ingenii acie coævos preibat.

Interea quidam pestifero spiritu agitati, nutritores olim infantis devastabant. Qui virium resistendi inhabiles, adolescentulum adeunt, sue miseria querimoniā pandunt. Moris namque est patriæ, ut, si qui nobilium infantem nutrient, deinceps non minus genitoribus ejus in omnibus auxilium exquirat. Ut autem juvenem in suo adiutorio incenderent; cum te, inquunt, nutrimus si oves vel equos lavassemus, horum lacte pasti equorum vehiculo melius hostium rabien declinaremus, qui te præsente, prædæ et vastitati succubimus. Forte Beanus aberat cum juvenis commotus arma corripuit; et socios inclamans, hostes insequi deliberavit: jamque ripæ fluminis inundantis trans quem hostes erant, astiterant et navium usus exquirebatur et unus ex numero comitum, ordine clericus custos juveni deputatus, seni reverso rem renunciavit: tunc vero complosis manibus in lachrymis resolutus, bonum te, ait, custodem juvenis dereliqui. Cumque ille non potuisse se resistere satisfaceret; moras, ait Beanus, rumpe, et ut me præstoletur coge. At ille, cum adolescentem cæptis non destitutum omnino diceret; senex proferens, quo solebat uti, Evangelium hoc, inquit, defer, et me, ut aperiatur, contestare. Praecedit clericus mandata senis cum signo deferens, et lachrymantem, et contradicentem in ripa stare compulit : sequitur Beanus, et causam iræ adolescentis exquirit. Ille vero rem retulit, nec sibi aiebat esse posse integrum, ut dolorem nutritorum pateretur manere inultum. At senex ejus efferos animos mitigabat. Illi autem non acquiescenti ait senex ; super hoc ergo exquire ejus voluntatem cui promisisti fidem, et ut scire valeat aperit librum quem ab eo receperat et versum quem primum invenit arripuit ; erat autem : Si quis quod tuum est tulerit ne repetas. Hoc autem cum ei non satisfaceret, denuo revolvit sententiam et incurrit juveni contrarium, quæ erat, omnes qui acceperint gladium, gladio peribunt ; tertioque revolventi occurrit : Serve, nequam omne debitum dimisi tibi quoniam rogasti me, omne ergo oportuit te misereri conserventui, sicut et ego tui misertus sum ? Cumque his contradicere non posset, in pace cum viro Dei reversus lectioni et orationi vacabat attentius.

Quadam autem die, festa senex membra stratulo collocaverat, et Cathroë cum sociis haud procul quiescebat, cum homini Dei virgo apparuit, fulgore vultus fulgorem solis vineens, adeo annosa, ut non eam putares nostri temporis licet videretur juvenis septiformi veste induita, cui quidquid dici et excogitari potest intextum erat. Quam senex miratus, quæ et unde esset inquirit. Tunc illa ego, ait, sum sapientia, quæ habito in consiliis et eruditis intersum cogitationibus, et hunc veni assumere juvenem, visu evanuerat ab oculis intuentis, et juvenis amore corripitur discendi ; quem, nisi sœcularibus, tradatur studiis, moriturum putares. Intellexit vir Dei, quod viderat, et paratis quæ viae et scholæ erant necessaria, adolescentem Hiberniæ Metropolim apud Ardmacham in pristino disciplinarum se reclusit, non veritus post dogmata divina mundanas litteras querere, ut his lucidius climatus, quæ olim didicerat melius posset examinata proferre, cum legeret Platонem gentium Philo-sophum fama eximiae accitum, Ægyptum petisse, atque cum eodem propheta coloratis verbis unum super omnia Deum, quem ante ignorabat, recepisse. Instructitur itaque et coævos contubernalesque suos longe præcedens gymnasium sapientiæ, ipsa ductrice, angulatim percurrebat. Quid ultra? quod poëta cecinit; et orator dixit, quidquid philosophus excogitavit expertus, nihil illum fugit. Quidquid numero, mensura et pondere, tactu et auditu, a quoquam vestigatum est, ebit: et ultimum astrorum occultos tractus et cursus radio doctius Egino, quo nescio an aliquis in cœli hierarchia probatior sit, designavit.

Taliterque edoctus, æquore remenso ad Beanum rediit et per totam Scotiam conservis suis triticum sapientiæ sibi creditum fideliter erogavit. Licet enim Scotti multa millia paedagogorum habeant, sed non multos patres. In disciplinis enim artium hic illos genuit: unde quia labia ejus erudierunt plurimos, non sociabatur si afflito; nam a tempore adventus sui, nullus sapientum mare transierat; sed adhuc Hiberniam incolebant. Lætabatur senex juvenem proficere et ad cuncta, quae tentabat, neminem similem habere.

Interea præteribat tempus, utque Dominus adolescens in viam salutis dirigeret homo Dei precabatur: nec longinqua Dei miseratio fuit, qua se in veritate invocantes semper audit. Cumque unius noctis vigiliis fatigatus, post hymnos, membra lectulo collocaisset, ut sæpe mane incæptus et latus est, somnus subierat senem; neque pleniter obdormierat, nec pæne vigilabat, sed quandam in extasim raptus; vidiit magnorum virorum fieri conventum, quos admirans, aliquid magni acturos sperabat. Tum illorum unus cæteris reverentior, militiam, inquit, Regis æterni a sæculis ordinatam augere expedit; vos, ait, reliquos, ex his qui hic quiescent, juvenibus quosdam adscribatis, qui in conspectu imperatoris, saltus dare debeant. Ille qui venit saliens in montibus, transiliens colles dixerit: huicque qui nos aspicit, quid transilire debeant, ostendere præcipit. Dicitur itaque Beanus et videt tres terræ defossos specus, quorum primus et secundus non parvæ erunt quantitatis, tertius altitudine nimii horroris, immensæ latitudinis. Hujus ulterior ripa plena splendoris erat et gaudii. Quid sibi hæc vellent non cunctatur senex inquirere : responsumque est, hos debere juvenes transilire si gratiam imperatoris vellent habere : at vero seni, periculum Cathroë timenti, ne, inquit, magnificus ille, vir, paucas : transilient enim, licet dispariliter, sed iste fælicius præcedet, cui magis times ; et ne causam visionem existimes, quid specus significant attende : primus itaque, rerum est spontanea amissio : secundus patriæ relictio : tertius monastice vitæ exercitatio. Porro ripa illius exultationis, vitæ perennis perceptio. Disparuit ergo visio et senex excutitur lecto.

Non multi post transierunt dies et ipsi a Domino dicitur; Cathroë, exi de terra tua et de cognatione tua et de domo patris tui et veni in terram, quam monstravero tibi et constituam te ducem populi mei atque sustollam super altitudinem nubium et citabo hæreditate Jacobi Patris tui. Expergefactus juvenis amore corripitur peregrinationis, et relictis omnibus, viam peregrinandi ingreditur. Fama rem vulgaverat, et cunctos divites et pauperes mæror et luctus invasit. Accurrit omnis ætas et omnis conditio, et velut exitium et vastitas totius Scotiæ appropinquaret omnium lachrymabilis acclamatio : cur nos, Pater, deseris aut cui laboris tui fructum derelinquis ? quare tibi peregre ire placuit, cum omnes advenæ apud Deum simus : et habitatione cedar incolatum nostrum, te docente, plan-gamus ? prolongaris ? Aspice quasumus fructum quem tantos docendo facere potes et quibus necesse est opem scientiæ impertire. Nunquid in Joannis visione non attendis, Patris æternum verbum, quid te moneat ? Qui audit, inquit, dicat veni. Motus ergo his fletibus aliquantis per ibidem moratus, in semetipsum ipse insurrexit.

Propter manabat annis cursus validissimi ; juxta quem, ut cerebro contingit, succereverat moles cujusdam arboris ; noctibus itaque, solo Deo teste, illuc accedebat ;¹

¹ Accedens in orig.

exutus vestibus, in maximi horrores frigoris se mittebat in flumen ; et ne vi fluctus præceps rueret, manu tenebat, quem arbori circumligaverat, funem ; et tamdiu ibi stabat quamdiu compleret a centesimo decimo octavo, usque ad centesimum tertium Psalmum.

Interea ruente hyeme æquaora detumebant et propositæ peregrinationis denuo aggreditur viam. Tunc vero mæror et luctus iterum totam oœcupabat regionem, atque accurrentibus omnibus, Rex, qui præerat Patriæ, Constantinus nomine, hominem retenturus accurrit. Parte itineris jam emensa, Beatae Brigidae. Cathroë oraturus subintraverat ædem, cum e diversis partibus accitum vulgus, nobile et rusticum complevit Ecclesiam. Virum omnes rogant ne deserat patriam. Ad quos ille conversus, Regi et omnibus hoc tantum respondit. Vos, inquit, non deseram, dum ubique fuero, vestram habebo memoriam. Tunc clamor populi attollitur et Sanctorum reliquiis ante eum positis, eorum obtestatione, ut sibi adquiesceret roabant. Illo vero si ad hoc, ait, Sanctorum reliquias attuletis ut me a voluntate proposita compesceretis, mecum eorum suffragia petite, ut utrum viam salutis ingressus sim dignentur ostendere. Christus enim cum relinquenteribus patrem et matrem, fratres et sorores, et sua quæque præponeret ; nihil consilii vestri subintulit. Abrahæ quoque, quia obediens Deo exivit de terra sua et de domo patris sui reputatum est ad justitiam. Frustra itaque Regi cum plebe laboranti et maxima quæque promittenti, dum non adquiesceret, parentes ejus moti, tumentesque eum jurgio ; si, inquunt, precibus non valeamus, ferreis vinculis et carcere cohibebeimus. Hoc, ait vestrae est potestatis ; verum quamdiu in vinculis ero, nullo modo bibam vel manducabo. Forte cum Rege, Abbas quidam nomine Mailodarius advenerat ; qui, ut erat æquis consilio, si, ait, virum hunc a voluntate proposita non valeamus avertere, prout quisque potest, auxilium viæ impendamus, ut remunerationis ejus laborum consortes esse valcamus. Tunc omnes certatim auri et argenti, vestium et equorum adjutoria impendentes, cum benedictione Dei dimiserunt et Regis ipsius ducamine venit usque ad terram Cumbrorum.

Douenaldus Rex illi praeerat plebi, et quia erat propinquus viri, cum omni gudio occurrit, et secum aliquandiu retinens, conduxit usque Loidam Civitatem quæ est confinium Normannorum, atque Cumbrorum, ibique excipitur a quodam viro nobili Gunderico, a quo perduicitur ad Regem Erichium in Euroacum Urbem, qui scilicet Rex habebat conjugem, ipsius Divini Cathroë propinquam; unde egressus Lugdinam Civitatem expetiit atque a quodam sene Heyfrido nomine, susceptus mansit noctu. Itaque per incuriam urbs ipsa incenditur et maxima jam ex parte consumpta, quod supererat, vietrix flamma lambebat. Tunc vero Deus quid Cathroë apud se haberet meriti declarare voluit. A sene igitur rogatur, ut orando pereunti succurat. Cui confisus in Domino inter ignem et quod residuum erat currens, conversus ad Dominum dixit: Tibi, Domine, ornere quod est famulatur. Jube ergo terrores æstuantum cessare flamarum. Hæc breviter dixit, elevataque manu, retro abire jussit incendium. Videres flammarum velut vi venti retortam panlatim deficiendo emori. Sic lætantibus omnibus civitas liberata est. Tua sunt hæc opera Deus, qui gloriosus in virtutibus tuis, ad gloriam tui nominis; qui olim in populum murmurantem, exortum incendium, orante Moyse, absorberi jussisti, tunc per famulum tuum Cathroë flammis urbem liberasti.

Fama tunc transvolens et totam replens regionem ad Regem usque, qui in Vindecastra Civitate erat, Hegmundum nomine devenit. Qui continuo accersitum hominem ad se, venire petit et aliquandiu secum esse rogans ejus colloquiis delectatus, per Archiepiscopum ejusdem urbis, Otthonem nomine, in portum usque, qui hymen dicitur, deduxit. Ibi igitur consensis navibus, cum in altum irent, vento excito, littori sunt restituti. Putasne, lector, et auditor, Deum nolle ut homo iste mare non transiret. Nomine Paulus ad coronam Romanam navigans naufragium, hyemem et famem vix evasit.

T W E L F T H C E N T U R Y.

XI.

METRICAL PROPHETCY, MCIV-MCXXIV.

a MS. COLB. BIB. IMP. PARIS, 4126.

b MS. BRIT. MUS. BIB. REG. 9. B. IX.

REGNUM Scotorum fuit, inter cetera regna
Terrarum, quondam nobile, forte, potens.
Reges magnifici, Bruti de stirpe, regebant
Fortiter, egregie, Scotia regna prius.
Ex Albanacto, trinepote potentis Enee,
Dicitur Albania : littera prisca probat.
A Scota, nata Pharaonis regis Egypti,
Vt veteres tradunt, Scotia nomen habet.
Post Britones, Danaos,¹ Pictos, Dacosque,² repulsos
Nobiliter Scotti jus tenuere suum.

Facta ducis celebris, super omnia, Scocia flebit ;
Qui loca septa salo junget ubique sibi.
Principe magnifico tellus viduata vacabit ;
Annis bis termis, mensibus atque novem.
Antiquos reges, justos, largos, locupletes,
Formosos, fortes, Scotia mesta luget.³
Vt Uerilinus⁴ ait, post reges victoriosos,
Regis more carent, regia sceptra feret.⁵
Serviet angliceno regi per tempora quondam,
Proh dolor Albania ; fraude subacta sua.
Quod respirabit, post funus regis avari,
Versibus antiquis prisca sibilla canit.

¹ b has Danaeos.

² b has ducesque.

³ These six lines not in b.

⁴ b reads Merlinus, which seems the correct reading.

⁵ b has g. ruit.

Rex borealis enim, numerosa classe potitus,
 Affliget Scotos ense, furore, fame ;
 Extera gens tandem Scotorum fraude peribit ;
 In bello princeps Noricus ille¹ cadet.
 Gallia quem gignit, qui gazis regna replebit,
 O dolor ! O gemitus ! primus ab ense cadet.
 Candidus Albanus, patriotis causa ruine
 Traditione sua Scotia regna premet.²
 Posteritas Bruti, Albanis associata,
 Anglia regna premet morte,³ labore, fame.
 Quem Britonum fundet Albani juncta juventus ;
 Sanguine Saxonico tincta rubebit humus.
 Flumina manabunt, hostili tincta eruore
 Perfida gens omni lite subacta ruet.⁴
 Regnabunt Britones, Albani gentis amici ;
 Antiquum nomen insula tota feret,
 Ut profert aquila veteri de turre loeuta,
 Cum Scottis Britones regna paterna regent.
 Regnabunt pariter, in prosperitate quieta,
 Hostibus expulsis, judicis usque diem.⁵
 Hystorie veteris Gildas luculentus orator,
 Quem retulit, paruo carmine plura notans :
 Mens, cor, cur capiunt ; lex Christi vera jocunda,
 Primam cunctorum tibi dat formam futurorum.
 Draco draconem rubens album superabit ;
 Anglorum nomen tollet ; rubei renovabit.
 Solis in oceasu leopardi viscera frigent ;
 Vertices et cerebrum Cambria tollet ei.
 Quo duce sublato, tria ovantia regna peribunt,
 Saxonie soboli lilia frena dabunt.
 Vermis Germanici leopardi tincta veneno
 Lilia vincendi fugere presto cadet.
 Euphrates, et Tigris, Forth Thanesis Ronaque Nilus,
 Per mundi metas lilia subtus erunt.

¹ b reads ense.² b reads teret.³ for premet morte, b reads terent | does not contain the concluding peste.⁴⁴ These four lines not in b.⁵ The poem in b ends here, and does not contain the concluding fourteen lines.

XII.

CONTINUATION OF SYNCHRONISMS OF FLANN
MAINISTREACH. MCXIX.

a MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF LECAIN.

b MS. BODL. RAWLINSON. B. 512.

C EITHRI bliadhna 7 ced o cath Briain co bas Muirceartach meic Toirdhelbaig.

Coic ri for Albain fris sin i.

Donnchad mac Crinain

Donnchad mac Mailcolaim.

Macbethad mac Findlaech

Lulach mac Miebethadh

Malcolaim mac Domnchada, ise do cear le Francu 7
Eduuard a mac.

TRANSLATION.

Four years and one hundred from the battle of Brian to the death of Murcertach, son of Toirdelbach. (1014-1119.)

Five kings over Alban during that time ; viz.,—

Dunean son of Crinan,

Duncan son of Malecolm,

Macbeth son of Finlaech,

Lulach son of Macbeth,

Malcoln son of Duncan. He was slain by the Normans, with his son Edward.

XIII.

FROM THE WELSH "BRUTS," MCXX-MCXXXV.

a MS. BRIT. MUS. COTT. CLEOPATRA, B. V.b MS. JESUS. COLL. OXON. LLYFR COCH.c MS. HENGWRT. 536.d MS. HENGWRT. 313.

A.

BRYTAIN ŷw henw yr orev or ŷnysset a elwit weith arall gynt Albion, sef oed hŷnnŷ y wen ŷnŷs ŷssŷd ossotedec y rwng Freinec ac Ywerdon.

B.

Ac ŷnŷdiwet hwn pŷmp kenedŷl ŷssŷd ŷnŷchŷuanhedu, nŷd amgen, Normanŷeit. Brŷttanŷeit. Saesson. Fichtieit ac Ysgottieit. ac o hŷnnŷ oll nŷd oed gynt ŷnŷ medu or mor pwŷ gilŷd namŷn Brŷttannŷeit eu hun, ŷnŷ doeth

TRANSLATION.

A.

Britain is the name of the best of the Isles which formerly was otherwise called Albion, which implied the white island, and is situated between France and Ireland.

B.

And in the present juncture there are five nations that inhabit it, viz., Normans, Britons, Saxons, Piets and Scots, and of all these, there were formerly none who possessed it from one sea to the other except the Britons themselves, until the Divine vendwŷwaul dial arnadunt am eu pechodeu ac yn bennaf am eu sŷberwŷt ydarystyngassant yr Fichtieit ac Saesson; mal y doethant ac or lle y doethant ef ageffir rac llaw.

C.

AGWEDY gwneithur y dinas kysgu a oruc Brutus yna gýntaf gan Ignogen y wreic, a thri meib aui ydaw o honei, nŷt amgen, Loerinus, Camber ac Albanactus. A gwedy gwledychu o Vrutes ar ynys Brydein yn hedychawl pedeyr blýned ar ugeint y bu varw, ac y cladpwŷt ef yn y gaer a adeiliassei e hunan yn amrydedus.

Ac yna y rannwŷt yr ynys yn deir ran rwg y tri broder, nŷd amgen, nogyd y Loerinus canys hynaf oed a ganaf o hen deuawd gwyr groec y lle pennaf, sef oed hynnŷ Lloygyr mal y dycho yteruynev o vor Hunyrr hŷt yn Hafren. Ac oŷ henw ef ehun y dodes ar y ran Lloygyr. Ac y Albanactus y doeth o Hunyrr hwnt, ac y dodes ynteu oŷ henw ehvñ ar y ran ef or ynys yr Alban. Ac y Camber y doeth or tu arall y Hafren ac y dodes ynteu ar y ran Kymre oŷ henw ehvñ.

geancee came upon them for their sins, and chiefly for their pride, they were subjected to the Piets and the Saxons. How they came, and from what place will be found in the sequel.

C.

And after he built the city, Brutus had by Inogen his wife three sons, viz., Loerinus, Camber, and Albanactus. And after Brutus had reigned peaceably over the island of Britain twenty-four years, he died and was honourably buried in the city he had himself built.

And thereupon the island was divided into three portions between the three brothers. That is to say, to Loerinus, as the eldest, according to an old custom of the people of Greece, the chief part which is Lloygyr, extending from the Humber to the Severn, and from his name he called it Lloygyr. And to Albanactus, all beyond the river Humber, and he also from his own name called his share of the island Alban. And to Camber, the other side of the Severn, and he called his portion Cymamry from his own name.

D.

YN oes hwnnw ȳ doeth Rodric brenhŷn ȳ Ffŷchtieit o Ssithia allynges ganthaw hŷt ȳr Alban a goresgŷn ȳr Alban aorue. Agwedŷ gwŷbot or brenhŷn hŷnnŷ. kynullan llu aorue adynt yn ev herbŷn ac ymlad ac wŷnt yn wraul, ac ev kŷmell ar fo gan ev llad.¹ Ac yñy fo hwnnw ȳ llas Rodric achan mwŷaf ȳ lu, ar hŷn adieng hŷs or wasgaredic llu, wŷnt a yñnirodassant yn gerth ȳr brenhŷn ȳr caffel ev heneŷdev. Ac yñtev arodes ydunt ran or Alban ȳ presswylliaw yñdy.² Agwedŷ y chŷvanledu onadunt wŷnt a doethant ar y Bryttannŷeit y erynnŷeit ev merchet yn wrech ae ydunt, ac nŷt oed deylwg gan y Bryttannŷeit dýwediev ev merchet ar alltudion arall wlat heb wŷbot o ba genedŷl yd hanoedŷnt. Ac wŷnt yn alltudyon ydunt heuŷd. Ac am hŷnnŷ ev nachan ar gwbŷl a orugant. Agwedŷ ev nackan wŷnt

D.

In his time [the reign of Meurie] Roderie, the king of the Piets, came from Scythia with a fleet to Alban, and made conquest of Alban. As soon as the king heard this, he collected an army and went against them, and fought valiantly with them, and put them to flight with slaughter, and in this flight Roderie was slain, with the greater part of his army ; and those who escaped of the dispersed army submitted themselves openly to the king to obtain their lives, and he gave them a district in Alban to inhabit ; but when they had settled themselves, they went to the Britons to ask their daughters in marriage, and the Britons would not marry their daughters to foreigners of another country without

¹ b and c insert here : Agwedŷ kaffelo l'urie y uudugolyaeth honno drychauel maen mae'r a wnaeth yn areyd kaffel o honow hŷnnŷ yr wlat a elwir o enw cf. Westymar. Sef yw hŷnnŷ ygkymrae Grys Meurue ac yng muen hwnnw yd yscrïeuw y grefithredod Meurue wrth gadw cofbyth.

After Meurue gained this victory, he set up a great stone as a token of it in the country, called from his name Westymar, but in Welsh Gwysmeurue, and on this stone there is an inscription to retain the memory of Meurue forever.

² b and c add : Ar wlat y rudes cf udunt hwy ebwit Katneis.

And the country which he gave them is called Caithness.

a aethant hŷt yn Ywerdon achŷmrŷt y Gwydelleseu yn wraget ydunt ac or rei hŷnnŷ¹ yd hiliws yr Yscottieit yr hŷnnŷ hŷt hediw.

E.

Decxxxi. AC ŷny blwŷdŷn honno y bu varw Beli vab Elphin.

Decxxviii. y bu rŷual² Mŷnyd Carno.

Decxxvi. y bu varw Owein brenhŷn y Pictieit.

Decl. ŷny vlwŷdŷn honno y bu ŷmlad³ rwng y Brit-knowing of what race they were, and aliens they were, moreover, and they altogether refused their petition, and after their refusal they went to Ywerdon, and married women of the Gwydyl, and from them have the Scots descended to this day.

E.

A.D. 721. In this year died Beli, son of Elphin.

728. In this year was the battle of Mynyd Carno.

736. In this year died Owen, king of the Picts.

750. In this year was the fighting between the Britons

¹ b and c conclude the passage thus: Ac or rei hynny kynydu plant ac etiuedyon ac amylhan pobyl. Ar bobyl honno yw y Gwydyl Efchti. A llynu megys ydœthant ac y kynhwyssewt yn gyntaf yn yr yngys honn, ac yr hynny hyf hediw ymaent yn ormes heb wynet o dyma. A chynnyt arweithais i draethu or gwyry hynny na or Yscottieit y rei henyt adechreuaasant kynydu eu kenedyl or rei hynny ac or Gwydyl: y peideis a hynny ac ymchoelut y draethu om desynd by hun.

And their children and offspring increased, and the people multiplied. This people are the Gwydyl Fichti, and it is thus they came and were first continued in this island, and to this day the host has remained without going from hence. I purposed to relate the increase of these men, or of the Scots, who commenied to increase their race from them and from the Gwydyl. I cease from this, and turn to relate other matter.

d concludes it thus: Ac rwyd yd ynsaasant yn pobyl honno ar bobyl honno a elwir Gwydyl Ffichtieit a llyma yr achans yg elwir hynt Gwydyl Ffichtieit ac ymaent etto yn ormes ar Brittanneyciet.

And thus arose this people, and this people were called Gwydyl Ffichtieit, and this is the reason that they were called Gwydyl Ffichtieit, and they are still a tribe among the Britons.

² b reads: pan bu brwydylr ym Mynyd Carn, when there was war in Mynyd Carn.

³ b reads: pan bu y brwydylr.

tan̄ȳeit ar Pictieit yr hw̄n a elw̄yt gweith Mecgetawc¹ ac yno y llas² Talargan brenhin y Pictieit. ac yn y v̄lw̄ydyn honno y bu varw Teudwr vab Beli.

Declx. y bu varw Dýfnaual vab Teudur.

Declxxiiij. y bu varw Cemoýd brenhin y Pictieit.³

Decelvi. y bu varw Cemoyth brenhin y Pictieit.³

Decelxx. y torret Twr Alclut.⁴

Decccxlivii. y diffeithw̄yt Stratclut y gan y Saesson.

Deccclxxiiii. y kyrchawd Dungwallawn brenhin Stratclut Ruvein.

and the Piets, which was called Gweith Mecgetawc, and in it was slain Talargan, king of the Piets, and in this year died Tendur, son of Beli.

760. Died Dyfnwal son of Teudur.

774. Died Cemoyd, king of the Piets.

856. Died Cemoyth, king of the Piets.

870. The tower of Alclyde was destroyed.

944. Strathelyde was ravaged by the Saxons.

974. Dunwallawn king of Strathelyde, went on a pilgrimage to Rome.

¹ Maesydawe in b.

² b reads : y lladawd y Britann-yeit, the Britons slew.

³ These entries not in b.

⁴ b reads : Kuer Alclut; and adds : y gan y Pagangeit, by the Pagans.

XIV.

TRACT ON THE PICTS, BEFORE MCLX.

MS. TRIN. COLL. DUBL. BOOK OF LEINSTER.

HISSIN aimsir sin tancatar Cruthnigh congabsat inber Slane in h-Cendselaig. Ros leic Crimthan chuce ar in leges fuair drui Cruithnech do do chath fri Tuath Fidga i. tuath de Bretnaib. Cach oen for i n-dergtais ba marb 7 nis gaibtis acht iarna nemidle. Conid e in leges blegon se fichef bo mael find do dortud is na h-ettrigil bale iferfaithe in cath. Unde cath Arddalemnacht. Et do rochratar uile Tuath Fidba trias in ceilg sin.

Co ro gaib Catluan mac Cing do Chruthentuaid nert mor for h-Erinn. Co ros inmarb h-Erimon.

TRANSLATION.

It was at that time [the time of Herimon] the Cruithneach came to Erin and landed at Inbher Slaine, in Uí Cennselaigh. Crimthan allowed them to settle in his territory on account of the remedy which the Druid of the Cruithneach discovered for him for making battle with the Tuath Fidga, viz., a people of the Britons. Every one whom they wounded was sure to die, and they used no other than poisoned weapons. And the remedy was to spill the milk of six score white hornless cows into the furrows of the place on which the battle was to be fought, whence the battle of Ardleamnachta. And the whole of the Tuath Fidhbha were cut off through that artifice.

And Cathluan, son of Cing of Cruithentuath, acquired great power over Erin, and Herimon banished him.

Is andsin tanic Cruithnechan mac Cinge do chuingid ban for h-Erimon. Co tarat h-Erimon do mnaa na fir ro batte oc na Dumachaib .i. Bres γ Brois γ Buagne. Et rath grene γ esca forra co na bad lugu ro gabtha ferand o feraib i Cruithentuaith quam o mnaib co brath.

After that, Cruithneehan, the son of Cing, came to beg for wives from Herimon. And Herimon gave him the wives of the men that were drowned at the Dnnachs, viz., Breas, and Broes, and Buagne. And they were obliged to give the sun and the moon as guarantees that not less should territorial succession be derived from men than from women for ever.

XV.

TRACT ON THE TRIBUTES PAID TO BAEDAN,
KING OF ULSTER, BEFORE MCLX.a MS. TRIN. COLL. DUBL. BOOK OF LEINSTER.b MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF BALLIMOTE.c MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF LECAIN.¹*d* MS. BODL. RAWLINSON. B. 506.e MS. BODL. LAUD. 610.

BA rig h-Erenn ȝ Alban Baetan Mac Cairill. Giallais Aedan mac Gabrain do irrois na rig i Semniu. Is do ro cet icbrith chisa Mumian do fo thuaid—

Is mor do milib fichef
 O Duin Baetain illetet.
 Is cian do thir, mar do muir
 Etarru is Imlech Ibair.²

(Cid misi o Raith chrnachan chain Tanic sund rem dligeadaib)

TRANSLATION.

Baedan son of Cairill was king of Erin and Alban. Aedan son of Gabran submitted himself to him at Ross na Righ in Seimhniu. Of him was said when he was taking the tribute of Munster northwards—

Many score of miles
 From Dun Baetan in Lethead,
 And much of land as of sea
 Between it and Imlech Ibhair.

Even I from Rath Crnachan the pleasant
 Who have come with my tributes,

¹ What is contained within parenthesis is in c only.

² c reads :—

Pota do thir, cian do muir Uaind siar co h-Imlech Ibair	Far of land, much of sea From us west to Imlech Ibar.
--	--

Is fota m-agaid iar praind,
An-dun Baedain meic Cairill.

Cid misi thanic o Sci,
Do ruachtus fo di sa tri
A coimed set ro elai dath ;
Is aduar in t-Albanach.

Caecca, seasgad, fil fon lind
Iter Manaind is Erind
Fil sund nonbar ro saig nem,
Is uamon a n-ailithir.

Cid misi o sleib Elpa,
At connacaeus mor n-eacra ;
Tucus mor n-arcaid is n-oir,
Cen eo fuaris onoir.

Is mor)

Et is leis glanta Manand (o gallaib conad re n-Ulltaib

Long is my face after dinner
In Dun Baedan of the son of Cairill.

Even I who have eome from Sky,
I have come twiee and three times
To convey gems of varying hue,
The Albanach feels negleeted.

Fifty sixty are on the water,
Between Manand and Erin,
Here are nine who seek for heaven
And sorrowful is their pilgrimage.

Even I from the Sliabh Elpa
I have seen great dangers
I have brought much silver and gold,
Although I have received no honour.

And it was by him Manand was cleared of the Galls, so that a for flaithius o sin ille) 7 issind dara bliadhna iar na ec dolleicset Gaedil Manaind.

its sovereignty belonged to the Ultonians thenceforth, and the second year after his death, the Gaél abandoned Manand.¹

¹ Baedan died, according to Tighernae, in the year 581; and in 583, the second year after his death, he records the battle of Manand by Aedan, king of Dal-riada, evidently connected with the above events.

XVI.

CHRONICLE OF THE SCOTS, MCLXV.

MS. COLB. BIB. IMP. PARIS. 4126.

CRONICA REGUM SCOTTORUM. CCC. ET IIIJ. ANNORUM.

Fol. 29.
verso.

FERGUS filius Eric ipse fuit primus qui de semine Chonare suscepit regnum Alban, id est, a monte Drumalban usque ad mare Hibernie et ad Inchegal. Iste regnavit iii. annis.

Domangrat filius ejus v. annis.

Congel filius Domangrat. xxxiii.

Goueran frater Congel xxii. annis.

Conal filius Congel xiiij. annis.

Edan filius Goueran xxxiiij. annis.

Eochod flavus filius Edan xvi. annis.

Kinat sinister filius Conal iij. mensibus.

Fercar filius ejus xvi. annis.

Dovenald varius filius Eochid xiiij.

Fergar longus xxi.

Eochal habens curvum nasum filius Donegarth filii Doneual varii iij.

Arinchellac filius Ferchar longi i. anno.

Ewen filius Ferchar longi xiii.

Murechat filius Arinchellac iij. annis.

Ewen filius Murcerdach iij.

Edalbus filius Eochal curvi nasi xxx.

Fergus filius Hedalbi iij.

Seluach filius Eogan xxiiij.

Fochal venenosus filius Edalbi xxx.

Dunegal filius Seluach vii.
 Alpin filius Eochal venenosii iij.
 Kynedus filius Alpini primus rex Scottorum xvi.
 Dolfnal filius Alpini iiij.
 Constantinus filius Kinet xx.
 Hed filius Kinet i. anno.
 Grig filius Dunegal xii.
 Duneval filius Constantini xi.
 Constantinus filius Hed xxv.
 Malcolin filius Duneuald ix.
 Indolf filius Constantine ix.
 Duf filius Malcolin iiij. annis et vi. mensibus.
 Culen filius Indulf iiij. annis et sex mensibus.
 Kinet filius Malcolin xxii. annis et ii. mensibus.
 Custantin filius Culen. i. anno et iiij. mensibus.
 Chinet filius Duf. i. anno et dimidium.
 Malcolin filius Kinet xxx. Hic magnum bellum fecit apud Carrun. Ipse etiam multas oblationes tam ecclesiis quam clero ea die distribuit.
 Macheth filius Findleg xvii.
 Lulac nepos filii Boide iiij mensibus et dimidium.
 Malcolin filius Dunecan xxxvii. et dimidium et iiij.
 mensibus. Hic fuit vir Margarite regine filie nobilissimi.¹
 Matildis et Marie, sui generis celsitudinem conjugio, morum ingenuitate, scientie magnitudine, rerum temporalium larga in pauperes et in ecclesias dispensatione decenter orna-verunt. Matildis enim matrimonio juncta fuit Henrico Anglorum regi strenuissimo, qui de Francorum excellenti regum prosapia duxit originem : quorum sublimitas predicti, scilicet, et regis et regine ab hoc usque perducta est, ut ipsorum soboles Romani imperii tenuerunt dignitatem.
 Eorum namque filia N. prudencia forma diviciis digna imperio, imperatori uupsit Romano. Maria vero lege conjugii Eustachio comiti Boloniensi tradita, regina sorore non minor extitit probitate, licet regina caruerit potestate.
 Hujus itidem filia strenuum virum comitem Stephanum

¹ sic. Some words seem here omitted.

sponsum accepit de regali simul et consulari stirpe progenitum. Omitto filias adhuc viventes matres defunctas exemplo propono viventibus que cum seculi pompa quod raro invenitur divites sanctis extitere virtutibus pauperes utriusque sexus cujuscunque condicionis essent, ac si membra coluerunt Christi, religiosos clericos monachos sincero amore velud patronos et suos futuros judices cum Christo dilexerunt. Matildis regina kal. maij migravit de hac vita. Anno ab incarnatione Domini MCXVIII. sepultaque est honofifice in ecclesia Beati Petri apostolorum principis Westmonasterii juxta Londoniam Anglorum urbem nobilissimam. Maria autem comitissa ii^o. kal. Junii anno ab incarnatione Domini MCXVI. apud Bermundseiam ex altera parte prefate urbis monasterio Sancti Salvatoris in paec quievit; ubi a domino Petreio admirande sanetitatis viro tunc priore ejusdem loci Cluniacensis sed ad caritatem specialiter pertinentis gloriose sepulta est. Tumulus vero marmoreus regum et reginarum ymagines habens impressas genus quiescentis demonstrat. In superficiem ejusdem tumuli titulus aureis literis sculptus nomen et vitam et originem breviter ita comprehendit.

Nobilis hic tumulata jacet comitissa Maria.

Actibus hec nituit, larga benigna fuit.

Regum sanguis erat morum probitate vigebat.

Compatiens inopi, vivat in arce poli.

Edmundus vero frater earum vir strenuissimus et in Dei servicio, dum vitam ageret präsentem valde devotus apud Montem Acutum in quadam videlicet cella Cluniaccensi que ibi sita est requiescit humatus.

Dolfnal frater ejus regnavit annis iii. et vii. mensibus.

Dunchad filius Malcolin dimidium annum.

Eadgarus filius Malcolin ix. annis.

Alexander frater ejus xvii. annis et iii. mensibus.

David frater ejus xxx. Erat autem rex David vir piissimus, in religione catholicus, in principes munificus, in recuperandis basilicis studiosus, satis vigilis, et orationibus in tantum studens ut plus supplicationibus ad Deum profusis quam armis bellicis victoriam de inimicis optineret. Rex vero piissimus David multa dona fecit precipue tum edes sacras ubicunque in toto regno suo nectate¹ collapsas conterat² pontificibus et patribus ad quorum curam pertinebant ut restaurentur imperavit: adhibens curam per legatos ut imperata perficerentur. Unde sub ejus imperio multa sunt reparata, immo funditur edificata monasteria. Sed he precipue, monasterium puellare Sancte Marie et m[onasterium] puellare S[ancti] N[icholai] et multa alia puellaria et cetera plurima utrinque videlicet sexus virorum et mulierum, quibus veluti quibusdam lichenis totum decoratur Scocie regnum. Que omnia ipse piissimus David rex magnus auri et argenti ponderibus gemmarumque preciosarum exornavit muneribus, amplissimis etiam honoribus dicavit; et insuper, quod preciosius est sanctissimis reliquiarum patrociniis insignivit. Has omnes idem rex potens et piissimus honorabiliter multis excolebat muneribus, sed Melrosensem precipue inter omnes ecclesias et fideliter defensabat et duleiter diligebat et suis opibus exornabat. Ceterum omnia ejus gesta que vulgo narrantur, non sunt hic propter vitandum fastidium legentis pleniter explanata.

Maleolin filius filii David xii. annis et vi. mensibus et xiii. diebus.

Willelmus frater ejus Ab anno primo Willielmi regnum Scottorum anni CCC.XV.

WILLELMUS rex rufus filius Henrici, filii David filii Malcolaim filii Domnechada, qui fuit nepos Malecolaim filii Cinada, filii Maccolaim, filii Domnaill, filii Constantin, filii Cinacha, filii Alpin, filii Echach, filii Eda-find, filii Echadach, filii Echach, filii Domongrat, filii Dommail-brie, filii Echach-buide, filii Edan, filii Gabran, filii Domangrat, filii Fergusa, filii Eire, filii Echach-muinremuir, filii Oengusaphir, filii Fedelinthe-aislingig, filii Oengusa-buiding, filii Fedelinthe-ruammaich, filii Senchormaic, filii Cruitlinde, ¹ sic.

² sic.

filii Findfece, filii Achircir, filii Achachantoit, filii Fiacrach-cathmail, filii Echdach-riada, filii Conore, filii Mogalanda, filii Luigdig, filii Ellatig, filii Corpre-crumpchimi, filii Dare-dormmoir, filii Corbre, filii Admoir, filii Conarre-moir, filii Eterscenil, filii Eogami, filii Elela, filii Jair, filii Dedaid, filii Sin, filii Rosin, filii Their, filii Rothir, filii Roin, filii Arandil, filii Manine, filii Forgo, filii Feradaig, filii Elelarami, filii Fiachra, filii Firmara, filii Oengusa-turmig, filii Firce-chairroid, filii Ferroid, filii Firanroid, filii Firaibrig, filii Labehore, filii Echachalt-lechin, filii Elela-casiaclaig, filii Conlaich, filii Erero, filii Moalgi, filii Cobthaig-coelbreg, filii Ugaine-moir, filii Ecdaig-buadaig, filii Duach-lograich, filii Fiachraig-duadach, filii Duach-lograich, filii Fiachraig-tollgreich, filii Muredaich-bollgreich, filii Semoin, filii Brice, filii Emidinb, filii Edom, filii Glaus, filii Nuadat-fail, filii Elehada-olchaim, filii Sirna, filii Dem, filii Demail, filii Rodehada, filii Ogmaich, filii Oengussa, filii Olmochada, filii Fiachrach-laibrinne, filii Finergnайд, filii Smereta, filii Eumocha, filii Tigernaig, filii Fallaig, filii Etheoir, filii Jair, filii Dermeom, filii Mele-despain, filii Bili, filii Nema, filii Brige, filii Brigoind, filii Bracha, filii Theacha, filii Erehaba, filii Aldoit, filii Noda, filii Nonail hemir, filii Goildil-glais, filii Neuil, filii Fenius-farsaid, filii Eogani, filii Glunud, filii Lanind, filii Etheoir, filii Jair, filii Agmemnom, filii Thri, filii Boi, filii Sem, filii Mair, filii Esro, filii Aduir, filii Hieridach, filii Aoth, filii Sran, filii Esro, filii Boid, filii Riafieh, filii Gomur, filii Jafeth, filii Noe, filii Lameth, filii Matussalem, filii Enoc, filii Jarech, filii Malalethel, filii Cainan, filii Enos, filii Sed, filii Adam, filii Dei vivi.

XVII.

DESCRIPTION OF SCOTLAND, MCLXV.

MS. COLB. BIB. IMP. PARIS, 4126.

DE SITU ALBANIE, QUE IN SE FIGURAM HOMINIS HABET, ·QUONODO FUIT PRIMITUS IN SEPTEM REGIONIBUS
 DIVISA, QUIBUSQUE NOMINIBUS ANTIQUITUS SIT VO-CATA, ET A QUIBUS INHABITATA.

OPERE pretium puto mandare memorie qualiter Albania, et a quibus habitatoribus primitus habitata, quibus nominibus nuncupata, et in quot partibus partita.

Fol. 26.
verso.
—

Legimus in historiis et in cronicis antiquorum Britonum, et in gestis et annalibus antiquis Scottorum et Pictorum, quod illa regio, que nunc corrupte vocatur Scotia, antiquitus appellabatur Albania ab Albanecto juniore filio Bruti primi regis Britannorum majoris Britannie. Et post multum intervallum temporis a Pictis, Pietavia: qui regnaverunt in ea per circulum MLXX. annorum. Secundum quosdam MCCCLX. Nunc vero corrupte vocatur Scocia. Scotti vero regnaverunt per spacium CCCXV. annorum anno illo quo Willelmus rex rufus, frater Malcolmi viri honeste vite et virtutis, regnum suscepit.

Regio enim ista formam et figuram hominis in se habet. Pars namque principalis ejus, id est, caput, est in Arregarchel in occidentali parte Scocie supra mare Hybernie. Pedes vero ejus sunt supra mare Northwagie. Montes vero et deserta de Arregarchel capiti et collo hominis assimilantur. Corpus vero ipsius est mons qui Mound vocatur, qui a mari occidentali usque ad mare orientale extenditur. Brachia autem ejus sunt ipsi montes qui dividunt Scociam ab Arregaichel. Latus dextere partis ex Muref, et Ros, et Marr, et Buchen. Crura enim illius sunt illa duo principalia et preclara flumina, que descendunt de monte predicto, id est, Mound, que vocantur Tae et Spe: quorum unum fluit citra montem, alterum vero ultra in marc Norwegale. Inter crura hujus hominis sunt Enegus et Moerne citra montem, et ultra montem alie terre inter Spe et montem.

Hec vero terra a septem fratribus divisa fuit antiquitus in septem partes: quarum pars principalis est Enegus cum Moerne ab Enegus primogenito fratrum sic nominata. Secunda autem pars est Adtheodle et Gouerin. Pars etiam tertia est Sradeern cum Meneted. Quarta pars partium est Fif cum Fothreue. Quinta vero pars est Marr cum Buchen. Sexta autem est Muref et Ros. Septima enim pars est Cathanesia citra montem et ultra montem, quia mons Mound dividit Cathanesiam per medium. Quelibet ergo istarum partium regio tunc vocabatur et erat, quia unaqueque earum subregionem in se habebat. Inde est ut hii septem fratres predicti pro septem regibus habebantur, septem regulos sub se habentes. Isti septem fratres regnum Albanie in septem regna diviserunt, et unusquisque in tempore suo in suo regno regnavit.

Primum regnum fuit, sicut mihi verus relator retulit, Andreas, videlicet, vir venerabilis Katanensis episcopus, nacione Scottus et Dunfermelis monachus, ab illa aqua optima, que Scottice vocata est Froch, Britanice Werid, Romane vero Scottewattre, id est, Aqua Scottorum; que regna Scottorum et Anglorum dividit et currit juxta oppidum de Strivelin, usque ad flumen aliud nobile, quod vocatum est Tae. Secundum regnum ad Hilef, sicut mare circuit, usque ad montem aquilonali plaga de Strivelin qui vocatur Athran. Tertium regnum ab Hilef usque ad De. Quartum regnum ex De usque ad magnum et mirabile flumen quod vocatur Spe, majorem et meliorem to eius Scocie. Quintum regnum de Spe usque ad montem Bruinalbau. Sextum regnum fuit Muref et Ros. Septimum regnum erat Arregaithil.

Arregathel dicitur quasi Margo Scottorum seu Hibernensium, quia omnes Hibernenses et Scotti generaliter Gattheli dicuntur a quodam eorum primevo duce Gaethelglas vocato. Ibi enim semper Hibernenses applicare solebant ad dampna facienda Britannis. Vel idcirco quia Scotti Picti ibi habitabant primitus post redditum suum de Hibernia; vel quia Hibernenses illas partes occupavere super Pictos; vel, quod certius est, quia illa pars regionis Scottie affinitima est regioni Hibernie.

Fergns filius Eric ipse fuit primus qui de semine Chonare suscepit regnum Alban, id est, a monte Brun-alban usque ad mare Hibernie et ad Inchegall. Deinde reges de semine Fergus regnauerunt in Brun-alban, siue Brunhere, usque ad Alpinum filium Eochal. Kined filius hujus Alpini primus Scottorum annis xvi. in Pictinia feliciter regnavit.

XVIII.

LEGEND OF ST. ANDREW, MCLXV.

MS. COLB. BIB. IMP. PARIS, 4126.

QUALITER ACCIDERIT QUOD MEMORIA SANCTI ANDREE
APOSTOLI AMPLIUS IN REGIONE PICTORUM, QUE
NUNC SCOTIA LICITUR, QUAM IN CETERIS REGIONIBUS
SIT; ET QUOMODO CONTIGERIT QUOD TANTE ABBATIE
IBI FACTE ANTIQUITUS FUERINT QUAS MULTI ADIUC
SECULARES VIRI JURE HEREDITARIO POSSIDENT.

Fol. 31.
recto.

ANDREAS, qui interpretatur, secundum Hebream ethiologiam, decoris sive respondens, sermone enim Greco, a viro, virilis interpretatur, germanus Beati Petri Apostoli, choeres autem ejus gratia,¹ secundum Johanem Evangelistam primus Apostolus a Christo Ihesu Domino nostro electus; secundum vero Matheum, Marcumque, secundus. Hic sorte predictionis aquilonales nationes Cithias. Pictonesque, postreme Achaidas, ipsamque civitatem nomine Patras accepit. In qua etiam cruci suspensus est ii. kalendarum decembrium, ibique obenbuit, et in qua eustodita sunt ossa illius usque ad tempus Constantini magni, filii Helene, atque filiorum ejus Constantini cum Constante; quasi spatio celxx.tium annorum. In quorum regno a Constantinopolitanis, miro famosoque ductu, inde suscepta, atque translata sunt Constantinopolim, et cum magna gloria et maximo honore ibidem recondita sunt; et manserunt semper usque ad tempus Theodosionis, christiani imperatoris, spatio scilicet ex. annorum.

Tunc ² divino instinctu Rex Pictorum, nomine

¹ sic.² A word here erased.

Vngus filius Vrguist, cum exercitu magno consurgens, Britannicas nationes dexteram ejus insule inhabitantes, crudelissima vastatione interficiens, postremo pervenit usque ad campum Merc. Illic hiemavit. Eo tempore, omnes pene totius insule gentes, unanimo impetu venientes, circumdederunt eum, volentes eum cum exercitu suo penitus delere. Altera autem die, evenit Regi predicto, cum septem comitibus amicissimis, ambulare, et circumfulsit eos divina lux, et proni in facies suas, nou valentes eam sustinere, eccliserunt in terram, et ecce vox de celo audita est “Ungus, Ungus, audi me Apostolum “Christi, Andream nomine, qui missus sum ad te defen-“dendum, atque custodiendum, sed vide signum crucis “Christi, quod stat in aiere, atque procedat contra inimicos “tuos. Verumtamen decimam partem hereditatis tue, par-“tem et elemosinam Deo omnipotenti, et in honore Sancti “Andree ejus, offer.” Tertia autem die, divina voce ammonitus, suum exercitum in xii. turmas divisit: et signum crucis unamquamque partem precedebat; lux autem divina de uniuscujusque signi capite fulgebat. Tunc victores facti, Deo omnipotenti, atque Sancto Andree Apostolo, gratias egerunt. Patriam autem venientes incolimes, decimam sue hereditatis partem Deo, et Sancto Andree Apostolo venerabili, volentes offerre, implendo quod scriptum est, Date elemosinam et omnia munda sunt vobis. Incertum vero habebant in quo loco specialiter vectigalem Deo, principalem civitatem Saneto Andreo Apostolo, ordinarent.

Tuuc, initio concilio, binis, ternis, quatriduanis diebus, jejunantes, atque Dei omnipotentis misericordiam postulantes, unus custodientium corpus Sancti Andree Apostoli Constantinopoli, visione divina et revelatione ammonitus atque instructus est, dicente. “Exi de terra tua, et de “cognitione tua et de domo tua, et vade in terram quam “monstravero tibi,” tunc venit, Angelo comitante, atque viam illius custodiente, prospere pervenit ad verticem montis regis, id est, Rigmund.

Eadem autem hora, qua illic lassus sederet cum suis septem comitibus, lux circumfulsit divina Regem Pictorum, venientem cum suo exercitu ad specialem locum, qui dicitur Kartenan, et claritatem non ferentes ceciderunt in facies suas et sanati sunt claudi et ceci numero septem; et unus a nativitate cecus illuminatus est, et inde vidi locum plenum visitatione angelorum, et tunc voce magno clamavit, dicens, video plenum visitatione angelorum. Postremo Dei ordinatione Rex, cum suo exercitu, venit ad locum, quem Dominus illo ceco qui illuminatus fuerat ostendit.

Regulus vero monachus, a Constantinopolitana urbe peregrinus, regi obviavit cum reliquiis Sancti Andree Apostoli, quas secum hinc huc adduxerat, ad portam que dicitur Matha, id est, mordurus, salutaverunt se invicem cives et hospites, atque tentoria ibi fixerunt, ubi nunc est anla regis. Rex vero Ungus hunc locum, et hanc civitatem, Deo omnipotenti, Sanctoque Andree Apostolo, ea semper libertate dedit, ut sit caput et mater omnium ecclesiastarum, que sunt in regno Pictorum. Ad istam enim civitatem conveniunt peregrini palmarii de Jerusalem. Romani, Greci, Armenii, Theutonii, Alimanni, Saxones, Dani, Gallicani, Galli, Angli, Britones; viri et femine, divites, et pauperes, sani corpore et egni; claudi; ceci; in equis et curribus debiles hue deferuntur atque per Dei misericordias, ad honorem et gloriam sui summi Sancti Apostoli Andree, infestissime curantur. Virtutes, et signa, et innumerabilia prodigia per suum Sanctum Apostolum Andream, Dominus fecit hic, facit et facturus est, que hic non possint scribi.

Regulus vero abbas, atque monachus, cum suis caris comitibus, habitavit in loco isto in monachica vita, serviens Deo die ac nocte, in sanctitate et justitia, cunctis diebus vite sue. Quorum corpora hie requiescent. Iste Regulus tertiam partem tocius Scotie in manu sua, et potestate habuit, et per abbatias, ordinavit atque distribuit. Patria illa siquidem Pictis, Scottis, Dacis, Norvagensibus, ceterisque qui ad vastandum insulam applicuerant situ locorum, amenitatique faverat. Et si aliquando refugii opus fuisset, tutum receptaculum eis semper prestabat; et sese infra eam quasi in propria castra recuperant.

XIX.

FROM THE CONTINUATION OF THE ANNALS OF TIGHERNAC, MCLXXVIII.

MS. BODL. RAWLINSON, B. 488.

A.D.

- 1093 MAELCOLAIM mac Donnchadha Ri Alban occisus est
o Frangeaib 7 Edabard a mac 7 Marita ben Maileolaim do eg da cumaig.
- 1099 Domnall mac Donnchada Ri Alban do dalladh da braithribh fein.
-

TRANSLATION.

- 1093 Maeleolaim, son of Duncan king of Scotland, is slain by the Normans, and Edward his son and Marita the wife of Malcolm died of grief.
- 1099 Donald, son of Duncan king of Alban, blinded by his own brothers.

XX.

FROM THE LIFE OF SAINT PATRICK, BY JOCELINUS
OF FURNESS, MCLXXXV.a MS. BODL. RAWLINSON. B. 485.b MS. BODL. RAWLINSON. B. 505.

Cap cxxxv. DUODECIM fratres patre recenter defuncto, qui dominabatur in Dalredia, ad hæreditatem inter se dividendam, in unum convenerunt, suumque germanum minimum, nomine, Fergussum habentes despectui, a portione que illum continebat exortem et inanem dimiserunt. Adolescens ille præcabatur Sanctum Patricium, ut se, suarum obtentu precum efficeret hæreditatis paternæ participem, promittens se daturum Ecclesiæ Dei construendæ atque sustentandæ suæ portionis partem potiorem. Pontifice vero sancto pro eo exorante, atque negotium illius perorante, fratribus suis annumeratus Fergusius, competentem sibi¹ paternæ possessionis portionem percepit, cuius medietatem meliorem sanctissimo Praesuli ad ædificandam Ecclesiam obtulit. Quam Sanctus ne suam interventionem vendidisse videretur suscipere renuit, sed Oleario prænominato illam conferri jussit. Sanctus autem Olearius infra territorium sibi collatum in loco qui dicitur Derekan Ecclesiam ædificavit, ibique factus Episcopus, in sanctitate et justitia perseveravit. Sanctus vero Patricius benedixit prædictum Fergusum et voce prophetica dixit ad illum: Licet hodie videaris humiliis, et despectus in conspectu fratrum tuorum, eris in brevi Princeps et Dominus omnium illorum. De te optimi Reges egredientur, qui non solum in terra propria, sed et peregrina principabuntur. Elapso non magno temporis spatio, Fergusius, juxta vaticinium viri Sancti,¹ principatum in tota terra illa obtinuit, semenque illius per multas generationes in ea regnavit. Ex ejus stirpe processit strenuissimus Edanus filius Gabrani, qui Scotiam, quæ dicitur Albania, subegit et alias insulas; cuius in eis regnat adhuc successiva posteritas.

¹ sibi in a only.

¹ virii sancti in a only.

XXI.

GENEALOGY OF KING WILLIAM THE LYON, MCLXXXV.

MS. BRIT. MUS. COTT. FAUSTINA. A. VIII.

M.c.lxxxv. — CUM Symon comes filius Symonis comitis de Norhamton sine liberis decessusscit¹ Rex reddidit comitatum Huntedonie cum omnibus pertinentiis suis Willelmo regi Scottorum qui fuit filius Henrici Comitis filii regis Dauid qui fuit filius Malcolmi, filii Dunecani, filii Betoch, filii Malcolmi, filii Kynath, filii Malcolmi, filii Dunenald, filii Constantini, filii Kynath, filii Elpini, filii Eccach, filii Echa-phind, filii Ecdach, filii Douenald, filii Brich, filii Eccach, filii Binde, filii Edaim, filii Cobran, filii Douengard, filii Fergus-mor, filii Erch, filii Eccach-muinremor, filii Engussa fit, filii Fechelnech-aslingic, filii Enegussabutim, filii Fethelmech-romaig, filii Sencormach, filii Cruichlinde, filii Findachai, filii Akirkirre filii Eccach-andoth, filii Fiachrach-cathmail, filii Ecdac-riede, filii Conere-mor, filii Eders, filii Luctach-etothlach, filii Corbre-crungen, filii Dere-dronmor, filii Corbre-findmor, filii Cone-re-mor, filii Ederskeol, filii Ewein, filii Ellela, filii Jair, filii Dethach, filii Sin, filii Rosin, filii Ther, filii Rether, filii Rowein, filii Arindil, filii Mane, filii Fogso, filii Fere-dach, filii Ellela-earin, filii Fiachach-fimmora, filii Enegussa-turbung, filii Firketaroch, filii Firrocht, filii Anroth, filii Firalmai, filii Lameure, filii Liethan, filii Eccach-alde-than, filii Elela-cassieclai, filii Conletha, filii Iretro, filii Melge, filii Cobthai-caillbrech, filii Hugune-mor, filii Eccach-rothai, filii Duach-lotherai, filii Fieccach-bolgai, filii Sinon-brich, filii Eno-duf, filii Etheon, filii Glachs, filii Noethach-fail, filii Elcata-olcaim, filii Sirne, filii Dein,

¹ sic.

filii Demail, filii Rothotha, filii Ogmain, filii Eneagus-olmucha, filii Fiachach-labrahim, filii Smirnai, filii Sinrecha, filii Embata, filii Thiernai, filii Faleg, filii Etheor, filii Iairol-fatha, filii Ermon, filii Miscel-espaine, filii Bile, filii Neande, filii Brige, filii Brigain, filii Bratha, filii Deatha, filii Erchata, filii Aldoith, filii Node, filii Nonael, filii Eber-scoth, filii Gettel-glas, filii Neoil, filii Fenias-far-seth, filii Owan, filii Glouin, filii Lamin, filii Etheor, filii Achnomen, filii Thoe, filii Boib, filii Rein, filii Mair, filii Ethech, filii Abiur, filii Archech, filii Aoich, filii Ara, filii Fera, filii Esrau, filii Regaicht-scoth, filii Gomer, filii Jafeth, filii Noe.

A regione quadam que dicitur Seithia, dicitur Seita, Seitius, Scoticus, Scotus, Scotia. Similiter a regione qua-dam, que dicitur Getia, dicitur Geta, Geticus, Goticus Gotus, Ostrogotus, Withsigotus.

XXII.

FROM GIRALDUS CAMBRENSIS, TOPOGRAPHIA
HIBERNIAE, MCLXXXVI.a MS. BODL. RAWLINSON, B. 188.b MS. BODL. RAWLINSON, B. 483.

A.

D. III.
cap. vii.

A nomine vero predicti Heberi, secundum quosdam, Hybernenses nomen traxerunt, vel potius, secundum alios, ab Hybero Hyspanie fluvio unde provenerant. Dicti sunt et Gaideli; dicti sunt et Scoti, sicut enim antique referunt hystorie. Gaidelus quidam Phenii nepos post linguarum confusionem, apud Nembroticam turrim in variis lingnis peritissimus fuerat. Ob quam peritiam rex Pharao filiam suam Seociam ei sociavit uxorem, unde et quoniam Hyberniensis ab istis, ut aiunt, originalem lin-eam ducunt, a Gaidelo et Scotia, Gaideli et Scoti, sicut et nati sunt, sic et nominati. Gaidelus iste, ut asserunt, Hibernicam linguam composuit, que et Gaidelach dicitur: quasi ex omnibus linguis collecta. Scotia quoque pars insule Britannice dicitur Aquilonaris, quia gens originaliter, ab his propagata, terram illam habitare dinoscitur. Quod tam lingue, quam cultus, tam armorum etiam, quam morum, usque in hodiernum probat affinitas.

B.

Cap. xvi.

Hic quoque notandum videtur, praedicto Nello Hibernie Monarchiam obtinente, vi filios Muredi Regis Ultonie, in classe non modica, Boreales Britannie partes occupasse.

Unde et gens ab hiis propagata, et specificato vocabulo Scotica vocata, usque in hodiernum angulum illum inhabitant. Sed quibus ex causis hue advenerint, qualiter et quantis prodigionibus potius quam expeditionibus, Pictorum gentem pervalidem, armis quoque et animositate longe prestantem, a partibus illis expulerunt: cum nobilem illam Britannie topographiam declaravimus, enucleatus expedietur. Aliud autem hinc beneficium sua forte dignitate laudabile studiosisque, mentibus appetibile, suis temporibus emanabit.

XXIII.

CHRONICLE OF THE SCOTS AND PICTS,

MCLXXXVII.

MS. BIB. FAC. JURID. EDIN. 34. 7. 3.

CRONICA BREVIS.

SUMMA annorum primorum Scotorum qui ante Pictos regnaverunt cclx. aunis et iij. mensibus.

Summa Pictorum 1^m lxi. annis.

Summa Scotorum post Pictos ccxxxvii. anni et v. menses.

Summa totalis xvij. lxvij. anni et viii. menses.

Notandum quod regnum Scocie incipit ante incarnationem Domini cccexliij. annis.

Fergus filius Herth primus regnavit in Scotia iij. annis ultra Druthm et a Druthm Albane usque Senagh munere et usque ad Inchgal.

Donengarth filius Fergus v. aunis regnavit.

Congal filius Donegarth xxij. annis regnavit.

Couran filius Donegarth xxij. annis regnavit.

Conal filius Congal xiiiij. annis regnavit.

Edane filius Gouran xxxiiij. annis regnavit.

Hethghed bnd xv. aunis regnavit.

Knath kere filius Conal tribus mensibus regnavit.

Ferhar filius Euin xvi. aunis regnavit.

Fercar foda xxi. annis regnavit.

Heched monanle filius Donenghark filius Donvald brek xxij. annis regnavit.

Anemikellethe filius Findan xvi. annis regnavit.

Heogham filius Findan xvi. annis regnavit.
 Fertham filius Murdathe duobus annis regnavit.
 Hethfyre filius Heorghet rannal xxx. annis regnavit.
 Fergus filius Hethfyne iij. annis regnavit.
 Sealthan filius Regagane xiiij. annis regnavit.
 Herghed amnne filius Hethfyn xxx. annis regnavit.
 Dunghel filius Frahnath vij. annis regnavit.

Aropin filius Hethed amnne iij. annis regnavit Rex et oceitus est in Galwithia postquam eam penitus destruxit et devastavit et tunc translatum est regnum Scotorum in regnum Pictorum.

DE PICTIS.

Cruchine filius Kyan clemens iudex accepit monarcham in regno Pictorum et .l. annis regnauit.

Gede l. annis regnauit.
 Tharan e. annis regnauit.
 Duchil xl. annis regnauit.
 Derordegele xx. annis regnauit.
 Derothet ix. annis regnauit.
 Combust xx. annis regnauit.
 Fevanacherthe xl. annis regnauit.
 Germarg bolg ix. annis regnauit.
 Poponeuet xxx. annis regnauit.
 Fiaeua albus xxx. annis regnauit.
 Tonacuhuel vi. annis regnauit.
 Donornauch nerales i. anno regnauit.
 Ferdach syngal ij. annis regnauit.
 Canath dives xl. annis regnauit.
 Balarg filius Keothere xxv. annis regnauit.
 Drust filius Ws e. annis vixit et e. pergit bella
 Tolarag filius Anuf ij. annis regnauit.
 Nethan chelemot x. annis regnauit.
 Drust filius Gurum v. annis regnauit.
 Drust filius Hudrossig viij. annis regnauit.
 Iterum primus Drust iiiij. annis regnauit.

Canath filius Gigurum vi. annis regnavit.
 Kelturan frater ejus vi. annis regnavit.
 Tolorg filius Mordeleg xi. annis regnavit.
 Drust filius Moneth i. anno regnavit.
 Talalad iiij. annis regnavit.
 Brud filius Methon xxx. annis regnavit. Iste conver-tit Sanetus Columba ad fidem.
 Carnac filius Dormath xx. annis regnavit. Iste edificavit Abbermethyn.
 Kynel filius Luthren xxiiij. annis regnavit.
 Nethan filius Fide viii. annis regnavit.
 Brude filius Fruth v. annis regnavit.
 Tollarg filius Fethar xi. annis regnavit.
 Talarg filius Amfrud iiij. annis regnavit.
 Gernath filius Dunal v. annis regnavit.
 Durst frater ejus vi. annis regnavit.
 Brud filius Bile xx. annis regnavit. Ejus tempore floruit Sanctus Adamnanus.
 Taran filius Amfredeleth xiiij. annis regnavit.
 Nectan frater ejus xviii. annis regnavit.
 Brud filius Dergard xxxi. annis regnavit.
 Carnach filius Ferath xxiiii. annis regnavit.
 Onegussa filius Frud vi. mensibus regnavit.
 Alpin filius Feret, Brud filius Denegus viii. annis regnavit.
 Durst filius Talargugani i. anno regnavit.
 Thalargane filius Drustan iiij. annis regnavit.
 Falargan filius Denegus v. annis regnavit.
 Constantinus filius Fergusari xlvi. annis regnavit. Iste edificavit Dunkelden.
 Hungus filius Fergusane ix. annis regnavit. Iste edificavit Kilremonth.
 Dostolorg iiij. annis regnavit.
 Eogana filius Hungus iiij. annis regnavit.
 Fergus filius Barot iiij. annis regnavit.
 Brude filius Ferant i. mense regnavit.
 Kynat filius Ferant i. anno regnavit.
 Brud filius Fodel ii. annis regnavit.

Durst filius Ferant iij. annis regnavit annis. Iste occisus est apud Fertheviot, secundem quosdam Sconam a Scottis.

Kynat mac Alpin xvi. annis regnavit super Scottos, distractis Pictis et mortuus est et in Fethertauethn et sepultus in Yona insula, ubi tres filii sc. Erc, Fergus, Loaran, Tenagus, sepulti fuerunt. Hic mira caliditate duxit Scotos de Ergadia in terra Pictorum.

Douenald mac Alpin iiiij. annis regnavit et mortuus est in Rathinueramon et sepultus in Iona insula.

Constantinus mac Kynat xv. annis regnavit et interemptus est a Noruagiensibus in bello de Merdo fatha et sepultus in Iona insula.

Edh mae Kynnath i. anno regnavit et interfectus in bello in Strathalun a Girg filio Dungal et sepultus in Iona insula.

Girg mac Dungal xii. annis regnavit et mortuus est in Dundurn et sepultus est in Iona insula. Hic subjugavit sibi totam Yberniam et fere totam Angliam et hic primus dedit libertatem ecclesie Scoticane que sub servitute erat usque ad illud tempus ex consuetudine et more Pictorum.

Donald mac Constantine xi. annis regnavit et mortuus est in Fores et sepultus in Iona insula.

Constantine mak Edha xl. annis regnauit et dimisso regno sponte Deo in habitu religionis abbas factus est in Keldeorum Sancte Andree, quinque annis servivit ibi et mortuus est ac sepultus.

Maleom mac Donald ix. annis regnavit et interfectus est a Morauiensibus per dolum et sepultus est in Yona insula.

Indolf mac Constantin ix. annis regnavit et interfectus est a Noruagiensibus in Innercolan et sepultus in Iona insula.

Duf mac Malcolm iiiij. annis regnavit et mensibus sex et interfectus in Fores et absconditus est sub poute de Kynloss et sol non apparuit quamdiu ibi latuit et inventus est et sepultus in Iona insula.

Culen mac Indolf iiiij. annis regnavit et mensibus sex et interfectus est ab Amdarch filio Donvald propter filiam suam in Ybandonia.

Kynmath mae Malcolm ixxij. annis regnavit ij. mensibus et interfecitus es a suis hominibus in Fetherkern per perfidias Finuele filie filie Cunthar comitis de Anguss cuius Finuele unicun filium predictus Kynnet interfecit.

Constantin mae Culen i. anno vi. mensibus regnavit et interfecitus est a Kynnet filio Malcolmi in Rathinuera-mon et sepultus in Yona insula.

Malcolm mae Kynnat Rex victoriosissimus xxx. annis regnavit et mortuus est in Glammes et sepultus in Yona.

Donchath mae Cran Abbatis de Dunkelden et Bethok filia Malcolmi mae Kynnet vi. annis regnavit et interfecitus est a Maketh mae Fyngel in Bothmgoran et sepultus in Yona insula.

Maket mae Fyngel xvii. annis regnavit et interfecitus est in Lufanan a Malcolm mae Dunkat et sepultus in Iona insula.

Lnlach fatuus iij. mensibus regnavit et interfecitus est in Esseg in Strabolgin et sepultus in Yona insula.

In anno gracie primo natus est Jhesus Christus Dominus noster in Bethelem Judie. Anno septimo mortuus est Herodes. Eodem anno natus est beatus Johannes evan-gelista. Anno xxix predicavit beatus Johannes baptista. Anno xxx. baptizatus est Christus et apostoli Christum sequebantur. Anno xxxij erucifixus est Dominus et Stephanus lapidatus est. Anno xxxiii. conversus est sanctus Paulus. Anno xl. Matheus scripsit evangelium. Anno xliij. Marcus scripsit evangelium. Anno xlvi. Lucas scripsit evangelium. Anno li. assumpta est Domina nostra Sancta Maria, anno etatis sue lxvi. Eodem anno obiit beata nostra magistra. Anno iiiijxxxij. Palladius fidem Scottis predicavit qui eam reciperunt et usque in hodiernam diem sine apostasia firmiter et ferventer servaverunt. Anno iiiijxxxiii. Patricius fidem predicavit Yberniis. Anno iiiijxxxix. nata est sancta Brigida.

XXIV.

DESCRIPTION OF BRITAIN, XII CENT.

MS. BRIT. MUS. COTT. CLAUDIUS D. II.

DE numero Provinciarum et Patriarum et Comitatuum et Insularum que de jure spectant et sine dubio pertinent corone et dignitati regni Britannie, scilicet, quod modo vocatur regnum Anglorum. In tribus divisorum, consuetudine que tres leges dicuntur, scilicet, [W]Essex-enelaga, Mircenelaga et Denelaga, verum de iure potius appellari potest et debet excellencia illustrissime predice corone imperium quam regnum.

Loegria, que modo Anglia vocatur, medietas insule Britannie est et continet in se Cormubiam et Deiram. Cormubia est ab occidentali mare Britannie usque ad magnum flumen Tanari. Deira est a magno flumine Humber usque ad magnum flumen Forthi. Sunt autem in Loegria consulatus triginta quinque.

Cambria est, que modo Wallia vocatur, ab aquilonari mare Britannie usque ad magnum flumen Sabrini et continet in se Demeciam et Venedociam. Sunt autem in Cambria decem et vii. consulatus.

Albania est, que modo Scocia vocatur, scilicet, a magno flumine Forthi usque ad magnum mare Norweye et continet in se Orcanciam, Ordasiman, Gurth et Enchegalliam. Sunt autem in Albania decem et octo consulatus.

Summa consulatum totius regni Britannie septuaginta.

To Wessexenelaga belimpet quod Latine dicitur in eum habent et pertinent, scilicet, due provincie et novem comitatus, scilicet, Wallia, que quondam vocabatur Cambria, cum insulis suis circumiacentibus, que sunt de appendiciis Cormubie, et Devonia cum suis appendiciis, que Anglie dicitur Deueneschire. Schire enim Latine dicitur comitatus. Chestre enim Anglice dicitur quod Britonice dicitur Kaer, Latine vero civitas, et Sumersetesire, Britonice vero vocatur Glatenelon, et Dorsetesire, et Wyltesire, et Berehtsire, et Snthamptonesire, et Suthereysire, et Suthsexesire cum suis appendiciis, et Chentsire cum suis appendiciis.

To Mirchenelaga bilimpit, quod est Latine spectant et pertinent, octo schire, scilicet, Anglice, Chestreschire, Schropschire, et Staffordeshire, et Warewykshire, et Herefordschire et Gloucestreschire, Cirecestreschire, et Oxenefordshire.

To Danelage, bilimpit, quod Latine dicitur incumbunt et pertinent, scilicet, quinque provincie cum omnibus suis appendiciis, scilicet, Deira que modo vocatur Northumberland, scilicet, tota terra que est inter magnum flumen Humbri et Tede flumen et ultra usque ad flumen Forthi magni, scilicet, Loonia, et Galweya, et Albania tota, que modo Scocia vocatur, et Morouia, et omnes insule occidentalesoceani usque ad Norwegiam et usque Daciam, scilicet, Kathenessia, Orkaneya, Enchegal, et Man, et Ordas, et Gurth, et cetere insule occidentalesoceani circa Norwegiam et Daciam, et Fyftonschire, quod Latine dicitur quindecim comitatus, scilicet, Everwykshire, Notinghamschire, Derbyshire, Leycestreshire, Lincolnshire, Herefordshire, Bokynghamschire, Suffolkshire, Norffolkshire, Bedefordshire, Essexshire, Grantebreggeshire, Huntedoneshire, Norhamptoneschire, Middelsexshire.

Summa Schirarum tocius insule Britannie, scilicet, comitatuum Latine septuaginta, provinciarum vero septem cum insulis suis circumjacentibus et cum ceteris appendiciis suis.

Archiepiscopatus duo sunt in regno Britannie, olim fuerunt tres temporibus Britonum ante adventum Saxonum. Episcopatus enim viginti octo per provincias et civitates constitute sunt per confeederationem regni et per constitutionem bonorum patrum et predecessorum ut expedit et decet et oportet ad utilitatem et ad salutem et ad profectum animarum populorum tocius regni predicti.

THIRTEENTH CENTURY.

XXV.

FROM LAYAMON'S BRUT, MCCIV.

a MS. BRIT. MUS. COTT. CALIGULA, A. IX.

b MS. BRIT. MUS. COTT. OTHO. C. XIII.

MS. a.

A pissen ilken hit flog :
þet com ouer sæ flog.
an king þe hæhte Rodric :
elche oðer unilic.
he com ut of Sciee :
elehes londes vniliche.
he brolith mid him þe Peohfes :
fole of muhele malhte.
Seoððen Rodic² wes ærft mon :
& he mihte uuel don.
a he ferde bi se flog :
& dude he uuel & næuere god.
monie hundreð burȝe :
he hæfde imakede blaðe.
He ferde bi se fironde :
into Scotlonde.
þat lond he al wæffe :
mid hermen þan mefte.

MS. b.

A c¹ þif ilke hit flog :
forte com ouer fœ́ flog.
a king þat hehte Rodrich :
eehe opere oniliche.
he brochte mid hin þe Peutes :
men of moche mihthe.
Fram þat Rodrich was erest man :
and enþe cȳe vnel don.
he verde bi fœ́ flog :
and dude vnel and neuere god.
mani hundred borewes :
he hadde for-fare.
He verde bi fœ́ fironde :
in to Scotlonde.
þat lond he al weft :
mid harne þan mefte.

TRANSLATION.

In this same wise it stood until there came over sea-flood a king that hight Rodric, to each (every) other unlike; ‘he came out of Seythia, to each land unlike;’ he brought with him the Peohfes (Picts), ‘folk [men] of much might.’ After [From the time] that Rodric first was man, and ‘he might [could] do evil, ‘ever’ he fared by the sea-flood, and ‘he’ did evil and never good; many hundred burghs he had ‘made destitute [destroyed]. He fared by the sea strand into Scotland; the land he all wasted with the

¹ A ?

² R. Rodric.

þurh þat lond he ærnde :
 & hæzede¹ and haermde.
 Comen þa tiðende :
 to Maurius þon kinge.
 hu þe king Rodrie :
 his ræflac makede.
 Sone he sende fonde :
 ȝeond alle þisfe kine-londe.
 hæhte aunerælene mon :
 þa his monscipe uðe.
 þat he wel iwepned :
 comen³ to hirede.
 ȝif fole wes ifomned :
 and þe king fusde.
 ferde into Scotlonde :
 þere he Rodrie king fond.
 Heo fuhten swiðe feondliche :
 & feollen þa Peohtes.
 & Rodrie per wes of-flaȝen :
 & seoððen mid heorfen to-draȝen.
 Þer dude Maurius þe king :
 a wel swuðe fellech ping.
 uppenn þen ilke fude :
 þer he Rodrie uor-dude.
 he lette a-raeren anan :
 enne swuðe felcud stan.
 he lette þer on grauen :
 saeleuðe run-flauen.

þorh þat lond he hearnde :
 and floh folk and barnde.
 Come þe tidind :
 to Maurus þan kinke.²
 hou þe king Rodrich :
 his lond al for-verde.
 Sone he fende fonde :
 ȝeond al his kinelonde.
 hehte eehne man :
 þat him god wolde.
 mid al his wepne :
 come to þan kinge.
 ȝis folk was ifomned :
 and hit forþ fusde.
 wende into Scotland :
 þar he Rodrich fond.
 Hii fohten mainliche :
 and folle þe Peutes.
 and Rodrich þar was of-flawe :
 and fuppe mid horſe to-drawe.
 þar dude Maurus þe king :
 a twiþe fellich ping.
 vppenn þan ilke fude :
 þar he Rodrich for-dude.
 he lette arere anon :
 ane felcude stan.
 he lette þar an graue :
 of Rodriches deaþe.

most harm, through the land he ran, and 'harried and harmed [slew folk and burnt]. The tidings came to Maurius the king, how the king Rodrie 'made his ravage [his land all destroyed]. Soon he sent messengers over all 'this [his] kingdom : ordered 'every [ael] man, who 'his honor granted [would good to him], 'that he 'well weaponed should come [with all his weapons to come] to 'court [the king]. This folk was assembled, and 'the king [it forth] marched ; proceeded into Scotland, where he found 'king' Rodrie. They fought 'most fiercely [strongly], and the Peobtes fell, and Rodrie was there slain, and afterwards drawn in pieces by horses. There did Maurius the king an exceeding marvellous thing ; upon the same spot where he destroyed Rodrie he caused anon to be reared a 'most' wonderful ¹ haerȝede ?

² R. kinge.

³ come ?

hu he Rodric of-sloh :
 & hine mid horſen to-droh.
 & hu he þa Peohtes :
 ouer-com mid his fahtes.
 Up he fette þaene flan :
 yet he per fiondeð.
 swa he deð al fwa longe :
 swa þa woreld fiondeð.
 Nome him feupte pe king :
 & hehte þene flan West-mering.
 a muchel del londes :
 pe per hið abuten.
 non pe king to his hond :
 & hæhte hit West-merelinge lond.
 Nu þu hafnest foð iherd :
 for whan hit swa hatte.
 þa þe¹ peo Peohtes :
 weoren ouer-cumne i pon fehte.
 and Rodric wes daed :
 & his iueren for-demed.
 þa flugen þer bihaelues :
 fiftene hundred.
 pat weoreoren² þa feireft men :
 pe weoren i pon fehte.
 hæfdan he³ to here-tege :
 cumne hach iborene mon.
 Peof weolden heom iburȝen :
 & bi-halues fleon.

on he Rodrich of-sloh :
 and mid horſe to-droh.
 and ou he pe Peutes :
 ouerecom mid fihte.
 Up he fette þane flan :
 yet he þare fiondep.
 Name him seopte þane king :
 and hehte hine Weilmering.
 for name of þan flone :
 pat lond his so hi-hote.
 þo Rodrich was of-flage :
 and idon of lif daze.
 þo fleh þare bi-halues :
 fiftene hundredred.
 pat weren pe fairefle men :
 pat weren in þan fihte.
 hadden hii ame heuedling :
 of on hege ibore man.
 Peos wolden hinne bouwe :
 and bi-halues wende.

stone pillar : he caused thereon to be graven 'strange characters, [of Rodrics death, and] how he slew Rodric, and with horses drew him in pieces, and how he overcame the Peohtes with 'his' fight. Up he set the stone ; yet it there standeth ; 'so it will do as long as the world standeth.' A name the king shaped to it, and called 'the stone [it] West-mering ; 'a great part of the land that there lieth about the king took in his hand,' 'and named it West-merelinge land [for the name of the stone the land is so called]. 'Now thou hast heard the sooth, for what cause it so hight. When that the Peohtes were overcome in the fight,' 'and Rodric was dead, and his companions destroyed [When Rodrich was slain, and done of life-day], then fled there aside fifteen hundred, that were the fairest men that were ¹ A letter has been erased after pe.

² R. weoren.

³ heo ?

& buȝen vt of londe : and fleon vt of londe :
 to helpen heore liue. to helpe hire lifue.
 þ i-sehȝen þreo eorles : þat isehȝe þreo eorles :
 þe i peon fehte weoren olhte. þat in þan filte were.
 whudereward þa ferde : woder þe ferde :
 heore flæm makeden. hire fleen¹ makede.
 þe eorles heom sȝen to : þeos eorles heom sette to :
 mid selen heore enihtes. [wude] mid alle hira enihtef.
 driuen heom in to ænne hæhne driuen heom into one wode :
 þer heo heerm poleden. þar hii harm hadde.
 Stod þe wundliche wude : Stod þe wonliche wode :
 amidden ane wælde. a-midde one wolde.
 bi-uoren na bishinden : bi-vore ne be-hinde :
 ne mihten þær nan atwinden. ne miht þar non atwende.
 ah alle hi heom nomen : ac alle hii heom neme :
 & nane heo ne a-floȝen. nanne hii ne flowe.
 fæste heom heo bunden : faste hii heom bunde :
 & brohten to þen kinge. and brohte to þan kinge.
 þ þe king heom feulden² don : þat þe king heom folde don :
 oðer flan oðer hon. oþer flean oþer an-hon.
 Anan swa þe king heom spe wið : Anon so hii þe king speke wiþ :
 swa heo ȝeornden his grið. anon hii ȝeornde his griþ.
 ȝeorne heo hine beden : ȝeorne hii hine bede :
 þurh his ædmeden. þorh his edmode.
 þat he nomen³ heon to þrallen : þat he neme heom to paife :
 & heo him wolden ȝiwien. and hii him wolde be þeouwe.
 & heo him wolden beon liðe : and hii him wolde beo lipe :

in the fight ; they had 'for leader [a chieftain of] a high-born man. These would 'shelter themselves [hence depart], and aside 'flee [go], and 'depart [flee] out of the land, to save their lives. That saw three earls, who in the fight were 'brave,' 'whitherward [whither] the party made their flight. The [These] earls them followed, with 'their good [all their] knights, and drove them into a 'great' wood,—there they 'suffered [had] harm ! The fair wood stood amidst a weald, before nor behind might there none escape, but all they them took, 'and' none they slew ; fast they bound them, and brought to the king, that the king should dispose of them, either slay or [up] hang. Anon as 'the king [they] spake with 'them [the king], 'so [they] yearned his grace, they prayed him earnestly, through his mercy, that he would take them 'for slaves [in peace], and they would 'serve [be nome ?

¹ flem ?² feulde ?

a to heore liue.
 Al þe king weorhte :
 alfo heo bi-fohten.
 & heom an heond fælde :
 muchel dæl of londe.
 al abuten Catenes :
 þer heo caðel wrohten.
 þat lond wes swiðe god :
 ah feoððen wef þe muchel flod.
 nes hit neuere itiled :
 þurh nænne eorðe-itilie.
 no nauere þer ne wunedon on :
 nanes cunnes quic mon.
 Sonen heo gunnen to ærien :
 þat lond wes swiðe æðele.
 heo tileden heo feowen :
 heo repen heo meowen.
 wið inen þan from ȝeren :
 þa nomen heo twaelf iueren.
 & heo uerden fone :
 þat heo to þisfe londe comen.
 Bruttes heo gretten :
 mid grælichen worden.
 beden heom beon on fele :
 & alle ifunde.
 We eow to-ȝerneð :
 ȝeue swiðe deore.
 þet ȝe us ȝiuen wifmen :
 to habben to wiue.

euere to hire lifue.
 Al þe king wrohte :
 aſe hi him bi-fohten.
 and heom an hond folde :
 mochil deal of londe.
 al aboute Catenas :
 þar hii homes makede.
 Ac þat lond was swiðe god :
 for sunne was þe mochele flod.
 nas hit neuere itiled :
 þorh non erþe-tilie.
 no neuere þar ne wonede on :
 no manere ewike mon.
 Sone hii gonue herie :
 þat lond was swiðe murie.
 hii tilede hii fewen :
 hi repen hii mewen.
 wiþ in þan pridde ȝiere :
 þo nemen hii twealf veres.
 and wende fone :
 þat hii to pise londe come.
 Brutte hii gretten :
 mid swiðe faire wordes.
 beden heom be feale :
 and alle ifunde.
 We of ou ȝerneþ :
 ȝiftes swiðe deore.
 þat ȝe us ȝifue wifmen :
 for habbe to wifue.

slaves to] him, and they would be obedient to him, ever in their lives. All the king wrought as they besought [him], and gave them in hand a great deal of land, all about Caithness; there they 'chattels wrought [made homes]. [But] the land was most good, 'but [for] since the great flood was, never was it tilled by any earth-tillage, nor ever thereon dwelt any 'kind [manner] of man alive. As soon as they gan to plough, the land was most fertile; they tilled, they sowed, they reaped, they mowed, within the 'three years [third year];—then took they twelve companions, and 'they' proceeded soou, so that they came to this land. The Britons they greeted with 'peaceful [most fair] words; bade them be prosperous, and all in health:—"We yearn of you gifts most dear (precious), that ye give us women to have for wives; then may we 'hold love to this people [have love penne mæȝe we heolden hune : þan mawe¹ loue :

 to þislen leod-folke. habbe bi-twine.
 þa þis iherden Bruttes : þo þis ihorde Brutte² :
 heokerliche heom þulte. hokerliche heom þohte.
 & hehten heon faren awai : and hehten heon faren awei :
 & fleon of heore londe. and fleo of hire londe, for nolde heo heom ȝetten : for ne folden hii neuere habbe :
 þa ȝinges þe heo ȝernden. þing þat iȝ ȝornde.
 Peohtes weoren ifcende : Peutes weren ifend :
 & heore wai forð wende. . . . a-wei wende.
 ham to heore cunne : hom to h . . . cunne :
 & euulden³ heom heore erende. and tolde hire h . . . de.
 Heo nomen heore sonde : Hii nemen hire fondre :
 & fende to Irlonde. and fende to Yrlonde.
 to þes londes kinge : to þane leod-kinge :
 Gille Caor ihaten. Gillekaor ihote.
 & biden hine heom senden : and beden him hain fende :
 wifmen of his londe. wifmen of his londe.
 & þe king heom ȝette : and þe king ihorde :
 al þat heo ȝorenden. al þat hii ȝornde.
 þurh þa ilke wifmen : þorh þe ilke wifmon :
 þa þer wunedene longe. þat þare wonele longe.
 þat fole gan to spelen : þat folk gan to vñi :
 Irlondes speche. Yrlondes speche.
 & auer seoððen þa laȝen : and enere fuppe :
 wunieð a þan londe. hii doþ in þan londe.
 swa heo beoð þere :
 nu and auere mare.

between us]. When the Britons heard this, disdainful it seemed to them, and they ordered them to go away, and flee from their land, for they 'would not grant them the things [should never have the thing] that they yearned. The Peohtes were shamed, and went 'forth' their way home to their kin, and told 'to them' their errand. They took their messengers, and sent to Ireland, to 'the king of the land [the sovereign], named Gille Caor, and bade him send them women of his land: and the king 'granted them [heard] all that they desired. Through the same women, who there long dwelt, the folk gan to 'speak [use] Irelands speech: and ever since 'the usages dwell [they do] in the land; 'so they shall be there, now and evermore.'

¹ mawe we?

² hii?

³ euulden?

XXVI.

WELSH CHRONICLE, MCCXI.

a MS. JESUS COLL. OXON. LLYFR COCH.b MS. HENGWRT, NO. 8.¹

OES Gōrtheyrn Gōrtheneu hyt weith Badōn yd ymla-dawd Arthur ae hyneif ar Saesson ac y gorfuv Arthur ae hyneif wyth mlyned ar hugeint a chant.

O weith Badōn hyt Camlan dōy vlyned ar hugeint.

O Camlan hyt varō Maelgōn deg mlyned.

O varō Maelgwn hyt weith Arderyd (xxv. blyned).

O'r gōeith Arderyd hyd) pan las Gōrgi a Pharedur seith mlyned.

O'r pan las Gōrgi a Pharedur hyt weith Kaerlleon naō mlyned.

TRANSLATION.

From the age of Guortigern Guorthenan to the battle of Badwn, which Arthur and his elders fought with the Saxons, and in which Arthur and his elders were victorious, one hundred and twenty-eight years.

From the battle of Badwn to Camlan, twenty-two years.

From Camlan to the death of Maelgwn, ten years.

From the death of Maelgwn to the battle of Arderydd, twenty-five years.

From the battle of Arderydd till when Gwrgi and Paredur were slain, seven years.

From the slaughter of Gwrgi and Paredur to the battle of Cairleon, nine years.

¹ What is contained within parentheses is in b only.

O weith Kaerleon hyt weith Veigen pedeir blyned ar deg.

O weith Veigen yny aeth Kadwaladyr vendigeit y Ruuein wyth mlyned a deugeint.

From the battle of Caerleon to the battle of Meigen, fourteen years.

From the battle of Meigen till Cadwaladyr Vendigeit went to Rome, forty-eight years.

XXVII.

FROM GIRALDUS CAMBRENSIS, DE
INSTRUCTIONE PRINCIPUM, MCCXIV.

MS. BRIT. MUS. COTT. JULIUS B. XIII.

QUONIAM autem de Pictis et Scotis facta est hic men- Folio 96, b.
 tio, que gentes et quibus ex partibus, quibusve de causis in Britanniam adveete sunt, sicut ex diversis collegimus historiis, hie explanandum, praeter rem non putavimus.

Vnde Pieti et Scotti in Britanniam adveuti et quare sic dicti.

Pictos itaque, quos et Agatirso Virgilius vocat, Sciticas circiter paludes habitationes habuisse, referunt historie.
 De quibus et Servius super Virgilium commentans et hunc locum exponens, scilicet "Pictos Agatirso," ait: "Pictos
 " eosdem quos et Agatirso appellamus, et dicuntur Picti
 " quasi stigmatizati, quia stigmatizari, id est, cauteriari
 " solent, propter abundanciam fleumatis. Et sunt hii
 " populi hiidem qui et Gothi. Quoniam utique ubi ex
 " crebris stigmatibus cicatrices obdueuntur, corpora quasi
 " pietas redditur; ex eauteriis hujusmodi in cicatrices
 " obductis Picti quoque sunt vocati."

Cum ergo Maximus ille tirannus de Britannia in Franciam, cum robore virorum ac virium neon et armorum insule toto, ad occupandum imperium transvectus fuisse, Gracianus et Valentinianus fratres et consortes imperii gentem hanc Goticam, rebus in bellicis fortem ac strenuam, sibi quoque vel confederata vel subjectam, et imperiali-bus tam beneficiis, a Scicie finibus in aquilonares Britanniae partes ad Britones infestandum et tyraunum eum juventute regni tota quam abduxerat non reddituram seu revocandum, navilio transmiserunt.

Illi vero tum quoniam innata Gothorum bellicositate per validi fuerunt, tum etiam quoniam insulam, viris ac viribus, ut diximus, vacuam invenerunt, boreales ejusdem partes ac provincias non modicas ad suam non reversuri, quippe de predonibus domum aecole facti sibi usurpatas occupaverunt.

Processu vero temporis quoniam uxores de Hybernia sibi vicina duxerant, quas a Britonibus habere non poterant, gentem Hybernicam, que et Scocia dicitur, sibi in consorcium allegerunt; partemque terre occupate maritimam sueque patrie, ubi mare angustum, proximorem, que et Galweidia dicitur, ad habitandum contulerunt. Ubi et unanimes postmodum ad Britones infestandum et fines suos dilatandum sunt effecti.

Gildas et Pictis et Scotis.

De quibus et Gildas historicus, de excidio Britonum tractans ait: "Exinde Britannia omni armato milite destituta atque valida juventute regni spoliata, que supradictum tyramnum comitata domum nunquam ultra rediit. Jam omnis belli usu prorsus ignara, duabus primum gentibus vehementer sevis, Pictorum ab aquilone, Scotorum a circulo, opprimi cepit et calcari." Iterumque post pauca vexatis ad gemitum Britonum legionibus jam pluries Romanis constructis demum muris et vallis a mari ad mare et turribus erectis quamquam incassum et armis ad Britonum tutelam demun in insula relictis Gildas subiungit "Illi itaque ad sua reversis certatim emergunt tanquam de cauernis sole incalescente vermiculorum cunei. tetrique Pictorum Scotorum greges moribus quidem multum dissidentes habitu tamen et cultu neenon una eademque sanguinis fundendi aviditate concordes, furciferosque magis vultus pilis quam corporum pudenda pudendisque proxima vestibus tegentes, cognita legionum reversione reditusque denegacione; solito confidencius. Omnem aquilonarem extremamque terre partem primum muro tenus, postea murum ipsum et turres irrumpendo ac deieiendo, fines illos ex toto et incendiis vastaverunt." Vnde et Gildas, gentis sue gemens imbecilletatem, in eodem libro ponit de epistola Romam propter auxilium ab ipsis transmissa. Verba eorundem hec. "Barbari

"nos ad mare propellunt, mare quoque ad barbaros.
"Inde trucidamur; hinc submergimur." Et non longe post de eisdem dicit, quia Britones non sunt in bello fortes, nec in pace fideles. Propter harum itaque gentium graves infestaciones et hostiles jugiter irrupciones cum ipsis de cetero Romani deessent, nec ipsi de suis viribus defendere possent, propter stipendiarios milites in Germaniam nuncios, omne sinistro sibi suisque nimis infausto transmiserunt. Advenientes etenim Saxones [D]e Saxon-tanquam pro Britonibus pugnaturi, immo verius ipsos ibus[in Bri]- oppugnaturi, nec sacramenta nec fidem respicientes quin tanniam ad eciam cum hostibus quos oppugnare debent, statim federa [st]ipendia jungentes, totum denique processu temporis per enormes vel [in]agis et inauditas prodiciones perque conflictus grandes et graves ad in[cen]- Britannie regnum civibus expulsis occupaverunt. [t]his excidia et gendia [u]loca-tis.

Porro de Pictorum gente pervalida post tot victorias qualiter evanuit, succinete dicemus.

Occupata ut diximus a Saxonibus insula, stabilique cum Pictis pace firmata, Scotti qui Pictis adjuncti, et ab eis ad terram inhabitandam accersiti fuerant, videntes Pictos, quamquam propter affinitatem Hibernie jam pauciores, longe tamen armis et animositate prestanciores, ad solitas et tanquam sibi innatas prodiciones, quibus ceteris preminent gentibus, recurrerunt. Convocatosque tan- Nota.
quam ad convivium magnates Pictorum cunetos, captata tam cibi quam potus crapula et ingurgitacione forsan nimia et, oportunitate notata, clavorum extractione qui tabulata tenebant, in bancorum concavitatem quibus sedebant, mira decipula poplite tenus, ita quod se nullatenus erigere pos-sent, communiter undique lapsos, de subitos quidem et inprovisos, nec ab affinibus et consideratis suoque bene-ficio confeodatis et bellorum sociis quicquam tale timentes, statim trucidaverunt universos. Sic itaque de duobus De Pictis populis gens bellicosior et validior totaliter evanuit. Altera Scotorum modo omnibus impar, tanquam in tempore prodicionis tante prodicionis emolumenta assecuta, totam a mari vsque ad mare, terram illam quam a suo nomine Scociam deletis.

dixerunt, usque in hodiernum obtinuerunt. Sieut autem a Bruto duce, Britones nomen traxerunt, sic Hyberni ab Hebreo duce, vel secundum alios, ab Hibero Hispanie fluvio vnde pervenerant. Dicti sunt et Gaideli a duce sic dicto, sicut ab uxore Gaideli illius, que vocata est Scocia, dicti sunt Scotti. Quidam tamen autumant a Wandalis de quibus originalem lineam duxere, sicut originem sic et nuncupacionem Gaidelos traxisse.

XXVIII.

FROM THE ANNALS OF INISFALLEN.

MS. BODL. RAWLINSON, B. 503.

A.D.

- 434 Kl. prima feria. Conversio Scotorum in fidem Christi.
- 435 Kl. Prima preda Saxonorum ab Hibernia.
- 466 Kl. Cath Arddacorain.^a
- 471 Kl. Secunda preda Saxonorum ab Hibernia.
- 507 Kl. Quies Domangairt Cindtire.
- 508 Kl. Bellum Ardacoraind.
- 519 Kl. Nativitas Columbae chill. Dormitacio Buti meic Bronaig.
- 538 Kl. Mors Comgaill meic Domongairt Regis.
- 560 Kl. Mors Garbain meic Domongairt.
- 563 Kl. Columcille in ailitre.^b Prima nox ejus in Albain in Pentecosten.
- 564 Kl. Mors Daimin meic Domongairt.
- 570 Kl. Quies Gilldais Episcopus.
- 573 Kl. Cath Tala.^c
- 574 Kl. Mors Conaill meicc Comgaill annis xvi. regni.
- 582 Kl. Cath Manann la Aedan mac Gabrain.^d

TRANSLATION.

^a Battle of Ardcoran.^b Columba in pilgrimage.^c Battle of Tola.^d Battle of Manan by Aedan son of Gabran.

- 584 Kl. Mors Bruidi meic Maelcon.
 589 Kl. Quies David Cillmuine.
 595 Kl. Quies Coluimbeille nocte Dominica hi v. Id
 Juin, anno xxxv. perigrinationis sue, etatis vero lxxvi.
 596 Kl. Cath Ratha in Druad γ Cath Airdsendain^e.
 Hui Fin fugerunt, Araid victores.
 598 Kl. Baithine quievit in Christo, anno etatis sue lxvi.
 606 Kl. Mors Aedain meic Gabrain.
 613 Kl. Cath Legeoin, in quo ceciderunt multitudines Sanctorum in Britannia, inter Saxones et Britannos.
 616 Kl. Mors Tolorggain γ Fergusa meic Colmain.
 617 Kl. Orgain Donnainega hi. xv. kl. Mai.^f Mors meic Comgaill γ quies Eogain Epseoir.
 623 Quies Fergnai abbatis Iae.
 624 Kl. Nativitas Adamnain.
 625 Kl. Mors Ronain meic Tuathail.
 629 Kl. Mors Echdach buide meic Aedain.
 631 Kl. Mors Cinaeda Rig Alban γ Edain Rig Saxon.
 634 Kl. Mors Oengusa meic Nechtain.
 642 Kl. Mors Domhnaill bricc.
 645 Kl. Mors Oengusa Leithoane ic Glennamain.
 652 Kl. Quies Segene abbatis Iae.
 686 Kl. Cath mor etir Cruithnechug^g
 687 Kl. Quies Fergusa Episcopi γ Righ Cruithnech.
 704 Kl. Adamnan abbas Iae γ sapiens quievit in Christo.
 754 Kl. Mors Sleibne abbatis Iae.
 794 Kl. Oreain Iae Coluimchille.^h
 807 Kl. Guin Congail meic Thaidg in Albain.ⁱ

^c Battles of Rathindruad and Ardsennain.^f Plunder of Donnanega on the fifteenth day before the Kalends of May.^g Great battle between the Cruithnech.^h Plunder of Hi Columcille.ⁱ Slaughter of Congal son of Tadg in Albain.

- 819 Kl. Mors Aeda meic Neill Rig Temrach for slua-gud in Albain.^j
- 820 Kl. Mors Causantin meic Fergusa Rig Albain.
- 854 Kl. Indrechtaig hua Finechta Abbas Iae hi mar-dochoid oc dul do Roim Saxonu.^k
- 858 Kl. Quies Cinaed macc Alpin Rig Albain.
- 862 Kl. Mors Domnail meic Alpin Rig Albain.
- 870 Kl. Quies Feradaich abbatis Iae Coluimchille.
- 891 Quies Faelain meic Maelduin abbatis Iae Coluimcille.
- 900 Kl. Mors Domnail Rig Alban.^l
- 980 Kl. vii. f. xxi. l. [983] Quies Mugroin Comarbai Coluimchille.
- 986 Kl. vi. f. xvi. lun. [988] Indred dan Coluimchille do Gallaibh ȝ na insc do fasugud doib ȝ Eps Iae domarbad doib.^m
- 995 Kl. iii. f. xxvi. lun. vii. *Bas Cinaeda mcie Mail-choluimb Ardrí Alban.*ⁿ
- 1008 Kl. Ferdomnach Comarba Coluimchille quievit.^o
- 1033 Kl. En. f. luan. Cormacc mac Foelain Comarbu meic Hii quievit.^p
- 1034 Kl. En. f. mairt ȝ vii. Macleolaim mac Cinaeda Ri Alban moritur.^q
- 1093 Kl. Enair. Maelcholuim mac Donnchada Ri Alban

^j Death of Aed mac Neill, king of Tara while hosting in Alban.

^k Indrechtaig, grandson of Finechta, Abbot of Ia, martyred on his journey to Rome by the Saxons.

^l Death of Donald king of Alban.

^m The laying waste of Dan¹ Columcille by the Galls and the islands ravaged by them, and the Bishop of Ia slain.

ⁿ Death of Cinaed son of Malcolm, sovereign of Alban.

^o Ferdomnach Corb of Columba died.

^p Cormac son of Foelan Corb of the sons of Hii died.

^q Malcolm son of Kenneth king of Alban died.

- 7 a mac domarbad do [F]raneaib a boegul chatha 7
Margareta .i. a ben doce da chumaid.^r*
- 1094 Kl. Enair. Donnchad mac Maclolum Ri Alban occisus est o Domnaill meie Donnchada. Domnaill sin dan do gabail rige Alban iarsein.^s
- 1105 Kl. Isin bliadin sin tucad in Camall quod est
animal mirae magnitudinis o rig Albain do Murcher- tach ua Briain.^t
- 1111 Kl. Domnaill mae Taidg do dul fordunaig i tuais- cert h-Erend 7 coragaib rige Insegall ar egein.^u
- 1130 Kl. Arfer Muriamh in Albain.^v
-

^r Malcolm son of Duncan, king of Albán, and his son slain by the Franks in battle, and Margareta his wife died of grief.

^s Duncan son of Malcolm, king of Albán, slain by Donald, son of Duncan. That Donald then took the kingdom of Albán after that.

^t In this year a camel, which is an animal of wonderful size, was presented by the king of Albán to Murcertach O'Brian.

^u Donald son of Tadg carried war into the north of Ireland, and acquired the kingdom of Insegall by force.

^v Slaughter of the men of Moray in Albán.

XXIX.

CHRONICLE OF THE PICTS AND SCOTS, MCCLI.

MS. BRIT. MUS. HARL. 4628. A REGISTRO
PRIORATUS SANCTI ANDREÆ.

NOMINA REGUM QUI PRIMO REGNAVERUNT IN SCOTIA.

1. FERGUS filius Erth primus in Seotia regnavit tribus annis ultra Drumalbin usque Shuaghmaner et usque ad Inchgaall.
2. Domenghart filius Fergus 5 annis regnavit.
3. Congall filius Donenghart 24 annis regnavit.
4. Gouran filius Donenghart 22 annis regnavit.
5. Conall filius Congal 14 annis.
6. Heoghedbad 16 annis.
7. Kineth Ker filius Conal 3 mensibus.
8. Edhan filius Garan 34 annis.¹
9. Ferehar filius Ewini 16 annis.
10. Dovenald Breck filius Heoghedbad 14 annis.
11. Malduin filius Donewald dum annis 16.
12. Ferthar Foda 21 annis.
13. Heoghed monanel filius Dondghart filii Donevald brek 3 annis.
14. Arenkelleth filius Findan 1 anno.
15. Heodgan filius Findan 16 annis.
16. Murdac filius Arinkellath 3 annis.
17. Geoghan filius Murdac 2 annis.
18. Hethfin filius Heochetramle 30 annis.
19. Fergus filius Hethfin 3 annis.

¹ vs. adds transponi debet.

20. Icalulanc filius Eogagan 24 annis.
21. Heogled annine filius Hethfine 30 annis.
22. Dungal filius Heogled annine 7 annis.
23. Alpinus filius Heogled annine 5 annis. Hic occisus est in Gallowathia postquam eam penitus destruxit et devastavit et tunc translatum est regnum Scotorum in regnum Pictorum.

NOMINA REGUM PICTORUM.

1. Chruthneus filius Kinne Clemens iudex accepit Monarchiam in regno Pictorum et 50 annis regnavit.
2. Gede 101 annis regnavit.
3. Thoran 100 annis,
4. Duchil 40 annis.
5. Duordegall 20 annis.
6. Deokleth 60 annis.
7. Cumbust 20 annis.
8. Karanethrecht 40 annis.
9. Garnathbolus 9 annis.
10. Wimpowall 30 annis.
11. Fiacha albus 30 annis.
12. Canatulmet 6 annis.
13. Donarmahl-netalec 1 anno.
14. Feredak filius 2 annis.
15. Garnard dives 60 annis.
16. Talarg filius Keother 25 annis.
17. Drust filius Irb vixit 100 annis et 100 bella peregit.
18. Tholarg filius Amile 2 annis.
19. Netthan thelchamoth 10 annis.
20. Durst Gernot 30 annis.
21. Gulam 25 annis.
22. Drust filius Gigurum 5 annis.
23. Drust filius Hudresseg 8 annis.
24. Ganat filius Gigurum 6 annis.
25. Kelhirau frater ejus 6 annis.
26. Golorg filius Madoleg xi annis.
27. Drust filius Moneth 1 anno.

28. Tagaled 4 annis.
29. Brude filius Melcho 30 annis. Hunc ad fidem convertit Sanctus Columba.
30. Gernerd filius Dompneth 20 annis.
31. Netthad filius Irb 21 annis. Hic ædificavit Abernethiam.
32. Kinet filius Luthren 14 annis.
33. Nectan filius Fotle 5 annis.
34. Brude filius Fathe 5 annis.
35. Tolerg filius Fetebar xi annis.
36. Thalargon filius Confrud 4 annis.
37. Garnard Donnall 5 annis.
38. Drust frater ejus 6 annis.
39. Brude filius Bile 21 annis. Cujus tempore floruit Sanctus Adamanus.
40. Turan filius Amsedeth 14 annis.
41. Brude filius Decili 31 annis.
42. Ferthen frater ejus 18 annis.
43. Garnath filius Ferath 24 annis.
44. Oengusu filius Fergus 16 annis.
45. Netthan filius Decili 9 mensibus.
46. Alpin filius Feret 6 mensibus.
47. Onegussa filius Brude 6 mensibus. Idem iterum 36 annis regnavit.
48. Brude filius Tonegus 8 annis.
49. Durst filius Talergan 1 anno.
50. Talargan filius Drustan 4 annis.
51. Talargan filius Tenegus 5 annis.
52. Constantinus filius Fergus 42 annis. Hic ædificavit Dunkelden.
53. Hungus filius Fergus x annis. Hic ædificavit Kilremont.
54. Drustalorg 4 annis.
55. Coganan filius Hungus 3 annis.
56. Ferat filius Batot 3 annis.
57. Brunde filius Ferat 1 mense
58. Kinat filius Ferat 1 anno.
59. Brude filius Fetal 2 annis.

60. Drust filius Ferat 3 annis. Hic occisus est apud Forteviot, sed, secundum alios, apud Seonam.

SEQUNTUR NOMINA REGUM SCOTORUM.

1. Kinart mac Alpin 16 annis super Scotos regnavit, destructis Pictis. Mortuus in Forteviet, sepultus in Iona insula ubi tres filii, scilicet, Fergus, Loern, Tenegus sepulti fuerunt. Hic in ira caliditate duxit Scotos de Argadia in terram Pictorum.

2. Doneuall mac Alpin 4 annis. Mortuus in Raith Inverrament sepultus in Iona insula.

3. Constantinus mac Kinet 16 annis. Interfectus fuit a Norvagensibus in bello Inuerdofacta. Sepultus in Iona insula.

4. Edh mac Kinet 1 anno. Interfectus in bello in Strathallen a Gирg filio Dungel. Sepultus in Iona.

5. Carus mack Dungall 12 annis. Mortuus in Dundurn et sepultus in Iona. Hie subjugavit sibi Hiberniam totam et fere Angliam et hic primus dedit libertatem Ecclesiae Scoticanae, quae sub servitute erat ad illud usque tempus ex constitutione et more Pictorum.

6. Dovenal mack Constantin xi. annis. Mortuus in Fores, et sepultus in Iona.

7. Constantin mack Ethu 40 annis. Hie dimisso regno sponte Deo in habitu religioso Abbas factus Keledeorum Sancte Andreæ 5 annis. Ibi mortuus est et sepultus.

8. Malcolm mack Dovenal 9 annis. Interfectus in Vlurn a Moraviensibus. Sepultus in Iona.

9. Indulf mack Constantin 9 annis. Interfectus a Norvagensibus in Inertolan. Sepultus in Iona.

10. Duff mac Colm 4 annis et sex mensibus. Interfectus in Fores et absconditus sub ponte de Kinlos et sol non apparuit quandiu ibi latuit. Sepultus in Iona.

11. Culen mac Indulf 4 annis et 6 mensibus. Interfectus ab Andarch filio Dovenald propter filiam suam in Laodana.

12. Kinath mac Colm 24 annis et 2 mensibus. Interfector in Fotherkern a suis per perfidiam Findle Cunnuchar comitis de Anegus ejus Findle filium unicum predictus Kenath interfecit apud Dunismoen.

13. Constantin mac Culean 1 anno et sex mensibus. Interfectus a Kinath filio Malcolm in Rathveramoen et sepultus in Iona.

14. Girus mac Kinath mac Duff 8 annis. Interfectus a filio Kinet in Moeghauard et sepultus in Iona.

15. Malcolm mac Kinat rex victoriosissimus 30 annis. Mortuus in Gleninis et sepultus in Iona.

16. Donchath mac Trim abbatis de Dunkelden et Bethoch filiae Malcolm mac Kinoth 6 annis. Interfectus a Mackbeth mac Fialeg in Bothgauenan et sepultus in Iona.

17. Macbeth mac Finlen 17 annis. Interfectus in Lunfanen a Malcolm mac Donechat et sepultus in Iona.

18. Lulach fatuus 4 mensibus. Interfectus est in Esseg in Strathbologia, sepultus in Iona.

19. Malcolm mac Donechat 37 annis et 8 mensibus. Interfectus in Inweraldan et sepultus in Iona. Hic fuit vir Sanctæ Margaritæ.

20. Donald mac Donchat prius regnavit sex mensibus et postea expulsus et Donechet mac Malcolm regnavit 6 mensibus. Hoc interfecto a Malpeder Mackcolm comite de Merns in Monacheden, rursus Donald mac Donehat regnavit 3 annis. Hic captus est ab Edgar mac Malcolm, coeatus est et mortuus Rosolpin. Sepultus in Dunkelden. Hinc translata ossa in Iona.

21. Edgar 9 annis. Mortuus in Dunedin et sepultus in Dumferline.

22. Alexander 17 annis et 3 mensibus et dimidio. Mortuus in Crasleth. Sepultus in Dunfermline.

23. David 29 annis et 3 mensibus. Mortuus in Carlelle. Sepultus in Dumfermline.

24. Malcolm filius Henrici filii David annis 12, sex mensibus et 20 diebus. Mortuus apud Jedwarth. Sepultus Dunfermline.

25. Willielmus 52 annis. Mortuus in Stirlin. Sepultus in Aberbrothock, cui successit mitissimus rex Alexander.

Summa annorum a Kinnat mac Alpin ad regnum Alexandri 501 annis.

26. Alexander filius puer septem annorum coronatus apud Sconam 3 Idus Julii a Davide episcopo Sancti Andreæ 1251. Hic rex perrexit in Angliam et honorifice susceptus a rege Angliæ apud Eboracum, factus est miles, et crastino die desponsavit regis filiam. Nescio quo infortuitu Diabolus seminatus discordiam inter magnates terræ hujus, Cancellarius et Justiciarius Scotiæ apud regem Angliæ accusati, ab officiis deprivati, et alii in loco illorum substituti.

XXX.

THE METRICAL CHRONICLE, COMMONLY
CALLED THE CRONICON ELEGIACUM, MCCLXX.a MS. BODL. C. IV. 3.b MS. BRIT. MUS. COTT. FAUSTINA, B. IX.c MS. BRIT. MUS. BIB. REG. 17. D. XX.¹

PRIMUS in Albania fertur regnasse Kynetus
 Filius Alpini, prelia multa gerens
 Expulsis Pictis regnaverat octo bis annis
 Apud² Ferthevioth mortuus ille fuit³
 Rex Dovenaldus ei successit⁴ quatuor annis
 In bello miles strenuus ille fuit

¹ MS. a contains the only complete and separate copy of the Cronicon Elegiacum. MS. b is the Chronicle of Melrose, in which the verses applicable to each king are inserted in a different hand under the date of his death in connexion with a prose chronicle. MS. c is Wynton's Chronicle, in which the verses are inserted in a similar manner under the reign of each king. MS. a has been selected as the text. The prose Chronicle, which precedes the beginning of the Metrical Chronicle in b, is as follows:—

Anno DCCXLJ. obiit Ewain rex Scottorum, cui successit Murezaut filius ejus.

Anno DCCXLIV. obiit Murezaut rex Scottorum, cui successit Ewen filius ejus.

Anno DCCXLVIJ. obiit Ewen rex Scottorum, euisuccessit Hed Abbas filius ejus.

Anno DCCLXXVII. obiit Hed rex

Scottorum, cui successit Fergus filius ejus.

Anno MCCLXXX. obiit Fergus rex Scottorum, cui successit Seluad filius ejus.

Anno DCCCVI. obiit Seluad rex Scottorum, cui successit Eokal venenosus.

Anno DCCXXXIV. obiit Eokal rex Scottorum, cui successit Duugal filius ejus.

Anno DCCXLJ. obiit Dungal rex Scottorum; Alpinus filius Eokal ei successit.

Anno DCCXLIIJ. obiit Alpinus rex Scottorum, cui successit Kined filius ejus, de quo dicitur.

² b reads Adque; c reads Et post.

³ b inserts here, Iste vocatus est rex primus, non quia fuit sed quia primus leges Scotianas instituit, quas vocant leges Macalpin.
 Anno DCCCLIX. obiit Kinedns rex Scottorum, cui successit Dovenaldus de quo dicitur.

⁴ c reads erat in Scotia.

Regis predicti frater fuit ille Kyneti
 Qui Scōne fertur subditus esse neci¹
 Fit Constantinus post hunc rex bis terti annis²
 Regis Kyneti filius ille fuit
 In bello³ pugnans Dacorum corruit armis
 Nomine Nigra specus est ubi pugna fuit⁴
 Ejusdem frater regnaverat Albipes Edhus
 Qui Grig Dungalide⁴ saucius ense perit.
 Hie postquam primum regni compleverat annum,
 In Stratulun vitam ulnere finierat.⁵
 Girk sua jura gerens annis deca tetra et octo⁶
 In Dunduren probus morte retentus erat.
 Hic dedit ecclesie libertates⁷ Scoticane,
 Que sub Pictorum lege redacta fuit.
 Hujus ad imperium fuit Anglia tota subacta,⁸
 Quod non leva dedit sors sibi bella terens.⁹
 Post hunc in Scocia regnavit rex Douenaldus ;
 Qui¹⁰ Constantino filius ortus erat.
 In villa fertur rex iste perisse Forensi,
 Undecimo regni sole rotante sui.¹¹
 Constantinus item, cuius pater Edh fuit Albns.
 Bis deca Rex annis vixerat atque decem.
 Andree sancti fuit hic quinque annis in urbe ;
 Religionis ibi jure fruens obiit.¹²
 Huic rex Malcolmus successit ter tribus annis,
 Regis Donaldi filius iste¹³ fuit.

¹ b inserts here, Anno DCCCLXIIJ. obiit Douenaldus rex Scotorum.

⁶ b and c read rex fit et octo.

² b reads quinque ter annis.

⁷ c reads libertatem.

c reads—

⁸ b reads peracta.

Iam Constantinus fuerat rex
quinque ter annis.

⁹ b inserts, Anno DCCCXCVIJ.
obiit Grig Scotorum rex ; rex
Scotorum Douenaldus filius Con-

³ b inserts here, Anno DCCCLXXVIIJ. occiditur Constantini-nus rex Scotorum. Rex Scotorum Hed frater ejus.

stantini.

⁴ b reads Dofnaldide.

¹⁰ b and c read Hic.

c reads makDougal.

¹¹ b inserts here, Anno DCCCVIJ.
eodem anno perit Dofnaldus rex Scotorum, post quem rex Scottorum Constantinus filius Heli.

⁵ b inserts, Anno DCCCLXXIX.
rex Scotorum Het [frater ejus] occiditur ; post quem [rex Scottorum Grig filius Douenaldi.]

¹² b inserts here, Anno DCCCLXIIJ. obiit Constantinus Rex Scotorum.

¹³ b and c read ille.

Interficerunt hunc Ulrum¹ Morauienses :
 Gentes apostatice fraude doloque cadit.²
 Post hunc Indulfus totidem regnaverat annis :
 Ens Constantini filius Ethaide,
 In bello pugnans ad fluminis hostia Colli³
 Dacorum gladiis protinus occubuit.⁴
 Quatuor et senis rex Duf regnavit arrestis,
 Malcolmo natus, regia vita⁵ gerens.
 Hunc interfecit gens perfida Morauiensis,
 Cujus erat gladiis cesus in urbe Fores.
 Sol abdit radios, ipso sub ponte latente,
 Quo fuit absconsus, quoque repertus erat.⁶
 Filius Indulfi totidem quoque rex fuit annis,
 Nomine Culemus; vir fuit insipiens.
 Fertur apud Lennas⁷ illum truncasse Radhardus,
 Pro rapta nata quam sibi rex rapuit.⁸
 Inclitus in Scocia⁹ fertur regnasse Kynedus
 Malcolmi natus, quatuor et deca bis.
 Iste Forchirkern¹⁰ telis et arte peremptus,
 Nate Cunicari Finglene¹¹ fraude cadens.¹²
 Rex Constantinus Culeni filius ortus,
 Ad caput amnis Amon¹³ ense peremptus erat,
 In jus regale;¹⁴ regens uno rex et semis annis,
 Ipsum Kinedus Malcolomida ferit.¹⁵
 Annorum spacio rex Grym regnaverat octo,
 Kyneti natus qui genitus¹⁶ Duf erat.

¹ b reads in Ulum. c in Wlru.

² b inserts here, Anno DCCCLIIJ. rex Scottorum Maleolmus interficitur.

³ b reads Collin; c Collyne.

⁴ b inserts here, Anno DCCCLXJ. rex Scottorum Indulfus occiditur; post quem.

⁵ b and c read jura.

⁶ b inserts here, Anno DCCCCCLXV. rex Duf Scottorum interficitur; post quem.

⁷ b reads Loinas; c Lovias.

⁸ b inserts here, Anno DCCCLXIX. rex Scottorum Culenus perimitur; post quem.

⁹ c reads—

Postquam rec fertur Scotis.

¹⁰ b reads Fotherkerne; c Fethyр-kerne.

¹¹ b reads Cuncari Fimberhele; c Cuncari Fimbel.

¹² b inserts here, Anno DCCCXIIJ. rex Scottorum Kined occiditur; post quem rex Scottorum Constantinus Calwus, filius Culini.

¹³ b reads Aren; c Awyne.

¹⁴ b reads Tegalere.

¹⁵ b inserts here, Anno DCCCCXCV. rex Scottorum Constantinus necatur; post quem [rex Scottorum Grim, sive Kinedus, filius Duf.] Two last lines omitted in c.

Quo truncatus erat, Bardorum campus habetur,
 A nato Kyneth nomine Malcolomi.¹
 Idem² Malcolmus deca ter regnavit aristis,
 In pugnis miles bellicus atque probus;³
 In vico Glammes rapuit mors improba⁴ regem;⁵
 Sub pede paratis⁶ hostibus ille ruit,⁷
 Abbatis Crini, jam dieti, filia regis,
 Uxor erat Bethoc, nomina digna sibi.⁸
 Ex illa genuit Duncanum nomine natum,
 Qui senis annis rex erat Albanie,
 A Finlath⁹ natus percussit eum Macabed
 Funere¹⁰ letali rex apud Elgyn obit.¹¹
 Rex Macabeda decem Scotie septemque fit annis:
 In eius regno fertile tempus erat.
 Hunc in Lunphanan¹² truncavit morte cruenta¹³
 Duncani natus, nomine Malcolomus.¹⁴
 Mensibus infelix Lulach tribus extiterat rex
 Armis ejusdem Malcolomi cecidit.
 Fata viri fuerant in Strathbolgyn apud Essy:¹⁵
 Heu sic incaute Rex miser occubuit.¹⁶
 Hos in pace viros tenet insula Iona sepulta
 In tumulo regum, judicis usque diem.¹⁷
 Ter deca quinque¹⁸ valens annis et mensibus octo
 Malcolmus dictus¹⁹ rex erat in Scoccia
 Anglorum gladiis in bello sternitur heros:
 Hic rex in Scotia primus humatus erat.²⁰

¹ b inserts here, Anno M.III. rex Scotorum Grim necatur; post quem.

² c reads Rex quoque.

³ b and c read victoriosus erat.

⁴ b reads libera.

⁵ c reads quondamque puellare.

⁶ b and c read prostratis.

⁷ b and c read perit.

⁸ b reads sui, and inserts here, Anno M.XXXIIIJ. iste Malcolmus non habuit filium, set filiam; que erat uxor abbatis Duncanceli Crini, et.

⁹ b reads Fideg; c Fydale.

¹⁰ b and c read vulnere.

¹¹ b inserts here, Anno M.XXIX.

obit Ducanus rex Scotorum, cuius regnum Macbet sibi usurpavit.

¹² b reads Lanfuant.

¹³ b and c read crudeli.

¹⁴ b inserts here, Anno M.LV. Lulach quatuor menses et dimidium regnavit.

¹⁵ b and c read Essey.

¹⁶ a reads oppimir.

¹⁷ b inserts here, Anno M.LVI. The poem terminates here in c.

¹⁸ b reads vique.

¹⁹ b reads decas.

²⁰ b inserts here, Anno M.XCIIJ. Donenaldus regnum Scotie invasit, de quo dicitur.

Mensibus in regno sex regnavit Douenaldus,
 Malcolmis regis frater, in Albania.
 Abstulit hunc regnum Duncanus Malcolomides ;
 Mensibus et totidem rex erat in Scocia.
 Hic erat¹ occisus Mernensibus in Monehedne ;²
 De male vivendo plebs premit omnis eum.³
 Rursus Dofnaldus, Duncano rege perempto
 Ternis rex annis regia jura tenet.
 Captus ad Edgario vita⁴ privatur at ille,
 Roscolpin obiit ; ossaque Iona tenet.
 Post hunc Edgarus regnavit ter tribus annis,
 Rex Edinburgo fertur obisse probus.
 Regis Alexandri regnum duravit aristis
 Quinque bis et septem, mensibus atque tribus.⁵
 In Scocia tota postquam pax firma vigebat,
 Fertur apud Strivelin mors rapuisse virum.⁶
 Bis deca rex annis David fuit atque novenis,
 In Scocia, caute provida prospiciens.
 Postquam castellis regnum munivit et armis,
 Rex Carduille fertur obisse senex.
 Istius in regno quidam fuit insidiator,
 Quem cum cepisset, lumine privat eum,
 Hunc ex pane cibat : cui regis nata solebat.
 Currere ludendo ; quam fodit ulti atrox.
 Cum videt nate pregnans regina cruentem,
 Anxia quem peperit ut caro nuda fuit.
 Ille comes fuerat Henricus, ductor ad arma ;
 Malcolmi, Wilhelmi pater, atque David ;
 Conditus in Kelton prevenit morte parentem.
 Maleolmi laudem vita pudica perit.⁷
 Hic successit avo tractando regia septræ.⁸
 Bis senis annis, mensibus atque tribus.

¹ b reads fuit.² b reads Monodcdhno.³ b reads illum.⁴ a reads risu.⁵ b reads octo.⁶ b reads regem.⁷ These ten lines are in a only.⁸ b reads —

Inclitus in Scotia regnavit Malcolmus Rex.

Nou satis in regno jam tunc pax firma vigebat:
 Fertur apud Gedwdde¹ Rex sine labe mori.
 Quatuor hii reges jam² sunt in pace sepulti,
 In tumbaque jacent³ Rex ubi Malcolmus.⁴
 Flos regum, regnique vigor; decus omne virorum,
 Vuilelmus, celum, rex probus, ingreditur
 Annis in regno jam quinquaginta peractis
 In Strivilino mors rapit atra senem.
 Pridie rex obiit Nonas, in pace, Decembbris:
 Qui Prodocensi conditur almus humo.
 Tunc agitur regimen facientis regia septra
 Regis Alexandri, nobilis et pii.
 Cleri protector; rigidi quoque juris amator;
 Munificusque dator; inclitus iste fuit.
 Ter deca, cum quinque, regni cum fecerat annis;
 Fuit in Ergadia; set sine fine manet.
 Fine caret jure, cuius probitatis honestas
 Per famam vivit; per bona facta viget.
 Ergadia moritur Octo cum fecerat Idus
 Julius. Ac Melros ossa sepulta tenet.
 Nomen habet patris; utinam patris acta sequatur,
 Filius, Albanica qui modo sceptr'a tenet.

¹ b reads Gedewrhe.² b reads tunc.³ b reads resident.⁴ The poem terminates here in*b.* The rest is in a only.

XXXI.

LEGEND OF ST. ANDREW, MCCLXXIX.

MS. BRIT. MUS. HARL. 4628. A REGISTRO
PRIORATUS SANCTI ANDREÆ.

ANNO ab incarnatione Domini nostri Jesu Christi 345, Constantinus nepos Constantini filii Helenæ, congregavit exercitum magnum ad depopulandum Patras civitatem, in vindictam suspensionis beati Andreæ Apostoli Christi, et ut inde afferat reliquias ipsius. Tertia autem nocte, antequam Imperator cum exercitu intraret civitatem, angelus Dei descendens de celo apparuit sanctis viris, qui custodiebant reliquias Sancti Andreæ Apostoli, et præcepit sancto episcopo Regulo, ut ipse cum clericis suis iret ad sarcophagum, in quo erant recondita ossa beati Andreæ, et inde tolleret tres digitos manus dextræ, et brachium inter cubitum et humerum, et patellam genu illius, et unum ex dentibus suis. Ipsi vero has partes de reliquiis tollentes, sicut angelus illos jussérat, in loco secretissimo reposuerunt. Die vero sequente post harum reliquiarum repositionem, sub ortu solis, venit Imperator Constantius eum exercitu suo, et urbem depopulavit, et provinciam; et secum Romæ asportavit scrinium, in quo cætera ossamenta Sancti Apostoli invenit reposita. Quo adveniens depredavit insulan Tyberis, et Colossiam, et inde tulit secum ossa Sancti Lucae Evangelistæ, et Timothei discipuli beati Pauli Apostoli, usque ad Constantinopolim cum reliquiis beati Andreæ.

Tunc temporis Hungus, filius Ferlon, magnus Rex Pictorum, congregavit exercitum suum contra Adhelstanum Regem Saxonum, et castrametatus est ad ostium fluminis Tyne. Nocte vero ipsa, ante congressionem duorum exercituum, beatus Andreas apparuit Regi Pictorum Hungoin somniis, dicens ei quod ipse Apostolus, in die sequente, in inicium exercitum ita expugnaret, ut ipse Hungus plene de inimicis triumpharet. Cui rex ait "quis es tu? et unde "venis?" Beatus Andreas respondens ait, "ego sum Andreas "Apostolus Christi, et nunc de celo veni, a Deo missus re- "velare tibi quod in die crastino expugnabo inimicos tuos, "et tibi subjugabo, et læta victoria potitus ipse cum exer- "citu tuo incolumis reparabis, et in regnum tuum reliquæ "meæ efferentur, et locus ad quem deferentur cum omni "honore et veneratione celebris erit, usque in ultimum diem "seculi." Rex autem, ex somno evigilans, enarravit omni- bus suis ea quæ dormienti revelaverat beatus Andreas. Quibus auditis Pictorum populus exhilaratus, jurejurando affirmavit, perpetuo cum omni diligentia se beato Andreæ venerationem exhibiturum, si ea quæ Regi suo monstraverat ad effectum ducerentur. Die autem postero Picti, ex sponsione Apostoli letificati, prelum pararunt; et, diviso exercitu, circa Regem suum septem agmina statuerunt. Saxones vero suum dividentes exerceitum, Regem suum Adhelstatum bis septem constipati sunt agminibus. Facto autem congressu, Saxones omni virtute illico destituti, Deo volente, et Sancto Apostolo Andrea pro Pietis interveniente, in fugam detorsi sunt. Regis autem Saxonum Adhelstani capite amputato, innumera Saxonum facta est cædes. Rex vero Hungus victoria potitus, cum exercitu non modico in terra[m] suam rediens, caput Adhelstani secum precepit adferri, et in loco qui dicitur Ardchin-nechun, infra portum qui nunc dicitur Portus Reginæ, ligno fecit affigi. Post istam ope cœlesti adeptam victoriam, in Pictos postmodum non ausi sunt insurgere Saxones.

Post hujus belli felicem victoriam non multis evolutis diebus, angelus Die iterum de celo venit ad beatum Episcopum Regulum, quem ita alloquitur: "Ex Dei "summi præcepto partes aquilonares adire non differes, "adversus solem orientem, cum reliquiis discipuli Christi "Andreae; quos ex monitu nostro jamdudum reservasti, "et quocunque loco navis illa quæ te et tuum vellet per “ mare conventum, conquassata fuerit, te cum sociis salvo et “ incolumi, ibi in nomine Domini et Apostoli sui Andreæ “ jace fundamentum ecclesiae. Locus enim ille vobis erit per “ seculum requies, et ibidem erit resurrectio in die extremi “ examinis.” Regulus vero episcopus, juxta præceptum angeli, sanctis viris comitatus, cum reliquiis Sancti Apostoli, erga aquilonem tendit navigio, et per unius anni spatium et dimidii, multis tempestatum jactus procellis, per insulas Greci maris quounque appulsus fuit, oratorium in honorem Sancti Andreæ constituit.

Innumeros itaque Sancti viri labores perpessi, per marina littora, Deo ducente, in aquilonem vela direxerunt, et in terra Pictorum, ad locum qui Muckros fuerat nuncupatus, nunc autem Kyrimont dictus, nocte Sancti Michaelis, applicuerunt. Muckros vero nemus porcorum dicitur.
Navi vero qua vehebantur ad scopulos conquassata, cricem quandam, quam secum de Patras portaverant, ibidem sibi erectis papilionibus in terra fixerunt, in signum quod portaverant sacrorum, et contra demonum insidias curamentum, et ibidem per dies septem et totidem noctes manserunt.
Ibidem dimissis senioribus Sancto Damiano et fratre suo Merinach, in ipsius loci custodiā, Regulus et cæteri viri cum sanctis reliquiis Sanctissimi Apostoli Andreæ ad Fortevieth perrexerunt, et illuc tres filios Regis Hungi reperierunt, scilicet, Howonam, et Nechtan, et Phinguineghert. et quia pater illorum in expeditione in partibus Argathelie tunc temporis extitit, de cuius vita filii multum solici-erant, Deo et Sancto Andreæ dederunt decimam partem de urbe Fortevieth. Ibidem vero cruce quadam erecta, loco et loci habitatorib[us] Regis filiis, benedixerunt. Inde per-rexerunt Moneclatu, qui nunc dicitur Monichi, et ibi Regina Finchem Regi Hungo filiam enixa est, quæ Mouren vocata
est. Corpus illius virginis Mouren apud Kyrimont sepulta est, nullo ante hoc ibidem sepulso. Finchem vero Regina domum in qua filiam Mouren pepererat dedit Deo et Sancto Andreæ, et totum atrium regale perpetuo. Inde transierunt montana, scilicet, Moneth, et venerunt ad lacum qui vocabatur Doldencha, nunc autem dictus Chondroch-edalvan. Ibi Hungus Rex sublimis de expeditione rediens, viri[s] sanctis obvenit, et coram reliquiis Sancti Andreæ Apostoli sibi ostensis, cum omni humilitate et reverentia se prostravit ; Pictis omnibus nobilibus qui cum illo erant, similiter cum Rege humili, prostratis coram reliquiis. Rex vero locum illum, scilicet, Doldancha, dedit Deo et Sancto Andreæ Apostolo, et ecclesiam ibi edificavit ubi reliquiæ sibi nudæ ostensæ erant. Inde Rex cum sanctis viris montana, scilicet, Moneth, transiens, venit usque ad Monichi. Ibidem et in honore[m] Dei et beati Apostoli ecclesiam edificavit, et ita venit Rex cum sanctis viris ad Fortevieth, et ibi Deo et Apostolo basilicam aedificavit. Postea vero Rex Hungus, cum sanctis viris, venit Chilrymont, et magnam partem loci illius circumiens, obtulit illam Deo et Sancto Andreæ Apostolo, ad edificandum ibi basilicas et oratorias. Locum vero ipsum, nota evidente designatum, ex magna devotione septies circumierunt. Rex Hungus et ipse Episcopus Regulus, et viri cæteri, circuitione et perambulatione ita disposita septena præcessit Episcopus Regulus, super caput suum cum omni veneratione reliquias Sancti Apostoli deferens, suo sacro conventu episcopum cum comitibus hymnidicis sequente. Illos vero devotus secutus Rex Hungus est pedentim, Deo intimas preces et gratias fundens devotus. Regem vero secuti sunt viri optimates totius regni nobiliores. Ita locum ipsum Deo commendarunt, et pace regia munierunt. In signum vero regiae commendationis, per loci circuitum divisim 12 cruces lapideas viri sancti erexerunt ; et Deo cœli humiliter supplicabant, ut omnes in illo loco mente devota, et intentione pura, orationis suea petitionis efficaciam obtinerent.

Postea Rex Hungus basilicæ Sancti Apostoli in parochiam dedit quicquid terræ est inter mare quod Ishundenema dicebatur, usque ad mare quod Sletheuma vocabatur ; et in adjacenti provincia per circuitum de Largaw, usque ad Sireis canum ; et de Sireis usque ad Hyhatnoultten Machehirb, quæ tellus nunc dieitur Hadnachten. Rex vero dedit hunc locum, scilicet, Chilrymonth, Deo et Sancto Andreæ ejus Apostolo, cum aquis, pratu, cum agris, cum pascuis, cum moris, cum nemoribus in cliemosynam perpetuo ; et tanta libertate locum illum donavit, ut illius inhabitatores liberi et quieti semper existerent de exercitu, et de operibus castellorum et pontium, et de inquietatione omnium secularium exactionum. Regulus vero episcopus Deo cantavit orationem Allej. ut Deus locum istum in eleemosinam datum in sempiternam protegeret, et custodiret in honorem Apostoli. In memoriale datae libertatis Rex Hungus cespitem arreptum, coram nobilibus Pictis, hominibus suis, usque ad altare Sancti Andreæ detulit ; et super illud cespitem eundem obtulit. In presentia testium horum hoc factum est, Thalarg filii Ythernbuthib, Nactan filii Chelturan, Garnach filii Dosnach, Drusti filii Wrthrosst, Nachtalich filii Gigherti, Shinah filii Lutheren, Anegus filii Forchete, Pheradach filii Finleich, Phiachan sui filii, Bolge, Glummerach filii Taran, Demene filii Aunganena, Duptalaich filii Bergib. Isti testes ex regali prosapia geniti sunt.

Postea in Chilrymont sancti viri septem construxerunt ecclesias. Unam in honorem Sancti Reguli ; secundam in honorem Sancti Aneglas diaconi : tertiam in honorem Sancti Michaelis Archangeli : quartam in honorem Sanctæ Mariae virginis : quintam in honorem Sancti Damiani ; sextam in honorem Sanctæ Brigidæ virginis : septimam in honorem Muren cuiusdam virginis, et in illa ecclesia fuerunt 50 virgines, de semine regio procreatæ, omnes Deo dicatae, et velatae undecim annis, et sepultæ sunt omnes in orientali parte ipsius ecclesiae.

Hæc sunt nomina illorum sanctorum virorum qui sacras reliquias Sancti Andreæ Apostoli attulerunt in Scotiam. Sanctus Regulus ipse, Gelasius diaconus, Maltheus heremita, Sanctus Damianus presbyter, et Merinachus frater ejus. Neruius et Crisenius de Nola insula. Miremus : et Thuluculus diaconus. Nathabeus, et Silvius frater ejus. Septem heremitæ de insula Tiberis, Felix, Juranus, Mauritius, Madianus, Philippus, Eugenius, Lunus ; et tres virgines de Collossia, scilicet, Kiduana,¹ Potentia, Cineria. Hæ virgines sepultæ sunt ad ecclesiam Sancti Anaglas.

¹ sic, probably for Triduana.

Thana filius Dudabrach hoc monumentum scripsit Regi Pherath filio Bergeth in villa Migdele.

Hæc ut præfati sunus, sicut in veteribus Pictorum libris scripta reperimus, transcripsimus. Affirmant plerique Scotorum beatum Apostolum Andream viventem in corpore ibidem fuisse; hoc argumentum assertionis suæ assumentes, quod terram Pictorum, scilicet, Scythicam, in sortem prædicationis accepit; et ideo locum istum præ cunctis locis carum habebat; et quod non explevit vivus expletat carne solutus. Quod quia scriptum non reperimus, in neutram partem, negando, vel affirmando, nimium inchinamus: sed quoniam de virtutibus et miraculis quæ per Sanctum Apostolum suum Deus et fecit et facit, facta est mentio, unde et quædam illorum scribendi obtulit se occasio, quæ vel scripta reperimus, vel a veridicis audivimus relatoribus, vel etiam ipsi perspeximus, scribere Deo donante disposuimus; et hoc non fratres postulaverunt. Interim autem distulimus donec inceptum compleamus.

Deleto igitur funditus Pictorum regno, et a Scottis occupato, vicissim res et possessiones ecclesiae crescebant, aut decorescebant, prout reges et principes devotionem ad Sanctum Apostolum habebant. De quibus non est dicendum modo per singula, sed quæ ad nos spectant compendiose tractanda. Erat autem regia urbs Rymont, Regius Mons dicta, quem præfatus Rex Hungus Deo et Sancto Apostolo dedit. Sublatis vero a presenti vita sanctis, quorum supra mentionem fecimus, qui cum reliquiis beati Apostoli advenierant, et eorum discipulis atque imitatoribus, cultus ibi religiosus deperierat, sicut et gens barbara et inculta fuerat. Habebantur tamen in ecclesia Sancti Andreæ, quota et quanta tunc erat, tredecim per successionem carnalem quos Keledeos appellant, qui secundum suam aestimationem et hominum traditionem, magis quam secundum sanctorum statuta patrum, vivebant. Sed et adhuc similiter vivunt, et quædam habent communia pauciora, scilicet, et deteriora; quædam vero propria plura, scilicet, et potiora; prout quisque ab amieis suis aliqua necessitudine ad se pertinentibus, viz. consanguineis et affinibus, vel ab iis quorum animæ charæ sunt, quod est amicarum¹ amici, sive aliis quibuslibet modis, poterit quis adipisci. Postquam Keledei effecti sunt, non licet eis habere uxores suas in domibus suis, sed nec alias de quibus mala oriatur suspicio mulieres. Personæ nihilominus septem fuerunt, oblationes altaris inter se dividentes; quarum septem portionum, unam tantum habebat episcopus et hospitale unam; quinque vero reliquæ in quinque cæteros dividebantur, qui nullo omnino altari vel ecclesiæ impendebant servitium, præterquam peregrinos et hospites, cum plures quam sex adventarunt, more suo hospitio suscipiebant, sortem mittentes quis quos vel quot reciperebat. Hospitale sane semper sex et infra suscipiebat. Sex quod nunc, donante Deo, postquam in manum Canonicorum devenit, omnes suscepit eo advenientes. Statuerunt etiam Canonici ut si quis eo æger deveniat, vel infirmatus ibi fuerit, cura ipsius agatur in omnibus necessariis, juxta domus facultatem, usque dum convaleat, vel moriatur. Si quid autem habuerit, faciat inde quod voluerit; et disponit ad libitum suum, quoniam in domo illa nihil exigeatur ab illo. Constitutus est etiam a Canonicis capellanus, qui et infirmatis et morientium curam agat, et duo fratres, qui custodiunt domum, et hospites suscipiunt, atque infirmis ministrarent; qui tamen ibi neque comedunt, neque bibunt, neque induuntur. Ad hoc quoque concesserunt Canonici decimas proprietatum suorum laborum, et reliquias ciborum suorum. Si quid vero necessarium sive sanis sive infirmis in cellario eorum fuerit, quod de hospitali haberi non poterit, sine contradictione donetur.

Personæ autem supra memoratae redditus et possessiones proprias habebant; quas, cum e vita decederent, uxores eorum, quas publice tenebant, filii quoque, vel filiae, propinquai, vel generi, inter se dividebant. Nihilominus altaris oblationes cui non deserviebant, quod puduisserent dicere, si non libuisset eis facere. Nec potuit tantum auferri malum usque ad tempus felicis memoriae regis Alexandri, sanctæ Dei ecclesiæ specialis amatoris; qui et ecclesiam beati

¹ sic.

Andreæ Apostoli possessionibus et redditibus ampliavit, multisque et magnis muneribus cumulavit; libertatibus et consuetudinibus, quæ sui regii muneris erant, cum regali possessione donavit.

Terram etiam quæ Cursus Apri dicitur, quam cum allatæ fuissent reliquiae beati Andreæ Apostoli, Rex Hungus, cuius supra mentionem fecimus, Deo et Sancto Apostolo Andreæ dederat, et postea oblata fuerat, ex integro instituit; eo nimirum obtentu et conditione, ut in ipsa ecclesia constitueretur religio ad Deo deserviendum. Non enim erat qui beati Apostoli altari deserviret, nec ibi missa celebatur, nisi cum Rex vel Episcopus illo advenerat, quod raro contigebat. Keledei namque in angulo quodam ecclesiae, quæ modica nimis erat, suum officium more suo celebrabant. Cujus donationis regiæ testes multi sunt superstites. Quam donationem et Comes David, frater ejus, concessit; quem Rex heredem destinaverat et in regno successorem, sicut est hodie. Ob cuius etiam donationis monumentum regium equeum Arabicum, cum proprio freno, et sella, et scuto, et lancea argentea, opertum pallio grandi et pretioso, præcepit Rex usque ad altare adduci, et de predictis donis, libertatibus, et consuetudinibus omnibus regalibus, ecclesiam investiri; arma quoque Turchensia diversi generis dedit, quæ cum ipsis scuto et sella in memoriam regiæ munificentiae, usque hodie in ecclesia Sancti Andreæ conserventur; quæ undecunque advenientibus populis ostenduntur, ne oblivione ullatenus delentur, quod tam crebro ad memoriam revocatur. Hujus nempe Regis Alexandri diebus, prope vitæ temporalis finem, Dominus Robertus primus Sconensis ecclesiæ prior (quam et idem Rex Canonicis dederat et multis donis atque possessionibus ditaverat), in episcopum Scotorum electus fuit. Sic quippe, ab antiquo, episcopi Sancti Andreæ dicti sunt, et in scriptis tam antiquis quam modernis inveniuntur dicti Summi Archiepiscopi sive Summi Episcopi Scotorum. Unde et conscribi fecit in theca Evangelii Fothet episcopus, maximæ vir authoritatis, versus istos:

Hanc Evangelii thecam construxit aviti.

Fothet qui Scotis Summus Episcopus est.

Sic et nunc quoque in vulgari et communi locutione Escop Alban, id est, Episcopi Albaniæ, appellantur. Sic et dicti sunt, et dicuntur per excellentiam, ab universis Scotorum episcopis, qui a locis quibus præsunt appellantur.

Sed ante ipsius electi consecrationem memoratus Rex Alexander, ad extrema deductus, fratrem suum Regem David, qui solus ex fratribus supererat, et superest, non tam regni quam devotionis erga Dei ecclesiam, et pauperum tutelam, reliquit heredem. Satagit enim, et sataget, ut quod frater ejus Rex, saepe dictus, inceperat, ipse ad finem Deo juvante perduceret. Plures et ecclesias, et plura monasteria, tam monachorum, quam canonicorum, necnon et sanctimonialium constituit; quibus et multa beneficia contulit. Praeterea in servos et ancillas Christi multa operatus est opera misericordiae; quae non est nostræ facultatis evolvere. Impetravit autem consecrari antistitem ecclesie Sancti Andreæ jam dictum Dominum Robertum, a piæ memorie Thurstino Eboracensi Archiepiscopo, sine professione, vel qualibet exactione salva duntaxat utriusque ecclesiæ dignitate, et sanctæ atque apostolice sedis auctoritate. Ordinatus igitur episcopus, atque ad sedem propriam reversus, quod anhelabat in pectore, exercere studebat in opere, ut ecclesia, viz. ampliaretur, et cultui divino dedicaretur. In multis tamen, et ante ordinationem et post, adversatus est ei Satanæ; multas sustinuit injurias et contumelias, juxta quod ait Apostolus, "omnes qui volunt pie vivere in Christo "persecutionem patiuntur." Portiuncula[m] autem septimam altaris, quæ eum contigebat, et quam de propriis usibus suis substrahebat, in ecclesie opus expendebat. Sed quoniam impensa erant modica, modice erigeretur et fabrica: donec, Domino cooperante, et proxime Rege David annuente, oblationes in manibus laicorum, tam virorum quam mulierum, exceptæ, in usus ecclesiæ sunt receptæ. Dein ubi magis quod daret ad manum haberet, magis ac magis opus accelerabat.

Basilica igitur in fundamentis inchoata, et ex majori jam parte consummata, domibus quibusdam inceptis, quibusdam ita exactis, cum claustro ut jam possint habitationes introduci, qui non nimia quærerent, et interim per patientiam ex-pectarent Dominum Adeboldum episcopum Carleolensem expetit, tam per literas, quam per missalicos, per vivam quoque vocem, Regi David sibi concedere ecclesiam Sancti Oswaldi, cui ipse episcopus jure prioris praerat, personam quam in partem sui laboris assumeret et Canonicis, quos in ecclesia Sancti Andreæ statuere disponebat, priorem constitueret. Familiarius siquidem sibi videbatur et dulcius de ipsa ecclesia ibi se Deo devoverat, et habitum religionis suscepserat, unde et Sconensi ecclesiæ primus Prior destinatus fuerat : de qua, ut prefati sumus, in Episcopum electus et assumptus erat ; quam aliunde personam accipere. Nec tamen quilibet postulavit personam, sed fratrem Robertum, non quidem fama notum, vel conversione, sed tantum nomine, quem juxta quod ab amicis et familiaribus suis qui eum noverunt, ad hoc idoneum estimabant. Petiit ergo eum et accepit, nec enim ei de ipsa ecclesia negare poterat vel debebat quicquid rationabiliter postularet.

Memoratus autem frater Robertus ex precepto Domini Episcopi aliquandiu apud Sanctum Andream conversatus est, et sine Canonicis, non tamen sine Clericis, prebente Domino Episcopo necessaria sibi et suis. In ecclesiam vero nullam habebat, nec habere volebat, potestatem, donec ei Dominus procuraret quam optabat ad Dei servitium societatem. Nihil tamen de se presumerit ; sed totum se Deo deferens, et se ordinationi submittens, Deum sedulo deprecabatur ut eum visitari et consolari dignaretur, ut tale douaret, si religionis fundamentum ponere supra quod constructum edificium firmum esset, et stabile. Sicut enim in corde statuerat nequaquam in alienos labores intrare volebat, quod fortasse sibi facile foret de aliis et diversis ecclesiis, sibi fratres sociare, ne forte diversi diversa sentientes, dum qui essent videri appeterent, in unitatem non convenirent ; et sic antequam jaceretur fundamentum, pateretur fabrica detrimentum. Si quos tamen, modo quo ipse disponebat vivere paratis, ei Dens adduceret, eos benigne susciperet.

Interea fratre Roberto ex precepto Episcopi ut dictum est ibidem commorante, Domino Episcopo autem circa inceptum segnius agente, venit Rex, una cum filio suo Henrico Comite et Rege designato, ad Sanctum Andream, orationis gratia; multique cum iis comitum et potentium terrae. In crastino autem, audita missa, et horis ex more et oblatione factis, veniens Rex in claustrum, quale illud tunc erat, simul cum iis qui secum venerant; et residentibus cunctis, primum multa quae nihil attinet, tandem causam pro qua precipue venerat apperuit Rex. Convenit igitur Episcopum cum sicut disposuisse dixerat, et Rex Alexander constituerat opus, et servitium Dei non accelaret, ut in ecclesia beati Andreæ religionem constitueret. Cumque post multas controversias causareter Dominus Episcopus possessione[m] Episcopii non licere sibi minuere, vel dispergere, ne forte a successore suo, a servis Dei auferretur quod ipsis ab eo conferretur, respondet Rex, et dixit, ut de terra illa quae Cursus Apri dicitur, quae de episcopatu non erat, quam Rex Alexander, frater ejus, propter hoc Deo et Sancto Andreæ devoverat, ut in ecclesia ejus religio constitueretur, sufficienter eis tribueret; et tam ipse quam filius ejus concederent, et ad instaurandam terram auxilium ferrent. Quod et fecerunt, et alios quosdam cum jurando juvare compulerunt. Tunc Dominus Episcopus, quasi sponte coactus, de terris personarum quae abeuntibus eis in manum ejus obvenerant, quam libuit portionem, consilio et assensu Regis et filii ejus, et ceterorum baronum qui aderant, fratri Roberto in manum tradidit; unde fratres ut Dei servitium illo venientes interim sustentari debuissent. Nec tamen circa opus ecclesiæ segnius egit; sed quo citius consumaret omnibus modis satagit. Ipsa die piæ memorie Robertus presbiter, Domini Episcopi frater uterinus, corde, voce et opere seculum abrenuncians ad Deo deserviendum in ecclesia beati Andreæ sub canonica regula Sancti patris nostri Augustini, in manum fratris Roberti Prioris se reddidit, cum ecclesia sua de Tinningham, annuente Domino Episcopo, ita sane ut vel ecclesia[m] illam habere[n]t Canonicci, vel 1. solidos per annum.

XXII.

CHRONICLE OF THE PICTS AND SCOTS, MCCLXXX

MS. CORPUS. CHRIST. COLL. CANT. SCALACRONICA.

Fol. 193. b. ET fait asauoir qe solonc lez cronicles Descoce, nestoit vnques tiel difficilete qe enserroit lour roys de droit lingne, qe outriement estoit failly en le hour de troys roys succiemment, chescun fitz d'autre. Et pur ceo voet cest chronicle toucher la originaute dez roys, et la processe de caux qen Escoz ount regne. En la vie saint Brandane est troue qen le pays de Attenys, en Grece, estoit vn noble cheualer, qe out vn fitz, qy auoit a noun Gaidel, qauoit en espouse la feile Pharaeo le roy de Egypt, qe ont a noune Scota, de qey il auoit bele engendrure. Gaidel estoit cheualerous; se purchasa lez juuinceauch de soun pays, se mist en mere en uese od sa femme Scota, et sez

TRANSLATION.

^a And be it known that according to the Chronicles of Scotland, there never was such difficulty as that which would set down in writing their kings of the direct line, who entirely failed in the time of three kings successively, each the son of the other ; and for that, this chronicle would touch upon the origin of the kings and the succession of those who have reigned in Scotland. In the life of Saint Brandane it is found that in the country of Athens in Greece there was a noble chevalier who had one son whose name was Gaidel, who had for his wife the daughter of Pharaeo, king of Egypt, whose name was Scota, by whom he had fair offspring. Gaidel was chivalrous ; he gathered the youth of his country, put to sea in a vessel with enfauntz, se quist mansioun al auenture en biaunce de le conquer, arryua en Espayne, ou, sure vn haut mountayn, au couster de la mere Hibernie, fist edifier vn fort chastel, et le noma Brigans. Il viuoit od lez soens de rauyn sure lez paisens du pays. Sez pescheours furouint chacez vn iour par tempest parfound en la mere, q[ui] ly reuindrent renouncier qils auoit aparsceu, par voler dez flores, dez chardouns et autres enseignes, q[ue] il y out terre pres de outre mere. Gaidel od sez fitz, qui a surnoun auoient Scoti apres lour mere Scota, se mist en mere en trois naudeaux, seglerent aual la mere, trouerent vn Isle grant, mounterent a terre, trouerent le pays herbous et plesaunt de boys et reueres, mais noun pas bien poeple dez gentz. Et com est ymagine et suppose, procheigne-ment deuaunt auoit Gurguyns le fitz Belin, roye de Bretaigne, assigne cel Ile as gentz extretiz Despayne, queux il troua en Orkany com venoit de Denemarc, com auant est especifie. Gaidel repaire a soun chastel de Brigauns, ymaginaunt de realer al Ile troue ; mais ly surueint vn tresgref malady dount ly couseint murrir ; si deuisoit a sez fitz qils alasent a cel Ile, et y demurasset com a vn pays his wife Scota and his children, sought a dwelling on chance, with desire to conquer it, arrived in Spain, where on a high mountain, on the coast of the Hibernian sea, he built a strong castle and called it Brigance. He lived with his people on rapine upon the peasants of the country. His fishermen were driven one day by a deep tempest on the sea, and on their return announced that they had seen, by the floating of flowers, thistles, and other signs, that there was land near, beyond the sea. Gaidel with his sons, who had the surname of Scoti, from their mother Scota, put to sea in three vessels, sailed over the sea, found a large isle, landed on it, found the land grassy and pleasant, with woods and rivers, but not well peopled ; and as is imagined and supposed shortly before Gurguyns, the son of Belin, king of Britain, had assigned that island to some people come out of Spain, whom he found in Orkney as he came from Denmark, as is before specified. Gaidel repaired to his castle of Brigance, proposing to return to the discovered island ; but he was attacked by a grievous sickness, of which he must die ; he desired his sons to go to that saunz grant defens, leger a conquere. Eberus, le eyne fitz Gaidel et de Scota la feile Pharao, se addressa od sez freirs al anaunt dit Ile, qe le seisy, et tuerent et soutz-mistrent a lour obeisauice ceaux qe ils y trouerent, et pius appellerent le Ile Iberniam, apres lour freir eyne Eberus, ou apres la mere Eberiaco, qe nomez estoit ensi dez Espaynolis ; mais le surenoum Scoty demura od lez autres freirs, et od lour issu bon pece en cel Ile, qe entre nous est appelle Irrelande. En quel Ile apres arryua Symound Bret le fitz pusne du roy de Espayne, qd od ly aporta vn pere sur quoi lez roys Despayne soleient estre coronez, qd soun pier ly bailla en signifiaunce qil en fust roys, com cely qil plus amast de sez enfaantz. Cesty Symound deuient roy du pays de Ireland de par vn feile extreit de Scoty, qd enmyst le auaunt dit pere en le plus souerain bele lieu du pays, qe au iour de huy port le noune, li Lieu Real. Apres quoi veint vn dez fitz de vn dez roys de Ireland extreit de Scota, qy out a noun Fergus fitz Ferthairy, en le plus lointisme pays outre Bretaine deuers septentrioun, et, de cost lez Bretons, occupia la terre island, and to inhabit it, as a country without great defence and easy to conquer. Eberus, the eldest son of Gaidel and Scota, the daughter of Pharao, departed with his brothers for the said Isle, which he seized, and they slew, or subjected to their obedience, those whom they found there, and then called the Isle Hibernia, from the eldest brother, Eberus, or from the sea Eberiaco, thus named by the Spaniards ; but the surname Scoti remained with the other brothers, and their issue a long time in that Isle which among us is called Irrelande. In which Isle afterwards arrived Symond Bret, the youngest son of the king of Spain, who brought with him a stone, on which the kings of Spain were wont to be crowned, which his father gave him as a token that he was made king of it, as the one whom he most loved of his children. This Symond became king of the country of Ireland, by a daughter, descended of the Scoty, who placed the foresaid stone in the most sovereign beautiful place of the country, called to this day the Royal Place. After which came one of the sons of one of the kings of Ireland, descended of Scota, who was called Fergus, son of Ferthair, to the most remote country beyond Britain, towards the deuer Cateneyns outre la laund Porry, et y endemurerent, et tout estoit il du nacioun de Ireland. Et lez soens touz vnqor lez firent nomer Scoty, et la terre Scocia apres Scota, la feile Pharao roy de Egypt, de qei enuindrent lez Scotois ; mais lour propre pays est Ireland, lour coustom et patoys acordaunt, q̄i puis furount mellez od Pices, com apres serra recordez. Icesti Fergus aporta hors de Ireland la pere real auaunt nomez, et la fist mettre ou ore est labbai de Scone, sure quoy furount faitez assise et establis les roys Descoce, touz puscedy, tanque Edward le primer roy Dengleter apres la conquest, len fist aporter a Loundres a Westmoustre, ou orc le sege du prestre a le haute auter.^a

Et fait asauoir qe Fergus fitz Ferthair de Ireland, ex-trait de Scota, estoit le primer q̄i se disoit roy Descoce. Si regna iij. aunz outre Dunbretaine en Ynchgalle.^b Dungal fitz Fergus regna v. aunz.

Congal fitz Dungal xxij. aunz.

Constan fitz Doengard xxij. aunz.

Edhan fitz Godfray xxxiiij. aunz.

north, and beside the Britons, occupied the land towards Cateneys, beyond the heath Porry, and there dwelt, and he was entirely of the nation of Ireland, and his followers all again had themselves called Scoty, and the country Scocia, from Scota, daughter of Pharao, king of Egypt, from whence came the Scots ; but their proper country is Ireland, their customs and language according, who afterwards were mixed with the Piets, as shall be afterwards recorded. This Fergus brought out of Ireland the royal stone before named, and placed it where is now the Abbey of Scone, upon which were made, seated, and established the kings of Scotland all since that day ⁱⁿ order till Edward the First king of England after the Conquest, had caused it to be brought from hence to London, to Westminster, where now is the seat of the priest at the high altar.

^b And be it known that Fergus, son of Ferthair of Ireland, descended from Scota, was the first who called himself king of Scotland, and reigned three years beyond Dunbretain in Inchgalle.

Conel fitz Congelle xiiij. aunz.
 Eokebrid xvj. aunz.
 Kynather fitz Conel iij. moys.
 Ferthaire fitz Ewyne xvj. aunz.
 Fercarfod xxj. aunz.
 Dopnaldebreck [fitz] Eokebrid xiiij. aunz.
 Maldun fitz Dopnaldebreck xvj. aunz.
 Eorhetinen Danel fitz Donengard fitz Donald Brec iij.
 aunz.

Armelech fitz Findan j. ane.

Congan fitz Findan xvj. ans.

Moredath fitz Arnikelec iij. ans. En le temps de qy estoit le primer batail entre lez Bretouns et lez Pices, qui eiderent les Escoces.^c

Seluach fitz Cogan xxiij. aunz.

Ergheche fitz Achfiu xxx. aunz.

Donald fitz Sealuech vij. aunz.

Alpyn fitz Beghach iij. aunz. Cesty fust tue en Galloway, com il le auoit destruyt, de vn soul hom qui ly gayta en vn espesse boys en pendaunt al entree dun ge de vn ruyere, com cheuanchooit entre sez gentz. Cely estoit le darain de Escotoys qui al hour regna procheynement deuant lez Pices.

La sum dez aunz du regne dez Escotcis auaunt lez Pices ecc. et v. aunz et iij. moys.^d ^c In whose time was the first battle between the Britons and the Picts, who assisted the Scots.

^d He was killed in Galloway, after he had destroyed it, by a single man who lay in wait for him in a thick wood overhanging the entrance of the ford of a river, as he rode among his people. He was the last of the Scots, who at that time reigned immediately before the Picts.

The sum of the years of the reign of the Scots before the Picts was 305 years and three months.

Lez cronicles tesmoignent qe lez Pices vindrent de Syke, et entrerent Albanye, qor est Escoce, procheinement apres le mort cesti Alpin. Et entrerent Bretaigne, qor est Engleter, en le temps Vaspasian le Romayn, et en le temps Maurius fitz Aruiragoun, roy de Bretaigne. Si estoit lez Pices vn nacioun bataillour norriz et charniz toutditz en gere, qi sez accompagnerent oue Roderik al aventure pur terre conquere. Qi Rodrik fust tue de Maurius, le roy de Bretain, en batail pres de Cardoille. Plusours de sez Pices fuerent au boys, reenuoyerent au roy Maurius requerant sa merci, qi lour graunta sa peise, lez assigna pur lour homage vn pays outre Albany, qe de gentz Irroys estoit en parti comense a habiter, qi Escoez sez appellerent. Lez queux Pices, qi coumbatauntz estoient, suremouenterent lez Ecoces Irroys, lez tindrent en subieccioun. Lez queux Pices ne auoint my moillers, et par cause qe lez Bretouns ne voloint my marier od eaux, sez qistrent femmes hors de Ireland, sure condicoun qe lour issu parlascient Irrays, quel patois demurt a iour de huy hu haute pays entre lez vns, qest dit Escotoys.^e ^e The chronicles testify that the Piets came from Seythia, and entered Albany, which is now Scotland, immediately after the death of this Alpin, and entered Britain, which is now England, in the time of Vespasian the Roman, and in the time of Maurius, son of Arviragon, king of Britain. The Piets were a warlike nation, bred and always armed to battle. They associated themselves with Roderic, on chance to conquer land. This Roderic was slain by Maurius, the king of Britain, in battle near Carlisle. Many of those Piets fled to the woods, and sent to king Maurius, begging his mercy, who granted to them his peace, and assigned them for their homage a country beyond Albany, which some Irish people had in part commenced to inhabit, who called themselves Scots. The which Piets, who were combatants, overcame the Irish Scots, and held them in subjection. The which Piets had no wives, and because the Britons would not be married to them, they sought women out of Ireland, on condition that their issue should speak Irish, which language remains to this day in the Highlands among some who are called Scotch.

Cruthene Kenek, debonner, fust le primer qi se fist nomer roy du monarc du regne dez Picis, qui regna 1. auns.^f

Gede cl. aunz.
 Taren c. aunz.
 Dinortechest xx. aunz.
 Dugil xl. auns.
 Gamaldebold ix. aunz.
 Verpempnet xxx. aunz.
 Fiachna le blank xxx. aunz.
 Calnatuhel vj. aunz.
 Denornach Leedales i. ane.
 Stradach Fingel ij. aunz.
 Garnard le riche Ix. aunz.
 Talarg le fitz Kecter xxv. aunz.
 Drust fitz Irb c. aunz, et sy conquist c. batails.^g
 Talarg fitz Amil ij. aunz.
 Nectane Celtaaniech x. aunz.
 Drust Gortinoch xxx. aunz.
 Galan xv. aunz.
 Drust fitz Gigurnus l. aunz.
 Drust fitz Hidrofigus viij. aunz. Autrefoitz le primer
 Drust iiiij. aunz.
 Garnarde fitz Gigurnus vj. ans.
 Kyburcan soun freir vj. auns.
 Talarg fitz Mendeleghe xj. ans.
 Drust fitz Menech i. ane.
 Talagach iij. aunz.
 Drust fitz Methor xxv. auuz. Saint Columbe et Paladius conuerterent cesti a la foy Cristien. Et fait a sauoir, qe cest nacioun nestoit vnques conuerty fors vn foitz, qe

^f Cruthene Kenek, the gentle, was the first who was named king of the monarchy of the kingdom of the Piets, who reigned fifty years.

^g And fought a hundred battles.

tanque en sa ount perseure, et pur ceo ne vssent lours prestres point despaulers a lour aubes, ou lez prestres Engles ount dieus, pur ceo qe dieus foits ount este conuerty.^h

Garnald fitz Dompnach xxx. aunz. Cesti edifia leglis de Abirnithin, cc. aunz, et xxv. aunz, et xj. moys deuaunt qe leglis de Dulkeldin fust edifie du roy Constantine, roy des Picis.ⁱ

Kenech fitz Sugthen xxiiij. aunz.
Nectan fitz Fode viij. aunz.
Bride fitz Fathe v. aunz.
Drust soun freir vj. aunz.
Drust fitc Hole xx. aunz. En soun temps fust Saint Edmonane.^j

Tharan fitz Amfodech iiiij. aunz.
Brude fitz Dergert xxxi. ane. En quel temps ueint Sains Seruanus en Fiffe.^k Jactan frer Brude xvij. auuz.
Garnarde fitz Feradhegh xxiiij. aunz.
Denegul fitz Fergusagin xvi. aunz.
Nectan fitz Fergaleg ix. moys.
Fergus fitz Frude vii moys.
Alpin fitz Eferadheche vi. moys a vn foitz, qj fust enhache, mais puis regua xxx. auuz.^l
Brude fitz Tenegus ij. aunz.

^h Saint Columba and Palladius eonverted him to the Christian faith and be it known that this nation was never converted but once, so that henceforth they have persevered, and therefore their priests do not use shoulder straps on their albes, while the English priests have two, having been twice converted.

ⁱ He built the Church of Abernethy two hundred and twenty-five years and eleven months before the Church of Dunkeld was built by King Constantine, king of the Picts.

^j In his time was Saint Adomnan.

^k In which time came Saint Servanus to Fife.

^l Six months at one time, who was expelled, but afterwards reigned thirty years.

Alpin fitz Tenagus ij. aunz.

Drust fitz Talargbin vn ane.

Talargan fitz Drustane iiij. aunz.

Talargan fitz Tenagus v. aunz.

Costantin fitz Fergus a xl. aunz. Cesti fist edifier Dunkeldyn.^m

Hungus fitz Fergus a x. aunz. Cesti edifia Kelrimoneth, ore Saint Andrew, quel temps veint Saint Fegulus od sez disciples al eglis de Saint Andrew.ⁿ

Duf Tolorg iiij. aunz.

Egganu fitz Hungus iij. aunz.

Feradagus fitz Badoghe iij. ans.

Brud fitz Feradhach i. moys.

Kenech fitz Feradhach i. ane.

Brude fitz Fochel ij. auns.

Drust fitz Feradhach iij. ans. Cesti fust le darain roy dez Picys, si fust tue a Scone par treisoun.^o

Qe com les eronicles tesmoignent, vn fitz dum roy de Ireland, qi out a noun Redda, arryuua en Galeway, et aukes par pruesce, et affinite du sank Yrois, de quoy lez Pices furount mellez, occupia cel pays et auxi Ergeille et autres dez iles, le issu de qy, qi sez nomerent Scoty, coumpasserent toutdice encountre lez Picys, issi qen le temps cesti Drust, fitz Feradhach, lez Escoces ietterent couyne, et a vn counsil general estoient priuement armez, et dedenz la mesoun ⁿ He built Kilrimonth, now Saint Andrews, at which time Saint Regulus with his disciples came to the Church of Saint Andrew.

^m He caused Dunkeld to be built.

^o He was the last king of the Picts, and was killed at Scone by treason.

P As the chronicles testify, a son of a king of Ireland, called Redda, arrived in Galloway, and, partly by prowess and by affinity of Irish blood, with whom the Piets were mixed, occupied that country, and also Argyll and others of the isles, the issue of whom, who called themselves Scoty, always plotted against the Piets until in the time of this Drust, son of Feradhach, the Scots contrived a conspiracy, and at a general council were privately armed, and in the council-house slew the aforesaid king and all du counsaille tuerent ly auaunt dit roy et lez grantz seignours dez Picys touz, q̄i ne pensoient si bien noune. Si envoient apres autres q̄i lour plust, et, com ils venoient, tout-dice lez tuerent, tanque ils auoient fait ceo q̄ils desiroint, et de cel hour en auaunt failly le regne dez Picys, quauoit durre mile elxxxvij. aunz, et recomence le regne Descoce, quel regne comensa deuaunt lez Pices, ceccxliij. aunz deuaunt le incarnacioun.^P

Les Picys destruytz a la maner, Kynet fitz Alpin regna sure lez Escoce, et fust le primer roy Escotoys apres lez Picys. Il soutzmist a sa seignoury la terre tout a Twede, en fist enchacer lez Engles et Bretouns, qe y enhabiterent, fist nomer la terre Escoce. Il estably lez loys qe vnqor en Escoce durent, et ceo estoit en le temps tost apres qe Egbright auoit vny les vij. realmes dez Saxsouns en Bretaigne, qe taunt auoient a faire lez roys Engles en lour terre demeyn a establis lour conquest, qils ne sez entre-mistrent rien deuers Albany, si longement tanque lez Escotz auoient pris tiel reaul saunz empeditment, qe asseitz le tenoient estable et droiturel.^q

the great lords of the Picts, who did not think of evil. They sent afterwards for such others as they wished, and slew them as they came, so that they did as they desired ; and from that time henceforth the kingdom of the Picts failed, which had lasted for eleven hundred and eighty-seven years, and the kingdom of the Scots recommenced, which had commenced before the Picts, four hundred and forty-three years before the incarnation.

^q The Picts destroyed in this manuer, Kynet son of Alpin reigned over the Scots, and was the first king of the Scots after the Picts. He subjected to his government the whole country to the Twede, expelled the Angles and Britons who inhabited it, and caused the country to be called Scotland. He established the laws which still exist in Scotland, and this was in the time just after Egbert had united the seven kingdoms of the Saxons in Britain, so that the English kings had so much to do in establishing their dominion in their country that they did not undertake anything against Albany for so long that the Scots had taken such royalty without impediment that they held it sufficiently established and of right.

Kynet fitz Alpin regna xvi. aunz, et morust a Ferteuyoth, et fust enterrez en le isle de Yona, pres de Hert, Loern, et Fergus, trois frers qy amenerent lez Escotz en Archady sure les Picys.⁴

Donald fitz Alpin regna iiiij. aunz.

Costantin fitz Kynache xvij. aunz. Qestoit tue dez Norways en batail.

Athe mak Kinath i. ane. Qi fust tue de Tirg fitz Dungald.

Tirg Mac Dungald xij. auns. Lez cronicilis Descoce tesmonent qe cesti Tirg soutzmist a sa seiguoury tout Ireland et grant party Dengleter. Cesti dona primerment franchiz as eglis Descoce, quauant le hour estoint en servitude dez lays as usages de Picys.

Donald Mac Dunstan ij.aunz. Edmound, freir Athelstan, duna a cesti Donald, roy Descoce, tout Combirland, pur quoi lez Escoces ount fait clayme, tanque al Reir croiz de Staynmore ; mais cel doune ad este souent conquys puscedy et relesse en maint peise fesaunt.

Kynet son of Alpin reigned sixteen years, and died at Forteviot, and was buried in the isle of Yona near Hert, Lorn, and Fergus, three brothers who brought the Scots into Archady upon the Piets.

Donald son of Alpin reigned three years.

Constantine son of Kynache sixteen years ; he was slain by the Norwegians in battle.

Athe mac Kinath one year, who was slain by Girg, son of Dungal.

Girg mae Dungal twelve years. The chronicles of Scotland testify that this Girg subjected to his government all Ireland and a great part of England. He first gave freedom to the churches of Scotland, which before this had been in the servitude of the laity to the usages of the Piets.

Donald mac Dunstan two years. Edmond, brother of Athelstan, gave to this Donald, king of Scotland, all Cumberland, upon which the Scots laid claim as far as the Rere Cross of Staynmore ; but this donation was often conquered since then and released in making oftentimes peace.

Constantin mac Edha xl. aanz regna. Qi guerpy soun realme, se rendy en religiou, et fust abbe de saint Andrew v. aanz, et illoequ fust enterrez.

Malcolm mac Donald xxi. ane regna. Qi fust tue par treisoun dez Norways, et ceo fust en le temps le primer Edward pier Athelstan.

Indel mac Costantin regna x. aanz, et fust tue des Norwais.

Duf mac Maucloun iiiij. aanz et vi. moys. Qi fust mourdi a Forays et musse desoutz le pount de Kinlos, et tam-com il ieust la le solail ne se aparust. Si fust troue et aporte al Ile de Yona, ou touz sez auncestres de Kinek mac Alpin furount enterrez, fors eely qi abbe estoit de Saint Andrew.

Culen mac Indolf iiiij. aanz regna et vij. moys. Il fust tue de Amthar fitz Donald, pur sa feile, qe fust tue en Lownes.

Kinec fitz Malcol. xxiiij. aanz et ij. moys, et fust tue de Constantin mac Edha reigned forty years. He abandoned his realm, gave himself to a religious order, and became Abbot of Saint Andrews five years, and was buried there.

Malcolm mac Donald reigned twenty-one years. He was slain by treason by the Norwegians, and this was in the time of the first Edward, father of Athelstan.

Indel mac Costantin reigned ten years, and was slain by the Norwegians.

Duf mac Maudloun four years and six months. He was murdered at Forays and concealed below the bridge of Kinlos, and as long as he lay there the sun did not appear. He was found and taken to the isle of Yona, where all his ancestors from Kinek mac Alpin were buried except that one, who was Abbot of Saint Andrews.

Culen mae Indolf reigned four years and seven months. He was slain by Amthar, son of Donald, for his daughter, who was killed in Lownes.

Kinec son of Malcolm twenty-four years and two months, and was slain by his men by the treason of Fumel, the daughter of sos homs par treisoun de Fumel la feile Cunithar, zayn de Angus, fitz de qi Kinak auoit deuaunt fait tuer.

Costantin mac Culen i. ane et vi. moys, et fust tue de Kynnech fitz Malcolm.

Grige mac Kyneth mac Douf viij. aunz, et fust tue de Malcolme fitz Kynech.

Cesti Maleolme regna xxx. aunz noblement et fust victurous.

Dunkan mac Kryn de Dunkeldy et de Betowe, fitz Malcolme mac Kynech, vi. aunz, et fust tue de Macbeth mac Sinley, qui regna xvi aunz, et fust tuez de Chalcolme mac Duncan.

Lulach le fole regna i. mois, et fust tue en Strabolgy.

Toutz ceaux roys furount enterrez en Lile de Yona.

Maleolm Kenmour mac Duncan regna xxxvij. aunz et vi. moys, et fust tue a Alnewyk et enterrez a Tynmouth. Cesti estoit le marry Saint Margaret de Dunfernelin.

Donald soun freir mac Dunkan regna primerment vi moys, qui fust enehacez de Dunkan fitz Maucloun, qui regna vi. moys, qui fust tue de Malpedre mac Loern, count del

Cunithar the thane of Angus, whose son Kinak had previously caused to be killed.

Costantin mac Culen one year and six months, and was slain by Kynnech son of Malcolm.

Grige mac Kyneth mac Douf nine years, and was slain by Malcolm son of Kynech.

This Malcolme reigned thirty years nobly and was victorious.

Duncan mac Kryn of Dunkeld and of Betowe, son [daughter] of Maleolme mac Kynech six years, and was slain by Macbeth mac Sinley, who reigned sixteen years, and was slain by Chalcolme [Malcolm] mac Duncan.

Lulach the mad reigned one month, and was slain in Strabolgy.

All these kings were interred in the isle of Yona.

Malcolm Keumour mac Duican reigned thirty-seven years and six months, and was slain at Alnewyk and buried at Tynmouth. He was the husband of Saint Margaret of Dunfernelin.

Donald, his brother, mac Duncan, reigned first six months, and was driven out by Duncan son of Malcolm, who reigned six months. He was slain by Malpeder mac Loern, Count of the Meiernys, et gist en Lile de Yona. Donald mac Duncan regna autre foitz iij. aunz, qui fust enuoegle et mort par Edgar fitz Maucloun, et fust enterre a Dunkeldin, et puis translatez en le Isle de Yona.

Edgar regna ix. aunz et iiiij. moys, et gist a Dunfermelyn.

Alexandre, soun freir, et fitz Maneloun, regna xvij. aunz et iij. moys et demy, et gist a Dunfermlyn.

David, soun freir, regna xxxix. aunz. et iij. moys et morust a Cardoil, et gist a Dunfermelin.

Maneloun le fitz Henry, eount del Garuyaghe, de Huntingdoun, et de Northumbreland, qui fust le fitz Dauid le roy, regna xij. aunz et vi. moys et xx. iours, qui morust auant la pier a Jedworth, et gist a Dunfermelin.

Willam, soun freir, et fitz meisme eely Henry eount de Northumbreland du doune le roy Esteuen, regna .l. aunz, et morust a Streuelyn, et gist a Abirbrothock, qe meismes edifia.

Alexandre, soun fitz regna, xxxvij. aunz, qui morust a Kenbray en Orkany, et gist a Melros.

Mernys, and lies in the isle of Yona. Donald mac Duncan reigned a second time three years. He was blinded and slain by Edgar son of Maucloun, and was interred at Dunkeld, and afterwards translated to the isle of Yona.

Edgar reigned nine years and three months, and lies at Dunfermelyn.

Alexander, his brother, and son of Maucloun, reigned seventeen years and three months and a half, and lies at Dunfermlyn.

David, his brother, reigned thirty-nine years and three months, and died at Carlisle, and lies at Dunfermlyn.

Maucloun, the son of Henry, Count of the Garuyaghe, of Huntingdon, and of Northumberland, who was the son of David the king, reigned twelve years and six months and twenty days. He died before his father at Jedworthe, and lies at Dunfermelyn.

William, his brother, and son of the same Henry Count of Northumberland by the gift of the King Stephen, reigned fifty years, and died at Stirling, and lies at Aberbrothick, which himself had built.

Alexander, his son, reigned thirty-seven years, who died at Kenbray, in Orkney, and lies at Melrose.

Alexandre le fitz Alexandre, qui de viij. auns de age comensa a regner, regna xxxvij. auns. Qui roumpy le cole a Kinkorn, sours de quoy en neint grant mal.

La soume dez auns entre Kenach fitz Alpin, et cesti
Alexandre sount eccc xxx. auns, un moys, et viij. iours.
Et si est la sum dez auns de touz les roys Picys et Escotes mille Deccc lxxvij. auns et ix. moys et viij. iours, tanque lencoronnement Johan de Baillolf.

Alexander, the son of Alexander, who at eight years of age commenced to reign, reigned thirty-seven years, and broke his neck at Kinkhorn, from which arose great evil.

The sum of the years between Kenach son of Alpin and this Alexander are four hundred and thirty years one month and seven days, and this is the sum of the years of all the kings of the Picts and Scots, one thousand nine hundred and seventy-seven years and nine months and eight days to the coronation of Johan de Baillolf.

XXXIII.

CHRONICLE OF HUNTINGDON, BEFORE MCCXC.

MS. IN PUB. ARCHIV. LONDON.

CRONICA CANONICORUM BEATE MARIE HUNTINGDONIE.

ANNO ab incarnacione Domini octingintesimo tricesimo quarto congressi sunt Scotti cum Pictis in sollempnitate Paschali. Et plures de nobilioribus Pictorum cederunt. Sicque Alpinus Rex Scottorum victor extitit, unde in superbiam elatus ab [eis altero conserto] bello tercio decimo Kl. Augusti ejusdem anni a Pictis vincitur atque truncatur. Cujus filius Kynadius [successit in regno patri] qui vii^o regni sui anno, cum pirate Danorum, occupatis litoribus, Pictos sua defendantes, strage maxima pertrivisit, in reliquos Pictorum terminos transiens, arma vertit, et multis occisis fugere compulit, sicque Monarchiam tocius Albanie, que nunc Scocia dicitur, p[rimus] Scottorum Ref[ex conquisivit] et in ea primo super Scottos regnavit. Qui anno xii^o regni sui septies in una die cum Pictis congridetur multisque pertritis regnum sibi confirmat et regnavit xxviii. annis.

Cui successit Dovenaldus frater ejus qui regnavit xiii. annis.

Cui successit Constantinus filius Kynat qui regnavit xxiii. annis.

Cui Æthus i. Adam qui regnavit ii. annis.

Cui successit Girge filius Dovenald qui regnavit xiii. annis.

Cui successit Dovenal filius Constantini qui regnavit ix. annis.

Cui successit Constantinus filius Heth qui regnavit xlv. annis.

Sicut in Cronicis nostris reperiuntur Scotti quadrigenitus Ivi. annis Scociam, que primo Albania vocabatur, [possiderunt ab] Alpino primo tocius insule Monarcha, de quo recta successio[nis] linea, sicut infra habetur jus hereditatiuum usque M[ari]colanum terciuum [regem Scocie] qui Margareta Sanctam in matrimonium sumpsit, rite descendit.

Cui successit Malcolmus filius Dovenald qui regnavit xx. annis.

Cui successit Indolf filius Constantini qui regnavit ix. annis.

Cui successit Duf filius Malcolmii .iii. annis et vi. mensibus.

Cui successit Kynet filius Duf qui regnavit uno anno et iii. mensibus.

Cui successit Culen filius Indolf qui regnavit v. annis et tribus mensibus.

Cui successit Malcolmus filius Kynet qui regnavit xxx. annis.

Cui successit Duncan nepos ejus v. annis et ix. mensibus.

*Anno milesimo
septuaginto decimo.*
Occisus est Rex Anglie Edmundus Ferreum latus insidiis perfidi Ducis Edrici Et [Knut] Regnum ejus invadens filios Edmundi, scilicet, Edmundum et Edwardum ad Regem Suevorum occidendos misit. Qui nolens innocentes perimere . . . Regem Hungarie Salomonem nutriendos misit.

Iste Edwardus genuit Margaretam Reginam Scottorum et Edgarum. Edgarus. [genu]it Margaretam. De qua natus est Henricus dictus Lupillus. Predictus Knut regnavit super Anglos xviii. annis. Cui successit Harralus filius et regnavit v. annis. Cui successit Hardeknutus filius Knuti et Emine Regine et regnavit ii. annis.

Milesimo quadragesimo.
Anno Domini milesimo Comes Northumbrie Sywardus Scociam ingressus, Maket Regem nepotem dicti Malcolmii eum xv. annis regnaret, a regno fugavit. Et Malcolmus filio Dunanni regnum suum restituit.

Milesimo quadragesimo .ii.
Edwardus filius Ed regnavit xxiiii. annis.

Milesimo septuagesimo.
Malcolmus filius Dunanni . . . Margaretam filiam dicti Edwardi in ex ea sex filios, scilicet, Edwardum qui obiit sine herede, Edmundum qui obiit sine herede, Edeldredum qui obiit sine herede, Edgarus qui regnavit, et obiit sine herede, Alexander qui regnavit [et] sine herede obiit.

*Milesimo
Rex Malcolmus
interfectus est.
Milesimo xlviii.
Edgarus filius
Malcolmii in
Regem elevatur.*

David qui regnavit et duxit Matildam Comitissam Huntingdon neptem Willelmi Regis Anglie filiam Ivette que fuit filia Lamberti de Louns Comitis. De qua genuit Henricum Comitem. Qui duxit Ade filiam Willelmi Comitis de Warenne. Et genuit ex ea Malcolmum regnavit et obiit sine herede, et Willelmum Regem patrem Alexandri Regis, et David Comitem. Alexander vero Rex duxit Johannam filiam Johannis Regis et genuit Alexandrum Regem qui duxit Margaretam filiam Regis nostri Henrici ultimi.

De predictis et Malcolmo et Margareta exierunt Matildis et Maria. Matildis vero nupsit Henrico primo Regi Anglie de quibus exiit Matildis que primo nupsit Henrico Imperatori. Deinde Galfrido Comiti Andegavie. De quibus Henricus secundus, qui genuit quatuor filios, scilicet, Galfridum Comitem Andegavie, Henricum tertium, qui coronatus fuit vivente patre, sed obiit ante patrem. Et Ricardum qui obiit sine herede Regem qui genuit illustrissimum ac Sanctissimum Regem Henricum patrem Domini Regis nostri excellentissimi Edwardi qui nunc est.

Predictus Malcolmus regnavit xxxvii. annis. Et tandem cum maximam in Angliam predam faceret, ex impreviso interemptus est. Invasit autem Regnum Scocie Dovenaldus frater predicti Malcolmi legittimus . . . heredibus, scilicet, Edgaro, Alexandro, David, quia junioris etatis erant, exilio relegatis. Sed Duncanus predicti Malcolmi filius nothus tamen, qui erat obses in Curia Willelmi Rifi Regis Anglie auxilio Regis et suum fugavit, et susceptus est in Regem et regnavit anno et dimidio. Cui quidam Comes Scocie, scilicet, Comes de Morifth consilio predicti Dovenaldi, viribus collectis necem nequiter intulit. Dovenaldus autem Regnum invadens, regnavit annis tribus et dimidio. Itaque post mortem Malcolmi illi duo, scilicet, Duncanus filius ejus et Dovenaldus invasor Regni frater ejus licet minus fidelis. v. annis regnaverunt, legittimis interim exulantibus, sed tandem Dovenaldo capto et carceri perpetuo dampnato, Milesimo centesimo Henricus primus Rex Anglie in Regem elevatur.

Milesimo centesimo primo Henricus iste Matildam filiam Malcolmum et Margarete in matrimonium sumpsit.

Milesimo [c] xxo. Willelmus et Ricardus filii Henrici Regis in navigio perirent.

Milesimo centesimo xxiii. Obiit Rex Alexander Scocie. Et David frater ejus in Regem elevatur.

Milesimo centesimo xxvii. Rex Scocie et omnes Magnates Anglie juraverunt quod Matildis Imperatrici Regnum Anglie jure hereditarie post patrem servarent Edgarus, legittimus heres predicti Malcolmi filius jure hereditario Regnum Scocie suscepit et regnavit ix. annis.

Cui successit Alexander frater ejus legittimus qui regnavit xvi. annis.

Cui successit David frater ejus legittimus, filius, scilicet, predicti Malcolmi et Margarete qui regnavit triginta novein annis. Iste David vastavit fere totam Northumbriam quem Rex Stephanus cum exercitu Anglorum veniens redire compnlit in terram suam, et usque Rokesbourgh persecutus est. In estate iterum transivit Rex David fluviam Thesam. Et occurrit ei exercitus Anglorum in Cutenemor ubi commissum est prelum quod dicitur Standard et victi sunt Scotti multis captis multisque occisis. Sed instanceja Matildis Regine Anglie que erat neptis Regis David, filia Marie sororis ejus pax reformata est inter Regem Stephanum et Regem David. Et Northumbria et Comбриa date sunt Henrico Comiti filio David. Rex vero David fecit fortissimam arem. . . . Karlioli et muros urbis plurimum exaltavit.

Milesimo [e] xxxviii^o fuit belum quod dicitur Standard.

Milesimo ee^o lxxii^o.
Henrieus filius
Imperatricis et Dux Normannie
diadema insig-nitur.

Isti David successit in regnum Malcolmus nepos ejus filius Henrici Comitis qui regnavit xii. annis et dimidio. et xiii. diebus. Northumbria vero subjecta est Willelmus fratri ejus. Anno Domini m^o c^o lviii. Rex Anglie Henricus secundus Tholosam cum exercitu adiit et in reditu suo Malecolmum Regem Scocie Turonis Militem. ab eo Karliolum.

Isti Malcolmo successit Willelmus frater ejus legittimus qui regnavit xlvi^o. annis. Iste Willelmus ix^o anno regni sui captus est juxta Alnewyk et anno sequenti relaxatus et anno xxv^o regni sui Ricardus illustris Rex Anglie restituit eidem opida sua. Idem Willelmus anno regni sui xxxii^o cum ingenti exercitu Kathenesiam penetravit. Et ibi omnibus inimicis suis devictis in Scociam rediens prius Haraldum postea fil. . . . pro eo in custodiam posuit. Et anno secundo sequenti natus est Alexander filius ejus die Sancti Bartholomei. Cui magnates tocis Seocie fidelitatem fecerunt apud Muscleburgum anno etatis sue. iii^o. Et anno ix^o sequenti venit Johannes . . . exercitu magno apud Noreham contra Willelmum Regem Scocie, sed statim facta est pax inter Reges, Johanne Rege a Rege Willelmo multas pecunias accipiente. Et filie Willelmi Regis scilicet Margareta et Ysabella tradite sunt in custodiam Domino Regi Anglie. Et anno ii^o sequenti factus est miles Alexander filius Regis Willelmi a Johanne Rege Anglie.

Milesimo cente-simo . . .
Johannes Anglie
in Regem eleva-
tur.

Qui, decesso patre, regni gubernacula suscepit pacifice, et regnavit xxvi. annis. Et tertio anno regni sui circa Assumptionem Beate Marie . . . usque . . . eum exercitu magno penetravit. Et eodem anno sanus in Scociam cum omni exercitu suo rediit. Anno vero regni sui viii^o Johannam filiam Regis Anglie Johannis apud Eboracum xiii^o K^l Julii despousavit.

Milesimo cc^o xvi.
Henricus filius
Regis Johannis in
Regem elevatur.
Milesimo cc^o
ixxiiii. Edwardus
Regum excelentissimus coro-
natur.

Cui successit Alexander filius ejus.

Rex Scocie Maleolmus tercius duxit Margaretam filiam Regis Edwardi que dicitur Saneta. De qua genuit David Regem Scocie et Matildam que nupsit Regi Auglie Henrico primo. De quibus . . . Anglie Henrici Secundi qui genuit Johannem Regem patrem Regis nostri Henrici ultimi.

David vero Rex de Matilda Comitissa . . . filia Ivette Willelmi conqueroris neptis genuit Henricum Comitem patrem Willelmi Regis [qui genuit] Alexandrum Regem patrem Alexandri ultimi.

Et super hiis ad mandatum ineliti Regis nostri comune sigillum . . . Beate Marie de Huntingdon est appositum.

XXXIV.

DESCRIPTION OF SCOTLAND, MCCXCII.-MCCXCVI.

MS. BRIT. MUS. COTT. NERO. D. 11.

BREVIS DESCRIPTIO REGNI SCOTIE.

IN primis Tyndale continet xxx. leucas in longitudine et xx. leucas in latitudine. Postea vero est Loudian de eisdem longitudine et latitudine. In Tindale sunt castra subscripta, Rokesborw, Geddeworthe. In Louthian sunt castra, Berewick, Edeneborw, Donbar, et Strielyn. Iste due provincie extendunt se usque Erlesferie et Queneferie, id est, aqua xii. leucas in latitudine et in alio loco ij. leucas.

Postea est terra de Fif in qua est burgus Sancti Andree et castrum de Locres. Est enim in longitudine xxx. leucarum et in latitudine trium. Et tunc est i. aqua longitudine ij. leuce.

Et tunc est terra de Anegos latitudinis xx. leucarum et longitudinis plus quam xxx. Et sunt ibi ij. castra, Dunde et Forfare.

Et itaque est quoddam vastum quod vocatur Le Mounth, ubi est pessimum passagium sine cibo, longitudinis lx. leucarum et latitudinis xvij. leucarum.

Postea est [terra] de Mar latitudine xxx. leucarum et longitudine trium. Et plus deinde est terra de Bouwan latitudine xxiiij. leucarum et longitudine xxx. leucarum. Et ibi (castrum de Elgyn et castrum de Spyny¹) est burgus de Aberdene cum castro.

Deinde est terra de Morref latitudine xxiiij. leucarum et longitudine. xxx. leucarum. Et ibi castrum de Elgyn et castrum de Spiny.

¹ The sentence placed within parentheses has been obviously misplaced. It occurs again in its right place.

Et postea est terra de Ros latitudine xxiiij. leucarum et longitudine xl. et plus.

Deinde est terra de Cateneyis longitudinem xxiiij. leucarum et latitudinem xl.

Deinde est terra de Orkenneye latitudine xiiij. leucas et longitudine xl. leucas.

Item Novum Castrum super Are in Orewin prope Galewey. In Galewey est Anandresdale terra domini Roberti de Brus. Et postea est castrum de Dounfres regis Scocie, Kirkudbrythe, Willelmi de Ferres, castrum de Baleswytoun, Johannis Comin. Et est Galewey in longitudinem lxx. leucas et in latitudinem ubi plus est xxiiij. leucas.

Summa leucarum in longitudine v° in latitudine cum passagio aquarum ccc. et xvij. leucas.

FOURTEENTH CENTURY.

XXXV.

FROM TRACTS RELATING TO THE ENGLISH CLAIMS, MCCCI.

A.

MS. IN PUB. ARCHIV. LONDON.

BONIFACIUS episcopus, servus servorum DEI, carissimo in CHRISTO filio EDWARDO REGI ANGLIE illustri salutem et apostolicam benedictionem.

Scimus, fili, et longi jam temporis spatio magistra nos rerum experientia docuit, qualiter erga Romanam matrem ecclesiam, quæ te gerit in visceribus caritatis, regie devotionis affectus exuberat, reverentie zelus viget, quodque promptus et sedis ejus votis obtemperas, beneplacitis acquiescis.

Quamobrem firmam spem gerimus, plenamque fiduciam obtinemus, quod regalis sublimitas verba nostra benignè recipiat, diligenter intelligat efficaciter prosequatur.

Sanè ad celsitudinem regiam potuit pervenisse, et in tue libro memorie nequaquam ambigimus contineri, qualiter ab antiquis temporibus regnum Scocie pleno jure pertinuit, et adhuc pertinere dinosecitur ad ecclesiam supra dictam; quodque illud, sicut accepimus, progenitoribus tuis, regni Anglie Regibus, sive tibi feudale non extitit nec existit.

Qualiter etiam, clare memorie, Henricus Rex Anglie pater tuus, tempore discordie, sive querre, inter ipsum et quondam Symonem de Monteforti, suosque fautores et complices suscitatae, ad, recollende memorie, Alexandro ejusdem Scocie Rege, ac ipsius Henrici genero, auxilium sibi petiit exhiberi.

Et, ne hujusmodi auxilium, jure cuiuslibet subjectionis aut debiti, petitum, seu prestitum notaretur, prefatus Henricus, eidem Regi Scocie, suas patentes duxit litteras concedendas, per eas firmiter recognoscens, predictum auxilium se recipisse, vel se recepturum duntaxat de gratiâ speciali.

Preterea, cum, successu temporis, prefati Regis Scocie, tui sororii, tunc viventis, in tue coronationis solenniis, habere presentiam affectares, sibi per tuas patentes cavere litteras curavisti, quòd in ipsis solenniis, ejus habere presentiam, non ex debito, sed tantùm de gratiâ intendebas.

Et cum etiam Rex ipse pro Tyndalie, ac de Peynerrie¹ terris, in regno Anglie positis, se ad tuam presentiam personaliter contulisset, tibi fidelitatem solitam impensurus; idem in prestatione fidelitatis hujus modi, multis tunc presentibus, vive vocis oraculo publicè declaravit, quòd pro terris eisdem sitis tantùm in Anglia, non ut Rex Scocie, neque pro Scocie regno fidelitatem, exhibebat eandem; quinimmo palam extitit protestatus, quòd pro regno ipso tibi fidelitatem prestare, seu facere aliquatenus non debebat, utpote tibi penitus non subjecto; tuque sic oblatam fidelitatem hujusmodi admisisti.

A tuâ quoque creditur non excidisse memoriâ, qualiter, eodem Rege Scocie sublato de medio, quondam Margareta puellâ, nepte tuâ, tunc minoris etatis, herede sibi relictâ, non ad te, velut ad dominum, regni pervenit custodia memorati, sed certi ejusdem regni proceres, ad ejus electi custodiam extiterunt.

Quodque postmodum, dispensatione ab apostolicâ sede obtentâ, super matrimonio contrahendo inter dilectum filium, nobilem virum Edvardum natum tuum, et Margaretam predictam, dum viveret, si ad id procerum dicti regni accederet vel haberetur assensus, tui eisdem proceribus per tua scripta cavisse dinosceris, priusquam vellent

¹ sic.

hujusmodi matrimonio consentiré, quòd regnum ipsum penitus liberum, nullique subjectum, seu quovis modo summissum, in perpetuum remaneret; quodque in pristinum, seu talem ipsius statum restitueretur omnino, si ex hujusmodi matrimonio contrahendo liberos non extare contingenteret; ac nomen et honorem, ut prius, pariter retineret, tam in suis sibi servandis legibus et præficiendis officialibus dicti regni, quam parlamentis tenendis, tractandis causis in ipso, et nullis ejus incolis extra illud ad judicium evocandis, et quod in tuis patentibus litteris, indè confectis, haec pleniùs et seriosius contineri noscuntur;

Prefatâ insuper Margareta de presenti luce subtractâ, et tandem super successione dicti regni Scocie subortâ dissensionis materiâ inter partes; ipsius regni proceres, metuentes sibi dictoque regno posse occasione hujusmodi prejudicium generari, non aliter ad tuam presentiam, extra ipsius regni accedere limites volnerunt, nisi per te patenti scripto caveretur eisdem, quòd id non fiebat ex debito, sed ex gratiâ speciali, quodque nullum exindè ipsius regni libertatibus posset dispendium inminere.

Et licet, ut dicitur, super statu ejusdem regni Scocie, ac ejus prius habitâ libertate, regno ipso tunc carente presidio defensoris, per ipsius regni proceres, tunc velud acephalos, et ducis vel aurige suffragium non habentes, sive per illum, cui prefati regni regimen licet indebet diceris comisisse, contra morem solitum, aliqua fuerint hactenus innovata, ea tamen, utpote per vim et metum, qui cadere poterat in constantem, elicita, nequaquam debent de jure subsistere, aut in ejusdem regni prejudicium redundare.

Ceterum nobis nullatenus venit in dubium, quin potius certi sumus, quòd cum apostolice sedis precellens auctoritas per suas litteras in Anglie ac Scocie regnis, simul alicui legationis commitit officium exequendum, vel pro quavis causâ, quam rationabilem reputat, decime solutionem indicit, hujusmodi apostolicae littere ad prefatum Scocie regnum se aliquatenus non extendunt, speciali prediecte sedis privilegio, Scotis indulto, penitus obstante, prout tempore, felicis recordationis, Adriani Pape predecessoris nostri, tunc Sancti Adriani diaconi cardinalis, et per ipsius sedis litteras simul in regnis ipsis legati, cum quo familiariter tunc eramus, contigit evidenter.

Nam legatus ipse ad prefatum regnum Scocie aliquatenus admissus non extitit, donec per litteras speciales apostolicas sibi legationis fuit commissum officium in eodem.

Preterea nosce potest regia celsitudo, qualiter regnum ipsum per beatti Andreæ Apostoli venerandas reliquias, non sine superni Numinis grandi dono, acquisitum et conversum extitit ad fidei Catholice unitatem.

Qualiter etiam, antiquis temporibus Eboraceneis Archiepiscopos, qui tunc erat, motâ per eum, super jure metropolitico, adversus prelatos Scocie questione, in quâ dierum antiquitùs fuisse commemorat, memento quòd sumus tui, ut cetera quae indè secuntur silentio relinquamus, pro se sententiam obtinere nequivit, quamvis alia plura et varia, que in hâc parte rationabiliter proponenda se offerunt, ex quibus etiam ad hec tibi scribenda movemur, pretereat calamus, ne indè forsitan sensibus regiis tedium generetur.

Hæc profectò, fili carissime, infra claustra pectoris sollicitè considerare te convenit, et attendere diligenter, ex quibus nulli in dubium veniat, regnum Scocie prelibatum ad prefatum Romanam ecclesiam pertinere; quod tibi nec licet, nec lieuit in ipsis ecclesie ac multorum prejudicium, per violentiam subjugare, tueque subjicere ditioni.

Cum autem, sicut habet fide digna, et nostris jam pluries auribus inculcata relatio, faineque præ currentis affatibus divulgatur, tu premissa, ut debueras, non attendens, neque debitâ consideratione discutiens, et ad occupandum et subjugandum ditioni regie regnum ipsum, tunc Regis auxilio destitutum, vehementer aspirans, et tandem ad id exercens potentie tue vires, venerabilibus fratribus nostris, Roberto Glasguensi et Marco Sodorensi episcopis, et nonnullis clericis, et aliis personis ecclesiasticis dicti regni, ut dicitur, captis et careeralibus vinculis traditis (quorum aliquos, sicut asseritur, squalor careeris inolentus extinxit) ac etiam occupatis castris, et, prout fertur, monasteriis, aliis ve religiosis locis quam pluribus dirutis seu destructis, ac dampnis gravibus ejusdem regni habitatoribus irrogatis, in ejusdem regni partibus officiales regios posuisti; qui prelatos, ceteros clericos, et ecclesiasticas ac etiam seculares dicti regni personas multimodis perturbare molestiis, et afflictionibus variis et diversis impetere non verentur, in divine Majestatis offensam, sedis memoratae contemptum, regie salutis et fame dispendium, juris injuriam, et grave scandalum fidelium plurimorum.

Regalem itaque magnificentiam rogamus, et hortamur attentè, ac obsecramus in Eo, qui est omnium vera Salus, quatinus solerter attendens quod, ex debito pastoralis officii nostris humeris incumbentis, ad conservanda et gubernanda sollicitè bona, juraque omnia ecclesie supradicte tenemur, quodque homini, plusquam Deo deferre non possumus, nec debemus, predictos episcopos, clericos, et personas ecclesiasticas, quos adhuc career regius tenet inclusos, pro divinâ, et apostolice sedis, ac nostrâ reverentiâ, sublato difficultatis et dilationis objectu, benignè restitui facias pristine libertati, dictosque officiales de regno Scocie revokes memorato.

Sic te in hiis, prout speramus et cupimus, promptis et efficacibus studiis habiturus, ut apud celestem Regem, pro minimis grandia rependentem, non immerito reddaris acceptior, gratior habearis; et, preter laudis humane peconium, tibi proindè proventurum, apostolice sedis favorem et gratiam possis uberiùs promerer.

Si verò in eodem regno Scocie, vel aliquâ ejus parte jus aliquod habere te asseris, volumus quod tuos procuratores et nuntios, ad hoc specialiter constitutos, cum omnibus juribus et munimentis tuis hujusmodi negotium contingentibus, infra sex menses, à receptione presentium numerandos, ad nostram presentiam mittere non omittas; cum parati sumus tibi, tanquam dilecto filio, plenè super premissis exhibere justicie complementum, et jura, siqua habes inviolabiliter observare.

Nos enim nichilominus ex nunc lites, questiones, et controversias quaslibet, inter te, dictumque regnum Scocie, ac prelatos, clericos, ac personas seculares ejusdem, subortas et que possunt imposterum ex quibusvis causis preteritis exoriri, totumque negotium predicta contingens, aut aliquod eorundem, ad cognitionem et determinationem sedis ejusdem, presentium tenore, reducimus, et etiam reservamus;

Decernentes irritum et inane, si secus scienter, vel ignoranter à quoquam in hâc parte contigerit attemptari.

Datum Anagnie, v. kal Julii, pontificatus, nostri anno quinto.

B.

MS. IN PUB. ARCHIV. LONDON.

LITTERA MISSA AD CURIAM ROMANAM SUPER JURE REGIS COMPETENTE IN REGNO SCOCIE.

SANCTISSIMO in Christo patri, domino Bonifacio divinâ providentiâ, Sancte Romane, ac universalis ecclesie summo Pontifici, Edwardus, ejusdem gratiâ, Rex Anglie, dominus Hibernie, et dux Aquitanie, devota pedum oscula beatorum.

Infrascripta, non in formâ nec in figura judicii, set omnino extra judicium; pro serenandâ sancte paternitatis vestre conscientiâ, vobis transmittimus exhibenda.

Altissimus inspector cordium nostre scrinio memorie indelebili stilo novit inscribi, quod antecessores et progenitores nostri, Reges Anglie, jure superioris et directi dominii, ab antiquissimis retrò temporibus, regno Scocie, et ipsius Regibus, in temporalibus, et annexis eisdem, prefuerunt:

Et ab eisdem Regibus, pro Regno Scocie, et ejusdem regni proceribus, à quibus habere volebant, ligia homagia et fidelitatis juramenta receperunt:

Et nos, juris et dominii possessionem continuantes hujus modi, pro tempore nostro, eadem tâm à Rege Scocie, quam ab ipsius regni procèribus recipimus.

Quinimmo tantâ juris et dominii prerogativâ super Regnum Seocie, et ejusdem Reges gaudebant, quod regnum ipsum suis fidelibus conferebant : Reges etiam ex causis justis amovebant ; et constituerunt sub se, loco ipsorum, alios regnatos.

Que procul dubio ab antiquo notoria fuerunt, et existunt, licet aliud fortè paternis auribus, per pacis emulos, et rebellionis filios, fuerit falsâ insinuatione suggestum ; quorum machinosa et imaginaria figura vestra providentia quesumus, aspernetur.

Sub temporibus itaque Ely et Samuelis prophete, vir quidam strenuus et insignis, Brutus nominè, de genere Trojanorum, post excidium urbis Troje, cum multis nobilibus Trojanorum, applicuit in quandam insulam, tunc Albion vocatam, à gigantibus inhabitatam : quibus suâ et suorum devictis potentia, et occisis, eam nomine suo Britanniam, sociosque suos Britones appellavit ; et edificavit civitatem quam Trinovantum, nuncupavit, que modò Londonia nominatur.

Et postea regnum suum tribus filiis suis divisit ; scilicet,

Loerino primogenito, illam partem Britannie, que nunc Anglia dicitur :

Et Albanacto secundo natu, illam partem que tunc Albania, à nomine Albanaeti, nunc verò Scocia nuncupatur :

Et Cambro filio minori, partem illam, nomine suo tunc Cambria vocatam, que nunc Wallia vocitatur ;

Reservatâ Loerino seniori regiâ dignitate.

Itaque, biennio post mortem Bruti, applicuit in Albania quidam rex Hunorum, nomine Humber et Albanactum fratrem Loerini occidit ; quo audito Loerinus, Rex Britonum, persecutus est eum : qui, fugiens, submersus est in flumine, quod de nomine suo Humber vocatur, et sic Albania revertitur ad dictum Locrium.

Item, Dunwallo, Rex Britonum, Staterium, Regem Seocie, sibi rebellem occidit, et terram ejus in deditioinem recepit.

Item duo filii Dunwallonis, scilicet, Belinus et Brennius, inter se regnum patris sui diviserunt.

Ita quod Belinus senior diadema insule, eum Britanniâ, Walliâ, et Cornubiâ possideret :

Brennius verò, sub eo regnaturus, Scociam aceiperet ; petebat enim Trojana consuetudo, ut dignitas hereditatis primogenito proveniret,

Item, Arturus, Rex Britonum, princeps famosissimus, Scociam sibi rebellem subjecit, et penè totam gentem delevit : et postea quendam, nomine Anguselum, in Regem Scocie prefecit.

Et cum postea idem Rex Arturus apud civitatem Legionum festum faceret celeberrimum, interfuerunt ibidem omnes Reges, sibi subjecti ; inter quos Anguselus Rex Scocie, servitium pro Regno Scocie exhibens debitum, gladium Regis Arturi detulit ante ipsum ; et successivè omnes Reges Scocie omnibus Regibus Britonum fuere subjecti.

Succedentibus autem Regibus Anglis in predictâ insulâ, et ipsius monarchiam et dominium optinentibus subsequenter, Edwardus dictus senior, filius Eluredi Regis Anglie, Seotorum, Cumbrorum, et Stregwallorum Reges sibi, tanquam superiori domino, subjectos habuit et submissos.

Adelstanus Rex Anglie Constantiū, Regem Seotorum, sub se regnaturum constituit ; dieens, “Gloriosius est Regem facere quàm Regem esse.”

Et est dignum memoriâ, quod idem Adelstanus, intercedente Saneto Johanne de Beveraco, quondam archiepiscopo Eboricensi Scotos rebellantes ei dimicavit ; qui, gratias Deo devotè agens, Deum exoravit, petens quatinius, interveniente beato Johanne, sibi aliquod signum evidens ostenderet, quatenuis tam succedentes, quàm presentes cognoscere possent, Scotos Anglorum regno jure subjugari : et videns quosdam scopulos, juxta quendam locum prope Dunbar in Scottiâ, prominere ; extracto gladio de vaginâ percussit in silicem : qui lapis, ad dictum gladii, Dei virtute agente, ita cavatur, ut mensura ulne longitudini possit coaptari: et hujus rei haec tenus evidens signum apparet, et in Baeverlaci ecclesiâ in legendâ Sancti Johannis quasi singulis ebdomadis per annum, ad laudem et honorem Sancti Johaunis, pro miraculo recitatur; et de hoc exstat celebris memoria, tam in Anglia, quam in Scocia, usque ad presentem diem.

Item, Constantinus Rex Scottorum, et Eugenius Rex Cumbrorum, ad predictum Regem Anglie Adelstanum, post aliqualem dissentionem inter eos habitam, venientes, se cum suis regnis eidem Adelstano dedidere; cuius facti gratiâ filium Constantini ipse Adelstanus de saero fonte suscepit.

Item, Edredo Regi Anglie Scotti sine bello se subdidérunt; et eidem Regi Edredo, tanquam domino, fidelitatem debitam juraverunt; quodam Yricio Rege super ipsos Scotos statuto.

Item, cum Edgarus Rex Anglie Regem Scotorum, Kinadium, et Cumbrorum Malculmum Regem, plurimorum iuslularum Makkum, aliosque quinque subregulos, scilicet, Duvenaldum, Syferth, Huwal, Jacob, et Inchil, Regem ipsum Edgarum, in navi quâdam prope proram sedentem, per fluvium Dehe, remigare fecisset; fertur ipsum dixisse, successores suos gloriari se Reges Anglorum esse, cum tantâ honorum prerogativâ fruentur, ut subiectam haberent tot Regum potentiam.

Post dictum Edgarum successivè successerunt Reges Anglie, Sanctus Edwardus Martir, Egelredus frater ejus, Edmundus dictus Hirenside filius Egelredi et Knutus; qui eorum temporibus regnum Scocie in suâ subjectione pacificè tenuerunt: hoc duntaxat excepto, quod, anno quindecimo Regui Knuti predicti, idem Knutus Seotiam rebellantem expeditione illuc ductâ, Regem Seocie Malcolmum parvo subegit negotio, subditusque est ei idem Malcolmus.

Quibus Haraldus filius Knuti, et Hardeknutus frater ejus, unus post aliud, Regis Anglie successerunt; qui, eis, sic regnatis, sibi subjectionem regni Scocie pacificè habuerunt.

Item, Sanctus Edwardus, Rex Anglie, regnum Scocie dedit Malcolmo, filio Regis Cumbrorum, de se tenendum.

Item, Willielmus, dictus Bastardus, Rex Anglie, cognatus dicti Edwardi, a Malcolmo Rege Scotorum, tanquam a suo homine, sibi subdito, homagium cepit.

Item, Willielmo Ruffo, Regi Anglie, predictus Malcolmus, Rex Scotorum juramento fidelitatis subjectus fuit.

Item, predictus Rex Willielmus, Dovenaldum de regno Scocie ex justis causis amovit, et loco ejus, Duncanum filium Malcolmi Regem Scocie prefecit, et recepit ab eo fidelitatis juramentum; dictoque Duncano dolose perempto, dictus Rex Willielmus prefatum Dovenaldum, qui iterum regnum Scocie invaserat, amovit ab eodem, et Edgarum filium dicti Malcolmi Regem Scocie constituit, et eidem illud regnum donavit; cui successit Alexander frater ejusdem Edgari, concessu Regis Anglie Henrici primi, fratris dicti Regis Willielmi Ruffi.

Item, Matildi Imperatrici, filie et heredi Regis Henrici predicti, Rex Scocie David fecit homagium et fidelitatem.

Item, Regi Anglorum Stephano, Henricus filius dicti Regis David homagium fecit.

Item, Willielmus Rex Scotorum, pro Regno Scocie, et David frater suus, et comites et barones Regni Scocie, devenerunt homines Henrici, filii Regis Anglie Henrici secundi, in erastino coronationis predicti Henrici, filii Henrici secundi, patre vivente, et fidelitatem ei juraverunt contra omnes homines, salva fidelitate debita patri viventi.

Anno vero vicesimo regni Regis Henrici secundi predicti, dictus Willielmus Rex Scotorum, rebellare incipiens, venit in Northumbriam cum exercitu magno, et exercevit in populo stragem magnam; cui occurrentes milites comitatū Eboracensis apud Alnewyke, ipsum cuperunt, ac dicto Henrico Regi Anglie reddiderunt, annoque sequenti, scilicet, xv. kal. Martii, est idem Willielmus permissus liber abire.

Postea vero apud Eboracum anno eodem, xvii. kal. Septembris, idem Willielmus Rex Scotorum de consensu prelatorum, comitum, baronum, procerum, et aliorum magnatum regni Scocie, domino suo Regi Anglie Henrico, filio Matildis Imperatricis predicto, suis litteris patentibus cavisse noscitur, quod ipse, et heredes et successores sui, Reges Scocie, episcopi, et abbates, comites etiam et barones, et alii homines regni Scocie, de quibus dominus Rex habere voluerit, facient Regibus Anglie homagium, fidelitatem, et ligantiam, ut ligio domino contra omnem hominem.

Et, in signum subjectionis hujusmodi, idem Willielmus Rex Scocie capellum, lanceam et sellam suos, super altare ecclesie beati Petri Eboracensis optulit, que in eadem ecclesia usque in hodiernum diem remanent et servantur.

Item, episcopi, comites, et barones dicti regni Scocie, conventionaverunt, ut verbis ejusdem conventionis utamur, domino Regi, et Henrico filio suo predictis, quod, si Rex Scocie aliquocasu a fidelitate Regum Anglie, et conventione predicta recederet, ipsi cum domino Rege Anglie tenebunt, sicut cum ligio domino suo contra Regem Scocie, quosque ad fidelitatem Regis Anglie redeat.

Quam quidem compositionem, felicis recordationis, Gregorius Papa IX. in diversis rescriptis, Regibus Anglie et Scocie directis, mandavit firmiter observari; continentibus etiam, inter cetera, quod Willielmus et Alexander Reges Scotorum, Regibus Anglie, Johanni et Henrico, ligium homagium et fidelitatem fecerunt, que tenentur successores eorum, comites et barones regni Scocie, ipsis et suis successoribus exhibere: et iterum quod, cum idem Rex Scocie homo ligius sit ipsius Henrici Regis Anglie, et eidem fidelitatis prestiterit juramentum, quo se principaliiter astrinxit quod in ipsis Regis et regni Anglie detrimentum, nichil debeat penitus attemptare.

Et Papa Clemens, scribens Regi Anglie pro Johanne episcopo Sancti Andree, expulso ab episcopatu suo per Regem Scocie inter cetera rogavit, quod Willielmum Regem Scocie moveret et induceret, et, si necesse fuerit, districione regali, qua et preminet, et concessa sue regie celsitudini potestate compelleret, ut dicto episcopo omnem rancorem, remitteret, et episcopatum suum eum habere in pace permitteret.

Et, post conventionem predictam, in ecclesia beati Petri Eboracensis, coram predictis Regibus Anglie et Scotie, et David fratre suo, et universo populo, episcopi, comites, barones, milites de terra Regis Scacie, juraverunt domino Regi Anglie, et Henrico filio suo, et heredibus eorum fidelitatem contra omnem hominem, sicut ligii dominis suis.

Et idem, Willielmus Rex Scotorum, ad mandatum Regis Henrici predicti, venit, apud Norhamptoniam, ad parlementum domini sui, adducens secum omnes episcopos, abbates, priores totius regni sui.

Et venit etiam ad ejusdem Regis Anglie mandatum in Normanniam.

Et idem Rex Willielmus, post decessum dicti Regis Henrici veniens Cantuariam, Richardo Regi Anglie, filio et heredi dicti Henrici, fecit homaginm.

Quo Ricardo, viam universe carnis ingresso, sepefatus Willielmus Johanni Regi Anglie, fratri et heredi predicti Regis Richardi, extra civitatem Lincolnie supra quendam montem, in conspectu omnis populi, fecit homagium, et juravit ei fidelitatem super crucem Huberti, tunc Cantuariensis archiepiscopi.

Et eidem Johanni, tanquam domino suo, per cartam suam couessit quòd Alexandrum filium suum, sicut hominem suum ligium, maritaret; promittendo firmiter, in carta eadem, quod idem Willielmus Rex Scotorum et Alexander filius suus, Henrico filio Regis Anglie Johannis, tanquam ligio domino suo, contra omnes mortales fidem et fidelitatem tenerent.

A quo quidem Willielmo Rege Scotorum postmodum, pro eo quod desponderat filiam suam comiti Bolonie, preter ipsius Regis Johannis domini sui assensum, pro transgressione et temeraria presumptione hujusmodi, debitam satisfactionem accepit.

Item, Alexander Rex Scotorum, sororius noster Regi

Anglie Henrico, patri nostro, pro regno Scocie, et postea nobis homagium fecit.

Vacante deinde regno Scocie, post mortem Alexandri Regis illius, et subsequenter per mortem Margarete, ejusdem regni Scocie Regine et domine, neptis nostre, episcopi, abbates, priores, comites, barones, proceres, et ceteri nobiles, et communitates totius regni Scocie ad nos, tanquam ad legitimum defensorem, ducem, aurigam, capitaneum et dominum capitalem, ejusdem regni sic vacantis, gratis et spontanea voluntate accedentes, prout tenebantur de jure, jus nostrum progenitorum et antecessorum nostrorum, ac possessionem superioris et directi dominii in regno eodem, et ipsius regni subjectionem, ex certa scientia pure, simpliciter et absolute recognoverunt.

Et prestitis nobis ab eisdem, tanquam superiori et directo domino Scocie, debitiss et consuetis fidelitatem juramentis ac civitatibus, burgis, villis, castris, ac ceteris munitionibus regni ejusdem in manu nostra traditis, ad custodiam ejusdem regni certos, jure nostro regio, officiales et ministros deputavimus; quibus ipsi, tempore vacationis hujusmodi, concorditer fuerent obedientes, et intendentes in nostris preceptis regii et mandatis.

Postmodum autem diverse persone, super successione in dictum regnum Scocie jure hereditario inter se contendentes, ad nos tanquam ad superiorem dominum regni Scocie, accesserunt: petentes, super jure succedendi in regnum predictum, sibi per nos exhiberi justicie complementum: volentes et expresse consentientes coram nobis, tanquam superiore et directo domino regni Scocie, stare juri.

Et demum, earundem partium petitionibus et juribus coram nobis, tanquam coram superiore et directo domino, judicialiter propositis, ac sufficienter auditis, rimatis, examinatis, et diligenter intellectis, in presentia omnium prelatorum et nobilium, quasi totius regni Scocie, et de voluntate et assensu expresso eorumdem procedentes, Johannem de Balliol debite prefecimus in Regein Scotorum; quem tunc in successione ejusdem regni heredem legitimum, et jura habere invenimus potiora.

Qui quidem prelati, comites, barones, comunitates, ac ceteri incole ejusdem regni, hujusmodi sententiam nostram expresse omologarunt, acceptârunt, et expresse approbarunt: et ipsum Johannem, de mandato nostro, virtute hujusmodi judicii, in Regem suum admiserunt.

Ac idem Johannes Rex Scocie, pro regno suo, prestito nobis homagio debito et consueto, ac fidelitatis juramento, ad parliamenta nostra de mandato nostro veniens, eisdem, tanquam noster subditus, sicut alii de regno nostro, interfuit, et nostris, tanquam domini sui superioris dicti regni Scocie, paruit beneplacitis et mandatis, nobis in omnibus obediens et intendens.

Quousque idem Johannes Rex Scocie, et prelati comites, barones, nobiles, communitates, ac ceteri incole majores regni ejusdem, ex preconcepta malitia, et prelocuta, ac preordinata proditione, factiones, confederationes, conspirationes, et conjurationes, in exheredationem nostram, et heredum nostrorum, ac regni nostri, contra debitum homagii sui et fidelitatis juramentum, inter se inierunt, in crimen lese majestatis nequiter incidendo.

Unde, cum premissa, ex fideli relatione, fama publica consentiente, ad aures nostras pervenissent; volentes futuris periculis precavere, que ex hiis et aliis possent nobis regno nostro, et regni nostri incolis verisimiliter provenire, pro assecratione regni nostri accessimus ad confinium regni utriusque, pluries mandantes eidem Johanni, tunc Regi Scocie, quod ad certa loca, in confinio predicto, ad nos accederet, super premissis et aliis, pro statu, tranquillitate, et pace utriusque regni, assecrationem facturus: et alia, per nos et consilium nostrum sibi exponenda, auditurus; et super hiis et ea contingentibus justitiam receperurus.

Qui, spretis mandatis nostris, contumaciter in sua persistens perfidiâ, ad bellicos apparatus, cum episcopis, prelati, et clericis, comitibus, baronibus regni Scocie, ac etiam aliis exteris conductitiis, contra nos, regnum nostrum, et incolas regni nostri, hostiliter se convertens accinxit: et, ad hostiles aggressus et incursus procedens regnum nostrum invasit: quasdam villas regni nostri Anglie per se et suos depredatus est, easque vastavit incendio; homines nostros interfecit; et, nonnullis nautis nostris per eos pereemptis, naves hominum nostrorum regni Anglie comburi fecit.

Et e vestigio, redditis nobis homagio et fidelitate per Regem Scocie, tam pro se, quam pro aliis quibuscumque regni sui incolis, per verba, effectum diffidentie exprimentia, comitatus nostros Northumbrie, Cambrie, et Westmerlandie, regni nostri Anglie, congregato ingenti exercitu, hostiliter per se et suos invasit: stragem innumeram hominum nostrorum, incendia monasteriorum, ecclesiarum et villarum inhumane perpetrando: et patriam undique depopulando; infantes in cunis, mulieres in puerperio decumbentes immisericordi et atroci sevitâ trucidarunt; et, quod auditu horrendum est, a nonnullis mulieribus mamillas atrociter absciderunt; parvos clericulos, primas litteras et gramaticam addiscentes, ad numerum circiter ducentorum, in scolis existentes, obstructis hostiis scolarum igne supposito concremârunt.

Nosque, cernentes tot dampna, obprobria, facinora, et injurias, in exheredationem nostram, et destructionem populi regni nostri, proditionaliter irrogari: nec volentes, ratione juramenti, quo ad conservationem jurium corone regni nostri sumus astricti, tam execranda, detestanda, et nefanda facinora ulterius tolerare: nec jura nostra relinquare indefensa: cum idem Johannes et gens Scotorum, nostri subditi, per leges se justificari minime permisissent ipso regno Scocie, quod a longissimis temporibus, sicut superius exprimitur, nobis et progenitoribus nostris feudale extitit;

Ex causis premissis commisso deinde bello, juxta leges et consuetudines regni nostri, contra eos, de consilio procerum et magnatum nostrorum, indicto: contra dictum Johannem et gentem Scotorum vires potentie nostre extendimus, prout de jure nobis licuit, et processimus contra ipsos, tanquam notorie proditores contumaces, et publicos hostes nostros.

Subacto itaque regno Scocie jure proprietatis nostre ditioni, prefatus Johannes Rex Scocie ipsum regnum Scocie, quatenus de facto tenuit, sponte, pure, et absolute reddidit in manum nostram : proditiones et scelera memorata coram nobis et proceribus regni nostri publicè recognoscens.

Quo peracto prelati, comites, barones, nobiles et cōmunitates regni Scocie, quos ad pacem nostram regiam suscepimus subsequenter, homagia et fidelitates nobis, tanquam immediato et proprio domino ejusdem regni Scocie, fecerunt ac etiam prestiterunt.

Ac, redditis nobis ejusdem regni civitatibus, villis, castris, munitionibus, ac ceteris locis omnibus, ad dictum regnum spectantibus, officiales nostros et ministros ad regimen ejusdem regni Scocie prefecimus jure nostro.

Cumque, jure pleni dominii, iu possessione ejusdem regni existere dinoscamus, omittere non possumus nec debemus, quin insolentiam subditorum nostrorum rebellium, si quos invenerimus, preminentia regiā, prout justum fuerit, et expedire viderimus, reprimamus.

Quia vero, ex premissis et aliis, constat evidenter, et notorium existit quod prelibatum regnum Scocie, tam ratione proprietatis, quam possessionis, ad nos pertinet pleno jure : nec quicquam fecerimus vel caverimus, scripto vel facto sicuti nec possemus, per que juri aut possessioni predictis debeat aliqualiter derogari.

Sanctitati vestre humiliter supplicamus quatinus, premissa provida meditatione pensantes, ex illis vestri motum animi dignemini informare suggestionibus contrariis emulorum, in hac parte vobis factis, fidem, si placet, nullatenus adhibendo ; quiuimo statum nostrum, et jura nostra regia supradicta habere velitis, si placet paternis affectionibus commendata.

Conservet vos Altissimus, ad regimen ecclesie sue sancte, per tempora prospera et longeva.

Datum apud Kemeseye, septimo die Maii Anno Domini MCCC. primo et regni nostri vicesimo nono.

C.

a MS. COLL. EDIN. SCOTICRONICON.b MS. DONIBRISTLE, SCOTICRONICON.¹

INSTRUCTIONES.

PER apostolica dudum scripta citatus Dominus Rex Anglie, qui, temporis ad hoc oportunitate captata, more insidiantis ut noceat ex abscondito, regnum Scocie sibi vicinum, quia vacans, acephalum, laceratum in partes, utpote proprii regis viduatum regimine, Romanaque tunc vacante ecclesia, carens presidio cuiuslibet defensoris, dupliciti nihilominus persecucionis, et turbacionis patenti periculo, proprie scilicet intestine discordie, et infestationis extrinsece regis memorati tam vicine; tunc primo impetisse de novo noscatur, et quasi ex insidiis inquietasse super statu suo injuste priore habite pristine libertatis. Subsequenterque afflixisse non solum regni ipsius incolas, iteratis hostilibus multis incuribus, injuriis, dampnis gravibus variisque pressuris, regnum Scocie et ecclesiam ejus, verum eciam more Antiochi, abhominacionibus multimodis ausu sacrilego

Ed. Hearne.—PER apostolica dudum scripta citatus Dominus Rex Angliae, qui, more insidiantis, ut noceat in abscondito, temporis ad hoc oportunitate capta, tribulacionis et discordiae tempore, regnum Scociae, sibi vicinum, quia vacans, acephalum, laceratum in partes, utpote suique regis viduatum regimine, et sic carens praesidio cuiuslibet defensoris, Romana ecclesia tunc vacante, expositum est nichilominus patenti periculo persecucionis, et tribulacionis duplicitis intestine, propriae scilicet discordiae et infestationis hostilis extrinsecæ regis ejusdem Angliae, tam vicine tunc primo impetisse de novo noscitur, ac illud ex praeconceptis maliciis inquietasse injuste super suo statu priori pacifico habitæ libertatis. Subsequenter, quod afflixisse non solum regni ipsius incolas iteratis hostibus, multis incuribus, injuriis, dampnis gravibus variisque pressuris, verum eciam ausu sacrilegii regni ejusdem, Dei timore postposito, obstinata malicia, more Antiochi, abhomi-

¹ The few words within parentheses are from b. In other respects the two mss. exactly correspond.

tirannice, Dei timore postposito, ipsam polluisse, prelatis ipsius regni ecclesiasticisque personis aliis datis exilio, et aliis carceribus mancipatis, deque nonnullis ejusdem regni ecclesiis solemnibus et cathedralibus factis per ipsum et suos, more Saracenorum, stabulis, pro! dolor, equis suis ; et ut, preter hec, multarum ecclesiarum commissa per ipsum in dicto regno taceantur incendia, immanitatem alie, cedes et scelera infinita, quod apud sedem Apostolicam, certo sibi ad hoc statuto termino, per instructos suos procuratores ac nuncios, cum suis juribus et munimentis comparet, de jure suo, si quod haberet in ipso Scocie regno, ostensurus ibidem, et suspecturus super ipso per summum Pontificem, ordinarium et competentem judicem, quod juris esset ; toto regno ejusdem negocio, tanquam una de causis majoribus, ad examinacionem et decisionem sedis Apostolice, ratione preuia, per literas Apostolicas revocato solempniter, et decreto Apostolico ne quid fieret in contrarium subsecuto. Idem rex, prefato sic sibi statuto termino, nec comparere curauit, ut debuit, in curia, nec de suo jure quicquam ostendere sufficienter, ad hoc etiam expectatus, ymmo, elapnacionibus multimodis conculcasse tirannice et immundicieis polluisse, prælatis ipsius et clericis aliis datis exilio, et aliis carceribus publicis mancipatis, deque nonnullis regni ejusdem ecclesiæ solemnibus et cathedralibus factis per ipsum et suos more Saracenorum, stabulis pro equis suis, ut præter hoc ecclesiarum multarum commisso per ipsum in dicto regno taceantur incendia, inhumanitates, aliae cedes et scelera infinita, quod apud sedem apostolicam, certo ad hoc sibi statuto termino, per instructos suos procuratores, et nuncios cum suis juribus et munimentis compareret, de sno jure siquidem haberet in ipso Scociae regno ostensurus ibidem ; et suspecturus super ipso per suum pontificem ordinarium et competentem judicem, quod juris esset, toto regni ejusdem negocio, tanquam una de causis majoribus, ad examinacionem et decisionem sedis apostolicae ratione prima per litteras apostolicas revocato solempniter, et decreto apostolico, ne quid fieret in contrarium, subsecuta. Idem rex præfato sic sibi statuto termino comparere nec curavit, ut debuit, in curia, nec de suo jure quicquam ostendere sufficienter ad hoc etiam expectatus, ymmo, elapsis IIII. mensibus post eundem sic sibi statutum sis quatuor mensibus post eundem sibi sic statutum terminum, sine procuratorio ad causam necessario vel sufficienti mandato, Domino nostro eidem summo Pontifici solam suam nudam destinauit epistolam, loco probacionis et declaracionis omnimodi juris sui, quod sibi asserit in regno competere supradicto.

In qua sua epistola, dissimulatis racionibus et juribus certissimis, per Apostolica prius sibi scripta expositis, que regni ejusdem Scocie manifeste comprobant habitam libertatem, ad describendam seriose exorditam cujuscunque vetustatis historiam, quasi ignotam se convertit. Que historia ex remotis, veluti ex gemino ovo, sic descripta, in principio videatur suavis, superficialiter polita et satis pulera, sophistica tamen esse committitur, et omni fide vacua, exquesita funditus radice negocii, et rei geste detecta medullitus veritate, prout ex sequentibus apparebit. Et dato, quod Bruti uel Britonum Saxonumve, tacta per ipsum regem, ignota memoria et remota tunc haberent aliquid veritatis, quo ad moderna tamen tempora, uel dominia, locum sibi non vendicant, utpote subsequencium terminum, sine procuratorio ad causam necessario vel sufficienti mandato Domino nostro eidem summo pontifici solam suam nudam destinavit epistolam, probacionis loco et declaracionis omnimodi juris sui, quod sibi asserit competere in regno Scociae supradicto.

In qua sua epistola dissimulatis callide racionibus et juribus certissimis, per apostolica sibi prius scripta expositis, que regni ejusdem Scociae manifeste comprobant habitam libertatem, propallandi et excusandis in ipso regno Scociae commissis per ipsum modernis excessibus, ad describendam seriose exhortitam cujusdam vetustatis historiam, quia innotam et incertam, se convertit. Quae licet historia ex remotis, veluti ex gemino ovo, sic descripta, principiis primis videatur suavis, superficialiter polluta et pulera satis, sophistica tamen esse convincitur, et omni fide vacua, exquisita funditus radice, negocii, et rei gestae detecta medullitus veritate, prout ex subsequentibus apparebit. Et dato, quod Bruti vel Britonum Saxonumve, tacta per ipsum regem, ignota memoria et remota tunc haberet aliquid veritatis, quo ad moderna tamen tempora vel dominia regnorum locum sibi ut tunc vendicant, gestarum rerum et temporum mutacione, et innouata varietate sublata. Sed nec ipse Dominus Rex, illam vetustatem Britonum, juste continuat oppressionibus suis modernis nouissimis subsecutis circa statum regni Scocie supradictum.

Quique vero, seipso teste, actore simul et judge in causa sua, per scripta sola propria astruere et probare justiciam cause sue. Nec mirum, si, veris destitutus assercionibus, justi judicis formidat judicium et eventum contra ipsum promulgande. Si juste maxime examinarentur facta sua, quamvis absens ipse citatus, fit contumax. Primo cum sedis Apostolice nisus est per sola sua eulogia declinare examen, Leuitici generis sacerdotis et judicis, cuncta rimantis, Romani Pontificis, refugere judicium; spoliatisque et a Deo prouisum in terris singulare refugium et ultimum vi oppressis: reuocationisque ejusdem negotii, per sedem ipsam facti ad curiam, eneruare effectum, per sola mendicata sibi suffragia, non probata, friuola, tam inualide vetustatis, nudaque sua sola assercione, Scotis ipsis auferre juris respirandi remedium, et subsidium dicte utpote subsequenciam gestarum rerum et temporum mutacione, innovata varietate, sublata. Sed nec ipse Dominus rex, vetustatem illam Britonum, interruptam ymmo sublatam omnino, juste continuat oppressionibus suis modernis novissimis subsecutis circa statum regni Scociae supradicti.

Quique vero, seipso rege teste, actore simulque eciam judge in causa sua, per scripta sola propria studet injuste astruere et probare justiciam causæ sue, ad se regnum Scociae pertinere praedictum, insulæque eciam ipsius Britanniae, nullo sibi certi juris justicie possessionis alio noto titulo quolibet suffragante. Nec mirum, si, veris tantum sic ipse destitutus affercionibus, et propter hoc justi judicis formidans judicium, et eventum sententiae contra ipsum promulgando, si juste maxime examinarentur facta sua, quamvis absens ipse citatus, sic contumax prima tantum sedis apostolice nisus est per sua sola eulogia declinare examen, Levitie generis sacerdotis et judicis, cuncta rimantis, Romani pontificis refugere judicium (tam injuste spoliatis ntique adeo provisum in terris singulare refugiam ultimum et vi oppressis) necnon eciam et revocationis ejusdem negoti-sedis, cuius est ipsum regnum Scotie, non sine ipsius sedis contemptu, jurisdictionisque ipsius prejudicio non modico et ausu restringendi Romane ecclesie jurisdictionem solitam inter reges et regna maxime, et ipsius amplissimam habitam potestatem, et hoc non sine expressi mali pernicie, vias, scilicet, aperiendi subterfugiis vetitis, jurisdictione nota injuria, quod sine ulla fore prescripcione aliave causa legitima, in forma juris per procuratorem, ad hoc constitutum, proponenda ordinarii judicis possit jurisdictione declinari.

Sed quia regnum ipsum Scocie, quod, ut dictum est, ad Romanam noscitur ecclesiam pertinere, de jure comuni, per quod, par in parem non haberet imperium, et per quod rex regi non subest, vel regnum regno, sicut nec consul consuli, vel pretor pretori, quo ad ipsum regem Anglie, fuit semper omnino liberum; et, a tempore, a quo non extat memoria, modoque eciam sit in hujusmodi libertatis possessione, contra ipsum super hoc legitima prosecucione, munitum, et asseratur eidem regi omnino, nec esse feodatum vel feodale, de cuius contrario non sit eciam facta, sed nec fieri possit debita fides:

eii, per sedem ipsam facti ad curiam, enervare effectum per sola mendacia sibi suffragia, non probata, frivola tam invalidae vetustatis nuda sua sola assercione, Scotis ipsis auferre juris respirandi remedium, et subsidium dictae sedis, cuius est ipsum regnum Scociae, non sine ipsius sedis contemptu, jurisdictionisque ipsius praeditio, cum non modico et ausu restringentibus Romanæ ecclesiae jurisdictionem solitam inter reges et regna maxime, et ipsius amplissimam habitam potestatem, et hoc non sine eciam exempli mali pernicie, vias scilicet aperiendi subterfugiis vetitis, jurisdictione nota injuria, ac sine ulla fore descripcione alienæ causa legitima, in forma juris per procuratorem, ad hoc constitutum, proponenda et probanda, ordinarii judicis summi pontificis jurisdictione taliter declinari.

Sed quia regnum ipsum Scociae, quod, ut dictum est, ad Romanam noscitur ecclesiam pertinere de jure comuni, per quod, quod par in parem non habet imperium, et per quod rex regi non subest, vel regnum regno, sicut nec consul consuli, vel pretor praetori, quo ad ipsum regem Angliae, fuit semper omnino liberum, et Judexque eciam alius non reperiatur idoneus in dicta causa, nisi ipsa Romana ecclesia, ad quam possit per Scottos, suam ecclesiam Scoticanam, lesam tam enormiter et oppressam per dictum regem, pro justitia optinenda super sibi illatis injuriis, et dampnis datis, haberি recursus; ejusdemque Domini regis, ut partis testisque solius non jurati in causa ipsa sua propria, assercionibus, testimoniis, aut enlogiis prelibatis, que pro se summo Pontifici destinauit, in prejudicium, partis adverse, cuius assercionibus, mutuoque judiciali conflictu, et non litteris vel libellis, causarum merita declarantur. Nec possit, preterea, idem Dominus rex judex esse idoneus in causa predicta, ubi regnum predictum Scocie sibi subjectum vel feodale non existit penitus, ut est dictum. Precellens ejusdem Apostolice sedis autoritas, que non sinit in subditos fieri quod enim potencie, sed quod juris; nec in exhibenda justicia ad se confugientibus, maxime suis, deesse ulla tenus consuevit, impedire vel supersedere non deberet de jure in prefato, ad se sic renocato, Scocie negocio, pretextu illorum, ad hoc productorum per ipsum regem in partis absencia, a tanto tempore, a quo non extat memoria, modoque eciam sit in hujusmodi libertatis possessione, contra ipsum, super hoc legitima prosecuracione, munitum, et asseratur eidem regi omnino, nec esse subditum nec feodale, de cuius contrario non sit facta, sed nec fieri possit debita fides: Judexque eciam alius non reperiatur superior competens in dicta causa, nisi ipsa Romana ecclesia, ad quam possit per Scociam, suamque ecclesiam Scoticanam, lesam tam enormiter et oppressam per dictum regem, pro justitia optinenda super sibi illatis injuriis, et dampnis datis, habere recursus ejusdem Domini regis, ut partes testesque solius non jurati in causa ipsa sua propria assercionibus, testimoniis, aut enlogiis prælibatis, qui pro se summo pontifici destinavit in præjudicium, credi non beat, alienum, quantacumque rex ipse præemineat dignitate, sed præcipue in absencia partis adverse, cuius assercionibus, mutuoque judiciali conflictu, et non litteris vel libellis, causarum merita declarantur. Nec possit, preterea, idem Dominus rex, judex esse idoneus, in causa sua supradicta, ubi regnum prædictum Scocie sibi subditum vel feodale non existit penitus juste ut incepit procedere, et ea facere in dicto regno, que sunt juris, maxime quia ejusdem regis Anglie, tanquam sacrilegi, in multis arguenda, et per judicem ecclesie perpetrata venit audacia, et sua multimoda per eundem ecclesiasticum judicem punienda, ut inuasoris, de quo, quamquam magno, ipsius est ecclesie facere conquerentibus quibuslibet lesis, tamen maxime ecclesiis ecclesiasticisve personis, per ipsum et suos sic afflictis et oppressis, justicie complementum. Potissime tamen, ut renovacio ejusdem negotii, dudum facta ad curiam tam deliberate per sedem ipsam, loco beneficii satis grati, per regis ejusdem abrogate vetustatis figmenta non probata, invasionesque regni ejusdem Scocie subsecutas per ipsum, notorie tam injustas, non sic fiat delusoria, lubrica, irrita, et infirma, sine causa cognita in presencia parcium, quin pocius efficax, stabilis et mansura permaneat, tanquam beneficium validum cujuslibet principis et dicte sedis, duratarum. Cujus sedis venustati, honori et jurisdictioni detraheretur manifeste, si indebita et violenta regnorum unio sic in-ut est dictum, præcellens apostolice sedis ejusdem autoritas, quæ non sinit in subditos fieri, quod potencie, sed quod juris est, nec in exhibenda justicia ad se juste confugentibus, maxime suis, deesse uillatenus consuevit, impendere vel supersedere non debent de jure in p̄fato, ad se sic revocato, Scociae negotio, prætextu illorum, adhuc productorum per ipsum regem, in partis absencia, juste ut incepit procedere, ea facere in dicto regno, que sunt juris, maxime quia regis ejusdem Angliae, tamquam sacrilegi, in multis arguenda, et per judicem ecclesie perpetrata venit audacia, et sua multimoda per eundem ecclesiasticum judicem improbitas punienda, ut inuasoris, de quo, quamquam magno, ipsius est ecclesiæ facere conquerentibus quibuslibet lesis tantum, maxime ecclesiis ecclesiasticisque personis, per ipsum et suos sic afflictis et oppressis, justicie complementum. Potissime tamen, ut revocacio ejusdem negotii, dudum facta, ad curiam, tam diliberaute per sedem ipsam, loco beneficii satis grati, per regis ejusdem abrogatæ vetustatis figmenta non probata, invasionesque regni ejusdem Scocie subsecutis per ipsum notorie tam injustas, non sic fiat delusoria, lubrica, irritatur, infirma sine causa cognita in partis cepta, subreptive procederet, sine sedis ipsius auctoritate, per potentiam solam regis memorati, que regnorum unio non nisi per sedem ipsam fieri deberet ullo modo. Ipsius eciam regis epistola supradicta, que annexam habet, et continet eciam in sui narratione notoriam falsitatem, asserciones suas et omnia contenta in ipsa, propter admixtionem falsitatis ejusdem, notorie suspecta faciunt, et suadent merito repellenda, quemadmodum fermento modico corruptitur tota massa.

Scripsit etenim in dicta sua epistola, summo Pontifici destinata, ad majorem expressionem juris sui in regno Scocie supradicto, falsum illud notorium toti mundo, se, scilicet, esse jure pleni dominii, in possessione ejusdem regni Scocie, suarum date tempore literarum; cum tamen notorie in ipso regno civitatem sedem episcopalem, aut ullam diocesis integrum de duodecim episcopatibus, qui sunt ibi, ipso regno et populo gaudente quasi totaliter pristina libertate: propter quod vicium tam notorie falsitatis annexe, ad reliqua examinanda uel probanda, que rex asserit, eidem præsencia, quin pocius efficax, stabilis et mansura permaneat, tamquam beneficium validum cuiuslibet principis et dictæ sedis duratarum, cuius sedis venustati, honori et jurisdictioni detraheretur non modicum, si indebita et violenta regnorum unio, sic incepta, subreptive procederet, sine sedis ipsius auctoritate, per potentiam solam regis memorati, cum tamen regnorum unio non nisi per sedem ipsam fieri deberet ullo modo. Ipsius eciam regis epistola supradicta, que annexam habet et continet eciam in sui narratione notoriam falsitatem, asserciones suas et omnia contenta in ipsa, propter commixtionem falsitatis ejusdem, notorie suspecta faciunt et suadent merito repellenda, quemadmodum fermento modico corruptitur tota massa. Et idem eciam rex sic citatus quia, ad præfixum sibi terminum non comparens, de jure suo, ut debuit, in ipso regno Scociae nichil ostendit super statu prædicti regni libero, sic defamati per ipsum indebite, post terminum super hoc non deberet ullatenus exaudiri.

Scripsit eciam in dicta sua epistola, summo pontifici destinata, ad majorem expressionem juris sui in Scocia regno supradicto, falsum illud notorium toti mundo, se scilicet esse, jure pleni dominii, in deberet aditus interdici; sed ex hoc potissime, quia nec in termino sibi prefixo comparere non curauit, ut debuit, in curia, aut sufficienter aliquid ostendere de jure suo, quod in ipso regno, super sua libertate habita inconcusse, et sic postea defamato per eum et turbato, asseruerat se habere. Verum quamquam ex predictis regis ejusdem non procedat intencio, nec regno Scocie nocere debeant scripta que scripsit, de juribus et rationibus supradictis; quia tamen idem Domiuus rex, pro suo coadunando proposito colorato, et intercisa historia succincte apparerent multa scripsit, tangendo breuiter statum, primum Bruti et insule Britannie, populorumque et regum qui ipsi Bruto in insula Britannie successerunt: et qualiter Brutus insulam inter tres filios suos, Cambrum, scilicet, Albanactum, et Loerinum, tunc primo divisit in tres partes, Cambriam, vide-licet, Albaniam, et Loëgriam. Quia tamen rei geste veritatem scribere rex omisit, ea tangens sollummodo que suo viderentur proposito convenire; reliqua veritate suppressa; ad noticiam historie pleniorum, oportet plenius dicere, que possessione ejusdem regni Scociae, suarum tempore datae litterarum, cum tamen notorie in ipso regno civitatem sedemve episcopalem, aut ullam dioecesim integrum nullatenus optineret de XII. episcopatibus, qui sunt ibi, ipso regno et populo tune gaudente quasi totaliter pristina libertate: propter quod vicium tam notoriæ falsitatis annexæ, ad reliqua examinanda vel probanda, quæ rex idem asserit, deberet eidem aditus interdici; eo potissime, quia nec in termino sibi prefixo comparere curavit, ut debuit, in curia, nec sufficienter aliquod ostendere de jure suo, quod in ipso regno Scociae super sua libertate habita inconcusse, et sic postea destinacio per eum et turbaceto, asseverat se habere. Verum quamquam ex predictis regis ejusdem assereonibus non procedat sua intencio, nec regno Scociae nocere debeant scripta, quæ scripsit de juribus et rationibus supradictis, quia tamen idem rex, pro suo coadjuvando proposito, colorata et intercisa historia succincte et apparerent multa scripsit, tangendo breuiter statum primum Bruti et insulae Britanniae, populorumque et regum, qui ipsi Bruto in insula Britanniae successerant, et qualiter Brutus insulam Britanniae inter tres filios suos, Cambrum, scilicet, Albanactum, et Loerinum, tunc post divinondum rex scripsit. Et primo, qualiter de ipsa Britannie insula, partis ejusdem, scilicet, Albanie, exulauit nomen et memoria Britonum gentis sue, in ejusdemque locum Albanie successit nomen nouum Scotie, cum sua gente, ex cuius vera et plena descripcione historie apparebit, quod scripta per ipsum regem super hoc intentum suum non adjuvant, sed eidem pocius obviant manifeste, si latens sub cortice noticia educatur historie, et si vetustatis inducte per regem, tenebre delegantur, apparebit, quod indebitum sibi vendicare ipse non poterunt tenebre, ut pretenditur, locum lucis.

Postquam igitur Scotorum populus antiquissimus, a quadam nomine Scota, filia Pharaonis regis Egipti, sic vocatus, descendisset de Egipto, et post occupatam per ipsos primo insulam in oceano Hiberniam, ab illo Hibero fluui Hispanie, sic vocatam, expulsis gigantibus, ab Isidoro Scotorum dicitur insula, et, secundum Bedam, post occupatam ab eis, secundo Ergadiam adjacentem ipsi Albanie, partim predicte Britannie, que Ergadia ab Erk filio Scote, et sit in tres partes, Cambriam, viz., Albaniam, et Loëgriam, quia tantum rei gestæ veritatem plenius scribere rex omisit, ea tangens solummodo, quæ suo viderentur proposito convenire, reliqua veritate suppressa, ad noticiam historiæ pleniorum, expedit plenius dicere, quæ rex non scripsit. Et primo, qualiter de ipsa Britannie insula terciae partis ejusdem, scilicet, Albanie, exulavit nomen, et memoria Britonum gentis sue, in ejusdem locum Albanie successit novum nomen Scociae cum sua gente, ex cuius vera et plena descripcione historiæ apparebit, quod scripta per ipsum regem super hoc intentum suum non adjuvavit, sed eidem pocius obviant manifeste, si latens sub cortice educatur noticia historiæ, et si vetustatis inductæ per regem tenebrae delegantur, apparebit, quod indebitum sibi mendicare ipsæ non poterunt tenebrae, ut prætenditur, locum lucis.

Postquam igitur Scotorum populus antiquissimus, a quadam, nomine Scota, filia Pharaonis regis Egipti sic vocatus, primo ad Hispaniam, regionem juxta Ibrum flumen, descendisset de Egipto, et post occupatam ab ipsis Scottis primo Hibernie insulam, et omnes Hibernicos, ab illo Hibero, fluvi Hispanie, sic vocatam, expul-

Gaelo ejus Scote viro, tunc duobus inde vocata Ergadia usque diem istum, nominibus compositis Erk et Gael predictorum.

Subsequenter et successive tertio idem populus, ejectis Britonibus de Albania, occupauit Albaniam, partem illam predictam terciam insule Britannie supradicte : de qua rex scribit, jure eodem et titulo, qua Brutus totam prius occupauerat Britanniam, imposito ipsi parti insule, sic occupate per ipsos Scotos, nouo nomine Scocia, a prima illa Scota, Scotorum Domina, juxta versum,

A MULIERE SCOTA VOCITATUR SCOCIA TOTA.

Quibus exactis, tali modo Britonibus de Albania per Scotos, cum suo rege, legibus, lingua et moribus Britonum, exulavit et inde notorie nomen Albanie, cum dominio pristino Britonum, in locumque ejusdem nominis Albanie nomen successit nouum Scocie, una cum Scotorum noua gente, suisque regibus, lingua et moribus, quibus sis per Scotos ipsos prius inde gigantibus, quæ Hibernia ab Ysidero Scotorum inde dicitur insula, et, secundum Bedam, post occupatam ab eis secundo Argadiam, adjacentem ipsi Albaniæ, parti prædictæ Britanniæ, quæ ab Erk, filio Scotæ, et Gathelo, ejusdem Scotæ viro, tunc Scotorum duce, bino inde vocatam Ergadiam, duobus nominibus compositis Erk et Gayel eorundum, subsequenter et successive illi. ejectis Britonibus de Albania, idem Scotorum populus occupavit et Albaniam partem illam prædictam terciam insulæ Britanniæ supradictæ, de qua rex idem scribit, jure eodem et titulo, quo Brutus totam prius occupaverat Britanniam, imposito ipsi parti insulæ, sic occupatæ per ipsos Scotos, novo nomine Scocia, a prima illa Seota, Scotorum Domina, juxta versum.

A MULIERE SCOTA VOCITATUR SCOCIA TOTA.

Quibus actis tali modo Britonibus de Albania per Scotos, cum suis rege, legibus, lingua et moribus Britonum, exulavit et iude notorie nomen Albaniæ cum dominio pristino Britonum, in locumque ejusdem nominis Albaniæ nomen successit novum Scocie, una cum Scotorum nova gente, suisque ritibus, lingua et moribus, nichil commune est cum Britonibus, unaque cum suo rege et dominio novo Scotorum; et hec pars insule Britannie, dicta prius Albania, ut rex scripsit, ex tunc, mutatis condicionibus cum nomine, vocata est Scocia ista de causa semper postea inviolabiliter et inconcusse. Sed tamen hoc, non sine causa, scribere rex omisit, eo quod suo proposito nullatenus conueniret, sed pocius repugnaret. Scotti insuper inimici per hoc facti Britonum, associatis sibi advenis Pictorum populis, partitaque cum eis sic adepta Scocia terra sua, in tantum sunt Britones, Brutii, scilicet, posteritatem alterius persecuti, partemque illam aliam Britannie, sibi vicinam, que tunc Loëgria, nunc uero Anglia vocatur, hostibus itaque incursibus molestarunt, quod compulsi sunt tunc Britones, habitatores ejusdem partis Loëgrie, constituto tributo, se Romanis subicere, et ipsorum auxilium contra Scotos et Pictos in suam defensionem invocare. Ita quod, dum, Severi imperatoris tempore, sub tutela misse eis Romane milicie, in subsidium contra Scotos, murus ille antiquissimus lapideus, quibus nichil commune est eum Britonibus, unaque cum suo rege et dominio novo Scotorum; et haec pars insule Britannie, dicta prius Albania, ut rex scripsit, ex tunc, mutatis condicionibus cum nomine, vocata est Seocia ista de causa semper postea inviolabiliter et inconcusse. Hoe tantum scribere non sine causa rex omisit, eo quod suo proposito nullatenus conveniret, sed pocius repugnaret. Hii quoque etiam Scotti, inimici per hoc facti Britonum, associatis sibi advenis Pictorum populis, partitaque cum eis sic adepta Seocia terra sua, in tantum sunt ulterius Britones, Brutii scilicet posteritatem alterius, persecuti, partemque illam aliam Britanniae, sibi vicinam, que tunc Loëgria, nunc vero vocatur Anglia, hostilibus itaque incursibus molestarunt, quod compulsi sunt tunc Britones, habitatores ejusdem partis Loëgrie, constituto tributo se Romanis subicere, et ipsorum auxilium contra Scotos et Pictos in suam defensionem advoeare. Ita quod, dum, Severi imperatoris tempore, sub tutela missae eis Romane milicie, in subsidium contra Scotos murus illi antiquissimus lapideus, per medianam Britanniam se extendens, a mari usque ad mare, et dividens tunc Seociam a per mediam Britanniam se extendens a mari usque ad mare, et diuidens tunc Scociam a Loëgria, cum foveis ante murum, turribus et portis certis, claudentibus versus Scociam, longitudinis centum triginta miliarium, ad hoc tantummodo est constructus, ne in Loëgriam contra Britones Scotti et Picti de Scocia possent irruere, uel nocere, ut solebant; prout de hiis omnibus satis constat ex historiis non suspectis, sicut ex Romanorum, vestigiis pariter superstitis adhuc muri illius veteris operis lapidei testantur.

Ex quibus patet, quod, quia non est verisimile Britones murum hujusmodi tam sumptuosum, et sibi alias inutilem, nisi pro sua sola tuicione contra Scotos construxisse, nullatenus, inuocato ad hoc tam remoto sibi auxilio Romanorum, si penes se tocius ipsius insule mansisset directum dominium, ut pretenditur et rex asserit, siue eciam monarchia ejus insulae, uel Britonibus Scotti subditi prius fuissent; scripta regia eadem sic conficta, quo ad illa tempora prima Britonum, ad intencionis sue regie juvandum propositum, et ad propriandum sibi rectum

Loëgria, cum foveis ante murum, turribus, et portis certis vel ceris claudentibus versus Scociam, longitudinis centum triginta miliarum, ad hoc tantummodo est constructus, ne in Loëgriam contra Britones Scotti et Picti de Scocia possent irruere, vel nocere, ut solebant, prout de hiis omnibus satis patet ex historiis non suspectis. Constat eciam Romanorum et ex vestigiis pariter superstitis adhuc muri illius veteris lapidei supradicti.

Ex quibus patet, quod, quia non est verisimile, Britones murum hujusmodi tam sumptuosum, et sibi alias inutilem, nisi pro sua sola tuicione contra Scotos, construxisse, nullatenus invocato ad hoc tam remoto sibi auxilio Romanorum, si penes se tocius ipsius insule tunc mansisset directum dominium, ut praetenditur et rex asserit, sive eciam monarchia ejusdem insulae, viz., eis Britonibus Scotti subditi prius tunc fuissent, scripta regia abinde sic conficta, quo ad illa tempora prima Britonum, ad intencionis sue regie juvandum propositum, et ad propriandum sibi directum dominium Scociae, et firmandum per hoc fundamentum juris sui in regno ipso, non prodesse, sed nec inniti ullius robori debito veritatis. Colligiturque eciam evidenter ex predictis, quod prima illa de tempore Bri-dominium Scocie, et firmandum per hoc fundamentum juris in ipso regno, non prodesse, sed nec inniti ulli roboris debito veritatis. Colligitur eciam euidenter ex predictis, quod prima illa de tempore Britonum allegata juris possessio, in regem ipsum uel suos continuata non extitit, sicut scribit, sed quod naturaliter, sicut patet ex predictis et aliis, fuit sepius interrupta, quodque illa omnia que rex ipse in ipso regno Scocie asserit se habere loco primi sui juris, in eo quod Britonibus se dicit in regno Loegrie successisse, tanquam ex defectuo exorta principio operum mortuorum, collocataque eciam super tam infirmo illius temporis Britonum, sublato postea, fundamento, una cum suo medio, deinde naturaliter interrupto, fore inualida vetustate sublata, et varia penitus, subsecutaque, deinde ex ipsis et superedificata singula apparenter loco juris dicti Domini regis in dicto regno Scocie, veritate detecta negotii, in presencia parcium, debere tendere merito in ruinam. Sed ex eo potissime quod, mutatis condicionibus temporum, mutata sunt eciam jura regnorum et gencium. Et quod non pertonum allegata juris possessio, in ipsum regem vel suos continuata non existit, sicut scribit, sed quod naturaliter, sicut patet ex praedictis et aliis, pocius fuit interrupta, quodque illa omnia, quae rex ipse in ipso regno Scociae asserit se habere loco primi sui juris, in eo quod Britonibus se dicit in regno Loegriae successisse, tanquam ex defectivo exorta principio operum mortuorum, collocataque eciam super tam infirmo illius temporis Britonum, sublato postea, fundamento, una cum suo medio, postea sic naturaliter interrupto, fore invalida vetustate sublata, et vota penitus, subsecuta, quod ex inde ex ipsis et superaedificata singula apparenter solummodo loco juris dicti Domini regis in dicto Scociae regno, veritate detecta in presencia parcium, debere tendere merito finaliter in ruina. Ex eo potissime, quod, mutatis condicionibus temporum, mutata sunt eciam jura regnorum et gencium. Et quod non idem permanet illius temporis status qui tune fuit, sicut et qui nunc est, prout patet in Romanis, qui non sic modo, ut solebant, dominantur toti orbi, ad quos Romanos sicut orbis monarchia, qui primitus Africo fuisset noscitur, de gente ad gentem transiens, ultimo noscitur ad eos pervenisse, et adhuc subsistere penes ipsos. Sic manet illius temporis status qui tuic fuit, qui et nunc est, prout patet in Romanis eronicis, qui aliqui dominantur toti orbi, ad quos Romanos sicut orbis monarchia, que primo fuit Assiriorum, de gente ad gentem transiens, ultimo noscitur peruenisse, et adhuc subsistere penes ipsos. Sic si quo jure primo Britonum, insule tocius Britannie regnum Loëgrie obtainuerit aliquando monarchiam, ut rex asserit, sed non est verum, postquam mutatis illis primis condicionibus temporum, insule ipsius Britannie ocupauerunt postea Scotti terciam partem, scilicet, Albaniam, et inde nomen et memoriam Britonum notabiliter deleuerunt, et notorie, ut est dictum, ab antiquo, ipsius insule monarchia, si qua fuit, Britonum ipsorum esse desiit per processum temporum nec penes regnum Loëgrie noscitur permansisse; ymmo ad Romanam ecclesiam, tam Diuina disposicione quam subsequencium deuotione fidelium, et ex dono Magni Constantini indubitanter pertransiit, et manifeste residet penes ipsam. In cuius ecclesie prejudicium quantum rex ipse Anglie presumpserit, appropriando sibi indebite ipsius si quoque jure primo Britonum insulae tocius Britannie regnum Loëgriæ optinuerunt aliquam monarchiam, ut rex scripsit, sed non est verum, postquam tantum mutatis illis primis condicionibus temporum insulae ipsius Britannie oecuparunt, postea Scotti terciam partem Albaniam, et inde nomen et memoriam Britonum notabiliter deleverunt, et notorie ab antiquo, ut dictum est, insulae ipsius monarchiam, si qua fuit, primus Britonum ipsorum esse desiit, et per processum temporis nec penes regnum Loëgriæ noscitur permansisse, ymmo ad Romauam ecclesiam, tam divina disposicione, quam subsequencium devocione fidelium, et ex imperatoris, Constantini douo, indubitanter pertransivit et manifeste residet penes ipsam. In cuius ecclesiae praëjudicium quantum rex ipse Angliae presumpserit, appropriando sibi indebite ipsius insulae monarchiam, quæ non est sua, in praëjudicium alienum, et appropriando sibi de novo per vim et metum regnum ipsum Scocie, tunc acephalum, sede Apostolica ipsius regni directa Domina tunc vacante et inconsulta, Romana ecclesia satis potest advertere, et videre quamquam grave detrimentum ei possit imminere pro tempore, si in insula Britannie rex regnaret unicus, et in regno insule monarchiam, que non est sua, in prejudicium alienum, et appropriando sibi eciam de dono, per vim et metum, regnum Scocie tunc acephalum, sede Apostolica ipsius regni directa Domina tunc vacante et inconsulta, Romana ecclesia satis potest aduertere et nidere quan graue detrimentum ipsi ecclesie possit imminere pro tempore, si in insula Brittannie rex regnaret unicus, in regno Scocie sic obtentus honor cessaret regius indebite, et honor regis. Quia Scocie regnum, ab olim semper infestum regno Anglie, nulli regum Britonum vel Saxonum subfuisse noscitur uel probatur, nisi quatenus refert antiquitas, quod sicut Arthurus sibi subjugauit Daciam, Galliam et Norwegiam per potentiam, sic et eciam Seociam pro suo solummodo tempore. Quo tamen Arthuro perempto per Modredum filium Loth regis Scocie in belli certamine, restituta fuit per hoc Scocia in tantum sue pristine libertati. Quod, ejectis postea de Loëgria Britonibus¹ per Saxones, non minus dolis quam potentia, vi uel armis, et denuo ejectis de eodem regno Loëgrie per Dacos ipsis Saxonibus, Scociae sie optentus honor cessaret regius et nomen regis, quod Scociae regnum, ab olim semper infestum regno Angliae, nulli regum Britonum vel Saxonum subfuisse noscitur vel probatur, nisi, quatenus obscura refert antiquitas, quod, sicut Arthurus sibi subjugavit Daciam, Galliam et Norwegiam, per potentiam, sic eciam Seociam pro suo solummodo tempore. Nam eo iau Arthuro perempto per Moredredum, Loth Domini Laudinae filium, in belli certamine, restituta fuit per hoc Scocia iterum suaæ pristine libertati. Quod, ejectis postea de Loëgria Eritonibus per Saxones, non minus dolo quam potentia, vi vel armis, et denuo ejectis de eodem regno Loëgriae per Dacos ipsis Saxonibus, et iterum Dacis expulsis inde per Saxones, primo regni Loëgriae nomine sic in Anglia commutacio, suum tamen Scocia nomen, vel Scotorum populus statum liberum non mutavit, sub tanta regni Loëgriae mutacione et ineolarum ejusdem, ymno firmum mansit, laudetur Dens, et immobile, nulli alteri regi Britonum Loëgriae, vel Saxonum Angliae, subditum, nichil, ut praedictum est, Arthuro, quiequid per suas epistolas in contrarium rex affirmet.

¹ a reads Baronibus.

et iterum Dacis expulsis inde per Saxones, primo regno Loëgrie nomine sic in Angliam commutato, suum tamen nomen Scocia, uel Scotorum populus statum liberum non mutauit, sub tanta regni Loëgrie mutacione incolarum ejusdem; ymmo firmum mansit, et immobile, nulli alteri regi Saxonum Loëgrie, uel Anglie, nisi soli Arthuro subjectum, quiequid per suas epistolas in contrarium rex affirmet.

Per venerandas etenim reliquias beati Andree Apostoli, de Grecia nauigio delatas in Scociam, ibidem Hungo rege tunc regnante, propter magnam a Deo Scottis et Pictis concessam uictoram de Saxonibus, ad ostium Tiny fluminis, ut habet historia ipsius, Scotti primo sumpserunt fidem Christi, priusquam Saxones uel Angli per annos quadringentos. Et, pro tanta a Deo consecuta victoria, recognitum fuisse traditur ex tunc dictum regnum Scocie in Romane feodum ecclesie, et una cum regno Seoticana ecclesia, tam remota, non sine grandi misterio et dono Dei soli subesse cepit, sine metropolitano alio medio, Petro, principi ecclesie, et Beati Andree germano, successorique ejus Romano pontifici, et in alienam superioris ecclesie metropolitanam familiam non transiuit.

Quinymmo regno Anglie facto postea Romane ecclesie

Quinymmo per venerandas reliquias beati Andreæ Apostoli, miraculose de Græcia navigio delatas in Scocia, ibidem Durst sive Hurgust super Pictos tunc regnante, et super Scottos Erth, filii Echadii, fratri Eugenii, Scocia fidem Christi recepit solidius quam longe ante priusquam Saxones vel Angli per alios quadringentos, et, pro tanto divinae miserationis dono, dictum ex tunc regnum Scociae traditur in Romanum ecclesiæ feudum transisse, eum Seoticana ecclesia, tam remota, non sine causa eum grandique misterio et dono Dei sibi subesse cepit, sine metropolitano alio medio, Petro, principi ecclesiæ, et beato Andreæ, germano beati Petri, successoribus eorum, i. Romano pontifici, in alienam superioris ecclesiæ metropole familiam non transiuit.

Quinymmo regno Angliæ facto postea Romane ecclesiæ notorie censuali, onus census hujusmodi, sicut Anglia, Scocia non suscepit, utpote in vero sibi conveniens jure Dominii.

notorie census, onus census hujusmodi, sicut Anglia, Scocia non suscepit, utpote in nullo sibi conueniens jure dominii. Sed regnum illud Scocie, velut precipuum et peculiare allodium ecclesie, pleno jure cum sua ecclesia, separatum omnino ab Anglia, Apostolice sedis presidiis, beneficiis pectoribus et priuilegiis, defensum fuisse legitur ab ipsa Romana ecclesia ex tunc, contra Saxones, et eorum successores Anglicos, Scotis infestos opido, ut infideles fidelibus esse solent. In aliis etiam partibus, pro mandatis nationibus (vicinis) rebellibus, aliquando usum est Romana ecclesia veluti Assur, et adhuc eorum usu et auxilio, ut indiguit, poterit forsitan processu temporis indigere. Quid si Scocie regnum pro, ut asseritur, ab Anglia regno dependet, non esset ipso magis liberum in soluzione census et in aliis, nec ab illo in hoc et in aliis jure diuerso nullatenus censeretur. Nam sicut Scocia certum censem non solvit, sic nec comitatus Cumbrie, Northumbrie, Westmerlandie, quamvis ad dominium peruerenterint Anglicorum. Ideo, quia, tempore constituti census hujusmodi, comitatus

Sed regnum idem Scociae, velut principium et peculiare alodium ecclesiae Romanæ, pleno jure cum sua ecclesia separatum omnino ab Anglia, Apostolice sedis praesidiis, beneficiis pectoribus et privilegiis, defensum fuisse legitur ab ipsa Romana ecclesia ex tunc, contra Saxones, et eorum successores Anglicos, Scotis iufestos opido, ut fidelibus infideles esse solent. Quibus Scotis in illis partibus, pro mandatis nationibus vicinis rebelibus, aliquando usum est Romana ecclesia velut Assur, et adhuc eorundem usu, ut aliquando indiguit, poterit forsitan processu temporis indigere. Quod Scociae regnum si, ut per regem asseritur, ab Anglia regno sic dependet, non esset ipso magis liberum in soluzione census, et in aliis, nec ab illo in hoc et aliis jure diverso nullatenus conferetur. Nam sicut Scocia certum censem non solvit Romanæ ecclesiae, sic nec comitatus Cumbriæ, et Northumbriæ, seu Westmorlandiæ, quamquam ad dominium pervenerint Anglorum, et hoc ideo, quia, tempore constituti census hujusmodi, comitatus predicti Scotis omnino suberant, et sic in soluzione census omnino liberi remanserunt. Ad quorum comitatuum populos, utpote tunc Scotis subditos, non nisi per Scotos primos doctores fidei Columbam, predicti Scotis omnino suberant, et sic in solucione census hujusmodi omnino liberi remanserunt. Ad quorum comitatum populos, utpote tunc Scotis subjectos, non nisi per Scotos primos doctores fidei in illis partibus, Columbam, scilicet, Aidanum, Finanum, et Colmanum, et alios, diu antequam ad Anglicos, peruenisse conuincitur noticia fidei et nomen Christi. Nec renocatur in dubium, quin Gregorius, Dungalli filius, rex Scotorum, totam sibi aliquando subjugauerit Angliam. Et de subjectione Scotorum Saxonibus, que negatur, omnino non sit fides, nisi per assencionem solam regis Anglie, et per suspecta domestica et conficta scripta sua, de quibus non est idonea probacio pro seipso. Sed nec tactis per ipsum miraculis vel reuelationibus Sancti illius credendum esse autoritate conuin- citur. Eciam si martirum essent ipse, quamvis probentur reuelaciones ipse a Deo processisse, quarum probacio ex regis epistola non est certa, sed nec in nostri temporis judiciis consueta, eo quod in angelum lucis angelus Sathanæ se transformat, et Sauli in Samuelis specie respondisse legitur Phitonissa. Inauditum est quod nunquam fuerit fama ulla vel sermo in Scocia, de reuelatione ulla facta

Aidanum, et Finanum, et Colmannum, et alios, diu antequam ad Angliam, pervenisse conuincitur noticia fidei et nomen Christi. Nec revocatur in dubium, quin Gregorius, Dungalli filius, rex Scotorum totam sibi aliquando subjugaverat Angliam, et de subjectione Scotorum Saxonibus, que negatur, omnino nescit fides, nec per assencionem solam regis Angliae, et per suspecta domestica scripta sua, de quibus non est idonea probacio pro seipso. Sed nec tactis per ipsum miraculis vel reuelationibus Sancti nullius credendum esse aut conuincitur, eciam si martyr esset ipse, per quem probentur reuelaciones ipsæ processisse a Deo, quarum probacio exempla regia non est certa, sed nec in nostri temporis judiciis consueta, eo quod in angelum lucis angelus Sathanæ sepe se transformat, et Sauli Samuelis specie respondisse legitur Phitonissa. Inauditum est, quod nunquam fuerat fama ulla vel sermo in Scocia, de reuelatione facta illi Johanni, quam pro se rex ille domestice allegat. Verumtamen licet, allegata per ipsum regem, miracula, gestave singula ipsius temporis probari possent, illi sancto Johanni, quam pro se domestice rex allegat. Verum tamen licet allegata per regem ipsum, miracula, gestave singula illius temporis probari possent tunc vera esse, cum sint falsa, quia tamen ab illis vetustatibus omnino recessum esse dinoscitur, et a tempore, de quo non extat memoria, gavisum est ipsum regnum Scocie omnimoda libertate, et prescripsit eandem, jure communis sibi in hoc suffragante, ita quod allegate vetustates per regem eciam si uere essent, cum sint false, sibi modo locum non vendicant, nec est ipsis aliquatenus insistendum; eo quod translato ipsius partis insule Albanie dominio in ipsos Scotos, facta est legis et juris prioris mutatio, que durauit semper postea et ex nouissimis actis et peractis subsequitis, que spectanda sunt, derogatum est hiis scriptis per regem, quorum probacio uel memoria non existit. Et est certum, quod, sicut ipsum regnum Scocie nuper conuincitur fuisse liberum, quando obiit ultimus rex suus, sic et liberum fuisse presumitur ab antiquo, sumpta presumptione de tempore nuper preterito ad precedencia preterita tempora plus remota, prout jura dicant, et gesta subsequentia indicant ita esse.

De ultimo uero tempore regum Anglie Normannorum, tunc nam vera fuisse, tamen sunt falsa, queque tum ab illis vetustatibus omnino recessum esse noscitur, et a tempore, de quo non extat memoria, gavisum est regnum ipsum Scocie omnimoda libertate, et prescripsit eandem, jure communis sibi in hoc suffragante, ita quod allegare vetustates per regem eciam si verae essent, cum sint falsae, sibi modo locum non vendicant, nec est ipsis aliquatenus insistendum, eo quod ex novissimis actibus et pactis, que spectanda sunt, derogatum est hiis, quorum memoria vel probacio non existit. Et est certum, quod, sicut ipsum regnum Scociae nuper conuincitur fuisse liberum, quando obiit ultimus rex suus, sic et liberum fuisse presumitur ab antiquo, sumpta presumptione de termino nuper preterito ad precedencia preterita tempora plus remota, prout jura dietant, et gesta subsequentia indicant ita esse.

De ultimo vero tempore regum Anglie Normannorum, sicut de precedentibus temporibus et regibus Britonum et Saxonum, dicta sicut de precedentibus temporibus et regibus Britonum et Saxonum, dicta continuanda diuersa, idem rex Anglie multa scripsit suo conuenientia proposito, vacua tamen omnimoda veritate, ad quem omnia potest breuiter veritatis serie responderi. Nam si rex ullus Scocie regi alicui, post aduentum Normannorum in Angliam, fecisset fidelitatem, uel homagium, asseritur, posset legitime comprobari homagium hujusmodi, non pro regno Scocie de jure communi, uel de facto libero, ad factum extitit ipsi regi Anglie, sed pro terris sitis in Anglia, quas habere ibidem pro tempore reges Scocie consueuerunt. Nec huic obviat tacta per regem historia de institutione Duncani et Eadgari regum Scocie, Douenaldique destituzione, si rei geste, sicut se habet, veritas plenius attendatur. Eo quod, occupato dudum regno Scocie per quendam Douenaldum, ejectis de regno legitimis ipsius heredibus Malcolmi regis filiis, cuius Malcolmi filiam, Matildem nomine, Henricus primus rex Anglie duxerat in uxorem, Duncanus, primogenitus ejusdem Malcolmi regis, fretus forte ipsius Henrici tunc regis Anglie, et sui sororii uel affinis, auxilio, continuanda diversa. Idem Dominus rex Angliae multa scripsit suo convenientia proposito, vacua tamen omnimoda veritate, ad quae omnia potest veritatis serie responderi. Nam si rex ullus Scociae regi alicui Angliae post aditum Normannorum in Anglia fecisset fidelitatem, vel homagium, ut asseritur, posset legitime comprobari, hujusmodi homagium non pro regno Scociae de jure communi, vel de facto libero id factum non extitit regi Angliae, sed pro terris sitis in Anglia, quas idem pro tempore habere reges Scocie consueverunt. Nec huic obviat tacta per regem historia de institutione Duncani et Elgari regum Scociae, Donaldique destituzione, si rei gestae, sicut se habet, veritas plenius attendatur. Eo quod occupatio dudum regni Scociae per quendam Donaldum, ejectis de regno legitimis ipsius heredibus Malcolmi regis filiis, quorum sororem, Matildem nomine, Henricus primus, rex Angliae, uxorem duxerat, Duncanus, primogenitus, sed nothus, ejusdem Malcolmi regis, fretus forte ipsius Angliae regis, ut sui sororii vel affinis, auxilio, et non ut domini, regnum Scociae sibi recuperasse noseitur, inde ejecto Donaldo supradicto. Quo Duncano pereundo, et non ut domini, regnum Scocie sibi recuperasse noscitur, inde ejecto Douenaldo supradicto. Quo Duncano perempto, Eadgarus frater suus regnum Scocie, per Douenaldum eundem occupatum iterato, sibi recuperavit, fauore forte vel auxilio regis Anglie, ut sui sororii vel affinis; quemadmodum regnum Anglie postea occupatum per Stephanum, Matilde imperatricis regis Anglie herede legitima, tunc exelusa ipsa Matildis, et filius suus Henricus secundus, rex Anglie, auxilio et favore Dauid, regis Scocie, Matildis ejusdem avunculi, regnum Anglie recuperasse noscitur pari forma. Per hec tamen presidia mutua, solita fieri, sicut vicinos pariter et affines, qui, cum res exigit, mutuo sibi fauent, arguitur uel probatur regnum Scocie subjectum nou esse regi Anglie, aut ab ipso aliquatenus dependere. Quinymmo tenens idem Dauid rex Scocie tunc comitatus Cumbriae, Northumbrie, et Westmerlandie, quem, ut Dominum eorum, construxisse in eis certum est quedam castra, ac monasteria plurima ex solo fundasse in eisdem, pro regno Scocie ipse ulli regi Anglie nullum unquam fecisse noscitur homagium, uel subjectionem, sed tantum pro terris suis in Anglia quas habebat.

postea Edgarus, frater suus, regnum Scocie, per Donaldum eundem occupatum iteratum, sibi recuperavit, favore forte vel auxilio sic regis Angliae, ut sui sororii, quemadmodum regnum Angliae postea, occupatum per Stephanum, Matilde imperatrice regni tunc herede legitima, ejecta ipsa Matilde, et filius suus Henricus secundus, favore et auxilio David, tunc regis Scocie, Matildis ejusdem avunculi, regnum Angliae recuperasse noscitur pari forma. Per haec tamen praesidia mutua, solita fieri sicut vicinos pariter et affines, qui, cum res exigit, sibi mutuo favent et assistunt, injuste arguitur et probatur, regnum Scocie subjectum esse regi Angliae, aut ab ipso aliquiliter dependere. Quinymmo tenens idem David, rex Scocie, tunc comitatus Northumbriae, Cumbriae et Westmorelandiae, tamquam suos (quoniam ut Domiuum eorum construxisse in eis certum est quedam castra, et monasteria plurima ex solito etiam fundasse in eosdem), pro regno Scocie praedicto regis Wilhelmi Angliae nullum unquam fecisse noscitur homagium, aut alterius subjectionis signum, sed tantum pro terris quas in Anglia optinebat.

Quod ex hoc probat eciam manifeste. Henricus enim filius Dauid regis Scocie memorati, et premortuus eidem Dauid regi Scocie patri suo, comes Huntyngtonie in Anglia tunc existens, cum fecisset homagium, quod regi Anglie fecisse asseritur, non fecit pro regno Scocie, cum adhuc uineret pater ejus Dauid rex Scocie supradictus, sed pro comitatu suo in Anglia Huntyngtonie supradicte. Non enim pro feodo paterno, dum pater superest, et feodum tenet, filius facere homagium consueuit. Et illud idem probatur intelligi debere de introducto subsequenter homagio facto per Dauid et Willelmum filios Henrici comitis Huntyngtonie memorati, qui, auo suo Dauid rege Scocie adhuc superstite, patreque suo Henrico comite jam defuncto, facto regi Anglie debito homagio pro eisdem terris suis, sitis in Anglia, eidem Henrico comiti, defuncto patri suo, scilicet, successerunt. Nec ad regnum Scocie uel pro regno referri possunt facta homagia predicta Henrici, Dauid uel Willelmi predictorum, superstite tunc Dauid adhuc rege Scocie supradicto. Rex tamen ipse Anglie, facti ignarus predicti ad aliud erendum nititur introducere premissa sophistica scripta sua.

Porro, mortuo dicto rege Scocie Dauid Karleoli, in pos-

Quod probatur manifeste, dum Henricus filius David, regis Scociae memorati, et praemortuus patre suo fuisse tune comes Huntindonie in Anglia, homagium, quod regi Angliae fecisse asseritur, fieri non potuit pro regno Scociae, superstite adhuc regi David patre suo, sed pro comitatu predicto sito in Anglia, quem tenebat. Quia non est juris aliarum parcium, quod pro feodo, quem superstes adhuc pater tenet, faciet homagium nullo modo. Et hoc idem debet intelligi de introducto facto subsequenter homagio per David et Willelmum, filios Henrici comitis predicti, nepotis pariter ejusdem David regis Scociae, qui, patre suo defuncto Henrico comite, in eisdem terris, sitis in Anglia, successerunt, et ipsi regi Angliae pro ipsis fecerunt homagium consuetum. Qui David, Malcolmus, et Willelmus, superstite adhuc regi David Rege Scociae, non videntur pro regno Scociae fecisse homagia, prout iuxta regis Angliae epistola audientibus videtur innuere, et asserere sophistica scripta sua.

Porro, mortuo eodem rege Scociae David Carleoli, tamquam in sessione pacifica Cumbrie, Northumbrie et Westmerlandie predictorum comitatuum, regnoque Scocie per hoc vacante, et per absenciam dicti Dauid nepotis et heredis, sibi in regno Scocie successuri, qui tunc, expedicionis causa, fanore fidei et ecclesie, erat contra hereticos Albigenes in partibus Tholosanis, Henricus rex Anglie, filius Matildis Imperatricis predicte, sub quo passus est Beatus Thomas, cui idem Dauid restitucionem procurauerat regni Anglie memorati, reddens malum pro bono, ut ingratus, predictos comitatus Cumbrie, Northumbrie et Westmerlandie violenter inuadens occupauit eosdem; et erexit Karleoli sua auctoritate sola, ut creditur, ecclesiam cathedralem, cum tamen prius fuerat de diocesi Glasguensi in Scocia, ad fidem conuersa per Scotum Sanctum Kentigernum, in eujus Sancti honorem ejusdem diocesis ecclesie ab antiquo fuerunt plenarie dedicate, in predictorum memoriam et exemplum. Ad quorum recuperacionem comitatuum Willelmus predictus, promotus in regem Scocie, vehementer intendens, facto possessione pacifica comitatuum Cumbriæ, Northumbriæ et Westmorelandiæ, et vacante per ejus mortem regno Scocia, et per absenciam Willelmi, dicti David regis nepotis, sibi in regno Scocia successit, expedicionis causa tunc degentis contra hereticos in partibus Tholosanis; postquam Henricus, rex Angliæ, Matildis imperatricis predictæ filius, cui regni Angliæ, occupati per Stephanum, ut est dictum prius, fuerat restitucio per David, regem Scocia, procurata, prædictos comitatus Cumbriæ, Northumbriæ et Westmorelandiæ violenter invadens occupavit eosdem; et erexit Carleoli, quæ prius fuerat de diocesi Galwidia vel Glasgw in Scocia, ecclesiam cathedralem; idem Willelmus, in regem Scocia promotus, ad recuperacionem eorundem comitatuum, prout licere sibi videbatur, vehementer intendens, facto exercitu, ingressus est Angliam, et ibidem quocumque ingenio captus, per Anglicos ductus est in Normanniam regi Angliæ sic captivus. Si sic jam existens in carcere, pro sua liberacione, super statu regni Scocia aliqua innovavit insolita, et ipsa adimpleverit liberatus, ut rex scribit, quæ tamen nec vera creduntur nec probantur: promissa tamen talia per ipsum Willelmum regem, in prejudicium regni sui Scocie, factione sua alia, si qua tunc fecisse noscitur, sublata tamen postea per pacta posteri-exercitu captus fuisse perhibetur in Anglia per Anglicos quocunque ingenio, et ductus in Normanniam regi Anglie sic captiuus. Ubi sic existens in carcere, pro sua liberacione, ut rex asserit, super statu regni Scocie aliqua insolita innouauit, promittens ea adimplere, postmodum liberatus, datis pro securitate promissorum ipsi regi Anglie forcioribus regni Scocie quatuor castris: Et si propter hoc adimpleuerit premissa, in prejudicium regni sui, facta sua hujusmodi regno uel libertati ejusdem non debent prejudicium generare; tum quia idem rex Willelmus, sic incarceratedus, nec liber uel sui juris compos extitit, tum quia postea recessum fuit a statu illo pactis et compositionibus sic initis, et ad libertatem regni Scocie primevam et debitam habitus est recursus, munita legitima prescripcione subsecuta, pactaque nouissima super regni statu Scocie subsecuta postea compositions et promissiones singulas, quas rex Anglie adducit, contra libertatem regni Scocie, per eundem regem Willelum, uel alium, si que aliquando precesserunt, invalidas, cassas, et irritas, effecerunt. Eo quod Ricardus, rex Anglie filius Henrici memorati, ora subsecuta, pactis contraria prioribus, regno Scociae, vel libertati ejusdem habita præjudicium generare non debebunt; tum quia idem rex Willelmus, sic incarceratedus, non fuit tunc liber ullatenus, vel sui juris; tum quia prius recessum fuit a statu illo, pactus et compositionibus sic initis, et ad libertatem regni Scociae primævam et debitam habitus est recursus, munita legitima præscripcione subsecuta, pactaque novissima super regni statu Scociae subsecuta postea compositions et promissiones singulas, quas rex Anglie adducit, contra libertatem regni Scociae, per regem eudem Willelum, vel alium, si que aliquando precesserunt, invalidas, cassas, et irritas, fecerunt. Quod probatur evidenter ex eo, quod constat, Ricardum, regem Angliae, filium Henrici regis memorati, revertentem ad bonum conscientiae, recognovisse patrem suum Henricum predictum injuste egisse contra regem Willelum Scociae, et regnum suum, qui, recepta ab ipso magna summa pecunie, tam eastram, que pater suus tenebat in Scocia pro securitate prædicta, eidem regi Willelmo restituit notorie, obligacionesque et promissiones quascumque extortas, prædictæ capcionis de causa, recognoscens bonam fidem, et patrem suum in predictis injuste egisse contra regem et regnum Scocie memoratum, recepta ab eodem (rege Scocie) Willelmo magna summa pecunie, et castra, que habuerat in Scocia pro securitate predicta, eidem regi Scocie Willelmo restituit, obligacionesque et promissiones omnes exortas, siue extortas, predicta de causa, in regni ipsius Scocie prejudicium, eidem (regi) Willelmo remisit, ipsumque et regnum suum Scocie liberauit ipsis totaliter, quatenus de facto siue de jure tenuerat, per instrumenta publica confecta de omnibus et singulis supradictis. Et inde est, quod non extat memoria, quod vassali, uel subditi regis Scocie ulli regi Anglie homagia fecerunt, ut pro se rex ipse allegasse videtur, semperque fuit locus tutus refugii de uno regno in aliud, propter commissa delicta, fugientibus reis et criminosis, ut est notorium, in regnorum partibus preditorum.

et omnia jura, quae ei competenter in regno Scociae, ipsi regi Willelmo remisit penitus, et ab eis liberavit eundem, quatenus de facto tenuerant, vel de jure, per confecta inde publica et notaria documenta.

Inde est, quod, Gregorii Papæ IX. et Honorii tercii introducta pro rege Angliae apostolica rescripta, quae per suggestionem regis Angliae accepta noscuntur, regni Scotiae libertati non obviant, tamquam abrogata per pacta novissima, et liberaciones postea subsecutæ, juxta quæ rescripta, secundum statum illius temporis, vel pro terris sitis in Anglia rex Scotiae tantum regis Angliae nominatur homo legius, ut alligat. Aliquidque eciam ejusdem Papæ Gregorii rescriptum, innuens fidelitatem per comites, barones regni Scotiae factum aliquando fuisse regi Angliae, regni Scociae libertati simili modo non obviat, pro eo, quod narrationem ejusdem regis Angliae secundum illa tempora tantum continet condicionalem conclusionem et responsionem summa pontificis ad suggesta, quibus nulli fit prajudicium, sed narratis in ipso rescripto derogatum esse probatur, patente postea in eo, quod, compositiones easdem taliter roboratas per Gregorium, non extat memoria, quod nulli vassalli regni Scociae regi alicui alii subjectionem, homagia, fidelitateme fecerunt, ut in eodem Gregorii rescripto asseritur, nisi pro terris sitis in Anglia, quas ibidem de rege Angliae tenere Scotti proceres consueverunt. Notoriumque Rescriptaque Gregorii IX. et Honorii tertii, que, juxta suggestionem regis Anglie, inde facta, rex Scocie nominatur homo liegius regis Anglie memorati. Uel debet hoc referri et intelligi pro terris suis in Anglia, quas de eodem tenebat rex Scocie, et non pro regno Scocie libero, quo ad eum, ut juxta jus commune fuit hujus dubii interpretatio, libertative regie aut juri ecclesie exinde nullatenus derogari videatur. Referrive eciam possent rescripta eadem ad illa regis Willelmi tempora et conuenciones innalidas irritas per eundem, occasione sue incarceracionis, que postea noscitur fuisse totaliter denegata, et non ad tempora in quo ad libertatem pristinam habitus est regressus ab ipso regno Scocie, diutissime semper postmodum obseruatus, prout hec libertatemque regni ejusdem Scocie subsequencia facta comprobant manifeste, et regum gesta Anglie pariter, et Apostolica diuersa rescripta et priuilegia regno concessa Scocie memorato.

Rex etenim Scocie Alexander, predicti Willelmi regis filius, per xxxvi annos rex regnauit in Scocia, nulla umquam regum Anglie, ut rex pro regno Scocie, homagium est eciam, et nulli dubium, quod, evacuatis eisdem compositionibus omnibus, a tempore illo, a qua non extat memoria, criminosis quibuscumque fugientibus de regno Anglie in Scociam, et e converso, locus fuit tutissimus observativus refugii per omnia, et pari juri hic ut ibi, et hoc contra formam et tenorem compositionum et rescriptorum eorundem, que co tempore servierunt modernis usibus, et juribus in suo statu suis omnino temporibus duraturis, et sic evacuatis compositionibus sie initis regis Willelmi tempore, si quæ essent per actum vel per usum eis omnino contrarium subsecutum, et observatum postea tempore longissimo, priorumque vetustatis carum erroribus non probatis, constabit luce clarus, tam jure communi præscriptioneque legitima, quam privilegiis et rescriptis Apostolicis novissimis usque longissime libertatis habitæ, gestisque pariter et actibus regum ipsorum Anglie ultimo regnancium, eandem regni Scociae annuentibus et approbantibus libertatem, regnum ipsum et regem Scociae esse omnino liberum, quo ad regem Anglie et regnum suum, prout evidencie infra scriptæ modernæ indicant, quibus sedes irrefragabilis adesse dinoscitur veritatis.

fecit, nec de ullo homagio facto per ipsum regem Alexandrum, ut per alios reges Scocie, rex ipse Anglie fecit in suis domino summo Pontifici memoratis missis litteris mencionem, Alexanderque etiam tercius, dicti Alexandri regis filius, et ultimus rex Scocie, jam defunctus, similiter per xxxvi. annos regnauit post patrem, faciendoque huic Eadwardo regi Anglie pro terris suis de Penrith et de Tindale sitis in Anglia, volens caute agere, et sibi in suo jure et libertate precauere in posterum, publice protestatus est, quod non pro regno Scocie, sed pro terris suis sitis in Anglia, sibi dictum homagium faciebat. Rexque iste Anglie hujusmodi homagium sic admisit.

Per quod presumitur et datur intelligi, talia fuisse et similia prius facta homagia regi Anglie per reges Scocie, de quibus fuit mencio in ipsius regis epistola, si qua fecerunt, quale fuit istud ultimum tam publice expositum et declaratum homagium coram multis, eo quod talia subjecta, qualia predicata permittunt. Et hoc idem declarant manifeste gesta nouissima regum Anglic modernorum eciam subsecuta per regem Willelmum eundem, Henrici, scilicet, Nam Alexander, rex Scocie, ipsius regis Willelmi filius, per triginti sex annos rex regnavit in Scocia, nulli regi Anglie pro regno Scociae fecit homagium, nec de aliquo per ipsum facto homagio tamquam per regem fecit rex Anglie nullam omnino mencionem, sicut de aliis regibus Scociae praedecessoribus suis, de quibus memoria non existit, Alexanderque eciam iii. dicti Alexandri regis filius, et nunc ultimus rex Scocie, qui xxxv. eciam annis in omnimoda regnauit libertate post patrem, faciendo homagium huic Edwardo regi Anglie pro terris tantum de Penrith et Tyndale sitis in Anglia, volens caucius agere, et sibi in jure suo et libertate habita præcavere in futurum, qualibet super hoc ambiguitate submota, publice protestatus est, quod non pro regno Scocie, sed pro terris praedictis sitis in Anglia, homagium faciebat. Rexque iste Anglie Edwardus oblatum hujusmodi homagium sic admisit.

Propter quod præsumitur et datur intelligi, talia fuisse et similia priora facta homagia regibus Anglie per reges certos Scociae, de quibus fit mencio in ipsius regis epistola, si qua fecerunt, quale fuit istud ultimum factum pro terris sitis in quondam regis Anglie, et Edwardi nunc regnantis, diuersaque rescripta Apostolica et priuilegia manifeste comprobant illud idem. Primo quidem Henricus ultimus rex Anglie, cum ab Alexandro rege Scocie, suo genero, contra Symonem de Monteforti et suos complices sibi petuiisset impendisse auxilium, per suas super hoc dictas literas recognouit, se hujusmodi auxilium non suscipere ex debito, sed ex gratia speciali. Ejusdemque patris sui Henrici hic Edwardus, rex Anglie vestigia imitando, dum ejusdem Alexandri, regis Scocie, sui sororii, in sue coronacionis solemnniis habere presenciam affectaret, eidem regi Alexandro alias accedere recusanti causisse noscitur suis literis, quod non ex debito, sed tantummodo ex gratia, hoc fiebat.

Vacanteque deinde regno eodem per mortem Alexandri regis predicti, non ad regem ipsum Anglie, uelut ad ipsius directum Dominum regni, peruenit custodia regni memorati, ut de feodis fieri consueuit, sed ad ipsius regimen per regni ejusdem proceres certi electi custodes (liberi) extite-

Anglia, tam publice expositum coram multis, et approbatum ab ipso rege, eo quod talia sunt subjecta, qualia praedicata permittunt. Et hunc statum libertatis regni ipsius Scociae manifeste declarant et innuant gesta novissima, et actus varii, diuersaque eciam rescripta Apostolica et privilegia manifeste comprobant illud idem. Primo quidem Henricus ultimus rex Angliæ, cum ab Alexandro, rege Scocie, suo genero, contra Simonem de Monte forti et suos complices sibi peciisset impendi auxilium per suas patentes super hoc datas litteras, regi Scociae ad cautelam recognovit, ad libertatis ipsius manifestum judicium, se hujusmodi auxilium non suscipere ex debito, sed ex gratia speciali. Ejusdemque patris suis Henrici filius hic rex Edwardus, progenitoris sui imitando vestigia, et approbando priora facta sua, dum ejusdem Alexandri, regis Scociae, sui sororii in sue coronacionis solemnniis habere præsenciam affectaret, eidem regi Alejandro, alias illuc accidere recusanti, causisse noscitur suis eciam litteris patentibus, quod non ex debito, sed tantummodo ex gratia hoc fiebat.

Vacantisque deinde regni ejusdem Scociae, post mortem Alexandri regis predicti, non ad ipsum regem Angliæ, velut ad

runt ; qui, rege ipso Anglie sciente, et tollerante nullumque jus sibi competere tunc in dicto regno, nondum, postea, lacerato in partes, (penitus) vendicante, nulloque eciam per ipsum impedimento prestito, regni regimini prefuerunt per sex annos et ultra, quousque in dicto regno suboriri cepit dissencionis materia inter partes super jure pociori succedendi in regnum ipsum, herede ipsius Margareta puella, dicti Alexandri regis filia, jam defuncta. Per cuius mortem audita sit suscitata discordia inter Scotos, idem rex Anglie, fingens se velle tractare, que pacis essent, veraciter inter ipsas partes, sub ouile vellere se ingerens non vocatus, quicquid scribat rex ipse fallaciter ex aduerso lupus utique interius, electa sibi callide ejusdem regni Scocie procerum una parte, et sic, reliqua sibi resistere non valente, de facto sibi regni ejusdem usurpauit custodiam per oppressionem tam notoriā, vim et metum, qui cadere possent in constantes. Et licet Romana ecclesia tunc pro parte dicti regni fuisse nominata Domina regni ejusdem coram ipso, ipse tamen allegacionem hujusmodi non admisit ; ymmo dixisse dicitur coram multis, ut a uerbis suis nullatenus recedatur ; “ Quod “ si presbyter (ille) Romanus vellet pro libertate Scocie, quo rectum Dominum, regni pervenit custodia Scociae memorati, ut de feudis fieri consuevit, sed ad ipsius regis per regni ejusdem proceres certi electi custodes extiterunt, quod, rege ipso Angliae sciente, tolerante et approbante eorundem custodum reginuen, nullumque jus sibi competere in dicto regno, utpote nondum, ut postea, lacerato in partes, vendicante, nulloque eciam per ipsum super impedimento praestitum, regni ipsius regimini prefuerunt per sex annos et ultra, quousque in dicto regno Scociae suboriri cœpit dissencionis materia inter partes super jure pociori succedendi in regnum ipsum, herede ipsius Margareta puella jam defuncta. Per eniūs mortem suscitata discordia inter Scotos, idem rex Angliae, primo fingens exterius se ea velle tractare, quæ pacis esset, in Scocia inter partes, et sic sub agnino vellere se ingerens regni ipsius tractatibus, et non vocatus, quicquid scribat, in lupinam interius communutatus effigiem, electa sibi callide ejusdem regni Scociae procerum una parte, et sic reliqua sibi parte resistere non valente, de facto regni ejusdem sibi usurpavit custodiam per “ ad eum, dicere aliqua, oportebat eum venire Londonias, et “ illa ibi proponere coram ipso.” Non autem idem rex, in aduentu primo suo ad regnum ipsum Scocie, procerum ejusdem regni extra ipsius Scocie limites coram se habere potuit presenciam, antequam scripto ipse caueret, eisdem proceribus, eciam sic diuisis, quod in regni ejusdem non redundaret prejudicium, quodque non debito, sed ex gratia, hoc petebat.

Per suosque solempnes nuncios episcopos, comites et barones, ad hoc specialiter deputatos, promisit solemniter rex prefatus Anglie, dudum autem et regno vacante, quod, si de matrimonio prelocuto contrahendo inter filium suum Eadwardum, et Margaretam, dicti regni Scocie Dominam, et heredem, tunc superstitem, contingenter liberos non extare, regnum ipsum Scocie remanaret liberum regni ipsius proceribus, sine omni ullave subjectione, ut de hoc potest confessim fieri satis fides; quod verisimile non est, regem ipsum Anglie voluisse promittere ullo modo, si tunc jus sibi competere in regno eodem Scocie estimasset. Multa oppressionem tum notoriam, vim et metum, qui cadere possent in constantes. Et licet Romana ecclesia tunc pro parte ipsius regni Scociae fuisset nominata Domina regni ejusdem coram ipso, sicut erat, ipse tamen rex allegacionem hujusmodi non admisit, ymmo dixisse tunc noscitur coram multis, ut a verbis suis non recedatur, et si presbiter Romanus vellet pro libertate Scociae, quo ad eum, aliqua dicere, oportebat ipsum venire Londonias, et illa ibi proponere coram ipso. Nec autem eciam idem rex, in adventu suo proprio tunc ad regnum ipsum Scociae, proceres ejusdem regni extra ipsius regni limites coram se habere potuit petitam de gracia licenciam, quam patenti prius scripto ipse caveret ad cautelam libertatis obtentae eisdem proceribus, eciam jam divisis in partes, quod hujusmodi accessus ad eum extra regnum in regni ejusdem non redundaret prejudicium, et quod non ex debito, sed ex gracia hoc fiebat.

Per suosque eciam nuncios solempnes episcopos, comites, et barones, ad hoc specialiter deputatos, promisit solemniter rex praefatus Angliae, dudum autem et regno Scociae vacante, quod, si de matrimonio praelocuto contrahendo inter filium suum Edwardum, et Margaretam, dicti regni Scocie Dominam, et heredem, tunc superstitem, contingenter liberos non extare, se regnum ipsum Scociae quidem alia, que scribi non poterunt brevi stilo, regni ejusdem Scocie manifeste comprobant libertatem, cui suffragari videntur antiqua, et moderna alia gesta multa Apostolicaque priuilegia et rescripta, ususque inconcussus et continuus observatus. Inter que Honorius tercius, predecessorum suorum imitando vestigia, regno Scocie inter alia noscitur indulsisse, quod, super terris vel possessionibus sitis in ipso regno, ad extrapositorum judicium Scotus ullus non extrahatur examen, auctoritate sedis Apostolice semper salua in appellationibus interpositis ad eadem; super quibus terris et possessionibus sitis in Scocie nullatenus appellaretur ad sedem Apostolicam, si regnum alii regi, quod absurdum esse videretur, et contra jus commune, non immediate ecclesie Romane subditum, eciam in temporalibus, nosceretur.

Et quod immediate subjectum sit Romane ecclesie regnum ipsum, recenti comprobatur exemplo. Nam cum causa comitatus de Menteth, sicut iu causa non spirituali uel ecclesie, sed potius criminali, a sentencia lata in curia eie restitutum libere regui ipsius proceribus, et sine omni ulla subjectione, ut de hoc potest fieri coufestim satis files, quod verisimile non est, regem ipsum promittere voluisse ullo modo, si tunc jus tibi competere iu regno eodem Scocie fuisse probabiliter opinatum. Multa quidem alia, que scribi non possunt brevi stilo, regni ejusdem Scocie manifeste comprobant libertatem, inmitentem juris communis fortissimo fundamento, quod coadunare convincentur antiqua, eciam moderna alia gesta multa, apostolicaque privilegia et rescripta, usque communis hiis temporibus ultimis observatis ineoneusse. Inter que Honorius tercius Papa, predecessorum suorum imitando vestigia, regno Scocie noscitur indulsisse, quod, super terris vel possessionibus sitis in ipso regno, ad extrapositorum judicium Scotus nullus extrahatur examine, sedis Apostolice auctoritate semper salva in appellationibus interpositis ad sedem ipsam; super quibus terris et possessionibus suis in Scociae nullatenus appellaretur ad sedem ipsam, si regnum ipsum alii regi, quod esse videretur absurdum, juriique communi contrarium, et non immediate Romane ecclesie subditum, eciam iu temporalibus nosceretur.

Et quod in temporalibus immediate sit subditum eidem Ro-regis Scocie, non est diu ad sedem extit appallatum, et appellacionis causa per ipsam sedem certis noscitur fuisse commissa judicibus terminanda. Cui facto rex Anglie contradicens, minime tollerando sedem ipsam agere et disponere adeo quod sibi prius competebat, et nunc sibi asserit, prejudicare cum nemine injuriatur, utens jure suo. Verisimileque non est sedem Apostolicam causam appellacionis commisisse eandem, si non ad ipsam, sed ad regem Anglie, directum spectaret regni Scocie dominium supradicti. Sed et mundus nouit, quod, quamdiu Scocia rege non caruit, et in ipsa materia dissencionis exorta non fuit, rex Anglie in regno Scocie nullum sibi jus penitus vendicauit, sed tantum ex eo tempore dictum regnum cepit sine causa legitima molestare, ex quo orta est dissencio inter Scotos. Et inde processit solummodo suus titulus ad regnum ipsum, inutilis, si quem habet. Preterea eciam eodem rege Anglie ab Innocencio Papa quarto, petente quod rex Scocie non posset se facere, ipso in scio, in regem coronari vel inungi, Innocencius idem Papa petitionem hujusmodi repulisse noscitur, presentibus procuratoribus parcium, in consilio Lugdunensi, satis per hoc determinans regnum Scocie manæ ecclesiæ regnum ipsum Scociae, non est diu ad sedem extitit Apostolicam appallatum, et appellacionis causa per ipsam sedem certis noscitur commissa fuisse judicibus terminanda. Cui facto rex Angliae tunc minime contradicens, tollerando sedem ipsam agere et disponere adeo quod sibi prius competebat, et nunc asserit sibi præjudicasse noscitur super ipso. Verisimile non est, sedem apostolicam sic causam appellacionis commisisse eandem, si ad regem ipsum Angliae, et non ad ipsam, directum spectasset Scocie regni dominium cognovisset. Sed et mundus novit, quod, quamdiu Scocia rege non caruit, et in ipsa materia dissencionis exorta non fuit, rex Angliae in regno Scociae nullum sibi jus penitus vendicavit, sed tantum ex eo tempore dictum regnum sine causa legitima molestare, ex quo orta est dissencio inter Scotos, i. inde processit solummodo suus titulus ad regnum ipsum, inutilis si quem habet. Petenteque eciam aliquando rege Angliae ab Innocencio Papa quarto, quod rex Scociae se non posset facere ipso nescio in regem coronari vel inungi, regi Anglie non subesse. Et ideo dictæ cause sic factæ decisio in reciduum non debet amodo venire questionem. Petenti insuper eidem regi Anglie regni Scocie, in subsidium Terre Sancte, ipsam decimam, idem Innocencius concedere denegauit, adjiciens, quod regi alii alieni regni decima concedi minime consuevit. Manifeste per hoc innuens, quo ad ipsum regem Anglie regnum eciam Scocie penitus esse alienum, et eidem nullatenus subjectum. Concedendoque idem Innocencius tunc regi Anglie decimam regni sui, terrarumque omnium sue jurisdictioni subjectarum, per hoc regni Scocie decimam non concessit eidem, sed omnino alteri, innuens manifeste idem regnum Scotorum regi Anglie non subesse, et pro ipso regno Scocie regem ejusdem non esse ullatenus, ut ipse asserat, liegius homo suus. Et priuilegio eciam sedis Apostolice Scotis indulto, et Domino nostro summo Pontifici satis notis, legatum sedis Apostolice Scotti admittere non tenentur per litteras Apostolicas, in quibus simul utriusque regni Anglie et Scocie alicui legacio sit commissa. Ex quo patet, distincta esse regna eadem, et eorum alterum ab altero nulla-

Innocencius idem Papa petitionem hujusmodi repulisse noscitur, præsentibus procuratoribus parcium, in consilio Lugdunensi. Satis per hoc determinatur, regnum Scociae regno Angliae non subesse, et ideo dictæ cause sic facta decisio in recidivam venire non debet amodo questionem. Petentique insuper eidem regi Angliae regni Scociae decimam, idem Innocencius concedere denegavit, adjiciens, regi alicui alieni regni decima concedi minime consuevit. Per quod non inutiliter, quo ad ipsum regem Angliae, regnum esse Scociae penitus alienum, et ei nullatenus subjectum. Concedendoque eciam idem Innocencius tunc regi Anglie decimam regni fui terrarum omnium sive jurisdictionum sibi subjectarum, per hoc regni Scociae decimam non concessit eidem, sed omnino alteri, indicans evidenter, ut juris est idem regnum Scociae regi Angliae predicto suave jurisdictioni non subesse, et quod rex Scociae pro ipso regno non ullatenus legius homo snus est. Ex privilegiis eciam sedis apostolice Scotis indulto, et Domino nostro summo pontifici satis noto, legatum sedis apostolice Scotti admittere non tenentur per litteras apostolicas, in quibus simul utrius-tenus dependere. De hiis autem omniibus et aliis regni Scocie defensionibus, libertatibus et juribus, existencia munimenta publica in thesauraria regni Scocie idem rex Anglie inde abstulit, et, quando regni ipsius habuit custodiam, vi et metu ipsa fecit, cum munimentis aliis omnibus quibus firmabantur jura regni Scocie, in Anglia asportari, una eciam cum sede regali antiquissima dicti regni subtrahens, per hoc omnio Scotis copiam omnem promptam probacionis juris sui et defensionis ejuslibet contra ipsum nihilominus, eciam ex hoc ostendens injustam causam se fovere in predictis, spemque omnem sua destituzione Scotis auferens, pro suo posse alium ab ipso vel suis regem ulterius (in Seocia) regnaturus. Eorundem tamen instrumentorum tenor, et facta per ipsum subtractio, creditur ad hoc legittimis testibus comprobari.

Ceterum per hujusmodi obtentum per ipsum regem Anglie, non vocatum a quoquam, quicquid scribat, nec recognitum in Scotorum dominum nisi metu tantum, ipsius regni vacantis tempore, postquam primum sum qualemque titulum, et extortum principatum ejusdem que regni Scocie et Angliae legacio altri sit commissa. Ex quo patet manifeste, distincta esse eademi regna, et eorum alterum ab altro nullatenus dependere. De autem omnibus, et aliis regni Scociae defensionibus, libertatibus, et juribus, existencia munimenta publica . . . regni Scociae idem rex Anglie inde abstulit, et quando regni ipsius habuit custodiam, vi et metu ipsa fecit cum munimentis aliis omnibus, quibus confirmabantur regni Scociae memorati et libertas ejusdem, in Anglia asportari, una cum sede eciam regni Scotorum antiquissima, subtrahens per vim haec et omnia alia que potuit Scotis copiam omnem promptam probacionis juris et defensionis habite contra ipsum, et ex hiis ostendens manifeste injustam causam se fovere in predictis contra ipsos, quibus omnimodam subesse fiduciam alium ab ipso vel suis regem ulterius in Scocia regnaturum. Eorundem tantum instrumentorum tenor, et sic facta per ipsum subtractio, creditur adhuc posse legittimis testibus comprobari.

Ceterum post hujus obtentum per ipsum regem Angliae, non vocatum a Scotis, quicquid scribat, nec recognitum in Scotorum regni notorie, per sedicionem solam parcium intestinam, qualiter Scotis in pristinam prouocantibus libertatem, ipse rex Anglie sine judice jus sibi dicens de re et de regno sibi penitus alieno, sueque potencie, juribus regum primus ut aduena inuaserit supradictum ac in ipsum, velut in messem alienam missit quam temere falcem suam.

Scribi insuper non potest breui stilo, qualiter, post captum regni ejusdem nobile oppidum Berwicum, ipse, et sui primi regni inuasores, seuierunt tirannice in ipsius oppidi incolas ad ecclesias fugientes a facie multitudinis et furore persequentis, passim necando sacerdotes eciam in ecclesiis, mulieres et paruulos, nulla data venia sexui uel etati, usque ad numerum octo milium personarum. De ipsius oppidi ecclesiis solemnibus, fedatis multiplici sanguine occisorum, et eisdem eciam spoliatis suis omnibus ornamenti, quam notorium est ipsum regem et suos fecisse fieri stabula equis suis. Sed et singula facta sua immania, commissa ibidem et alibi, tediousum esset scribere et horribile auscultare. Quibus irritamentis tam horrendis et attemptatis dolorum sequencium iniciis, per Dominis, nisi metu tantum, regnum ipsius vacantis tempore, postquam primum suum qualemque titulum, et introitum, regni ejusdem extortum principatum notorie per sedicionem solam parcium intestinam, qualitatemque Scotis eisdem in pristinam prouocantibus libertatem, rex ipse Anglie sine judicio jus sibi dicens de re et regno sibi penitus alieno per solam potenciam, suam vim et metum, in messem alienam mittens temere faleem.

Ac deinde qualiter ipsum praecessit negotium seribi non potest, alias responderi dictis suis brevi stilo, eo quod prolixius est nimium mundo tam notorius, tam injustus processus negoeii, in quo confudit, si justi judicis examine et statera justicie librarentur singula facta sua, in quibus si confidentum erediderit, justi judicis Romani pontificis nullatenus declinaret examen, ut declinat, ut ipsius saltem negocii veritas examinata sepius in luce magis pro ipso splendesceret, et partis adverse pernicies, quam allegat, in judicium revocata, sine penitencia gravius deprivaretur vel dampnaretur. Et quia de veritate causae non habet considerare eon est mirum ; frenaciones querit, et ad subterfugia confugit, querens per eulogia ipsum regem, causam et primum actorem malorum omnium commissorum, postea, si Scotti prouocati, justoque deuicti dolore hujusmodi, postea resumptis viribus processerunt ad vindictam qualemcunque contra Anglicos, immania tamen eis ascripta per epistolas easdem regias destinatas minime committendo, non est eis imputandum tantum quantum regi, uel quantum, si primo prouocantes fuissent ad scelera hujusmodi suscitanda, ut rex fecit. Sed quia de predictis et circumstanciis singulis omnium predictorum constare non poterit, nisi presentibus partibus et coram judice competenti, reuocatum est totum negocium ad examen dicte sedis, quod non poterit idem rex ullenatus juste declinare ruente judicio in inuitum, ubi nocentis conuinetur cujuscunque partis iniquitas, lucebit negotii ueritas, et fiet innocencia magis nota. Ad quod solum Scotti tendunt, queque parcium fiat unicuique, cognito negocio, quod est juris. Ideoque cum in dicta causa tam ardua dicte sedis non posset declinari examen per regem ipsum, multiplici pretacta sepius absens injustam reddere pro justa causam snam. Nam certo cercius est, quod rex ipse, actor omnium scelerum quae sunt postea subsecuta, primus seminavit, deinde de die in die inter regna primus convolavit ad arma, primus hostiles committens incursus, incendia, cædes et scelera in regno Scocia perpetrando, prout haec capcio et desolacio nobilis tunc opidi Berwici manifeste declarant. Post ejus capcionem opidi, et cædem ibi commissam octo milium personarum, fugientibusque eciam mulieribus, sacerdotibus, parvulis et clericis ad refugium ecclesiæ, nulla data fuit per ipsum vel per suos venia; quinymmo de ipsis ecclesiis solempnibus, spoliatis, suis omnibus ornamenti, et foedatis effusione multiplici sanguinis fugiencium et occisorum in eisdem, facta, more gentilium, per ipsum regem et suos stabula, proth! dolor, equis suis; propter quæ malorum talium inicio si ipsi Scotti quonodolibet se defendenter in faccione, dolore devicti, processerunt ad vindictam, nec læsæ majestatis possunt criminis per regem argui (crimini non suberant) sed nec de regno ipso sibi peccata fuisse probari poterit spontanea cessio, quæ de jure non præsumitur fieri invasori aliquo sibi regi Scociae, quod constat regno eodem spoliatum per regem ipsum Angliæ primitus jam fuisse. Et quia racione, regnumque ipsum Scocie de jure communi sit liberum quo ad regem Anglie supradictum, et legitima super hoc aliisque adminiculis euidentibus contra eum sufficientissime communatum. De cuius regni subjectione sibi debita, idoneam ipse fidem penitus nullam fecit. Et inter alia discucienda in ipso negocio possessio judicio, et de sacrilegii crimen agendum sit ecclesiastice contra ipsum; ipseque rex iudex competens non sit in causa sua, nec sibi licuerat sola potencia, vi et metu, se in regnum sic vacans et acephalum intradere alienum, fueritque contumax ad prefixum sibi terminum, ut doceret de jure suo in regno Scocie memorato; summoque insuper Pontifici non erubuerit notorie falsa scribere tanquam vera. Nec sit eciam iudex ullus superior alius, quam dicta sedes, ad quam, pro obtainenda justicia de dampnis datis et spoliacionibus commissis, possit haberi recursus, deperireque non debeat, aut per silenceium conculcari, jus quod in regno Scocie Romana ecclesia noscitur obtainere, ut non vilescat sedis ejusdem auctode hiis, et aliis causis mutatis et circumstanciis negotii non alias constare bene potuit, nisi assercionibus parcium et probacionibus narratorum, faciendo, ut fieri debent, coram judice competenti; non sine deliberatione debita revocatum fuit totum ipsum negotium tam arduum per summum pontificem et apostolicæ sedis examen debitum, ut ibidem de ipso fieret quod est juris; cuius sedis examen ruente iudicio et munitum idem non potest rex Angliae, sine causa magis manifesta, prout jam nititur aliqualiter declinare. Potissimum qui, post notificatam sibi revocationem ejusdem negotii, jam bis congregato exercitu irruit de novo in dictum regnum Scociae hostiliter, in ipsius sedis contemptum, juris injuriam, et scandalum plurimorum, per hoc notorie incidunt in poenam constitutionis illius, Si quis in tantam, et meminerunt cuncti, etc. Et ob hoc privandus esse noscitur omni jure, si quod in ipso primitus habuisset. Quare cum fit de jure communi Scotorum fundari intencio, et liberum sit ipsum regnum Scociae quo ad regem Angliae, et de jure quam de facto, gavisumque sit a tempore, de quo non extat memoria, hujus in libertatis possessione pacifica, potissimum cum toto tempore claræ memoriae Alexandri, regis Scotorum ultimi, et post ipsius eciam obitum, tempore ritas et potestatis plenitudo, qui ad suum examen juste idem negotium reuocauit; prefatam deceret Romanam ecclesiam, regnum suum Scocie perditioni expositum negligere non debere, quin ei juris remedia apponneret opportuna, cui aperire tenetur favorabilius, tantis precipue exposito periculis, materna viscera pietatis, et consequentium suorum conatus reprimere, prouisus subsidiis et congruis viis juris. Sed regis ejusdem potissime, qui Apostolicas exhortaciones in predictis, et salubria ipsius monita uidetur assumpsisse actenus in derisum, et nichil penitus facere propter ipsam, prouisum Scottis amodo, non obstantibus productis per ipsum regem multis friuolis, expedit facere remedium contra presumptiones ipsius innouatas: potissime, eo quod post reuocacionem factam ejusdem negotii ad curiam, et decretum Apostolicum subsecutum, Ne quid fieret in contrarium. Ipse vero rex, bis congregato exercitu, invasit de nouo hostiliter regnum ipsum Scocie, in contemptum dicte sedis manifestum: per hoc manifeste incidens in constitutionem, et in penis illius custodum regni ejusdem tunc vacantis per VI. annos, usque ad extortam turbacionis regni materiam, ex quibus continuatis temporibus prescripcio est completa; sieque notorium est eciam, regem ipsum Anglie, regni ejusdem Scociae vacacionis tempore, auctoritate propria in illud indebite irruisse, ac illud occupasse per solam potentiam, vim et metum, iufinitis datis dampnisi in ipso regno ecclesiæ ecclesiasticisque personis et secularibus ejusdem, nullo sibi omnino opitulante justo titulo ad ipsum regnum Scociae optinendum: Et propter ista non nisi ad Romanum ecclesiam potuit regni ejusdem incolis, laesis per dictum regem, opportunius recursus pro justicia obtainenda: Sieque propter hoc ad examen dictæ sedis idem negotium, sicut debuit, fuit revocatum, in cuius sedis contemptum, spretis mandatis apostolicis super hoe susceptis, idem rex Angliae hostilibus repetitis incurvis notorie inquietare præsumpsit ipsum regnum tam injuste: Supplicant Scotti Domino nostro summo pontifici, quatenus, ex ejusdem regis Angliae subiectis eulogiis, partim vetustate sublatis, et partim maculatis admixta uatoria turpitudine falcitatis notoriae, ut est dictum, informacionem illam nullam dignetur suspicere, nisi quam suscipere convenit ex partis advenisse scriptis suspectis et eversis vetus-constitucionis, Si quis in tantum. Propter quod priuari meretur totaliter omni jure, si quod in regno Scocie primitus habuisset, et puniri condigne alias pro contemptu. Sed ut de predictis omnibus propositis hinc inde et eciam propondendis fiat, vocatis partibus, de jure ipsorum debita discussio per sedem ipsam, pro parte Scotorum supplicatur humiliter et instanter Domino nostro summo Pontifici, quod, ut expedit, prouideatur ipsi regno et ecclesie Scotiane de congruo et utili remedio contra violencias notorias et oppressiones, quas ipse rex regno predicto inferre adhuc indebithe non desistit; quodque de jure parcium judicialiter cognoscatur per sedem ipsam, et fiat eidem Domino Regi et Scotis, auditis allegacionibus parcium presencium, et non per eulogia uel literas, super toto negocio justicia, actis interim bellicis interdictis.

D.

a MS. COLL. EDIN. SCOTICRONICON.

b MS. DONIBRISTLE, SCOTICRONICON.

PROCESSUS BALDREDI CONTRA FIGMENTA REGIS ANGLIE.

Memoriter retinet Sanctitas vestra, qualiter, cito post festum Penthecostes ultimo preteritum, ex parte prelatorum, comitum, et baronum, et tocis communitatis regni vestri Scocie, supplicauimus vestre Sanctitati, ut, contra duricias injuriosas et persecuciones seuissimas, quibus tatibus non probatis. Quodque sicut eadem sedes ad summ examen duxit juste idem revocare negocium, sic revocationi eidem inhærendo, prout deberet et incepit, negocium ipsum, causam et quæstionem inter partes apud sedem istam audire dignetur, et illud, eis praesentibus, ad subjectorum eciam perpetuam memoriam futurorum apostolica sentencia determinare, proviso paternis affectibus ipsi regno Scociae et ecclesie suae sic afflitis per regem ipsum, ac ruinis expositis, de oportuno remedio interim, quo ad secundum innovata per ipsum sui hostiles reprimantur incursis, pendente discuione ipsius negocii in curia, ut possint tute et libere ibidem Scotti prosequi causam suam.

rex Anglie, cum suis complicibus, regnum Scocie predictum et ipsius incolas, in graue prejudicium ecclesie Romane, cui idem regnum in temporalibus et spiritualibus dinoscitur subici sine medio, hostiliter dilaceravit, nec desinit lacerare, remedium opportunum dignemini adhibere. Et qualiter vos, paterno affectu regno et incolis ejusdem compacientes, in visceribus caritatis, de salubri remedio in premissis celeriter apponendo concepistis, super hoc, de vestro speciali precepto, cum idem negocium perfici debuisset, superuenerunt duo milites nuncii regis Anglie, qui, ex parte ejusdem, quamdam epistolam sigillo ipsius consignatam vobis presentarunt, in qua multa continebantur que, prima facie, pro jure regis Anglie ad regnum Scocie facere videbantur. Unde vos, pater sanctissime, nolentes aliquod ipsum negocium tangens apud nos latere, ad presenciam vestram fecistis nos vocari, exponentes nobis, qualiter litera hujusmodi fuit missa vobis. Cujus copiam placuit Sanctitati vestre nobis debere fieri, et, ex precepto vestro speciali, per vestrum notarium specialem nobis facta fuit, ut, prehabita deliberacione pleniori, possemus vestram Sanctitatem super jure Romane ecclesie et nostro plenius informare, et racionibus in dicta litera regis Anglie contentis respondere. Verum quia contenta in eadem litera consistunt in facto nedum recenti, sed antiquo et antiquissimo, consulimus maiores nostros, ut oportuit, super ipsis, de quorum consilio quedam notorie vera, non conficta, pro parte nostra premittentes, racionibus exhibitis ex aduerso respondebimus consequenter.

Pro parte regis et regni Scocie facit imprimis jus commune, quia nec consulatus consulatui, nec episcopatus episcopatu, nec regnum regno, aut rex regi, subjicitur de jure communi. Et, sicut notat Dominus Innocencius quartus, quasi contra jus naturale est et miraculosum, quod qui sui juris est, aliene subjiciatur potestati. Unde talia ab alio, quam a Principe Papa vel Imperatore, nequeunt impetrari. Tale aliquod indultum non ostendit ipse rex, unde et cetera.

Pro ipsis eciam facit decisio seu declaracio ejusdem Innocencii in duobus factis. Cum enim rex Scocie, super sua inunctione et coronacione ab hac sacra sede procurandis, cum suis magnatibus et proceribus tractatum haberet, rumor de hoc ad regem Anglie prelatus est, qui statim per nuncios suos et literas Domino Innocencio predicto supplicauit instanter, ut in hac parte votis regis Scocie non annueret absque consensu suo, quia hoc in prejudicium ipsius regis Anglie cederet, cum rex Scocie homo suus liegius esset, et sibi homagium faciebat. Hanc suam supplicationem Dominus Innocencius admittere recusauit, supponens regnum Scocie, quantum pro regno Scocie, fore liberum omnino a rege Anglie, licet forsitan, pro quibusdam terris quas reges Scocie optinent in Anglia, ipsi regi Anglie fidelitatem et homagium faciebant. Ad idem facit, quod ipse Dominus Innocencius regi Anglie decimam omnium prouentuum ecclesiasticorum regni Anglie, et omnium terrarum sibi subjectarum, ex causa concessisset, cito postea instanter eidem Domino Innocencio supplicauit, ut sibi decimam bonorum ecclesiasticorum regni Scocie concedere dignaretur. Rescripsit, Se hoc sibi concedere nolle nec debere, cum insolitum esset et inconueniens, sibi uel alii in regno alieno talia concedi; dicens autem simpliciter, Regnum Scocie esse alterius, et per consequens omnino videtur quod non sit illius, cum in regalibus similiter loquens, omne jus undecunque et qualitercumque complecti videatur. Item, si terra Scocie fuisset regi Anglie subjecta, nec ipse rex Anglie, post gratiam sibi factam de decima omnium terrarum sibi subjectarum, pro decima terre Scocie specialiter supplicasset, nec ipse Dominus Papa, qui sibi hujusmodi gratiam concesserat, ipsam in terra Scocie eidem denegasset.

Ad idem facit precedens ad fidem catholicam Scotorum conuersio, qui fidem ipsam suscepserant ante conuersionem Anglicane gentis per quadringenta annos, et triginta sex reges catholici, antequam conuerterentur Angli, in regno Scocie libere regnauerunt. Unde, supposito quod Scotti fuissent prius subjecti, per fidei suspcionem ab ipsorum Anglicorum, infidelitate permanencium, fuissent exempti. Et lieuisset ex tunc Scotis Anglicorum infidelium, bona quaecunque occupare, ex tunc etinim exortum est odium naturale inter Scotos et Anglicos, quia fideles infidelibus sunt exosi, et converso, quod et usque hodiernum diem tenaciter perseuerat.

Ex tunc etiam rex et incole regni Seocie ecclesiam Romanam, in qua fidem suscepserant, tam in temporalibus quam in spiritualibus, suam Dominiam ex directo dominio recognouerunt. Quorum deuocionem Imperator Constantinus, quo ad temporalia, plenius adimpleuit. Ipse namque Constantinus donauit ecclesie Romane omnes insulas occidentales, de quarum numero est regnum Seocie, id est, jus quod habebat in eisdem, scilicet, directum dominium. Et si directum dominium regni Scocie est ecclesie Romane, ergo non est regis Anglie, cum idem genus dominii, sicut nec possessionis, possit simul et semel esse duorum. Hoc autem dominium apud ecclesiam Romanam non fuit vaenum aut ociosum, cum frequenter usa sit inter Scotos ipsius dominii debita potestate. Patens exemplum ad presens in duobus adueimus. Cum enim super comitatum de Menteth regni Seocie, quedam nobilis Domina, ipsum comitatum de jure tunc optinens hereditario, traheretur in causam in curia regis Seocie, ibidem contrariam sententiam reportauit. A qua, tamquam ab iniqua, ad hanc sacram sedem, nelut ad suam Dominam superiorem, appellauit: ubi optimis literas Apostolicas in causa appellationis ejusdem; uirtute quarum judices dati de meritis dicte cause, multo tempore, sciente rege Anglie et non contradicente, publice cognouerunt.

Item Domini Celestinus primus, Honorius tercarius et Innocencius quartus, incolis regni Seocie priuilegium indulserunt, quod eciam super possessionibus temporalibus, ad examen vel judicium extrapositionum nullatenus per literas Apostolicas traherenter, nisi ad sedem ipsam Apostolicam contingeret appellari. Constat autem quod super temporalibus se sunnii pontifices non intromitterunt, ut hujusmodi priuilegia indulgendo nec appellationes in talibus, ut ipsas delegarent, nulli eas ducerent committendas, sibi specialiter per quandam prerogativam specialem in illo regno resurrearent, nisi ecclesie Romane dominium directum sentirent et scirent competere in temporalibus et in eodem regno.

Predicta comprobantur euidenter per publicam confessionem partis aduerse. Nam cum, defuncto bone memorie domino rege Scocie Alexandro tercio, nobilis puella Margarita, filia quondam regis Norwegie, neptis Alexandri predicti, ipsi regi Alexandre jure hereditario successisset, rex Anglie, qui nunc regnat, predictum regnum Scocie pro se uel pro suis anhelans habere, filium suum primogenitum et heredem eidem domicille matrimonialiter concepit copulare. Quod cum non posset expedire absque licencia sedis Apostolice, specialiter quia se in secundo et tercio gradu consanguinitatis contingebant, dispensacionem hujus sacre sedis optimuit in hac parte. Ita tamen, dummodo hoc magnatibus, et aliis incolis regni Scocie complaceret. Verum quia hoc ipsum magnatibus et incolis penitus non placebat, nisi regno, et ipsis super libertate regni et ipsorum, plenius caueretur; tandem in personis Dunelmensis et Karleolensis episcoporum, Lincolniensis et Waranie comitum, Magistri Henrici de Newerk, tunc decani Eboracensis, et Domini Willelmi de Vessy militis, ad hoc specialiter a Domino rege Anglie deputatorum, et ad hoc speciale mandatum habencium, confessus est, Quod regnum Scocie est regnum omnino separatum a regno Anglie, et penitus liberum ab omnimoda subjectione et dominio regni et regis Anglie. Que quidem confessio redacta fuit in instrumentum authenticum, predicatorum prelatorum et nobilium sigillis consignatum, et ex abundanti, hoc similiter habemus in publico instrumento, quod et cum aliis instrumentis Apostolicis, de quibus superius fit mencio statim, ad Sanctitatis vestre preceptum, poterimus exhibere.

Pro nobis eciam facit legitima prescripicio, quia, licet predicto regi jus aliquod hujusmodi in regno Scocie ex aliquo titulo speciali competit, aliquo tempore contra jus commune, spacio longissimi temporis, cuius non exstat memoria, contra ipsum regem et regnum Anglie, ut res ad suam naturam redeat, prescripsimus libertatem. Nulla siquidem extant indicia prestite subjectionis a nobis ad illos, sed pocius recens extat memoria quampluribus fide dignis subjectionis ipsis Anglicis denegate. Nam cum ultimus Henricus rex Anglie ab Alexandro rege Seocie, suo genero, contra Symonem de Monteforti et suos complices, sibi supplicasset auxilium impendi, per suas literas super hoc datas, recognouit, se hujusmodi auxilium non accipere ex debito, sed ex gratia speciali.

Item, cum iste rex Eadwardus suam coronacionem intenderet solemniter celebrare, supplicauit instanter Alexandro regi Seocie predicto, ut sue coronacioni curaret interesse. Qui nequaquam hoc facere voluit, donec per literas patentes dicti regis Anglie, sibi pro se et regno suo Seocie caueretur, quod ex amicicia, quia sororius suus erat et vicinus, non autem ex debito aliquo illud faciebat. Item cum peteretur homagium, ex mandato ejusdem regis Anglie, a dicto rege nostro, ipse pro regno Seocie simpli citer hoc facere recusauit, cum liber esset quo ad regnum et regem Anglie ipse et regnum suum. Et tandem cum hac protestacione, Quod hoc pro regno suo nullatenus faciebat, sed pro terris quibusdam quas habuit in Anglia, prestitit homagium antedictum. Non autem ipse rex Eadwardus, in aduentu primo suo ad regnum ipsum Seocie, procerum ejusdem regni extra ipsius Seocie limites habere potuit petitam presenciam, quam prius scripto ipse caueret eisdem proceribus, quod in regni ejusdem hoc non redundaret prejudicium, et quod non ex debito, sed ex gratia, hoc fiebat.

Non enim ejusdem regni, vacantis per mortem Alexandri regis predicti, ad regem ipsum Anglie, veluti ad ipsius rectum Dominum, peruenit custodia, ut de feudis fieri consueuit, sed ad ipsius regimen, per regni ejusdem proceres, certi electi libere quatuor aut sex custodes extiterunt. Qui, rege ipso Anglie sciente et tolerante, nullumque sibi jus competere tunc in dicto regno vendicante, nulloque per ipsum impedimento prestito, regni regimini prefuerunt per sex annos et ultra, quo usque in dicto regno suboriri cepit dissencionis materia inter partes, super jure petitorio pociori succedendi in ipsum regnum, Margarita, filia regis Norwegie, ipsius regni herede, jam defuncta.

Post eujus mortem, audit a sic suscitata discordia inter Scotos, idem rex Anglie, fingens se ea velle tractare que pacis essent inter Scotos, sub agnino vellere, se ingerens, non vocatus, quicquid scribat, allecta sibi callide ejusdem regni procerum Scocie una parte, parti jus in regno Scocie non habenti tunc temporis adherencium, et sic reliqua sibi resistere non valente, de facto regni ejusdem sibi usurpauit custodiam primo, et postea superius dominium, per oppressionem tam notoriā, per vim et metum, qui cadere poterant in constantes. Et licet Romana ecclesia tunc pro parte dicti regni fuisse nominata domina regni ejusdem coram ipso, ipse tamen rex Anglie allegacionem hujusmodi non admisit; ymmo se dixisse dieitur coram multis, ut a verbis suis non recedatur. “Quod si ille presbyter “Romanus vellet pro libertate Scocie, quoad eum, dicere ali-“qua, oportebat ipsum venire Londonias, et illa ibi propo-“nere coram ipso.” Mundus autem nouit, quod quamdiu Scocia rege non caruit, et in ipsa non fuit exorta dissensio intestina, rex Anglie in regno Scocie nullum sibi jus penitus vendicauit, sed tamen ex eo tempore cepit dictum regnum, sine causa, molestare, ex quo orta est dissensio inter Scotos, et inde processit solummodo suus titulus, inutilis ad ipsum regnum, si quem habet.

Item, Gregorius primus, Dungalli filius, rex Scotorum, totam sibi Angliam subjugauit, nec de subjectione quacunque Scotorum Saxonibus, Normannis uel Anglicis, que negatur, omnino sit fides ullatenus, nisi per assencionem solam regiam et domestica scripta sua, de quibus non est idonea probacio pro seipso. Predictis accedit et illud notorum, quod si aliquociens hec sacra sedes regno Anglie, uel eciam Anglie et Scocie scribat conjunctim, hujusmodi mandatum regnum vel incolas Scocie in aliquo non astringit, sed pocius expectatur mandatum separatum, ut omnimodo ipsorum regnorum separacio, et quod nichil commune habeant, denotetur. Pro nobis facit equitas et uigor iusticie, ut, cum auctoritate sua regnum nostrum hostiliter inuaserit et occupauerit, temeritate sua jus, si quod habuit, in dicto regno Scocie, perdere debet auctoritate juris, et alias puniri debite pro contemptu. Pro nobis est, quod cum citatus legitime ad jus suum, si quod haberet, in regno Scocie per ipsum defamato, infra certum terminum, sibi prefixum, ostendendum, coram vobis non curauit comparere, non est ulterius super hoc audiendum.

Ad exhibita pro parte regis Anglie sic respondemus; primo in genere, deinde ad particularia descendendo. Multa refert, sed pauca probat. Transmisit vobis epistolam quandam, in qua, prima facie, pro ipso facere videntur quasi seriose conscripta. Cui quidem epistole nulla fides est adhibenda, quia nec ratione forme cum tam publica forma careat, quam authentica, nec in ratione uel auctoritate scribentis; ymmo, pocie sex persona scribentis fidei ipsius litere et in ipsa contentorum, debeat derogari quadruplici ratione; tum quia noster capitalis inimicus est, contra quos scribit; tum quia deponit in sua propria causa; tum quia vocatus super hoc (eodem) negocio, neenon ad examen vestrum, contempnit, ut premissum est, comparere; et, quod contumacius est, expresse dicit in principio predicte litere, quod coram vobis non intendit litigare, nec in figura judicij procedere, sed, ad vestram conscientiam super jure suo serenandam extrajudicialiter vobis hanc transmisit, per quod suspectus est et malam causam presumitur fouere; quarto, quia multa notoria falsa, ut patebit ex dicendis, immiscet dictis suis, per quod totum dictum suum decolorat.

In sue narrationis serie utitur triplici tempore, antiquissimo, scilicet, antiquo, atque nouo. Antiquissimum vocamus tempus, ante incarnationem Christi; antiquum, post incarnationem ipsius usque ad tempus in quo ipse rex Anglie, qui nunc regnat in Anglia, regnum Scocie natus est indebite usurpare; nouum tempus vocamus quod fluxit postea.

Refert siquidem, quod illo tempore antiquissimo fuit quidam Brutus nomine, qui in omnibus insulis occidentibus regnauit, que quidem integra regio ab ipso Bruto Britannia vocabatur. Qui, cum haberet tres filios, scilicet, Locrinum, Albanactum et Cambrum, ipsam regionem suam diuisit inter eos. Loëgriam, que nunc vocatur Anglia, dedit Locrinum; Albaniam, que nunc vocatur Scocia, Alba-naacto; et Cambriam, que nunc vocatur Wallia, Cambro assignando: ita tamen quod alii duo cum suis principatis Locrinum subessent. Quodque postea, Albanacto a quibusdam suis inimicis imperfecto, regnum Albanie, siue Seocie, ad Locrinum, tanquam Dominum superiorem, rediit et ipse de dicto regno sic sibi obueniente, disposuit pro sue libito voluntatis. Sed ista non procedunt. Nam dieit Brutum illam monarchiam integrum habuisse, et quod diuiserit inter filios suos, non diffitemur ad presens; sed quod sie diuiserit, quod alii subjicerentur sibi, plane negamus tripli ratione; tum quia divisio dicit partes, ergo equales, cum non appareat de contrario, quiequid ipse scribat. Hinc est quod appellacione partis, ubi non sunt plures partes, dimidia continetur; tum quia omnia non liquida, si possint, ad jus commune debent redigi, per quod rex regi, seu regnum regno, non subest, ut superius est notatum; tum quia divisiones hujusmodi patrue solent fieri, ut occasio inuidie inter liberos, post mortem patris, euitetur. Et certe aliter intellecta, seu facta, diuisio non tolleret hanc occasionem, sed pocius induceret inter eos. Major namque inuidia est inter fratres in talibus preeminentiis seu prerogatiis, quam inter alios, ut jura attestantur. Unde, et cetera. Quod autem dicitur, Albanacto mortuo, regnum Albanie ad Locrinum, tanquam directum Dominum, rediisse, nullo modo potest nisi veritate, quod, eciam supposito quod Albanactus regnum suum a Locrinum in feudum tenuisset, quod negamus, jure successionis, nisi omnes alii gradus et stirpes deficerent, quod non fuit hic, cum saltem alium fratrem haberet, scilicet, Cambrum, ad ipsum Locrinum non posset obuenire. Sie se habet consuetudo que optimuit et optinet in illis partibus, à tempore cuius memoria in contrarium non existit. Preterea tunc temporis omnes incole regni Anglie fuerunt Britones, qui dejecti erant postmodum per Saxones, Saxones per Dacos, et iterum Daci per Saxones, et ipsi Saxones per Normannos, scilicet, per Willelmum Bastard et suos complices, a quibus, non a Britonibus, iste rex dinoscitur descendisse. Teneat igitur, quod iste Willelmus conquisiuit regnum Anglie, in quo regnum Scocie, uel aliqua pars ipsius, non reperitur contineri. Nichil autem ex persona Locrini, seu Britonum aliorum, potest in regno Scocie, uel etiam Anglie, vendicare. Similiter in Scocia, cum vocaretur Albania, omnes fuerunt Britones, sed ipsos dejeerunt Picti, et postea Pictos Scotti.

Filia namque Pharaonis regis Egipti, cum armata manu et maxima classe nauium, applicuit in Hibernia. Postea, assumptis quibusdam Hibernieis, in Seociam nauigauit, deferens secum sedile regium, quod iste rex Anglie, inter cetera regni Scocie insignia, secum per violenciam de regno Scocie in Angliam asportauit. Ipsa deuicit et dejecit Pictos, et regnum ipsum optinuit : Ac ab ipsa Scota, Scotti et Scocia nuncupantur. Unde versus ;

A MULIERE SCOTA VOCITATUR SCOCIA TOTA.

Qui Scotti nomen et locum usque in hodiernum diem noscuntur optinere. Nil ergo ad regem Anglie de Scottis uel de Scocia. Nec plus juris Anglici, quam Egiptii, in regno Scocie possent vendicare.

Quod dicit de Belino et Brenio non procedit. Verum est quod fuerunt duo fratres, ut Britonum tradit historia. Belinus regnauit in Anglia, Brenius in Seocia, sed eque libere, cui consonat jus commune. Et cum ille Belinus Brenium fratrem suum niteretur sibi subjugare, Brenius congregauit exercitum non modicum, paratus secun dimicare. Et cum essent in campo parati ad congressum, mater ipsorum flens et ejulans, stans in medio, ostendebat eis ubera que lactauerunt; et sic, pietate et precibus matris moti, concordiam inierunt. Ita quod libere quilibet in statu suo remaneret.

Dicit insuper, quod quidam rex Anglie prefecit in regno Scocie Duncanum et Eadgarum, quod non est verum. Ymmo, cum ipsi expulsi essent de regno, per potentiam eujusdam Douenaldi Ban, cum auxilio regis Norgwegie, et cum aliquo adminiculo regis Anglie, recuperarunt statum, non quod rex Anglie, pretextu dominii quod haberet in regno Scocie quia nec habebat quod hoc faceret, sed affectione familiari, cum esset eorum sororius, quia sororem ipsorum, videlicet, Matildem reginam Anglie, duxerat in uxorem, subsidium illud faciebat. Sic et e contrario uisum est quod ex simili ratione reges Scocie regibus Auglie mutuum auxilium ex gratia, in suis aduersitatibus, impenderunt.

Quod dicit de Arthuro, non procedit. Arthurus de adulterio fuit genitus, nec cuiquam successit: sed quicquid optimis in variis locis, per potentiam et violenciam acquisiuit, per quam nedum Scociam, sed eciam Angliam, Walliam, Hiberniam, Galliam, Norgwegiam et Daciam occupauit. Quo per Mordredum, filium Loth, regis Scocie, et heredem Britannie imperfecto, Scocia, sicut alia regna sibi subjugata, ad statum pristinum redierunt, et ad propriam libertatem. Item Arthurus Brito fuit, et iste rex Auglie Britonibus non successit, sed Normannis. Preterea dominia rerum et regnorum de jure gentium sunt distincta, et de populo in populum, et de gente in gentem, ex variis titulis et rationibus frequenter transferuntur. Tempore Arthuri regnum Francie non regnum, sed ut jura videntur sonare, fuit antiquitus quidam presidatus. Per quod patet, quod, in hiis que antiquitus optimis in variis locis, per quam nedum Scocia, regibus Anglie fidelitatem et homagium prestiterunt. Fatemur quod pro terris, quas in regno Anglie de rege Anglie tenuerunt; numquam reges Sco-

Ad hoc (quod) dicit, quod Malcomus rex Scocie, vir quondam beate Margarite regine Scocie, Dauid filius ejus, Willemus nepos ejusdem Dauid, Alexander filius Willelmi, Alexander ultimus filius ejusdem Alexandri, et incole regni Scocie, regibus Anglie fidelitatem et homagium prestiterunt. Fatemur quod pro terris, quas in regno Anglie de rege Anglie tenuerunt; numquam reges Scocie pro regno Scocie, nec incole ipsius pro terris suis in Scocia, sibi homagium uel fidelitatem fecerunt. Huic consonat commune jus, ut dictum est. Hunc intellectum comprobat factum satis recens, quod in persona regis Alexander ultimi supradicti, in coronacione istius regis Anglie, dinoscitur contigisse, ut ex premissis de hoc tangentibus plenius apparet. Sed nec etiam adductis pro rege Anglie tactis miraculis uel reuelacionibus Sancti Johannis de Beuerlaco authenticum creditur, quam probentur reuelaciones ipse processisse a Deo, cuius probacio non est usque-quaque facilis sive certa, sed nec in judiciis consueta, quia in angelum lucis se angelus Sathane sepe transformat, ut in Samuelis specie respondisse legitur Sauli Phitonissam. Et non est aliqua uel unquam fuit fama vel sermo in Scocia, de reuelacione hujusmodi facta illi Sancto Johanni, quam rex allegat. Litera Domini Pape Gregorii IX., quam allegat, cuius copiam habemus ex registro vestro, pro ipso nichil facit, cum in ipsa suggestio regis Anglie sibi facta duntaxat recitetur, et concludat condicionaliter, Quod si ita sit, quod sit homo liegius regni sui, et homagium sibi fecerit, ut rex Anglie jam suggesterat, ipsi regi Anglie pre ceteris adhereret. Et certe nunquam fuit homo liegius regis Anglie, nec homagium sibi fecit pro regno Scocie, nec eciam hoc in ipsa suggestione regis Anglie continetur, quod pro regno Scocie ad talia tenebatur. Sed dicit hoc simpliciter, et nos intelligimus hoc secundum quod patitur jus commune, ut non pro regno Scocie, sed forsan pro quibusdam terris quas ab ipso tenebat in Anglia, ad predicta fuerat astrictus.

Quod dicit de nouo tempore nichil facit. Notorium est toti mundo, quod vi et armis ac metu, que possent cadere in constantem, adjuncta et addueta secum omnimoda potencia Anglie, Wallie, et Hibernie, et cum non modico subsidio comitis Sabaudie, qui personaliter fuit ibi, neenon cum parte potencie Vasconie, superius dominium, tunc tam sede Romana, quam regno Scocie, vacante, contra Deum et justiciam usurpauit. Deinde, quicquid dicat, a prelatis et aliis regni Scocie incolis fidelitatem et homagium, non absque nota excommunicacionis majoris, a canone late in concilio Lugdunensi, contra talia a prelatis extorquentes promulgatae, de facto per hujusmodi metum habuit et exegit.

Ab ipso eciam rege nostro Johanne de Balliolo, qui jure hereditario in regno Scocie juste et legittime secundum usum et laudabiles consuetudines ipsius regni, tandem ab omnibus regni incolis in hoc negocio merito comprobatas tanquam rationabiles et prescriptas, succedens, regnum ipsum Scocie pacifice optinebat, per vim et metum consimilem fidelitatem et homagium extorsit post creacionem ipsius, quod in prejudicium ipsius et regni, maxime cum vi extorsum sit, non debet redundare. Dicit eciam quod iste rex noster sponte confessus est, se prodiciones et conspiraciones contra regem Anglie commisisse, et per hoc se incedisse in crimen lese majestatis, ac se perdidisse regnum suum ipso jure. Certe non est verum, nec est verisimile, talem, in tam arduo negocio, contra seipsum tales confessiones, graues et detestabiles sponte emisisse. Sed verum est, quod, cum regem nostrum per potentiam cepisset, et regnum ipsum nequiter occupasset, in cuius regis nostri capcione suum et regni sigillum ab ipsius cancellario per vim et metum abstulit et accepit, tunc, ut dicitur, literas hujusmodi confessionem, post missionem ipsius regis nostri et filii sui in Angliam pro carcere subeundo, fecit fabricare; et coram incolis regni Scocie publicauit literas easdem, quas nunquam postea ratas habuit rex noster nec habebit.

Dicit eciam quod possidet regnum Scocie, et vadit ad Scociam ad suos rebelles corrigendos. Sed certe non est verum, ymmo notorie falsum. Nam Johannes rex noster per suum custodem ibidem deputatum possidet plenarie totum regnum, exceptis tribus castellis uel quatuor in marchia regni Scocie constitutis. Et certe nec illa rex Anglie possidet in pace, et illa, juxta mandatum vestrum alias sibi directum, debuerat evanasse, et restituuisse nobis. Sed in hoc, sicut in aliis, contumax et inobediens pertinaciter perseverat. Ad suos non iuit, quia non sumus sui, nisi dicamur inimici; igitur ad nostram justam defensionem resistendo. Nec iuit ad correctionem, sed ad finalem et puram confusionem nostram, et tocius sanguinis et gentis et nominis Scotorum perpetuam delecionem. Ad cuius sui iniqui propositi complecionem non peruenit, nec profecit hac vice. Et si nunc uel alias dampna nutu Divino recepit, de hoc non potest conqueri, quia que patitur sua culpa sentit. Nec parcendum est militi, cui telo obuiandum est, ut latroni. Unde, sicut alias, vestre Sanctitati supplicamus humiliter et deuote, quatenus, rejectis vetustatibus et spretis ambagibus ex aduersa parte productis, pro parte Scotorum, ex efficacibus et veris allegationibus ipsorum, vestre sanctitatis conscientiam dignemini reformare, et de salubri remedio, si placet, prouidere, ut, hostili persecucione cessante, stragis infirmitas euitetur, et deuoti homines vestri Scotti Deo, vobis, et ecclesie Romane, more solito, valeant pacifice militare.

XXXVI.

CHRONICLE OF THE PICTS AND SCOTS, MCCCXVII.

MS. SIR T. PHILLIPPS, NO. 3119.

INCIPIUNT NOMINA PICTORUM.

GRUCHNE FILIUS KENNE CLEMENS ET PRIMUS JUDEX AC-CEPIT MONARCHIAM ET REGNAUIT IN TERRA PICTORUM
L. ANNIS.

Gede centum l. annis.
Tharan c. annis.
Dnchil xl. annis.
Duordegel xx. annis.
Tethothrecht ix. annis.
Conbust xx. annis.
Karanochrecht xl. annis.
Gernath bolgh ix. annis.
Vipoguenech xxx. annis.
Fýahor albus xxx. annis.
Canatumel vj. annis.
Douernach uetalec v. annis.
Feradach finlegh ij. annis.
Gauiach diues ix. annis.
Talargh filius Keocher xxv. annis.
Drust filius Yrb c. annis.
Tolarg filius Anul ij. annis.
Nectan celchamoch x. annis.
Drust goceneht xxx. annis.
Galany xv. annis.
Drust filius Gýgurn vj. annis.
Drust filius Hudrosig viij. annis.

Gauach filius Gýgurn vj. annis.

Kelturan frater ejus vj. annis.

Tolorg filius Tauxdelog xj. annis.

Drust filius Monehet i. anno.

Tagalad iiij. annis.

Brude filius Melcon xxx. annis. Hunc conuertit Sanctus Columba. Aduentus Sancti Columbe ad Pictos Dlxxv. et superuixit dnobus et triginta annis cum eis. Tempore Brude filii Malcon Dlxxxxij. obiit Columba.

Aduentus Anglorum ad Britanniam cccc. et lxix. ab incarnatione Domini. Obsessio Badonici montis ab aduentu Anglorum xluij. Aidan filius Gobren ab incarnatione Dxij.¹ cum bellum commiserat Aidan et Cadfred in loco qui dicitur Dexastan.

Gauiach filius Donath xx. annis.

Nactan filius Yrb xxj. annis.

Kýnel filius Luchrem xiiiij. annis.

Nactam filius Fochle viij. annis.

Brude filius Fochle v. annis.

Tolarg filius Fecharns xj. annis.

Talargan filius Anfrud iiij. annis.

Garcuad filius Dommal vj. annis.

Drust frater ejus vj. annis.

Brude filius Bile xxj. annis.

Taran filius Anfudeg xiiiij. annis.

Brude filius Decili xxxj. annis.

Neetan frater eius xvij. annis.

Garnach filius Ferach xxiiij. annis.

Oengusa filius Fergus xvj. annis.

Nectan filius Derili ix. mensibus.

Oengus filius Brude vj. mensibus.

Alpinus filius Engus viij. annis.

Drust filius Tarlargan v. annis.

Hungus filius Fergus x. annis.

Engus filius Brude iterum xxxvj. annis.

Brude filius Engus ij. annis.

¹ sic for Deiij.

Alpin filius Engus viij. annis.
 Drust filius Talargan i. anno.
 Talargan filius Drustau iiij. annis.
 Talargan filius Engus v. annis.
 Constantinus filius Fergus xlj. annis. Iste primo edificauit ecclesiam Sancti Andree.

Hungus filius Fergus x. annis.
 Dustalorg iiij. annis.
 Doganan filius Hunge iiij. annis.
 Ferach filius Baeoc iiij. annis.
 Brude filius Ferech i. anno.
 Kineth filius Ferech i. anno.
 Brude filius Fokel ij. annis.
 Drust filius Ferech iiij. annis.

SUMMA ANNORUM QUIBUS REGNAUERUNT ANTE SCOTTOS MILLE DUCENTI ET XXXIX. ANNI ET III. MENSES.

SUMMA REGUM LXV.

Fergus filius Herc primus Scottus regnauit tribus annis ultra Drumalban usque Stuagmuner et usque Inseegal Regna.

Douenard filius Fergus v. annis.
 Congal filius Douengard xij. annis.
 Goueran filius Douenghard xxxiiij. annis.
 Edhan filius Goueran xxxiiij. annis.
 Heokebude regnauit xvj. annis.
 Kineth Ker filius Conal iij. mensibus.
 Ferehar filius Cuin xxj. annis.
 Dounald brec filius Heokebud iiij. annis.
 Malduin filius Dounald duin xij. annis.
 Ferehar fode xxj. annis.
 Heochet rounaue filius Dongard filius Dounald brec regnauit iij. annis.

Armkellach filius Findan i. anno.
 Heochgain filius Findan xvj. annis.
 Minredhach filius Armkellach iiij. annis.
 Heochgain filius Muredach ij. annis.
 Edlfin filius IIeochet [miniele]¹ xxx. annis.

¹ Interlined in different ink.

Fergus filius Edhfin iij. annis.

Sealuach filius Heochgain xxiiij. annis.

Heochet anuine filius Edhfin xxx. annis.

Dunghal filius Sealuach vij. annis.

Alpin filius Heochet anuine iij. annis et hic occisus fuit in Galwya postquam eam penitus destruxit et deuastauit.

Et tunc translatum est regnum Scotorum ad terram Pictorum.

SUMMA ANNORUM A TEMPORE FERGUS FILIUS HERC AD TEMPUS ALPIN CCC. ET VII. ANNI ET TRES MENSES.

Kineth filius Alpin xvij. annis Scotos regnauit, de-structis Pictis, et mortuus est in Fertenuioth et sepultus est in Iona insula, ubi tres filii Herc, Fergus, Lorin, Engus, sepulti fuerunt. Hic mira calliditate duxit Scotos de Ergadia in terram Pictorum.

Douenald filius Alpin iiij. annis et mortuus est in Rait inueramon et sepultus in Iona insula.

Constantinus filius Kineth xvij. annis et interfectus est a Norwagiensibus in bello in Inverdufatha et sepultus in Iona insula.

Edh filius Kineth i. anno et interfectus est in bello in Strathalun a Girg filio Dongal et sepultus in Iona insula.

Girg filius Dungal xij. annis et mortuus est in Dundurn et sepultus in Iona insula. Hic subiugavit sibi totam Berniciam et fere Angliam et hic primus dedit libertatem Scoticane ecclesie, que sub seruitute ad tunc tempus erat ex constitucione et more Pictorum.

Dounald filius Custantin xj. annis et mortuus in Fores et sepultus in Iona insula.

Custantin filius Edha xl. annis et dimisso regno sponte Deo in abbatem religionis sancte Keledeorum Sancti Andree v. annis seruuit et ibi mortuus et sepultus.

Malcolm filius Dounald ix. annis et interfectus est in Ulnem a Morauiensibus per dolum et sepultus in Iona insula.

Indolf filius Custantin ix. annis et interfectus a Norwagiensibus in Invertolan et sepultus in Iona insula.

¶ Duf filius Malcolin iiiij. annis et vj. mensibus et interfectus in Fores et absconditus sub ponte de Kinlois et sol non aperuit quamdiu ibi latuit et interfected est et sepultus in Iona insula.

Culen filius Indulf iiij. annis et vj. mensibus et interfected a Radhare filio Dounald propter filiam suam in Laddonia.

Kinet filius Malcolin xxiiij. annis et ij. mensibus et interfected ab hominibus suis in Forthkerne per perfidiam Finuele filie Cunchar comitis de Engus cuius Finuele unicum filium predictus Kineth interfecit apud Dunction.

Custantin filius Culen i. anno et vj. mensibus et interfected a Kineth filio Malcolin in Rathinueramon et sepultus in Iona insula.

Grig filius Kinet filii Duf viij. annis et interfected a filio Kineth in Morgauerd et sepultus in Iona insula.

Malcolin filius Kinet rex uictoriosus xxx. annis et mortuus in Slines et sepultus in Iona insula.

Donchat filius Crini abbatis de Dunkeldin et Betoc filia Malcolin filii Kinet vj. annis et interfected a Macbeth filio Finled in Bothgouanan et sepultus in Iona insula.

Macbet filius Finled xvij. annis et interfected in Lunfanin a Malcolin filio Donehat et sepultus in Iona insula.

Lulach fatuus iiij. mensibus et interfected est in Esseth in Strathbolgin et sepultus.

Malcolin filius Doneath xxxvij. annis et viij. mensibus et interfected in Inveralden et sepultus in Dunfermelyn.

Douuenald filius Doneath vj. mensibus et postea expulsus a regno ; et tunc Doneath filius Malcolin vj. mensibus et interfected est a Malpedir filio Lorin comite de Mar ; et rursus Douuenald filius Doneath iiij. annis et postea captus ab Edgar filio Maleolin et secatus est et mortuus in Roscolbin et sepultus in Dunfermlin, cuius ossa translata sunt in Iona insula.

Edgar filius Malcolin ix. annis et tribus mensibus et mortuus in Dunde et sepultus in Dunfermlin.

Alexander xvij. annis et tribus mensibus et dimidio et mortuus in Strafleth et sepultus in Dunfermlin.

Dauid filius Malcolin xxix. annis et tribus mensibus et mortuus in Karleil et sepultus in Dunfermlin.

Malcolm filius Henrici filii Dauid regis xij. annis et sex mensibus et xx. diebus et mortuus in Gedwrd et sepultus in Dunfermlin cum predecessoribus regibus.

Willelmus frater ejus l. annis et mortuus in Struelin et sepultus in Abirbrooth.

Alexander filius Willelmi xxx. annis et tribus et mortuus in Ergadia et sepultus apud Meuros.

Alexander filius Alexandri xxxix. annis et mortuus apud Kiugorin et sepultus in Dunfermlin.

SUMMA ANNORUM A TEMPORE KINET USQUE AD TEMPUS ALEXANDRI ULTIMI DLXVII. ET SILUIT TERRA SINE REGE TOT ANNIS QUOT INTERUENERUNT.

XXXVII.

LETTER BY THE BARONS OF SCOTLAND
TO THE POPE, MCCCXX.

MS. IN PUB. ARCHIV. EDIN.

LITTERE DIRECTE AD DOMINUM SUMMUM PONTIFICEM PER COMMUNITATEM SCOCIE.

SANCTISSIMO Patri in Christo ac Domino, Domino Iohanni, divina prouidencia Sacrosaunete Romane et universalis Ecclesie summo Pontifici, Filii sui humiles et deuoti, Duncanus Comes de Fýf, Thomas Ranulpi comes Moraue, Dominus Mannie et Vallis Anandie, Patricius de Dunbar Comes Marcie, Malisius Comes de Stratherýne, Malcolmus Comes de Leuenax, Willelmus Comes de Ross, Magnus Comes Cathanie et Orkadie et Willelmus Comes Suthirlandie, Walterus Senescallus Scocie, Willelmus de Soules Buttelarius Scocie, Jacobus Dominus de Duglas, Rogerus de Moubray, David Dominus de Brechyn, David de Graham, Ingeramus de Umfraville, Johannes de Menetethe Custos Comitatus de Menetethe, Alexander Fraser, Gilbertus de Hayá Constabularius Scocie, Robertus de Keth Marescallus Scocie, Henricus de Sancto Claro, Johannes de Graham, David de Lindesay, Willelmus Olifaunt, Patricius de Graham, Johannes de Fentone, Willelmus de Abirnithy, David de Wemys, Willelmus de Montefixo, Fergusins de Ardrossane, Eustachius de Maxwelle, Willelmus de Ramsay, Willelmus de Montealto, Alanus de Moraue, Douenaldus Cambelle, Johannes Cambrune, Reginaldus le

Chene, Alexander de Setone, Andreas de Lescelyne, et Alexander de Stratone, ceterique Barones et Liberentes ac tota Communitas Regni Scocie omnimodam reverenciam filalem, cum deuotis pedum osculis beatorum. Scimus, Sanctissime Pater et Domine, et ex antiquorum gestis et libris colligimus, quod inter ceteras naciones egregias, nostra, scilicet, Scottorum nacio multis preconiis fuerit insignita : que, de maiori Schithia per mare Tirenium et Columpnas Herculis transiens, et in Hispania, inter ferocissimos per multa temporum curricula residens, a nullis quantumcunque barbaricis poterat alicubi subjugari. Indeque veniens, post mille et ducentos annos a transitu populi Israëlitici, sibi sedes in occidente, quas nunc optinet, expulsis Britonibus, et Pictis omnino deletis, licet per Norwagienses, Dacos et Anglicos sepius impugnata fuerit, multis sibi victoriis et laboribus quamplurimis adquisivit, ipsasque ab omni seruitute liberas, ut priscorum testantur historie, semper tenuit. In quorum regno centum et tresdecem reges de ipsorum regali prosapia, nullo alienigena interveniente, regnauerunt. Quorum nobilitates et merita, licet ex aliis non clarerent, satis patenter effulgent ex eo, quod Rex regum et Dominus Jhesus Christus, post passionem et resurrectionem suam, ipsos in ultimis terre finibus constitutos, quasi primos ad suam fidem sanctissimam connoocauit. Nec eos per quemlibet in dicta fide confirmare voluit, sed per suum primum Apostolum quamuis ordine secundum, vel tertium, scilicet, Andream mitissimum, beati Petri germanum, quem semper ipsis preesse voluit ut patronum. Hec autem sanctissimi patres et prædecessores vestri, sollicita mente pensantes, ipsum regnum et populum, ut beati Petri germani peculium, multis fauoribus et priuilegiis quamplurimis munierunt. Ita quod gens nostra sub ipsorum proteccione libera, hactenus deguit et quieta, donec ille Princeps magnificus Rex Anglorum Edwardus, pater istius qui nunc est, regnum nostrum acephalum populumque nullius mali aut doli consciun, nec bellis aut insultibus tunc assuetum, sub amici et confederati specie, inimicabiliter infestauit. Cujus injurias, cedes, et violencias, predaciones, incendia, prelatorum incarcera-ciones, monasteriorum combustiones, religiosorum spolia-ciones et occisiones, alia quoque enormia, que in dicto populo excercuit, nulli parcens etati aut sexui, religioni aut ordini, nullus scribebat, nec ad plenum intelligeret, nisi quem experientia informaret. A quibus malis innumeris, ipso juante, qui post vulnera medetur et sanat, liberati sumus per strenuissimum Principem Regem et Dominum nostrum, Dominum Robertum, qui, pro populo et hereditate suis de manibus inimicorum liberandis, quasi alter Machabeus aut Josue, labores et tedia, inedias et peri-cula, leto sustinuit animo, quem eciam diuina disposicio, et juxta leges et consuetudines nostras, quas usque ad mortem sustinere volumus, juris successio, et debitus nostrorum omnium consensus et assensus, nostrum fecerunt Principem atque Regem. Cui, tamquam illi, per quem salus in populo facta est, pro nostra libertate tuenda, tam jure quam meritis, tenemur, et volumus in omnibus adherere. Quem si ab inceptis desisteret, Regi Anglorum aut Anglicis nos aut Regnum nostrum volens subicere, tamquam inimicum nostrum et sui nostrique juris subversorem, statim expellere niteremur, et alium Regem nostrum, qui ad defensionem nostram sufficeret, faceremus. Quia, quamdiu centum viui remanserint, nuncquam Anglorum dominio aliquatenus volumus subjugari. Non enim propter gloriam, diuicias aut honores pugnamus, sed propter libertatem solummodo, quam nemo bonus, nisi simul cum vita, amittit. Hinc est, Reuerende Pater et Domine, quod Sanctitatem vestram omni precum instancia genuflexis cordibus exoramus, quatenus sincero corde menteque pia recensentes, quod apud eum, cuius vices in terris geritis, non sit pondus et pondus nec distinctio Iudei et Greci, Scotti aut Anglici, tribulaciones et angustias nobis et Ecclesie Dei illatas ab Anglicis, paternis oculis intuentes, Regem Anglorum cui sufficere debet quod possidet, cum olim Anglia septem aut pluribus solebat sufficere regibus, monere et exhortari dignemini, ut nos

Scotos, in exili degentes Scocia, ultra quam habitacio non est, nichilque nisi nostrum eupientes in pace dimittat. Cui pro nostra procuranda quiete, quicquid possimus, ad statum nostrum respectu habito, facere volumus cum affectu. Vestra enim interest, Sancte Pater, hoc facere, qui paganorum feritatem Christianorum, culpis exigentibus, in Christianos sequentem aspicitis, et Christianorum terminos artari in dies, q[uamcunque] vestre] Sanctitatis memorie derogat si quod absit Ecclesia in aliqua sui parte vestris temporibus patiatur eclipsim, aut scandalum, vos videritis. Excitet igitur Christianos principes, qui non causam vt causam ponentes se fingunt, in subsidium terre sancte, propter gueras quas habent cum proximis, ire non posse. Cujus impedimenti causa est verior, quod in minoribus proximis debellandis vtilitas propior, et resistencia debilior estimantur. Sed quam leto corde dictus Dominus Rex noster et nos, si Rex Anglorum nos in pace dinnitteret, illuc iremus, qui nichil ignorat satis novit, quod Christi vicario totique Christiauitati ostendimus et testamur. Quibus si Sanctitas vestra, Anglorum relativis nimis credula, fidem sinceram non adhibet, aut ipsis in nostram confusione fauere non desinat, corporum excidia, animarum exicia, et cetera que sequentur incomoda, que ipsi in nobis et nos in ipsis fecerimus, vobis ab altissimo credimus imputanda. Ex quo sumus et erimus in hiis, que tene-mur, tamquam, obediencie filii, vobis, tamquam ipsius vicario, in omnibus complacere. Ipsique tamquam Summo Regi et Judici, causam nostram tuendam committimus, cogitatun nostrum jactantes in ipso, sperantesque firmiter, quod in nobis virtutem faciet, et ad nichilum rediget hostes nostros. Sanctitatem ac sanitatem vestram conseruet altissimus Ecclesie sue sancte per tempora diuturna. Datum apud monasterium de Abirbrothoc in Scocia, sexto die Aprilis, Anno Gracie millesimo trescentesimo vicesimo, Anno vero Regni Regis nostri supradicti quinto decimo.

XXXVIII.

CHRONICLE OF THE SCOTS, MCCCXXXIII.-IV.

MS. BRIT. MUS. COTT. CLAUDIUS, D. VII.

NOMINA REGUM SCOCIE QUI REGNAUERUNT POST PICTOS.

PRIMUS rex fuit Kynetus, vel Kynet, filius Alpini, qui regnauit xvij. annis.

Kyneto successit Douenaldus filius Alpyn, frater eiusdem Kyneti, qui regnauit iiiij. annis.

Douenaldo successit Constantinus filius Kyneti, qui regnauit xx. annis, et in alio libro vj.

Constantino successit Ath filius Kyneti, frater eiusdem Constantini, qui regnauit i^o anno.

Ath successit Grig filius Douenaldi qui regnauit x. annis, in alio 18.

Gryg filio Douenaldi, successit frater eius Constantinus, qui regnauit ij. annis; alibi dicitur quod post Grig regnauit Douenaldus xj. annis, et post eum Constantinus filius Ath vel Edh xxx. annis.

Constantino successit Constantinus filius Ath, qui regnauit xlv. annis.

Constantino successit Malcolmus filius Douenaldi, qui regnauit xx. annis; in alio 9.

Malcolmo successit Indolf, siue Indulfus, filius Constantini, qui regnauit ix. annis.

Indulpho successit Duf filius Malcolmi, qui regnauit iiii. annis et vj. mensibus; et in alio 10.

Duf successit Kynetus, filius eius, qui regnauit vno anno et iij. mensibus; alibi dicitur quod Duf successit Culen filius Induf, x. annis; et post eum Kynnetus filius Malcolmi, 24 annis; et post eum Constantinus filius Culen vno anno et dimidio; et post eum Grim filius Kyneti, 8 annis; et post eum Malcolmus, filius Kyneti, 30 annis; et post eum Duncanus 6 annis; et post eum Macbeth, et ceteri.

Kyneto successit Culen filius Indulfi, qui regnauit iij. annis et vj. mensibus.

Culen successit Malcolmus filius Kyneti, qui regnauit xxx. annis.

Malcolm successit Duncanus nepos eius, qui regnauit v. annis et ix. mensibus.

Duncano successit Macbeth, fynleth, qui regnauit xvij. annis.

Machbeth successit Luthlath, qui regnauit iij. mensibus et dimidio.

Luchlach successit Malcolmus filius Duncani, qui regnauit xxxvij. annis et iij. mensibus, et iste Malcolmus fuit vir Sancte Margarete regine, qui gemuit ex ea iij. filios Duncanum, Edgarum, Alexandrum, et Dauid.

Malcolm successit Douenaldus, frater eius, qui regnauit iij. annis et vj. mensibus; in alio libro vj. mensibus tantum.

Douenaldo successit Duncanus filius Malcolmi primo-genitus, qui regnauit dimidio anno.

Duncano successit Edgarus, frater eius, qui regnauit ix. annis; alibi dicitur quod inter Duncanum et Edgarum iterum regnauit Douenaldus iij. annis.

Edgaro successit Alexander tertius frater, qui regnauit xvj. annis et iij. mensibus; in alio libro 71¹ annis.

Alexandro successit David, frater eius, qui regnauit xxxix. annis; in alio 29.

Dauid successit Malcolmus filius Henrici Comitis Northumbrie, filii Dauid regis, qui regnauit xij. annis et dimidio et iij. diebus.

Malcolm successit Willelmus frater eius, qui regnauit xlix. annis preter xvj. dies.

¹ Sic, written for 17.

Willelmo successit Alexander filius eius, qui regnauit xxxvj. annis et ix. mensibus; et in alio 35.

Alexandro successit Alexander filius eius, qui regnauit annis xxxvj. et ix. mensibus.

Alexandro, post viij. annos sequentes, successit Johannes De Balliol, qui regnauit annis iiiij.

Johanni successit Robertus de Brus intrusor, qui regnavit xxiiij. annis.

Roberto successit Dauid filius ejus, Rex inunctus, sicut nullus erat predecessorum suorum, vno anno et dimidio; hunc supplantauit per diversa bella verus heres Edwardus filius supradicti Johannis, qui regnauit annis ; Sed non fuit inunctus sed nec predecessores sui preter vnum. Hunc primo anno suo eiecerunt Scotti a regno, qui per Edwardum regem Anglie restitutus est in regnum suum, datis sibi quinque Comitatibus in marchia Scocie pro labore.

Sciendum quod in aliis cronicis Regum Scocie inuenitur diuersitas, tam in nominibus quorumdam Regum superscriptorum quam in numeris annorum quibus dicuntur regnasse.

Item sciendum quod hoc nomen Maleolmus in nominibus predictorum regum metro versificatum est nomen iiij. sillabarum, quia ponitur in fine versus quinque pedum, et penultima est correpta, communiter tamen pronunciatur per iiij. sillabas, et secunda sillaba terminatur in L. et tertia incipit ab M. litera vt dicatur Malcolmus.

XXXIX.

CHRONICLES OF THE SCOTS, MCCCXLVIII.

MS. BRIT. MUS. COTT. VITELLIUS. A. 20.

EST autem aduertendum quod Scotti quasi Sithi a Seithaa originem duxerunt quorum propria patria est Hibernia. Tempore autem Vespasiani gens Pictorum de Sithia per occianum Britanniam ingressa, regnante apud Britannos Mario filio Aruiragi. Cuius rex Rodricus Albaniam devastauit, quem Marius rex Britonum prelio interfecit iuxta Lugubaliam, que est nunc Karliolum et populo deuicto quibus Roderico uenerat boriam partem Albanie que Katensis dicitur ad habitandum dedit. Illi uero uxoribus carentes cum de nacione Britonum habere non possent, transfretantes Hiberniam sibi Hiberniensium filias copularunt, eo tamen pacto ut sanguis maternus in successionibus preferatur. Processu uero temporis Scotti, duce Reuda, de Hibernia, que proprie Scottorum est patria, progressi uel amicitia uel pugna sibi iuxta Pictos sedes statuerunt et Galwediam inhabitauerunt. Regnauerunt autem Picti antequam fuerant per Scottos deleti, annis Mlxx. uel secundum alios Mcclx. annis. Ocupata igitur post hoc ab Anglicis, expulsis Britonibus, insula stabiliue cum Pictis pace firmata. Scotti cum Pictis habitantes, videntes Pectos quamquam propter affinitatem Hibernensium panciores longe tamen armis et animositate prestanciores, ad solitas tanquam sibi innatas prodiciones quibus ceteris preminent gentibus recurrerunt. Eduocatos itaque tanquam ad coniuinum magnates Pictorum captata crapule oportunitate ipsos insimul peremerunt.

Nota.

Sicque de duobus populis gens bellicosior totaliter est deleta. Altera uero longe modis omnibus impar ex prodicie quodammodo emolumentum consecuta totum a mare usque ad mare terram illam quam suo nomine Scociam dixerunt usque hodie possedunt quibus eo tempore Kynnadius filius Alpini perfidens Pictauiam inuasit Peetos deleuit et Saxones sexcies expugnauit et terram dudum Anglicis subactam, que est a mari Scocie usque ad Mailros, que est in ripa Twede fluminis suo dominio subiugauit. Sunt autem Scotti, secundum Erodotum, animo leves, bar-

Nota de Scocia.

bari satis et silvestres seu, in hostes servitutem detestantes, in lecto mori signiciem deputant, in Campo mori gloriam arbitrantur parei victu dineius famem sustinent, raro ante solis ortum comedunt. Carnibus lacticiniis piscibus et fructibus magis quam pane vescuntur.

Quorum reges nec coronari soliti erant uec inungi.

Igitur quia nostra intencio in presentibus est declarare jus regis Anglie in superius domiuim Scocie, antequam de processu Scocie vterius protractemus, reges peccatores qui in Scocia post Pictos deletos per prodicionem Scottorum regnauerunt iuxta quod in cronicis Scottorum inuenimus nominemus.

Nam primus Kynnetus filius Alpini qui regnauit 16 annis.

*Nomina
regum nobi-lium qui post Pictos Scociam
regnauerunt.*

Kymeto successit Douenaldus filius Alpini et frater eiusdem Kyneti qui regnauit quatuor annis.

Douenaldo autem successit Constantinus filius Kynneti qui regnauit 16 annis.

Constantino successit Aethus filius Kyneti frater eiusdem Constantini qui regnauit vno anno.

Aetho successit Grig filius Douenaldi qui regnauit decem uel decem et octo annis.

Grig filio Douenaldi successit Douenaldus vndeциm annis.

Et post eum Constantius filius Aeth qui regnauit xlv. que annis.

Constantino successit Malcolmus filius Douenaldi qui regnauit viginti annis.

Malcolmo successit Indolfus filius Constantini qui regnauit ix. annis.

Indolfo successit Duf filius Malcolmi qui regnauit iiiij. annis et sex mensibus.

Duf successit Kynetus filius eius qui regnauit uno anno et tribus mensibus.

Kyneto successit Culen filius Indolfi qui regnauit iiiij. or annis et sex mensibus.

Culen successit Malcolmus filius Kyneti qui regnauit xxx. a annis.

Malcolmo successit Duncanus nepos eius qui regnauit v. annis et ix. mensibus.

Duncano successit Machbeht fynleth qui regnauit xvij. annis.

Machbeth successit Luthlach qui regnauit tribus mensibus et dimidio.

Luthlach successit Malcolmus filius Dunkanni qui regnauit xxxvj. annis et iiiij. or mensibus. Et iste Malcolmus fuit maritus Sancte Margarete Regine qui genuit ex ea iiiij. or filios, scilicet, Dunkanum, Edgarum, Allexandrum et Danid et vnam filiam nomine Matildam que fuit vxor regis Anglie Henrici primi post conquestum.

Malcolmo successit Douenaldus frater eius qui regnauit tribus annis, et sex mensibus secundum aliquos tantum. Douenaldo successit Dunkanus filius Malcolmi primogenitus qui regnauit dimidio anno. Dunkano successit Edgarus frater eius qui regnauit nouem annis.

Aliqui tamen dicunt quod inter Dunkanum et Edgarum iterum regnauit Douenaldus frater Malcolmi tribus annis.

Edgaro uero filio Malcolmi successit Alexander tertius filius Malcolmi qui regnauit xvij. annis et tribus mensibus.

Alexandro successit David frater eius qui fuit quartus filius Malcolmi et regnauit xxxix. annis.

David successit Malcolmus filius Henrici comitis Northumbrie, qui Henricus fuit filius David regis Scocie. Et iste Malcolmus regnauit xij. annis et dimidio et tribus diebus.

Malcolmo successit Willelmus frater eius qui regnauit

xlix. annis et iste rex Willelmus fuit captus apud Alnewik per proceres comitatus Eboracenses et ductus usque Riche-mundiam et deinde usque ad regem Anglie perductus sue perfidie penas soluit.

Willelmo regi Scottorum successit Alexander filius eius qui regnauit xxx. a sex annis et ix. mensibus. Iste Alexander duxit filiam regis Henrici tercii post conquestum, qui ex ea genuit vnum filium qui ante patrem mortuus est, et vnam filiam que fuit data regi Norwagie ex qua genuit vnam filiam Margaretam nomine que debuit fuisse despousata Edwardo de Karnaruan qui fuit filius et heres Edwardi primi post conquestum.

Kynach mac Alpyn 16 annis regnauit super Scottos, destructis Pictis, et mortuus est in Fethirthant vel Fertebeith et sepultus est in Hyona insula, vbi tres filii Erc, scilicet, Fergus, Loaran, Tenogus sepulti fuerunt. Hic mira caliditate duxit Scottos de Ergadia in terram Pictorum.
Et nota
hic quod aliter in-veni in alio
libro.

Douenald mac Alpyn 4 or annis regnauit et mortuus in Raich, in ueramon et sepultus est in Hyona insula.

Constantin mac Kynach 16 annis regnavit. Interfectus est a Norwagiensibus in bello in Werdo fata et sepultus est in Hyona insula.

Edh mac Kynach i^o anno regnauit et interfectus est in bello in Strathalin a Girgh filio Dungal et sepultus in Hyona insula.

Girgh mac Dungal 12 annis regnauit et mortuus in Dundurn et sepultus est in Hyona insula. Hic subiu-gauit sibi totam Hyberniam et fere Angliam. Et hic primus dedit libertatem ecclesie Scoticane, que sub serui-tute erat usque ad illud tempus ex consuetudine et more Pictorum.

Douenald mac Constantini ij. annis regnauit et mortuus est in Fores et sepultus in Hyona insula.

Constantin mac Edha 40 annis regnauit et dimisso regno Deo sponte in habitu religionis Abbas factus Kel-deorum Sancti Andree 5 annis seruuit, ibi mortuus est et sepultus.

Malcolm mac Douenald 9 annis regnauit et interfectus est in Vlurn a Morauiensibus per dolum et sepultus est in Hyona insula.

Indolp mac Constantini 9 annis regnauit et interfectus est a Norwagiensibus in Innircolam et sepultus est in Hyona insula.

Duf mac Malcolmi 4 annis regnauit et 6 mensibus et interfectus est in Foreis et absconditus est sub [ponte] de kynlos et sol non aperuit quamdiu ibi latuit et inuentus est et sepulta in Hyona insula.

Culen mac Induf 4 annis regnauit et sex mensibus et interfectus est ab Amdrach filio Douenald propter filiam suam in Laodonia.

Kynach mac Malcolmi 24 annis regnauit et duobus mensibus et interfectus est a suis hominibus in Fetherkern per perfidiam Finuele filie Cunthar comitis de Anegus cuius Finiele unicum filium predictum Kyneth interfecit apud Constantini mac Culeon vno anno et 6 mensibus regnauit et interfectus est a Kynach filio Malcolmi Rath in ueramon et sepultus est in Hyona insula.

Grig mac Kynach madulf 8 annis regnauit et interfectus est a filio Kynech in Moegohanard et sepultus est in Hyona insula.

Malcolm mac Kynach rex victoriosissimus 30 annis regnauit et mortuus in Glaities et sepultus in Hyona insula.

Dunchach mac Trini de Dunkelden et Bethoc filie Malcolm mac Kyneth 6 annis regnauit et interfectus est a Macheth mac Fyngel in Bothergouenan et sepultus est in Hyona insula.

Macheth mac Fingel 17 annis regnauit et interfectus est in Limfanan a Malcolm mac Dunchat et sepultus est in Hyona insula.

Dulach fatuus 4 mensibus regnauit et interfectus est in Esseg in Strathbolgin et sepultus est in Hyona insula.

Malcolm mac Duncath 37 annis regnauit et 8 mensibus et interfectus est iuxta Alnewik, et sepultus apud Tyne-mutham. Hic fuit uir Sancte Margarete regine.

Douenald mac Dunchath prius regnauit 7 mensibus et postea expulsus est a regno, et tunc Dunckach mac Malcolmi 6 mensibus regnauit et interfectus est a Malpedir mac Loren comite de Meorne tamen Monethefoen et rursum Douenald mac Dunekach 3 annis, predicto tempore commumerato et postea captus est ab Eagar mac Malcolm et cecatus est in Roscolbyn et sepultus est in Dunekeldyn, cuius ossa translata sunt ad Hyonam insulam.

Eadgar 9 annis regnauit et 3 mensibus et mortuus est in Dunedenn et sepultus est in Dunfermelyn.

Alexander 17 annis et 3 mensibus et dimidio regnauit et mortuus est in Cruflet et sepultus in Dunfermelyn.

Dauid 29 annis et 3 mensibus reguauit et mortuus est in Karliolo et sepultus est in Dunfermelyn.

Malcolmi filius Henrici filii Dauid regis 12 annis et 6 mensibus et 20 diebus regnauit et mortuus est apud Gedworth et sepultus est apud Dunfermelyn.

Willelmus rex 52 regnauit et mortuus est in Streuelin et sepultus est in Abirbrotok.

Cui [sue]cessit mitissimus rex Alexander.

Summa annorum a Kyneth mac Alpyn vsque ad tempus Alexandri mitissimi regis Scottorum v.d. et unus annus.

Alexander filius Willelmi regis regnauit 32 annis et mortuus est in Konerlay et sepultus est apud Meilrose.

Illustrissimus rex Alexander 3^s filius regis Alexandri 2ⁱ mitissimi regnauit 36 annis et mortuus est apud Kyn-gorn 4^{to} Kl. aprilis anno etatis sue 45 et sepultus Dunfermelyn cum magno honore. Iste dilectus Deo et hominibus, gentes terre sue semper pacificare studuit nec aliquis predecessorum suorum tante pace et tanto gaudio regnum tenere potuit.

XL

CHRONICLE OF THE SCOTS, XIV. CENT.

MS. BRIT. MUS. HARL. 1808.

DE ORIGINE SCOTORUM ET PICTORUM.

BRITANNIA post fugam Cadwalladri vltimi Regis Britonum, postque diram regni calamitatem et generalem pestilenciam, per nouem quasi annos vacua iacebat, paucis vel nullis inhabitata cultoribus, miseris tamen qui remanserunt Britannis, superuenerunt igitur Saxones cum innumerablem multitudine in Northumbriam et ab Albania usque Cornubiam totam terram occupauerunt. Ab illo enim tempore potestas Britonum cessavit et a Britannica nobilitate degenerati nunquam monarchiam recuperauerunt. Sed in Wallia latitantes nunc sibimet, nunc Saxonibus integrati domesticas clades incessanter agebant jam non Britones sed Gualenses a Gualoe regina eorum. At Saxones inter se pacem habentes agros colentes et ciuitates reedificantes duce Athelstano post longa tempora diuersorum regnum in terra regnancium diademate insignito monarchali creuerunt in gentem magnam et tunc non Britannia sed Anglia vocabatur. Eodem modo Scotti a nobilitate Britannica degenerati fures facti sunt et latrones vnuusquisque insidiabatur alteri vt posset dominari. Et in tantum fuerunt degenerati vt nomen proprium amitterent, iam non vocabantur Albanenses sed Scotti a Scota regina filia Pharaonis.

Primus autem eorum, qui dominabantur in Scocia a monte Alban vsque ad Mare Scoticum, vocabatur Fergus mak Her et ipse dominabatur tantum iij. annis et interfactus est a suis.

Domangal dominabatur quinque annis et interfectus est.
 Conerham xx. annis et interfectus est.
 Congel xxx. annis et interfectus est.
 Conal xiiij. annis et interfectus.
 Edom xxxiij. annis et interfectus est.
 Edith vj. annis et interfectus est.
 Kynad iij. mensibus et interfectus.
 Ferkare xvij. annis et interfectus.
 Douenhal xiiij. annis et interfectus est.
 Malclom xvij. annis et interfectus.
 Fercar xx. annis et interfectus.
 Etal iij. annis et interfectus.
 Ormekellet vno anno et interfectus est.
 Ewain tribus annis et interfectus.
 Hedaldus xxx. annis et interfecetus est.
 Fergus iij. annis.
 Seluak xx. annis.
 Conegal vij. annis et interfectus.
 Alpin iij. annis et mortuus est.

Isti omnes fere interfecti sunt, sed nec fuerunt Reges quia non dominabantur per electionem neque per sanguinem, sed per prodicionem.

PRIMUS itaque Rex Scotorum fuit Kynad mak Alpin qui, destructis Pictis, regnauit xvij. annis et sepultus est in Hiona insula.

Donewaldus mak Alpin iij. annis et sepelitur in Hiona insula.

Constantinus mak Kynald xx. annis et interfectus est a Norwagensibus.

Grig mak Dungal xv. annis. Hic subiugauit sibi Hiberniam et Northumbriam et dedit libertatem ecclesie Scoticane, sepultusque est in Hiona insula.

Douenhald mak Constanti xj. annis et interfectus est propter filiam suam.

Constantinus regnavit xl. annis. Hic religionis habitu indutus Keledeorum Sancti Andree quinque annis Deo seruuit. Ibidemque sepelitur.

Indolf ix. annis qui interfectus est a Norwagensibus.

Duf iiij. annis qui interficitur a suis et absconditus, solque non aperuit donec inventus est.

Malclum ix. annis et sepultus in Iona insula.

Culen iiij. annis et interfectus est propter filiam suam.

Kynaldus xxiiij. annis et interfectus, sepelitur in Hiona insula.

Constantinus ij. annis et interfectus, sepelitur in Hiona insula.

Malclum Rex gloriosus xxx. annis et sepultus est in Hiona insula.

Dunkan v. annis et interfectus, sepelitur in Hiona insula.

MakFingel xvij. annis et interfectus, sepelitur in Hiona insula.

Gulak iiij. annis et interfectus, sepelitur in Hiona insula.

Mauchum regnauit xxx. annis. Hic fuit uir Sancte Margarete Regine.

Donewaldus iiii. annis et expulsus est a regno.

Edgar x. annis et sepultus est Dunfermelyn.

Malecolm xij. annis et sepultus Dunfermelin.

Dauid frater eius xx. annis et sepultus est Dunfermelyn. Hic genuit Henricum et tres filias, videlicet, Margaretam, Ysabellam et Adam.

Henricus regnauit xx. annis et sepultus est Dunfermelyn.

Willelmus filius Henrici regnauit l. annis et sepultus est apud Aberbrothok.

Summa annorum a Kynald mak Alpin primo Rege Scotorum vsque Willelmum V^c vj. annis.

Alexander filius Willelmi regnauit xxxv. annis et sepultus est in Melros.

Alexander filius Alexandri regnauit xxxvij. annis. Hic cecidit de equo suo in Kinkhorne et sepultus est in Dunfermelyn. Tunc cadebat regnum inter filios trium sororum, scilicet, Margarete, Ysabelle et Adam. Ex Margareta genita fuit Deuorgoil. De qua exiit Johannes Bailloll quem sublimauit in regnum Scotie Edwardus Rex Anglie illustris. De Isabella exiit Robertus Bruys de quo Robertus de Bruys 2^{us}. De quo Robertus Bruys tertius qui seipsum fecit coronari in Regem Scocie apud Sconam et interfecit Johannem Comyn. *Anno Domini Millesimo cccc^{mo} lxxv^o*¹

¹ This date is added in a different hand.

XLI.

TRACT ON THE SCOTS OF DALRIADA,
BEFORE MCCCLXXII.a MS. TRIN. COLL. DUBL. H. 2. 7.b MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF BALLIMOTE.c MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF LECAIN.¹*Incipit MINIUGUD SENCHUSA FIR N-ALBAN (ANNSO).DA meic Eachach muindramar .i. Erc 7 Olchu.

Da meic deac umorro la h-Erc (meic Eachach) .i. ase dib gabsat Albain .i. da Loarnn .i. Loarnn beg 7 Loarnn mor, da meic Misi .i. Misi beg 7 mac Misi mor, da Fergus .i. Fergus beg 7 Fergus mor. A se ali in h-Erind .i. mac Deicill, Aengos cujus tamen semen in Albania est,² Enna, TRANSLATION.¹*Incipit THE EXPLANATION OF THE HISTORY OF THE MEN OF ALBAN HERE.*

EACHACH muindramar had two sons, viz., Erc and Olchu.

Erc son of Eachach, moreover, had twelve sons. Six of them conquered Alban, viz., two Lorns, Lorn beg and Lorn mor; two Macmisis, Maemisi beg and Maemisi mor; two Fergus', viz., Fergus beg and Fergus mor. Six others in Erin, viz., Macdeicill, Angus, his seed are however in Alban, Enna, Bresal, Fiachra, ¹ The words placed within parentheses are from b and c.² b and c have this sentence in Irish: ise a sil fil a n-Albain.

Breasal, Fiachra, Dubthach. *Alii dicunt h-Erc habuisse alium filium cuius nomen vocabatur*¹ Muredac.

En mac deac la h-Olchoin meic Echach muindreamair qui habitant in² Muirbule³ la Dailriata .i. Muredach bolc 7 Aed 7 Dare⁴ 7 Aoed⁵ 7 Dare 7 Aengos 7 Tuathal an blomaidh 7 Eochaidh 7 Setna 7 Brian 7 Omu 7 Cormac.

Fergus mor mac Eirc ainm ele do Macmise mor. *Unum filium habuit*⁶ .i. Domangort. Da meic imorro la Doman-goirt .i. Garban 7 Comgall, da meic Feidlimidh ingine Briuin mac Eachach muighmedoin. Oen mac la Comgall .i. Conall. Secht meic imorro la Conaill .i. la Conaill .i. Loingsech 7 Nechtain 7 Artan 7 Tuatan . . .⁷ Tuitio, Cairbre . . .⁷ Coie meic imorro la Garban .i. Aedan,⁸ Eoganan, Cuildeach, Domnall, Domangart.

Dubthach. There are others who say that Erc had another son, whose name was Muredac.

Olchu, son of Echach muindreamar, had eleven sons, who dwelt in Murbulg in Dalriada, viz., Muredach bolg, and Aed, and Dare, and Aoed, and Daire, and Angus, and Tuathal an blomaidh, and Eochaiddh, and Setna, and Brian, and Omu, and Cormac.

Fergus mor, son of Erc, was the other name of Macmise mor. He had one son, viz., Domangort. Domangart had two sons, viz., Gabran and Comgall, the two sons of Feidlimidh, daughter of Briuin, son of Eachach muigmedon. Comgall had one son, viz., Conall. Conall had seven sons, viz., Longsech, Nechtan, Artan, Tuathan, Tuitio, Cairbre. Gabran, moreover, had five sons, viz., Aedan, Eoganan, Cuildeach, Domnall, Domangart.

¹ b and c have this sentence in Irish : atū drong aga raga goroibe meic eile oc Earc darbaim.

² b and c have this sentence in Irish : neoch utrebead i.

³ c reads Muirburg.

⁴ b and c read Guaire.

⁵ b and c omit Aoed.

⁶ b and c have this sentence in Irish : En mac leis.

⁷ These are holes in the parchment in a, and as the names are left blank in b and c, this shows that these MSS. are taken from a.

⁸ b and c read Aedlind.

Secht meic la Aedan¹ i. da Eochduig i. Eocho buide 7
 Eocho find, Tuathal 7 Bran 7 Baithine, Conaing, Gartnait.
 Ocht meic la Eocho buide meic Aedain i. Domnall brec
 7 Domnall dond 7 Conall crandomna 7 Conall becc²
 7 Comnudh cearr 7 Failbi 7 Domangart 7 Cucenmathair.
 Ocht meic dan la Echdaig find i. Baedain, Pardan, Pledan, Cormac, Cronan, Feradach, Feidlimidh, Caplin.
*Hii sunt filii*³ Conaing meic Aedain i. Rignullan, Ferchar, Artan, Artur, Donnchach, Domangort, Nechtain, Nem,
 Crumene. Ceitri meic Gartnait meic Aedain i. da meic Tuathail meic Morgaind meic Eachdach find meic Aedain meic Garban.⁴

Fergus beg dan mac Eirc gegnai a brathair. Oen mac lais i. Setna a quo Cenel Coneridhe in hile i. Conchriath mac Boile meic Setna meic Fergus a bicc⁵ meic Eirc meic Eachaidh muinremair.

Aedan had seven sons, viz., the two Echos, viz., Eocho buide and Eocho find, Tuathal, Bran, Baithine, Conaing, Gartnait. Eocho buide, son of Aedan, had eight sons, viz., Domnall brec, and Domnall donn, and Conall crandomna, and Conall beg, and Comnudh cearr, and Failbi, and Domangart, and Cucenmathair. Echdaigh fin had eight sons, viz., Baedan, Pardan, Pledan, Cormac, Cronan, Feradach, Feidlimidh, Caplin. These are the sons of Conaing, son of Aedan, viz., Regullan, Ferchar, Artan, Artur, Duncan, Domangort, Nechtain, Nem, Crumene. Four sons of Gartnait, son of Aedan, viz., two sons of Tuathal son of Morgan, son of Eachdach fin, son of Aedan, son of Gabran.

Fergus beg, son of Erc, slain by his brother, had one son, Setna, from whom sprung the Cenell Coneridhe in Isla, viz., Concriath, son of Boile, son of Setna, son of Fergus beg, son of Erc, son of Eachaidh Muinreamar.

¹ b and c read Aedfind.

² b and c read brecy.

³ b and c have this sentence in Irish, Is iad so meic.

⁴ This sentence is corrupt, or there is something omitted. It is the same in all the mss.

⁵ b reads Setne a quo Cenel Setna no Setne meic Fergus a beg.

Aengus mar 7 Loarn 7 Macmisi mar tri meic Eirc insin.
 Oengos mar mac Eirc *duos filios habuit*¹ i. Nadsluaig 7
 Feargnai. VII.² meic la Feargna i. Tuathal, Aed, Letho, Riacgan, Fiacho, Guairi, Canntan, Eocha. Da meic imorro la Nadsluaigh i. Bairfind 7 Caplene. Da meic Bairfinde, Nem 7 Tulchan. Ceitri meic la Tulchan i. Cronan,
 Brecon, Daman, Connend. *Alii dieunt Barfind eundem*³
*Nadsluaig tres filios habuisse*⁴ i. Lugaid, Conall, Galan.
 Caplene mac Nadsluaig iiiij. *filios habuit*⁵ i. Aedan, Lugaid, Crumaine, Gentine arctnem. Bairfinde mac Nadsluaig iii. *filios habuit*⁶ i. Lugaid, Conall, Galan. Cruithneach a mathair eius.⁷

Is iad e randsaide orba inili.

Aengus beag dan mac Eirc *unum filium habuit*⁸ i.
 Muredac.

Cet treb inile.

Aengus mor, and Lorn, and Maemisi mor, the three sons of Erc there.

Oengos mor, son of Erc, had two sons, viz., Nadsluag and Fergna. Fergna had seven sons, viz., Tuathal, Aed, Letho, Riagan Fiacha, Guaire, Canntan, Eocha. Nadsluag, moreover, had two sons, viz., Bairfind and Caplene. Bairfind had two sons, Nem and Tulchan. Tulchan had four sons, viz., Cronan, Brecon, Daman, Connend. Others say that Bairfind [son of] Nadsluag had three sons, viz., Lugad, Conall, Gulan. Caplene son of Nadsluag had four sons, viz., Aedan, Lugad, Crumaine, Gentine aretnem. Bairfind son of Nadsluag had three sons, viz., Lugad, Conall, Galan. A Cruthneach was their mother.

These are they who divided land in Isla.

Aengus beg, then, the son of Erc, had one son, Muredach. He first inhabited Isla.

¹ b and c have this in Irish, da meic lais.

² b and c read in Irish, Seacht.

³ Eundem for filium.

⁴ b and c read in Irish, Adrait dronge rile tri meic ag Nadsluaig.

⁵ b and c read in Irish, ceitri meic leis.

⁶ b and c read in Irish, tri meic leis.

⁷ b and c read in Irish, a mathair sin.

⁸ b and c read in Irish, his.

Odeich, xx. tech.

Freag, c.¹ tech.

Cladrois, lx. tech.

Ros deorand, xxx. tech.

Ardbes, xxx. tech.

Loichrois, xxx. tech.

Aitha cassil, xxx. insin.²

Cinel Aengusa xxx. tech Caillnae acht itbeca in na feranna taige Cenel n-Aengusa .i. fer trichot.

Fecht airmi slogan Cenel Oengusa .i. Coic cet fer.

Fecht airmi Cenel n-Gabran .i. ecc. fer, mad fechit imorro for imram vij. vij. sese uaidibh .i. fecht (mara).³

Ite teora⁴ trena Dalriatai i. Cenel n-Gabran 7 Cenel n-Oengusa 7 Cenel Loarn moir.

*Hii sunt filii*⁵ Loarn moir .i. Eochaidh, Caithbad, Muredach, Fuindenam, Fergus salach, Danmaine. Alii dicunt

Odeich, twenty houses.

Freg, a hundred houses.

Cladrois, sixty houses.

Ros deorand, thirty houses.

Ardbes, thirty houses.

Loichrois, thirty houses.

Athcashel, thirty there.

The Cinel Angus, thirty houses, Caillnae ; but small were the lands of the houses of the Cinel Angus, viz., one man and thirty.

The armed muster of the host of the Cinel Angus was five hundred men.

The armed muster of the Cinel Gabran, three hundred men.

If the muster, however, is for rowing, twice seven benches of them, the (sea) muster.

These are the three powerfuls of Dalriada, viz., the Cinel Gabran, the Cinel Angus, and the Cinel Lorn mor.

These are the sons of Lorn mor, viz., Eochaidh, Cathbad, Muredach, Fuindenam, Fergus Salach, Danmaine. Others say

¹ b and c read cxx.

² b and c read in insin, which may mean in the islands.

³ Inserted from c.

⁴ b and c read imorro, more-over.

⁵ b and c read in Irish, Is iat so meic.

Loarnd non habuisse nee tres filios tamen¹ i. Fergus salach
7 Muredach 7 Maine.

Ite teora treна Cenel Loairnd i. Cenel (Fergusa²) salach
7 Cenel Cathbath 7 Cenel n-Eachach meic Muredach.

Cenel Fergusa salaig, lx. teach leo.

Fecht aimri Cenel Loarnd vij.³ cet fer, acht is dinaibh Airgiall in sechtnadh cet. Mad fecht imorro for imram da secht seis⁴ cacha fichti taigi dibh.

Coie meic Fergusa Salaig i.

Caeldub, xxx. tech lais.

Eogan garb, xxx. tech lais⁵ 7 *uxor ejus*⁶ Crodu ingen
Dallain mac Eogan meic Neill.

Fergna xv. tigi⁷ leas.

Eogan v. tige leas.

Baedan v. tigi lais.

Da meic la Muredach meic Loairn i. Cathbud 7 Eochaid.
Cuic meic imorro la h-Eochaid meic Muredach i.

that Lorn mor had only three sons, viz., Fergus Salach, Muredach, and Maine.

These are the three powerfuls of the Cinel Lorn, viz., the Cinel (Fergus) Salach, the Cinel Cathbath, and the Cinel Eachaidh son of Muredach.

Cinel Fergus Salach, sixty houses.

The armed muster of the Cinel Lorn, seven hundred men, but it is of the Argialla that the seventh hundred is. The muster, however, for rowing, twice seveu benches to each twenty houses of them.

Fergus Salaig had five sons, viz.,—

Caeldub, thirty houses to them, and his wife was Crodu, daughter of Dallain son of Eogan, son of Neill.

Fergna, fifteen houses to him.

Eogan, five houses to him.

Baedan, five houses to him.

Muredach son of Lorn had two sons, viz., Cathbud and Eochaid. Eochaid son of Muredach had five sons, viz.,—

¹ b and c read in Irish, Aderait drong ele nach roibe acht tri meic ag Loairn.

² Inserted from b and c.

³ b and c read iiij. c.

⁴ b and c read bcs.

⁵ This line not in c.

⁶ b and c read in Irish, a bean.

⁷ b and c read in Irish, Coig tigi deag.

Feradach, xx. teach lais.

Cormac, xx. teach lais.

Bledan 7 Cronan, xx. teach ettorru.

Tri meic Cathbadha dan i. Brenand, 7 Ainnmire 7 Cronan.

Tri Caicait fer ind longas do lodar la macu Eirc as.
Is he in tres coeca Corpri cona muindtir.

Cenel n-Gabran inso tri xx. taige¹ ar coic cetaib Cend-tire 7 Crich Comgaill cona Insib. Da seacht seis each xx. tigi a fecht mara.

Cenel n-Oengusa xxx. taige ar cccc. leo, da vij. seis gach xx. tigi a fecht mara.

Cenel Loarn xx. teach ar cccc. leo. Da secht seis gach xx. tigi a fecht mara.

Is amluid fo teora trena i. Dalriadai.

*Incipit GENEALACH Albanensium.²*

Cunsantin
mac Culunn³

mic Ilduib mic Causantin

Feradach, twenty houses to him.

Cormac, twenty houses to him.

Bledan and Cronan, twenty houses each.

Cathbad had three sons, viz., Brenan, Ainnmire, and Cronan.

Three times fifty men passed over in the fleet with the sons of Erc. The third fifty, Corpri with his people.

The Cinel Gabran, five hundred and three score houses in Kintyre, the district of Cowall, with the Islands. Twice seven benches to each twenty houses, their sea muster.

The Cinel Angus, four hundred and thirty houses to them. Twice seven benches to each twenty houses, their sea muster.

The Cinel Lorn, four hundred and twenty houses to them. Twice seven benches to each twenty houses, their sea muster.

And thus are the three powerfuls in Dalriada.

¹ b reads teach.

² b and c read in Irish fer n-

| Albain; c adds annso, here.

³ Omitted in b.

mic Aeda	mic Conairi moir
mic Cinaeda	mic Etirsceoil
mic Alpin	mic Eogain
mic Eachach	mic Aillella
mic Aeda find	mic Jair
mic Eachach	mic Dedad
mic Domangurt	mic Sin
mic Domnall brice	mic Roisin
mic Echach buide	mic Thrir
mic Aedain	mic Rothrir mic Gabrain	mic Arndil ⁴
mic Domangart	mic Maine
mic Fergusa	mic Forgo
mic Eirc	mic Feradaigh
mic Echach munremair ¹	mic Aillella eraind
mic Aengusa	mic Fiachac firmara
mic Fergusa ulaig	mic Oengusa turbig tem-
mic Fiachach tathmail	rach.
mic Feidlimidh lamdoit mic Cingi	Maelcoluim ⁵
mic Guairi	mac Cinaeda
mic Cindtai	mic Maeleoluim ⁶
mic Corpri rig fhotaí ²	mic Domnaill mic Conairi choem	mic Cusantin
mic Mogalama	mic Cinaeda mic Corpri eromcind	mic Ailpin ⁷ mic Daire dorndmair ³

¹ omitted in b.

² b reads riata.

³ c reads fiudmoir.

⁴ b reads Arnail; c Eurnail.

⁵ b and c prefix to Maelcoluim,
David righ Albaín mac Coluim mic
Dondcaidh mic.

⁶ not in b.

⁷ b and c add here, the words in parentheses not being in c. mic
Eachach mic Aeda find mic Eachach mic Domangoirt (I sunn condrecaidh Cenla n-Gabrain 7 Cenla

Comgaill, mic Domnaill brice mic Eachach buide) I sunn condrecaidh clann Fergusa guill mic Eachach buide i. Gabranait 7 clann Conaill cirr mic Eachach buide i. Fir ibe friis in rigrraig, i. clann Civiteda mic Ailpin mic Aedain, I sund condrecaidh clana Eachach buide fir leithrial Conaing (lon leth tuaidh) mic Aedain mic Gabran mic Domangoirt mic Fergusa moir mic Eirc. I sunn condrecaidh
Cenla Loairn mic Eirc 7 Cenla u-

Cethri prim cenoil Dailriadai i. Cenla n-Gabrain, Cenla Loarnd mair, Cenla n-Oengusa, Cenla Comgaill. Gabran 7 Comgall da meic Domangart 7 Fedelm foltchain ingen Briuin mic Echach muigmedon a mathair.^a

Genelach Cenel Gabrain, ^b	mic Feradaich
Congus	mic Fergus ¹
mac Consamla	mic Colum
mic Canai gairb	mic Boetain
mic Gartnait	mic Ecdach
mic Aedain	mic Muredaig
mic Gabrain.	mic Loairnd mair mic Eirc
Genelach Cenla	mic Eachach muinremair.
Loairnd mair, ^c
Ainbhcellach	Mongau ²
mac Ferchair fotai	mac Domnall

TRANSLATION.

^a Four chief tribes of Dalriada, viz., Cinel Gabran, Cinel Lorn mar, Cinel Angus, and Cinel Comgall. Gabran and Comgall, the two sons of Domangurt and Fedlimidh, fair hair, daughter of Brian, son of Eochaidh Muighmedon, their mother.

^b Genealogy of the Cinel Gabran.

^c Genealogy of the Cinel Lorn mar.

Aengusa 7 Cenla n-Gabran 7 Cenla Comgaill mic Eachach muinreamair, mic Aengusa mic Feidlimidh aeslingthi mic Aengusa buadnid mic Feidlimidh mic Sen Cormac mic Laigh luathi mic Aithir mic Echach antoit mic Fiach tathmail.
Son of Eachach, son of Aeda find, son of Domangart; here branch off the Cinel Gabran, and the Cinel Comgaill; son of Donald bree, son of Eachach buide; here branch off the clan Fergusa gall, son of Eachach buide, id est, the Gabranaig and the clan Conall Cerr, son of Eachach buide, id est, the men of Fife in the sovereignty, id est, the clan of Kenneth, son of Alpin, son of Aedan; here branch off the clan Eachach buide, the men of the half share of Conaing (of the half land) son of Aedain, son of Gabran, son of Domangart; son of Fergus mor, son of Erc; here branch off the Cinel Lorn mac Erc, the Cinel Angus, the Cinel Gabran, and the Cinel Comgall; son of Echach muinremar, son of Angus, son of Feidlimidh Aeslingthi, son of Angus buadnid, son of Feidlimidh, son of Old Cormac, son of Laith luithe, son of Aithir, son of Echach antoit, son of Fiach tathmail.

¹ b and c insert after Fergus, mic Nechtan.

² b reads Morgan; c, Mogan.

mic Cathmai ¹	mic mic Misi mair
mic Ruadrach	mic Eirc
mic Ferchair	mic Echach munremair mic Mnredaig
mic Boetan ²	Genelach Cenla ⁴ Oengusa, ^e Oengus
Genelach Cenla ³ Comgaill, ^d	mac Boidb
Echtgach	mic Ronain
mac Neachtain	mic Aedain
mic Ferchair	mic Cablein
mic Fhingin	mic Nadsluaig
mic Eachdach	mic Ronain
mic Loingsich	mic Oengusa mic Comgaill	mic Eirc. ⁵
mic Domangoirt

^d Genealogy of the Cinel Comgall.^e Genealogy of the Cinel Angus.¹ c reads Caithnia.² b add c and mic Echach mic Muredach.³ b reads Clann.⁴ b and c read Clann.⁵ b and c add mic Echach Muiureamair, and conclude with the following additional pedigree:

— Maelnechta mac Lulaig mic Gillicomgan mic Maelbridge mic Ruadri mic Morgaind mic Domnall mic Cathmail mic Ruadri mic Aircellach mic Ferchair fhoda.

XLII.

TRACT ON THE PICTS, BEFORE MCCCLXXIII.

a MS. BODL. RAWLINSON, B. 506.b MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF LECAIN.¹

DE GENELACH DALARAIDHE .I. FIACHA ARAITHE.

CLAND Conaill cearnaich .i. Dalnaraide o carraic ind-beruacht² co lind huachalla. Ainm n-aile doib Cruithnig .i. niath cruthaige no nia Crodai³ ut poeta dixit.

A mailduin anasrubairt
 Frithr nin imrubairt
 Do gae cruaith rodamar
 Do lobor buaith no trenfir.

Crodai fri Irial glunmar mac Conaill Cernaich for ceta

TRANSLATION.

OF THE DESCENT OF THE DALARAIDHE, ID EST, FIACHA ARAIDHE.

THE clan of Conall Cernach, id est, the Dalnaraidhe from the rock of Inveruacht to the pool of Uachaill. Another name for them was Cruthnigh, id est, the proved champion or the sister's son of Crodai, as the poet sings:—

O Mailduin what thou hast said
 Has happened, one day he was struck
 From the very keen hard spear
 Of the victorious leper or strong man.²

Crodai was [a name applied] to Irial glunmar, son of Conall

¹ The words within parentheses are in b only.

² b reads Indbeiruisci.

³ b omits Niath Cruthaige, and reads, i. nath Crodu. These are fanciful explanations of the name Cruthnigh, as being derived from Cruthaige and Niath, or Crodu and Nia or Nath.

⁴ The sense of this stanza is obscure, and its connexion with what goes before not apparent.

ar baradh Cruithniu .i. nia Cruithne .i. mac seathar Cruithne.¹ Lonchetnae ingean Echdhi eachbeoil dia Albae a mathair. Ithe abbae do nacht Cuculaind γ Curoi mac Daire a Albae in Erenn. Colgu mac Mongain dixit.

Masa comram² condaigi .
 Cuideas,³ eacna rummar
 Coica catha derruaid⁴
 Ro fich Irial glunmar

Da n-ocht dec milead de thuathaib Traiciae da lotar ar ceand loingse meic Miledh Easpaine do Gearman do bertadar leo co m-batar h-im militeacht. Leo ni taultatar mna leo statim conid do sil meic Miled arro froetar mna iarsin. Do brith ingeani oigtigearn daaib o flaithnio h-Erind γ ar n-glanad a clайдam-tir doib allae itir Breatnaib .i. Mag Fortrein primo γ Mag Cirgin (.i. postea) fo conid iar mathru gabait flath γ gach comarbus olcheana ar naisa

Cernach, primarily as descended from the Cruithniu, id est, the nephew of Cruithne, id est, son of the sister of Cruithne. Loncetna, the daughter of Echdhe eachbheoil of Alba, was his mother. This was the cause which brought Cuchulain and Curoi, son of Daire, from Alba to Erin. Colgu, son of Mongan, sings :—

If it be a connexion of relationship
 That proves secret wisdom,
 Fifty battles to Easroe
 Did Irial glunmar fight.

Twice eighteen soldiers of the tribes of Thracia went to the fleet of the sons of Mileadh of Spain, to Germany, and they took them away with them and kept them as soldiers. They had brought no wives with them at that time. And it was of the race of the sons of Mileadh they took wives afterwards. They received the daughters of chieftains from the sovereign champions of Erin, and when they had cleared their swordland yonder among the Britons, viz., Magh Fortrein, primo, and Magh Girgin, postea, so that it is in right of mothers they succeed to sovereignty and all other successions to which they were bound by the forru o feraib Erind .i. tri chaicat ingean ro h-uicset a h-Erenn do maithrib mac inde Aldind na h-ingi i crich Dalaraidhe (isead adlotar leo).

¹ Mac seathar Cruithne not in b. | ³ b reads Cruitheas.
² b reads comrair. | ⁴ b reads co heasruaile.

Trica rig do Cruithnib for Erind 7 Albain .i. do Cruithnib Alban 7 (do Cruithnib) Erenn .i. di Dalaraidhe. Ota Ollaman dia ta mur n-Ollamhan h-i Teamair coinci Fiachni mac Baetain ro ne naise sidhe giallu Erenn 7 Alban.

Seact riga dan do Chruineachaib Albau ro follamnaigeastair Erenn a Teamair.

Ollamh ainm .i. chet rig ro gab (Erind a Teamar) 7 a Chruchnaib xxx. annis Is de ata Mur n-Ollaman h-i Teamair h-is leis ceta n-dernad feis Teamrach.

H-Eilim¹ olfusneetha tareisi n-Ollaman ri for Eirinn uili a Teamar xxx. annis. Na [f]laith sidhe fearais insnecta fina co timteth fer isan gaimriath.

Findoll cisirne tareisi n-Eilim xxx. annis h-i Teamair ocus i ceand. Nach n-ad ro genair ina flaithusidhe robo cheanand isde ata Ceannandas ina lochtae.

men of Erin. They took with them from Erin thrice fifty maidens to become mothers of sons, whence Altnaninghean, in the territory of Dalaraidhe, from which place they departed with them.

Thirty kings of the Cruithneach, over Erin and Alban, viz., of the Cruithneach of Alban and of Erin, viz., of the Dalaraidhe. They were from Ollamhan, from whence comes Mur Ollamhan at Teamhair to Fiacha mac Baedan, who fettered the hostages of Erin and Alban.

Seven kings of the Cruitneach of Alban governed Erin in Teamhair.

Ollamh was the name of the first king that governed Erin at Teamhair and in Cruchan, thirty years. It is from him Mur Ollamhan at Teamhair is ; by him was the Feast of Teamhair first instituted.

Eilim olfhinachta after Ollamhan king over all Erin at Teamhair, thirty years. It was in his reign the wine snow fell which covered the grass in winter.

Findoll cisirne succeeded Eilim thirty years at Teamhair and at Ceanannus. Every cow that was calved in his reign was white headed, and it is from him that the name of Ceanannus is given to his place.

¹ b reads Ailill.

Geithe olgothach ina diaidsidhe i Teamair 7 for Fain-labe h-i tirib Mogorna ro fallnastar xxx. annis. Ina flaith sidhe ba bindnithir la each guth araili bidh crot ar med in caincomhraich ina flaitha sidhe.

Slanoll tareisi n-Geith is na flaithus in raib gallra for dainib in Ere; ro allnastair h-i Teamair 7 slan for Ere xxx. annis.

Bagag ollfiacha tareisi Slanuill ro fallnastair for Eirenn i Teamair xxx. annis. Is na flaith sidhe tinscanta coicce in Ere.

Bearngal tareisi in B[agog] ro fallnastair for Ere a Teamair xxx. annis. Is na flaithnus sidhe a roeuir ith in Ere acht miach eo leith ar med coiecthe in Erinn 7 ara lin.

Ite sin na vii. riga ro gabsat Erenn di Cruithnib Alban.

Di Cruithnib Erinn din di Dalnaraaidhe, na vij. Laichse Laing 7 na vij. Sodhan Erind 7 each Conailli fil in Erind.

De genelach Dalnaraaidhe.

Geide olgothach after him at Teamhair, and over Fain-Laibe in the county of Mughdorn. He ruled for thirty years. In his reign the voices of all sounded as the music of the harp to each other, so great was the peace in his reign.

Slanoll after Geide. In his reign no person in Erin was diseased. He governed at Teamhair, and health was over Erin thirty years.

Bagag ollfiacha after Slanoll. He governed Erin at Teamhair thirty years. It was in his reign that wars were first begun in Erin.

Bearngal after Bagag. He governed Erin at Teamhair thirty years. It was in his reign that all the corn of Erin, except one sack and a half, was destroyed on account of the wars in Erin, and for their frequency.

These then are the seven kings that ruled over Erin of the Cruithneach of Alban.

Of the Cruithneach of Erin, i.e., of Dalaraidhe, are the seven Laighsi of Leinster, and the seven Soghains, and all the Conailli that are in Erin.

Of the descent of the Dalnaraaidhe.

XLIII.

TRACT ON THE PICTS, BEFORE MCCCXCI.

MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF BALLIMOTE.

In tan don thainig loingis meic Milidh gur gabsad i n-Gearmain ina h-oirrtur, do ladar da n-ocht deg milidh do mileadaibh Traicia for loingeas gu macu Milidh .i fo clu uirdracus na loingsi combadar in naentaidh meic Milidh 7 do rarrngairseadar saidhe doibhsium soighe thire leo dia n-ghabbhais tir feisin de sin tra rothsealgadar Gaidhil ar eigin in tir a fhilead Cruithneachu. In mileidh sin tra do ladar a Traicia i Cruitheantuaith.

TRANSLATION.

Now when the fleet of the sons of Milidh came to possess in Germany in the east, there came twice eighteen soldiers of the soldiers of Thrace in ships to the sons of Milidh, that is, from the fame and renown of that fleet, till they united with the sons of Milidh, who promised them that they should obtain lands with them if they should themselves acquire a country. The Gaidhil afterwards landed them by force in the land in which are the Cruithneachu. These soldiers thns went from Thraee to Cruithentuath.

FIFTEENTH CENTURY.

XLIV.

TRACT ON THE PICTS, BEFORE MCCCCXVIII.

MS. R. I. A. DUBL. BOOK OF LECAIN.

a FOL. 13. b FOL. 286.¹

Isin bliadin cetna sin tancatar Cruithnigh a tir Tracia,
.i. clanna Geleoin mac Ereail iat (Ieathirsi ananmada)
.i. Cruithne mac Cinge² mic Luchtai mic Partholain mic
Agnoin mic Buain mic Mais mic Fathecht mic Jafed mic
Noe. Ise athair Cruithnec 7 ced bliadhain do irrigi.

Secht meic Cruithnec andso .i. Fib, Fidac, Fotla, Fortreann, Cait, Cee, Cirig³ 7 a vij. randaib ro randsat a forba⁴ (anail adfed in file).

Morseisser meic Cruithne iarsin
A vii. ro randsat Albain⁵

TRANSLATION.

IN the same year came the Cruithnigh from the land of Thrace, viz., the clan Geleoin, son of Ereal they, Ieathirsi was their name, viz., Cruithne son of Cinge, son of Luchtai, son of Partolan, son of Agnoin, son of Buan, son of Mais, son of Fathecht, son of Jafet, son of Noe.

He was the father of the Cruithnec, and was a hundred years in the sovereignty.

These were the seven sons of Cruithne, viz., Fib, Fidac, Fotla, Fortrean, Cait, Cee, Cirig, and they divided the land into seven portions, as the poet relates.

Seven sons of Cruithne then Into seven divided Alban,

¹ The words within parenthesis are in b only.

² b reads Inge.

³ b reads Airig, and adds cetach.

⁴ b reads fearaunt.

⁵ b reads randsal ar seacht a fearand, divided into seven their territory.

Cait, Cee, Ciri[g], cetach clann.
Fib, Fidach, Fotla, Fortrend.
Et ise ainm each a fir dib ful for a fearunu,—
Fibh xxiiij. bliadna ¹ irrigi n-Alban.
Fidach xl. bliadhain.
Fortrend lxx.	Urpont.
Cait xxij.	B. Urleo.
Ce xij.	B. Uileo.
Cirice lxxx.	B. Grant.
Aenbecean v.	B. Urgrant.
Cait xxx.	B. Gnith.
Finnechta lx.	B. Uirgnith.
(Guidit Gadbre).	(B. Feth.)
Feth i. Ges. ²	B. Uinfeachtair.
Gest, ³ (Guirid) xl.	B. Cal.
Urgeist xxx.	B. Ureal.
Bruide pont xxx. b. ³ irrigi n-Uladh. Is de asberta Bruige fer a gach fer dib edrenda na fer

Cait, Cee, Cirig, a warlike clan,
Fib, Fidac Fotla, Fortren.
And this was the name of each man of them and their territory.
Fibh twenty-four years in the sovereignty of Alban,— Fidach forty years.
Fortren seventy [years]	Urpont.
Cait twenty-two [years].	Brude Urleo.
Ce twelve [years].	Brude Uileo.
Cirice eighty [years].	Brude Grant.
Aenbecean five [years].	Brude Urgrant.
Cait thirty [years].	Brude Gnith.
Finnechta sixty [years].	Brude Uirgnith.
Guidid Gadbre.	Brude Feth
Feth, id est, Ges.	Brude Uirfeachtair.
Gest Guirid forty [years].	Brude Cal.
Urgeist thirty [years].	Brude Ureal.
Brude pont thirty years in the sovereignty of Uladh. They were called Bruige each man of them, and the divisions of the men.

¹ b has bliadainar fhichit, twenty-one years. | bruide or for bliadhain, that is, thirty Brudes or thirty years; b

² b omits Feth, and has Ges only. | reads bliadain.

³ b. may be the contraction for

Bruige Cint (B. Urchind), B. Fet, B. Urfet, B. Ru. aile. Ro gabastair l. ar da. c. bliadhain utest a leabharach na Cruithnech.

Brude Ero, Brude Gart, Brude Urgart, Brude Cind, Brude Ureind, Brude Uip, Brude Uruip, Brude Grith, Brude Urgrith, Brude Muin, Brude Urmuin, Brude.¹

Do rigaibh Cruithneach andsin.

Seissir tosech tancatar co h-Erind i. vj. braitre, Solen, Ulpa, Nechtan, Trostan, Oengus, Letenn. Fath a tiachtua (a n-Erinn) i. Policormus righ Tracia do rat gradh dia siair eor tinall a breith een tochra. Lotar iarsin (eo ro triallsad) tar Romhanchu eo Franco 7 cumdaigisit caitir andsin, i. Pictairus a Pictus (a h-ainm) i. o na rannaibh 7 do rat righ Frange gradh dia siair. Lotar for muir iar nec in tseisidh² brathair, i. Lethenn. I cind da la iar n-dul ar muir adbath a siur.

Gabhsat Cruithnigh an Inberslaine ann Ib Cendsealaigh.

Bruige Cint, Brude Urcind, Bruide Fet, Brude Urfet, Brude Ru. other. They possessed two hundred and fifty years, as it is in the books of the Cruithnech.³

Brude Ero, Brude Gart, B. Argart, B. Cind, Brude Ureind, B. uip, B. Uruip, B. Grith, B. Urgrith, B. Muin, B. Urmuin, B. Of the kings of the Cruithneach there.

Six tosechs came to Erin, viz., six brothers, Solen, Ulpa, Nectan, Trostan, Angus, Letenn. The reason of their coming to Erin, viz., Policornis, king of Tracia, fell in love with their sister, and he attempted to get her without a dowry. They then set out and passed through the Romans into France, where they built a city, viz., Pictairis, a Pictis, was its name, viz., from the points, and the king of France fell in love with their sister. They set out upon the sea after the death of the sixth brother, viz., Letenn. In two days after they had gone to sea died their sister.

The Cruithneach landed at Inverslaine in the Cennsealaigh.

¹ Brude not in b.

² b reads chuivel the fifth.

³ This part of the tract appears to have been transcribed from an older copy written in double columns, and copied without adverting to that, so as to interperse the thirty Brudes through the text. It is here printed so as to show how the confusion arose; these two lines should follow the sentence which precedes "Bruige Cint," and all the Brudes should come after this sentence.

Atbert friu Crimthand Sgiathbel righ Laigen do berad failte doib ar dieur Tuaithe Figdha doibh. Atbert Dros-tan drai Cruithneach riu co fairfedh iat ar log dfagbail 7 ise med¹ .i. bleghan vij. xx. bo find mail do dortad h-i fail ferfaighe in cath doibh. Unde Cath Ardlemnachta an Ib Cendselaig re Tuathaibh Figda .i. tuath do Bretnaib ro bai hi Fothardaib 7 (nem) ar an armaib. Marb cach oen ar an dergtais (7 ni gebdis acht iarnaidi nemu umpsu. Cach aen do gobtha) do Laigen isin cath ni dentais acht loighi isin lemnacht 7 in cuimgitis neim ni doibh. Ro marb-tha iarsin Tuatha Figda. Marb cethrar iarsin do Chruthen-tuath .i. Drostan, Solen, Nechtan, Ulpa (iar n-dichar in chatha), 7 is bert isin duain.²

Ardlemnachta as tarsi thess
 Finnat each aen bus eces³
 Cret dar len in-tainm sin sloinn
 Ro gab o aimser Crimthaind.

Cremthand Sciathbel, the king of Leinster, told them that they should have welcome from him on condition that they should destroy the Tuath Figda. Now Trostan, the druid of the Cruithneach, said to them that he would help them if he were rewarded. And this was the cure, viz., to spill the milk of seven score hornless white cows near the place where the battle was to be fought, viz., the battle of Ardleamnachta in Ui Cennselaigh, against the Tuatha Figda, viz., a tribe of Britons, who were in the Fotherns with poison on their weapons. Any man wounded by them died, and they carried nothing about them but poisoned iron. Every one of the Leinster men who was pierced in the battle had nothing more to do than lie in the new milk, and then the poison affected him not. The Tuath Figda were all killed afterwards. Four of the Cruithneach died after that, viz., Trostan, Solen, Nectan, Ulpa, and this poem was sung.

Ardleamnacta in this southern country
 Each learned one may ask,
 Why it is called by this distinctive name
 Which it bears since the time of Crimthand ?

¹ b reads leiges.

² b reads conud doibsin rochan

| in senchaid so, it was for them the poet sang this.

³ b reads cach an cach egis.

Crimthaind Sciathbel e ro gabh
 Dar saerad ar chath cruadh¹
 Da n-din ar neimib na n-arm
 Na n-athach n-uathmhar n-agarbh.
 Seisiur Cruithneach ro cind Dia
 Tancatar a tir Tracia
 Solen, Ulpa, Nechtan nar
 Aengus, Ledend is Drostan.
 Ro thindlaic Dia doib tre thus Dia n-dil dia n-utrus
 Dia n-din ar nemib an arm
 Na n-athach n-uathmar na garb.
 Is e eolus do uair doib
 Drai na Cruithneach nir b-esgoir
 Tri l. bo mail don mhuigh
 Do blegon do n-aen chuithidh.
 Ro cuireadh an cath co cacht
 Mon chuitigh imbi leannacht

Crimthan Sciathbel it was that engaged
 To free him of the hard battle,
 When defencelss against poisoned arms
 Of the hateful horrid giants
 Six of the Cruithneach—so God ordained—
 Came out of the land of Tracia,
 Solen, Ulpa, Nectan the heroic,
 Angus, Ledend, and Trostan.
 God willed unto them in munificence
 For their faithfulness, for their reward,
 To protect them from the poisoned arms
 Of the hateful horrid giants.
 The knowledge made for them
 By the Druid of the Cruithnech, who was no enemy,
 Thrice fifty cows of the plains
 To be milked by him into one pit.
 The battle was closely fought
 Near the pit in which was the milk ;

¹ b reads curad, of heroes.

Ro maigh in cath co calma
For aitheachaib ard banba.

Ard.

Et issin u-aimsir h-Erimon gabais Gub acus a mac i. Cathluan macGuib .i. Ri Cruithmech nert mor for Erind. No co rus indarba h-Erimon a h-Erind 7 co n-dernsat sidh iarsin¹ 7 eo tard h-Erimoin doib mna na fear ro baigedh maille Donn² .i. mna Bress mna Buass 7 Buaigne³ 7 ratha n-gren 7 escu conabugh lugu do gebthai do rigi 7 du doman o mnailb inas o feraib a Cruithentuath co brath 7 anais sesiur dib os Bregmagh 7 is uaithibh cach gess 7 cach sen 7 cach sregh 7 gotha en 7 gach mana 7 gach upaidh (do gnithear).

Cathluain imorro ba h-ardri forro uile 7 ise ced righ rogab Alban dib. LXX. righ dibh for Alban o Chathluan eo Constantin 7 ise Cruithnech deigenach rogab dib. Da mac Cathluain .i. Cathanolodar 7 Catanalachian. A da curaiddh Imm mac Pirn 7 Cing athair Cruithne. A da

The battle was bravely won
Against the giants of high Banba.

And in the time of Erimon, Gub and his son, viz., Cathluan, son of Gub, acquired great power in Erin, until Erimon banished them out of Erin, and they made peace after that, and Erimon gave them the wives of the men who were drowned along with Donn, viz., the wife of Bress, the wife of Buass and Buaigne, and they declared by the sun and moon that they alone should take of the sovereignty and of the land from women rather than from men in Cruthentuath for ever ; and six of them remained in possession of Breaghmagh, and from them are derived every spell and every charm and every sneezing, and the voices of birds and all omens and all talismans that are made.

Cathluan, moreover, was sovereign over them all, and he was the first king of them that possessed Alban. There were seventy kings of them over Alban from Cathluan to Constantin, and he was the last Cruithnech that took of them. The two sons of Cathluan, viz., Cathanolodar and Cathanalacean. His two sruith i. Crus 7 Cirie. A da milidh Uasnem a fili, Cruithne a cerd. Domnall mac Alpin ise a taisech 7 isadh asbertait araile comadh h-e Cruithne mac Loichit mac Cinge tisadh do chuindgidh ban for Erimon 7 comadh do do beradh Erimon mna na fear do baithedh maill fri Donn. . . .

¹ b inserts here the last paragraph, containing the account of Cruithnechan.

² This sentence not in b.

³ b adds 7 na toiseach ro baitea uile, and of the other toseachs who were drowned, and omits the two lines which follow.

An t-oichtmud bliadain iarsain. . . . No comad isin bliadain sin¹ do dechaid Cruithneachan mac Cinge meic Loichit la Bretno Fortrend do cath² fri Saxancho 7 ro selaig (a clann 7 a claideam) tir doib i. Cruithentuaith acus tarastair tir acco³ acht ni batar mna leo ar beabais bandtracht Alban (do gallroib). Do luid imorro Cruithneachan for culo eo macaib Miledh 7 ro gabad neamh 7 talamh grian 7 escea muir 7 tir drucht 7 daithe⁴ comad o mnaib⁵ flacht forro eo brath (7 adbert) di mnai dee foreraid batar ie macecaib Miledh ro baitea a fir issin fairgi thiар ar aen ri Dond conad do feraib Ereand flacht for Cruithentuaith o sin do gres.

heroes, Imm son of Pirnn, and Cing, the father of Cruithne. His two wise men, Crns and Cirie. His two soldiers, Uasnem the poet, Cruithne the artificer. Domnall son of Alpin was his toseh.

And others say that it was Cruthme, son of Loichit, son of Cinge, himself that came to ask women from Erimon, and that it was to him Erimon gave the wives of the men who were drowned with Donn.

In the eighth year after that went Cruthneehan, son of Cinge, son of Loichit, to the Britons of Fortren to battle against the Saxons, and they yielded the children and the sword-land to them, viz., Cruthentuath, and they took possession of the land, but they had no wives, because all the women of Alban died of diseases. Crutlneehan therefore went back to the sons of Miledh, and he swore by the heaven and the earth, the sun and the moon, the sea and the land, the dew and the elements, that of women should be the royal succession among them for ever. He obtained twelve women that remained with the sons of Miledh, whose husbands had been drowned in the western sea along with Donn, so that of the men of Erin has been the chieftainship over Cruthentuath from that time ever since.

¹ b inserts here o macaib Miledh, | ³ tarastair tir acco, not in b.
from the sons of Miledh. | ⁴ drucht 7 daithe not in b.

² b reads cathugad, to war | ⁵ b reads beith do maith sin, to against. | be propitious to them.

XLV.

TRACT ON THE SCOTS, BEFORE MCCCCXXXVII.

MS. BRIT. MUS. BIB. REG. 13. E. X.

Fol. 20. DOMINUS Neyile siue Neolus rex Schithie in Grecia fuit a Noe xx^{us} descendens de iuniore filio Japhet a quo milicia. Hie fuit pater Gathelos sponsi Scote. Dardanus rex Frigie in Turk pater Erotomi, cuius filius Ilus, cuius filius Leamidon, qui fuit pater Priami et Anchisee.

Priamus fuit pater Hectoris, Anchises pater Enee, cuius filius Aschaneus, cuius filius Brutus.

Scota fuit a principio mundi iij^m vj^e lxxxix. annis.

Ante destruccionem Troie iij^e ix. annis.

Ante Romanam conditam vij^e lx. annis.

Ante Nativitatem i^m v^e lxj. annis.

Scoti r[egnaverunt] ante Pictos ij^e xl ix. annis iij. mensibus.

Picti regn[averunt] in Scocia i^m ccxxiiij. annis et novem mensibus.

Quingentis mille cum sexaginta monosque

Annis ut repperi, precessit tempora Christi;

Rex Pharao populum fugientem per mare rubrum.

Regnum Scotorum fuit inter cetera regna

Terrarum quondam nobile forte potens

Post Britones Noricos Dacos Anglos quoque Pictos

Expulsos Scotti ius tenuere suum

Et Romanorum spreuerunt vim validorum

Exemplo quorum pensate preteritorum

Inclita Scotorum proles laudem genitorum

Scocia Romanis vi metu subdita vanis

Non fuit ex euo nec paret imperio.
Albion in terris rex primus germine Scotis
Illorum turnis rubri tulit arma leonis
Fergusius fuluo Ferthard rugientis in aruo.
Christum tercentis ter denis prefuit annis
Litifer ille leo rosidus nunc pingitur auro.
Christi transactis tribus annis atque ducentis
Scocia catholicam cepit inire fidem
Roma uictorie primo, papa residente
Principe sereno, martir et occubuit.
C. quater deca ter, a carne Dei numerabis
In Scocia quando legem Christi renouabis ;
Lex Christi colitur hanc pallidio renouante,
Quem Celestinus Scocie miserat prior ante
Annis quingentis Anglos Scotti perierte,
Hos tamen et Brutus precessit in ordine tutus,
Sunt tria que miserum faciunt de diuite clerum
Sumere sepe merum gula uentris amor mulierum.

XLVI.

METRICAL CHRONICLE, COMMONLY CALLED
THE CHRONICON RHYTHMICUM.a MS. BIB. CATH. EDIN.b MS. BIB. COLL. EDIN.

QUO TEMPORE ANTE INCARNACIONEM CHRISTI INCEPIT SCOTA, A QUA SCOTIA.

QUISQUE loqui gaudet validus, de sanguine puro
 Quorundam precibus de Scotis dicere euro ;
 Unde fui generis, ortus primenus habetur :
 Quorum posteritas¹ trans tempora perpetuetur.
 Quiequid narabo, per cronica scripta² probabo
 De uesterum gestis, reliquorum sum quia testis :
 Scribere nam volui, mihi que presentia vidi.³
 Adam primeum non incipiā numerare,
 Quomodo nec dicam Noë cepit generare.
 Hoc genus a Japhet ejus nato juniore
 Quamvis descendat, referam tamen a propiore :
 Per quem dicatur stirps hec et magnificatur,
 Quingentis mille cum sexaginta monosque
 Annis ut reperi, precessit tempora Christi ;
 Agnus sub lege primus mactatus in ele.
 Biblia testatur quod tune reuocare paratur
 Rex Pharao populum, fugientem per mare rubrum ;
 Cujus rex Pharo mergitur in medio.
 Ex tunc Scotorum describam tempus et horum
 Progeniem referam, per tempora continuatam.

¹ b reads prosperitas.² b reads prisea.³ b inserts here :—

*Si rerum scribam, verum credo fore scribam ;
 Scripsero si rerum, caput est quasi non mihi sanum.*

GAITHELOS INTULIT LAPIDEM, C. IJ.

POSTQUAM passus erat Pharo, miserabile funus,
 Nobilis exierat ab Egipto Sithicus unus
 Exul, qui lapidem Pharaonis deflilit idem :
 Ut liber fatur, Gaizilglas ille vocatur.
 Hie bis undenus fuit a Japheth alienus :
 Ut sie eredatis, dat linea sanguinitatis.
 Naufraga nauigio qui plura pericula passus,
 Ad terram tandem venit sic equite lassus,
 Sed lapis hunc erexit, ipsum qui per mare vexit.
 Hie lapis, ut fatur, hec anchora vite vocatur.
 Cumque locum petiit securus ad residendum,
 Pluribus hunc annis Hispania cepit alendum,
 Cujus progenies nimis augmentatur ibidem,
 Sicut scriptura testatur condita pridem.

DE EODEM LAPIDE.

POST obitum regis Pharaonis mille duobus
 Annis, ut recolo, tunc quidam nomine Milo,
 Rex Hispanorum, qui plures magnos habebat
 Natos, illorum tamen unum plus recolebat,
 Scilicet hiis Symon cognomine Brek fuit natus,
 Cui pater exhibuit quoddam prenobile munus,
 Scilicet hanc petram : Gaizilglas quam tulit equam,
 Perque fretum gessit, ab Egypto quando recessit.
 Milo prophetavit nato, qui quem revereauit
 Letare cepit, hanc petram quando recepit ;
 Quod sua regnaret stirps, hanc quocunque locaret.
 Ecce Deo dante sicut factum¹ fuit ante,
 Sic fit in instante Symon Brec, quo mediante,
 Sic augmentante sobolis partem venientis
 Ad se suscepit Hibernia : quo residentes
 Amos per multos, horum quos vidit adulos.
 Quosdam deduxit validus Lorimoniae quidam
 Primus ad Ergadiam ; quo tempore concito dicam

¹ b reads futum.

Isti sunt ducti, dicuntur postea Scotti.
 Nam velut a Gitia Geticus, seu Gothia Gothi, Dicitur a Sithia Sithicus, sic Scocia Scotti.
 Que prius Albania sic fertur Scocia terra.
 Scotti a Scota ; de Scottis Scocia nota :
 A muliere Scota vocatur Scocia tota.¹

QUOT ANNIS REXERUNT PICTI, C. IIIJ.

Quod jam promisi, tempus sic ecce relisi :
 Bis bis centeno quater endeca, sed minus uno,
 Anno quo sumpsit primos Ergadia Scotos,
 Ut referunt isti, fuit incarnacio Christi.
 Annorum summam Pictis preoccupatorum,
 Hic dat Scotorum deca quinque centibinorum
 Et annos quindecim, tres menses jungito quidem,
 Tunc Scotti querunt anni quot preterierunt
 Postquam vicerunt Pictos, qui tunc coluerunt
 Albaniam, citra Drumalban, sed minus ultra ;
 Ut Scotti valeant memoratum tempus habere,
 Per Scociam totam quo cepernut residere ;
 Qui Picti terram rexere mille ducentis
 Et pariter junctis viginti quatuor annis.
 Ut verum renouem, mensibus atque nouem.
 Pictis amotis, datur hec responsio Scottis ;
 D. semel et ter C. post X. ter, et X. quater inde,
 Istorum numeri monstrat,² quo tempore Christi
 Sed trans Drumalban cepit regnare Kenedus,
 Filius Alpini, Pictorum fraude perempti,
 In bello pridem quos Alpin vicerat idem.
 Sed cum septenis Kaned regnauerat annis,
 Nititur in Pictos, ulcisci funera patris ;
 Quosdam sternendo bello, quosdamque fugando.
 Ex tunc Albanie regnum totale regebat,
 Que prius in parte regni dicta refidebat ;
 Progenies cuius jus regni nunc tenet hujus.

¹ These two lines not in *b.*² b reads monstrantur.

PRIMUS REX REGNAUIT IN ARGADIA.

Ex annis Domini qui eontinue renouantur,
 Apparet per quot annos Scotti dominantur :
 Sic patet in genere de tempore sufficienter.
 Reges nunc referam qui regnauere frequenter.¹
 In tamen Ergadia vixit per tempora multa
 Hec gens sub lege nature, sed sine rege,
 Donec ad Ergadiam tulit audax nomine quidam
 Fergusius lapidem de quo fit mencio pridem.
 Hic primo rexit Scottos, lapidem quia vexit.
 Quem Scotti lapidem sanxerunt ponere sedem,
 Regibus inde suis tantum, sed non alienis.²

DE CONTINUACIONE REGUM USQUE AD KENEDUM.

Primus in Ergadia Fergus rexit tribus annis,
 Post Donegard quinis, Congal quater octo bis,
 Endeca bis Gouren, sed quatuor et deca Conal,
 Quatuor et deca bis Edhan, x. sex Eogledbod,
 Kynath Ker per tres rexit tantummodo menses,
 Sed Ferquibarth annos per quatuor et duodenos.
 Bis septem Donenald, octo bis Maldoine annis,
 Ter septem Ferard, tredecim sed rexit Eoged,
 Armkeloch uno, sed tredecim regnauit Eogain,
 Rex Murlahw trinis, Noegaw uno quoque binis,
 Hetfin per deca ter, Fergus tres sed Sealvanach
 Quatuor et deca bis : sed Eogadaninque tricensis,
 Dungal septenis, Alpinus sed tribus annis.
 Annis septenis Kenedus filius Alpyn.
 Hii cum predictis regnauerunt tempore Pictis,
 Quod trecentenos quatuor octoque continent annos ;
 Hiis annis et tres debetis jungere menses.³

¹ b reads sequenter.

² b adds the following line :—

Ut Scoma testatur usque tunc lapis iste locatur.

³ b inserts here the following lines, taken from the poem in No. XLV. They are manifestly interpolated—

*Christi transactis tribus annis atque ducentis,
 Scotia catholicam cepit inire filium.*

DE CONTINUACIONE REGUM SCOTORUM.

Et postquam Kenedus Pictos omnino fugauit,
 Annos octo bis regnando continuauit.
 Douenald Machalbyn post rexit quatuor annis,
 Sed[ecim] Constantinus, Ed vno, Greg duodenis,
 Donald vndenis, Constantin bisque vicenis.
 Malcolmus primus, sic Macduf,¹ quisque nouenis ;
 Sed Duf per senos menses et quatuor annos.
 Per tantum Culen, sed Kened sex quater annis,
 Mensibus et binis : Constantinusque per annum,
 Et menses senos tantum, Greg octo per annos,
 Malcolm per deca ter, Duncan sex, sed deca septem
 Macbeth, sed Lahoulan per menses quatuor, atque
 Malcolm Kenremor annos per ter deca septem,
 Et menses octo : cujus frater Douenalldus
 Annos compleuit trinos regnando vicissim.
 Dum Duncan medio sex menses tempore vixit.

DEHINC REGES SCOTORUM PROCESSERUNT DE STIRPE TAM
 SAXONUM, SIUE ANGLORUM, QUAM SCOTORUM.

Tunc stirps Scotigena, Saxonum sanguine mixta,
 Cepit regnare ; quod propono reserare
 Qualiter hoc esset, ut quiuis discere possit.
 De dicto nati Kenremore tres generati
 Regnum rexerunt, quod successim tenuerunt,
 Quos Margarita peperit, regina beata,
 Heres Anglorum regum, regina Scotorum.

*Roma Victore primo Papa residente.
 C. quater et deca ter a caru' Dei numerabis,
 In Scocia quando legem Christi renouabis,
 Lex Christi colitur, hanc Palladio renouante,
 Primus Celestinus Scocie quem miserat ante.
 Precedunt Scotti quingentis Anglicis annis,
 Quamvis et cedit ante hos Brutis, et obedit.
 Albius in terris rex primus germine Scotus,
 Illorum turmis rubri tulit armis leonis
 Fergusius fulvo Ferchard rugientis in arvo.
 Christum ter centis ter denis prefuit annis.
 Lilifer ille leo rosidus nunc pingitur auro.*

¹ b reads correctly Indulf.

Ex quo qui¹ dubitat Anglorum cronica querat :
 Per quam coniugium Scotis prebetur in vsum.
 Non erat istorum generacio dico duorum
 Fratrum primorum ; genuit tamei ultimus horum²
 Regia stirps, quorum successio nunc referatur.
 Annis ter trinis et trinis mensibus Edgar
 Primus regnauit de natis quos generauit
 Malcolmus cum dicta Margarita beata.³
 Hinc Alexander annis rexit deca septem
 Mensibus atque tribus, septimanisque duabus.
 Iste secundus erat fratum ; sed tertius extat,
 Dauid, vicenis regnans annisque nouenis,
 Mensibus et trinis ; Tunc Malcolm filius Henri
 Annis bis senis, et semis regna regebat.
 Ut rumor⁴ gessit hic Malcolm virgo recessit.
 At Henricus erat natus regis quoque Dauid,
 Quem rex is Dauid ex Matilda generauit ;
 Heres que fuerat Hundingtonie comitatus,
 Cujus sic esset, si posset viuere natus ;
 Qui bello moritur de Cothon, sed sepelitur
 In abbacia nomine Calcouia.
 Hec Matilda datur de Sanlice, que tumulatur
 In Seona ; ejus templum bustum tenet hujus.
 Quadraginta ix. Willelmus rexerat annis,
 Cujus Willelmi genitor dictus fuit Henri ;
 Et pariter comitis de Dunde, nomine Dauid.
 Tres sibi sorores fuerant, Britan. comitissa,
 Que Margarita Conano conjugi data,
 Hec junior datur germana, sed altra vocatur
 Nobilis Adissa ; fuit hec Holand comitissa,
 Conjungioque datus erat huic de Rosse comitatus
 Morte preuentam Matildam dic, et immuptam.

¹ b reads hoc instead of quo qui.² b inserts after this line--

Per quem Scotorum generando continuatur.

³ b reads benedicta.⁴ b reads ut res se.

DE NOBILI POLITICO ALEXANDRO IIJ.

Hactenus hec dicta noui¹ per cronica scripta,
 A modo que noui scriptis describere voui.
 Alter Alexander, quem rex Willelmus habebat
 Natum, ter denis annis et quinque regebat.
 Hie Alexander alium fertur genuisse,
 Hunc alium ternum pro certo dico fuisse.
 Ternus Alexander ter denis rexerat annis
 Et septem fere. Ve Scotis, qui caruere
 Principe tam grato, largo, mitique, beato,
 Qui quinquagenus regum fuit ordine primus.
 Hie princeps annos Domini post mille ducentos
 Atque nouem nouies, sed quatuor hiis superaddes
 Kyngorn non rite persoluit debita vite,
 Scilicet Aprilis decimo quartoque Kalendas;
 Quo decet exequias² celebrari perficiendas,
 Ne valeant obitum monachi seruare sopitum,
 A quibus incolitur Dunfermelyn, sed sepelitur.
 Tanti tumba viri studio meliore poliri
 Debuit, artificum si funus haberet amicum.
 Post mortis morsum vertit dilectio dorsum,
 Finita vita finit amor, et ita,
 Corpus predicti regis sine prole relieti,
 Post annis fere septem Scotti doluere,
 Quod regem vere tot aristis non habuere.³

¹ b reads sciuī.² b reads obsequias.³ b inserts here the following chapter:—

*Tunc regni proceres in regem non potuerunt
 Consentire nouum; quia diuersi petierunt
 Diuersum regem nec erat jus soluere legem:
 Scilicet, ut junior soboles, spreta seniore
 In regno regeret, dixerunt pro meliore.
 Hinc dicti proceres Edwardum consuluerunt
 Anglorum regem, cuius responsa fuerunt
 Scilicet errorum se dixit per decretalem
 Ipsam si facerent Scocie dominum capitalem,
 Dimec judicio Scotorum discuteretur.*

DE REGE ROBERTO BROIS.

Andree festo, Domini post mille ducentos
 Atque decem nouies, cum binis insimul annis,
 Seruando morem sibi sumpsit regis honorem ;
 Quem quinquagenum regum facit ordo secundum,
 Dehinc ex toto Johanne rege remoto,
 De Brois Robertus, regum de stirpe repertus,
 Suscipit in Secona regni Scocie diadema ;
 Hec in Aprilinas sexto sunt facta Kalendas.
 Promittunt veteres quod erit hic belliger heros,
 Qui sua rura nouans regna sudabit ouans ;
 Stragibus imensis sudabit Scoticus ensis ;
 Corruit Angligena per eum gens non sine pena.
 Actenus hii toti fuerant ut plebs sua Scotti ;
 Atque Deo dante sic amodo sic velut ante.

*Quisnam rex verus illorum preficeretur.
 Istud concessa pars magna coacta Scotorum,
 Legibus obtentis, et libertatibus horum,
 Quas juramenta rex se serrare fatetur,
 Ne quid communia sine consilio renouetur.
 Invito populo, Magnates sic pepigerunt ;
 Fructus nunc audi, Scotti quos inde tulerunt.
 Scottos elegit rex, quos jurare coegerit
 Ut verum legerent regem dum rege carrent :
 Sic rex eligitur talis, quia de seniore
 Sanguine regali Scocie, spredo veriore,
 Qui comitis David de semine proveniebat,
 Regis Willelmi dam sanguis deficiebat.
 Si petis, a comite quotus hic erat in genitura,
 Quae tibi nunc referam, si nescis discere cura.
 Hunc comitem David dico natas habuisse
 Tres : quarum senior matrem fertur piperisse
 Predicti regis, electi robore legis
 Scotorum, qualis lex non est imperialis.
 Que lex illa datur, que Scottis appropriatur,
 Postquam uenerunt ab Egypcio quo delicerunt,
 Qualiter ornatus rex esset quisque creandus,
 Sic rex preficitur Scocie qui jure potitur,
 Si querat quisnam quisquam fuit hic modo dicam,
 Gracia cui nomen divina non dedit omen.*

Est totum cenum cuius caput est alienum
Sic populus cenus quando fit rex alienus.¹

DE ROBERTO BROIS.

De Brois Robertus, regum de stirpe regali,²
Bis deca rex Scotos regnauit quatuor annis,
M. semel et ter C. bis et X. nouem superadde,
Tunc rex Robertus bonus est de funere certus.
Ante suam mortem genuit similem sibi fortem,
Magnanimum Dauid Rex Robertus generauit.
Hic rex regnauit deca terque nouem simul annis,
Nullum superstes heredem corpore gignit.
Marjoria tamen soror ejusdem generauit
Galtero Stewart Robertum rite secundum :
Qui regnando decemque nouem feliciter annis
Regem Robertum generauit denique ternum.
Hie xvi. stetit annis, Jacobum quoque gignit
Primum, qui regit annis deca terque duobus ;
Ac Jacobum nostrum genuit rex iste modernum
Tempore scripture, tunc lector sit tibi cure
Quod fuit annorum septemque decem numerorum
Quem Deus exaltet, regnum regat, atque gubernet.

¹ b inserts here sixteen chapters, which it is not thought necessary to add here; they are obviously interpolated, and will be found in the copy of the "Chronicon Rhythmicum" printed at the end of Goodall's edition of Fordun, in six chapters, under the following headings :—De captione Berwici, De perfidia Eadwardi Angli, De Willelmo Wallace, De variis regibus Anglie, De Danis regibus, De Normannis regibus.

² b reads reperitus.

XLVII.

FROM METRICAL HISTORY BY WILLIAM BOSCHE,
ARCHBISHOP OF YORK, MCCCL.-MCCCCLX.

MS. BRIT. MUS. COTT. CLEOPATRA, C. IV.

DE ADVENTU SCOTORUM IN BRITANNIAM.

PERUAGA Scotica gens : hibernica rura relinquens Fol. 18.
 Occiduis residet : partibus Albanie,
 Occidue primo : sed post Ergadia iuneta,
 Cesserunt Scotis : pristina scripta ferunt
 Federe cum ferro : Picti Scottis sociantur
 Ficta fides fuerant : exitus acta probant
 Mensa funesta : Picti cum fraude Scotorum
 Artis, non martis, deperiere dolo.
 Expulsis Pictis : dampnanda calliditate
 Ad loca montana : preripiuerre Scotti,
 Montes predicti : fines sunt Berniciorum
 Juris et Anglorum : scribit ut inde Beda,
 Vltro citro que : Scoticum mare Berniciorum
 Transalpes sola : Scocia dicta fuit.
 In cunctis planis : Anglorum lingua choruseat
 Ast in montanis : barbara Scota sonat.
 Gregorius sedem : decreuit sic renouandam
 Vt perseueret : metropolis et honor
 Gentes finitimas : duodenos pontificesque
 Gregorius statuit : metropoli subici
 Omnibus Elwynus : populis quos iure regebat
 Pastor Paulinus : prefuit ille pater
 Sieque Deirorum : Scotorum Berniciorum
 Primas Orchadibus : et patriarcha fuit

Hos pater Egbertus : Anglus sermone disertus
Ecclesie ritum : catholice docuit
Reges Scotorum : Kalixtus pontificesque
Metropoli pariter : obsequiare iubet
Sic Eboracensem : Scotorum metropolitam
Declarant summi : pontifices varii
Danpnant electos : sacrari posse vicissim
Archipontificis : sed proprii manibus
Regum Scotorum : Manie simul et Noricorum
Singula premissa : signaque scripta probant.

XLVIII.

FROM THE ANNALS OF SENAIT MAC MANUS, COMMONLY CALLED THE ANNALS OF
ULSTER, MCCCCXCVIII.a MS. BODL. RAWLINSON, 489.b MS. TRIN. COLL. DUBL. H. I. 8.¹

A.D.

- 434 KAL Jan. ij. f. l. v. Anno Domini ecccxxxij.
(Cet nabrat Saxon di Ere.)^a
- 446 Kal. Jan. iij. f. l. 18. Anno Domini ecccxlvj.
Bellum Femin in quo cecidit filius Coerthni filii Coelboth. Alii dicunt di Cruithnibh^b fuisse.
- 464 Kal. Jan. 4. f. l. 7. Anno Domini eccclxij.
Primum bellum Airdacorainn ria Laighnib.^c Anglii venerunt in Angliam.
- 466 Kal. Jan. 7. f. l. 29. Anno Domini eccclxvj.
Domangart mac Nissi quievit.
- 471 Kal. Jan. 6. f. l. 24. Anno Domini eceelxxj.
Preda secunda Saxonum de Hibernia, ut alii dicunt, in isto anno deducta est, ut Mocteus dicit. Sic in libro Cuanae inveni.
- 504 Kal. Jan. v. f. l. 29. Anno Domini ecccc³o.
Bellum Mhanann la Aedan.
- 505 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini ecccc⁴o.
Mors Bruidi meic Maileon.

^a The first foray of the Saxons in Ireland.^b Of the Cruithne.^c by the Leinstermen.¹ The words within parentheses are in b only.

- 507 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini ccccc6^o
 Bellum Ardaeorain 7 ut alii dicunt, Domangart mac
 Nisse Episcopus Conere hic quievit.¹
- 508 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini D7^o
 Vel hic, Cath Ardaeorann.
- 511 Kal. Jan. 7. f. l. 16. Anno Domini Dx.
 Vel hic, Bellum secundum Ardaeorann, ut alii dicunt.
- 519 Kal. Jan. 3. f. l. 15. Anno Domini Dx8^o
 Nativitas Coluimeille eodem die quo Bute mac Bronaig dormivit. Quies Darerce que Moninne nominata est.
- 523 Kal. Jan. 1. f. l. 29. Anno Domini Dxxij^o
 Vel hic nativitas Coluimeille.²
- 538 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dxxx7.
 Mors Comgaill meic Domangairt xxxv^o³ anno regni.
- 542 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dxlij.
 Mors Comgaill meic Domangairt.
- 545 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dxli4^o
 Vel hic, Mors Comgaill ic Domangairt (ut alii dicunt).
- 558 Kal. Jan. 3. f. l. 26. Anno Domini Dl7.
 Mors Gabrain meic Domangairt.
- 560 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dlix^o Mors Gabrain meic Domangairt, fere alias (Inmirge re meic Maelcon i. Brude rex.^d)
- 563 Kal. Jan. 2. f. l. 21. Anno Domini Dlxij^o Navigatio Sancti Columbae de Hibernia.⁴
- 568 Kal. Jan. i. f. l. 16. Anno Domini Dlx7^o Feet in iardoman la Colman m-becc meic n-Diar-mato 7 Conall meic Comghaill.^e
- 570 Kal. Jan. 4. f. l. 9. Anno Domini Dlxix^o
 Gillas obiit.

^d Expulsion by the son of Maelcon, viz., Brude the king.^e Expedition to the western region by Colman beg, son of Diarmait, and Conall son of Comgall.¹ b reads secessit.² b reads *Coluimeille natus est.*³ b reads *xxij?*⁴ Not in b.

- 574 Kal. Jan. 2. f. l. 23. Anno Domini Dlxx3.
 (Bellum Tola γ Fortola in regionibus Cruitne) Mors Conaill meic Comgaill anno regni xvij. sui qui obtulit insolam Iae Coluimcille.
- 576 Kal. Jan. 4. f. l. 15. Anno Domini Dlxx5.
 Bellum Telocho i Ciunnntire, sintilla leprae γ habundantia nucum, in quo ceciderunt¹ Duncath mac
 Conail meic Comgaill et alii multi de sociis filiorum Gabhrain.
- 577 Kal. Jan. 6. f. l. 26. Anno Domini Dlxx6.
 Bellum Telocho. Primum periculum Ulot in Eufania.
- 578 Kal. Jan. 7. f. l. 7. Anno Domini Dlxx7.
 Reversio Uloth de Eumania.
- 579 Kal. Jan. 1. f. l. 18. Anno Domini Dlxxvij.
 Occisio Aeda mac Geno.
- 580 Kal. Jan. 2. f. l. 29. Anno Domini Dlxx^oix^o Fecht orc la haedan ic Gabrain.^f Cennalat rex Pietorum moritur.
- 581 Kal. Jan. 4. f. l. Anno Domini Dlxxx.
 Mors Baetain mac Cairill. Vel hic, Fecht orc.^g
- 582 Kal. Jan. 5. f. l. Anno Domini Dlxxxij^o
 Bellum Manonn in quo vitor erat Aedhan mac
 Gabhrain.
- 583 Kal. Jan. 6. f. l. 2. Anno Domini Dlxxx^oij^o
 Bellum Manonn, fere alias.²
- 584 Kal. Jan. 7. f. l. 13. Anno Domini Dlxxx^oij^o
 Mors Bruide mac Maelcon regis Pictorum.
- 588 Kal. Jan. 5. f. l. 27. Anno Domini Dlxxx^o7^o Mors nepotum Geno. Conversio Constantini ad dominum γ nix magna.
- 590 Kal. Jan. 1. f. l. 20. Anno Domini Dlxxx^oix^o
 Bellum Leithreid la Aedan ic Gabran.

^f Expedition to Orkney by Aedan son of Gabran.^g Expedition to Orkney.¹ b reads occidit, and adds at the end of the sentence ceciderunt. | ² For fere alias b reads fri Aed- han, against Aedan.

- 592 Kal. Jan. 3. f. l. 12. Anno Domini Dxc^oj^o
Obitus Luigide Lismoer.
- 595 Kal. Jan. 7. f. l. 15. Anno Domini Dxc^o4^o Quies Coluimcille v^o idus Junii anno etatis sue lxx^o.vi^o¹ Mors Eugain meic Gabhrain.
- 596 Kal. Jan. 1. f. l. 26. Anno Domini Dxc^o5.
Bellum Ratho in druadh. Bellum Airdscendain.
Jugulatio filiorum Aedain .i. Brain 7 Domangairt.
Bellum Coraïnn.
- 598 Kal. Jan. 4. f. l. 18. Anno Domini Dxc^o7.
Quies Baetini Abbatis Jae.
- 600 Kal. Jan. 6. f. l. 10. Anno Domini Dxc^oix^o
Bellum Saxonum in quo victus est Aedhan.
- 601 Kal. Jan. 1. f. l. 21. Anno Domini Dej.
Vel hoc anno, quies Coluimcille in nocte dominica.
- 606 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dev.
Mors Aedain meic Gabrain.
- 608 Kal. Jan. 2. f. l. 9. Anno Domini Devij.
Mors Fiaerac craic meic Bactain la Cruitniu.^h
- 609 Kal. Jan. 4. f. l. 20. Anno Domini Devij.
Occisio Seachnasaig meic Garbain.
- 613 Kal. Jan. 2. f. l. 4. Anno Domini Dexij.
Bellum Caire-legion ubi Sancti occisi sunt et cecidit Solon mac Conaen rex Britannorum.
- 617 Kal. Jan. 7. f. l. 18. Anno Domini Dexvj.
Combustio Donnaimega martirum in 15 Kal. Maii cum .e.l. martiribus.²
- 621 Kal. Jan. 5. f. l. 2. Anno Domini Dexx^o
Duncath mac Eugain, Nechtan mac Canonn et Aedh obierunt.
- 622 Kal. Jan. 6. f. l. 13. Anno Domini Dexxj.
Bellum Cindeilgden. Conall mac Suibne victor

^h Death of Fiaerac Craic, son of Bactan, by the Cruithne.¹ b reads lxxijj.; ij. and v., iij. | distinguished in the Irish annals, and vi., iii. and vii. can hardly be | ² b has Combustio Martin Ega.

- erat. Duo filii Libreni meic Illandon meic Cerbaill ceciderunt. Conaing mac Aedain dimersus est.
- 623 Kal. Jan. 7. f. l. 24. Anno Domini Dexx2.
Obitus Fergnai Abbatis Iae.
- 624 Kal. Jan. 1. f. l. 5. Anno Domini Dexx3.
Nativi as Adomna' i Abb(atis Iae).
- 627 Kal. Jan. v. f. l. ix. Anno Domini Dexxyj.
Bellum Ardacorain. Dalriati victores erant in quo cecidit Fiachna filius Demain.
- 629 Kal. Jan. 1. f. l. 1. Anno Domini Dexx^o8.
Bellum Fedha-euin in quo Mailcaich mac Scannail rex Cruitne vicit. Dalriati ceciderunt. Conid cerr rex Dalriati cecidit.
Vel Bellum Fedha-euin ubi ceciderunt nepotes Aedain, Reguillon, Faelbe. Mors Echdach buidhe regis Pictorum filii Aedain. Sic in libro Cuanac inveni vel sicut in libro Duibdalethe narratur.¹
- 631 Kal. Jan. 3. f. l. 23. Anno Domini Dexxx.
Bellum filii Ailli et mors Cinedon filii Lughreni regis Pictorum.
- 632 Kal. Jan. 4. f. l. 4. Anno Domini Dexxxj.
Bellum Cathloen regis Britonum et Anfrit. Insola Medgoet fundata est.
- 633 Kal. Jan. 6. f. l. 15. Anno Domini Dexxx2.
Bellum Iudris regis Eritonum.
- 635 Kal. Jan. 1. f. l. 7. Anno Domini Dexxx4.
Mors Garthain meic Foith. Echuidh Lismoer obiit.
Bellum Seguise in quo ceciderunt Lochne mac Nechtain cennfhotai 7 Cumascach mac Aengusa 7 Gartnaith mac Oith.
- 638 Kal. Jan. 5. f. l. 10. Anno Domini Dexxx7.
Bellum Glinnenareson 7 obsessio Ein.
- 639 Kal. Jan. 6. f. l. 21. Anno Domini Dexxx8.
Jugulatio Conghaile meic Dunchada. Obitus Duinsiceae uxoris Domhnall. Bellum Osualdi regis Saxonum.

¹ Vel sicut in libro Duibdalethe narratur not in b.

- 641 Kal. Jan. 2. f. l. 13. Anno Domini Dexl^o
 Mors Bruidi filii Foith. Naufragium Scaphe familie Iae. Combustio Maeleduin in insula Caini.
- 642 Kal. Jan. 3. f. l. 24. Anno Domini Dexli.
 Mors Domhnaill mac Aedo regis Hibernie in fine
 Januarii. Postea Domhnaill breacc in bello Sraith
 Cairinn in fine anni in Decembre interfectus est ab
 Hoan rege Britonum,¹ regnavit annis xv. Bellum Oissu inter Britones.
- 643 Kal. Jan. 4. f. l. 5. Anno Domini Dexl.2.
 Bellum Cincon. Loscoth iar m-Boild meic Gart- *naidh.*ⁱ
- 645 Kal. Jan. 7. f. l. 27. Anno Domini Dexl4.
Lochene mac Fingin ri Cruitne obiit.^j
- 646 Kal. Jan. 1. f. l. 9. Anno Domini Dexl5.
Guin Scannail meic Becc meic Fiachrach regis Cruithne.^k
- 649 Kal. Jan. 5.f.l. xj. al. xij. Anno Domini Dexl8.
*Cocat huac Naedain 7 Gartnait meic Accidain.*¹ Quies Fursei in Britannia.
- 650 Kal. Jan. 6. f. l. 22 al. 23. Anno Domini Dexlix.
 Bellum Ossu fri Pante. Mors Catusaig meic Domh- naill briec.
- 651 Kal. Jan. 7. f. l. 4. Anno Domini Del^o
 Quies Aedain Episcopi Saxonum.
- 652 Kal. Jan. 1. f. l. 15. Anno Domini Delj.
 Obitus Seigni Abbatis Iae .i. filii Fiachne.
- 653 Kal. Jan. 3. f. l. 25. Anno Domini Del^o2^o
 Mors Ferit meic Totolain et Tolaирg meic Fooith regis Pictorum.

ⁱ The burning after of Boidb, son of Gartnaidh.^j Lochene, son of Fingin, king of the Cruithne, dies.^k Slaughter of Scannal, son of Becc, son of Fiachrach, king of the Cruithne.¹ The war of the grandsons of Naedan and of Gartnait, son of Accidan.

- 654 Kal. Jan. 4. f. l. 7. Anno Domini Del^o3^o
 Bellum i Ratho Ethairt^m ubi Duncath mac Conaing cecidit. Aedo roin mac Maelcobo.
- 656 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Del⁵.
 Bellum Pante regis Saxonum, Ossu victor erat.
 Bellum Annae.
- 657 Kal. Jan. 1. f. l. 10. Anno Domini Del^o6^o
 Obitus Suibnii meic Cuirtri abbatis Iae. Bellum
 Delend in quo interfectus est Maeldeiit mac Conaill.
 Mors Tolargain meie Ainfrith regis Pictorum.
- 658 Kal. Jan. 2. f. l. 21. Anno Domini Del⁷^o
 Mors Gureit regis Alocluaithe γ Fergail filii Domnaill.
- 660 Kal. Jan. 4. f. l. 13. Anno Domini Del⁹.
 Obitus Finnani Episcopi filii Rimedo et Daniel Episcopus Cimngarad. Conall crannamna moritur.
 Euganan mac Totalain defunctus est.
- 663 Kal. Jan. 1. f. l. 16. Anno Domini Delx2.
 Mors Gartnaid filii Domhnaill γ Domhnaill meic
 Totolain. (Mors) Tuathail meie Morgaind.
- 664 Kal. Jan. 2. f. l. 27. Anno Domini Delx3.
 Bellum Luto-feirni et terre motus in Britannia.
- 666 Kal. Jan. 5. f. l. 20. Anno Domini Delx5.
Macleach mac Seannail di Cruitnib obiit.ⁿ Eocha Iarlait rex Cruitne moritur.
- 668 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxvij.
 Navigatio Columbani Episcopi cum reliquis Sancto-rum ad Insulam vaccae albe in qua fundavit Ecclesiam γ navigatio filiorum Gartnaid ad Hiberniam cum plebe Seeth.
- 669 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxvij.
 Obitus Cummeni albi Abbatis Iae. Itarnan γ Corindu apud Pictores defuncti sunt. Jugulatio Maelduin (mac Maenaic).

^m In Rath Ethart.ⁿ Maelcach, son of Scannal of the Cruithne, dies.

- 670 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxix.
 Jugulatio Maelduin (nepotis Ronain.) Venit gens Gartnait de Hibernia. Mors Dunchadha mac¹ Ronain.
- 571 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxx.
 Mors Ossu filii Etilbrit regis Saxonum. Maelrubai in Britanniam navigavit.
- 672 Kal. Jan. 5. f. 26. Anno Domini Delxxj.
 Mors Cumaseaich meic Ronain. Expulsio Drosto de regno et combustio Bennchari Britonum.
- 673 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxxij.
 Combustio Maigiluinge. Jugulatio Domaingairt meic
 Domhnaill brice regis Dalriati. Navigatio Faelbei Abbatis Iae in Hiberniam. Maelrubai fundavit ecclesiam Aporeroosan.
- 675 Kal. Jan. 2. f. l. 29. Anno Domini Delxxiv.
 Jugulatio Armetaig ic² Guaire. Mors Nae meic Danel.
 Mors filii Paute.
- 676 Kal. Jan. 3. f. l. x. Anno Domini Delxx5.
 Columbanus Episcopus Insolae vaccae albae pausat.
 Jugulatio Maelduin filii Rigullan et Boidb filii Ronain hoc est³ Congaile. Multi Pictores dimersi sunt illaind Abae.^o Faelbe de Hibernia revertitur.
- 677 Kal. Jan. 5. f. l. 21. Anno Domini Delxx6.
 Jugulatio Cuandai ic Eukanain.
- 678 Kal. Jan. 6. f. l. ij. Anno Domini Delxx7.
 Interfectio generis Loairn i Tirinn.^p Bellum Duinlocho et bellum Liacmaelain et Doiradeilinn. Mors Drosto filii Domhnall. Bellum i Calathros^q in quo victus est Domhnall breec.
- 679 Kal. Jan. 7. f. l. 13. Anno Domini Delxx8.
 Quies Failbe Abbatis Iae. Dormitacio Nechtain neir.

^o In Lindabae.^p In Tirinn.^q In Calathros.¹ b reads hui, grandson.² b reads hui, grandson.³ b reads hoi Congaile.

- 680 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxxix.
Bellum Saxonum ubi cecidit Ailumne filius Oissu :
Obsessio Duinbaitte. Dunchad filius Euganain jugulatur.
- 681 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxxx⁹.
Jugulatio Conaill coil filii Dunchad ic Ciunntire.^r Jugulatio Seachnasaig meic Airmetaig et Conaing meic Congaile. Obsessio Duinfoither.
- 682 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxxxj.
Orcades deleti sunt la Bruide.
- 683 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxxxij.
Obsessio Duinatt et (obsessio) Duinduirn.
- 685 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxxxiv.
Saxones Campum Breg vastant 7 ecclesias plurimas in mense Junii. Mors Congaile mac Guaire.
- 686 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxxxv.
Bellum Duinnechtain xx⁹ die mensis Maii die Sab-bati factum est (in quo) Etfrit mac Ossu rex Saxon-um 15⁹ anno regni sui consummata magna cum caterva militum suorum interfectus est et combussit Tula-anain Duinollaigh. Talorgg mac Acithaen et Domhnall breec mac Eachach mortui sunt. Jugu-latio Rotansaig e. Dargarto mac Finguine.
- 687 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxxxvj.
Jugulatio Feradaig mac Congaile. Adomnanus cap-tivos duxit ad Hiberniam lx.
- 688 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxxxvij.
Occisio Canonn filii Gartnaid.
- 689 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxxxvij.
Jolan Episcopus Cinngarat obiit. Mors Catusaig nepotis Domhnall brice. Mors Feradaig mac Tua-talain. Mors Maileluin meic Conaill erunamna.
Obscurata est pars solis.
- 690 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Delxxxix.
Mors Finguine longi et Ferataig meic Neichtleicc et Coblaith filia Canonn moritur.

^r In Kintyre.

- 691 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dexc.
 Dalriati populati sunt Cruitniu 7 Ultu. Ventus magnus 16 kal. Octobris quosdam vj. ex familia Iae mersit.
- 692 Kal. Jan. 2. f. l. 7. Anno Domini Dexej.
 Adomnanus 14 anno post pausam Falbei ad Hiberniam pergit. Jugulatio Maelditraib meic Euganain. Obsessio Duindeauiae dibsi.
- 693 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dexej.
 Bruide mac Bili rex Fortrenn et Aliphin mac Nectin mortui sunt. Jugulatio Ainfraig 7 Niethneill 7 filiorum Boendo. Mors Doergairt mac Finguine. Bellum contra Pante.
- 694 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dexeij.
 Jngulatio Cerbaill mac Maellodrae. Obsessio Duin-fother. Mors Fercair mac Conaet Cirr. Domhnall mac Auin rex Alochuate moritur.
- 695 Kl. Jan. b. f. l. 10. Anno Domini Dexc4.
 Tomnat uxor Ferchair moritur. Mors Conaill filii Tuatail.
- 696 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dexev.
 Jugulatio Domhnaill filii Conaill crandannai.
- 697 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dexeyj.
 Tarachin de regno expulsus est. Ferchar fota moritur. Adomnanus ad Hiberniam pergit et dedit legem innocentium populis. Euchu nepos Domhnaill jugulatus est.
- 698 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dexevij.
 Bellum inter Saxones et Pictos ubi cecidit filius Ber-nith qui dicebatur Brectrid. Combustio Duinon-laigh. Expulsio Ainfellach filii Ferchir de regno et vinetus ad Hiberniam vehitur.
- 699 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dexevijj.
 Bovina strages in Saxonia. Bellum Finamla meic Osseni. Tarain ad Hiberniam pergit.
- 700 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dexeix.
 (Dormitacio Jarnlaigh Abbatis Lismoir.) Fiannainn nepos Dunchado rex Dalriati et Flann meic Cinn-

faelad meic Suibne jugulati sunt. Aurtuile nepos Cruinmail de regno expulsus in Britanniam pergit.

- 701 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcc^o.
Feidelmidh mac Fergusa meic Aedain moritur.
Jugulatio Aedo odbae. Aed mac Conluth, Congal mac Eukanain, mortui sunt. Imbairecc iscii^s ubi cecidit Conaing mac Dunchado γ filius Cuandai.
Destructio Duinonlaigh apud Sealbach. Jugulatio generis Cathboth. Occisio Neill mac Cernn. Irgalach nepos Conaing occidit illum.
- 702 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dccj^o.
Irgalach nepos Conaing a Britonibus jugulatus in Insi mic Nechtan.
- 703 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dccij^o.
Feargusan mac Maelcon moritur. Obsessio Rithi.
- 704 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decijj.
Strages Dalriati in valle Limnae. Adamnanus lxx γ anno etatis sue Abbas Iae pausat.
- 705 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcciv.
Jugulatio Conamlo mac Cannon.
- 706 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dccv.
Brude mac Derile moritur.
- 707 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dccvj.
Becc nepos Dunchado jugulatur. Dunchada principatum Iae tenuit.
- 708 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dccvij.
Canis euanan rex Cruithne jugulatur.
- 709 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dccvijj.
Bellum for Orcaibh^t in quo filius Artablar jacuit.
Jugulatio Conaill mic Feradaig.
- 710 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decix.
Conain mac Failbi Abbas Iae pausat. Imbairecc^u
apud genus Comgail ubi duo filii Nechtain meie Doirgarto jugulati sunt. Oengus mac Maeleanfaig

^s Sea battle.

^t Against the Orkneys.

^u Battle.

inisci jugulatus. Fiachra mac Dungaile apud Cruithne jugulatus.

- 711 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccx^o
Strages Pictorum in Campo Manonn apud Saxones ubi Finguine filius Deileroith immatura morte jacuit.
Congressio Britonum et Dalriati for Loirgg-cclel^v
ubi Britones devicti. Murgical filius Nae moritur.
- 712 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxj.
Coedli Episcopus Iae pausat. Combustio Tairpirt
Boetter. Congal mac Doirgarto moritur. Obsessio Aberte apud Selbacum.
- 713 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxij.
Filia Ossu in monasterio Ild moritur. Ciniod mac Derili 7 filius Maitgermain jugulati sunt. Dorbeni kathedram Iae obtinuit et 5 mensibus peractis in primatu 5^o Kal. Novembris die Sabbati obiit. Tol-argg filius Drostain ligatus apud fratrem suum Nechtain regem.
- 714 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxij.
Duinollaigh construitur apud Selbacum. Alendaingen destruitur.
- 716 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxv.
Jugulatio regis Saxonum Osrit filii Aldfrid nepotis Ossu. Garnat filius Deileroit moritur. Pasca commutatur in Eoa civitate. Faelcu mac Dorbeni kathedram Columbe lxx4 etatis sue anno 5^o Kal. Septembris die Sabbati suscepit. Mors Artbrain mac Maelduin.
- 717 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxvj.
Duncha mac Cinnfaelad Abbas Iae obiit. Etulb mac Ecuilb obiit. Expulsio familiae Iae trans Dor-sum Brittannie a Nectano rege. Congressio Dalriati 7 Britonum in lapide qui vocatur Minvirc et Britones devicti sunt.
- 719 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxvij.
Drostan dairtaighe quievit in Ardbreccain. Cun

Dimerggo moritur. Bellum Finnglinne inter duos filios Ferchair fotti in quo Ainfceallach jugulatus est die quinte ferie Id. Septembris. Bellum marinum Ardeaneisbi inter Dunchada mbecc cum genere Gabhrain et Selbacum cum genere Loairn et versum est super Selbacum pridie nonas Octobris (vel Septembris) die 6 ferie in quo quiddam comites corruerunt.

- 721 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcexx.
Duncha becc rex Cinntire moritur.
- 722 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcexxj.
Maelrubai in Apurcroson anno lxxx. etatis sue, Maelcargis o Druiming, Bile mac Eilpin rex Aloeluiae, moriuntur. Feidlimid Principatum Iae tenuit.
- 723 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcexxij.
Clericatus Selbaich.
- 724 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcexxij.
Faelchu mac Dorbeni Abbas Iae dormit. Cillenius longus ei in principatu Iae successit.
- 725 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcexxiv.
Simul filius Druist constringitur. Congal mac Maeleanfaith breec fortrenn, Oan princeps Ego, mortui sunt.
- 726 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcexxv.
Nectan mac Deirile constringitur apud Druist regem. Tolarggan maphan moritur.
- 727 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcexxvj.
Congressio Irrois-foichnae, ubi qui lam ecederunt den dibh Airgiallaibh,^x inter Selbacum 7 familiam Echdach nepotis Domhnail. Adomnanus reliquie transferuntur in Hiberniam et lex renovatur. Dubdainber mac Congail rex Cruitne jugulatus est.
- 728 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcexxvij.
Bellum Monideroib inter Pictores invicem ubi Oengus vicit et multi ex parte Elipini regis perempti sunt. Bellum lacrimabile inter eosdem gestum est juxta Castellum Credi ubi Elpinius effugit.

^x Of the two Airgallas.

- 729 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dccxxvij.
 Bellum Monitcarno juxta stagnum Loogdae inter hostem Nechtain et exercitum Aengusa et exactatores Nechtain ceciderunt, hoc est, Biceot mac Moneit ^y filius ejus ^z Finguine mac Drostain, Ferot mac Finguine et alii multi. Familia Aengusia triumphavit. Bellum Dromadergblathmig in regionibus Pictorum inter Oengus et Drust regem Pictorum et cecidit Drust.
- 730 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcxxxix.
 Reversio reliquarum Adomnani de Hibernia in mense Octobris. Bran filius Engain, Selbach mac Fercair, mortui sunt. Interfectio filii Cinadon. Commixtio Dunaidh for Domhnall meie Murcado ieulaib, id est, adaigh noile Nephain vel imlecho Senaich.^y
- 731 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deexxx.
 Clericatus Echdach filii Cudini rex Saxonum ^y constringitur. Combustio Tairprt Boittir apud Dungal. Bellum inter Cruitne et Dalriati in Muirbuilgg ubi Cruitne devicti fuerunt. Bellum inter filium Oengusa ^y filium Congusa sed Brudeus vicit Talorean fugitem.
- 732 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcxxxj.
 Teimnen Cillegarad religiosus clericus quievit.
- 733 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deexxij.
 Dungal mac Selbaich dehonoravit Toraic cum traxit Brudeum ex ea ^y eadem vice insolam Culrenrigi invasit. Muredac mac Ainfeillach regnum generis Loairnd assunit.
- 734 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcxxxij.
Caintigern ingen Ceallach cuallann^z moritur. Talorgg mac Congusso a fratre suo victus est, traditur in ^y The commotion of Dunad against Domnall, son of Murchad, in the Culs, id est, on the night of the death of Nephian, or at Imleach Senaich.

^z Kentigerna, daughter of Ceallach eualan, dies.

manus Pictorum et cum illis in aqua demersus est. Talorggan filius Drostain comprehensus alligatur juxta arcem Ollaigh. Dunleithfinn destruitur post vulnerationem Dungaile ¶ in Hiberniam a potestate Oengusio fugatus est.

- 736 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decxxxv.
Oengus mac Fergusa rex Pictorum vastavit regiones Dailriatai et obtinuit Dunat et combussit Creic et duos filios Selbhaic (i. Donngall ¶ Ferdach) catenis alligavit ¶ paulo post Brudeus mac Oengusa filii Ferguso obiit. Bellum Cnuec Coirpri i Calathros ue etar Linndu^a inter Dalriatai et Fortrenn et Talorggan mac Ferguso filium Ainfearallach fugientem cum exercitu persequitur in qua congressione multi nobiles ceciderunt.
- 737 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decxxxvj.
Mors Ronain Abbatis Cinnagaraid. Faelbe filius Guaire Maelrubi (i.) heres Crosain in profundo pelagi dimersus est cum suis nautis numero xxij.
- 739 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decxxxvij.
Talorggan mac Drostain rex Atfoithle dimersus est i. la Oengus.^b Mors Aeda mac Garbain.
- 740 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decxxxix.
Terre motus in Ili ij. Id Aprilis. Cubretan mae Conguso moritur.
- 741 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deexl^c.
Mors Fuirechtaig principis Insio Coil. Jugulatio Ernain nepotis Eciulb. Bellum Dromacathmail inter Cruitniu et Dalriati for Innrechtac. Percussio Dalriatai la Oengus mae Ferguso.
- 747 Kal. Jan. i. f. e. x. Anno Domini Deexlvj.
Mors Tuatalain abbatis Cinnrighmonai.
- 749 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decxlviij.
Jugulatio Catusaigh filii Aillelo irraith beithech

^a Knock Cariber at Etar Linndu.

^b By Angus.

^c In Rathbethech.

- regis Cruithne. Combustio Cillemoire Aedain filii Oengusa.
 Ventus magnus. Dimersio familie Iae.
- 750 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxlix.
 Bellum Catohic inter Pictores & Brittones in quo cecidit Talorgan mac Fergus a fratre Oengusa.
- 752 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Declj.
 Mors Cilleine droctigh ancorite Iae. Mors Cilleni filii Congaile in Hi.
- 754 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Declij.
 Sleibhne Abbas Iae in Hiberniam venit.
- 761 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Declx.
 Mors Aengusa mac Fergus regis Pictorum.
- 763 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Declxij.
 Bruide rex Fortrenn moritur.
- 765 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Declxv.
 Suibne Abbas Iae in Hiberniam venit.
- 767 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Declxvj.
 Quies Sleibeni Iae.
- 768 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Declxvij.
 Bellum i fortrinn ittir Aedh & Cinacdh.^d
- 772 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Declxxj.
 Mors Suibne Abbas Iae.
- 774 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Declxxij.
 Flatruea mac Fiachrach rex Cruitne moritur.
- 775 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Declxxiv.
 Mors Cinadhon regis Pictorum & Conall Maighiluingi.
- 778 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Declxxvij.
 Aed finn mac Eedaeli rex Dalriati mortuus est.
 Eithni ingen^e Cinadon moritur.
- 780 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Declxxix.
 Combustio Alocluade in Kal. Jan. Elpin rex Saxonum moritur.

^d War in Fortren between Aed and Cinaed.^e Daughter of.

- 781 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deelxxx.
Fergus mac Echach ri Dalriati defunctus est.
- 782 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deelxxxij.
Dubhtolargg rex Pictorum citra Monoth et Muredac mac Huairgaile equonimus Iae perierunt.
- 789 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deelxxxvij.
Bellum inter Pictos ubi Conall mac Taidg victus est γ evasit γ Constantin vitor fuit.
- 790 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deelxxxix.
Mors Noe Abbatis Cinnagaradh, vel hic, Bellum Co-naill γ Constantin secundum alios libros.
- 792 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deexej.
Domnacorci rex Dalriatai obiit.
- 794 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deexeiij.
Vastatio omnium insularum Britannie a gentibus.
- 801 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decc.
Bresal mac Regeni Abbas Iae anno Principatus sui 31 dormivit.
- 802 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccj.
Mac Oigi Apuirerosan Abbas Benchair defunctus.
- 806 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deecv.
Familia Iae occisa est a gentibus i. ix. octo.
- 807 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deecvj.
Jugulatio Conall mac Taidg o Conall meic Aeduin i Cuinntire.^f
- 814 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deexij.
Ceallach Abbas Iae finita constructione templi Cenindsa reliquit principatum γ Diarmicius alumpnus Daigri pro eo ordinatus est.
- 816 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deexv.
Conan mac Ruadhrach rex Britonum defunctus est.
- 820 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deecxix.
Custantin mac Fergusa rex Fortren moritur.

^f Slaughter of Conall, son of Taidg, by Conall son of Aedan in Kintyre.

- 825 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxxiv.
Martre Blaimhice meic Flainn o gentib in Hi Coluim-cille.^g
- 829 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxxvij.
Diarmait ab. Iae do dul an Albain commonnaib Coluim-cille.^h
- 831 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxxx.
*Diarmait totiachtain in h-Erin commonnaib Coluim-cille.*ⁱ
- 834 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxxxij.
Oengus mac Fergusa rex Fortrenn moritur.
- 839 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxxxvij.
Bellum re genntib for firu Fortrenn^j in quo Euganan mac Oengusa 7 Bran mac Oengusa 7 Aed mac Boanta et alii (pene) innumerabiles ceciderunt.
- 849 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccxlviij.
Innrechtaeh ab. Iae do tiachtain do eum n-Erenn commindaib Coluimcille.^k
- 854 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decclij.
Heres Columbe cille sapiens optimus 4 Id. Marcii apud Saxones martirizatur.
- 856 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decclv.
Cocadh mor ettir Gennti 7 Maelsechnall con Gall-goidhcl leis.^l
- 857 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decclvj.
Roiniud ren Imar 7 ren Amlaiph for Caithil find con Gall-gaedhel hi tiribh Mumhan.^m ^g The martyrdom of Blaimee, son of Flann, by the Gentiles in Hi Columcille.

^h Diarmait, Abbot of Ia, went to Alban with the reliquaries of Columcille.

ⁱ Diarmait came to Erin with the reliquaries of Columcille.

^j Battle by the Gentiles against the men of Fortrenn.

^k Inrechtaeh, abbot of Ia, came to Erin with the reliquaries of Columcille.

^l Great war between the Gentiles and Maelsechnall, with the Galwegians along with him.

^m Victory by Imar and by Amlaebh against Caithil fin with the Galwegians in the territories of Munster.

- 858 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcccviij.
Cinaeth mac Ailpin rex Pictorum, Adulf rex Saxonum, mortui sunt.
- 862 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcccviij.
Domhnall mac Ailpin rex Pictorum mortuus est.
- 865 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcccxiv.
Ceallach mac Aillelo Abbas Cilledaro 7 Abbas Ia dormivit in regione Pictorum. *Breatain du innarbu as a tir do Saxonacaib con ro gabh eacht for aibh in Maencomain.*ⁿ Tuathal mac Artguso primus Episcopus¹ Fortrenn 7 Abbas Duincailleann dormivit.
- 866 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcccixv.
Amlaiph 7 Anisle do dul i Fortrenn con gallaib Erenn 7 Alban 7 con rinnrisct Cruithentuaith n-nile 7 con tugsat an giallo.^o
- 870 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcccixix.
Obsessio Aileccluithe a Nordmannis i. Amlaiph 7 Imhar ii. regis Nordmannorum obsederunt arcem illam 7 destruxerunt in fine 4 mensium arcem et predaverunt.
- 871 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcccixx.
Amlaiph 7 Imhar do thuidhecht a frithisi du Athaeliath a Albain dibh cedaib long^p 7 preda maxima hominum Anglorum 7 Britonum 7 Pictorum deducta est secum ad Hiberniam in captivitate.
- 872 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcccixj.
Artgha rex Britannorum Sratha-cluaidhe concilio Constantini filii Cinaedo occisus est.

ⁿ The Britons expelled from their land by the Saxons, who made captives of many of them in Maencoman.

^o Amlaebh and Anisle went to Fortrenn with the Galls of Erin and Alban, and laid waste all Cruithentuaith, and carried off hostages.

^p Amlaebh and Imar came again to Atheliath from Alban, with two hundred ships.

¹ b reads in Irish prim Epscop.

- 873 Kal. Jan. luan 27. Anno Domini Dcccxxx2.
 Imar rex Nordmannorum tocius Hibernie & Britannie in Christo quievit.¹ Flaithbertach mac Murcertaigh Princeps Duincaillden obiit.
- 875 Kal. Jan. lun. xx. Anno Domini Dcccxxx4.
 Congressio Pictorum for Dubgallu^q & strages magna Pictorum facta est. Oistin mac Amlaiph regis Nordmannorum ab Albanensibus per dolum occisus est.
- 876 Kal. Jan. lun. i. Anno Domini Dcccxxx5.
 Constantin mac Cinaeda rex Pictorum moritur.
- 878 Kal. Jan. lun. 23. Anno Domini Dcccxxx7.
 Aedh mac Cinadan rex Pictorum a sociis suis occisus
 est. Serin Coluimcille & aminna olchena du thiachtain do eum n-Ercenn for teichcadh ria Gallaibh.^r
- 880 Kal. Jan. lun. xij. Anno Domini Declxxix.
 Feradach mac Cormaic Abbas Iae pausat.
- 891 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decexc.
 Flann mac Maileduin Abbas Ia in pace quievit.
Banscal rolai in muir a n-Albain, exxv. do troigib in a fot, secht troigi dec in a trillsi, rij. troigi fot meoir a laimhe, rij. troigi fot a srona gilithir geis uile hi.^s²
- 900 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decexcix.
 Domhnall mac Caustantin ri Albain moritur.
- 904 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deceeiij.
Imhair ua h-Imair do marbadh la firu Fortrenn &
mar nimbi.^t

^q Against the Dugalls.^r The shrine of Columeille and all his reliquaries were brought to Erin in refuge from the Galls.^s A woman was thrown out of the sea in Alban. She was 195 feet long, seventeen feet the length of her hair ; the fingers of her hand were seven feet long, seven feet long her nose, and she was all whiter than a swan.^t Ivor O'Ivor, slain by the men of Fortren, and great slaughter around him.¹ b reads *vitam finivit.*² Added in b in a different hand.

- 913 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcccxxij.
Malmaire inghen Cinaeda meie Ailpin, Etulbb ri Saxon tuaisceirt,^u moriuntur.
- 918 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dcccxxvij.
Gaill Locha Dachacch do deirgiu Ercenn .i. Ragnall ri Dubgall 7 na da Iarla .i. Ottir 7 Graggabai 7 sagaith do dib iarsin co firu Albain. Fir Alban dono ara cennsom eo comairneectar for brutine la Saxonu tuaisceirt; do gensem in Gennti ethrai eatha dibh .i. cath la Gothbrith ua n-Imhar, eath las na da Iarla, eath las na och-tigerna, eath dano la Raghnall in croloch nad acadar fir Alban. Roinis re feraib Alban fors na tri eatha ad conneadar corolsat ar n-dimar di na Genntib im Ottir 7 im Graggabai. Raghnall dno do fhuabairt iarsuidiu illorg fher n-Alban corola ar dib acht nad fharebat Ri na Mormoer disuidib.^v Nox prelum derinit.
- 937 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini 936.
Bellum ingens lacrimabile atque horribile inter Saxones atque Nordmannos crudeliter gestum est, in quo plurima millia Nordmannerorum que non numerata sunt ceciderunt sed rex cum paucis evasit .i. Amlaph. Ex altera vero parte multitudo Saxonum ^u Maelmaire daughter of Kenneth Macalpin, Etalbh king of Northern Saxons, die.

^v The Galls of Lochlacaeeh expelled from Erin, viz., Ranald, king of the Dugalls, and the two Earls, viz., Ottir and Gragabai, and afterwards they invade the people of Alban. The men of Alban, however, prepared to meet them, with the assistance of the northern Saxons. The Gentiles divided themselves into four battalions. The first battalion under Gotbrith O'Ivor; the second under the two earls; the third under the young lords; and a battalion under Ranald, in ambuscade, which, however, the men of Alban did not see. The three battalions which they saw were routed by the men of Alban, and there was a great slaughter of the Gentiles round Ottir and Gragabai. Ranald, however, made an attack upon the men of Alban from behind, and slew many of

- cecidit. Adalstan vero rex Saxonum magna victoria dilatus est.
- 938 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini 937.
Dubtach Comharba Coluimcelle 7 Adomnain in pace quievit.
- 952 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Dececli.
Custantin mac Aeda ri Albain moritur.
Cath for firu Albain 7 Bretain 7 Saxonu ria Gal-laiib.^w
- 954 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccc^liiij.
Maelcoluim mac Domhnall ri Albain occisus est.
Robartach Comharba Coluimcelle 7 Adomnain in Christo pausavit.
- 959 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccclvij.
Dubduin Comharba Coluimcelle.
- 964 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccclxij.
Dubseuile mac Cineda Comharba Coluimcelle quievit.
- 965 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccclxiv.
Cath etfir fhiru Alban imonecitir ubi multi occisi sunt im Donnchadh i. Ab. Duinecaillenn.^x
- 967 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccclxvj.
Dub mac Maelolaim ri Albain do marbhadh la h-Albanchu fein.^y
- 971 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccclxx.
Culen Illuilb ri Albain do marbhadh do Bretnaibh irroieatha.^z
- 975 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deccclxxiv.
Domhnall mac Eoghain ri Bretann in ailitri.^a them; but neither their King, nor any of the Maormors fell by him.

^w Battle against the men of Alban and Britain, and Saxony, by the Galls.

^x Battle between the men of Alban among themselves, where many were slain about Duncan, abbot of Dunkeld.

^y Dub, son of Malcolm, king of Alban, slain by the Albanich themselves.

^z Culen [son of] Illuilb, king of Alban, slain by the Britons in battle.

^a Domnall, son of Eogan, king of Britain, in pilgrimage.

- 977 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deceelxxvj.
Amlaim mae Ailuilb ri Albain do marbhadh la Cinaet mae n-Domhnall.^b
- 978 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deceelxxvij.
Fiachra Aireinneach Ia^c quievit.
- 980 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deceelxxix.
Mugron Comharba Coluimeille ittir Erenn γ Albain^d
 vitam felicem finivit.
- 986 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deceelxxxv.
I Columcille do arcain do Danaraibh aidhei n-otlae coromarbsat in Apaidh γ xv. viros do Sruithibh na Cille.^e
- 989 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deceelxxxvij.
Gofraig mac Arailt ri Insegall do marbhadh in Dalriatai.
Dunchadh hua Robacan Comhorba Coluimeille mortuus est. Dubdalethe Comharba Patraice do gabhair Comharbain Columcille a comhairle fer n-Erenn γ Albain.^f
- 995 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deceexeiij.
Cinael mae Maelclaim ri Albain do marbhadh per dolum.^g
- 997 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Deceexevj.
*Maelcolaim mae Domnall ri Britain tuaisecr^h mori-
 tur.*

^b Amlain, son of Illuilb, king of Alban, slain by Kenneth, son of Domnall.

^c Fiaera Erenach of Ia died.

^d Mugron Corbe of Columcille, in Erin and Alban.

^e I Coluimeille plundered by the Danes on the night of the nativity, and the Abbot and fifteen men of the clergy of the church were slain.

^f Gofraig, son of Aralt, king of Inchegall, slain in Dalriata. Dunean o Robacan Corbe of Columcille died. Dubdalethe Corbe of Patrick takes the Corbeship of Columcille by the advice of the men of Erin and Alban.

^g Cinaed, son of Maleolm, king of Alban, slain by treachery.

^h Malcolm, son of Domnall, king of the northern Britons, dies.

- 998 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Decccexvij.
Dubdalethe Comhorba Patraice 7 Coluimcilleⁱ lxxxij.
 anno etatis sue vitam finivit.
- 1005 Kal. Jan. ij. f. l. vj. Anno Domini Miiij.
Raghnall mac Gofraigh ri na n-insi, Maelbrigda hua Rimeda Abbas Ja in Christo. Cath etir firu Alban imonetir itoreair ri Alban i. Cinacel mac Duib.^k
- 1006 Kal. Jan. iij. f. xxvij. Anno Domini Mv.
Bellum itir firu Albain 7 Savanu coromaid for Albanchu eo fargabsat ar an degh doinc.^l
- 1007 Kal. Jan. iiij. f. l. ix. Anno Domini Mvj.
Muredach mac Cricain do deirgiu comarbus Colum-cille ar Dia. Ferdомнach i comorbus Columcille con a comairle fer n-Erenn isin ocnach sin.^m
- 1011 Kal. Jan. ij. f. l. xxij. Anno Domini Mx.
Muredach hua Crican comorba Columcille 7 fer leighinn Ardmacha in Christo dormivit.ⁿ
- 1014 Kal. Jan. vj. f. l. xxvj. Anno Domini Mxiiij.
Slogedh la Brian mac Ceinitig mic Lorcain la rig Erenn 7 la Maelsechlan mac Donall la righ Temrach co h-Atacliath. Laigin uile do leir itinol ar a cinn 7 Gall Athacliath 7 a coimlin do Gallaibh Lochlain leo

ⁱ Dubdalethe Corbe of Patriek and Columeille.^k Ranald, son of Gofraigh, king of the Isles ; Maelbrigd of Rimeda, abbot of Ja, in Christ. Battle between the men of Alban among themselves, in whieh the king of Alban fell, viz., Cinael, son of Dub.^l Battle betweeu the men of Alban and Saxony ; the Albanich were overeome, and great slaughter made of their nobles.^m Muredae, son of Creean, resigns the Corbeship of Columcille for the service of God. Ferdомнach elected to the Corbeship of Columcille by the advice of the men of Erin at that fair [of Tailten].ⁿ Muredach O'Criean Corbe of Columcille and Ferlegin of Armagh died in Christ.^o Hosting by Brian, sou of Cennetig, son of Lorean, king of Erin, and by Malsechlan, son of Domnall, king of Tara, to Atacliath. All Leinster was assembled to oppose them, and the Galls of Atacliath and a company of the Galls of Loehlan, viz., ten

i. x. c. luirech. Gnitir cath crodo etorra donafrith inn tsamail. Maidhis iarom for Gallu 7 Laigniu i tosaig corusdiligait uile dolcier in quo bello cecidit ex aduersa caterua Gallorum Maclmorda mac Murchada ri Lai-gen 7 Domnall mac Fergaile ri na Fortuath. Cecidit vero a Gallis Dubgall mac Amlaim, Siuchraird mac Loduir iarla insi h-Orce 7 Gillaciaran mac Gluniaran ridomna Gall 7 Oittir dub 7 Suartgair 7 Donnchach hua Eraill 7 Gersene 7 Luimne 7 Amlaim mac Lag-maind 7 Briotor i. toisech na loingsi Lochlanaighe 7 rj. mile iter marbhadh 7 bathadh. Dorochar imorro a fritguin o Gaidhelaibh i. Brian mac Cineitig Ardri Gaidhel Ercenn 7 Gall 7 Bretan, August iarthair tuaiscert Eorpa uile 7 a mac i. Murechach 7 a mac-side i. Toirdealbach mac Murechach 7 Conaing mac Duinchuan mic Cincitig rig domna Mumhan 7 Motla mac Domnall mac Failan ri nan Deisi Mumhan. Eoco mac Duadairgh 7 Niall hua Cuind 7 mac Cenetig tri Coimte Briain. Da rig hua Maine, hua Ceallach 7 hundred coats of mail. A cruel battle was fought between them, of which the like was never seen. Victory was obtained against the Galls and the Leinster men in the beginning, who were put to flight, in which battle there fell of the opposite body of Galls, Maelmorda, son of Murchad, king of Leinster, and Domnall, son of Fergale, king of the Fortuath. There fell, however, of the Galls, Dubgall, son of Amlaim, Siuchraird, son of Lodur Earl of Orkney, and Gillaciaran, son of Gluniaran, king of the Galls, and Oittir the black, and Suartgar and Duncan O'Erulb, and Gersene and Luimin and Amlaim, son of Lagman, and Briotor, viz., the commander of the fleet of the Lochlans and six thousand were slain or drowned. There were slain, moreover, on the side of the Gael, Brian, son of Cinetig, sovereign of the Gael of Erin and Gall, and Britain, the Augustus of the west of northern Europe, and his son Murechach, and his grandson, Toirdealbach, son of Murechach, and Conaing, son of Dunchuan, son of Cineitig, future king of Munster, and Motla, son of Domnall, son of Faelan, king of the Deises of Munster. Eoco, son of Duadag, and Niall O'Conn, and Mac Cenetig, the three companions of Brian. Two Maelruanaigh hua Eidin rig Aidne 7 Geibinac hua Duibagain ri Fernmaige 7 Macbeataid mac Muredaigh Cloin ri Ciaraidhe Luachre 7 Domnall mac Diarmada ri Coreobaiscind 7 Scannlain mac Cathail ri Eoganachta Locha Lein 7 Domnall mac Eimin meic Cainig Mormaer Mair in Albain et alii multi nobiles.

- 1020 Kal. Jan. vj. f. ij. Anno Domini Mxx.
Finnloch mac Ruadri ri Alban a suis occisus est.
- 1025 Kal. Jan. vj. f. l. xxvij. Anno Domini Mxxv.
Flannobra Comhorba Ia in Christo quievit.
- 1027 Kal. Jan. ij. f. l. xx. Anno Domini Mxxvij.
Duncailenn in Alban do uile loscadh.^p
- 1029 Kal. Jan. iiij. f. l. xij. Anno Domini Mxxix.
Maelcoluim mac Maolbrigde meic Ruaidhre mortuus est.
- 1032 Kal. Jan. vij. f. l. xj. Anno Domini Mxxxij.
Gillacomgan mac Maelbrigde Mormaer Murbe do loscadh co coccait do dhuinibh imme.^q
- 1033 Kal. Jan. ij. f. l. xxvij. Anno Domini Mxxxij.
Mac meic Boete meic Cinaedha do marbhadh la Maelcolaim meic Cinaeda.^r
- 1034 Kl. Jan. iij. f. l. vij. Anno Domini Mxxxij.
Maccolaim mac Cinaeda ri Albain obiit. Mac Nia hua Uchtan fer leighinn Cennannsa do bathadh ac tiachtain a h-Albain 7 culebadh Coluimcille 7 tri kings of O'Many, O'Kelly, and Maelruanag O'Eiden, king of Aidne, and Geibinac O'Dubagan, king of Fermoy, and Macbeataid, son of Muredag Cloin, king of Kerryluachra, and Domnall, son of Diarmad, king of Corcobaisein, and Seanlan, son of Cathal, king of the Eoganachts of Locha Lein, and Domnall, son of Eimin, son of Cainig, Mormaer of Marr, in Alban, and many other nobles.

^p Dunkeld in Alban entirely burnt.

^q Gillacomgan, son of Maolbrigde, Mormaer of Moray, burnt with fifty of his men along with him.

^r The son of the son of Boete, son of Cinaed, slain by Malcolm, son of Cinaed.

- minna do mhinnaib Patraic ⁊ trieha fer impu.*
Suibhne mac Cinaeda ri Gallgaidhel mortuus est.^s
- 1040 Kl. Jan. iij. f. l. xij. Anno Domini Mxl.
Macmuire hua Uchtan Coluimceille in Christo dormivit.
Donnchach mac Crinan ri Albain a snis occisns est.^t
- 1045 Kl. Jan. iij. f. l. ix. Anno Domini Mxlv.
Cath iter Albancu etarra fein itorecair Cronan Abb.
Duinecaillend.^u
- 1054 Kl. Jan. vij. f. l. xvij. Anno Domini Mliij.
Cath etir fhiru Albain ⁊ Saxanu itoreradar tri mile do feraib Albain ⁊ mile coleth di Saxanu im Dolfinn mae Finntuir.^v
- 1057 Kal. Jan. iiij. f. l. xxj. Anno Domini Mlvij.
 Robartach mac Ferdomnach Comorba Coluimceille in domino dormivit.
- 1058 Kl. Jan. v. f. l. ij. Anno Domini Mlvij.
Lulach mac Gillcomgain Ardri Albain domarbhadh la Maelcolaim meic Donchadh i Cath. Macbethadh mac Finnlaich Airdri Albain domarbhadh la Maelcoluin meic Donnchadh i cath.^w
- 1062 Kal. Jan. iij. f. l. xvj. Anno Domini Mlxij.
Gilchrist hua Maeldorad comorba Coluimceille etir
Erin ⁊ Albain in Christo quievit.^x

^s Malcolm, son of Cinaed king of Alban, died. Maenia O'Uchtan Ferlegin of Kells, drowned when coming from Alban, and the Culebad of Columcille, and three of the reliquaries of Patrick, and thirty men with him.

Suibhne, son of Cinaed, king of Galloway dies.

^t Malmure O'Uchtan [Corbe of] Columcille slept in Christ.

Duncan, son of Crinan, king of Alban slain by his own people.

^u Battle between the Albanich among themselves, in which fell Cronan, abbot of Dunkeld.

^v Battle between the men of Alban and Saxony, in which fell three thousand of the men of Alban, and one thousand and a half of the Saxons, with Dolfin, son of Finntur.

^w Lulach, son of Gillacomgan, sovereign of Alban, slain by Malcolm, son of Duncan, in battle. Macbethad, son of Finlaech, sovereign of Alban, slain by Malecolm, son of Duncan, in battle.

^x Gilchrist O'Maeldorad, Corbe of Columcille, in Erin and Alban, rested in Christ.

- 1065 Kal. Jan. vij. f. l. xx. Anno Domini Mlxv.
Dubtach Albannach prim Annchara¹ Erin ȏ Albain in Ardmacha quievit.^y
- 1070 Kal. Jan. vj. f. l. xv. Anno Domini Mlxx.
Abbas Ia .i. mac mic Bactan domarbadh do mac ind ab. hua Maeldoraid.^z
- 1072 Kal. Jan. i. f. l. vij. Anno Domini Mlxxij.
Frainge do dul in Alban co tuesat righ in Albain leo in etirechta.^a
- 1085 Kal. Jan. vij. f. l. i. Anno Domini Mlxxxv.
Maelsnectai mac Lulaigh ri Muireb suam vitam feliciter finivit. Domhnall mac Maelcoluim ri Albain
suam vitam infeliciter finivit.^b
- 1093 Kal. Jan. vij. f. l. xxix. Anno Domini Mxciiij.
Fothudh ardepscop Albain in Christo quievit.
Maelcolaim mac Donncha Airdri Albain ȏ Ech-barda mac domarbadh do Francaibh. A rigban vero
.i. Margarita do ec dia cumaidh ria eenn nomaidhe.^c
- 1094 Kal. Jan. i. f. l. x. Anno Domini Mxciiij.
Donnchadh mac Maelcolaim ri Albain domarbadh o braitribh fein (.i. o Domnall ȏ o Etmond) per dolum.^d

^y Dubtach Albanach, chief anchorite of Erin and Alban, rested in Armagh.

^z The abbot of Ia, viz., the son of the son of Baetan, slain by the son of the abbot O'Maeldorad.

^a The Franks enter Alban till they brought the king in Alban with them in security.

^b Malsnectai, son of Lulag, king of Moray, ended his life happily.

Domnall son of Malcolm, king of Alban, ended his life unhappily.

^c Fothnd, archbishop of Alban, rested in Christ.

Malcolm son of Duncan, sovereign of Alban, and Edward, his son, slain by the Franks. His queen, viz., Margarita, died through grief before the end of [three] days.

^d Duncan, son of Malcolm, king of Alban, slain by his own brothers (Donald and Edmund) by treachery.

¹ This word has been translated | for annchara, soul friend or con-anchorite, but it may be intended | fessor.

- 1098 Kal. Jan. vj. f. l. xxij. Anno Domini Mxcvij.
Tri longa do longaibh Gall na indsi do shlat do Ultaibh 7 a fairenn domarbhadh i. xx. ar c. vel paulo plus.
Domhnall mac Robartaig comorba Coluimcille fri rc in pace dormivit.^e
- 1099 Kal. Jan. vij. f. l. v. Anno Domini Mxcix.
Donnchadh mac meic Moenaig ab. Ia in pace pausavit.^f
- 1106 Kal. Jan. ij. f. l. xxij. Anno Domini Mcvj.
Etgair ri Albain mortuus est.
- 1109 Kal. Jan. vj. f. l. xxvj. Anno Domini Meix.
Oengus hua Donnallan prim Annchara samhtha Coluimcille.^g
- 1116 Kal. Jan. vij. f. l. xij. Anno Domini Mcxvi.
Ladmuinn mac Domhnall hua righ Alban domarbhadh do feraibh Moriab.^h
- 1124 Kal. Jan. iij. f. l. xij. Anno Domini Mcxxiiij.
Alaxandair mac Maelcoluim ri Albain in bona penitentia mortuus est.
- 1130 Kal. Jan. iiij. f. l. xvij. Anno Domini Mexxx.
*Bellum etir firu Albain 7 feru Moreb i torcradar iiij. milc do feraibh Morebh im a righ .i. Oengus mac ingene Luluigh, milc vero d-feraibh Albain i frityhuin.*ⁱ ^e Three ships of the ships of the Galls of the isles destroyed by Ulster men, and their warriors slain, viz., over 120 or more.

Domnall son of Robartaig, Corbe of Columcille at that time, slept in peace.

^f Duncan son of the son of Maenag, abbot of Ia, died in peace.

^g Oengus O'Donallan, chief anchorite of the community of Columcille.

^h Ladmun son of Domnall, grandson of the king of Alban, slain by the men of Moray.

ⁱ Battle between the men of Alban and the men of Moray, in ¹ There is a hiatus in a of 1155, and in b of forty-eight years, twenty-four years, from 1131 to 1163.

- 1164 Kal. Jan. iiiij. f. l. iiij. Anno Domini Mclxiiij.
(Maithi muinnteri Ia i. in sacart mor Augustin 7 in ferleighinn i. Dubside 7 in discretach i. MacGilla-duibh 7 eenn na Ceile n-De i. Mac Foircellaigh 7 maithi muinnteri Ia archena do thiachtain ar eenn comarba Coluimceille i. [F]laithbertach hui Broileain do gabail abdaine Ia a comairli Shomarlidh 7 fer Aerergaidel 7 Innsigall coro astaei comorba Patraic 7 ri Eirenn i. Ua Lochlainn 7 maithi Cenel Eoghain e.)

Somhairlid mae Gilcadhamnan 7 a mhac do mharbhadh 7 ar fer Aerergaidel 7 Cinntire 7 fer Innsigall 7 Gall Athacliath ime.^j

- 1165 Kal. Jan. vj. f. l. xv. Anno Domini Mclxv.
Macleolum cennmor mac Aenric ardri Alban in cristaidhe as ferr do bai do Ghaidhclaire re muir anair, ar deire 7 ainech 7 erabhadh, do ec.^k
- 1195 Kal. Jan. i. f. l. xvj. Anno Domini Mexciij.
Sacart mor Ia do ec.^l
-

which fell four thousand of the men of Moray, with their king Oengus, son of the daughter of Lulag, a thousand also of the men of Alban in heat of battle.

^j The chiefs of the family of Iona, viz., the great priest Augustin, the Ferleighin or lector Dubsidi, the hermit Macgilla-duibh, the chief of the Culdees Mae Foircellaigh, and the other chiefs of the family of Iona came to the chief Corbe of Columba, Flaithbertach O'Broicain, to take the abbey of Iona by the advice of Somerled, and the men of Aerergael and Insigall; but the Corbe of Patrick, and the king of Ireland, O'Lochlan, and the nobles of Cinel Owin prevented it.

Somerled son of Gilleadannan, and his son killed, and slaughter of the men of Aerergail, and the men of Insigall, and the Galls of Dublin with him.

^k Maleolm cennmore, son of Henry, sovereign of Alban, the best Christian that was to the Gaél on the east side of the sea, for almsgiving and fasting and devotion, died.

^l The great priest of Ia died.

- 1199 Kal. Jan. vij. f. l. xj. Anno Domini Mexix.
Sanctus Muritius uo Baetan in h-I Coluimeille in pace quievit.
Rollant mac Uchtraigh ri Gallgaidhel in pace quievit.^m
- 1208 Kal. Jan. v. f. l. xxj. Anno Domini Mccvijj.
*Cath tucsat meie Raghnaill mic Somairligh for scraibh Seiadhl du in ra marbhadh an ar.*ⁿ
- 1212 Kal. Jan. i. f. l. xxiiij. Anno Domini Meexijj.
Tomas mac Uchtraigh co mucaibh Raghnaill mic Somerlidh do thaidccht do Dhaire Coluimeille eo vi. longaibh lxx. 7 in baile do milliudh dhoibh co mor 7 Inisceogain co h-uilidhi do mhilliudh dhoibh 7 do ecneol Conaill.^o
- 1213 Kal. Jan. iiij. f. l. xvj. Anno Domini Meexijj.
Tomas mac Uchtraigh 7 Ruaidhri mac Raghnaill do argain Dairi go h-uilidhi 7 do breith shet muinntere Daire 7 tuaiscert Erenn archena do lar tempaill in reiclesia imach. Ri Alban do ee .i. Uilliam garm.^p
- 1214 Kal. Jan. v. f. l. xxvij. Anno Domini Meexiv.
Uilliam ri Alban do cc. Alexander a mhac do oirdneadh ina inad.^q
- 1215 Kal. Jan. vj. f. l. ix. Anno Domini Meexv.
Trad h-ua Mailshabhaill toiscch Cencoil Fergusana cona

^m Rollant, son of Uchtraig, king of Galloway, rested in peace.

ⁿ A battle given by the sons of Ranald, son of Somerled, to the men of Skye, who were slain with great slaughter.

^o Thomas son of Uchtraig, with the sons of Ranald, son of Somerled, came to Derry Columcille with six ships and seventy. The town was spoiled by them very much, and Inisowen altogether was spoiled by them and the Cinel Conall.

^p Thomas, son of Uchtraig, and Roderic, son of Ranald, plundered Derry altogether, and carried away the goods of the men of Derry and the north of Erin out of the temple, in the monastery. The king of Alban died, viz., William Garbh.

^q William, king of Alban, having died, Alexander his son was put in authority in his place.

braithribh 7 gu n-ar mor do mharbhadh do Mhuir-eadhach mac Mormair Lemhnach.^r

- 1234 Kal. Jan. Anno Domini Mccxxxiiij.
Ailin mac Uchtraigh ri Gallgaidhel mortuus est.^s
- 1262 Kal. Jan. i. f. l. 7. Anno Domini Meclxij.
Ebdonn ri Lochlann do eg an Innsibh Orc ig techt an Erinn.^t
-

^r Trad O'Mailfeabhaill, chief of the Cenel Fergusa, with his brothers, with great slaughter, was slain by Muredach, son of the Mormair of Lennox.

^s Allan, son of Uchtraig, king of Galloway, died.

^t Ebdonn, king of Lochlan, died in Orkney, on his way to Erin.

XLIX.

LEGEND OF ST. ANDREW, BEFORE MDIV.

BREV. ABERDON. PROP. SANCT. PRO TEMP. HYEM.

CONSTANCIO Romanorum imperatore feliciter regnante, Fol. lxxxii. nostri virginis partus salutiferi anno trigesimo et sextagesimo, in Achaia regione inclita eiusdem regionis civitate nomine Patras, vir sane magne sanctitatis et deuocionis nomine Regulus feliciter claruit, miraculis hic beati Andree apostoli et Scotorum incliti regionis patroni Sanctissimi ossium et reliquiarum que in dicta civitate in qua ipse beatus Andreas passus est martyrium custos fidelissimus fuit.

Interea, dum idem Constantius mortem ipsius beati Andree in dictos crucifigentes vindicare proposuerat, et dictam civitatem invaderet, ut ipsius Apostoli reliquias inde secum asportaret, ea nocte Angelus Domini beato Regulo apparuit, dicens; Regule, serue Dei, applica tibi fratres ydoneos viros sanctos et timentes Deum et de theca ossium et reliquiarum beati Apostoli Andree, que tibi custodienda committitur, inde auferas ipsius dextre manusdigiti tres, os brachii ab humero dependens, dentem unum et genu patellam; ac vbi tibi in loco quem monstrauero cause custodias donec redeam.

Imperatore vero predicto reliquias ipsius ossium partes Constantinopolim confessim transferente, Angelus eidem beato Regulo denuo reuersus est mandatum satis salubre eidem imponens; beati Andree Apostoli reliquias quas tibi committendas tuli accipies, et electorum virorum tecum assumes, concionem et usque ad ipsius mundi partes occiduas transferre non postponas, atque vsque ibi veniens in dicti Apostoli Sanctissimi honorem laudem et gloriam perpetuam ecclesie fundamina jaceas. Erit enim ille locus edificandi adeo electus firmaque et sempiterna et illius regionis sedes caputque et fundamentum.

Gloriosus igitur Confessor Regulus, de tam ingenti legacione eidem celitus commissa, Dominum nostrum Iesum Christum beatum Andream deuotissimis collaudauit canticis et suam legacionem in ipsorum nomine completere exorsus est, cumque duorum annorum spacio marinis agitatus procellis nauigaret dubius admodum quo velum verteret a Domino, tandem confortatus ipse cum sociis incolumes quarto kal. Octobris, terram Scotorum applicuerunt; crucisque eodem precedente signaculo nauimque descenderunt et pororum nemoribus primitus aggrediantur.

Beatus inquam Regulus ex ipsis summi Dei providentia supremeque legacionis sue non immemor, ostenso diuinatus loco per Angelum beato Andree Apostolo basilicam construere properabat, ac quos secum adduxerat viros vbique per regnum Scocie Pictorum et Britonum verbum Dei predicandum misit; et quo facto innumerabiles ferme populi multitudines ad fidem Christi perfectam conversi ac in eius nomine per eosdem baptizati variis interim miraculis ipsius beati Reguli interuenientibus meritis suffulti et eterna premia eorundem predicacione consecuti sunt.

Sed cum beatus Regulus vnde dictam basilicam suis sumptibus minime construere non habens, visus est tunc temporis per regem Hungus, qui Pictis imperabat, angelorum super dicti Apostoli reliquias maxima choruscacio, et dicto Sancto Regulo et sociis ibidem suo cum exercitu se contulit, et ab eodem cunctis cum ministris baptizatus est, terramque cultam quam copiose in honore beati Andree et beati Reguli instancia hac die in perpetuum concessit huiusmodi loco, talem imponens titulum hec est ciuitas ciuitatum et mater ecclesiarum et sedes apostolica in omnium Scotorum provinciæ. Post hec beatus Regulus in continuis laboribus vigiliis et lugubracionibus variis, quam strenue die nocteque cum omnium sanctitate, oracione et ieiunio usque ad sue vite sanctissime exitum se exercitatus est. Sed annorum multitudine vsque ad decrepitum perueniens in Dei nomine super ethera celos concendit et apud Kilremontht digna cum veneracione sepultus re-quiescit.

L.

CHRONICLE OF THE SCOTS, MCCCCLXXXIJ.-MDXXX.

MS. BRIT. MUS. BIBL. REG. 17. D. XX.

HEIR IS ASSIGNYT YE CAUSE QUHY OUR NATIOUN VAS CALLYT
FYRST YE SCOTTIS.

IN ye fyrst it is to be wryttynn yat ye natioun of Scottis begowthe in ye tymm of Moises, as is contenyt in ye Bibill ; and in yat tymm ye Ethiops warrayt all Egipte wyt cruelle weris, for ye quhilk ye Egypiance callit yair alaye in helpe ye Grekis, yat was alyite yan wyt yamme, as now is in France alyite with as Scocis ; yir foir ye king of Athenes in Grece, callit Neolms, his sonne Gayelglas, eftir quhomme oure langage callit is Gayelige, wyt ane gret powere of men in to Egipt, and discumfyt ye Ethiops, and abandonit yamme ay to the tymme yat Moises rase for ye quhilk victory ye king of Egipte gaif his aunly dochter and heir callit Scota to yis Gayelglas in mariage, of ye quhilk Scota we eftir was callit Scottis, as ye customme was yan to call natioun eftir women, and not eftir mann, as is Asya, Affrica, and Europa, ye thre pryncipale partis of ye warld. Versus :

A Scota nata Pharaonis Regis Egipti,
Ut veteres credunt Scotia nomen habet ;
A muliere Scota vocitatur Scotia tota
Nomen habet vetito Gathelas ducis adaucto.

And sa ye opynyoun of yamme may not stand yat trowis we comme [from] Brutus, quhilk comme of ye traytouris of

Troye, as is weill kennyt, and is contenyt in ye storye of Troye maid be anne clerk callit Gwido de Columpna, bot we ar cummyn of ye maist werschipful natiounn yat evir was in erd, yat is ye Grekis, on ye mannis side Gayelglas, and of ye Egiprians onn ye womannis side Scota, quhilk was before ye distractiounn of Troye thre hundir zeire, and sa ye natiounn of Scottis was sa lang before yamme, and ye Grekis was ye maist wirscipfull natiounn yat evir was, for yai haif benne twise conquerit of ye warld be Ercules and Alexandir, and ye Trojance nevir bot at yaire defence, and vineust at ye last, and suppose of yamme sen synne ar cummyn worthy men zite yan yai ar cummyn of yamm yat baire ye foule surnamme, yat is to say, of Anthenor and Eneas and Helye, quhilk thre procurit ye tresonn of Troye wyt Pelymades in ye losyng of ye Grekis ; and sa wraite ye famous cleric—

Grecia cum suis provinciis, regnum est
domina, militie nutrix, prophesie omnium scientiarum invictrix, ac magistra, cuius gens bellicosissima dono sapientie et scientie predita, sermone decertissima, legibus subdita pia, circa extraneos pacifica, circa incolas et domesticos quieta, contra hostium injurias nimium intollerabilis et infesta, cuius ydoneum omnium clarius et sonantius est.

This forsaid Scota and Gayel war maryite to gyddir in ye tymme yat ye bairnes of Israell passyt in ye Reide See, and ye dede of King Pharoo yat govirnyt ye land of Egipte, and, for yai saw ye cruele plage yat comme onne Egipt, yai decretit to pas with yair folk yat yai brot of Grece, and monye of Egipte, for to seik woid landis, and to inhabyte yamme, for he wald not pase in his cuntrye aganne as ye maner was yat tymme ; and gyf ony wald saye tyll us yat we ar cummyn of Egipte of ye ta syde quhilk oppressyt ye bairnes of Israell, argue us not wyt ye werst, for rycht sa comme Christ of ye Jowes. Versus :

Sicut spina rosam genuit Judea Mariam.

And alsua full worthye men ar cummyn of ye traytouris

of Troye, and suppose yat yai persuyte ye bairnis of Israell, yai resavyte Christ in to Egipt and nurest him nere sevin zere, quhen ye generatioun of ye samdyn bairnis persuyt him to ye ded, and at ye last yai crucifyte him. This Gayele and Scota, wyt yair folk, passyt out of Egipt wyt gret riches and mony schippis, and be ye maist part yai war lordis and gentill men yat passyt wyt yamme ; and first yai arifyt in Aufrice, and remanyt yarin fourty zeiris in gret weire and wexatiounn, and be cause yai drecretyt to inhabyt woid landis, as yai consalyt be yir pagann goddis ; and soun aftire yat yai ternyt yin and passyt ye vase of Jubiter, and at ye last yai comme in to Spaynze and aryfyt in Portingale, ye quhilk has zit ye namme of Gayele, our foirfadire ; and aftir yat yai comme in to Itavernn of Biscaye, and duelt upoun ye Ryvere of Ibire, quhare he gat onn Scota Iber Scot ; and quhen Iber comme to eild, Gayele send him in yat cuntry, yat now is callit Irland, and fand it vakande, bot of a certanne of Gewictis, ye quhilk he distroyt, and inhabyt yat land, and callit it aftir his modir Scota, Scotia ; ye quhilk it in ald cronyclis and storyes is callit Scotia Major to ye tymme yat sum part of ws comme out of it in oure Scotland, yat now is inhybyt, and it was callyt Scotia Minor ; and yan Scotia Major begowth to be callyt Ibernia aftir yis said Iber Scot ; and yan oure namme was foundyt and oure land inhabyt lang tymme on to Troye was distroyt, and or Brutus was borne ; and synne lang aftir yat comme Brutus in our Ile, and callit it Britan, ye quhilk was nevir callit Bertan, bot to ye Scottis See, and not be northe, and we war nevir subiectis to ye Britonns, no to Ramainis, no to nanne oyir natuoun fra Scottis See northe.

Scotia Romanis vi metu subdita vanis
Non fuit ex uno nec paret imperio.

Alsua ye first yat comme of mare Scotland in ye lesse yat now is ouris be ye grace of God was callyt Rathus Rothia, aftir quhom is callit ye Ile and ye castell of Rothissaye, quhilk now is callit Bute aftir Saynte Brandan ; and synne yir comme ane oyir callit Symon Brieke and inhabyt oure Scotland, or Bruk comme in ye North partis and in ye Ile; synne comme Bructe and inhabyt ye south partis, and sa remanyt lang tymm tyll ye tymme yat ye Pechtis comme for yai [war] chasyt out of yir awin landis callit Sichia, be ane Prynce of Egipt callit Agenore, and yai in thretye schippis, but wemen, and comme in Scottis Ireland, and askit at yamme land to duell aponn, and yai denyit yamme, bot yai consalyt yanme to pas in our Ile, ye lesse Scotland, yat was not sa weill inhabytyt as yaire, and yai suld help yanme gyf ony wald aganne stand yamin, and sa yai dide; and be cause [yai war] all men, and had na wemen, yai gaif yanme wedois and madynnis to mak generatiounn, and ye lufe of ye Pechtis comme be lufe of ye wemen of Scocis blude, and lang tymme eftir yai comme in oure Scotland and multiplyt greitlye, and begowth to contempin oure Scottis yat duelt yir before; and yis was to Prince of Gret Scotland, and he was greitlye amufyt yir at; and yan ye kingis sonne, callit Ferguse Farchare, tuk ane gret powere of menn and comme in oure Scotland and tuke ye crounn of it and brot in ye armis of Scotland, ye quhilk is a reide rampand leoni in ane scheild of gold.

Versus :

Albioun in terris rex primus germine Scotus
Ipsorum ternus rubri tulit arma leonis,
Fergusius fulvo Farchare rugentis in arvo
Christum tercentis terdenis prefuit annis.

And sen synne failzit nevir king in oure Scotland, to yis day of richt lynne donne to oure Sovirane Lord yat now is king, ye quhilk God kepe, na zit fra Gayele oure fyrst king to ye said Ferguse, ye quhilknownmir cummis neire to sax scoir of kingis na nevir strangeare rignyt on ws, na zit had dominatiounn. Suppose yat Arthur ye tyran maid were onne ws agane his fayth, and alia for before him foure or fylle kingis eftir yat ye Romanis subjeckit ye Britonnis, maid alia wyt ws to helpe yanme aganne ye Romanis, ye quhilk we dide, and eftir had ye wictory agane yamme, and quhil had ye were, and sa we occupyt ye Romanus at we gert yamm byg twa wallis fra ye est see to ye west see to kepe ws fra ye Britonns yat yai subjecket, and we brak yamme ay donne, and slew yir Empriour Severus at Zork, sa ganstude in all thingis Julius Cesar and Claudius, and Waspasius, Empriouris of Romme, quhilk wald haf subjecket ws as yai dide ye Britonns, and for to tell all ye process of yis it war to lang. Bot yis Arthure not gaynstandand yat we and ye Pechtis helpyt ye Britonns to put out ye Romanns, he brak his alya on ws, and maid were on ws a quhile, and tuke ye rewmm of Brytan in dedbete resonne fra richtwis heire, yat is to say, Moldreid and Gawann yat war Loth of Lowdianis sonnys gottyn onn ye Kingis dochir, and heire of Brytan, ye quhilk was Arthuris sistir, and maryit wyt ye said Loth or Arthure was gottyn, and becaus at ye heire of Brytan was maryit wy tauë Scottis mau quhen ye Kinrik wakit, and Arthure was xv. yere ald, ye Brytannis iuaid him king, be ye devilrie of Merlynge, and yis Arthure was gottyn onu ane oyir mannis wife, ye Duc of Caruele, and sa was Arthure spurius, yat is bastard, and ane hureis sonne, saife revirement, and maid king, but not of law, and Moldreid ye sonne of Loth of Lowdian yat was richtwis heire, he was put by. The said Moldreid, quhen yat Arthure was out of ye cuntry, in his tyraneale, ye estaitis of Brytan, and Scottis had him to Loudoun, and crownyt him king of Brytau, and synne in his richtwis quietlye slew yis Arthure, and he him as ye Brute sais, and ye king of Scotland, yat yan was callyt Govan, send his ost of Scottis men, with Moldreid agane Arthure away be cause of Moldredis richt, and anne oyir way be cause yat Arthure maid were onn him, and brak his alia for fra ye Romanns subjecket ye Brytonns, and not ws ye Brytannis was contrare, and wald haif put ws out of yis alia, or subject ws as yai war, bot, be ye help of God, we and ye Pechtis gaynstude yammie, sa yat ye Romanns was faynne to lefe yamin quhen yai and yai maid were on ws thre hundir zeire, sa yat ye Brytannis war oure naturall enemys to ye tymme yai maid alia wyt ws, ye quhilk yis Arthure brak, bot eftir his dede it was evir weill kepit, and ay trew frendship betwyx ws and ye Brytannis to yis day, and yir is mekill thing said of yis Arthure, ye quhilk is not such bot fenxit thing yai say yat he slew Stallo, ye king of France, and S^r Lucius procuratour of Romme, and in his dais yare was nanue sic, and many oyir lesingis ar maid of him as Maistir Walter Napillis fenxit in his buke of him, callyt Lancilot de Lac, bot all ye storyis of France beris witnes in ye contrare, and in yis cruell were yat we and ye Pechtis maid in cure defence aganne ye Romanns and Brytannis, quhen ye Romans and ye Brytannis had maid Vorage, king of Brytannis, yat falsly usurpyt ye crounn of Brytannis, quhen yai myt nocht gaynstand ws, yan callit he in help ye fals Saxonns, ye quhilk wexit oure land mekill before Arthuris dais, ann evir sen synne has remanyt in ye land, and als in ye tymme of Arthure aganne his will, yirfore it is not lyk yat he conquest xxx. kingis yat in his awin myt not put out ye Saxonns, ye quhilk evir maid him were, and quhen ye Saxonns war rutyt in ye land, and bundyn to ye Brytannis, and swornne falsly, yai brak yare fayth, and rase aganne yamme, and at ye last put yamme out of ye land, of ye quhilk ye proces war lang to wryte, yirfore I mann be schort, and yai may be callyt Serpens in gremio, Mus in pera, Ignis in sinu, and eftir yis yir fell ane discord betuyx ws and ye Pechtis, and we warrayt on yamme lang tymme, and put yamme out utralye of ye land of Scotland, be oure king, Kenauthe Makalynn, ye quhilk was donne sewyn hundir zeire synne, yat is to say, ye zeire of oure Lord, aucht hundir xxx. and od zeiris, and sa remaynit ye Saxonns in ye south, and we in ye north, to ye tymme, yat ye Danys subjeikit ye Saxonns and rygnyt on yamme xx. zeire, and synne comme Wylzamm, Bastard of Normondy, ye Duke of Normondis bastard sonne, and put out ye Danys and mony of ye Saxonns, and held ye land zit ye quhilk of grond ryt suld be ye kingis of Scottis be ye ryt of Edmonnd Irnsidis sonnys dochter, Sanct Mergreit, yat was maryit wyt ye king of Scoctis, callyt Malcolm Chamnar, fra ye quhilk yir is discendit lynne be lynne, till oure king yat now is, and yir Edmond Irnsidis was wn-weddit king of Ingland, and it is such yat a bastard may not succeid till heritage, ye heire beand onn lyfe. Alsa, ye Pechtis war put out be Scoctis, and ye Brytannis be ye Saxonns, and synne ye Saxonns and ye Danys be ye bastard of Normondi, and sa remanys ye Ile alannly occupyt now be ye Scoctis men in Scotland, and wyt Normanns and Inglis menn in Ingland to yis day, suppose yat Scotland was lang tymme wexit wyt were of divers natioun[s], yat is to say, Romanns, Brytannis, Saxonns, Danys, Norweis, Pechtis, Gotis, and Inglis men, nevir ye les yai war put out evir be Scoctis, be cruele force of batell, and be na mornen slepis.

Post Brytones Moricos Adacos Pictos Anglosque,
Nec non Romanos belli sudor repulsoſ,
Nobiliter Scotti jus tenuere suum.

Sa yat we may say yis day in veryte yat yir is na land, no na natioun sa fre fra begynnynge of ye world, na has standyn sa lang tymme in fredomme as has ye Scottis, for yai hafe beyinne xvij. hundir zeiris and mare unconquest, and nevir was subjeckit to na natioun or king to yis day, bot evir undir our awin king of oure awin blude be ryt lynne discendant fra oure first king Ferguse before said to him yat now rygnys, quhome God keip, and gyf yir fals Inglis men wald say yat sum tymme oure king aliyt to yare Inglis king, and maid fewtee to yamme gyf yat be such, it was not fore ye kinryk of Scotland, ye quhilk ye worthye king of Scottis brukit of ryt wise tytill mony zeire before yat, Inglis menn or Brytannis comine in yis Ile, bot for ye landis yat yai held of him in Ingland, ryt as ye Inglis king held and suld hald of ye king of France ye land yat he has and had in France. Alsa, gyf any of yamme wald say yat France has standyn lang tym unconquest, it is weill wrytynn be ald Cronicles yat GALLICA, yat now is eallyt France, was lang tymme tributaris to Romanns, and war kingis of it, and sen synne comme dounne ye Franche king, and optenyt France, bot wyt in yir thousand zeris, ye storye here of war lang to rebers, and of oyir natiounis, subjectionis, and conquestis, and changis of kingis, ye quhilk I couth schaw and I had tymm and oportunyte. Alsa, ze sall wit yat of yis thousand and viij. hundir zeris yat we Scottis has rignyt in yis land, we war never thre hundir zere in pese, bot ay presyt wyt ye nationis befor said, and langast wyt yir Romannis, now calland yamme Inglis menn, and yis foresaid land callyt ANGLIA, is said fra a cuntre in Almanze, callyt ANGULUS, of ye quhilk sum tymme yai war callyt ANGLICI or ANGULI, fra ANGULO. Sed veritas non querit Angulos juxta veritatem Evangelii, yir for yai may nevir be trew yat comme fra ANGULO, and now ye Romans has tanne yair namme and yare falsched to gyddir, and it is na wondir for yir king is cummyn dounne lynne be lynne fra ye Devill as ald cronyclis of Ingland beris witnes, callyt Policroniconn. It beris witnes of Henry ye secund, yat slew Sanct Thomas of Cantirbery, yat was ye Emprice sonne, ye quhilk Emprice was weddit wyt ye Erle of Angeaun, and he gat oon hir yis Henry ye tyrand, ye quhilk Erle was ye secund fra ye Devill as ald croniclis beris witnes, and all ye kingis of Ingland sen synne ar cummyn of yat progenye, and ye manere heire of is oure lang to tell, and in ye sammyn croniclis of Ingland, it is said yat yis Henry, quhen he was zingir and nurysyt wyt ye king of France, Sanct Barnard maid prophesie of him and said : A Diabolo existi et ad Diabolum ibis, and suppose yat yai dispysit ws oftymme in yare colatounis, zit at ye last as yir awin croniclis beris witnes, we may say such of yamme, bot not alannly yis, bot ane oyir hundir thingis, ye quhilk I couth schaw, bot it war lang to wryt as now and trestis hardly yat yis is ye manere of yamme, yat quhare evir yai mak straitast oblysing of fayt and pese yai dissaife erast for sikkirly yai kepe nevir such langir yan yai may see ane opynn tymme, and a wantage and coulouris all yir deidis wyt solphestry, and exquesyt fals fenxit coulouris, and yis yai did evir all tymne till ws, ye quhilk yai suld not haif donne, and yai had beynde trewe, for we gaif yamme first Christyndomme, and fayt and doctrynn of Haly Kirk, for we war Chrystynyt before yamme, foure hundir zeire and maire. Versus :

Christi transactis tribus annis atque ducentis
Scotia catholicam cepit inire fidem.

And for all yis yai kepty till ws ye kyndnes yat ze knowe, and in ye revengeance of yare falshed ye king of Scottis Gregour subjeckit yamme to ye watir of Temys maire yane xxx. ye quhilk yare awin croniclis sais, callyt Wilzamm Mamrenence, sayand yis.

Magna pars Danys datur, sed maxima Scotis,
Et pars Affrido Regi sic parva remansit.

Sic as yir I fynd in yare awin bukis, ye quhilk is ye maire autentice aganne yamme.

Here foulowis
ye zeldis of ye wardill fra
Ademm to ye Incarnatione of Crist.

FRA ye begynnyng of ye warld onne to Christ was v. thousand a hundir foure score and xix. zeris, fra Adam to we¹ twa thousand twa hundir and xlj. zeris. The thred fra Abraham to Moisen was fife hundir zeir and fife. The ferd fra Moises to David foure hundir score of zeris. The fift fra David to ye transmigratioun fife hundir and xij. zeris. The sext fra ye transmigratioun to Christ fife hundir and xvij. zeris.

SCOTTIS MEN.—The first Scottis men was foure thousand thre hundir and xv. zeris fra ye begynnyng of ye warld. Romme was byggyt eftir ye begynnyng of ye warld be twa breyir, Remus and Romulus, foure thousand twa hundir and xviii. zeris, and it had in cumpas lij. hundir myle and thre hundir and lx. towris. Alex^r conquest ye warld fra ye begynnyng of it foure thousand and nynne hundir zeris. Julius Cesar conquest ye warld fra ye begynnyng of it, all bot Scotland, fife thousand a hundir nynne and thretty zeris.

¹ Sic.

Yir thingis before wrytynne was all before ye Incarnationounn, and it yat followis was eftir ye Incarnatiounn.

The saxtyt and tend zeir eftir ye Incarnatiounn of ye Lord, Jerusalem was distroyit be Titus and Waspasianus.

The zeir of God thre hundir and xij. zeris, Constantynn first relesyt Haly Kirk.

The zere of God foure hundir xxxij. Haly Palladius prechit ye fayth to Scottis men, quhilk yai kepyt to yis day.

The zere of God four hundir xxxij. zeris, Sanct Patrice prechit ye faith to Irlandis menn.

The zere of God foure hundir liij. zeris, ye Saxonns, quhilk ar now callit Inglis men, wyt yare dukis Horse and Hengest, comm in Brytan, quhare yan rignyt Vortigern king, and in yat tymme was Merlyn.

The zere of God fife hundir and xv. zeris, Sanct Augustynne was send in Ingland to preche ye fayth to yanime.

The zeire of God sevynn hundir lxj. ye relikis of Sanct Andrew ye Apostle com in Scotland.

The zere of God sevyn hundir and foure score, gret Charlis wan Spanze, France, and Galice fra ye Sarazenns.

The zere of God a thousand lxxvj. zeris, Malcolm, ye sonne of Duncan, tuke ye rewimm of Scotland in Heritage, and rignyt xxxvj. zeris.

The zere of Christ a thousand lxxvj. Mergret ye Quvenne was spowsyt wyt Malcolm, and gat on hir vi. sonnys, Edward, Edgare, Edmund, Etheldred, Alex^r, and David, and twa dochtriris, Mald, Quvenne of Ingland, and Marie, Countasie of Balanne.

The zeire of God a thousand a hundir and viij. zeris, Edgar, sonn to ye said Malcolm, in heritage tuke ye kinrik of Scotland and rignyt ix. zeris.

The zeire of God a thousand a hundir and [x]vij. zeris, Alex^r, broyir to ye said Edgare, tuke ye kinrik be successioun and rignyt xvij. zeris, and he in ye sewynt zere of his rigne foundyt Sconne, ye abbay.

The zeire of God a thousand a hundir and vj. zeris, Twa monis twa monys was senne in ye lyft, seyne in ye lyst.

The zeire of God a thousand a hundir and xxiiij. zeris, yis Alex^r ye sonne of Macolm discesyt, and yat sammyn zere David, his broyir, tuke ye kinrik.

The zere of God a thousand a hundir xxxvj. zeris, yis David, king, foundyt ye abbay of Melrose.

The zere of God of a thousand a hundir xlj. zeris, yis King David foundyt ye abbay of Nowbatile, and in ye nixt zere folowand, he foundyt ye abbay of Jedward.

The zeire of God a thowsand a hundir and l. zeris, he foundyt ye abbay of Homcolens' and Kynlose.

The zeire of God a thousand a hundir liij. King David discesyt at Carlele, and to him succedyt Macolm, ye sonne of Henry Erle of Huntyngtounn, sonn to ye fore said king, King Davy, quhilk in ye zere of God a thousand a hundir lxj. foundyt ye gret kirk of Sanct Androis Bisshop Arnald. in ye tymme of Arnald, Bischope of ye sammyn, quhilk also ye zere of God a thousand a hundir liij. foundyt ye abbay of Cowpir, and in ye nixt zere folowand discesyt; and he rignyt xij. zeris, and to him succedyt Wyllzamin, his broyir.

Sanc Thomas of Cantirbery vos myrtirit.

The zerie of God a thousand a hundire lxx. Sanct Thomas of Cantirbery was myrtirit.

The zere of God a thousand ij. hundir, Ingland and Walice war intirdytyt for yir trespass vj. zeris, and ay sen synne yai ar tributaris to ye Pope for yir relesching.

The zeire of God a thousand ij. hundir, and xvij. zeris, King Wilzamme discesyt, and he rignyt lij. zeris.

The zere of God a thousand ij. hundir and xlj. deyt King Alex^r ye secund, yat rignyt xxxij. zeris.

The zere of God a thousand ij. hundir, and xluiij. zeris, Frederic ye Emperour be Innocence ye Pape was put dounn.

King Alex^r, ye sone of Alex^r ye secund, descesit Alex^r ye [sone of Alex^r ye] secund discesyt at Kingornne. The Inglis men was put outh of Scotland.

The zeir of God a thousand ij. hundir and lxxx. King Alex^r ye [sone of Alex^r ye] secund descesyt at Kingornne. Jhonne of Balyole was maid king at Seonne.

The zeire of God a thousand ij. hundir x[e]vj. zeris, ye Inglis menn was put out of Scotland, and ye batell of Dunbar was strykyn, and yat sammyn zere was strikyn ye batell at ye bryg of Stirlyng.

The zere of God a thousand ij. hundir and x[c]vij. zeris, ye batell of ye Fawkirk was strykyn at ye fest of Sanct Mare Magdaleine.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir and twa zere, strikyn was ye batell of Rosslyn.

The zeire of God a thousand iij. hundir and ij. zere, The ded of Wallace. Wilzamme Wallace was slanne, and King Robert ye Broice slew ye Cummyn.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir and vj. zeris, Robert Robert Bruce maid king. Broice was maid king at Sconne ye vij. callend of Aprile, and ye sammyn zere was strikin ye batell of Mechwynn and ye discumfyt of Dalrye in ye partis of Argyle.

The zere of God ane thousand iij. hundir and xiiij. zeris, was strykyn ye batell of Bannokburn in ye fest of Sanct Banokburne. Johnne ye Baptiste, quhare oure ald enemys gat a gret fall.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir and xvij. zeris, ye greit kirk of Sanct Androis was hallowyt.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir and xx. zeris, haldyn was ye Blak Parliament at Perth.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir and xxix. zeris, King Robert ye Broice discesyt ye vij. day of June.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir and xxx. zeris, King Davy was crownyt in ye vii. zere of his eld ye King David vas crownit. xxiiij. day of November, and ye nixt zere folowand was strykyn ye batell of Duplyn and ye batell of Annad.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir and xxxiij. zeris, was strikyn ye batell of Holdoun Hill.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir xljj. zeris, was strikyn ye batell of Duramum at ye fest of Sanct Luce.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir and l. zeris, was ye first mortalite.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundyr and lv. zeris, was ye brynt Candilmes.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir lxvj. zeris, was ye coronatioun of King Robert Stewart ye xvij. day of Marche.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir and lxij. zere, was ye second mortalite.

The zere of God a thousand iii. hundir and lxx. zeris,
King David ye Broice discesit.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir and lxxvij.
zeris, was ye gret divisioun in Haly Kirk begunyynn.

The zere of God a thousand iij. hundir and lxxx. zeris, was ye thrid mortalyte.

The zeire of God a thousand iij. hundir and lxxxv.
zeris, was ye cummyng of Franche men in Scotland.

The cummyng of Franche
menn. The zeire of God a thousand iij. hundir and lxxxvij.
zeris, was strykin ye battle of Otirburnn.

The zere of God ane thousand iij. hundir, foure score and
ix. zeris, was ye disces of King Robert Stewart.

The zeire of God a thousand iij. hundir lxxx. and xvij.
zeris, was ye batell of Sanet Jonstounn xxx. for xxx.

APPENDIX.

I.

PASSAGES FROM THE ORIGINES OF ISIDORUS HISPALENSIS, ILLUSTRATIVE OF PICTISH CHRONICLE.

Scoti¹ propria lingua nomen habent a picto corpore, eo quod aculeis ferreis cum atramento variarum figurarum stigmate annotentur² (Lib. IX. ij. 103).

In parte Asiaticæ Scytiae gentes, quæ posteros se Iasonis credunt, albo crine nascuntur ab assiduis nivibus; et ipsius capilli color genti nomen dedit, et inde dicuntur Albani:³ Horum glauca oculis, id est, picta inest pupilla, adeo ut nocte plus quam die cernant. Albani autem vicini Amazonibus fuerunt (Lib. IX. ij. 65).

Gothi a Magog filio Japheth nominati putantur, de similitudine ultinæ sillabæ; quos veteres magis Getas, quam Gothos, vocaverunt. Gens fortis et potentissima, corporum mole ardua, armorum genere terribilis. De quibus Lucanus, Hinc Dacus premat, inde Getes occurrant Iberis.

Daci autem Gothorum soboles fuerunt; et dictos putant

¹ The “Pictish Chronicle” reads Picti for Scoti.

² The “Pictish Chronicle” inserts here the following passage, the words in italics being taken from Nennius: “Scotti qui nunc corrupte vocantur Hibernenses quasi Sciti, quia a Scithia regione venerunt, et inde originem duxerunt; siue a Scotta filia Pharaon-

“ nis regis Egypti, que fuit ut fertur regina Scottorum. Scientes dum vero est quod Eritones in tertia mundi etate ad Britanniam reverunt. Scite autem, id est, Scotti, in quarta etate Scociam, siue Hiberniam obtinuerunt.”

³ The “Pictish Chronicle” inserts here: De quibus originem duxerunt Scotti et Picti.

Dacos, quasi dagos, quia de Gothorum stirpe creati sunt : de quibus ille, Ibis arctoos procul usque Dacos (Lib. ix. ii. 89).

Magog a quo arbitrantur Scythes et Gothos originem traxisse (Lib. ix. ii. 27).

Scythia, sicut et Gothia, a Magog filio Japhet fertur congnominata : cuius terra olim fuit ingens ; nam ab oriente India, a septentrione, per paludes Mœotidas, inter Danubium et oceanum, usque ad Germaniae fines porrigitur. Postea vero minor effecta a dextra orientis parte qua oceanus Syricus tenditur, usque ad mare Caspium, quod est ad occasum, dehinc a meridie usque ad Caucasi jugum deducta est ; cui subjacet Hircania ab occasu habens pariter multas gentes, propter terrarum infecunditatem late vagantes. Ex quibus quædam agros incolunt ; quædam portentuose ac truces, carnibus humanis, et eorum sanguine, vivunt. Scythiae plures terræ sunt locupletes, inhabitabiles tamen plures. Nam dum in plerisque locis auro et gemmis affluunt ; gryphorum immanitate accessus hominum rarus est. Smaragdis autem optimis hæc patria est. Cyaneus quoque lapis, et crystallus purissimus Scythiae est. Habet et flumina magna, Moshoram, Phasidæn, atque Araxen (Lib. xiv. iii. 31).

Prima pars Europæ regio Scythia inferior, quæ a Mœotidis paludibus incipiens inter Danubium et oceanum septentrionalem, usque ad Germaniam porrigitur ; quæ terra generaliter propter barbaras gentes quibus inhabitatur barbarica dicitur. Hujus pars prima Alania est, quæ ad Meotidas paludes pertingit. Post hanc Dacia, ubi et Gothia, deinde Germania, ubi plurimam partem Suevi incoluerunt (Lib. xiv. iv. 3).

In parte Asiatica Scythiae gentes quæ posteros se Jasonis credunt : albo crine nascuntur ab assiduis nivibus¹ (Lib. ix. ii. 65).

¹ The "Pictish Chronicle" terminates here the introduction with the words : De his ista sufficient.

The passages from Isidorus which are added are not in the "Pictish Chronicle."

LIB. XIX. CAPUT XXIII.—DE VESTIBUS QUARUNDAM GENTIUM.

1. Quibusdam autem nationibus sua cuique propria vestis est, ut Parthis sarabaræ, Gallis lenæ, Germanis rhe-nones, Hispanis stringes, Sardis mastrucæ.

6. Dignoscuntur et gentes ita habitu, sicut et lingua discordes. Persæ brachia et crura linamentis, caput tiara tegunt. Eminent apicibus fastigiatis Alani; horrent et male tecti cum latratoriis linguis Scotti; sagati sunt Alemanni; linteati Indi; gemmati Persæ; sericati Seres; pharetrati Armenii.

7. Nonnullæ etiam gentes non solum in vestibus, sed etiam in corpore aliqua sibi propria, quasi insignia vindicant, ut videmus cirros Germanorum, granos et cinnabar
Gothorum, stigmata Britonum. Circumcidunt quoque Judæi præputia; pertundunt Arabes aures; flavent capitibus intectis Getæ; nitent Albani albentibus crinibus.
Mauros habet tetra nox corporum; Gallos candida entis, sine equis inertes extunt Alani; nec abest genti Pictorum nomen a corpore, quod minutissimis opifex acus punctis, et expressus nativi graminis succus illudit, ut has ad sui specimen cicatrices ferat, pictis artubus maculosa nobilitas.

II.

IRISH VERSION OF PICTISH CHRONICLE.

MS. TRIN. COLL. DUBL. H. 3. 17.

Cruithne mac Cinge pater Pictorum habitann in aca insola c. annis renebait ; vij. meic ro teacht ; ate ann so a n-anmand i. Fib, Fidach, Foltlaig, Fortrend, Caitt, Ce, Circeing.^a

Circin lx. annais regnau[it].
 Fidach xl. annis r[egnauit].
 Fortrend xl. annis r[egnauit].
 Foltlaid xxx. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Gatt xij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Ce xij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Fidbaid xxiiij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Geide Ollgothach lxxx. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Oenbegan a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Ollfinachta lx. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Guidedh Gaeth Breatnach l. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Geascuirti.

TRANSLATION.

^a Cruithne, son of Cing, pater Pictorum habitantium in hac insula c. annis regnabat, He had seven sons. These are their names, viz., Fib, Fidach, Foltlaig, Fortrenn, Caitt, Ce, Circeing.

Bont . . . xxx. and uad 7 Bruige ba h-ainm do gach aen fear 7 renauerunt Hiberniam 7 Alboniam per cl. añ. uit inuenitur i leabraib na Cruithneach.

Bruide Pante ainm in ced Bruide.^b

Bruide Urpante.

Bruige Leo.

Bruigi Gant.

Bruide Gund.

Bruige Urgann.

Bruide Urgaint.

Bruigi Fet.

Bruide Urfexir.

Bruigi Feoir.

Bruigi Cal.

Bruigi Ureal.

Bruigi Cint.

Bruigi Arcint.

Bruigi Fet.

Bruigi Urfet.

Bruigi Ru.

Bruigi Eru.

Bruigi Gart.

Bruigi Cinit.

Bruigi Cind.

Bruigi Uip.

Bruigi Uirup.

Bruigi Gruith.

Bruigi Urgrith.

Bruigi Munait.

Bruigi Ur.

Bruigi Gidgie.

Bruigi Crin.

^b Bont, . . . thirty of them thenceforth, and Bruige was the name of each man of them, et regnaverunt Hiberniam et Albaniam per cl. annos ut invenitur in the books of the Cruithneach.

Bruide Pante was the name of the first Bruide.

Bruigi Urcrin.

Bruige Urmain.

Regnauerunt cl. ann[os] ut diximus γ robai Alba een rig fria re wile co h-aimsir Gud cet rig ro gab Albain wile tri comairli no ar eigin. Atberait araile eomad h-e Catluan mac Caitming no gabad rige ar eigin i Cruithentuaith
 γ a n-Erind i. lx. bliadain γ iarsin ro gab Gud i. l.^c

Taram c. an[nis] regnauit.

Morleo a xij. a[nnis] re[gnauit].

Deocillimon xl. an[nis] regnauit.

Cimoiod mac Airtcois vij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Deort l. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Blieblith v. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Deototreic frater Tui xl. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Usconbest xx. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Crutbole vij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Deordiuois xx. a[nnis] regn[auit].

Uist l. annos r[egnauit].

Ru c. an[nis] r[egnauit].

Gartnait iiiij. ix. a[nnis] re[gnauit].

Breth mac Buithed vij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Uipo ignauit xxx.

Canatulacma iij. annis r[egnauit].

Uradach uetla ij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Gartnait duipeir Ix. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Tolore mac Aithiuir lxxv.

Drust mac Erp c. regnauit γ c. eatha ro gein.^d Nono decimo anno regni eius Patricius Sanctus Episcopns ad
Hiberniam peruenit.

Tolore mac Aniel iiiij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

^c Regnauerunt cl. annos ut diximus, and Alban was without a king all along, until the time of Gud, the first king that possessed all Alban by consent or by force. Others say that it was Cathluan, son of Caitming, who possessed the kingdom by force in Cruithentuaith, and in Erin for sixty years, and that after him succeeded Gud for fifty.

^d And gained a hundred battles.

Nectan mor breac mac Eirip xxxiiij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Tertio anno regni eius Darlugdach Abbatista Cille-dara de Aberniam axulat pro Christo ad Britiniam. Proximo¹ anno aduenitus tui immolaueit Nectonnius anno uno Apuirnige Deo 7 Sanctaae Brigitea presente Darluigdeach que cantauit All[eluia] super istam.

Dartguitiimoth xxx. a[nnis] reg[nauit].

Galamarbith xv. a[nnis] reg[nauit].

Da Drerst i. Drest fi[lius] Budros xv. annis reg[na]uerunt.²

Derst fi[lius] Girum solus v. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Galum cenamlapeh iiij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Gartnait fi[lius] Girom uij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Caittaine fi[lius] Girom anno r[egnauit].

Talorg f[ilius] Murtolic xj. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Drest fi[lius] Manaith uno a[uno] r[egnauit]. Cum Brideno i. anno.

Bruide mac Maelcon xxx. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

In ochtaauuo anno regni eit baibtzatus est e Sancto Columba.

Gartnait f[ilius] Domnach xj. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Neachtan nepo[s] Uerp xx. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Cinhoint f[ilius] Luitriu xix. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Gartnait mac Uiud v. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Tolorc frater eorum duodecim a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Tolordan f[ilius] Enfret iiij.

Gartnairt f[ilius] Donuel vj. a[nnis] r[egnauit] 7 deini-dium anni.

Drusc frater eius vij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Bride f[ilius] Fle xx. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Taran f[ilius] Enfidaid iiij.

Brei f[ilius] Deirilei xj. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Nechtan f[ilius] Deirile x. a[nnis] r[egnauit].

Drest 7 Elpen conneganaueint v. a[nnis] r.

¹ This is a contraction in the original text, proximo is evidently the word meant.

² This is a contraction, but uerunt seems meant.

Onbes f[ilius] Urgust xxx. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Breite f[ilius] Uugut xv. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Ciniod f[ilius] Iuuredeg xv. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Alpin f[ilius] Uuoid iij. annis regnauit 7 dimidon regni.
 Drest f[ilius] Toloreau i. a[nnos] r[egnauit].
 Talorcan f[ilius] Drostan uel v. deg.
 Talorcen f[ilius] Onust xij. 7 dimidoin a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Canul f[ilius] Tang. v. annis r[egnauit].
 Cuastantin f[ilius] Uurguist xxxv.
 Uidnust f[ilius] Uurgust xij. au[nis] r[egnauit].
 Drost f[ilius] Consatin 7 Tolorc f[ilius] Uuthoil iij.
 a[nnis] r. conregnauerunt.
 Uuen f[ilius] Unest iij.
 Urad f[ilius] Bargoit iij. a[nnis] 7 Brod 1° a[nnos] r[eg-
 nauit].
 Cinaed f[ilius] Ailpin xvj. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Domnall f[ilius] Ailpin iiij. r[egnauit] 7.
 Custantin f[ilius] Cinaeda xx. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Aed f[ilius] Cinaed 1° a[nnos] r[egnauit].
 Girig mac Dungaile xj. uel iij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Domnall f[ilius] Cousantin xj. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Constantin f[ilius] Aed xlv. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Maelcolaim f[ilius] Domnall ix. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Cuilein f[ilius] Illoilb f[ilius] Constandtin iiij. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Cinaed uel Dub f[ilius] Maelcolaim vij. a[nnis] r[eg-
 nauit].
 Culein i. dimidoin r[egnauit].
 Cinaed f[ilius] Duib ocht a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Maelcolaim mac Cinaeda xxx. a[nnis] reg[nauit].
 Dondchad ua Mailcolaim vij. r[egnauit].
 Macbeathad mac Fin mic Laig xvj. a[nnis] r[egnauit].
 Lulach v. mis.
 Maelcolaim mac Colaim mic Donneaid iarsin.

III.

FROM FRAGMENTS OF IRISH ANNALS, TRAN-SCRIBED BY MACFIRBIS, FROM THE BOOK OF GILLANANAEMH MACEGAN.

MS. BRUSSELS, NO. 5301.

A.

A.D.

- 581 KAL. Cath Manann in quo Aodhan mac Gabrain uictor erat.
724 Kal. Faochu Abbas Iae.
726 Kal. Cillene fota Abbas Iae.
727 Kal. San bhliadain si so bhris Aongas, ri Foirtreann, tri catha for Drust righ Alban.^a
734 Cath do bhrisadh do Aodh allan mac Fergail for Flaithbheartach mac Loingsigh ri Eirenn go d-tug Flaithbheartach loingius a Fortreannoibh chuige a n-aighidh Cineil Eoghain, acht chena ra baidheadh carmhor an eobhlaigh sin.^b

A.

TRANSLATION.

^a In this year Aengus, king of Fortrenn, gained three battles over Drust, king of Alban.

^b A battle was gained by Aedh Allan, son of Fergal, over Flaithbhertach son of Loingsech, king of Erin, so that Flaithbhertach brought a fleet out of Fortrenn, to assist him against the Cinel Eoghan. The greater part of that fleet was, however, drowned.

B.

- 669 Kal. Cuimin Fionn Abbas Iae quieuit.
- 678 Kal. Cath Duinlocha. Cath Liagmaolan. Cath
i. Calatros in quo uictus est Domhnall breac.^c Quies Failbe Ab Iae.
- 683 Kal. Adamnan do gabail abdaine Iac.
- 686 Kal. Domnall breac mac Eachach buidhe mortuus est.
- 687 Kal. Cath Duinneachtain ittir mae Ossa 7 Bruite
mac Bile uictor fuit.^d
- 693 Kal. Bruide mac Bile ri Foirtrean moritur.
- 704 Mors Flainn Fiona mic Ossa ri Saxon, in tegnaidh amhra, dalta Adamnain, de quo Riagul Benneuir cecinit.
- Iniu feras Bruide eath, in forba a senathar,
Manad algas la mae De, conide ad genathar
Iniu ro bith mae Ossa a ceath fria claidhme glasa
Cia do rada aitrigi, is hi ind hi iar nassa.
Iniu ro bith mac Ossa, las ambidis duba deoga
Ro euala Crist ar n-guidhe roisaorbut Bruide bregha.^e*

B.

^c Battle of Dunloeha. Battle of Liagmaolan. Battle in Calathros in which Donald Brec was defeated.

^d Battle of Dunnichen, between the son of Ossa, and Bruide, son of Bile, who conquered.

^e The death of Flann Fiona, son of Ossa, king of Saxonland, the famous wise man, the pupil of Adamnan, of whom Riagal of Bangor sung :

This day Bruide fights a battle for the land of his grandfather,
Unless the son of God wish it otherwise, he will die in it,
To-day the son of Oswy was killed in a battle with green swords,

Although he did penance, he shall lie in Hi after his death ;
This day the son of Oswy was killed, who had the black drink,
Christ heard our supplications, they spared Bruide the brave.¹

¹ These lines are obviously mis- | gal of Bangor is recorded by the
placed, and belong to the previous | Four Masters in 881.
entry in 687. The death of Ria-

704 Ba marbh dno Adhamhnán sin bhliaghainisi lxxxij^o ætatis suæ.^f

C.

852 Kal. Indrechtach Ab Ia do thiachtain i n-Eirinn go mionnaibh Coloimeille lais.

Cath no thabhairt d-Aodh do righ Ailigh i. don righ as ferr engnámh na aimsir, do loingius na n-Gall n-Gaoidheal i. Seuit iad 7 daltaí do Normannoibh iad 7 tan ann ad berar eid Normainnígh friu. Maidhidh forra re n-Aodh agus euirthear a n-deargar na n-Gall n-Gaoidheal 7 cinn imdhá do bhreith do Niall leis, 7 ra dhlihsiot na h-Eirennáigh an marbhadh soin, uair amhail do nílis na Lochlannaigh do nidissiomh.^g

858 Kal. Ra chuaidh Maoilseachlainn don Mumhain, go rabha re re mis og ionnradh Mumhan ann Eim-ligh go ttug braighde Mumhan o Comur tri n-uisce go hinnsi Tarbhna iar n-Eirinn. Cath Cairn Lugh-dhach sain. Is in eath soin ro marbhadh Maoleroín mae Muiredaig leithrigh na n-Deisi.^h

^f Adamnan died in the eighty-third year of his age.

C.

^g Indrechtach, abbot of Ia, came to Erin with the relics of Colum-chille.

A battle given by Aedh, king of Ailech, the most valiant king of his time, to the fleet of the Gallgaél. They were Scots and foster-children of the Northmen, and at one time used to be called Northmen. They were defeated and slain by Aedh, and many of their heads carried off by Niall with him, and the Irish were justified in committing this havoc, for these men were wont to act like Lochlanns.

^h Maelsechlan proceeded into Munster, and remained for the space of a month at Emly plundering Munster, and he obtained the hostages of Munster from the meeting of the three waters to Inistarbhna, in the west of Erin. This was the battle of Carn

Gen go ttiosadh Maoilseachlann an turus so do ghabhail righe Mumhan do fein, robo thuidheachta do marbhad an ro mharbadh do Ghallghaoidhealaibh ann, uair daoine iar ttregadh a m-baiste iadsaidhe ¶ adbertais Normannaigh friu, uair bes Normannach aca, ¶ a n-altrum forra ¶ ger bo ole na Norman-naigh bunaidh do na h-Eglaisibh ba mesa go mor iadsaidhe i. an lucht sa, gaeh corair for Eirinn a m bidis.ⁱ

Maidm re Cerball mac Dunlaing ¶ re Niar fo Ghallghaoidhealaibh i n-Aradhaibh Tire.^j

- 858 Kal. Cionaodh mac Ailpin rex Pictorum moritur; conadh do ro raidheadh an rann.

*Nad mair Cionaodh go lion sgor,
Fo dhera gol in gach taigh
Aon ri a logha fo nimh,
Go bruinne Romha ni bhfail.^k*

- 862 Domnall mac Ailpin rex Pictorum moritur.
869 Milleadh ¶ innredh Foirtrenn la Lochlannaibh go
-

Lugdach. In this battle was slain Maeleeron, son of Muredag, half king of the Deisi.

ⁱ Though Maelseehlan had not come on this expedition to take the kingdom of Munster to himself, he ought to have come to kill all the Gallgaél who were killed there, for they were a people who had renounced their baptism, and they were usually called Northmen, for they had the customs of the Northmen, and had been fostered by them, and though the original Northmen were bad to the churches, these were by far worse in whatever part of Erin they used to be.

^j A victory gained by Cerball, son of Dunlang, and by Niar, over the Gallgaél in Aradhtire.

^k On whom this verse was composed,

That Cinaed with the number of studs liveth not,
Is the cause of weeping in every house.
Any one king under heaven of his work,
To the borders of Rome there is not.

*rugsat braighde iomda leo i n-gill re cios ; ro bas go fada iarttain ag tabhairt ciosa dhoibh.*¹

- 869 Kal. Ceallach mac Ailella Ab. Cilledara γ Ab. Iae dormiuit in regione Pictorum.

Tuathal mac Artgossa prim epscop Foirtrenn γ Ab. Duin-Caillenn moritur.

- 870 Is in bliadhain ri do ronsad na righ Lochlann forbaisi for Sraithcluaide i m-breathnaibh ; rc eethre miosaibh ag forbaisi doibh fuirre, fa deoigh thra iar fforrach an lochta ro bhaoi innte do ghorta γ d-iotaidh, ar ttraghadh go hiongnaidh an tobair ro bhaoi acca ar medhon : ro cuas forro iarrtain. Rugadh tra ar tus gach maithius ro bhui innte. Rugadh slogh mor eiste i m-braid.^m

- 871 Amhlaebh γ Imar do thoidhecht aridhsí a h-Albain go h-Atheliath γ brad mor Bretan γ Alban γ Saxon leo, da ched long a lion.ⁿ

- 909 As beg nach is na laithibhsí ro cuirséid Foirtrenn-naigh γ Lochlonnaigh cath. As cruaidh imurro ro cuirsíot fir Alban an eath so, uair baoi Columcille ag congnamh leo, uair ro ghuidhsoid go diochra e, uair ba hc a n-apstol e γ as trid ro ghabhsad creidemh.

¹ Fortren was plundered and ravaged by the Lochlans, and they carried off many hostages with them as pledges for tribute, and they were paid tribute for a long time after.

^m In this year, the king of Lochlan laid siege to Strathclyde in Britain, and they continued the siege for four months. At length, however, after having wasted the people who were in it by hunger and thirst, having wonderfully drawn off the well they had within, they entered upon them. At first, they carried off all the riches that were within it, and afterwards, a great host of prisoners were brought into captivity.

ⁿ Amhlaebh and Imar came again from Albau to Atheliath, having a great number of prisoners, both Britons and Albans and Saxons. Two hundred ships was their number.

^o Almost at the same time, the men of Fortrenn and the Lochlans fought a battle. Vigorously, indeed, did the men of Alban fight this battle, for Columcille was assisting them, for they Uair fecht oile anuair ro baoi Imar Conung na giolla og 7 tainig d-inredh Alban, tri catha mora a lion, asedh da ronsad fir Alban eider laoch 7 eleirech, bheith go maidin i n-aoine 7 a n-iornaide ra Dia 7 ra Colameille 7 eighme mora do denamh ris in Choimdhedh, 7 almsana iomhda bidh 7 edaig do thabhairt dona h-egalsaibh 7 do na boehtaibh 7 corp an Choimdhedh do chaithem allamhuibh a sagart 7 geallaibh gach maithiusa do ghenamh amail as ferr no ioralfaidis a celeirigh forra 7 comadh eadh ba meirge dhoibh i geenn gach catha, bachall Colaim-eille, gonadh aire sin adberas Cathbhuaidh fria o sin alle ; 7 ba hainm coir, uair is minie rugsadsomh buaidh a ceathaibh le ; amhail do ronsat iaram an tan sin dola a muinighin Colaimeille. Do ronsaid an modh eedna an tan sa. Ra cuiriodh iaramh an cathsa go cruaidh feochair ; rugsad na h-Albanaigh buaidh 7 cosgar ; ro marbhaid imurro na Lochlon-naigh go h-iomdha ar maidhm forra 7 marbhthar a prayed to him fervently, because he was their apostle, and it was through him they had received the faith. On a former occasion, when Imhar Conung was a young man, he came to plunder Alban with three large battalions. What the men of Alban, both laity and clergy, did, was to remain until morning fasting and praying to God and to Columcille, and they cried aloud to the Lord, and gave many alms of food and clothes to the churches and to the poor, and to take the body of the Lord from the hands of the priests, and to promise to do every good as their clergy would order them ; and they would have as their standard at the head of every battle the crozier of Columcille, for which reason it is called the Cathbhuaidh from that time forth ; and this was a befitting name for it, for they have often gained victory in battles by means of it, as they did afterwards at that time when they put their trust in Columcille. They acted in the same way on this occasion. This battle was afterwards fought fiercely and vigorously. The Albanich gained victory and triumph. The Lochlanns were slain in great numbers and defeated, and their

*righ ann .i. Oittir mac Iarngna. As cian iarttain na ro saighsiod Danair na Lochlonnaigh orra, acht ro bui siadh ⁊ comshanadh doibh.*⁹

- 931 Tainig ri Lochlann iarttain ⁊ ra airg Sraithecluaidhc .i. ra air an tir, acht ni ro cumaing namaid do Sraithecluaidc.^p
-

king was slain, viz., Otter, son of Iargna ; and it was long after this until either Danes or Lochlanks attacked them, but they enjoyed peace and tranquillity.

^p The king of Lochlann afterwards came and plundered Strathclyde, that is, he plundered the land, but the enemy was not able to take Strathclyde.

IV.

FROM THE IRISH LIFE OF SAINT ADOMNAN.

MS. BRUSSELS, NO. 5101-4.

FECHT do bert corp Bruide mic Bile, ri Cruithmeach, do cum n-Iae, agus ba saeth agus ingar la h-Adamnan a ecce, agus asbert ara tabharthae corp Bruide cuccae hi teach ind oidchi sin. Frithairidh Adamnan oc in corp co matain isin tech sin. Is in matain ar abharach an tan ro gabh an corp gluasacht agus a shuile d-erslueadh, is ann tainic araile craibhdheach chonercil co dorus an tighe agus asbert. Masa doigh todiusceadh marbh di Adamnan, atberim cona dingentar. Appaidh do nach elerech do rega ina inad mina todiusca marbu. Ata ni do dligudh ann, ol Adamnan. Masa chora din tabhram bennachtain fors in corpsa, agus in anmain Bruidi. Ro faidh do ridhisi

TRANSLATION.

The body of Bruide, son of Bile, king of the Cruithnigh, was brought to Ia, and his death was sorrowful and grievous to Adamnan, and he desired that the body of Bruide should be brought to him into the house that night. Adamnan watched by the body till morning. Next day, when the body began to move and open its eyes, a certain pious man came to the door of the house, and said, "If Adamnan's object be to raise the dead, I say he should not do so, for it will be a degradation to every Cleric who shall succeed to his place, if he too cannot raise the dead." "There is somewhat of right in that," replied Adamnan. "Therefore, as it is more proper, let us give our blessing to the body, and to the soul of Bruide." Then Bruide resigned his spirit to heaven Bruidi a spiorad do cum nime, eo m-bennachtain Adamnan agus samhtha Iae. Is and asbert Adamnan :

Mor do inganta do ni,
 In ri genair o Muire,
 Betha scuab an im muili,
 Ecc do Bruide mac Bile.
 Is annamh [Is annamh]
 Iar mbeith ir righe tuaithe,
 Ceppan caue crin dara,
 Im mac rig Ala Cluaithi.

again, with the blessing of Adamnan, and the congregation of Ia. Then Adamnan said :

“ Many wonders doth he perform,
 The king who was born of Mary,
 He takes away life,
 Death of Bruide son of Bile :
 It is rare, It is rare,
 After ruling in the northern kingdom
 That a hollow stick of withered oak,
 Is about the son of the king of Alcluaith.”

V.

FROM THE LIFE OF SAINT BOETHIUS.

MS. BODL. RAWLINSON B. 505.

QUALITER IN YTALIAM PERREXIT.

Ut igitur plenius aquas sapientie salutaris hauriret et peregrinus existens Deo securius deseruiret. Natale solum deserens, nauem ascendit et Ytaliam perueniens, Sancti patris Tyliani monasterium ingressus, ibi monastice vite disciplina, et sacre scripture sciencia, ad prime erudicionis humilitate et mansuetudine, omnibus acceptabile erat. Transactis vero aliquot idem annis, divino oraculo admonitus est repatriare. Accepta igitur benedictione, atque licentia Sancti patris Tyliani, et missus cum eo ipso Sancto seniore Codro, qui sententias eius in malignates temperaret, datisque eis sacris voluminibus ac uestibus, nec non et sociorum reliquis, xxx^a peregrinacionis sue anno, iterum regressus est. Fama vero eius in itinere demnlgata iunxerunt se ei quidam viri sancti de Germania numero Ix. quorum decem fuerunt germani fratres et x. virgines. Pervenientes itaque ad mare navem ascendunt, et prospere navigio in Pictorum finibus applicuerunt.

QUALITER NECTANUM REGEM A MORTE RESUSCITAVIT.

Contigit autem tunc temporis, Nectanum illius terre regem viam universe carnis migrasse. Ad eius quoque exequias invitantur et illi, ut super defunctum regem vigilarent et pro ipso ad Dominum orarent, cuius domum in qua exanime corpus jacebat, pervenirent, ceteris exclusis, vir Dei Boecius se in oracionem dedit. Completa igitur oracione, ecce defunctus a mortis faucibus resurrexit. Stupent omnes, luctus in gaudium vertitur, et Deus in suo Sancto glorificatur. Denique rex castrum illud in quo factum miraculum, cum omni sua possessione, beato Boecio contulit, quo ipse in cellam consecrato, quendam suorum in custodem reliquit.

QUALITER FILIAM REGIS DAILIRATA ADHUC RESUSCITAVIT.

Post hec ad Hybernicum mare pervenit, et in navem ascendit, in regione, Daylriata nomine, portum tenuit, ubi regis eiusdem terre filiam iam defunctam resuscitavit. Quapropter et rex terram ei optulit, in qua ipse ecclesiam fundauit, et relicto ibi presbyterio quondam de suis, in primum solum i. Kýanacteorum gressum direxit. Et, cum regem adiret, eum, quia gentilis erat, non admisit.

VI.

LIFE OF SAINT SERVANUS.

MS. BIB. EP. MARSH AP. DUBL. V. 3. 4. 16.

FUIT quidam rex nobilis in terra Chanaan nomine Obeth filius Eliud, et nomen uxoris ejus Alpia filia regis Arabie. Ambo viginti annos insimul viventes prolem nullam habuerunt. Inde sepissime Deum rogaverunt et oblationes et uictimas ei optulerunt, ut eis ad expellendum obprobrium eorum sobolem condignam donaret. Qua propter rex mandavit per universam regionem ut omnes homines a minoribus usque ad maiores tribus diebus ac noctibus jejunarent et assidue pro rege et regina Dei misericordiam exorarent, ut sterilitatis ab eis ignominiam averteret. In tertia vero nocte, ultimo galli cantu regi parumper dormienti in sompno angelus Domini apparuit dicens, Ite in civitatem que vocatur Eliopolis, et in ea invenietis fontem pulcherimum et in eo ter balniate. Et exinde quod vos hanelatis habebitis, exeunte et ad fontem prenominatum pervenientes juxta dictum angeli fecerunt.

Mandragora est genus pomi cuius radix ad formam hominis crescit et mulieres steriles fecundas facit.

Ac herbam juxta fontem crescentem scilicet mandragonem regina concupiens eum manducavit. Postquam ergo commedit et copula maritali acta illico concepit. In nocte vero subsequente angelus regine apparuit, confortans eam et dicens, Noli regina contristari et mesta esse, quia ecce habes in utero et paries duos filios, fide et opere optimos. Nomen erit uni Generatius, id est, ardens gemma et erit honorabilis rex super omnem terram Cananeorum. Est nomen alteri Malachias siue Servanus. Que nomina ei postea peracto secularis vite cursu bene convenerunt. Malachias enim interpretatur angelus Domini, hoc est aptum nomen ei, qui legatus sedis apostolice extiterit nuncians verbum per quatuor plagas mundi. Servanus Regiones, vel partes. vero servando dicitur Deo ea quod operando serviebat Domino nostro Jesu Christo in omni opere bono nocte dieque. Hiis itaque dictis et angelo discedente regina exorrecta est, et dicta angelica marito suo nunciavit. Inde igitur ambo exultantes, grates Deo habundanter reddiderunt.

Postquam natus est puer, ductus est ad Episcopum Alexandrie civitatis Magonium nomine ut baptizaretur ab eo. Episcopus vero baptizavit eum et nomen ei imposuit Servanum. Beatus igitur Servanus nutritus est usque ad viij annos, et pater eius defunctus est. Defuncto autem patre suo, obtulerunt ei totius regni eorum regimen. Ipse vero a juventute adherens Deo et despiciens mundum, omnes voluntates eorum refutavit. Frater autem ejus Generatius pro ipso regnavit. Sanctus autem Servanus perrexit ad civitatem Alexandrinam ut divino studio vacaret ibi, et artes disceret. Et ibi mansit per tresdecim annos, et monachilem habitum ab Episcopo ejusdem civitatis sumpsit. A prenominato Episcopo post triginta annos diligenter ammonitus est ut ad sacros ordines quoniam dignus fuit promoveretur. Igitur usque ad sacerdotii gradum licet nolens et contradicens promotus est. Postquam autem ordinatus est, venit in terram suam, et omnes Channanei cum multa exultatione eum in Episcopatum elegerunt. Episcopatum autem illum construens in eo monasteria et ecclesias Deo die noctisque serviens per viginti annos rexit in pace. Tunc angelus Domini adiit eum dicens ei, Mandatum est tibi a Domino Deo ut ex eas et discedas de terra et de cognatione tua. Beatus Servanus ad hec respondit, Libenter ibo, sed ignoro quo Dominus meus vult me pergere. Angelus ad hoc Beato Servano dixit, Ego ero tecum quoecunque perreveris, deliberas te ab omni temptatione diabolica et ero comes tui itineris prosperans viam tuam in mari et in terra, ab hoc die usque diem dissolutionis corporis tui. Tunc Sanctus Servanus ab omnibus clericis et laicis Episcopatus sui et cognatis et amicis suis licentiam accepit et eis benedixit.

Illi autem de discessu suo dolentes, ne eos desolatos dimitteret rogaverunt attente. Ille autem despiciens lacrimas et preces eorum cum magna multitudine sociorum et angelo eum ducente iter arripuit.

Postea Sanctus Servanus cum quinquaginta et decem milibus ad ripam Nili fluminis devenit, et cum omni comitatu sua flumen prospere transsivit. Deinde ad litus Maris Rubri cum totidem advenit, et sicco pede illud mare omnes pertransierunt. Post duos inde menses pervenit ad civitatem Iherlem et septem annis honorabilis patriarcha in ea extitit, in loco Jacobi patriarche Ierosolimitaneorum Episcopi. Quadam autem die angelus Servano Sancto dixit, Ascende in montem Syon et circui eum. Sanctus Servanus ascendit et circuit. Ostensum est ei lignum de quo salutifera crux Christi incisa fuit. Tunc angelus ait ei, Incide de ligno isto quatuor baculos et affer tecum, et in magna virtute et reverentia post vos erunt. Sanctus Servanus in voce angeli tres baculos incidit. Quorum vero majoris baculi lignum angelus ipse amputavit, et ipse Sancto Servano tradidit et commendavit. Propterea Sanctus iste in majori honore et reverentia tenuit et custodivit. Postea cum gaudio reversus est in Iherlem. Et illico ait ei angelus, Tempus est ut dimittas civitatem istam, et pergas ad civitatem Constantinopolim quia prope est locus iste terre et cognationi tue. Surrexit ergo Beatus Servanus et benedixit omnibus Ierosolimitanis licentiam accipiens ab eis. Pervenit postea cum omni multitudine sociorum suorum ad Constantinopolim, et fuit in ea honorifice receptus per tres annos. Inde eodem monitus angelo venit ad terram et ad insulam Salvatoris. Dicitur euim insula Salvatoris quia ad eam propicius nobis venit Salvator noster. Postea venit cum maxima turba Romam. Et Romani audientes famam ejus habundantem per terras et regiones quas circuit honorifice suscepserunt eum. Erant autem in illis diebus sine Papa et Doctore. At tunc consors cleri et populi Romanorum voluntas elegit eum in apostolatum. Et fuit ibi in cathedra Petri regens et populum Romanum docens signa et mirabilia agens septem annis.

Angelus Domini ad Sanctum Servanum loquitur dicens. Mandat tibi Deus tuus exire de loco isto, quia nimis jocundum tibi est hic esse. Tunc Beatus Servanus clerum et populum Romanum advocat dicens, Viri fratres a vobis omnibus licentiam sumo, et benedictionem meam vobis omnibus dimitto. Oportet enim me Domino ammonente in longinquas partes ire, et Domino Iesu Christo per omnia obedire. Vocem illam omnibus Romanis valde displicuit audire, omnis enim populi Romani fuit una voluntas cum ipso pergere, quia in tantum doctrina, moribus, et nobilitate virum valde preclarum dilexerunt. Maluerunt enim dura et aspera mundi in peregrinatione eum ipso sustinere, quam ejus presentia et melliflua doctrina post ipsum earere. Exivit tamen civitatem Romanam eum multitudine grandi cleri et populi virorum ac mulierum de discessu suo nimis dolentium usque ad collem Lacrimarum. Beatus Servanus stetit in loco illo vertens se ad populum ait, Viri fratres et popule delecte a Deo, nolite dolere de discessu meo et contrastari, sed dividite vos in duas partes, una pars hic Rome maneat, altera in hanc peregrinationem postponens hujus seculi curam mecum veniat; pro ipsis remanentibus et nobiscum venientibus Deum rogabo, ut ipse vobis cuneta peccata condonans vobiscum sit et nostri misereatur. Responderunt omnes, Amen. Et divise sunt turbe et benedixit illis lacrimans et osculans eos ait, Valete et in Christo manete.

Postquam autem Beatus Servanus cum omni comitatu suo Alpes aggreditur, venit ad vallem que dicitur Nigra sine vallis bestiarum. Et quia Servanus seivit quod in illa nocte temptaretur a Diabolo, propterea in valle illa pernoetavit. Tunc angelus ad Beatum virum dixit, Narro tibi penas quas passurus es tu et tui omnes in hac nocte. Et dixit ei confortare turbas et predic eis quod amplius non pacientur penas inferni transactis penis et noctis hujus tormentis. Angelus post hoc discessit. Et Sanctus Servanus venit ad turbam confortans eam dixit, Confortamini vos et estote parati in parandis penis que super-venient vos in hae nocte. Ponens eis versieulum in exemplum propheticum scilicet, Super aspidem et basiliscum ambulabis et conculcabis leonem et draconem. Hoc est, Vos omnes si in fide Sancte Trinitatis perseverabitis super aspidem et basiliscum super Diabolum videlicet et pompas ejus ambulabitis et nichil vobis nocebit. Tunc Sanctus ait, Prandete et ad bella futura preparate vos. Commestione autem peracta, et versu dicto quantocius venit atratissima et nebulosa caligo super vallem in qua erant. Tunc venerunt terremotus magni, tonitrua et fulgura, grandines et ignes sulphurei, et diversa genera bestiarum bipedum quadripedum, et impleverunt circa eos vallem. Tunc venerunt culices ossea rostra habentes, dracones serpentes alas et omnia tormenta que Sathanas inferni hominibus poterat monstrare. Videndo hec omnia magna pars turbe defuncta est. Videns autem Sanctus Servanus socios suos hec non posse pati surrexit et benedixit vallem, evanuerunt omnia et ad nichil redacta sunt, et nulli hominum amplius nocuerunt. Deinde Sanctus Servanus venit ad Iteum mare, quod distat inter Angliam et Franciam cum septem milibus milium et sicco pede transsierunt. Ita Deus in mari prebut eis aditum et adjutorium. Et postea venit de loco ad locum usque ad amnem que Forthe nuncupatur. Sanctus nero Edheunanus fuit abbas in Scocia tunc temporis, et ipse ivit obviam Servano usque ad insulam Keð et suscepit eum cum magna veneratione quoniam audivit multa bona de illo. Peracto ibi noctis spacio et post tempus in quo placuit eis mellifluo colloquio perfui. Sanctus Servanus ait, Quomodo disponam familie et sociis meis. Sanctus Odauðanus respondit, Habitent terram Fif, et a monte Britannorum usque ad montem qui dicitur Okhél. Et ita factum est.

Postea Sanctus Servanus cum centum tantummodo sociis in comitatu suo venit ad Kinel et virgam quam tenuit transmare projecit, et de ea arbor pomifera crevit, que apud modernos Morglas dicitur. Tunc angelus ad Beatum virum dixit, Ibi erit requies operis tui ubi arbor illa per pulera crevit. Sanctus inde Servanus venit ad locum qui dicitur Culenros volens habitare ibi, dispersit omnes spinas et dumeta que erant ibi abundantes. Rex autem Socie audiens, scilicet, Brude filius Dargart, qui Pictorum tunc temporis regnum tenuit, ira valde commotus est, quia sine licentia sua habitabat ibi. Misit autem Rex spiculatores suos ut interficerent Sanctum Servanum cum omni familia sua. Regem interim pessimum gutta invasit ut vix suum spiritum subito non emisit. Et sic festinanter propter Sanctum Domini mandavit. Sancto igitur veniente Rex egrotans loquitur dicens, Sancte Dei pro Christo in quem credis restaura me sanitati, et locum in quo habitas in perpetuam elemosinam habeas. Sanctus precibus et pietate motus regem saluti restituit. Postea Sanctus Servanus cymiterium et ecclesiam suam in Culenros fundavit et dedicavit. Peracto ibi temporis spacio pervenit ad insulam Leuene ut loqueretur Sancto Edauano presentialiter. Sanctus vero Eudanus Beatum virum gaudens honorabiliter suscepit et animadvertisens quia locum aptum sue religioni adquireret ipsam insulam in elemosinam concessit bona voluntate. Servanus igitur per septem annos fundans monasterium in ea mansit et multorum animas luerifecit. Exinde exiens totam regionem Fif construens diversa divina edificia summo Creatori circuit et perambulavit.

Quodam tempore fuit Sanctus Servanus in illa spelunca in Deserto et quidam frater monachus infirmabatur cum eo, et voluit vini potum habere et non potuit adipisci. Tunc Beatus Servanus accepit aquam de fonte qui ibi habetur, et benedixit, et mutata est in vinum, et sanatus est eger. In illa autem spelunca Sancto Servano in lecto suo jacente post matutinas accessit Diabolus ad eum temptans et disputans cum eo. Et dixit ad eum, An clericus sapiens es tu Servane? Quid vis tu miserrime omnium creaturarum. Ait diabolus, Disputare tecum et aliqua te interrogare desidero. Dixit Sanctus Servanus, Incipe, tu miser, incipe. Interrogavit eum Sathanas, Ubi Deus fuit antequam celum et terram creavit et ante omnes creaturas suas. Ait ei Beatus Servanus, In seipso fuit quia non est localis, et a Questiones Dia-

boli ad Sanctum Servanum.

nullo loco capitur, neque distenditur, neque temporum motionibus subjacet, sed est totus ubique. Dixitque Diabolus, Qua de causa creavit Deus creaturas? Ait Sanctus Quia non posset Creator esse sine creaturis. Quare fecit eas valde bonas? Sanctus ad hoc ait, Quia Deus noluit operari malum, vel ne videatur invidus, quod nollet aliquid bonum esse preter se ipsum. Dixit diabolus, Ubi plasmavit Deus Adam. Ait Sanctus, In Ebron. Dixit Sathanas, Ubi fuit postquam dejectus est de paradyso? Sanctus ait, Ubi formatus est. Dixit Sathanas, Quamdiu fuit in paradyso post peccatum suum? Ait Sanctus, Per viij. tantum horas. Dixit Sathanas, Cur Deus permisit ut Adam et Eua peccarent in paradyso? Sanctus ad hoc ait, Quia prescivit Deus magnum inde fore venturum Christus enim natus non fuisset secundum carnem nisi Adam et Eua peccassent. Dixit Sathanas, Cur non potuerit Eua et Adam liberari per semetipsos? Servanus ad hec, Quia non ceciderunt per semetipsos, sed per aliun id est per Diabolum suadentem eis. Ideo per alium id est Christum de prosapia eorum natum liberati sunt. Cur Deus non formavit novum hominem et misit eum ut liberaret genus humanum? Ait Sanctus, Quia non pertineret ad nos nisi esset de genere Ade. Cur vos homines liberati estis per passionem Christi et non nos demones? Quia a nobismet ipsis casus originem non habuimus, sed a vobis demonibus. Vos autem demones quia non estis fragilis nature nec vultis penitere et a nobismet ipsis originem peccati contraxistis, ideo passio Christi vobis non profuit. Videns igitur Diabolus contra virum Sanctum se nichil posse proficere, interrogatione victus ait, Sapiens es tu Servans et non possum amplius tecum disputare. Ait ei Servanus, Vade tu miser, vade et festinanter hinc recede et nulli hominum amplius in hoc loco audeas apparere. Et locus ille in honore Sancti, Sancti, Sancti Servani factus est sacer usque in hodiernum diem.

Quodam autem tempore fuit Beatus Servanus in Tuligbotuan malignus spiritus intravit in quendam hominem miserum ibi et tantum appetitum commedendi habebat quod nullo modo saturari poterat. Sanctus Servanus pollicem suum posuit in os suum et Diabolus tribiliter clamans et exiens dimisit illum. Alio tempore fuit Beatus Servanus in Tuligultrin, et quedam mulier paupercula peperit duos filios mortuos ibi et attulit eos ad Beatum Servanum et lacrimabiliter oravit eum ut sibi eos vivificaret. Sanctus vero prostratus in terra Dominum Deum nostrum deprecatus est ut fidem hujus muliercule aspiceret et sibi prolem suam caritative vivam redderet. Exaudiens igitur Deus precem Sancti viri filios suos vivos reddidit matri ambos. Alia vero nocte Sanctus idem fuit in Alneth hospitatus cum quodam paupere rustico qui plus substantie non habebat preter unum porcum et illum Sancto viro in illa nocte mactavit quem vivum surgens in crastino in ara sua invenit. Alio tempore fuit ille vir in Atheren et habuit quendam multonem quem diligebat et nutriebat in domo. Sed fur quidem veniens furtim eum ei abstulit. Quesito autem ariete per totam parochiam, illo non invento ecce adductus fur ille in presentia Beati viri et interrogatus a Sancto si culpam criminis sibi illati haberet, sub juramento renuit quod non habuit. Et incipiente eo iterum per baculum Sancti viri jurare, vervex in gutture suo balavit. Et ille miser confitens peccatum suum veniam a Sancto Servano quesivit et accepit.

In illo tempore fuit Sanctus in cella Dunenensi et tunc nunciatum est ei quod draco magnus et terribilis et deterrimus veniret in civitatem suam cuius aspectum nemo mortalium posset pati. Sanctus autem Servanus exiens in obviam ei et accipiens baculum in dextera in valle quadam pugnavit cum dracone et interfecit eum. Ab illo autem die diecit vallis illa Vallis draconis. Et postea venerunt ad Beatum Servanum de Alpibus tres viri ceci et tres viri claudi et tres viri surdi et dictum est eis quod suam recuperarent sanitatem ad Beatum Servanum si venirent in scociam. Postquam ergo venerunt adlocuti Sauctum virum salutantes eum et sui magni laboris et itineris causam revelaverunt et ut ab infirmitatibus suis eos curaret rogarunt attente. Sanctus vir timens ne causa eum temp-tandi hec dicerent, loquitur eis dicens, Viri fratres numquid ego sum Deus, aut vos temptatis me supra id quod videtis in me, videlicet dum istam rem grandem sanari vos a me postulatis. Illi autem prosternantes ad pedes ejus et florantes cum juramento dixerunt, Non Domine pater non, sed credimus preces et orationes tuas multum valere apud Deum, et per te a summo creatore nos posse adipisci sanitatem. Audiens igitur Beatus Servanus fidem illorum benedixit fontem quandam, et in eo ter fecit eos lavari. Et inde exeuntes merito Sancti viri salvi facti sunt. Et sic Sanctissimus Servanus, cecis visum, claudis gressum, surdis auditum, hiis et aliis pluribus diversa genera morborum patientibus Deo auctore sanitatem tribuit et paravit. Postquam Sanctus iste fratres karissimi occupatus est grandi infirmitate et vi febrium detentus est et vocavit omnes fratres suos et diem dissolutionis sue imminere eis prenunciavit. Fratres inde multum dolentes et Deum assidue pro ipso orantes responderunt, Cur nos pater deseris? aut cui nos desolatos relinquis. Malumus enim commori tecum quam post te in seculo vivere. Sanctus vero vir post multa miracula, post diversas virtutes, post multas ecclesias in Christo fundatas, pace data fratribus in cella Dunenensi in primo die kalendarum Iulii paulatim spiritum summo Creatori tradidit et commendavit. Post obitum suum discipuli sui et tocius provincie fere populus, corpus ejus ad Culenros deportaverunt. Et ibi cum psalmis et ymnis et canticis honorifice eum sepelierunt, ubi florent merita et virtutes ejus meritorum usque in hodiernum diem, ad laudem et honorem omnipotentis Dei, qui in Trinitate perfecta vivit et regnat per infinita seculorum secula.—Amen.

VII.

LEGEND OF SAINT BONIFACIUS.

BREV. ABERDON. PROP. SANCT. PRO TEMP. HYEM.

BONIFACIUS nacione Israliticus de radie sororis Apostolorum Petri et Andree prosapia natus. Et in vico Bethsaida Galilee prouincie ortus. Hic in papali dignitati Beato Gregorio Pape successit et annis septem tribusque mensibus ac septem diebus presidebat. Iste enim septimus vir a Iohanne apostolorum Petri et Andree et sextus a radia, hic ab infancia Spiritus Sancti gratia est repletus, qui in adolescencie sue etate Deo placere studebat et ad superne vite palacium probis actibus verum Deum colebat et sic castitatem anime et corporis seruans irreprehensibiliter viuebat.

Fol. lxix.

Octauo vero etatis sue anno diuinarum scripturarum sed deditum prebuit, vbi veram verbi sapienciam affluenter inuenit, variasque ex omni genere linguas didicit et recte loquebatur, in tantum quod Iohanne Episcopi Ierosolimitano et Patriarcha, etatis sue anno tricesimo sexto in sacerdotium est ordinatus, vbi postque Apostoli Petri Sanctissimi vitam insecurus est et mores.

Attingente autem eo annum circiter quadragesimum sextum, Mauricio Romanorum regnante Imperatore, Romanus venit, vbi aliquanti temporis in Episcopum et Cardinalem constitutus est: deinde omnium Cardinalium electione et ipsius Summi Dei prouidencia Spiritus Sancti etatis sue quadragesimo anno diuinitus ad Papatum assumitur. De hinc certas horas canonicas et aliorum in ecclesia Dei diuinorum celebraciones varias imposuit: constitutiones ac salubres orandi dicendique modos rite et legittime ordinauit.

Demum de suis fratribus in oratorio quosdem eiusdem clam revocauit ut inde sui cordis archana eisdem reuelaret. Ita inquiens, Fratres mi in Domino nostri Iesu Christo cuius fides vbique profitetur: ab illo tempore quo paternas nostras deseruimus lares ob eiusdem Dei amorem et illorum populorum qui vltra fines Europe vsque in aquilonales plagas citra parumper terre fines peregrinare disposuimus. Cui rendendo dixerunt, Mitte ibidem viros religiosos et prudentes in ea parte quemadmodum diu Celestinus et Gregorius antecessores tui Palladium Patricium et Augustinum eisdem premitus destulerunt.

Sanctus itaque Bonifacius respondebat dicens, Deum nostrum omnipotentem per Sanctum Petrum rogauiimus: ut per illius meritum graciam hanc peregrinandi recipere meruimus, qui sibi in seculo Apostolo Paulo creditum est euangelizare illis in Europa verbum Dei vnde illius gracia corporis et sanguinis Domini nostri Iesu Christi sacrificium super hoc altare libauimus, vt idem ab eodem nobis crederetur quod quidem profecto angelica visione per Sanctum Petrum nobis nuper revelatum est et deinceps adhuc in oratione perseverans de eadem visione firmatus sum. Cui omnes dixerunt: Tribuat tibi Dominus secundum cor tuum et omne consilium tuum in bono confirmet.

Hec cum peracta fuissent per orando dixit illis, Benedicti sitis a Domino qui fecit celum et terram. Orantes autem alterutrum et benedicentes illic abeundi facultatem in Dei benedictione ab illis recepit paratisque omnibus ad itinerandum conuenientibus paulo post Romanam deserit: et sui itineris inicium sumpsit vbi inter fratres et tocius vrbis Rome populos clamor amarissimus et luctus non minimus interfuit eiulataque maximo dicentes, Ha pater sanctissime, cur nos derelinquis orphanos, et hec dicentibus benedixit illis et recessit.

Arrepto autem per eundem itinere Bonifacius, Benedictus, Seruandus, Pensandus, Benevolus, Madianus, Principuns, Episcopi viri deuotissimi eundem pie et deuote insecuri sunt; ac due preclare virgines Abbatisse, Crescencia et Triduana; septem presbyteri; septemque diaconi; septem subdyaconi; septem accolite; septem exorciste; septem lectores; et septem hostiarii; ac vtriusque sexus virorum et mulierum maxima multitudo timencium Deum. Constitutisque singulis in ordine per dictum virum Dei Bonifacium prospero itinere ac prospera nauigacione unanimiter ad Pictauiam peruererunt; sed signo de celo diuinitus emisso per Mare Scoticum vsque pene locum de Restinoth peruererunt quem quidem locum humiliter adeuntes maiorem letaniam psallentis glorificabant Deum.

Accidit interea Nectarium Pictorum Regem viso signo ad hunc locum suo cum exercitu accessisse, videndo peregrinorum tantam multitudinem admirando stupore non modico effectus est; sed Spiritus Sancti gratia repente inspiratus in illa hora a Beato Bonifacio et suis Episcopis baptismi sacramentum, cum omnibus maioribus et ministris suis, nomine Domini nostri Iesu Christi receperunt. Rex vero ipsorum virorum timencium Deum locum baptisterii in nomine Sancte Trinitatis Beato Bonifacio tradidit et deliberauit. Quo in loco infinitus pene populus per eundem in fidei Christiane erismate sancto insigniti sunt, ac ad eosdem in eiusdem fide imbuendos in ecclesiarum et aliorum locorum denotorum constructione vsque insenium cum omni vite sanctitate et exemplo se exercitatus est.

Demum Beatus Bonifacius, post plurima alia miraculorum presagia, cecos illuminabat, leprosos mundabat, ac surdos audire fecit; et mutos loqui, mortuos septem a morte ad vitam suscitauit; variosque captiuitate ad libertatem suis propriis munerialibus redemit. Centum et quinquaginta euangeliorum scripsit libellos, et totidem Deo templa fundauit, Episcopos totidem, ac presbyteros mille. Et ad Christi fidem virorum et mulierum triginta sex milia conuertebat et baptizauit. Etatis autem sue anno quarto et octagesimo plenus gracia et virtute decimo septimo kal. Aprilis migravit ad Christum.

VIII.

LEGEND OF SAINT ADRIAN.

BREV. ABERDON. PROP. SANCT. PRO TEMP. HYEM.

Fol. lxij.

IN partibus Vngarie regionis prouincie Pannonicie, egregius athleta Christi, Adrianus oriundus fuit, cuius quanta fides quantaque apud Deum meriti illius divine virtutis opera tam gloriosus exitus luculenter approbarunt; hic Sanctus vir regia stirpe genitus in iuuenilibus annis quam senectutem mentis habebat immensam et ob preclare vite eiusdem insignia ad Episcopatus gradum sublimatur, vbi diuinis mancipatus obsequiis, quot facta egregia et gesta, quot ve probitates exercuerat, quot animas Domino acquisiuit, copiosa multitudo clericorum et secularium populi secum profecti testantur.

Iste siquidem diuus pater post diurnos sudores laboresque suis in partibus circa diuinum gregem impensos volens et aliis prodesse populis, assumpto secum comitatu venerabili, peregre profectus est zelo Christiane religionis ad orientales Scocie partes, que tunc a Pictis occupabantur, nauigio deuenit, habens secum confessorum clericorum vulgarisque populi sex milia sex centos sex, inter quos erant iste notabilis Glodianus inclitus martyrio coronatus, Gayus et Monanus confessores candidi, Stobrandus, et alii summi sacerdotes infula decorati. Ceterorum nomina in libro vite purpureo sanguine seribuntur.

Hii viri, cum presule Adriano dilati regno Pictorum plurima signa fecere populo incessanter verba salutis immiscentes, et in multis profuerunt, sed postea in Maya insula virtutis operibus intenti solum habere mansionem desiderabant, vbi expulsa demonum ac belluarum multitudo per gloriosos Dei seruos fieret locus oracionis omni plenus sanctitate.

Ubi vigiliis et oracioni vacantes aliquot temporis intente impendebant, et intenti postea sequente temulenta Dannorum rabie, qui totam fere Brittaniam, que nunc Anglia dicitur, deuastauerant, vsque insulam prefatam dennerunt, vbi seuti Dei confessores armis spiritualis milicie aduersus, paganam gentem demicabant, quorum viuam predicacionem et incessabilem confessionem gloriissimi nominis Christi Dani non ferentes funestis ereptis ensibus fremibundi irruere in hostiam Domini Adrianum que verba pro lege Dei sui certantes vsque ad mortem glorioso martyrio coronarunt.

Et, vt prophetarum verba rursus de eisdem verificarentur, vbi inconsolata Rachel filios plorasse dicitur, in tam celestem, tam sanctam multitudinem et in Christi confessorum perseuerantem impetum fecere sceleratissimi crudelissimi que lictores omnes bidencium more in manissimis gladiis in Maya insula cecederunt, vbi Dei martyres qui in hoc mundo dilexerunt seruitutem in vita et in morte non sunt separati quoniam unus semper spiritus erat in eis et una fides.

In prefata insula de Maya ad honorem Dei omnipotentis Sanctorumque eius martyrum egregio lapideo tabulatu antiquitus structum monasterium fuerat, quod ab Anglorum gente bellorum insultu destructum est, sed ibidem hactenus restat ecclesia sepe a fideli populo propter tot virtutum prodigia indies frequentata, vbi mulieres spe prolium habendi venientes non defraudentur, restat insuper ibi cimiterium quam celebre vbi illius et super-celestis chorus roseo sanguine candidati legionis corpora requiescent.

INDEX.

[The Roman numerals refer to the pages of the Preface.]

- AELLAC, son of Beli, 16.
Aberbrothoc. See Arbroath.
Abercorn (Linlithgowshire), Angles possessed settlements as far as, lxxix. cxx.; Trumwin's flight from, cxx. clvi.
Aberdeen, Aberdene, county of, lxxxiv. lxxxv.; burgh of, 214.
Abernethy, Apuirnige, Apurnige, Apurnethige (Perthshire), lxxxi. vi. n.; dedicated by Nection to St. Bridget, 6, 28, 399; church of, built by Garnard, son of Dompnach, vi. n., 201; William the Conqueror penetrated as far as, clxv.
Abernethy (William de), 291.
Abernia. See Ireland.
Aberte (Dunaverty, Kintyre), attacked by Selvach, 354.
Abidos (on the Hellespont), 107.
Abirbrooth, Abirbrotok. See Arbroath.
Abirnitby, Aburnetbige. See Abernethy.
Ahiur (Aduir), son of Arcthech, 134, 145.
Achachantoit, son of Fiachrach-Cathmail, 134, 144.
Achadrum, meaning of the name, lxxxiii.
Achaians. See Greeks.
Acheochlam, slaughter of the Scots at, xxi. cxxiv. clxii. 8.
Achircir, son of Achantoit, 134, 144.
Achnomen (Agmemnon, 144), son of Thoe, 134.
Ada, daughter of David, Earl of Huntingdon, lxvii. 306.
Ada, daughter of Prince Henry, married Florence, Count of Holland, 337.
Ada, daughter of William de Warenne, and wife of Prince Henry, 211.
Adalstan, son of Advar, 364. See Athelstan.
- Adamnau. See Adomnan.
Add, river, cxiii.
Adda, son of Ida, king of Bernicia, xc. xci. 11, 12.
Adebold, Bishop of Carlisle, 192.
Adelstan. See Athelstan.
Adhbha, Loch (loch of the palace), Donald mac Alpin dies at, cxxxiv. 85.
Adlsing, son of Alhun, 12.
Admoir, son of Conarre mor, 134.
Adomnan, Edheunanus, Eudanarus, Odauðanus, abbot of Hi, born, 168, 347; contemporary of Drust (Brude), son of Bile, 201; desires to restore him to life, 408; receives Servanus on his arrival in Scotland, 416, and at Loch Leven, 417; goes to Ireland, and gives the "law of the innocents," 73, 352; takes with him sixty Irish captives, 72, 351; dies, 15, 69, 73, 168, 347, 353, 403; his remains removed to Ireland, and his law renewed, 74, 355; his remains brought back, 356; his "Life of Columba" quoted, xciv. vi. cxi. cxii.
Adrian, St., lxxiv. clxi. born in Paunonia; goes to evangelize the Picts, 424; erects a monastery in the Isle of May, and there suffers martyrdom, 425; the legend of shadows forth the return to power of the Columban clergy, clxi.
Adrian V., Pope, 218.
Adtheodile. See Atholl.
Adiur (Abuir, 145), son of Hieridach, 134.
Adulf (Ethelwulf), king of the Saxons, dies, 361.
Aeadldric, son of Ida, king of Bernicia, 11, 12.
Aebercurnaig. See Abercorn.

INDEX.

- Aed, death of, 69, 346.
 Aed, son of Ainmirech, dies, 19.
 Aed, son of Angns mor, 311.
 Aed, son of Boanta, king of Dalriada, cxxxii. 21, 62; slain, clxxxviii. exc. 360.
 Aed, son of Conluth, dies, 353.
 Aed, son of Geno, slain, 345.
 Aed, Edh, Aethus, Athe, Hed, Adam, son of Kenneth, king of the Scots, cxxxiv. cxlv. 9, 21, 29, 62, 131, 151, 174, 178, 204, 209, 288, 295, 299, 301, 315, 336, 400; called king of the Picts, cxxxv. 362; slain by Grig, son of Dungal, cxxxv. 151, 174, 178, 204, 288, 301; by his own people, cxxxiv. 362; buried at Iona, 151, 174, 288, 301.
 Aed, son of Niel, king of the Irish, 8, 9; death of, 169.
 Aed, son of Oichn, 309.
 Aed Aireatach. See Aeda Fin.
 Aed Allan, son of Fergal, victory over Flaitbhertach, 401; death of, 19.
 Aed Roin, son of Mailcobha, dies, 71, 349.
 Aeda Fin (Fion), Aodh, Aed Aireatach, Hethfin, Edhfin, Edalbus, king of Dalriada, cxxix. cxxx. 20, 61, 130, 133, 144, 149, 171, 177, 287, 305, 315, 335; battle in Fortrenn with Cinadon, king of the Picts, 358; dies, 358.
 Aeda Finleith, dies, 20.
 Aedain, 315. See Aidan.
 Aedan, son of Caplene, 311, 317.
 Aedguin, son of Alli, 11. See Eadguin.
 Aedb, king of Ailech (the palace of N. Uladh), defeats the fleet of the Gall-gael, 403.
 Aedibirth, son of Inguec, 11.
 Aedlferd Flesaur. See Eadlferd Flesaur.
 Aedlric, 12. See Aeadlric.
 Aedo odbae put to death, 353.
 Aedo roin. See Aed Roin.
 Aelfguin, son of Osguid, 11, 12.
 Aelfret, 11. See Eadlferd Flesaur.
 Aenbecan, Onbecan, Oenbegan, Denbecan, son of Cait, king of the Picts, civ. 5, 23, 25, 324, 396.
 Aeneas, son of Anchises, 108, 330, 379.
 Aengus. See Angns.
 Aerergaidhel. See Argyll.
 Aetan (Eata Glinmaur), son of Liodguald, 12.
 Aeth. See Aed.
 Africa, 378, 380.
 Agam, son of Agathirsi, 23.
 Agathirsi, a name of the Cruithneach, 30, 323.
 Agenor, drives the Picts from Scythia, 381.
 Agmemnon, son of Thri, 144. See Ach-nomen.
 Agnoin, son of Buain, 24, 323.
 Aidan, bishop of the Saxons, his missionary labours in the north of England, 250; his death, 71, 348.
 Aidan, son of Angus, 358.
 Aidan, Aodhan, Edan, Edhan, Edom, son of Gabran, Goueran, Godfray, king of Dalriada, 60, 82, 119, 130, 133, 144, 148, 171, 287, 305 (Edom), 309, 315, 335; inaugurated by St. Columba, exi.; probably brought from Ireland a new colony of Scots, exii.; St. Patrick's prophecy fulfilled in him, 27, 144; his seven sons, 310; three of his grandsons slain, 69, 347; battle of Mangan, exii. 66, 67, 167, 343, 345, 401; of Leithrig, exii. 67, 345; Dexastan, 286; defeated at Chirchind, exii. 68; and by Ethelfred, exii. 68, 346; his expedition to Orkney, 345; submits himself to Baedan at Ross na Righ, 127; dies, 14, 68, 168, 316, 346, 357.
 Aidne (a district in county Galway), Maelruanag O'Eiden, king of, 368.
 Ailecluithe. See Alclyde.
 Ailen na ingen, Alendaingen (island of the virgins), built, 73, 354.
 Ailgvin, 12. See Aelfguin.
 Aillella, son of Jair, 315.
 Aillella eraind, son of Fiachac firmara, 315.
 Ailli, king of Deira, xc. xci. 11; dies, 70, 347.
 Ailred, abbot of Rieaux, the "Chronicle of the Scots" (No. 16) probably compiled by him, xlvi.; also the "Cronicon Elegiacum" (No. 30), lvii.
 Alumne, son of Oswin, 351. See Almuine.
 Aincellach, Ainbellach, Ainceallach, Air-cellach, Arinchellac, Amernikelleth, Arenkelleth, Armelach, Ormekellet, Armekellach, son of Ferchar, Findan, king of Dalriada, cxxxii. cxxx. 20, 61, 130, 148,

- 171, 287, 305, 316, 317, 335; exiled to Ireland, 352; slain, 74, 355.
 Ainfraig put to death, 352.
 Aircellach, 317. See Ainecellach.
 Airdcoraind. See Ardcorain.
 Airdsendain, 346. See Ardsendoin.
 Airmedhag, of Craeabb, death of, 72.
 Akirkirre. See Achircir.
 Alani, 395.
 Alania, 4, 394.
 "Alban, Description of," lxxxiii. 135.
Alban, Albania, 5, 17, 18, 27, 32, 43, 52, 53, 57, 79, 81, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 92, 93, 94, 95, 97, 98, 99, 100, 102, 103, 104, 105, 117, 119, 167, 168, 169, 199, 203, 304, 319, 320, 321, 341, 360, 361, 369, 406; one of the three divisions of Britain, 153, 222, 240, 279; its boundaries, 153; so called from Albanactus, 117, 121, 135, 222, 279; name given to Scotland till the tenth century, lxxv.; after the accession of Donald, son of Constantine, cxxxix.; subsequently called Scotland, 143, 153, 222, 241, 242, 243, 280; confined to the territory north of the Forth and Clyde, lxxix, lxxxvi. 154; on the death of Albanactus, became subject to Loerinns, 222; the original inhabitants Britons, 280; occupied by the Picts, under Roderic, 122, 155, 199, 298; occupied by the Scots, 241, 246, 251; Kenneth first ruled all, 334; sons of Erc come into, 18, 32, 59, 308; Franks enter, 370; Fotbet, bishop of, 190, 370; Malduin, bishop of, 78.
Alban, kings of, 5, 77, 78, 135, 168, 209, 320, 325, 328, 397.
Alban, men of (Albanenses, Albanich), 94, 365; their name changed to Scots, 304; defeated by Bruide, son of Maileon, cxi.; 67, 344; battles among themselves, 77, 78, 364, 369; battles with the Saxons, 78, 366, 369; with the Galls of Lochda-caech, 363; with the Galls, 364; with the men of Moray, 371; with the Lochlans, whom they defeat by the aid of St. Columba, using his crozier as their standard, 405, 406; slay Oistin, son of Anlaib, 362; women of, cut off by disease, 329.
 Alban, Mons. See Drumalban.
 Alban, Mormaors of, 77, 364.
Albanactus, son of Brutus, Scotland called Albania from him, 117, 135, 279; Albania assigned to him as his portion, 222, 240, 279; slain by Humber, 222.
Albani, a Scythian tribe so named from their fair hair, 3, 393, 395; Scots and Picts descended from, 3.
Albanus, son of Isacon, gives name to Alban, 57; banished by Brutns, 57; the Scots reject the tradition respecting him, clxx.
 Albidosorum preda, 10; explained, xxi.
Albigenes, David, Earl of Huntingdon, joins an expedition against, 255.
Albion, exciii. 120; Brutus finds it inhabited by giants, gives it the name Britain, 222; Ethach Rothay gives it the name Scotia, xi.
 Alefrid, son of Osguid, 11.
Alelyde, Alt Clut, Ailecluithe, Alochluaithe, Alecluade, Dunbreatan, Dunbretaine (the fortress of Dumbarton), 197; destroyed by the Gentiles, 15, 124; burned, 358; besieged and destroyed by the Northmen under Imhar and Amlaib, 361, 405; Riderchen makes it the capital of his new kingdom, xciii.; kings of —Donald, son of Anin, 73, 352; Bile, son of Elphin, 74, 355; Teudur, son of Bili, 76; Gneit, 349; Brude, son of Bili, 409.
 Aldoit, son of Noda, 134, 145.
Alemanni, 140; their attire, 395.
Alendaingen, 354. See Ailen na ingen.
 Alexander the Great, 379.
Alexander I., son of Malcolm and Margaret, king of the Scots, 132, 175, 181, 207, 210, 212, 290, 296, 300, 303, 337, 387; exiled, 211; placed on the throne by Henry I. of England, 225; founds Scone Abbey, 387; bestows great endowments on St. Andrews, 189; maintains the independence of the Scottish Church, clxvi.; commends the care of it to his brother David, 191; dies, 371, 388, at Crasleth (perhaps Paisley), 175; Stradleth, 290; Cruilet, 303; Stirling, 181; buried at Dunfermline, 175, 207, 290, 303.
Alexander II., son of William the Lyon, king of the Scots, 176, 182, 207, 212, 290,

- 297, 301, 303, 306, 338 ; married Johanna, daughter of King John, 211, 212, 213 ; does homage to Henry III. for Scotland, 226 ; in conformity with his father's promise to John, 227 ; his alleged homage denied, 258, 281 ; his death, 388 ; in Argyll, 182, 290 ; at Kenbray, in Orkney, 207 ; Konerlay, 303 ; buried at Melrose, 182, 207, 290, 303, 306.
- Alexander III., son of Alexander II., king of the Scots, 208, 213, 290, 297, 303, 306, 338 ; crowned at Scone, 176 ; marries Margaret, daughter of Henry III., 176, 211, 301 ; does homage to Henry III. and Edward I. for Tynedale and Penrith, 217, 228 ; only as fiefs in England, 259, 281 ; refuses homage for Scotland, clxxi. 276 ; assists Henry III. against Simon de Montfort, 216 ; but not as a vassal, 260, 276 ; invited by Edward I. to his coronation, 217, 260, 276, 282 ; killed at Kinghorn, 208, 290, 303, 306, 338, 388 ; buried at Dunfermline, 290, 303, 306, 338.
- Alexandria, Magonius, bishop of, 413.
- Alfred the Great, 223, 386 ; his "Translation of Orosius" quoted with reference to the name Scotland, lxxvii.
- Albun, son of Oslach, 12.
- Allan, son of Uchtraig, king of Galloway, death of, 374.
- Alli, king of Deira. See Ailli.
- Almond, river, Amon, Awyne, Aven (Perthshire), cxiv. 179.
- Almuine, son of Oswiu, slain in battle with the Saxons, 72, 351.
- Alnewik, Alnewyk (Alnwick), Malcolm Canmore slain near, 206, 302 ; William I. taken at, 212, 225, 301.
- Alochlnaithe, Aloeluade. See Alelyde.
- Alpia, mother of St. Servanus, 412.
- Alpin, king of the Picts. See Elpin.
- Alpin, son of Augns, king of the Picts, cxxiv. cxxxv. 202, 287.
- Alpin, son of Echach, king of the Picts, cxxix. clxxxi. clxxxvi. 20, 61, 133, 137, 144, 149, 172, 177, 288, 305 ; a different person from Alpin, the father of Kenneth, clxxxiii. ; Chalmers referred to on this point, clxxxiv. ; erroneously described as the father of Kenneth, cxxxii. clxxxiv. clxxxvi. 198 ; his mother's name Pictish, his father's Scottish, clxxxv. ; his mother a Pict, clxxxvii. ; dethroned, clxxxvi. ; takes refuge in Dalriada ; is expelled, and seizes the Pictish province of Galloway, clxxxv. clxxxvii. cxciii. 149, 172, 288 ; is slain there, clxxxiv. clxxxv. 149, 172, 209, 288 ; at a place since called Laicht Alpin, clxxxv., by a man lying in ambush, 197.
- Alpin, son of Ferat, Eferadheche. See Elpin, son of Wroid.
- Alpin, father of Kenneth mac Alpin, confounded with Alpin, son of Echach, clxxxiii. clxxxiv. ; defeats the Piets, clxxxvii. ; slain at Pitelpin, clxxxiv.
- Alpin, son of Nechtan, death of, 73, 352.
- Alps, St. Servanus crosses ; his temptation there, 415, 416.
- Alt Clut. See Alclyde.
- Altnaninghean, in Dalaraidhe, 320.
- Alneth (Alva, Stirlingshire), miracle wrought there by St. Servanus, 419.
- Amazons, the Albani neighbours to, 3, 393.
- Ambrones. See Northumbrians.
- Amdarch, Amdrach, son of Donald, 151, 302.
- Amernikellethe, 148. See Aincellach.
- Amlaeb, 44.
- Amlaib, Aulain, son of Illuilib, king of Alban, slain, 77, by Kenneth, son of Donald, 365.
- Amlaib, son of the king of Lochlann, defeats Caithil fin, 360 ; goes to Fortrenn, and devastates Pietavia, with the Galls of Erin and Alban, cxxxiv. 8, 361 ; takes Alelyde, 361, 405 ; comes to Dublin with a large fleet and great spoil, 361, 405 ; defeated by Adelstan, 363 ; slain by Constantine, son of Kenneth, 8.
- Amlain, son of Illuilib. See Amlaib.
- Amlain, son of Lagman, slain, 367.
- Ammianus Marcellinus quoted, lxxxviii.
- Amon, river, 179. See Almond.
- Amthar, son of Donald, 205.
- Anagnia, Anagni, letter of Boniface VIII. from, 221.
- Anandia, Anandresdale (Annandale) Bruce's castle of, 215 ; Thomas Randolph, Earl of, 291.
- Archises, 330.

- Anchorite, Dubtach, chief anchorite of Erin and Alhan, 370; Angus O'Donallan, chief anchorite at Hi, 371.
- Andarch, son of Donald, 174.
- Andrew, bishop of Caithness, 136.
- Andrew, St., patron saint of Scotland, clix. 292; apostle of the Scythians, Picts, and Greeks, 138, 188; suffers martyrdom at Patras, 138; part of his remains transferred to Constantinople, 138, 183; instructs Regulus in a vision to carry the remainder to Scotland; they are deposited at Kilmont, xi. clxxxiii. 139, 184, 387, where they work many miraculous cures, 139, and are the occasion of the conversion of the Picts to the faith, 219, 248; appears in a vision to Ungus, 139, 184.
- " Andrew, St., Legend of" (No. 18), remarks on, li. clxxiii.; text, 138.
- " Andrew, St., Legend of" (No., 31) remarks on, lviii.; text, 183.
- " Andrew, St., Legend of" (No. 49), from the Breviary of Aberdeen, lxxii.; text, 375.
- Aneglas, St., church dedicated to, at St. Andrews, 187.
- Anegos, Anegus. See Angns.
- Anfraith, Anfrid, Anfrit, son of Ethelfred, king of Bernicia, 11; takes refuge among the Picts, and marries a Pictish princess, xcii.; slain, xcii. 70, 347.
- Angeaun, 385. See Anjou.
- Angli, Anglici, 10, 12, 14, 118, 140; one of the four tribes who inhabited Britain in the seventh century, lxxxviii.; came from Angulus in Almain, 385; date of their arrival in Britain, 286, 343; possessed settlements in Scotland as far as Abercorn, lxxix.; and between the Humber and the Forth in the sixth century, xc.; subdue part of Pictland, cxx.; driven out of Scotland, 330; by Kenneth, 203; plundered by Amlaib and Imhar, 361; Paulinus, the apostle of the Northumbrian Angles, cli. cliv.; the Angles of Bernicia pagans in the time of Ninian, cliv.; the chief seat of their Church at York, clv. See also Northumbriae.
- Anglia, 118, 282, 416, 424; the portion of Britain assigned to Locrinus, 222, 279; name changed from Britain to, 304; from Loegria to, 153, 248, 279; the original inhabitants Britons, 280; date of the arrival of the Angli, 286, 343; mutual hostility of Scotland and, 247, 249, 274; large portion conquered by Grig, 151, 174, 178, 204, 250, 277, 288, 301; made tributary to the see of Rome, 249.
- Angus (county of Forfar), a district of Scotia, xxxiv. 136; so called from Angus, son of Cruidne, 136; its extent, 214; Cunthar, thane of, 152, 175, 179, 206, 289, 302.
- Angus, king of Alban, dies, 76.
- Angus, son of Boidb, 317.
- Angus, Oengus, Onegus, Eneagus, son of Brude, Frud, king of the Picts, cxxiv. 150, 173, 286.
- Angus, son of Cruidne, 30, 34, 325, 326, 327; a seer, 38.
- Angus, son of Fergus, king of Dalriada, cxxxii. 21, 62.
- Augus, Oengus, son of Fergus, king of the Picts. See Onnist.
- Angus, Oengus, son of Fergus, king of the Picts. See Unuist.
- Angus, son of Fergus ulag, 315.
- Angus, son of Forchete, 187.
- Angus, grandsou of Lulach, king of Moray, slain, 371.
- Angus, son of Maeleanfaigh, slain, 353.
- Angus, son of Nechtan, death of, 168.
- Angus, son of Olchu, 309.
- Angus aphir, son of Fechelmech aslingic, 133, 144.
- Angus beg, son of Erc, 18, 311.
- Angus buiding, butim, son of Fedelinthe ruamnach, 133, 144.
- Angus mor, son of Erc, king of Dalriada, 18, 59, 311, 317; buried at Iona, 151, 174, 204, 288, 301.
- Angus O'Donallan, chief anchorite at Hi, 371.
- Angus turbig temrach, 315.
- Angus, Cinel, one of the four great clans of Dalriada, 316, inhabited Islay and Jura, cxiii.; their armed muster, 312, 314 their genealogy, cxiii. 317.
- Auguselus, set up as king of Scotland by Arthur, as his vassal does homage to Arthur at Caerleon, and carries the sword before him, 223.

- Anjou, Geoffrey, Earl of, husband of the Empress Matilda, 385.
- Anna, battle of, 349.
- Annan (Dumfriesshire), battle of, 389.
- Annandale. See Anandia.
- Anroth, son of Firahmai, 144.
- Antenor, of Troy, 379.
- Antiochus, Edward I. compared to, 232.
- Aodh, 61. See Aeda Fin.
- Aodh, 62. See Aed, son of Boanta.
- Aodhan, 60. See Aidan.
- Aoich, son of Ara, Aoth, son of Sran, 134, 144.
- Aongus. See Angus.
- Apocrossan (Applecross, in Ross-shire), church founded at, 72, 350; Maelruba dies at, 74, 355; Failbe successor of Maelruba at, 75; Mac Oige, abbot, 359.
- Apuirnige, Apurnethige, Apurnige. See Abernethy.
- Apurfeirt (the mouth of the Farg, tributary of the Earn, Perthshire), 6.
- Ara, 23. See Arann.
- Ara, son of Fera, 145.
- Aradhtire (now the barony of Arra, county Tipperary), battle of, 404.
- Arandil, son of Manine, 134, 144, 315.
- Arann (Arran in the Firth of Clyde), 99; occupied by the Frisians, 23.
- Araxes, river, 4, 394.
- Arbroath (Forfarshire), abbey founded by William I., 207; William I. buried there, 175, 182, 207, 290, 303, 306.
- Archady, 204. See Argyll.
- Arcthech (Hieridach, 134), son of Aoich, 145.
- Arcint, 397. See Urcint.
- Ardbes, family of, their numbers, 312.
- Ardbreccan (Ardbracan, county of Meath), 354.
- Ardchinnechan (Queensferry), 184.
- Ardcorain, battle at, 66, 167, 343, 344; second battle, 347.
- Arddeanesbi, sea-fight at, cxxx. 74, 355.
- Arderydd (Arthuret, near Carlisle), xciii.; battle of, cliv. 161.
- Ardgower, district of (Argyllshire), cxiii.
- Ardleamhnacha, battle of, 31, 36, 326.
- Ardmacha. See Armagh.
- Ardnamurchan (Argyllshire), cxiii. cxiv.
- Ardrossan, Fergus de, 291.
- Ardsendoin, Ardsennain (perhaps Dunsinan), battle of, 68, 168, 346.
- Are, 215. See Ayr.
- Arenkelleth, 171. See Aincellach.
- Argadia, 174. See Argyll.
- Argart, 325. See Urgart.
- Argathelia, 185. See Argyll.
- Argialla (Argyll proper), cxiii. 313; men of the two Argiallas slain at Irois foichne, 355.
- Argyll, Arregaichel, Arregaithel, Arregarachel, Aergeraidhel, Oirirael, Oirir Alban, Argathelia, Argialla, Ergadia, Argadia, Archady, 59, 151, 174, 182, 204, 288, 290, 301; one of the five divisions of Scotia in the twelfth century, its extent, names, and subdivisions, lxxxvii. lxxxviii.; one of the seven divisions of Scotia, lxxvii. lxxxv. lxxxvi. 135, 136; meaning of the word, 136; so called from Erc and Gaidel, 241; Picts the first inhabitants of, cviii. 137; Scots come from Ireland to, x. 241, 333, 341, date of their coming, 334; Scots under Redda take possession of, xi. 202; Stone of Destiny brought thither, 335; men of, slaughtered, 372.
- Ariuchellac, 130. See Aincellach.
- Arindil, 144. See Arandil.
- Armagh, Ardmacha, Artmacha, date of its foundation; probable connexion of the "Historia Britonum" with it, xxviii.; taken by the Scots, xcii. 108; Cadroe educated there, 112; Muredach O'Crican, lector of, 366; Dubtach, the anchorite, dies there, 370.
- Armelech, 198. See Aincellach.
- Armenians, 140, 305.
- Armetag, grandson of Guaire, put to death, 350.
- Armkellach, 287. See Aincellach.
- Armerid (Arderyd, now Arthuret), battle of, 14.
- Arndil, son of Maine, 315. See Arandil.
- Arnold, bishop of St. Andrews, consecrated, clxvii.
- Aropin, son of Hethed, 149. See Alpin, son of Echach.
- Arregaichel, Arregaithel, Arregarchel. See Argyll.

- Artablan, son of, slain, 353.
 Artan, son of Conaing, 310.
 Artan, son of Conall, 309.
 Artbaran, son of Maelduin, dies, 354.
 Artgha, Arthgal, king of Strathclyde, xcvi. 15; slain at the instigation of Constantine, son of Kenneth, cxxxiv. 361.
 Arthur, made king of Britain, 382; illegitimate, 382; carries the cross at the battle of Badon, and is victorious, 14, 161; slays Stallo, King of France, and Lucius procurator of Rome, 383; subdues Dacia, Gaul, Norway, and Scotland, 281, 247, 382; breaks alliance with the Scots and Picts, 381, 382, 383; makes war on them, 381, 382; subdues Scotland and places Anguseus over it, 223; holds a feast at Caerleon, where he receives the homage of his subject kings, 223; defeated and slain by Modred, king of Scotland, (Lothian), 247, 281, 382; at Chirchind, 68; at Camelon, 14.
 Artmacha, 108. See Armagh.
 Artur, son of Conaing, 310.
 Ascanius, Aschanens, son of Aeneas, 330.
 Assyrians, their empire, 246.
 Atacotti, lxxxviii.
 Atfoithle, 357. See Atholl.
 Ath, 295. See Aed.
 Athan (Hatton), Perthshire, 6.
 Athcashel, numbers of the township of, 312.
 Atheliath (Dublin), Galls of, 78; Diarmed, king of, 78; Amlaib and Imhar come to, 361, 405; great battle between the Gaels and the Galls at, 366.
 Athie, 204. See Aed.
 Athelstane, Adalstan, king of the Saxons, 304, alleged overlord of Scotland; miracle at Dunbar in evidence of his claim, 223; god-father to the son of Constantine, king of the Scots, 224; penetrates Scotland to Dunfother, exil.; defeats the northmen under Amlaib, 364; fights with the Danes and others at Brunanburgh, cxli.; defeated and slain by Hungus, 184; dies, xxi. 9.
 Athens, Neolus, king of, 378.
 Atheren (Aithrey, near Stirling), lxxxv. 136; miracle wrought there by Servanus, 419.
 Athfhotla, 76. See Atholl.
 Athgort, 41.
 Athmagh, 14.
 Atholl, Athochlach, Atfoithle, Adtheodle, Athfhotla, xxxiv. lxxxiii. lxxxv. 136; Tolarcen, king of, 76, 357; Dubdon, mormaor of, 10.
 Anfrice. See Africa.
 Augustine, clii.; introduces Christianity into England, 387; sent by Gregory the Great, 422.
 Augustine, great priest at Hi, 372.
 Auisse, with Amlaib, ravages Cruithentnaith, 361.
 Aurtuile, grandson of Cruinmael, exiled to Britain, 353.
 Avon, river, 179. See Almond.
 Avon, river (Linlithgowshire), the south boundary of Calathros, lxxxi.
 Awyne, river, 179. See Almond.
 Ayr, clxxxv.; castle of, 215.

 BABONA, daughter of Loarn, king of Alban, 52.
 Badon, attack on, 286; battle of, 14, 161; second battle, 15.
 Baedan, Baidan, son of Cairill, king of Erin and Alban, 127; king of the Dalfiatach of Ulster; his death, 67, 345.
 "Baedan, Tract on the Tributes paid to," notice of, xlviij. ; text, 127.
 Baedan, son of Eocho Fin, 130.
 Baedan, son of Fergus Salaig, numbers of his gens, 313.
 Baetan, 346. See Baithin.
 Baetan, son of Ecdach, 316.
 Bagag olfbiacha, king of the Cruithneach of Alban, who ruled in Tara; wars began in Erin in his reign, 321.
 Baird, son of Cairill. See Baedan.
 Bairfind, son of Nadsluag, 311.
 Baithin, Baetan, foster child of Colmcille, born, 66; abbot of Hi; his death, 68, 168, 346.
 Baithine, son of Aidan, 310.
 Balarg, son of Keothere, 149. See Talore, son of Achivir.
 Balearic Islands, 108.
 Baleswynton (Dalswinton), Comyn's castle of, in Galloway, 215.

INDEX.

- Balldearg, 92.
 Balliol, Edward, son of John Balliol, expelled by the people of Scotland; restored by Edward I., 297.
 Balliol, John, 208, 339; son of Devorgoil, 306; king of Scotland, 228, 297, 307, 388; does homage to Edward I., 229, under compulsion, 283; rebels, 229, and invades England, 230; dethroned and imprisoned, 231, 283.
 Ballymote, Book of, xxxii. xxxiii. xxxiv. xxxvi. lxviii. lxix. cvii.
 Bamborough, xc. See Bebbanburch.
 Banba, a name for Ireland, 48, 328.
 Banff, county of, lxxxiv. lxxxv.
 Bangor. See Benchair, Bennchair.
 Banias, wife of Faiteach, and mother of St. Cadroe, 109.
 Banna, river (the Bann), many drowned in, 75.
 Bannockburn, battle of, 389.
 Baoth (the weak one), an epithet probably intended to describe Constantine, brother of Grig, cxxxviii. 89.
 Basalpin. See Pitelpin.
 Bass, Broes, Buass, 48, 126, 328.
 Beanus, uncle of St. Cadroe, 110, 111, 112, 113.
 Bearngal, one of the kings of the Cruitineach of Alban, who ruled Erin in Tara; in his reign nearly all the corn in Erin was destroyed, 321.
 Bebbab, queen of Eadred Flesaur, 13.
 Bebbanburch (Bamborough), given by Eadred Flesaur to his wife, and named from her, 13; the chief seat of the kingdom of Bernicia, xc. cxiv.; castle of, 12.
 Becc, grandson of Duncan, put to death, 353.
 Becket, Thomas à, his martyrdom, 255, 385, 388.
 Bede, quoted with reference to the four races which inhabited Scotland in the seventh century, lxxxvii. cxxii.; the name Scots, lxxvii.; the settlement of the Saxons, lxxxix.; the death of Edwin, xcii.; his conquests, cxiii.; Scots and Picts, xcv. xviii.; law of succession among the Picts, c.; conversion of the Picts, cv.; Picts within the Anglic kingdom, cvii.; gift of Hi to St. Columba, cxi.; death of Oswald, cxv.; death of Penda, cxvi.; of Oswy, cxvii.; Wilfrid, bishop of York, cxviii.; Ecgfrid, cxix cxx.; the church of Lindisfarne, clii.; Hi, clv.
 Bedfordshire, in Danelaga, 154.
 Beldeg, Beldeyg Brond, son of Guoden, 11.
 Beli, 16.
 Beli, Bili, son of Elfin, king of Strathclyde, xcv. cxxii.; dies, 15, 74, 123, 355.
 Beli, son of Neithon, king of Strathclyde, xciv. 15.
 Belinus, elder son of Dunwallo, king of the Britons in Anglia, 223; attempts to subdue his brother's kingdom, 280.
 Bellathor, Bellethor, Belachoir (probably Scone, or a place in the neighbourhood), cxii.; the Scots occupy, cxci. 108; Donald Mac Alpin dies at, cxxxiv. 8.
 Benchair (Bangor, county Down), Critan, abbot of, 71; burned, 76; taken by the Scots, xcvi. 108; Mac Oig, abbot of Aporcrosan, dies at, 359.
 Benedictus, one of the companions of St. Boniface, 422.
 Benevolus, one of the companions of St. Boniface, 422.
 Bennchair, of the Britons (Bangor, in Wales), burned, 71, 350.
 "Berchan, St., Prophecy of" (No. 9), notice of, xxix.; text of latter part, with translation, 79.
 Berichtshire (Berkshire), 154.
 Berwick, 214. See Berwick.
 Bermondsey, Mary, daughter of Malcolm I., buried at, 132.
 Bernard, St., his prophecy regarding Henry II., 385.
 Berneich, Gnurth (Bamborough Castle). See Bebbanburch.
 Bernicia, Birneich, xc. cxiv; separated from Deira, 11; its northern boundary, xc. 341; table of kings of, xci. 12; invaded by Penda, cxvi.; subjugated by Grig, son of Dungal, 288; the Angles of, pagans in time of Ninian, cliv.; Paulinus the apostle of, 341.
 Berwick, Berwick, castle of, in Lothian, 214; town taken by Edward I., his cruelty to the inhabitants, 267.
 Bethoc, Bethoch, Bethok, Betoc, Betoch,

- Betowe, daughter of Malcolm, son of Kenneth, 152, 175, 180, 206, 289, 302; called son, 144.
- Bethsaida, St. Boniface born at, 421.
- Beverley, St. John of, miracle wrought by him, and its commemoration, 223.
- Biceot, son of Moneit, slain, 356.
- Bile, Bili, son of Nema, Neande, 134, 145.
- Bili, son of Elphin. See Beli.
- Bili, tortan (a tree which stood near Ardbracan, in county Meath), 69.
- Birneich. See Bernicia.
- Biscay, 380.
- Bisset, Baldred, his Argument in behalf of the independence of Scotland, lxi.; text, 271; quotes from the "Chronicon Rythmicum," lxx.
- Blaimec, son of Flann, his martyrdom at His by the Gentiles, 360.
- Blieblith, Bliesblituth, king of the Picts, 6, 27.
- Bluchbard, flourishes, 12.
- Bodhbhdearg (the dangerous red man), an epithet used to describe Malcolm, son of Donald, cxlii. 93.
- Boece, Hector, clxxx. xciii.
- Boendo, sons of, put to death, 352.
- Boete, Boede, son of Kenneth, his grandson slain, cxlvii. 368; Grnoch, daughter of, cxlvii.; Lulach, great grandson of, cxlvii. 130.
- Boethius, St., Buitte, Buti, son of Bronaig, lxxiv; goes to Italy; enters the monastery of St. Tylian; returns to his native country, taking with him St. Codrus; devout persons from Germany join him; he arrives among the Picts, 410; finds Nectan their king just dead; restores him to life, and receives from him a grant of land, 411; goes to Dalriada; restores to life the king's daughter; founds a church there; goes to the Kyanactei, but is repelled as a foreigner, 411; dies, 66, 167, 344.
- Boi, son of Sem, 134.
- Boibd, son of Gartnaidh, 348. See Duibh.
- Boibd, son of Ronan, 317; put to death, 350.
- Boid, son of Riafich, 134.
- Bokynghamschire. See Buckingham.
- Bolge, 187.
- Boniface, St., xxiv.; born in Bethsaida; goes to Rome, and is elected Pope, 421; leaves Rome with a large company to evangelize the Picts, 422; lands at Restennot; baptizes Nectan, king of the Picts, and many of his people, and founds many churches, 423; the legend of, sets forth the change of the Picts from the Columban to the Roman Church, clviii.; probably a diocesan episcopacy established, clix. 422; Servanus probably belonged to his company, clix.
- Boniface VIII., his bull addressed to Edward I. on behalf of the kingdom of Scotland, lxi. clxxv.; text, 216; Edward's reply, lxi. 221.
- Bont, Brude, 5. See Pont.
- Bosche, William, Archbishop of York, his Metrical history, lxxi.; extract from, 341.
- Bothergonenan, Bothganenan, Bothngouaoe, (near Elgin), Duncan slain at, 152, 175, 289, 302.
- Bracha, Bratha, son of Theacha, 134, 145.
- Bran, son of Aidan, 310; slain, 68, 346.
- Bran, son of Angus, slain, cxxxii. clxxxviii. 360.
- Bran, son of Eugan, dies, 356.
- Brauchu, son of Broin, slao, 75.
- Brandan, St., 380.
- Breaghmuigh, Breagmach (the plain of Bregia). See Bregia.
- Breas, 126. See Bress.
- Brecan, son of Tulchan, 311.
- Brechin, Brechyn, dedicated, 10; David, lord of, 291; evidence that the "Pictish Chronicle" was compiled by the monks of, xxiii. cxxvi.; diocese of, clxiv.
- Brechraig, Bretrid, son of Bernith, slain, 73, 352.
- Bred, Brod, Brude, son of Ferat, Ferant, Feradhach, Ferech, king of the Picts, clxxxviii. 8, 29, 150, 173, 202, 287, 400.
- Bredei, Brud, Brude, Brullhi, son of Bili File, Fle, king of the Picts, king of Fortrenn, xcvi. 7, 28, 150, 173, 201, 286, 399; his father not of Pictish race, but a Welshman, cii. cxxi.; inherited through his mother, who was daughter of Tolagan, son of Ainfrid, cxxi.; gains the battle of Dannechtan, cxix. 72, 351, 402; dies, 73,

- 351, 402 ; his body carried to Hi ; Adomnan desires to restore him to life, 408.
- Bredei, Brud, Brude, son of Derelei, Dergart, Dergert, Decili, king of the Picts, cxxi. 7, 29, 150, 173, 201, 286, 399 ; seeks to slay Servanus ; is cured by him of a deadly disease, 417 ; dies, 73, 353.
- Bredei, son of Wrgquist, king of the Picts, 7, 29, 400 ; death of, 76, 358.
- Breg, Bregia, plain of, Breaghmuigh, Breagmach (county Meath) ; Cruithneach colonize, xcvi. 31, 41 ; devastated, 351 ; Ulf a buried there, 39.
- Brehon, Cairnech, the first Brehon of Erin, 56.
- Brei, son of Derelei, 29, 399. See Bredei.
- Bredei, Brude, Bruide, son of Wid, Fathe, Fochle, Fruth, Foith, king of the Picts, evi. 7, 150, 173, 201, 286 ; death of, 348.
- Brete, son of Urgnt. See Bredei, son of Wrgquist.
- Brennius, son of Dunwallo, king of the Britons in Albania (Strathclyde), 223, 280.
- Bresal, son of Erc, 308.
- Bresal, son of Regeni, abbot of Hi, dies, 359.
- Bress, Breas, one of the companions of Donn, 31, 48, 126, 328.
- Brete, son of Urgnt. See Bredei, son of Wrgquist.
- Breth, son of Buthut, king of the Picts, 6, 27, 389.
- Bretwaldas, homage done to kings of England as, clxv.
- Brewer, Mr. J. S., referred to, liv.
- Brian, Briuin, son of Cenedig, 21 ; king of the Gael of Erin, and Gaul, the Augustus of north-western Europe, slain in a great battle at Cluantarff, near Dublin, 119, 366.
- Brian, son of Eochaid muighmedon, 309, 316.
- Brian, son of Olchu, 309.
- Brid, Bridi. Sec Bridei, son of Mailcon.
- Bride, son of Fathe, 201. See Bredei, son of Wid.
- Bride, son of Fle, 399. See Bredei, son of Bili.
- Bredei, son of Mailcon, Melcon, Melcho, Methor, Methon, king of the Picts, baptized by St. Columba, evi. 7, 28, 150, 173, 286, 344, 399 ; called Drust, the son of Methor, 200 ; his palace on the banks of the Ness, cvi. ; routs the Albanich, cxii. 67, 344 ; his death, 66, 67, 76, 168, 343, 345.
- Bridget, St., 80, 81 ; born, 152 ; promises Necton the kingdom of the Picts, 7 ; Abernethy dedicated to her, 6, 28, 399 ; also a church at St. Andrews, 187 ; her death, 14.
- Brigain. See Brigoind.
- Brigance, castle of, built by Gaidel, 195.
- Brige, son of Brigoind, 134, 145.
- Brigoind, Brigain, son of Bracha, 134.
- Briotor, commander of the fleet of the Lochlans, slain, 367.
- Britain, lxxv. 10, 23, 36, 66, 87, 120, 146, 147, 163, 240, 241, 242, 243, 247, 304, 350, 399, 424, formerly Albion ; Brutus gives it the name, 222, 279 ; the name extended only to the Scots Sea (Firth of Forth), 380 ; divided into three parts among the sons of Brutus, 121, 222, 240 ; inhabited by five nations, of whom the Britons alone possessed territory from sea to sea, 120 ; inhabited in the seventh century by four tribes, lxxxviii. ; its three divisions, Wessenelaga, Mircenelaga, Danelaga, 153 ; contained two archbishoprics (three before the time of the Saxons), twenty-eight bishoprics, seven provinces, and seventy shires, 154 ; all ruled by Alli, king of the Saxons, 70 ; provincial kings descended from the Gaedel Fichte, 55 ; after the flight of the Britons, lies desolate nine years ; the Saxons occupy the whole, form a settled kingdom under Athelstane, and call it Anglia, 304.
- " Britain, Description of," liii. ; text, 153.
- Britannie Dorsum. See Drumalban.
- Britons, 10, 37, 85, 87, 94, 96, 99, 108, 118, 123, 197, 234, 241, 243, 244, 245, 326 ; so called from Brutus, 166 ; the original inhabitants of Anglia and Albania, 280 ; did not possess the sovereignty or superiority of the whole island, 244, 246 ; the Picts seek wives of, 122, 159, 199, 298 ; those of Anglia harassed by the Scots and Picts after the departure of the Romans, 164, 243, 382 ; apply to Rome for help, 165, 243 ; wall of Severus built

- for their protection, 164, 243, 244, 382; and that of Antonine, 382; seek help of the Scots and Picts against the Romans, 381; alliance with the Scots and Picts broken by Arthur, 382, 383; invite the aid of the Saxons, 247, 280, 383, 384; defeat the Saxons at Badon, 15, 161; subjected on account of their pride to the Saxons and Picts, 321; driven out of Anglia or Loegria by the Saxons, 247, 280, 383, 384; take refuge in Wales, and are called Gualenses, from Gualoe, 304; claim of Edward I. to superiority of Scotland, as their successor, unfounded, 245, 279, 280, 281;
- (in Scotland) Cairnech, bishop of, 55; tribe of Lorn slaughtered by, 72, 350; defeated by the Dalriada at Loigeclat, 73, 354; and at Minvirc, 74, 354; battle with the Picts at Mocetanc, 15, 76, 357; defeated by Ungus, 139; driven from Alban by the Picts, 43, 45, 280; by the Scots, 117, 242, 246, 292, 330; by the Saxons, 361; expelled from Scotland by Kenneth, 203; their islands devastated by the Gentiles, 359; plundered by Amlaib and Imhar, 361; battle with the Galls, 364; evangelized by St. Ninian, c. i.; their eastern possessions wrested from them by the sons of Ida, xciii.; fall under the power of Oswy, cxvii.; of Fortrenn, 45. kings of; Diarmed, 78; Meuric (Maurius) 122, 156; Gurguyns, 195; Dunwallo, 222; Belinus, 223; Arthur, 223; (Strathclyde), xciv. 15.
- "Britonium, Historia, Saxon and Welsh additions to," described, xxvi.; their chronology, xxviii.; text, 11; Irish and Pictish additions to, described, xxxi. clxvi.; text, 23.
- Britus, son of Isacon, 32. See Brutus.
- Briuin, son of Eachach muigmedon, 309. See Brian.
- Brod, 400. See Bred.
- Broes, 126. See Bass.
- Brois, Robert de, 339. See Bruce.
- Bruce, Marjory, marries Walter Stewart, 340.
- Bruce, Bruys, Robert de, his castle of Annandale, 215, 307.
- Bruce, Bruys, Robert de, 307.
- Bruce, Brois, Bruys, Brus, Robert de, king of Scotland, clxxv. 307; the choice of the people; compared to Joshua and Maccaebaeus, 293; a usurper, 297; slays Comyn, 389; crowned at Scone, 389; dies, 389.
- Bruce, David (David II.), son of Robert, king of Scotland, 297, 340, 389, 390.
- Brud, son of Denegus, Brude, son of Tonegus, Tenegus, Engus, king of the Picts. See Brude, son of Angus.
- Brud, son of File, Brude, son of Bile. See Bredei, son of Bile.
- Brud, son of Fodel, Brude, son of Fetal, Fochel, Fokel, king of the Picts, clxxxix. 150, 173, 202, 287.
- Brud, son of Methor, 150; Brude, son of Melcho, Melcon, 173, 286. See Bridei.
- Brude, list of the, 5, 26, 324, 397; said to be thirty in number, but twenty-eight only enumerated, Gest and Urgest probably complete the list, cv.
- Brude, son of Angus, Engus, Denegus, Tenebus, Tongus, king of the Picts, cxxiv. 150, 173, 201, 286; defeats Talorgan, son of Congus, 75, 356; dies, 76, 357.
- Brude, son of Dergart, 150; Dergert, 201; Decili, 173. See Bredei, son of Derilei.
- Brude, son of Fathe, 173; Fochle, 150; Fruth, 286. See Bredei, son of Wid.
- Brude, son of Ferat, 173; Ferant, 150; Feradbach, 202; Ferech, 287. See Bred.
- Brugbi, 72. See Bredei, son of Bili.
- Bruide, son of Foith. See Bredei, son of Wid.
- Bruigi. See Brude.
- Brunalban, lxxxv. 136. See Drumalban.
- Brunanburgh, Duinbrunde (Northumberland), Athelstane defeats the Danes and Scots at, clxi. 9.
- Brunhere, 137. See Drumalban.
- Brus, 297. See Bruce, Robert de.
- "Bruts, the Welsh," notice of, xlivi.; extracts from, 120.
- "Brut, Layamon's." See Layamon.
- "Brut y Saeson," by Caradoc of Llancarvan, not an imperfect copy of the "Brut y Twysogion," xlvi.
- Brutus, Briutus, Britus, son of Isacon (Ascanius), xlivi. 135, 234, 240, 243, 330;

- after the destruction of Troy, with many Trojan nobles, sails to Albion, 222 ; banishes Albanus and takes possession of Alhan, 57, Albion, 222 ; slays Donald, son of Alpin, 32 ; his descendants kings of Scotland, 117, 118 ; his three sons and their division of Britain, xlivi. 121, 222, 279 ; gives name to Britain, 166, 222, 279, 399 ; the tradition regarding their alleged descent from Brutus rejected by the Scots, clxx. 378, 380.
- Bruys, 307. See Bruce, Robert de.
- Bnaighne, 48. See Buanaise.
- Buain, son of Mais, 24, 323.
- Buanaise, Buaigne, one of the companions of Donu, 31, 48, 126, 328.
- Buass, 328. See Bass.
- Buchan (Aberdeenshire), one of the subdivisions of Scotia, lxxxiv. 136 ; the Somarlians defeated in, 10.
- Buckinghamshire, in Danelaga, 154.
- Buite, son of Bronaig, 66, 344. See St. Boethius.
- Bute, Isle of, so called from St. Brandan, 380.
- Bute, 344 ; Buti, 167. See St. Boethius.
- CABLEIN, 317. See Caplene.
- Cadiz, Bay of, 108.
- Cadroe, St., his parentage and birth, 109, 110 ; sent by his uncle Beanus to Armagh for instruction, 112 ; returns to Scotland and teaches the people ; departs again in consequence of a vision seen by Beanus, 115 ; reaches Cumbria, and is received by King Donald ; visits Leeds, York, London, where he miraculously stays the progress of a fire, and Winchester, 116.
- " Cadroe, St., Life of," xli. ; text, 196.
- Cadwaladyr Vendigeit, goes to Rome, 162.
- Cadwallader, the last king of the Britons, 304 ; the History of Geoffrey of Monmouth terminates with his reign, xlvi.
- Caedwalla, king of the Britons, xcii. See Catguollaun.
- Caeldub, son of Fergus salaig, numbers of his gens, 313.
- Caemlach, son of Sarran and Babona, 52.
- Caeredin, Etaiu, Etin (Carriden, Linlithgowshire), siege of, cxv. 70, 347.
- Caerleon, Cairlegion, Legionum civitas, Legeoin, battle between the Saxons and the Britons at, 14, 67, 161, 168, 346 ; feast held by Arthur at, 223.
- Cæsar, C. Julius, 108.
- Caitlaine, Caitlarn, Caitram, Kelturan, Kelhiran, Kyburcan, son of Girom, Gigrum, Gigurnus, Gygurn, king of the Picts, 7, 28, 150, 172, 200, 236, 399.
- Caini, Island of, 348.
- Cairbre, son of Conall, 309.
- Cairleon, Cair Legion. See Caerleon.
- Cairndrum (Glen Dochart), lxxxiii.
- Cairnnech, son of Sarran and Babona, 52 ; his brother Luirig offends him ; he promises the kingdom of Erin and Britain to Mucertach mac Erca if he will keep him in check, 53 ; a miracle wrought in answer to his prayer, 54 ; bishop of Tours, Cornwall, and Britain ; convenes a synod at Tours to purge heresy and extend the power of the Church ; goes on a pilgrimage with 150 bishops ; builds a city underground in Cornwall ; goes to Erin, and is the first bishop of the clan Neill, 55 ; the first martyr, the first monk, and the first Brehon of Erin, 56.
- Cairpre mor, king of, 77.
- Caislen Credhi, 375. See Castellum Credi.
- Cait, Got, son of Cruidne, 4, 25, 323, 324, 396 ; in the Pictish legend represents Caithness, civ.
- Caithness, Cat, Cateney, Cathanesia, Cathania, clxxxii. 136, 197, 212 ; one of the divisions of Scotland ; its extent, lxxxiv.-lxxxvii. 215 ; in Danelaga, 154 ; given to the remnant of Roderic's army, 122, 159, 298 ; Picts conquer Alban from the Forth to, civ. 43 ; Mucertach mac Erca seizes the sovereignty, 54 ; Andrew bishop of, 136 ; Magnus, Earl of, 291.
- Cal, Brude, 5, 26, 324, 397.
- Calatria, Calathros (the Carse of Falkirk), limits of the district, lxxx. lxxxi. cxv. ; battle in, 72, 350, 357, 402.
- Calcouia, 337. See Kelso.
- Calgualart, king of the Britons, 13.

- Calitros. See Calathros.
 Calnatuhel. See Canutulahama.
 Cambelle, Donald, 291.
 Camber, son of Brutus, 240; extent of his kingdom, 121; received Cambria or Wallia as his portion, 222, 279.
 Cambria, 230. See Cumbria.
 Cambridgeshire, in Danelaga, 154.
 Camhrune, John, 291.
 Camel, presented by the king of Alban to Muicertach O'Brian, 170.
 Camlann, battle of, 14, 161.
 Canai Garb, son of Gartnait, 316.
 Canath, son of Gigurum, 150. See Garth-nach, son of Girom.
 Canatulahama, Canatulmet, Canatumel. See Canutulachama.
 Canaul, Canul, Conall, Congall, son of Tarla, Tang, Tadg, king of the Picts, 7, 29, 400; defeated and slain, 168, 359.
 Candlemas, Burnt, 389.
 Caniculus dethrones Niger, 10.
 Canis cuaran, king of the Cruithne, put to death, 353.
 Cannon, son of Gartnait, slain, 72, 351.
 Canntan, son of Angus mor, 311.
 Canons of St. Andrews, their mode of life, 188.
 Canterbury, William the Lyon does homage to Richard at, 227; Hubert, archbishop of, 227; compact of the archbishop with York as to jurisdiction in Scotland, clxvi.
 Cantii (the people of Kent), baptized, 12.
 Cantscaul, 15. See Catscaul.
 Canute, Knut, king of the Saxons, 210; suppresses rebellion against his authority in Scotland, 224.
 Canutulahama, Canatulabina, Canatulaemra, Canatulmet, Canatumel, Caluatuhel, Tonaculmel, king of the Picts, 6, 27, 149, 172, 200, 285, 398.
 Caplene, Cablein, son of Nadsluag, 311, 317.
 Caplin, son of Eochu Find, 310.
 Caradoc of Llancarvan continues the History of Geoffrey of Monmouth in the "Brut y Saeson," xlvi.
 Cardoil, 207; Carduille, 181; Carlelle, 175. See Carlisle.
 Carlisle, formerly in the diocese of Glasgow, St. Kentigern the apostle of the district, 255; Roderic, leader of the Picts, defeated and slain near, 199, 298; Henry II. builds a cathedral there, 255; David I. fortifies, 212; dies at, 175, 181, 207, 254, 290, 303, 388.
 Carnac, son of Dormath, 150. See Gartnart, son of Domelch.
 Carnach, son of Ferath. See Garnath, son of Ferath.
 Carn Lugdach (Lughaidh's cairn), battle at, 403.
 Carno, Mount. See Monitearno.
 Carniceon (Cornwall), 55.
 Carpaticum mare (the Carpathian sea), 107.
 Carriden. See Caeredin.
 Carron, river (Stirlingshire), the northern boundary of Calathros, lxxxi.
 Carrun, battle at, 131.
 Carvorst, Crautreic, Fevanacherthe, Karanethrecht, Crut bolc, king of the Picts, 6, 27, 149, 172, 200, 285, 398.
 Cashel, Psalter of, xxxvii.
 Caspian sea, a boundary of the Scythians, 4, 394.
 Castantin. See Constantine.
 Castellum Credi, Caislen Credhi, Collis credulitatis (Scone), Constantine and Cel-lach swear fealty to the laws at; takes its name from this, 9; defeat of Elpin by Angus at, cxxv, 75, 355.
 Cat, region of, 43. See Caithness.
 Cateneys, 197, 215. See Caithness.
 Catgalail, king of Gwynedd, escapes from the city of Iudeu, 13.
 Catgublaun, Catguollaun, Cathlon, Catlon, Ceadwalla, king of Gwynedd, gains the battle of Meicen, 12, 14; slain at Catscaul, xcii. 13, 15, 70, 347.
 Cathasaig, Catusaig, son of Ailella, king of the Picts, put to death, 76, 357.
 Cathasaigh, Catusaig, son of Donald Brec, put to death, 73, 351.
 Cathasaigh, Catusaig, grandson of Donald Brec, death of, 71, 348.
 Cathanesia, Cathania. See Caithness.
 Cathbad, son of Lorn mor, 312.
 Cathbad, Cathboth, Cinel, a subdivision the Cinel Lorn, 313; slaughter of, 353.
 Cathbhuaidh, the crozier of St. Columba, 406.
 Cathbud, son of Muredach, son of Lorn, 313.

- Cathlön, Catlon, 70, 347. See Catgublaun.
- Cathluan, son of Caitmind, or of Gnb, acquires great power in Erin, 31, 125, 328; driven out of it by Herimon, 125; leads the Cruithneach out of Erin, xcvi. 40; becomes their first king in Alban, 27, 31, 58, 328, 398; subjugates the Britons, 43. See Cruithneach.
- Cathmachan, 40. See Catinolachan.
- Cathmai, Cathmail, son of Ruadrach, Ruadri, 317.
- Catinolachan, Cathmachan, son of Cathluan, 31, 40, 328.
- Catmolodar, Catmolodar, son of Cathluan, 31, 40, 328.
- Catobic, 358. See Mocetanc.
- Catscanl, called by Bede Denisesburna, or Hefenfelth, xcii.; battle of, 13, 15.
- Cattle, sllaughter of, in Saxon, 352.
- Catusaig, 348. See Cathasaigh.
- Ce, son of Cruidne, 4, 25, 323, 324, 396.
- Ceallach, son of Aillello, abbot of Iona, 359, 405; abbot of Kildare, 361, 405.
- Ceanannus, Ceninda (Kells, county Meath), origin of the name, 320; the church built, 359.
- Ceirfull (probably Carpow, Perthshire), 6.
- Celdar, 108. See Cilledara.
- Celestine I., Pope, lays it down that appeals on the part of the Scots lie only to the Court of Rome, 263, 274; sends Palladius to the Scots, 331, 422.
- Cellach, bishop of the Scots (of St. Andrews), holds with Constantine, son of Aed, a national assembly at Scone, and swears fealty to the laws, cxiii. 9.
- Cellach, son of Baireda, mormaor of Alban, 77.
- Cellach, son of Ferdalaig, king of the Scots, 10.
- Cellach, son of Findghan, mormaor of Alban, 77.
- Cemoyd, king of the Picts, 15, 124. See Ciniod.
- Cemoyth, king of the Picts, dies, 15, 124.
- Cendalaeth, Cennalat, king of the Picts, dies, 67, 345.
- Cenel Conal. See Conal, Cinel.
- Cenel Cruithne (the Pictish race), 69.
- Ceneu, son of Coil hen, 16.
- Ceninda, 359. See Ceanannus.
- Cennselaigh, Ibh (in Leinster), 30, 31, 125-325, 326.
- Ceode, Bishop, dies at Hi, 73.
- Ceolfrid, abbot of Jarrow, Nectan, king of the Picts, sends to him for architects; his letter to Nectan, clvii.
- Cerball, son of Dunlang, defeats the Gall-gael, 404.
- Cerball, son of Maelodra, put to death, 352.
- Ceres, Sireis (Fifehire), in the district assigned to St. Andrews, 186.
- Ceretic guletic, king of Strathclyde, xciv. 15.
- Certic, driven out of Elmet, 13; dies, 14.
- Cetnla, slain at Caerleon, 68.
- Chaldaea, 108.
- Chalmers, George, his opinion quoted with reference to the Picts of Galloway, cvii.; his error with regard to Grig, son of Dungal, xxxvi. n.; points out the distinction between the two Alpins, clxxxiv. Chanaan, 412.
- Charlemagne conquers Spain, France, etc., 387.
- Chene, Richard le, 291.
- Chentshire (Kent), in Wessenelaga, 154.
- Chesterschire (Cheshire), in Mirchenelaga, 154.
- Chestre, meaning of the word, kaer its British equivalent, 154.
- Chilrymont, 186. See St. Andrews.
- Chineth. See Kenneth.
- Chirchind (probably at Kirkintilloch), battle of, 68.
- Chon, king of the Britons, 70.
- Chonare, Fergus, son of Erc, descended from, 137.
- Chondrochedalvan, Dollencha, lake of (Kindrochit, now Braemar, Aberdeenshire), 185.
- Choria, a district of Asia Minor, 107.
- Chorischia, part of Scotland, overrun by the Chorischi, called, 109.
- Chorischi, leave Lydia; after tedious wanderings in the Mediterranean reach Cloyne, in Ireland, take Armagh, Kildare, Cork, Bangor, pass over to Iona, enter Ross-shire, and call the country so occupied Scotland, xcii.; Boece gives the same direction to this invasion, xciii.; this

- colony probably that which settled at St. Andrews in time of Kenneth Mac Alpin, excii.
- Chorischon, a city of Asia Minor, 107.
- "Chronicon Rhythmicum," notice of, lxix.; text, 332.
- Chronology, reckoned from the Passion as equivalent to the Incarnation, xxv.
- Church of the Scots freed from subjection to the Picts, 151, 174, 178, 204, 288, 301, 305; difference between the Columban and the Roman Church, clii. See also Boniface, Canons, Culdees, Picts, Saxons, Scots.
- Cian Gueinthguant flourishes, 12.
- Ciaraidhe Luachre (the county of Kerry), king of, 368.
- Cilledara (Kildare), the Scots occupy, exci. 108; Darlugdach, abbess of, 6, 28; Ceallach, abbot of, 361.
- Cillemoire of Aedan, son of Fergus, burned, 358.
- Cillenus longus, abbot of Hi, 74, 355, 401.
- Ciline Droictigh, anchorite at Hi, dies, 76, 353.
- Cilline, son of Congal, dies at Hi, 76, 358.
- Cillmuine (Menevia, or St. David's), 67.
- Cimoiod, Cinioid, Cemoyd, king of the Picts, 6, 27, 398; dies, 15, 124.
- Cinadius, Cinaed, Cinaeda. See Kenneth and Conad.
- Cinadon, king of the Picts, war in Fortrenn with Aeda Fin, 358; dies, cxxv. 358; his son slain, 356.
- Cinacth, son of Luchtren. See Cinoch.
- Cinbelim, son of Dungual, 16.
- Cinear brant, son of Bran, 16.
- Cincon, 348. See Cindeon.
- Cind, the father of Cruthne, champion of the Cruithneach, 31, 41, 328.
- Cindeon, Cincon, battle of, 70, 348.
- Cindeilgden, Cindelgthen, battle of, 69, 346.
- Cindgalarath, Cinggaradh, Cindgaradh (Kingarth), Ronan, abbot of, 76, 357; Noe, abbot of, 359; Daniel, bishop of, 7, 349; Iolan, bishop of, 72, 351.
- Cind Righ Monaigh. See St. Andrews.
- Cindtai, son of Corpri, 315.
- Cindtyre. See Kintyre.
- Cinedon, son of Lughtren. See Cinoeh.
- Cinel Owen, Loarn, etc. See Eoghaid, Loarn, etc.
- Cineria, comes to Scotland with Regulus, 187.
- Cing, 41. See Cind.
- Cinge, son of Luctai or Lochit, 23, 323.
- Cungi, son of Guari, 315.
- Cinhil, son of Cluim, 15.
- Cinhoint. See Cinoch.
- Cinid, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 397.
- Cinoch, Ciniath, Cinaeth, Kynel, Kinet, Kenech, Cinhoint, Cinedon, son of Lutrin, Luitrin, Lughtren, Luchtren, Luchrem, Sngthen, king of the Picts, cxi. 7, 28, 150, 173, 201, 286, 399; dies, 70, 347.
- Ciniod, son of Wredich, Uuredeg, king of the Picts, cxxiv. 7, 29, 400.
- Cinioiod. See Cimoiod.
- Cinmarc, son of Merchianun, 16.
- Cinn Belachoir, 8. See Bellathor.
- Cinngarad, Cinggarat. See Cindgaradh.
- Cint, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 397.
- Cinuit, king of Strathclyde, xcvi. 15.
- Cionaoth, 62. See Kenneth Mac Alpin.
- Cirein (in the Mearns), battle in, 76.
- Circin, Magh (the plain of Circin, the Mearns), xxii. xxiii. cxxxvii. cxxxviii.; taken possession of by the Cruithneach as their swordland, xvii. 319: Dunfother, the stronghold of, cxx. cxxxvii.
- Circinn, Cirig, son of Cruidne, 4, 25, 323, 324, 326; in the Pictish legend represents the district of the same name, ciii.
- Cireestershire, in Mirchenelaga, 154.
- Cirie. See Grig.
- Ciric, one of the wise men of the Cruthne, 329.
- Cirig, son of Cruithne, 25. See Circinn.
- Cirigh Cetlim, 41.
- Ciunn tire, 351. See Kintyre.
- Clackmannan, lxxxii. lxxxv.
- Cladrois, numbers of the township of, 312.
- Claideom, 10; explained, xxii.
- Claonloch, 88.
- Claudian, quoted with reference to the Scots, cix.
- Claudius, the Emperor, 382.

- Clement III., Pope, interferes in behalf of John, bishop of St. Andrews, 226.
- Clinoch, son of Dumgnal, 15.
- Clinog Eitín, son of Cinhelim, 15.
- Cloin (Cloyne, county Cork), Scots arrive at, exci. 108.
- Cluaim, son of Cursalen, 15.
- Cluana (Cluny in Stormont), Danes advance to, 8.
- Cluia, 10.
- Cnuic Corpri (Knock Cariber), battle at, 357.
- Coarb. See Comarb.
- Coblaith, daughter of Canonn, dies, 73, 351.
- Cobran, 144. See Gabran.
- Cobthaig coelbreg, son of Ugaine-mor, 134, 144.
- Coeboy, called by Bede Maserfelth, exv.; battle of, 14, 15.
- Cochon, Prince Henry falls at the battle of, 337.
- Codrus, St. accompanies St. Boethius on his return to his native land, 410.
- Coade, bishop of Hi, dies, 73, 354.
- Coerthni, son of Coelboth, his son falls in battle, 343.
- Coganan, son of Hungus, 173. See Uven, son of Unist.
- Coil hen, 16.
- Coledauc, son of Morcant bule, 16.
- Colgan, John, referred to, xxix. xxx. xxxvi. xli.
- Colgu, son of Mongan, 319.
- "Collectanea de rebus Albanicis," referred to, xiii. xxxvi.
- Collis credulitatis, at Scone, 9. See Castellum Credi.
- Colman, Bishop, sails to the Insula vaccae albae (Bophin); founds a church there, 71, 349; his missionary labours in the north of England, 250; his death, 350.
- Colman beg, son of Diarmait, his expedition, 344.
- Colosse, plundered by Constantius, 183.
- Colum, son of Bactan, 316.
- Columba, St., his birth, 14, 66, 167, 344; leaves Ireland for Britain, 14, 80, 81, 167, 344; sails for Hi in his forty-second year, 67; passed thirty years there, 68, 168, 346; date of his arrival among the Picts, length of his sojourn, 286; baptizes Bruide, 7, 28, 286, 399; converts the southern Picts to the faith, cv. cli.; his missionary labours in the north of England, 250; his death, 14, 68, 168, 286, 346; his shrine plundered, 77, carried to Ireland for safety, 362; reliquaries taken to Alban, 360, and to Ireland, cxii. 360, 403; his remains removed by Kenneth Mac Alpin to Dunkeld, cxii. 8; the church founded by him extends itself over all the Pictish territory, and into Northumbria, clv.; the men of Alban invoke his aid in fighting against the Lochlans, and use his crozier as their standard, 406.
- Columbanns, St., invoked by Faiteach, 109, 111.
- Columcille, St. See Columba, St.
- Comarb, 54; of Peter, 55; of St. Patrick, 372; of Hi. See Hi.
- Combust, king of the Picts, 149. See Usconbut.
- Congall, Congal, Congel, son of Domangart, Donegarth, Donengarth, Dovengard, Dungal, king of Dalriada, 18, 59, 130, 148, 171, 287, 305, 309, 316, 317, 335; his death, 67, 167, 344, 354.
- Congall, son of Maileduin, slain, 72.
- Congall, the Cinel, 316; inhabited the district of Cowal, cxiii.; their descent, cxiii. 317; battle with, 353.
- Comin, Comyn, John, his castle of Baleswynton, 215; slain by Bruce, 307, 389.
- Connodub Cearr, 310. See Conad Cerr.
- Conad Cerr, Conid Cerr, Connchead Cearr, Conaing chir, Kinat sinister, Kineth Ker, Kynad, Knath kere, Kynather, son of Eocho buidhe, Conal, king of Dalriada, cxii. 19, 60, 130, 148, 171, 198, 287, 305, 310; slays Fiachna, son of Demain, at Ardecoraind, 69; slain at Fedbaein, 69, 70, 168, 347.
- Conailli, the, 321.
- Conaing, son of Aidan, drowned, 69, 347; his sons, 310.
- Conaing, son of Congall, 72. See Conad Cerr.
- Conaing, son of Duncan, slain in a sea-fight, 353.

- Conaing, son of Duncan, son of Cenedig, slaoi, 367.
 Conaing chir, 70. See Conad Cerr.
 Conaire, children of, 58.
 Conaire choem, son of Magalama, 315.
 Conaire mor, Conarre, son of Etirsceoil, Ederskeil, Eterscenil, 134, 144, 315.
 Conall, son of Aedan, slays Conall, son of Tadg, 359.
 Conall, son of Bairfind, 311.
 Conall, Conel, son of Comgall, king of Dalriada, 19, 60, 130, 148, 171, 197, 305, 335; his seven sons, 309; gives Hy to St. Columba, 67, 167, 315; his expedition to the west, 344; his death, 67, 167, 345.
 Conall, brother of Conall Caemb, king of Dalriada, 21, 61.
 Conall, son of Conocobar, dies, 75.
 Conall, son of Feradach, put to death, 353.
 Conall, son of Suibne, victor at Cindelgthen, 69, 346.
 Conall, son of Tadg. See Canaul.
 Conall, son of Tnathal, dies, 352.
 Conall beg, son of Eocho buidhe, 310.
 Conall caemb, king of Dalriada, 21, 61.
 Conall eail, son of Duncan, put to death in Kintyre, 72, 351.
 Conall Cernach, clan of, the Dalaraidhe, or Cruithnigh, 318.
 Conall, the Cinel, 77; ravage Derry, Columcille, and Inisowen, 373.
 Conall Crandomna, son of Eocho buidhe, king of Dalriada, 20, 60, 310; death of, 71, 349.
 Conall Crandomna, put to death, 73.
 Conall, of Maighiluingi, dies, 358.
 Conamail, son of Cannon, put to death, 353.
 Conan, Duke of Bretagne, marries Margaret, daughter of Prince Henry, 337.
 Conan, son of Failbe, abbot of Ili, dies, 353.
 Conan, son of Ruadraich, king of the Britons, dies, 359.
 Conbst. See Useonbuts.
 Coneobar, son of Lochein, slain, 75.
 Coneobar O'Maelsechnall, defeats Diarmed, king of the Britons, 78.
 Coneriat, son of Boile, son of Setna, 310.
 Coneridhe, Cenell, in Isla, sprung from Setna, son of Fergus beg, 310.
 Conegal, 305. See Dungal, son of Selvach.
 Conere (Connor), Domangart, bishop of, 344.
 Conere mor, son of Eders, 144.
 Confer, 16.
 Congal, son of Domangart, 335. See Comgall.
 Congal, son of Euganan, dies, 353.
 Congal, son of Guaire, dies, 351.
 Congal, son of Maeleanfaith breece fortrenn, dies, 355.
 Congal, son of Ronan, slain, 71.
 Congal, son of Tadg, 168. See Canaul.
 Congan, son of Findao, 198. See Ewen, son of Ferchar.
 Congel, son of Domangart, 130. See Comgall.
 Conghal, son of Duncan, 347.
 Congus, son of Consamla, 316.
 Conid Cerr, 347. See Conad.
 Conlaich, son of Evero, 134.
 Conmael, son of the abbot of Kildare, dies at Hi, 73.
 Conmen, son of Tulchan, 311.
 Conneheat Cearr, 60. See Conad Cerr.
 Connellan, Professor, referred to, xvii.
 Conore, son of Mogalanda, 134.
 Consamail, son of Canai garb, 316.
 Constable of Scotland, Gilbert de Hay, 291.
 Constans, son of Constantine the Great, 138.
 Constantine the Great, 138; the superiority of Scotland vested in the See of Rome in virtue of his gift, 246, 274.
 Constantine, conversion of, 14, 67, 345, 387.
 Constantine, called the last king of the Piets, 31; identified with Constantine, son of Wrguist, xxxv.
 Constantine, Constantius, son of Aed, Hed, Edha, Ethu, Aeth, Ath, king of the Scots, exl. 9, 22, 29, 62, 115, 131, 151, 174, 178, 205, 209, 288, 299, 301, 305, 315, 336, 400; called in the "Prophecy of St. Berchan" "Midhaise," 91; holds with Cellach a national assembly at Scone, clxiii. 9; Athelstane assumes superiority over, exl. 223, 224; fights with Athelstane at Brunanburgh, exli.; abdicates and becomes abbot of the Culdees at St. Andrews; dies, and is buried there, exli. 151, 174, 178, 205, 288, 301, 305, 364.
 Constantine, Costantin, Custantin, son of Culen, Cullindan, king of the Scots,

- exliv. 22, 29, 97, 131, 152, 175, 179, 206, 289, 296, 302, 306, 314, 336; slain, 77, by Kenneth, son of Malcolm, 152, 175, 179, 206, 289, 302, at Rathinveramon, exliv. cxlvii. 152, 175, 179, 289, 302, buried at Iona, 152, 175, 289, 302, 306.
- Constantine, son of Donall, king of the Scots, lxvi. cxxxix. 295.
- Constantine, Cusantin, son of Fergus, king of D. driadha, cxxxii. 21, 62.
- Constantine, Costantin, Costantin, son of Kenneth, king of the Scots, lxvi. cxxxiv. cxlvii. 8, 21, 29, 62, 85, 131, 133, 144, 151, 178, 204, 209, 288, 295, 299, 301, 305, 315, 336; called king of the Picts, cxxxv. 362; called in the "Prophecy of St. Berchan" the "Dasachtach," cxxxv. 86; Artgha, king of the Britons, slain at his instigation, cxxxiv. 361; dies, 362, slain by the Norwegians, cxxxv. 151, 174, 178, 204, 288, 301, 305; buried at Iona, 151, 174, 288, 301, 306.
- Constantine, son of Mucertach mac Erc, 55.
- Constantine, Costantin, Castantin, son of Wrguist, Fergus, king of the Picts, of Fortrenn, xxxv. cxxxii. 8, 29, 31, 58, 150, 173, 202, 287, 400; defeats Conall, son of Tadg, 359; builds the church of Dunkeld, 202; incorrectly described as the last king of the Picts, xxxv. 31; dies, 169, 359.
- Constantinople, part of the remains of St. Andrew transferred to, 138, 183; and thence to St. Andrews, clxxxiii. 140; St. Servanus sojourns there, 414.
- Constantius, son of Constantine the Great, takes Patras and carries off part of the remains of St. Andrew, 183, 375; plunders Colosse, and carries off the remains of St. Luke and St. Timothy to Constantinople, 183.
- Conthigirnus, death of, 14.
- Conung (Tory Island, off the coast of Donegal), tower of, destroyed, 58.
- Corach (Cork), the Scots take possession of, exci. 108.
- Coraind, Corainn, battle of, 68, 346.
- Corbre, son of Admoir, 134.
- Corbre crungen, son of Daire dormor, 141
See Corpri cromcind.
- Corbre findmor, son of Conere mor, 144.
- Corcabaiscin (a territory in the south-east of county Clare), king of, 368.
- Corcia, 107.
- Corindu, dies among the Picts, 71, 349.
- Cork. See Corach.
- Cormac, son of Culennan, slain, 9.
- Cormac, son of Eochaid, son of Muredach, numbers of his gens, 314.
- Cormac, sou of Eocho find, 310.
- Cormac, son of Foelan, comarb of Hi, dies, 169.
- Cormac, son of Olchu, 309.
- Coronhia, Cornwall, 304; its boundaries, 153; provincial kings of, descended from Gaedel Ficht, 55; Cairnech, bishop of, builds an underground city, 55; Belinus, king of, 223.
- Corpri, with his people, follows the sons of Ere into Alban, 314.
- Corpri cromcind, crumpchimi, crungen, son of Daire dormor, 134, 144, 315.
- Corpri rig fhota, riata, son of Conaire choen, 315.
- Conerham, 305; Couran, 148. See Gabran.
- Cowal (Argyllshire), numbers of the clan Gabran in, 314; inhabited by the Cinel Comgall, cxiii.
- Coyl hen, 16.
- Craeb, 72.
- Cran, 152. See Criocan.
- Crasleth, Cruflet, Strafleth (perhaps Paisley), Alexander I. dies at, 175, 290, 303.
- Crassus, M. Licinius, 108.
- Crautreic, kieg of the Picts, 27. See Carvorst.
- Creic (Creich, in the Ross of Mull, opposite the Sound of Iona), burroed, cxxxii. 75, 357.
- Cremthand, 37. See Cremthaon.
- Crescencia, an abbess, 423.
- Crete, island of, 107.
- Crimthann Sgiathbhel, king of Leinster, 30, 37, 38, 326, 327.
- Crin, Brude, 397.
- Crinan, Cronan, Cran, Trin, Trim, abbot of Dunkeld, 152, 175, 180, 206, 289, 302; slain, 78, 369.
- Crinan, moss of (Argyllshire), cxiii.
- Crissernius, one of the companions of Regulus, 187.

- Critan, abbot of Benchair (Bangor), dies, 71.
 Crodai, a name applied to Irial glunnar, 318.
 Crodu, daughter of Dallain, wife of Caeldub, 313.
 Cronan, abbot of Dunkeld, 369. See Crinan.
 Cronan, son of Eochaid, son of Muredach, numbers of his gens, 314.
 Cronan, son of Eocho Find, 310.
 Cronan, son of Tulchan, 311.
 "Cronicon Elegiacum," clxxii.; probably by Ailred of Rievaulx, lvi. lvii.; the text of it, 177.
 Crossan, killed by Murcertach mac Erca, 58.
 Cruachan feli (in Connaught), 108.
 Cruchine, Cruidne. See Cruithne.
 Cruithnintaitha (Pictavia), civ. cvii. 27, 45, 322, 328, 329, 399; devastated, 361; its seven provinces, lxxxiv. lxxxvi. 135.
 Cruithlinde, Cruchlinde, son of Findfece, 134, 144.
 Cruithne, Cruithnechan, Cruidne, Cruchine, Cruthneus, Cruthene, son of Cinge, Kyan, Kinne, Kenek, king of the Picts, 4, 24, 47, 149, 171, 200, 285, 319, 323, 396; takes the north of Britain from the Britons of Fortreun, xviii. 23, 329; his seven sons divide the land, 23, 136, their names, 4, 24, 323, 396, signify seven provinces, ciii.; receives wives for his people from Herimon, 45, 126, 329; defends Cruithnintaith against the Saxons, 45.
 Cruithne, the artisan of the Cruithneach, 32, 329.
 Cruithne, Cruithnigh, of Ulster, the same people as those of Scotland, a colony of them also in Meath, xvii.; called the clan of Conall Cernach, 318.
 Cruithneach, 70, 82, 83, 84, 85, 168, 343, 346, 348; origin of, 23, 24; called Agathirsi, xcvi. 23, 30, 323; called Picts from tattooing their skins, 33; children of Gleoin, 23, 33, 323; come from Thrace, 30, 33, 319, 322, 323, 325; as soldiers in the fleet of the sons of Mileadh, xcvi. 319, 322; their number, 34, 319, 322; the cause of their emigration, 30, 34, 325; six brothers of them take possession of the Orkney islands, 23, 30; come to Ireland in time of Herimon, 125; five of them go to France and build Pictavis, 24, 34, 325; return to Erin and land at Iubberslaine, 30, 125, 325; are welcomed by Crimthann Sgiathbhell, king of Leinster; slay the Tuath Fidhbha at Ardleamhnacha, 31, 125, 326; are driven from Ireland by the Gael, 24, by Herimon, 39, 125, 328; land at Inver Boinne, 42; conquer Alba, 32, 43, Magh Fortrenn and Magh Circin as their swordland, 319; obtain wives from Ireland, 319, from Herimon, 39, 47, 126, 328, twelve in number, 329, one hundred and fifty, 320, on condition that descent should be in the female line, xviii. 40, 126, 319, 328, 329, whence the chiefship lay always with men of Erin, 45, 329; the oldest form of this tradition, xxxvi. 47; date of foundation of their kingdom in Alba, civ.; seventy kings of them reigned there, xxxv. xciv. 31, 58, 328, thirty over Eriu and Alba, civ. 320 seven of them ruling Erin in Tara, 320, 321; defeated by the Dalriada at Murbulg, 75, 336; fight with the Dalriada at Dromacathmail, 357; ravage Dalriada, 352; Saran, king of the Britons, establishes his power over, 52; the books of the, 26, 325, 397. See also Picts.
 Cruithneach of Erin, 321.
 Cruithnechan, son of Lochit, son of Ingi. See Cruithne.
 Crumene, son of Caplene, 311.
 Crumene, son of Conaing, 310.
 Crutholc, king of the Picts, 398. See Car vorst.
 Cruthene, Cruthne. See Cruithne.
 Cuaille Ciannacht, 80.
 Cuanac, the hook of, 343.
 Cubretan, son of Congus, dies, 357.
 Cucenmathair, son of Eocho buidhe, 310.
 Cuchulain goes from Alba to Erin, 319.
 Culideach, son of Gabran, 309.
 Cuilean, 63. See Culen.
 Cuimin Fionn. See Cumaine.
 Culdees, Constantine, son of Aed, abbot of, at St. Andrews, cxli. 151, 174, 288, 301,

- 305 ; their number and mode of life at St. Andrews, 188-190 ; Mac Forcellaig, chief of, at Hi, 372.
- Culen, Cuilean, Cullun, Culenring, son of Indulf, king of the Scots, cxliii. cxlvi. 10, 22, 29, 63, 95, 131, 151, 174, 179, 205, 210, 289, 296, 300, 302, 306, 314, 336, 400 ; slain by the Britons, 10, 364 ; by Amdarch (Amdrach, Andarch, Amthar, Radhard, Radharc), 151, 174, 179, 205, 289, 302.
- Culenrigi, 356. See Cumennraighe.
- Culenring, 10. See Culen.
- Culenross (Culross, on the Forth), Servanus founds a church at, 417.
- Cullun, 314. See Culen.
- Cumaine alibe, Cumin albus, Cummen albus, abbot of Hi, dies, 71, 349, 402.
- Cumaseach, son of Angus, slain, 70, 347.
- Cumaseach, son of Ronan, dies, 350.
- Cumbri (Strathclyde Britons), king of, vassal of Edward, son of Alfred, 223 ; Eugenius, king of, 224 ; Malcolm, king of, 224.
- Cumbria (Cumberland), part of the kingdom of Cumbria or Strathclyde, lxxix. ; Cadroe reaches, 116 ; invaded by the Scots, 230 ; people of, converted to the faith by Scots missionaries, 250 ; subject to the king of Scotland, 249, 253, and on that account exempted from taxation by Rome, 249 ; invaded by Henry II., 255.
- Cumbria (kingdom of Strathclyde), extent of, lxxix. cxiv. ; Donald, son of Constantine, elected king, cxli. 204 ; conquered by Edmund, king of the Saxons, and transferred to Malcolm, king of the Scots, lxxx. xciv.
- Cumbust, 172. See Usconbuts.
- Cumennraighe, Culenrigi, plundered, 75, 356.
- Cummen albus. See Cumaine.
- Cunchar, 289 ; Cuniear, 179 ; Cunithar, 206 ; Cunnuehar, 175 ; Cunthar, 152, 302, thane of Angus.
- Cunedag drives the Scots from Gwynned, 12.
- Cunsantin, 314. See Constantine.
- Cupar, the Book of, x.
- Curoi, son of Daire, 319.
- Curpatieum mare. See Carpatium.
- Cursalen, son of Fer, 15.
- Cursus Apri, 190, 193. See St. Andrews.
- Cusantin, Custantin. See Constantine.
- Cutenevor (Cutton Moor, near Northallerton), the battle of the Standard fought there, 212.
- Cuthbert, St., dies at Lindisfarne (Medcaut), 14.
- Cyclades, 107.
- Cymry, so called from Camber, son of Brutus, 121.
- Cynloyp, son of Cinhil, 15.
- Cyricus, St., connexion of his name with that of Grig, cxxxvii.
- DACI, DANAI, DANARI, descended from the Goths, 3, 393 ; their territory, 4, 117 ; devastate Pictavia in the time of Kenneth Mac Alpin, clxxxvii. cxciii. 8, 209 ; harass the Scots, 292 ; defeated by them at Inisbolsia, exxxix. 9 ; driven by them from Alban, 117, 330 ; slay Constantine, son of Kenneth, 178 ; contribute to the overthrow of the Picts, clxxxvii. cxciii. cxciv. 209 ; come as pilgrims and refugees to St. Andrews, 140 ; plunder Hi, and slay the abbot and others, 365 ; put St. Adrian and his companions to death at the Isle of May, 424 ; drive out the Saxons from Loegria, 247, 383 ; fight with Athelstane, at Brunnanburgh, cxli. ; are themselves driven out of Anglia by the Saxons, 248, 280 ; they and many of the Saxons driven out by the Normans, 383, 384.
- Dacia, 4, 154, 394 ; subdued by Arthnr, 247, 281.
- Dadrest, 7 ; explained, xxi.
- Daimin, son of Domangart, dies, 167.
- Daire dormor, son of Conaire mor, 134, 144, 315.
- Dairlugdach. See Darlungdach.
- Dalaradia, in Ulster, the territory of the Daluaraidhe, xvii.
- Dallain, bishop, son of Sarrau and Babona, 52.
- Dalnaraidhe, Dalaraidhe, tribe of, in Ulster, xlvi. civ. 318, 320, 321 ; their kings provincial kings of Ulster alternately with those of the Dalfiatach, xvii.

Dalriada, clxviii. clxxi. clxxii. clxxiii. clxxviii. 8, 17, 23, 66, 69, 142, 309, 347, 350; its boundaries, cxiii.; nearly co-extensive with Argyll, cxiv. clxxxii.; its capital Dunadd, cxiii. cxiv.; the three (four) great clans of, and their numbers, cxiii. 312, 314; earliest authentic account of the Scots colony in, xxx.; date of the establishment of the kingdom of, cx., which existed for four centuries alongside of the Pictish monarchy, cxxxiii.; variations in the lists of the kings of, cxxvi.-cxxxiii., and the epoch assigned them, clxxi.-clxxxiv., in Fordun's history, clxxiv.; Columba obtains the independence of the kings of, cxii.; they fall under the power of Oswy, cxvii.; till then, its kings exclusively of the race of Fergus, afterwards of Lorn, cxxi.; Alpin, son of Echach, its last Scots king, clxxxiv. clxxxv.; conquered by the Picts in the reign of Alpin, son of Echach, cxxxii.; its kings of the Pictish race from Alpin to Kenneth, cxxxii. cxxxii.; its conquest by the Angles suppressed in the Latin chronicles, cxxxiiii.; Pictish kingdom in, clxxxiiii., this fact suppressed, and the duration of the Scottish kingdom prolonged, in the later chronicles, clxxxiv.

Dalriada (the people of Scottish Dalriada), defeat the Britons at Loirgeclat, 73, 354; and at Minvirce, 74, 354; defeat the Picts at Murbulg, 75, 356; their fleet under Flaitbhertach commits havoc in Ireland, 75; slay Gofraig, 77, 365; victorious at Arcoraind, 347; defeated by Fedhaeoin, 69, 347; and at Glenlema, 73, 353; are subdued by Angus, son of Fergus, cxxxii. clxxxii. clxxxvii. 75, 357; defeated at Knock Cariber by the men of Fortrenn.

" Dalriada, Tract on the Scots of " (No. 41), notice of, lxviii.; text, 304.

Dalriada (Irish), a tribe in Ulster, xlviij.; St. Boethius crosses to, restores to life the king's daughter, and founds a church there, 411; ravage the territory of the Cruithne and Ultonians, 352; the tribe of the Dalriatach of the same tribe as; their kings provincial kings of Ulster alternately with those of, xlviij.

Dalriete. See Dalriada.
 Dalry (Argyllshire), battle of, 389.
 Dalrymple, David (Lord Hailes), referred to, iv.
 Dalswinton. See Baleswynton.
 Daman, son of Tulchan, 311.
 Damian, St., one of the companions of Regulus, 185, 187; church dedicated to him at St. Andrews, 187.
 Danai, Danari, Danes. See Daci.
 Danelaga, one of the three divisions of Britain, 153: its extent, 155.
 Daniel, bishop of Cindgaradh (Kingarth), dies, 71, 349.
 Daniel, death of the nine sons of, 72. See Nae.
 Danmaigne, son of Lorn mor, 312.
 Danube, river, 4, 394.
 Dardanus, King of Phrygia, 330.
 Dare, son of Olchu, 309.
 Dare dormor. See Daire.
 Darerca, St. (called Moninne), dies, 344.
 Dargart, son of Fingan, put to death, 72.
 Darlugdach, abbess of Kildare, goes to Britain, 6, 28, 399.
 Dartguitiimoth, 399. See Drest Gurthimoch.
 Dasachtach (fierce), epithet applied to Constantine, son of Kenneth, cxxxv. 86.
 David I., son of Malcolm, king of Scotland, 132, 133, 144, 175, 181, 191, 207, 210, 213, 290, 296, 300, 303, 306, 387, 388; his munificence in building churches and monasteries, 253; founds the abbeys of Melrose, Newhattle, Jedburgh, Holmcum-bam, Kynloss, 133, 388; obtains consecration for the bishop of St. Andrews from Thurstan, 191; visits St. Andrews and grants endowments to the priory, 193; does homage to the Empress Matilda, 225; for English fiefs only, 281; dies at Carlisle, 175, 181, 207, 254, 290, 303, 388; buried at Dunfermline, 175, 207, 290, 303, 306.
 David II., son of Robert Bruce, king of Scotland, 297, 349, 389; his death, 390.
 David, Earl of Huntingdon, brother of William the Lyon, 211, 337; absent on an expedition against the Albigenses when his father dies, 255; does homage to

INDEX.

- Henry III., 225, for the honour of Huntington, 254.
 David, lord of Brechin, 291.
 David, abbot of Cillmuine (St. David's), dies, 67, 168.
 David, bishop of St. Andrews, crowns Alexander II., 176.
 De. See Dee.
 Deabhra, Loch, 103.
 Deatha, Theacha, son of Erchata, 134, 145.
 Decdric, son of Ida, 11.
 Dectotric, Deototreic, Derothet, Deokleth, Tethothrech, king of the Piets, 6, 27, 149, 172, 285, 398.
 Dedad, son of Sin, 134, 144, 315.
 Dee, De, river (Aberdeenshire), lxxxii. lxxxv. 136.
 Dee, Dehe, river (Cheshire), Edgar's galley rowed by subject princes on the, 224.
 Debe, 224. See Dee.
 Dein, son of Demail, 144. See Dem.
 Deira, Deur, its boundaries, 153; called Northumbria, counties contained in it, 154; separated from Bernicia, 11; falls under the sway of Ella, xc.; Paulinus, apostle of, 341.
 Deisi (Decies, county Waterford), Motla, king of the, 367.
 Delend, battle of, 71, 349.
 Delgon (in Kintyre), battle of, 67.
 Dem, Dein, son of Demail, 134, 144.
 Demail, son of Rodebada, Rothoba, 134, 145.
 Demecia (South Wales), part of Cambria, 153.
 Demene, son of Aunganena, 187.
 Denbecan, king of the Piets, 5. See Aenbecan.
 Denegul, Denegus. See Angus.
 Denisesburna, xcii. See Catscaul.
 Denmark, 195.
 Denny, parish of, in the district of ancient Calathros, lxxx.
 Deo arduois, Deordinois, king of the Piets, 6, 27, 398.
 Deocilunon, Deocillimon, Duchil, Dugil, king of the Piets, 6, 27, 149, 172, 200, 285, 398.
 Deodric, Deoric, Deedric, son of Ida, king of Bernicia, xci. 11, 12; his war with Urbgen, 12; slain by Morecant, 13.
 Deokleth, 172. See Dectotric.
 Deoord, Deort, Dinortechest, Deordegel, Duordegall, Duordegel, king of the Piets, 6, 27, 149, 172, 200, 285, 398.
 Deordinois. See Deo arduois.
 Deoric. See Deodric.
 Deothere, son of Ida, 11.
 Deototreic. See Dectotric.
 Derbyshire, in Danelaga, 154.
 Dere dronmor, 144. See Daire dormor.
 Derekan, church built at, by Olean, 142.
 Dermeom, Ermon, son of Mele-despain, 134, 145.
 Derordegele, 149. See Deoord.
 Derothet, 149. See Dectotric.
 Derry, Derry Columcille, 80, 81; ravaged, 337.
 Derst, 399. See Drest.
 Derwent, river (Cumberland), the southern boundary of the kingdom of Strathclyde, lxxix.n.
 Dethach, son of Sin, 144. See Dedad.
 Denenschire, Devonia (Devonshire), in Wessenelaga, 153, 154.
 Denr. See Deira.
 Devorgoil, grand-daughter of Alexander III. and Margaret, 306.
 Dexastan (Dawston, Roxburghshire), battle between Aidan and Cadfred at, 286.
 Diarmait, abbot of Hi, 359; goes to Alban with the reliquaries of St. Columba, 360.
 Diarmed, son of Fergus Cerbheol, dies, 18, 19.
 Diarmed, son of Mailnambo, king of the Britons, Hebrides, Dublin, and Leinster, slain, 78.
 Dingayrdi, 12; Dinguaroy, 13. See Bebbanburch, 13.
 Dingwall (Ross-shire), exciii.
 Dinortechest, 200. See Deoord.
 Doergart, son of Finghin, dies, 352.
 Doganan, son of Hunge, 287. See Uven, son of Unnist.
 Doiradeilim, battle at, 350.
 Dolair (Dollar, Perthshire), battle at, between the Danes and Scots, cxxxiv. 8.
 Doldencha, lake, 185; a church built there by Unnist, 186. See Chondrochedalvan.

- Dolfin, son of Fiuntur, slain, 369.
 Dolfoal. See Donald.
 Domangal, 305. See Domangart.
 Domangart, son of Aidan, slain, 68, 346.
 Domangart, son of Conaing, 310, 315.
 Domangart, son of Donald Brec, king of Dalriada, 133, 315; slain, 71, 350.
 Domangart, son of Eochu buidhe, 310.
 Domangart, Domenghart, Donengarth, Douengard, Douenard, Dongard, Domangal, Dungal, son of Fergus, Nissi, king of Dalriada, 18, 59, 130, 133, 144, 148, 171, 287, 305, 315, 316, 317, 335; bishop of Conere, 344; his two sons, 309; his wife Feidlimidh, 309; his death, 66, 167, 343, 344.
 Domangart, son of Gabran, 309.
 Domenghart. See Domangart.
 Domnal. See Donald.
 Donald, one of the princes who rowed Edgar's barge on the Dee, 224.
 Donald, king of Strathclyde, dies, 9.
 Donald, son of Aed, king of the Strathclyde Britons, cxli. cxvi. 9; Edmund gives Cumbria to him, 204; he receives Cadroe, 116.
 Donald, son of Aed, king of Ireland, 19, 343.
 Donald I., Domnal, Donenald, Donewaldus, Doneall, Dolfnal, son of Alpin, king of the Scots, cxxxiv. 8, 21, 29, 62, 84, 131, 151, 174, 177, 204, 209, 288, 295, 299, 305, 336; he and his people, in a council at Forteviot, confirm the laws of Aed, son of Ecdach, 8; dies, 169, 361, at Rathinveramoo, 151, 174, 288, 301, in his palace at Cinn Belachoir, cxxxiv. 8, at Scone, 178, at Loch Adhba, 85; buried at Iona, 151, 174, 288, 301, 305.
 Donald, son of Alpin, one of the Cruithneach, 329.
 Donald, son of Auin, king of Strathclyde, xciv. cxxii.; dies, 73, 352.
 Donald, son of Cairill, dies, 10.
 Donald, son of Cathmaí, 316, 317.
 Donald, son of Conal crandomna, put to death, 352.
 Donald II., Donivaldus, Duneval, Donenald, Dovenal, Domnal, son of Constantine, Dunstan, king of the Scots, cxxxviii. cxlv. 9, 21, 29, 62, 131, 133, 144, 151, 174, 178, 204, 209, 288, 295, 299, 301, 305, 315, 336; called in the "Prophecy of St. Berchan" the "Garbh," 89; called king of the Picts, cxxxv.; slain at Dunfother, cxxxix. 9, 90; according to others, died at Forres, 151, 169, 174, 178, 288, 301; buried at Iona, 151, 174, 288, 301.
 Donald, son of Diarmed, king of Corco-baiscin, slain, 368.
 Donald III., Donald Bane, son of Duncan, Donchat, king of the Scots, 104, 132, 170, 175, 181, 206, 281, 289, 296, 300, 303, 306, 336; banishes the sons of Malcolm, 211; driven from his kingdom, 306; restored, 211, 253, 296, 300, by the help of William Rufus, 225, 253; again dethroned by William, 225; deprived of sight by Edgar, 77, 141, 175, 207, 289, 303; dies, 370, at Rescobie, 171, 181, 207, 289, 303; buried at Dunkeld, 175, 207, 303, at Dunfermline, 289; his remains transferred to Iona, 175, 181, 207, 289, 303.
 Donald, son of Eimin, son of Cainig, mormaor of Mar in Alban, slain, 368.
 Donald, son of Eogain, king of Strathclyde, goes on pilgrimage, 77, 364.
 Donald, son of Fergal, king of the Fortuath, slain, 367.
 Donald, son of Gabran, 309.
 Donald, son of Murchad, communion of Dunald against, 356.
 Donald, son of Murchad, plunders the shrine of St. Columba, 77.
 Donald, son of Robertach, comarb of Hi, dies, 371.
 Donald, son of Selvach, 198. See Dungal.
 Doald, son of Tagd, seizes the Hebrides, 170.
 Donald, son of Tnathalsain, dies, 71.
 Donald Bane. See Donald, son of Duncan.
 Donald brec, Domnall breacc, Domnall bric, Donenald brich, Douenhal, Douenald brec, Dopnale breck, son of Eochu buidhe, king of Dalriada, cxii. 19, 60, 130, 133, 144, 171, 287, 305, 310, 315, 335; victorious at Cindelgthen, 69; defeated at Glinne Mairison, 70, and at Calathros, 72, 350, 402; dies, 168, 351, 402; slain at Strathacuin (Strathearren), by Hoan, king of the Britons, 70, 72, 348.

INDEX.

- Donald donn, son of Eocho buidhe, king of Dalriada, 60, 310; called Duncan don, 20.
 Donarmahl uetalec, Donornauch uerales, Denornach lecdales, Douernach uetalec, king of the Picts, 149, 172, 200, 285.
 Donchat, Donchath. See Duncan.
 Dondgal, son of Selvach, 16. See Dungal.
 Donechet. See Duncan.
 Donegard, 335; Donengarth, 148. See Domangart.
 Doneunal, Donewaldus. See Donald.
 Donn (the brown one), epithet applied to Grig, son of Kenneth, cxlv. 98.
 Donn, 45, 328, 329; Heber takes territory from him, 50; drowned when advancing against the Tuatha Dea, 49.
 Donnanega (Donnan of Egg), burning of, with other martyr clerics, 69, 168, 346.
 Donnchad. See Duncan.
 Donncorci, king of Dalriada, dies, 359.
 Donornanch uerales. See Donarmahl.
 Doon, Loch, clxxxv.
 Dorbeni, abbot of Hi, dies, 73, 354.
 Dorsetshire, in Wessenelaga, 154.
 Dorsum Britanniae. See Drumalban.
 Dorsum Crup (Duncrub, Perthshire), battle at, cxlii. 10.
 Dostolorg, 150. See Drest, son of Constantine, and Talorgen, son of Wthoil.
 Donenald, Douenhal, Dounald. See Donald.
 Douernach uetalec, 149. See Donarmahl.
 Douglas, James Earl of, 291.
 Dounfries, 215. See Dumfries.
 Dovenard, Dovengaïd. See Domangart.
 Drest, Druxst, king of the Picts, joint king with Elpin, cxxiv. cxxv. 7, 29, 74, 399; driven from his kingdom, clxxxvi. 74; slain at the battle of Drumdearg, 75, 355, 401.
 Drest, Drost, son of Constantine, king of the Picts, joint king with Talorgen, son of Wthoil, 8, 29, 150, 173, 202, 287, 400.
 Drest, Drust, Drost, son of Donnel, Dunnal, 7, 28, 150, 172, 201, 286, 399; driven from his kingdom, 71, 350; dies, 72, 350.
 Drest, Derst, Drust, son of Girom, Gurun, Gigurum, Gigurnus, Gygurn, king of the Picts, 7, 28, 149, 200, 285, 399.
 Drest, Drust, Gurthimnoch, Gurthimoth, Gurum, Gortinoch, Gocinecht, king of the Picts, 7, 28, 149, 172, 200, 285, 399.
 Drest, Drust, son of Munait, Monaith, Menech, Moneth, Monehet, king of the Picts, 7, 28, 150, 172, 200, 286, 399.
 Drest, Drust, son of Talorgen, Tulargan, Talargbin, Talargugani, king of the Picts, 7, 29, 150, 173, 202, 287, 400.
 Drest, Drust, son of Wdrost, Wrthrost, Budros, Hudrossig, Hidrofigus, Hudresseg, king of the Picts, 7, 28, 149, 172, 200, 285, 399.
 Dromacathmail, battle at, between the Picts and Scots, 357.
 Dromaderg blathmig, Drumderg blathmig (Drumdearg), battle of, cxxv. 75, 356.
 Drost. See Drest.
 Drostan, son of Cruidne, 30, 31, 34, 38, 325, 326, 327; the Druid of the Cruithneach; employs cow's milk as an antidote to poison of arrows, 31, 36, 326.
 Drostan dairtaighe, dies, 354.
 Druid, Drostan the Druid of the Cruithneach, 31, 326, 327; six Druids of the Cruithneach remain at Breagmach, 41; the arts they practised, 42.
 Druist, 74. See Drest.
 Drumalban, Druthm Alban, 148; Bruinalban, lxxxv. 136; Brunhere, 137 (a mountain chain extending from Loch Lomond, in Dumbartonshire, to Loch Broom, in Sutherland), lxxxv. lxxxvi. lxxxvii. cxi. cxlviii. clviii. 130, 136; called Dorsum Britanniae, lxxii. 74, 354; the boundary between the Scots and Picts, xi. cvii. clxxxii. 130, 137, 148, 171, 287, 304, 334.
 Drumceat, Council of, cxi.
 Drumdearg, battle of. See Dromaderg.
 Drnsc, 399. See Drest, son of Donnel.
 Drust, son of Budros, 28; Hudrossig, 149; Hudrosig, 285; Hudresseg, 172; Hidrofigus, 200; Wrthrost, 187. See Drest, son of Wdrost.
 Drust, son of Donnel, Dunnal. See Drest.
 Drust, son of Erp, Irh, Yrp, Ws, king of the Picts, 6, 28, 149, 172, 200, 285, 398; drives Necton into Ireland, 6.
 Drust, son of Ferat, Feradhach, Ferech, last king of the Picts, clxxi. clxxxix. 174, 202, 287; defeated at Forteviot, or at

- Scone, cxxvi.; treacherously slain together with the Pictish nobles, exci. 202.
- Drust, son of Giron, 28; Gurun, 149; . Gigurum, 172; Gigurnus, 200; Gygurn, 285. See Drest, son of Girom.
- Drust Gurthimoth, 28; Gurum, 149; son of Gortinoch, 172; Gocinecht, 200. See Drest, son of Gurthimoch.
- Drust, son of Hole, 201. See Bredei, son of Bili.
- Drust, son of Methor, 200. See Brid.
- Drust, son of Monaith, 150; Munait, 28; Menech, 200; Moneth, 172; Monehet, 286. See Drest, son of Munait.
- Drust, son of Talarugani, 150; Talergan, 173; Talargbiu, 202; Talargan, 287. See Drest, son of Talorgen.
- Drustalorg, 173. See Drest, son of Constantine, and Talorgen, son of Wtboil.
- Druthm Alban. See Drumalban.
- Druxst, 74. See Drest.
- Duach lotherai, son of Ficceach bolgai; Duach lograich, son of Fiachrach toll greich, 134, 144.
- "Duan of Alban," notice of, xxxvi. clxvi.; text, 57.
- Dub, 364. See Dubh.
- Duhblain. See Dunblane.
- Dubdaimber, son of Congal, king of the Cruithne, put to death, 355.
- Dubdalethe, comarb of St. Patrick, becomes comarb of Hi, 365; book of, 347; dies, 366.
- Dubdon, mormaor of Athochlach (Atholl), slain, 10.
- Dubduin, comarb of Hi, dies, 364.
- Dubgall, son of Amlaim, slain, 367.
- Dubh, Duf, Niger, son of Malcolm, Colm, Macloun, king of the Scots, cxliii. cxlii. 10, 22, 63, 95, 131, 151, 174, 179, 205, 210, 289, 295, 300, 302, 303, 336, 400; slain by the Albanich, 364, treacherously at Forres, and hidden under the bridge at Kinloss; the sun eclipsed at the time, 151, 174, 179, 205, 289, 302; buried at Iona, 151, 174, 205, 289, 302.
- Dubhoda. See Dubh.
- Dubholarg, 359, king of the Picts south of the Mounth, dies, 359.
- Dublin, 78. See Atheliath.
- Dubscuile, comarb of Hi, dies, 364.
- Dubsidi, lector at Hi, dies, 372.
- Dubtach Albanach, chief anchorite of Erin and Alban, dies at Armagh, 370.
- Dubtach, comarb of Hi, dies, 364.
- Dubhach, son of Erc, 309.
- Dubucan, son of Indrechtagh, mormaor of Angus, dies, 9.
- Duchil, 149, 172. See Deocilunon.
- Duf, 131. See Dubh.
- Duf Tolorg, 202; a corruption of the names of Drest, son of Constantine, and Talorg, son of Wthoil.
- Dugalls (black foreigners), hosting of the Picts against, cxxxiv. 362; Ranald, king of, 363.
- Duglas, 291. See Douglas.
- Duibdalethe, 347. See Dubdalethe.
- Duibh, son of Gartnaidh, burning of, 70, 348.
- Duinbaitte, siege of, 351.
- Duinonlaigh. See Dunnollaig.
- Duinsech, wife of Donald (king of Erin), dies, 347.
- Dulach, 302. See Lulach.
- Dumachs, the, 126.
- Dumbar, 291. See Dunbar.
- Dumfries, the royal castle of, 215.
- Dungual hen, 15.
- Dunadd, Dunat (the capital of Dalriada), in the Moss of Crinan, cxiii. exix.; called also Dunmonaidh, cxv.; commotion of, against Donald, son of Murchad, 356; siege of, 351; taken, exxi. 75, 357.
- Dun Baedan, Dun Beatan, 127, 128.
- Dunbar, Dunbarre (Haddingtenshire), castle of, in Lothian, 214; burnt by Kenneth Mac Alpin, 8; battle of, 389; rock cleft at, through intercession of St. John of Beverley, 223; the tradition denied, 251.
- Dunbar, Patricius de, Earl of March, 291.
- Dunbarton. See Alclyde.
- Dunblane, Dubblain, burned by the Britons, 8.
- Dunbreantan, xciv. ; Dunbretaine, 197. See Alclyde.
- Dunbrunde (Brunanburgh), battle at, 9.
- Duncalde, 8. See Dunkeld.
- Duncan, king of Dalriada, 20.

- Duncan, abbot of Dunkeld, 364.
 Duncan, abbot of Hi, 73, 353.
 Duncan, earl of Fife, 291.
 Duncan, son of Cindfaeladh, abbot of Hi, dies, 74, 354.
 Duncan, son of Conaing, 310; slain, 71, 349.
 Duncan, son of Conal, son of Comgall, slain, 67, 345.
 Duncan I., Donebath, Dunchach, Dondchad, son of Crinan, Cronan, Cran, Trin, and Bethoc, king of the Scots, cxlviii. 29, 63, 119, 133, 144, 152, 175, 180, 206, 210, 289, 296, 300, 302, 305, 336, 400; called "Ilgalraeb," 101; slain treacherously, 225, by his own people, 78, 369, by Macbeth, 65, 152, 175, 180, 206, 289, 302; buried at Iona, 152, 175, 289, 302, 305.
 Duncan, Dungall, son of Dubain, king of Dalriada, 20, 59.
 Duncan, son of Eoganan, dies, 69, 346.
 Duncan, son of Eoganan, put to death, 351.
 Duncan II., son of Malcolm III., king of Scotland, lxiv. 132, 175, 181, 206, 252, 289, 296, 300, 305; banished by Donald Bane, 211; obtains the throne by the help of William Rufus, clv. 225, 253; slain by Malpeder, son of Lorn, count of the Mearns (earl of Moray, 211; Mar, 289), 175, 181, 206, 289, 303, by Donald and Edmund, his sons, 170, 370; buried at Iona, 207.
 Duncan, son of Malcolm, 119; had no existence, xlivi.
 Duncan, grandson of Moenag, abbot of Hi, dies, 371.
 Duncan, son of Morgan, mormaor of Alban, 77.
 Duncan, grandson of Ronan, dies, 71, 350.
 Duncan don, king of Dalriada, 20; called Donald don, 60.
 Duncan m-becc, king of Kintyre, death of, at the battle of Ardeanesbi, 74, 355.
 Duncan O Erull, slain, 367.
 Duncan O'Rubacan, comarb of Hi, dies, 365.
 Duncath, Dunchal, Dunchath, Dunekach. See Duncan.
 Dunerub. See Dorsum Crup.
 Dnndalethglas, 81.
 Dundee (Dundee, Forfarshire), castle of, 214; Edgar dies at, 289.
 Dundeana, siege of, 352.
 Dundurn (on Loch Earn), stronghold and chief seat of Fortrenn, cxx. cxxxvi.; error in regard to its identification, cxxxvi. n.; Constantine, son of Donald, reigns at, cxxxix. 88, 89; Grig, son of Dungal, dies at, 87, 151, 174, 178, 288, 301; siege of, cxix. 351.
 Dunedin, Dunedenn (Edinburgh), xxii.; abandoned to the Scots, cxlii. 10; castle of, 214; Edgar dies at, 175, 181, 289, 303.
 Dunegal, 131. See Dungal.
 Dunekeldyn, 303. See Dunkeld.
 Dunenensis cella (at Dunning, Perthshire), the abode of St. Servanus, 419.
 Dunevaldus. See Donald.
 Dunfermline (Fifeshire), 206; kings buried there; Malcolm Canmore, 289; Donald III., son of Duncan, 175, 207, 303; Edgar, 175, 207, 289, 303, 306; Alexander I., 175, 207, 290, 303, 338; David I. and Malcolm IV., 175, 207, 290, 303, 306; Alexander III., 208, 290, 303.
 Dunfurther (Duunnottar, in the Mearns), xxii.; cbief seat of the Mearns, cxx. cxxxvii.; Athelstane penetrates to, cxl.; besieged, cxix. 351, 352; Malcolm, son of Donald I., slain at, cxlii. 93; Donald II., son of Constantine, slain at, cxxxix. 9, 90.
 Dungal, 59. See Duncan, son of Dmbain.
 Dungal, son of Fergus, 197. See Domangart.
 Dungal, son of Selvach (Heogled, 172), king of Dalriada, cxxix. 20, 61, 131, 149, 172, 177; (called Donald) 198, 288; (called Congal), 305; driven from the throne by Alpin, and restored, clxxxvii. 74; his expedition to Torraighe and Cumeneraighe, 75, 366; burns Taipirt Boetter, 356; made prisoner by Angus, cxxx. 75, 357; exiled to Ireland, cxxx. cxxx. 357.
 Dungall, king of Dalriada, 60.
 Dunghel, 149. See Dungal, son of Selvach.
 Dungnaire, 87.
 Dungnal hen, king of Strathclyde, xv. 15, 16.
 Dungual moilmuit, son of Garbaniaun, 16.
 Dunismoen, 175. See Dunisun.

- Dunkeld, 8 ; plundered by the Northmen, exl. 9 ; entirely burned, 368 ; church of, built by Constantine, king of the Picts, 201, 202 ; diocese of, lxxxiii. ; for some time had the primacy, clxii. ; abbots of, 361, 404, Crinan, 78, 152, 175, 180, 206, 289, 302, 369, Duncan, 364 ; Donald III., son of Duncan, buried at, 175, 207, 303.
- Dunleithfinn (probably a Dun at Leitfie), destroyed, 357.
- Dunloche (Dunlochy), battle at, 350, 402.
- Dunmonaidh, a name of Dunadd, cxv.
- Dunnagual, king of Strathclyde, 15.
- Dunnagual, Dyfnwall, son of Tendubr, king of Strathclyde, dies, 15, 124.
- Dunnichen, Duin Nechtan (Forfarshire), defeat of Ecgfrid at, cxix. 72, 351, 402.
- Dunnottar. See Dunfurther.
- Dunollaig, Duinonlaigh (Dunolly, Argyllshire), the chief seat and stronghold of the Cinel Loarn, cxiv. ; built by Selvach, 73 ; destroyed by him, 353 ; Talorgan, son of Drostan, taken near, cxxxvi. 357.
- Dunsion, Dunismoen, 289.
- Dunstaffnage, cxiv.
- Dunwallo, Dunwallawn, king of Strathclyde, slays Staterius, king of Scotland, 222 ; goes on a pilgrimage to Rome, 124 ; his two sons divide the kingdom, 223.
- Duordegel, 285 ; Duordegall, 172. See Deoord.
- Duplyn (Dupplin, Perthshire), battle of, 389.
- Duptalach, son of Bergib, 187.
- Duramon. See Durham.
- Durham, bishop of, 275 ; battle at, 389.
- Durst, 248. See Unuist.
- Dustalorg, 287, a corruption of the names of Drest, son of Constantine, and Talorgen, son of Wthoil.
- Dutigirn, king of the Britons, fights against the Angles, 12.
- Dyfnwall, son of Teudur, 124. See Dunnagual.
- Ea, 68. See Hi.
- Eachach, 315. See Eocho rimeamhail, Eochoig angbhaill.
- Eachdach, son of Loingsich, 317.
- Eactan, king of the Picts, 74. See Necton.
- Eadbyrth, son of Aetan, 12.
- Eadfered Flesanr, king of Deira and Bernicia, xci. 11, 12, 13.
- Eadfrid, son of Eadguin, 11.
- Eadgar, Eagar. See Edgar.
- Eadguin, Etuin, Edain, Edwyn, son of Alli or Ulli, king of Bernicia, xci. xcii. 11 ; takes Elmet, 13 ; the first convert among the Saxons ; baptized by Rnn, son of Urbgen, clv. 13, 14, 69 ; Paulinus, bishop of his kingdom, 341 ; rules the whole of Britain ; is defeated, 70, slain at the battle of Meicen, 11, 14, Haethfelth, Hatfield, xcii.
- Eadric, son of Ida, 11, 12.
- Ealga, 41.
- Ealric, Ealdric, son of Ida, 11.
- Eamain, Embain, Eumania, Umania, Eufania, the Ulidians in ; their return from, 67, 345.
- Eanfled, wife of Osgnid, king of the Angles, 11.
- Eanfled, daughter of Eadguin, baptized, 13.
- Eanfred. See Anfraith.
- Eanfrich, brother of Etalfrach, slain, 68.
- Earlsferry (near Elie, Fifeshire), 214.
- Earn, river (Perthshire), 84, 88, 98.
- Earn, Loch, cxxxvi.
- Earthquake, great, in Eubonia, 15 ; in Britain, 71, 349 ; in Isla, 357.
- Easter, observance of, changed at Hi, 73, 354.
- Eata Glinmaur, son of Liodgnald, 12. See Aetan.
- Elbdon, king of Lochlan, dies in Orkney, 374.
- Eber, 196. See Heber.
- Eber Scot, 145. See Iber Scot.
- Eberiaco, Sea, 196.
- Ebind, son of Endos, 16.
- Ebro. See Hyberus.
- Ebusus (Iviqa), 108.
- Eccach, 133. See Eocho buidhe.
- Eccach alldethan, Eccachalt-lethan, son of Elela-cassieclai, 134, 144.
- Eccachandoth. See Achachantoit.
- Eccath rothai, 144. See Ethach.
- Ecclesgreig (in the Mearns), church dedi-

- cated to St. Cyricus, probably built by Grig, xxxvii.
- Ecadach, 316. See Eochaid, son of Murchadh.
- Ecadach, Eochu, grandson of Donald; battle between his family and Selvach at Irois foichne, 355; put to death, 352.
- Eedaig luadaig, 134. See Ethbach Rothay.
- Eggbirth, first bishop of the North Angles, 12.
- Egfrid, son of Osbiu, Osguid, king of the Angles, cxix. 11, 12; defeated and slain by Brude, king of the Picts, cxix. 11, 72, 351, 402.
- Eggulf, son of Eadric, 12.
- Echach, 133. See Eocho rineamhail.
- Echach buide, 144. See Eocho.
- Echach muindremhar, muinremuir, muinremor, 18, 58, 133, 144, 315, 316; his two sons, 308.
- Echa find, 144. See Aeda fin.
- Echdach, son of Cudini, king of the Saxons, goes on pilgrimage, 356.
- Echdach buide, 168. See Eocho.
- Echdach riada, son of Conere mor, 134, 144.
- Echfird, 11. See Egfrid.
- Echodus, 9. See Eochoid, son of Run.
- Echtgach, son of Nechtan, 137.
- Echuidh, 347. See Eocho.
- Echnn, son of Adlsing, 12.
- Ectolarg, son of Foothit, 71. See Talorc, son of Wid.
- Edain, 168. See Eadguin.
- Edain, Edam, Edan, Edane. See Aidan.
- Edalbus, 130. See Aeda Fin.
- Elaunanus, 417. See Adomnan.
- Edelred. See Ethelred.
- Eden, oppidum, Edenbore. See Dunedin.
- Eders, son of Luchtach etothlach, 144.
- Ederskeol, Eterseenil, Etersceoil, son of Eogan, Ewen, 134, 144, 315.
- Edgar, king of the Anglo-Saxons, his claim of superiority over Scotland; princes of the Scots and Britons row his galley, 224.
- Edgar, son of Malcolm III., 132, 175, 181, 207, 212, 289, 296, 300, 303, 306, 337, 387; banished by Donald Bane, 211; raised to the throne by the help of William Rufus, clxv. 225, 253; dies, 371, at Edinburgh, 175, 181, 303, Dundee, 289; buried at Dunfermline, 175, 207, 289, 303, 306.
- Edguin, 11. See Eadguin.
- Edh, Edha. See Aed.
- Edhan, 287. See Aidan.
- Edhennauus, 416. See Adomnan.
- Edhfin, 287. See Aeda Fin.
- Edinburgh. See Dunedin.
- Editb, 305. See Eocho bnidhe.
- Edmund Ironsides, his alleged superiority over Scotland, 224; his grand-daughter married to Malcolm Canmore, 383; his sons sent by Knut to (Olaf) king of Sweden to be put to death; they are spared, and sent to Hungary, 210; treacherously slain by Edric, 210.
- Edmund, son of Edmund Ironsides, escapes the fate intended for him by Knut, 210.
- Edmund, brother of Athelstane, subdues Cumbria and gives it to Donald, son of Constantine, 204, to Malcolm, son of Donald, cxli.
- Edmund, son of Malcolm III., 220, 387; becomes a monk at Montacute, and dies there, 132.
- Edom, 305. See Aidan.
- Edom, son of Glas, 134, 144.
- Edred, king of the Saxons, the Scots swear fealty to, 234.
- Edric, son of Ida. See Eadric.
- Edric, Edmund Ironsides slain by, 210.
- Edus. See Aed.
- Edward, son of Alfred the Great, alleged Lord Paramount of Scotland, 223.
- Edward, son of Edmund Ironsides, 210.
- Edward the Martyr, his claim of superiority over Scotland, 223.
- Edward the Confessor, 210; alleged overlord of Scotland, 225.
- Edward, son of Malcolm III., 210, 387; slain by the Normans (Franks), 141, 370.
- Edward I. of England, 211; made arbiter by the Scottish nobles as to the succession to the crown of Scotland, 338; collects chronicles relating to Scotland, lxxv.; his letter to Boniface VIII. claiming superiority of Scotland, lxi. 221; homage said to have been done to him by Alexander III., 217, 228; but only for lands in England, 217, 223, 259; and refused for Scot-

- land, 276; refutation of his claim of superiority, 232; his disregard of the Papal intervention, 270; his remark on the subject, 260, 277; places John Baliol on the throne of Scotland, 228, 307; and receives his homage, 229; defeats Baliol and subdues Scotland, 231; carries off the Stone of Destiny, 197, the Great Seal, 283, and the records of Scotland, 266; his barbarity to the inhabitants in his invasion of Scotland, 219, 267, 293; restores Edward Baliol to the throne, and receives territory on the border in recompense, 297. Edward of Caernarvon, betrothed to Margaret of Norway, 217, 262, 275, 301. Edwyn, 341. See Eadguin. Ega, Ego (island of Egg, Hebrides), burning of Donnain of, 69; Oan, chief of, 355. Egbert, unites the seven kingdoms of the Saxons, 213. Egbert procures the adoption of the Roman usage (as to Easter and the tonsure), 342. Egelred, 224. See Ethelred. Eggunus, son of Hungus, 202. See Uven, son of Unuist. Egypt, Scots come from, 109, 117, 146, 197, 241, 280; Gaizilglas from, 333, 378, 379. See Scota. Eibhlinne, 48. Eillim olfshinachta, king of Erin in Tara, 320. Eirc, 133. See Erc. Eire, 48, 100. Eithni, daughter of Cinadon, dies, 358. Elair, 35. Elcata-olcaim, Elchada-olchain, son of Siroe, 134, 144. Elela-arami, earin, son of Fiachra, 134, 144. Elela-cassieclai, son of Conleth, 134, 144. Elfin, king of Strathclyde, xv. 15. Elgyn (Elgio), castle of, in Moray, 214. Eliopolis, fountain at, 412. Ella, king of Deira. See Alli. Ellatig, son of Corpre-crumpchimi, 134. Ellela, son of Jair, 134, 144. Elmet (a district of Yorkshire), taken by Eoguin, 13. Elpin, king of the Picts, joint king with Drest, cxxiv. clxxxvi. 7, 29, 74, 309; defeated by Angus, son of Fergus, clxxxvi. 74, 75, 355. Elpin, son of Ecach, 144. See Alpin. Elpin, Alpin, son of Wroid, Feret, Eferadheche, king of the Picts, cxxiv. 7, 29, 400; reason why he is called king of the Saxons, cxxvi. n.; dies, 358. Elpin, abbot of Glasnайдin, 76. Elured, 223. See Alfred. Ely, the prophet, 222. Embata. See Enmocha. Emidinh, Eno-duf, son of Edom, Etheon, 134, 144. Emma, wife of Canute, 210. Euchegall, Enchgall. See Insi-gall. Enegus, Engussa. See Angus. England laid under interdict, 388. Engus, Engussa. See Angus. Enmocha, Embata, son of Tigernagh, Thier-nai, 134, 144. Enna, son of Erc, 308. Eno-duf, 134. See Emidinh. Eoa, 73, 354. See Hi. Eobba, son of Pippa, king of Mercia, 11, 12; slain at Cocboy, 14, 15. Eocha, abbot of Lismor, dies, 70, 347. Eocha, son of Iarlait, king of the Crnithne, dies, 349. Eochach, son of Aidan, slain, 68. Eochach, son of Echach, king of Dalriada, cxxx. clxxxvii. 74; dies, 75. Eochaid. See Eocho buidhe, Eocho rineamhail. Eochaid, son of Alpin, dies, 9. Eochaid, son of Lorn mor, 312. Eochaid, son of Muredach, son of Lorn, 313, 316: his five sons, 314. Eochaid, son of Olchu, 309. Eochaid, Cinel, one of the subdivisions of the Cinel Lorn, 313, 372. Eochaig angbhaid, Echach, Heochet, Heogled anuine, Herghed annune, Eogadanin, Eochal, Eokal, Eoged venenosus, son of Aeda Fin, king of Dalriada, cxxix. 20, 130, 133, 144, 149, 172, 177, 288, 315, 335. Eochal, 130. See Eocho rineamhail. Eochal venenosus, 130. See Eochaig ang-bhaid. Eocho, son of Angus mor, 311. Eocho buidhe, Eochaid, Echach, Ecach, Eochod flavus, Heoghedbad, Hlethghed-bud, Eokebrid, Elith, Eogledbod, son of

INDEX.

- Aidan, king of Dalriada, cxii. n., 19, 60, 130, 133, 144, 148, 171, 287, 305, 315, 335; his eight sons, 310.
- Eocho find, son of Aidan, his eight sons, 310.
- Eocho rineamhail (Eachach, Eochaid, Ecadach, Eocbal habens curvum nasum, Etal, Heched monaile, son of Donenghark, Heoghed monanel, son of Dondghart, Heochet rounael, Eorhetinen, son of Douengard), son of Domangart, king of Dalriada, cxxi. 20, 61, 130, 133, 148, 171, 287, 305, 335.
- Eochoid, son of Indulf, slain by the Britons, 10.
- Eochoid, son of Run, and grandson of Kenneth mae Alpin, king of the Scots, cxxxv. 9, 21, 87; described in the "Prophecy of St. Berchan" as the "Tuiltigh," cxxxvi. 87; driven from his kingdom, 9.
- Eogadannin (Eocho anuine), 335. See Eoch-aig anghbaid.
- Eogan, Ewen, son of Aillella, 134, 144, 315.
- Eogan, son of Ferchar, 335.
- Eogan, son of Fergus salaig, numbers of his gens, 313.
- Eogan, son of Gabran, 309; dies, 68, 346.
- Eogan, Owan, son of Glunndl, 134, 145.
- Eogan, Ewen, Noegaw, Heodgau, Heoch-gain, Geoghan, son of Muredach, king of Dalriada, 130, 171, 287, 335.
- Eogana, son of Hungus, 150. See Uven, son of Unnist.
- Eoganachts, 368.
- Eoganan, son of Angus, king of Dalriada, cxxxii. 21, 62; slain, clxxxviii. exc. 360.
- Eoganan, son of Tuathalan, dies, 71, 349.
- Eoged, 335. See Eochaig anghbaid.
- Eoghan, Cinel. See Eochaid, Cinel.
- Eogledbol, 335. See Eocho bruidhe.
- Eoguin. See Eadguin.
- Eokal venenosns. See Eochaig anghbaid.
- Eokebrid, 198. See Eocho bruidhe.
- Eorhetinen Danel, 198. See Eocho rineamhail.
- Eoua, 14. See Eobba.
- Ephesus, 107.
- Epscop, Escop, Alban, title of the bishop of St. Andrews, clviii. 190.
- Ere, daughter of Loarn, 52.
- Erc, Erch, son of Echach muindremhar, lxiii. 133, 144, 248, 315, 316, 317; son of Scota, 241; his twelve sons, 17, 142, 308; six of them pass over into Alban, and become chiefs there, 18, 32, 59, with 150 followers, 308; six remain in Erin, 308.
- Erchada, son of Aldoit, 134, 145.
- Erchbi, 33.
- Erero, Iretro, son of Moalgi, 134, 144.
- Ergadia. See Argyll.
- Ergheche, son of Achfin, 197. See Fergus, son of Aeda Fin.
- Erlan, 58.
- Eric, king of Northumbria, receives Cadroe at York, 116; alleged to have been placed over the Scots, 224.
- Erimon, 39. See Herimon.
- Erin, lxxv. exc. 23, 24, 31, 36, 39, 40, 45, 46, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 73, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 104, 125, 308, 319, 320, 321, 328, 360, 365, 374, 398, 404; Cairnech the first martyr, monk, and Brehon of, 56; provincial kings of, slain by Mac Erca, who assumes the sovereignty, 56; the chiefs of the Picts men of, 329; Saxon depredations in, 343; kings of, civ. 127, 320, 366, 372, 401.
- Erlesterie, 214. See Earlsferry.
- Ermon, son of Miscel-espaine, 145. See Dermeom.
- Ernan, grandson of Ecilub, put to death, 357.
- Erne, Loch (Ulster), xcii. 108.
- Erth, son of Echad, 248. See Erc.
- Ern, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 397.
- Escop Alban, the title, elxiii. 190.
- Esk, river (Midlothian), the west boundary of Northumbria, lxxix.
- Ersau, son of Regicht Scoth, 145.
- Esro, son of Boid, 134.
- Esro Ethech, son of Aduir, Abiur, 134, 145.
- Esseg, Eseth, Essy (Essie in Strathbogie), Lulach slain at, 152, 175, 180, 289, 302.
- Essex, in Danelaga, 154.
- Etain. See Caeredlin.
- Etal, 305. See Eocho rineamhail.
- Etalfraith, victorious at Caerleon; dies immediately afterwards, 68.

- Etar Liandu (on the Avon near Linlithgow), battle at, 357.
- Etersceuil, 133. See Ederskeol.
- Efrit, Etgfird. See Ecgfrid.
- Egwin. See Eadguin.
- Ethach Rothay, Ecdraig buadaig, grandson of Symon Brek, 133, 144. See Rathus.
- Ethelfred. See Etalfraidh.
- Ethelred, king of England, his claim of superiority over Scotland, 224.
- Ethelred, son of Malcolm III., 210, 387.
- Etheoir, Etheor, son of Jair, Jairol, 134, 145.
- Etheon, son of Glachs, 144. See Edom.
- Ethioch (Lough Neagh), exci. 108.
- Ethiopians, war against the Egyptians, 378.
- Etin, 347. See Caeredin.
- Etirsecoil, 315. See Ederskeol.
- Etuin, son of Ailli, 70. See Eadguin.
- Etulb, son of Ecuiib, dies, 354.
- Etulb, king of the north Saxons, dies, 363.
- Etun, son of Elle, 69. See Eadguin.
- Eubouia. See Isle of Man; Manand.
- Eudanarus, 417. See Adomnan.
- Eudelen, son of Aballac, 16.
- Eudos, son of Eudelen, 16.
- Eufauia, 345. See Eamain.
- Euganan, son of Angus. See Eoganan.
- Euganan, son of Totalain, 349. See Eoganan, son of Tuathalan.
- Eugein, king of Strathclyde, xcvi. cxxii. 15.
- Eugenius, king of the Cumbri, subject to Athelstane, 224.
- Eumania, 345. See Eamain.
- Enoracum. See York.
- Euphrates, river, 118.
- Eustace, Comt of Boulogne, marries Mary, daughter of Malcolm III., 131.
- Evea, 108. See Hi.
- Everwykshire (Warwick), in Danelaga, 154.
- Ewain, 305. See Ewen, son of Ferchar.
- Ewen, 144. See Eogain, son of Aillella.
- Ewen, Ewain, son of Ferchar, Heoghain, Heodgan, Congan, son of Findan, king of Dalriada, 130, 149, 171, 177, 287, 305.
- Ewen, Heochgain, Geoghan, son of Murcertach, Muredach, king of Dalriada, 130, 171, 177, 287, 305.
- Faelan, son of Maelduin, 169. See Flann.
- Faelbe, 347. See Failbe.
- Faelchu, son of Dorbene, abbot of Hi, 74, 354, 401; dies, 74.
- Failbe, abbot of Hi, 73; goes to Ireland; dies at Hi, 72, 350, 402.
- Failbe, son of Eocho buidbe, 310; slain, 69, 347.
- Failbe, son of Guaire, successor of Maelruba at Aporcrosan, drowned, 76, 357.
- Fain Laibe, 321.
- Faiteach, father of Cadroe, 109.
- Falargan, son of Denegus, 150. See Talorgen, son of Onnist.
- Faleg, Fallaig, son of Etheoir, 134.
- Falkirk, battle of, 389; parish of, in the ancient district of Calathros, lxxx.
- Fan-na-long, on the Boyne; Murcertach mac Erca lands there, 56.
- Fasis. See Phasis.
- Fathecht, son of Japhet, 24, 323.
- Fawkirk, 389. See Falkirk.
- Fea, Febach, slain by the Cruithueach, 36, 38. See Tuatha Fidhbha.
- Fearchar. See Ferchar.
- Feargna mac Caiblene, dies, 67.
- Fechelmach, 144. See Fedelinthe.
- Fecir, Brude, 5, 26, 397.
- Fedelinthe aslingig, son of Oengus buidig, 133, 144.
- Fedelinthe ruamnaich, son of Senchormac, 133, 144.
- Fedhaeoin, Fedha-euin, battle of, 69, 347.
- Feidlimidh, 316. See Feidlimidh.
- Feidlimidh, abbot of Hi, 74, 355.
- Feidlimidh, son of Aedan, dies, 353.
- Feidlimidh, daughter of Briuin, wife of Donnangart, 309, 316.
- Feidlimidh, son of Eocho Find, 310.
- Feidlimidh landoit, son of Cingi, 315.
- Felix, one of the companions of Regulus, 187.
- Femin, battle of, 343.
- Fene, the, 46, 47.
- Fenius-farsaid, son of Eogan, 134.
- Fentone, John de, 291.
- Fer, son of Confer, 15.
- Fera, son of Esrau, 145.
- Ferach, son of Bacoc, 287. See Wrad, son of Bargoit.
- Feradach, abbot of Hi, dies, 169.

INDEX.

- Feradach, son of Cormac, abbot of Hi, dies, 362.
 Feradach, son of Eochaid, numbers of his gens, 314.
 Feradach, son of Eocho find, 310. See Fergus.
 Feradach, son of Fergus, 316.
 Feradach, son of Muredach, 52.
 Feradach, son of Nechtlech, dies, 351.
 Feradach, son of Selvach, taken prisoner, 36, 357.
 Feradach finlegh, 285; Ferdach syngal, 149. See Wradech uecla.
 Feradagh, son of Aillella eraind, 134, 144, 315.
 Feradagh, son of Congal, put to death, 351.
 Feradagh, Feredach, son of Tuathal, death of, 73, 351.
 Feradags, son of Badoghe, 202. See Wrad, son of Bargoit.
 Ferard, 335. See Ferchar Fada.
 Ferat, Pictish kings of the house of, their special connexion with the district of Gowrie, cxxvi.
 Ferat, son of Batot. See Wrad, son of Bargoit.
 Feratagh. See Feradach.
 Ferbasach, an epithet applied to Kenneth mac Alpin, cxxxiii. 83.
 Fercar, 130. See Ferchar.
 Ferchar, Fearchar, Fercar, Ferthar, Ferkar, Ferquharth, son of Conaing, Kinat, Euin, Cuin, king of Dalriada, cxii. n., 19, 60, 130, 148, 171, 287, 305, 310, 335; death of, 352.
 Ferchar, son of Fhingin, 317.
 Ferchar, son of Muredag, 317.
 Ferchar Fada, Fearchar, Fergar longus, Fercar foda, Ferthar Foda, Ferard, king of Dalriada, cxxi. 20, 61, 72, 130, 148, 171, 287, 305, 310, 317, 335; death of, 73, 352; battle between his sons, 74.
 Fergal, son of Donald, dies, 349.
 Fergal, son of Fogertach, king of Cairpre-mor, 77.
 Fergna, abbot of Hi, dies, 69, 168, 347.
 Fergna, son of Angus mor, 311.
 Fergna, son of Fergus salaig, numbers of his gens, 313.
 Fergus, Erghecke, Feralach, son of Aeda Fin, Hedralbus, Hethfin, Achfin, king of Dalriada, cxxix. 20, 130, 149, 172, 177, 198, 288, 305, 310, 335.
 Fergus, son of Barot, 150. See Wrad, son of Bargoit.
 Fergus, son of Colum, 316.
 Fergus, son of Eocha, king of Dalriada, dies, 359.
 Fergus, son of Mailcon, dies, 353.
 Fergus beg, son of Erc, 18, 308, 310.
 Fergus mor, son of Erc, Eric, Erth, Her, Herc, Herth, Ferchar, Ferhard, king of Dalriada, clxxi. clxxii. clxxiv. clxxvii. clxxviii. 18, 44, 59, 130, 133, 138, 144, 148, 171, 287, 304, 308, 309, 311, 315, 317; defrauded by his brothers of his inheritance, seeks the intervention of St. Patrick, who predicts that he should be king, 17, 142; carries the Stone of Destiny to Scotland, and is elected king, x.; takes possession of Dalriada, x. 66, 143; seizes the crown, 381; the first who called himself king of Scotland, 197, 335; reigned in Inchegall, and from the sea to Drumalban, xi. 130, 137, 148, 171, 287, 304, 334; first bore the lion rampant as the royal device of Scotland, 331, 381; date of his reign, 331.
 Fergus salach, son of Lorn mor, 312; his five sons, 313.
 Fergus salach, Cinel, a subdivision of the Cinel Lorn, 313.
 Fergus ulag, son of Fiachach tathmail, 315.
 Ferich, Ferit, son of Totalain, dies, 71, 348.
 Fermoy, king of, 368.
 Ferot, son of Finguin, slain, 355.
 Ferquharth, 335. See Ferchar, son of Conaing.
 Ferroid, son of Firranroid, Firrocht, son of Anroth, 134, 144.
 Fertebeith, 301; Fertenioth, 288; Ferten-yoth, 204. See Forteviot.
 Fertham, son of Murdathe, king of Dalriada, 149.
 Ferthar. See Ferchar.
 Ferthen, son of Decili, 73. See Necthon, son of Derilei.
 Ferthevioth, 177. See Forteviot.
 Fet, Brnde, 5, 26, 325, 397.
 Fethelinach, 114. See Fed-linthe.

- Fetherkern, 152. See Fettercairn.
 Fethertaunethn, 151; Fethirthant, 301. See Forteviot.
 Fethyrkerne, 179. See Fettercairn.
Fettercairn, Fetherkern, Fethyrkerne, Foithkerne, Foitherkern, Forthkerne, Forchirkern (in the Mearns), Kenneth, son of Malcolm, slain there, by treachery of Finuele, 152, 175, 179, 289, 302.
 Fetteresso. See Fordresach.
 Fevanecherthe, king of the Picts, 149. See Carvorst.
 Fhingin, son of Eachdach, 317.
 Fiacha, son of Angus mor, 311.
 Fiacha, son of Baedan, a king of the Cruithneach, who reigned in Tara, civ. 320.
 Fiacha albus, Fiacna, Fiachna le blank, Fyahor, king of the Picts, 149, 172, 200, 285.
 Fiachach firmara, son of Angus turbig temrach, 315.
 Fiachach tathmail, son of Feidlimidh lamdoit, 315.
 Fiacha le blank. See Fiacha.
 Fiachea, son of Demain, slain by Conad Cerr, 69, 347.
 Fiachra, son of Dungal, slain, 354.
 Fiachra, son of Erc, 308.
 Fiachra, Erenach of Ili, dies, 365.
 Fiachrach cathmail, son of Echdach riada, 134, 144.
 Fiachrach chraich, son of Baidan, death of, 68, 346.
 Fiachrach laibrinne, son of Finergnайд Smirnai, 134, 145.
 Fiacna albus. See Fiacha.
 Fial, wife of Lughadh, 49.
 Fib, Fibh, Fibaid, son of Cruthne, 4, 24, 25, 323, 324, 396; represents in the Pictish legend the province of Fife, ciii.
 Fidaich, Fidach, son of Cruithne, king of the Picts, 4, 24, 25, 396.
 Fieeach-bolgai, son of Sinon-brich, 144.
 Fife (county of), lxxxiv. lxxxv. clxiv. 136, 316; its extent, 214; Duncan, earl of, 291; Servanus comes to, 201, 416, and founds several churches there, 417; Fib in the Pictish legend represents, ciii.
 Finach, lord of Erin, takes hostages of the Cruithneach, 24.
 Finamail, son of Osseoi, 352.
 Finan, grandson of Duncan, king of Dalriada, put to death, 352.
 Finan, son of Rimeda, bishop, his missionary labours in the north of England, 250; dies, 71, 349.
 Finchem, wife of Unnist, dedicates the palace at Monikie to St. Andrew, 185.
 Findfece, Findachai, son of Achircir, 134, 144.
 Findgao, son of Deleroith, slain, 73, 354.
 Findle, 75, daughter of Cunnuchar. See Finuele.
 Findoll cisirne, king of Erin at Tara and Kells, 320.
 Finechta, king of the Cruthne of Ireland, cii. 25, 324. See Olfinecta.
 Finella. See Finuele.
 Finergnайд, son of Smereta, 134.
 Fingalach (the fratricide), epithet applied to Kenneth, son of Malcolm, cxliv. 96.
 Finglene. See Finuele.
 Finguine, battle at, cxxx. 74, 355.
 Finguin, son of Deleroith, 354. See Findgain.
 Finguin, the long, dies, 381.
 Finuleoch, son of Ruadri, king of Alban, slain by his own people, 368.
 Finuele, Findle, Finella, Finglene, Fumel, daughter of Cunthar, thane of Angns, betrays Kenneth, son of Malcolm, cxliv. 152, 175, 179, 205, 289, 302.
 Fionn (white), epithet applied to Culen, son of Indnlif, cxliii. 95.
 Fiounlaoch, 63. See Finlaech.
 Firaibrig, son of Labchore, 134.
 Firanroid, son of Firaibrig, 134.
 Firbolg, take possession of Manand, 23; Heremon makes an alliance with, 50.
 Firce-charroid, Firketaroch, son of Ferrod, Firrocht, 134, 144.
 Flaithebertach, son of Loingsech, king of Erin, defeated by Aed Allan, sails to Ireland with the fleet of the Dalriada, 75; brings a fleet out of Fortrenn, 401.
 Flaithebertach O'Brolcain, invited to be abbot of Ili, 372.
 Flann, son of Cinnaelad, pnt to death, 353.
 Flann, son of Maeleduin, abbot of Ili, dies, 169, 362.

- Flann, son of Maelsethnall, 9.
 Flann fionn, son of Ossa, king of the Saxons, dies, 402.
 Flann Mainistreach, his "Synchronisms," notice of, xxx. text, 18; "Continuation," notice of, xli. clxvi.; text, 119.
 Flannobra, comarh of Hi, dies, 368.
 Flatruea, son of Fiachrach, king of the Cruithne, dies, 358.
 Floclaid, Fodla, Fotla, Foltlaid, son of Cruithne, 4, 24, 25, 323, 324, 396; in the Pictish legend represents Atholl, ciii.
 Fodla, Foltlaid, Fotla. See Floclaid.
 Fogso, son of Feradach, 144. See Forgo.
 Forays, 205. See Forres.
 Forchirkern, 179. See Fettercairn.
 Forchu, 43. See Forth.
 Fordresach (Fetteresso, in the Mearns), xxii. 93; Malcolm slain at, cxlii. 10.
 Fordun, John of, his Scotichronicon continued by Bower, ix. lxii. lxvi. lxix.; mss. and editions of, lxii.; object of his work; his treatment of the chronology and succession of kings, with the view of giving high antiquity, clxxvii. clxxx. clxxxii. clxxxiv.
 Forfar, county of, lxxxiv. lxxxv.; castle of, 214.
 Forgo, Fogso, son of Feradagh, 134, 144, 315.
 Forranach (the oppressor), epithet applied to Malcolm, son of Kenneth, cxlvii. 99.
 Forres, Fores, Foreis, Foreys (Morayshire), Dubh murdered at, 151, 174, 179, 205, 289, 302.
 Fortcherrn, 76. See Fortrenn.
 Forteviot (Perthshire), Fertebeith, Ferteuioth, Fertenyoith, Ferthevioth, Fetherthauethn, Fethirthant, Fothuirtabaicht, Kenneth mac Alpin dies at, cxxxiii. 8, 151, 174, 177, 204, 288, 301; Regnlus brings remains of St. Andrew to, 185; Unuist dedicates a church there to St. Andrew, 186.
 Forth, Forchu, Foch, river, 118; called Werid and Scottewattre, 136; formed the southern boundary of ancient Scotland, lxxxviii. n., lxxxvi. lxxxvii. cxlviii. 153; of Pictavia, clxxxii.; Picts conquered Alban from Caithness to, civ. 43; northern boun- dary of Northumbria, lxxix.; of Deira, 153; eastern boundary of Calathros, lxxxi. cxv.; passages of, fortified, cxliv. 10; Servanus reaches, 416.
 Forthkerne, 289. See Fettercairn.
 Fortola (a plain in King's county, Ireland), battle of, 345.
 Fortrend, Fortrenn, son of Cruithne, 4, 25, 323, 324, 396; in the Pictish legend represents the district of Fortrenn, ciii.
 Fortrenn (a district of Scotland north of the Forth, comprehending Strathearn and Menteith), cxx. 17, 76, 102, 401; Britons of, 45; taken possession of by the Cruthneach as their swordland, 319; war in, between Aed and Kenneth, cxxxi. 358; connexion of the later kings of Dalriada with, cxxxii.; their stronghold of Dundurn. See Dundurn. Men of,—cxxxii.; Grig slain by, cxxxvi. 88; the Gentiles attack, clxxxviii. 360; plundered by the Lochlans, 405; defeat the Lochlans by the aid of St. Columba, 405. Kings of, cxxii. 72, 73, 76, 352, 358, 359, 360, 401, 402; Tuathal, of Dunkeld, primate of, 361, 405.
 Fortrenn, Magh (the plain of Fortrenn), cxlii.
 Fothach, Fothet, Fothud, bishop of the Scots, 190; dies, 10, 370.
 Fother, oppidum, 9. See Dunfurther.
 Fotherdunn (Fordun, in the Mearns), Donald, son of Constantine, defeats the Gael at, 90.
 Fotherkern, 175, 179. See Fettercairn.
 Fotherts, 326.
 Fothet, Fothud. See Fothach.
 Fothreue (Fothris or Fothreve, a district of Scotland embracing Kinross and part of Fife), lxxxiv. lxxxv. 136.
 Fothuirtabaicht, 8. See Forteviot.
 Fotla, son of Cruithne. See Floclaid.
 Fotla, 48.
 Fodnain (Ottadeni), promontory of, 57.
 Foyle, Longh, 80.
 France, 24, 54, 120, 163, 281, 325, 378, 383, 416; subjugated by the Romans, 384; date of its conquest by Charlemagne, 387.
 Franks, make war on Murcertach mac Ercia, 56; slay Malcolm, son of Duncan, 170 (see Normans); enter Alban, 370.

Fraser, Alexander, 291.
 Frederick II., emperor of Germany, 388.
 Freg, numbers of the township of, 312.
 Frenchmen come first into Scotland, 390.
 Friodoguald, Friodulf, son of Ida, king of Bernicia, xci. 12.
 Froch. See Forth.
 Fuindenam, son of Lorn mor, 312.
 Fuirechtagh, chief of Insi Coil, dies, 357.
 Fumel, daughter of Cunithar, 206. See Finuele.
 Fursa, St., the vision of, 69; death of, 348.

GABRAN, CINEL, one of the three great clans of Dalriada, 312; inhabited Argyll proper, Kintyre (Cowall), and the Isles, cxiii. 314; number of their fighting men, 312; their genealogy, 316; sea fight between them and the clan Loarn, 74, 355.
 Gabran, Goueran, Gouren, Couran, Cobran, Conerham, Constan, son of Domangart, Dungart, Dungal, king of Dalriada, 19, 59, 130, 133, 144, 148, 171, 287, 305, 315, 316, 335; his death, 14, 67, 167, 344; his five sons, 309.

Gaedel Ficht, son of Murcertach mae Erea, provincial kings of Britain and Cornwall descended from, 55.
 Gael, the, 8, 21, 24, 32, 58, 87, 90, 93, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 137, 322, 372; their origin, 45-47; great battle with the Galls, 366; Brian, king of the Gael of Erin, Gall, and Britain, 366.

Gaelic language, so called from Gayelglas, 378, as invented by him, 146; in Scotland, confined to the Highlands, 341.

Gaelus. See Gaidelus.
 Gaethelglass, name Gael derived from, 137.
 Gai Campus (probably in the north of Bernicia), slaughter at, cxvii. 13, 15.

Gaidelus, Scots called, from Gaidelus, 166; from Wandali, 166.

Gaidelus, Gaelus, Gaythelos, Gaizilglas, Gaethelglass, Gayelglas, Gaidil-glaiss, Gettelglas, son of Neolus, king of Athens, 134, 145; marries Scota; arrives in Spain, and builds the castle of Brigance; discovers Ireland; returns to Brigance and dies there, 195; instructs his sons to occupy Ireland; his sons called Scotti, 196;—skilled in languages; marries Scocia; gives name to the Irish nation (Gaidel), and invents their language (Gaidelach), 146;—marries Scota, leaves Egypt in time of Moses with many followers, 378; goes to Spain, to Portugal, settles on the banks of the Ebro, sends his son Eber to Ireland, 380;—(Gaizilglas), a Scythian, exiled from Egypt, goes to Spain, carrying with him the Stone of Destiny, which had been Pharaoh's, 333; the name Ergadia compounded of Erc and Gaidelus, 241.

Gaillsighe, an epithet applied to Donald mae Alpin, cxxxiv. 84.

Gaizilglas, 333. See Gaidelus.

Galam, 172; Galamarbith, 399. See Galanan erlich.

Galam cennaleph, Galum cenamlaeph, Talalad, Tagaled, Tagalad, Talagach, king of the Piets, 7, 28, 150, 173, 200, 286.

Galan, Galan arilith, Galanan erlich, Galany, king of the Piets, 7, 28, 172, 200, 285, 399.

Galewey, 215. See Galloway.

Galfridus. See Geoffrey.

Gallgael, formerly called Northmen, 404; associated with the Danes in their ravages, cxviii.; worse than the Northmen to the churches in Ireland, 404; their fleet defeated by Aedh, king of Ailech, 403; by Cerball, 404.

Gallghaedel, Celtic name of Galloway, lxxix. Galloway, Galewey, Galweidia, Galweya, Galwydel, Gallghaedel, clxxxv. 154; its extent, situation, and names, lxxix. lxxx. 215; one of the five divisions of Scotland in the twelfth century, lxxxvi. lxxxvii. 154; the Piets occupy it, cvii. 164; Chalmers' opinion as to the Piets of, cviii.; Alpin subdues it, clxxxiv. clxxxv. clxxxvii. 149; Scots under Redda seize it, cxii. 202, 298; kings of, 77, 369, Rolland, 373, Allan, 374; Carlisle formerly in the diocese of, 255.

Galls (foreigners), 84, 99, 100, 102, 362; battle with the Britons, Albanich, and Saxons, 364; driven out of Manand, 128; plunder Ili, 169; king of, 367.

- Galls of Erin and Alban, 361.
 Galls of the Isles, three of their ships destroyed by the men of Ulster, 371.
 Galls of Lochdaceaech (Waterford) expelled from Erin, invade Alban, 363.
 Galls of Lochlan and Athcliath, great battle with the Gael under Briao and Maelsechlan, 366 ; Galls of Athcliath under Somerled slaughtered, 372.
 Galls of Orkney, the Hebrides, and Dublin attack the Saxons, 78.
 Galwegians, with Maelsechnall, fight against the Gentiles ; defeated by Imhar and Amlaib, 360.
 Galweidia, Galweya. See Galloway.
 Galwydel, Welsh name of Galloway, lxxix.
 Gamaldebold, king of the Picts, 200. See Gartnaith loc.
 Ganat, son of Gigurum, 172. See Garthnach, son of Girom.
 Gant, Brude, 5, 26, 324, 397.
 Gantebreggeshire. See Cambridge.
 Garbaniaunn, son of Coil hen, 16.
 Garbh (the rough one), epithet applied to Donald, son of Constantine, cxxxviii. 89, 90.
 Garnach, son of Dosnach, 187.
 Garnach, son of Ferath. See Garnath.
 Garnald, son of Dompnach, 201. See Gartnart, son of Domech.
 Garnard, son of Ferat. See Garnath.
 Garnard, son of Gigurnus, 200. See Garthnach, son of Girom.
 Garnard, Gartnait, son of Wid, Foith, Oith, king of the Picts, cvi. 5, 28, 317, 399.
 Garnard dives, le riche, 172, 200. See Gartnaich diuberr.
 Garnat, son of Deileroit, dies, 354.
 Garnath, Garnard, Garnach, Carnach, son of Ferath, Ferach, Feradhegh, king of the Picts, cxxiv. cxxv. cxxvi. n., 150, 173, 201, 286.
 Garnathbolus, 172. See Gartnaith loc.
 Gart, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 397.
 Garthnach, Gartnait, Garnard, Gauach, Gannat, Canath, son of Girom, Gigurum, Gigurnus, Gygnru, king of the Picts, 7, 28, 150, 172, 200, 286, 399.
 Gartnaich diuberr, Gartnait diuperr, Canath dives, Garnard dives, Garnard le riche, Ganiach dives, king of the Picts, 6, 28, 149, 172, 200, 285, 398.
 Gartnaidh, son of Aedan, 310, 316.
 Gartnain, son of Foith, Oith, 347. See Garnard, son of Wid.
 Gartnait, son of Accidan, 348.
 Gartnait, son of Domech, 28, Domnach, 399. See Gartnart.
 Gartnait, Gernath, Garnard, Garcuad, son of Donnel, king of the Picts, cvi. 7, 28, 150, 172, 286, 399 ; death of, 71 ; voyage of his sons to Ireland, 71, 349 ; their return, 71, 350.
 Gartnait, son of Girom, 28. See Garthnach.
 Gartnait, son of Uuid, 28. See Garnard.
 Gartnait bole. See Gartnaith loc.
 Gartnait diuperr. See Gartnait.
 Gartnait ini, 27. See Garnart.
 Gartnaith loc, Gartnait bole, Gernarg bolg, Gernathbolus, Gamaldebold, Gercnath, bolgh, king of the Picts, 6, 27, 149, 172, 200, 285.
 Gartnart, Garntait, four kings of that name following Gartnaith loc, 6, 398 ; Gartnart, iii, written Garnait ini, 27.
 Gartnart, Garntait, Carnac, Gerner, Garnaill, Gauich, son of Domelch, Domech, Dormath, Dompueth, Dompnach, Donath, Domnach, king of the Picts, 7, 28, 150, 173, 201, 286, 399 ; death of, 68.
 Gathelos, 330. See Gaidelus.
 Gatt, 396. See Cait.
 Gattheli (Gael), Irish and Scots, so called from their leader, Gaethelglass, 137, or Gaidelus, 146.
 Gauach, son of Gygurn, 285. See Garthnach.
 Gauich, son of Donath, 285. See Gartnart, son of Domech.
 Ganiach dives, 285. See Gartnaich diuberr.
 Gaul, subdued by Arthur, 247, 281.
 Gauls, 108, 140 ; their fair complexion, 395.
 Gawann, Govan, son of Loth of Lothian, 382.
 Gayelglas, Gaythelos. See Gaidelus.
 Gayelige, 378. See Gaelic.
 Gayus, a companion of St. Adrian, 424.
 Geascuirti, 396. See Gest gurcich.
 Gechbrond, son of Beornee, 11.
 Gedgeworthe, 214. See Jedburgh.

- Gede, king of the Picts. See Gilgidi.
 Gede olgdach, Geide olgothac, king of the Picts, 5, 396; ruled Erin in Tara, great peace in his time, 321.
 Gedwdle, Gedwrd, Gedworth. See Jedburgh.
 Geibioac O'Dubagan, king of Fermoy, slain, 368.
 Gelasius, a companion of Regnulus, 187.
 Geleoин, Gleoin, son of Ercal, clan of (the Cruithneach), 323; his children occupy Orkney, 23.
 Generatius, brother of St. Servanus, 412, 413.
 Geno, death of his grandsons, 345.
 Gentiles, 85, 105, 363; slay the family of Hi, 359; Blaimec suffers martyrdom by, 360; war between Maelsechnall and, 360.
 Gentine, son of Caplene, 11.
 Geoffrey, count of Anjou, 211.
 Geoffrey of Monmouth, notice of his History, change in the traditional history of the country effected by its publication, xliii.
 Geoghaο, son of Murdac, 171. See Ewen, son of Muredach.
 Gercnath bolgh, 285. See Gartnaith loc.
 Germans, their national costume, 395.
 Germany, 4, 319, 322, 394-410; the Saxons invited by the Britains from, 165.
 Gernard, son of Dompneth, 173. See Gartnart, son of Domelch.
 Gernarg bolg, 149. See Gartnaith loc.
 Gersene, slain, 367.
 Gest guriech, gurid, Geascuirti, king of the Picts, 5, 26, 324, 396; should probably be reckoned as one of the Brudes, cv.
 Getae or Goths, 3, 393, 395.
 Gettel-glas, 145. See Gaidelus.
 Gewictis, the only inhabitants found by Iber in Ireland, 380.
 Gidgie, Brude, 397.
 Gildas, dies, 14, 67, 167, 344; his account of the inroads of the Scots and Picts on the Britons, 164; "Historia Brittonum" ascribed to, xxiv.; quoted with reference to the Pictish monarchy, cv., to the last incursion of the Picts, cviii., incursions of the Scots, cix.
 Gilgidi, Gud, Gede, king of the Picts, 5, 27, 149, 172, 200, 285, 398; said to have been the first king in Alban, 27, 398.
 Gillacaenihin, the Irish translation of the "Historia Brittonum," ascribed to, xxxii.; the "Duan Albanach" ascribed to, xxxvii.
 Gillaciaraу, son of Gluniaran, king of the Galls, 367.
 Gillacolaim, grandson of Canandan, king of the Cenel Conall, makes a foray, 77.
 Gillacomgan, son of Maelbrigde, 317; mor-maor of Moray, burnt, 368.
 Gillas, 67, 344. See Gildas.
 Gilchrist O'Maeleorad, comarb of Iona, dies, 369.
 Gille Caor, king of Ireland, 160.
 Giraldus Cambrensis, xxi.; the "Description of Scotland" ascribed to him, but apparently without reason, l.; his "Topographia Hibernie," iii.; extracts from, 142; his work "De Instrunctione Principium," liv. cxc.; extracts from it relative to the destruction of the Picts by the Scots, 163.
 Gircin, 319. See Circinn.
 Girg, Girgh, Girig, 151, 301, 400. See Grig.
 Girgin, 319. See Circin.
 Girus, 175. See Grig.
 Giulgis, son of Sguerthing, 11.
 Glachs, son of Noethach-fail, Glais, son of Nuadat-fail, 134, 144.
 Glaities, 302. See Glammes.
 Glammes, Glemmis, Glaities (Glammis, Forfarshire), Malcolm, son of Kenneth, dies at, 152, 175, 180, 302, (Slines) 289.
 Glasgow, Robert, bishop of, 219; Carlisle formerly in the diocese of, 255; the chief seat of the church of Strathclyde, cliv.
 Glatenelon, the British name for Somersetshire, 154.
 Glemmis, 175. See Glammes.
 "Glendaroch, Book of," referred to, xxxi.
 Glenlemua (the Vale of Leven, Dumbartonshire), Dalriada slaughtered at, 73, 353.
 Gleoin, son of Ercol, 23. See Geleoин.
 Glinne Mairison, Glinne mureson (probably in West Lothian), cxv.; battle of, 70, 347.
 Glodianus, companion of St. Adrian, martyr, 424.
 Glonin, 145. See Glunud.
 Glunmerach, son of Taran, 187.

- Glnoud, Glouin, son of Lanind, 134, 145.
 Gnith, Brude, 5, 26, 324.
 Goedeli, 8. See Gael.
 Gofraig, son of Aralt, king of Insigall, slain by the Dalriada, 77, 365.
 Goidil-glais, 134. See Gaidelns.
 Golorg, son of Madoleg, 172. See Talorg, son of Mnircholaich.
 Goodall, Walter, his edition of Fordun, lxxii.
 Got, son of Cruithne, 4. See Cait.
 Gothbirth (Godfrey), grandson of Imhar, 363.
 Goths, origin of the name, 3, 145, 393; their territory, 4; their bodies painted, 395; the Picts a tribe of, 163.
 Goueran, Gouren. See Gabran.
 Gouerin, Gowrie (a district of Perthshire), xxxiv, lxxxv, clxiv, clxxxiv, 136.
 Govan. See Gawann, 382.
 Gragabai, Earl, expelled from Erin, invades Alban, 363.
 Graham, David de, 291.
 Graham, John de, 291.
 Graham, Patrick de, 291.
 Grant, Brnde, 324. See Gant.
 Grat, son of Jumetel, 16.
 Gratian and Valentinian bring the Picts from Scytoia to Britain, 163.
 Gray, James, priest of the diocese of Dunblane; his transcript of the "Chronicle of the Scots and Picts," lii.; text, 148.
 Greece, 121.
 Greeks, St. Andrew the apostle of the, 138; come as pilgrims to St. Andrews, 140; allies of the Egyptians, 398; Scots descended from, 379.
 Greg, 336. See Grig.
 Gregorius. See Grig.
 Gregory the Great, Augustine sent by him to evangelize the Angles, 422; his instructions as to the metropolis and bishops of the newly formed church of the Angles, 341.
 Gregory IX., Pope, enjoins observance of the obligations of the kings of Scotland towards the kings of England, 226; only for their fiefs in England, 258, 282.
 Gregory, son of Dungall, 250. See Grig.
 Gregour, 386. See Grig.
 Grid, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 397.
 Grig, Gryg, Girg, Girig, Greg, Gregour, Grigorius, Ciriic, Carns, Tirg, son of Donald, Dungal, king of the Scots lxvi, cxxxvi, cxxxviii, cxlvii; 9, 21, 29, 131, 151, 174, 178, 204, 209, 287, 288, 295, 299, 301, 305, 336, 400; called in the "Prophecy of St. Berchan" the "MacRath," 88; relation of his name to St. Cyricus, cxxxvii.; church of Ecclesgreig probably built by him; error of Chalmers in regard to him, cxxxvi. n.; frees the church of the Scots from the influence of the Piets, 151, 174, 178, 204, 288, 301, 305; subjugates Ireland and great part of England, 250, 277, as far as the Thames, 385; Aed slain by him in Strathallan, 151, 174, 178, 204, 288, 301; dies at Dundurn, 151, 174, 178, 288, 301; slain by the men of Fortrenn, cxxxv.; buried at Iona, 151, 174, 288, 301, 305.
 Grig, Greg, Grim, Grym, Girus, son of Kenneth, son of Dubh, king of the Scots, probably reigned along with his father, cxlv, 175, 179, 206, 289, 296, 302, 336; called in the "Prophecy of St. Berchan" the Donn, 98; slain by Malcolm, son of Kenneth, 175, 180, 206, 289, 302; buried at Iona, 175, 289, 302.
 Gruchne, 285. See Cruthne.
 Gruth, 397. See Grid.
 Grnoch, daughter of Boede, her right to the throne, cxlvii.
 Gryg, 295; Grym, 179. See Grig.
 Guaire, son of Angus mor, 311.
 Guaire Gaillsech, son of Forannain, falls in battle, 70.
 Guairi, son of Cindtai, 315.
 Gualenses, British refugees in Wales so called, from their queen Gualoe, 304.
 Guallauc, king of the Britons, 12, 16.
 Gub acquires great power in Erin, 31, 328.
 Gud, said to be the first king of Alban, 27, 398. See Gilgidi.
 Guendote (Gwynnydd), 12, 13; part of Cambria, 153.
 Guidid gaed brecbach, Guididh gaeth bretnach, Guidid gabre, Guidit gabre, king of the Piets, 5, 25, 324, 397.
 Guido de Columpna, his Story of Troy, 379.
 Guipno, son of Dungnal hen, king of Strathclyde, xciv. 15.
 Gulak, 306. See Lulach.

- Gulan, Galan, son of Bairfind, 311.
 Gunderic, receives Cadroe at Leeds, 116.
 Guoden, 11.
 Guortigern Guorthenau, 161. See Vortigern.
 Guotepaue, son of Tecmant, 16.
 Gureit, king of Alclyde, xciv.; dies, 349.
 Gurgust, son of Coil heo, 16.
 Gurguyns, son of Belinus, king of Britain, 195.
 Gurth, 153; in Danelaga, 154.
 Guurci, Gwrgi, slain, 14, 161.
 Gwydyl, Picts married wives of, xcix. 123.
 Gwydyl Fichti, Fichtieit (Scoti Picti), xlv. xlix. c. cxviii. 123.
 Gwysmeuruc, 122. See Westymar.
- HAAN, king of the Britons, 72. See Hoan.
 Hadnachten, 186.
 Hampshire, in Wessenelaga, 154.
 Hardeknot, king of England, 210; superior of Scotland, 224.
 Hardy, T. Duffus, quoted, xxviii. xlvi. li.
 Harold (Harefoot), king of England, 219; superior of Scotland, 224.
 Haya, Gilbert de, Constable of Scotland, 291.
 Hearne, Thomas, his edition of Fordun, lxii.
 Heber, eldest son of Gaidel and Scota, gives name to Ireland, 166, 196, 380; he and Herimon overrun Erin, 50; takes the south of Ireland as his portion, 51.
 Hebrides, xciii. 78. See Insi-Gall.
 Heched monanle, son of Donenghark, 148. See Eocho rineamhail.
 Hed, 131. See Adc.
 Hed abbus, son of Ewen, 177. See Aeda Fin.
 Hedaldus, 305. See Aeda Fin.
 Hefenfelth, xcii. See Catscaul.
 Hegmund, king of Wessex, receives Cadroe at Winchester, 116.
 Helena, mother of Constantine the Great, 133.
 Hengest, Hengist, comes to Britain, 387.
 Henry I., king of England, 131, 225, 252; marries Matilda, daughter of Malcolm III., 211.
 Henry II. of England, son of the Empress Matilda, 211, 385; invades Cumber-
- land, Northumberland, and Westmoreland; builds a cathedral at Carlisle, 255; marches against Toulonse, 212; William the Lyon and his nobles do homage at York to, clxix. 226.
 Henry III. of England, 211; seeks assistance from Alexander, king of Scotland, 216, 260, 276; receives homage of William the Lyon, 225; and of Alexander III., 228.
 Henry, son of David I., prince of Scotland, Earl of Huntingdon and Northumberland, 133, 144, 181, 207, 213, 296, 300, 337; king of Scotland, lxvii. 306; marries Ada de Warenne, 211; does homage to Stephen, king of England, 225; for the honour of Huntingdon, 254; visits St. Andrews with his father, 193; falls at the battle of Cochon; buried at Kelso, 181, 337.
 Heochetanine, 288. See Eochaig angbhaid.
 Heochet rounael, 287; Heoghed monanel, 171. See Eocho rineamhail.
 Heochgain, 287; Heodgan, 171; Heogham, 149; son of Findan. See Ewen, son of Ferchar.
 Heochgain, son of Muredach, 287. See Ewen.
 Heoghedbad, 171, Heokobude, 287. See Eocho buidhe.
 Heogled annine. See Eochaig angbhaid.
 Hercules, 379; pillars of, 108, 292.
 Herefordshire, in Danelaga, 154.
 "Hergest, Red Book of," referred to, xliv. xlvi. liv.
 Herghed annune, 149. See Eochaig angbhaid.
 Herimon, Cruithneach come to Erin in his time, 125; drives Gub and Cathluan (the Cruthneach) from Erin, 31, 39; marches against the Tuatha Dea, 48; makes alliance with the Firbolg, 50; he and Heber overrun Erin; he takes the north of Ireland as his share, 51; gives wives to the Cruithneach, 39, 47, 126, 328.
 Herodotus, his account of the Scythians (Scotti), referred to, 299.
 Herth, 148. See Erc.
 Hetfin, 335; Hethfin, 171; Hethfyne, son of Heorhet, 149. See Aeda Fin.

INDEX.

- Hethghed bud, 148. See Eocho buidhe.
 Heyfrid receives Cadroe, 116.
 Hi, Icolmucille, Iona, Eoa, Iea, Ja, 81; the chief seat of the Columban Church, cl.; given to St. Columba by Conall, son of Comgall, cxi. 67, 167, 345; Columba sails thither, 67; dies there, 68; the observance of Easter changed at, 73, 354; the community receive the coronal tonsure, 74; are driven by Necton across the Dorsum Britanniae, 74, 354; Scots takes possession of, 108, 118; plundered, 168, by the Galls, and the bishop slain, 169; the community slaughtered by the Gentiles, 359; martyrdom of Blaimec, 360; plundered by the Danes, and the abbot and fifteen of the community slain, 365; six of the community perish in a gale of wind, 352; boat belonging to, wrecked, 358; certain of the community lost in a gale of wind, 76, 358; the Culebad drowned in going to Ireland, 369. Abbots of—Baithen, 168, 346; Lasren, 68; Fergna, 69, 168, 347; Adomnan, 69, 347; Seigine, 70; Suibne, son of Cuirthre, 71; Cumaine ailbe, 71; Failbe, 72; Adomnan, 73; Duncan, 73; Dorbeni, 73; Faelchu, son of Dorbeni, 73, 74, 354, 355, 401; Duncan, son of Cinsaeladh, 74; Feidhlimidh, 74; Cillenus longus, 74, 355, 401; Ciline, son of Congal, 76; Sleibine, 76; Feradach, 169; Faelan (Flann), 169; Conan, son of Failbe, 353; Duncan, grandson of Moenag, 371; Maelbrigd, 366; Bresal, 359; Cellach, 359; Diarmait, 359, who goes to Ireland with reliquaries of St. Columba, 360; Inrech-tach, carries them to Ireland, 360; his martyrdom among the Saxons, 169, 360; the abbot (grandson of Baetan) slain, 370. Comarbs—Mugroin, 169, 365; Ferdomnach, 169, 366; Cormac, son of Foelan, 169; O'Maillardagh, 78; Dub-tach, Dubdnin, Robertach, Dubsnile, 364; Duncan O'Robacan, Dubdalethc, 365; Muredach O'Crican, 366; Flannobra, 368; Robertach, son of Ferdomnach, Malmure O'Uchtan, Gilchrist O'Maeldorad, 369; Donald, son of Robertach, 371; Coede, bishop of, 73, 354; Muredac, son of Huaingaile, oconomus, 359; Cilline droictigh, 76, Angus O'Donallan, 371, chief anchorites; Augustine, chief priest, Dubsidi, lector, hermit Mac-gilladuibh, chief Culdee Mac Foircellaigh, invite Flaithbertach O'Brolcain to become, abbot, 372; the great priest dies, 372; Kings buried there, 151, 152, 174, 175, 180, 204, 205, 206, 207, 288, 289, 301, 302, 305, 306, 409.
- Hibernia, the ancient name of Ireland, lxxv. Hiberni. See Irish.
 "Hiberniae Topographia" of Giraldus, lii.; extracts from, 146.
- Hiberus. See Hyberus.
- Hieridach, Arcthech, son of Aoth, 134, 145. Higden, Radulf, xx. lvii.; his "Polychronicon" referred to, 385; quotes the "Pictish Chronicle" in his "Polychronicon," xix.; quotes from the "Description of Scotland" as the work of Giraldus, l., and also as that of Marianus, l.; quoted with reference to the destruction of the Picts, exc.
- Hilef, river (probably the Isla, or the Liff, Perthshire), lxxxv. 136.
- Hircania, 4, 394.
- Historech, 23.
- Historend, son of Historrim, 23.
- Hoan, king of the Britons, 70, 72, 348.
- Holdoun Hill, 389. See Halidon Hill.
- Holland, Ada, daughter of Prince Henry, married Florence, Count of, 337.
- Homage, alleged by Edward I. to have been rendered by kings of Scotland to those of England, 224-230; shown to have been rendered only for fiefs in England, 252.
- Homecolens (Holmeclulram) abbey founded by David I., 388.
- Honic, island of, ravaged, 75.
- Honorius III., the king of Scotland described as liegeman of the king of England, in a rescript of, 258; ordains that all appeals from Scotland shall lie to the Holy See only, 263, 274.
- Horsa comes to Britain, 387.
- Howonam, son of Unuist, 185.
- Huasem, 41. See Uaisnemb.
- Hubert, archbishop of Canterbury, 227.
- Hugune mor, 144. See Ugaide mor.

- Humber, king of the Huns, invades Albania, and slays Albanactus; is drowned in the Humber, 222.
- Humber, river, southern boundary of Northumbria, lxxix. 154; of Deira, 153.
- Hungus, son of Fergus. See Unust.
- Hungus, son of Fergus, king of the Picts, 287.
- Huns, Humber, king of the, 222.
- Huntedonshire (Huntingdon), in Danelaga, 154.
- Huntingdon, Huntingdon, earldom of, acquired by David I. through his wife, lx.; bestowed on William the Lyon, 144; Henry, earl of, lx. 207, 254, 337.
- "Huntingdon, Chronicle of," account of, lxi.; text, 209; part of compared with Fordun, clxxxix.; quoted with reference to Alpin and Kenneth, clxxxvii.
- Hurgurst, 248. See Unust.
- Hussa, son of Ida, king of Bernicia, xci. 12.
- Huwal (Howel, subregulus of Wales), one of the priores who rowed Edgar's barge on the Dee, 224.
- Hyberus, Ibire (the Ebro), name Hybernenses derived from, 144, 166, 241; Gayelglas settles near it, 380.
- Hyhatnouhten Machehirb, 186.
- "Hy Many, Book of," lxviii.
- Hyona. See Hi.
- Hywell dda, laws of, referred to, xlvi.
- I BER SCOT, son of Gayelglas, 145, 380. See also Heber.
- Ibb Cennselaigh, 30. See Cennselaigh.
- Ibire, river, 380. See Hyberns.
- Icalnanc, son of Eoganan, 172. See Selvach, son of Eogan.
- Ieathirsí, 323. See Agathirsí.
- Icht, sea of, 57.
- "Icolmkill, the Chronicle of," x.
- Ida, son of Eobba, king of Bernicia, lxxxix. xc. xci. 11, 12; forms the kingdom of Bernicia, xc.
- Iea, 68. See Hi.
- Ila, 23; Ili, 357. See Isla.
- Ild, monastery of, 354.
- Ildoilb, Ildnilb. See Indulf.
- Igalrach (the diseased), epithet applied to Duncan, son of Crinan, 101.
- Ilirii sinus (the Adriatic), 107.
- Illob. See Indulf.
- Im, son of Pern, champion of the Cruithneach, 31, 41, 329.
- Imar, Imbar (Ivar), king of the Norsemen of Britain and Ireland, defeated by the Albanich, 406; defeats Caithil Fin, 360; with Amlaib takes Alc Clyde, 361; returns with Amlaib from Alban to Dublin, 361, 405; dies, 362.
- Imbar O'Imair, slain by the men of Fortrenn, 362.
- Imleach Senaich, 356.
- Imlech Ibhair, 127.
- Inber Boinde, 50. See Inver Boinne.
- Inber Feile, 50.
- Inbher Colptha, 48.
- Inbher Scene, 49.
- Inbher Slaine (Wexford), seized by the Cruithneach, 30, 36, 125, 325.
- Inbhir Dubbroda, 86. Inverdufatha.
- Inchgaall, 77; Inchgall, 148; Incbegall, 130. See Insigall.
- Inchil, one of the princes who rowed Edgar's barge on the Dee, 224.
- Inclyta, 107.
- Indel, Indolf, Indolp, Indulf, son of Constantine, king of the Scots, cxlii. cxlii. 10, 22, 62, 131, 151, 174, 179, 205, 210, 289, 295, 300, 302, 306, 314, 336; called in the "Prophecy of St. Berchan" the "Ionsaightheach," 94; slain by the Norwegians at Invertolan, cxlii. 151, 174, 175, 205, 289, 302, 306; died at St. Andrews, 94; buried at Iona, 151, 174, 289, 302.
- India, 4, 394.
- Indians, their attire, 395.
- Indrechtaig, grandson of Finechta, abbot of Iona, carries the reliquaries of St. Columba to Ireland, 360, 403; suffers martyrdom from the Saxons, 169, 361.
- Inertolan, Inercolan, Innircolan, Indulf slain there, cxlii. 151, 174, 179, 289, 312.
- Inguec, son of Aluson, 11.
- "Inisfallen, the Annals of," notice of, liv.; extracts from, 167.
- Inis Metgoit, 70. See Medcaut.
- Inisowen ravaged, 373.

- Inistarbhna (an islet off the coast of Cork), 403.
- Innercolan, Innircolan. See Inertolan.
- Innisholsia, Uilibcollan, battle between the Danes and Scots, cxxxix. 9.
- Innes, Cosmo, referred to, xvii.
- Innes, Thomas, referred to, xviii. 47, 49, 55, 69, 70, 71; his "Critical Essay," xii.
- Innocent IV., Pope, 388; repels the demand of the king of England with reference to the coronation of the king of Scotland, 264, 273, and for a tithe from the kingdom of Scotland, 265, 273; lays it down that appeals from Scotland shall be to the Court of Rome only, 263, 274.
- Innocents, law of, 352, 355.
- Inogen, the wife of Brutus, 121.
- Inrechtaich, battle of Dromacathmail against, 337.
- Inrechtaich, abbot of Iona. See Indrechtaig.
- Insi Coil, Furechtagh, lord of, 357.
- Insi-Gall, Insegal, Inchegall, Inchgaal, Enchebagh (the Hebrides), 153; in Danelaga, 154; called by the Norwegians Sudreyar, lxxvii.; included in the kingdom of Dalriada, 137, 148, 171, 197, 287; Galls of, 78; men of, slaughtered, 372; Gofraig, son of Aralt, king of, 77; Diarmed, king of, 78; Fergus, king of, 197, seized by Donald, son of Tadg, 170.
- Inveraldan, Inveralden (Alnemouth), Malcolm Canmore slain at, 175, 289.
- Inveramon. See Rathinveramon.
- Inver Boiane, Inber Boinde (the mouth of the river Boyne), 42, 50.
- Inverofacta, Inverdnfatha, Merdofatha, Werdfata, Inbherdubhroda, Constantine, son of Kenneth, slain at, cxxxv. 85, 86, 151, 174, 178, 288, 301.
- Invertolan. See Inertolan.
- Inveruacht, the rock of, 318.
- Inveraldan, 175. See Inveralden.
- Iohann, Iolm, bishop of Cindgaradh (Kincarth), dies, 72, 351.
- Iona. See Hi.
- Ionsaightheach. See Jonsaightheach.
- Ireland, 3, 5, 27, 72, 73, 75, 76, 108, 120, 170, 349, 350, 351, 352, 355, 356, 357, 358, 361; the Scots come from Egypt to; find it peopled by giants, 241; discovered by Gaidel, 194; occupied by his sons; called Hibernia from Heher, the eldest of them, 196; Iber Scot, son of Gayelglas, sent to; finds it occupied only by the Ge-wictis, whom he destroys, and calls it Scotia, after his mother, 380; called Scotia, 164, 380, 393, Scotia Major, 380, the Island of the Scots by Isidore, 241, Hibernia, Ibernia, from Heber, Iber, 166, 196, 380; the name Scotia applied to Ireland alone before the tenth century, lxxv. lxxvii.; Hibernia its ancient name; in Gaelic, Erin; Welsh, Yverdon, lxxv.; the name Ireland first used in the tenth century, lxxvii.; Symon Brek comes to, 196, 303; Piets obtain wives from, 123, 160, 164, 199, 298; plundered by the Saxons, 167; subjugated by Grig, son of Dungal, 151, 174, 204, 301; ruled by the Brudes, 325; kings of, 146, 160, 196, 282, 348.
- Irgalacb, grandson of Conaing, slain by the Britons, 353.
- Iriall Glunmar, son of Conall Cernach, nephew of Cruithne, 318, 319.
- Irish, the, called Gattheli (Gaels), 137; Scots and Gaedeli, 146; Hibernenses from Heber, or from the river Iberus, 146; the origin of their language ascribed to Gaidelus, hence called Gaidelach, 146; St. Patrick preaches to, 152; their attacks upon Argyll, 137.
- Irois Cuissine, 150; Pictish ships wrecked at, 75.
- Irois foichne (Rossfeochan), battle of, cxxx. 355.
- Irrus, Donn dies there, 49.
- Irvine. See Orewin.
- Ishundema, 186.
- Isidore of Seville, his "Origines," xix.; extracts from, illustrating the "Pictish Chronicle," 393.
- Isla, Ilia, Illi, island of, occupied by the Firbolg, 23, 43; the Cenel Concridbe in, 310; first occupied by Mnredach, son of Angus beg, 311; earthquake in, 357.
- Isla river (tributary of the Tay), lxxxv.
- Italy, St. Boethius goes to, 410.

- Itaverna, Gayelglas comes to, 380.
 Itharnan, dies, 71.
 Inden (probably in or near Manann), expedition against, cxvii. 13.
 Iudraus, king of the Britons, slain in battle, 70, 347.
 Ivette, daughter of Lambert de Loun, and mother of Matilda, wife of David I., 211, 213.
- J, 67, 366. See Hi.
 Jacob, son of Beli, slain at Cair Legion, 14.
 Jacob, one of the vassal princes who rowed Edgar's barge on the Dee, 224.
 Jactan, son of Dergert, 201. See Neethon, son of Derilei.
 Jafeth, son of Noe, 24, 134, 145, 323, 330, 332.
 Jair, son of Agmemnon, 144.
 Jair, son of Dedad, 134, 144, 315.
 James, patriarch of Jerusalem, 414.
 James, Earl of Douglas, 291.
 James I., 340.
 James II., 340.
 Jarnlagh, abbot of Lismore, dies, 352.
 Jason, 4, 393.
 Je, Jea. See Hi.
 Jedburgh, Gedwde, Gedwrd, Gedworth, Gedeworthe, Jedward, Jedwarth, Jedworth, Malcolm, son of Henry, dies there, 175, 182, 207, 290, 303; castle of, in Tyndale, 214; abbey, founded by David I., 388.
 Jernusalem, destroyed by Titus, 387; St. Servanus, patriarch of, 414; John, patriarch of, 421.
 Joceline, his "Life of St. Patrick," lli. 142.
 Johann, 72. See Iolan.
 Johanna, queen of Alexander II., 211.
 John, patriarch of Jerusalem, 421.
 John, bishop of St. Andrews, driven from his diocese; Clement III. interferes in his behalf, 226.
 John, king of England, homage done by William I., king of Scotland, to, 226, 227; makes peace with William, 213.
 John XXII., Pope, letter from the barons of Scotland, to, 291.
- John, abbot of Peterborough, his allusion to a work by Ailred of Rievaulx, lvii.
 John, St., of Beverley, archbishop of York, miracle wrought at Dunbar through his intercession, 223; the tradition denied, 251, 282.
 Jonsaightheach (the aggressor), epithet applied to Indulf, son of Constantine, cxlii. 94.
 Joshua, Robert Bruce compared to, 293.
 Julius Cæsar, 382; did not conquer Scotland, 386.
 Jumetel, son of Retigirn, 16.
 Jrnanus, a companion of Regulus, 187.
- KALIXTUS II., Pope, appoints the archbishop of York metropolitan of the Northumbrians and Scots, 342.
 Karanothrecht, king of the Picts, 172, 285. See Carvorst.
 Karleil, 290; Karleol, 254. See Carlisle.
 Kartenan, 140.
 Katenes, Katensis, Kathanessia. See Caithness.
 Keð, island (Inchkeith, in the Firth of Forth), 416.
 Keith, Kethe, Robert de, Mareschal of Scotland, 291.
 Keledei. See Culdees.
 Kelhiran, son of Gigurum, 172. See Cailtriam.
 Kells, Macnia O'Uchtan, lector of, 369.
 Kelso, Kelton, Calcouia, Prince Henry buried at, 181, 337.
 Kelturan, son of Gigurum, Gygurn, 150, 286. See Cailtriam.
 Kemeseye, 231.
 Kenath, 175. See Kenneth.
 Kenbray, Konerlay, in Orkney (Kerrera, Argyllshire), Alexander II. dies at, 207.
 Kenech, son of Feradbach, 202. See Kenneth, son of Ferat.
 Kenech, son of Sugthen, 201. See Cinioch, son of Lutrin.
 Kened, 336. See Kenneth.
 Kenek, 200; Kenne, 285. See Cinge.
 Kenneth I., Kynet, Kyned, Kinat, Kinnart, Kynad, Kynach, Kened, Cinaed, son of Alpin, king of the Scots, cxxxiii.

INDEX.

- clxviii. clxxii. clxxiv. clxxvi. clxxvii.
 clxxviii. clxxxii. clxxxiii. 8, 21, 29, 44,
 62, 131, 134, 137, 144, 151, 174, 177,
 203, 204, 209, 288, 295, 299, 301, 305,
 315, 335, 336; reigns in Dalriada, 8;
 his kingdom and its capital, cxxxvii.;
 date of his accession, clxxxviii. 334; his title, "first king of the Scots," clxxiii.
 177; called, in the "Prophecy of St. Ber-chan," "first king of the men of Erin," and the "Ferbasach," exc. 83; called, in the "Irish Annals," "king of the Picts," cxxxv. 361; his mother a Pict, clxxxvii.; two royal families, which reigned alternately after Grig, sprung from him, exlv.;
 subjugates the Picts, clxxxvii. clxxxviii.
 8, 84, 151, 174, 177, 288, 299, 301, 305, 336, 383, while the Danish rovers invaded their coasts, clxxxvii. excii. 209;
 invades the Saxons, and burns Dunbar,
 8; extends his kingdom to the Tweed, expelling the Britons and Angles, without opposition from the kings of England, and calls it Scotland, 203, 299; transports the remains of Columba to Dunkeld, clxii. 8;
 dies, clxxxviii. 361, 404; at Forteviot, 8, 84, 151, 174, 169, 177, 204, 288, 301;
 buried at Iona, 151, 174, 204, 288, 301, 305.
- Kenneth, son of Derili, put to death, 73.
- Kenneth III., Kynet, Chineth, Cinaed, son of Dubh, Duf, king of the Scots, cxlv.
 22, 29, 63, 131, 210, lxvi. 295, 300, 400;
 slain, 366.
- Kenneth, son of Ferat, king of the Picts, clxxxix. 150, 173, 202, 287.
- Kenneth, son of Finuele, 152, 175, 206, 289, 302.
- Kenneth II., Kynach, Kynaldus, Kyned, Kinet, Kinec, Kened, Kynnath, Cinadlus, son of Malcolm, king of the Scots, cxliv.
 cxvi. 10, 22, 29, 63, 131, 133, 144,
 152, 174, 179, 205, 289, 295, 302, 306,
 315, 336, 400; called, in the "Prophecy of St. Berchan," the "Fingalach," 96; ravages part of Strathclyde; invades Northumbria; carries off the son of their king; fortifies the passages of the Forth; dedicates Brechin, cxliv. 10; slays Am-laim, son of Illuilb, 77, 365; is himself
- slain, 77, 169, 365, at Fettercairn, by the treachery of Finuele, daughter of Cunchar, 152, 175, 179, 206, 289, 302; buried at
 Iona, 306.
- Kenremore, 336. See Malcolm Canmore.
- Kent, Cheshire, in Wessanelaga, 154.
- Kentigern, St., brought the gospel to the district of Carlisle, 255; came from Llanelwy, and re-established Christianity in Strathclyde, cliv.; influence of the church founded by him on that of Northumbria, clv.
- Kentigerna, daughter of Ceallach cuanan,
 dies, 368.
- Kerryluocbra (county of Kerry), king of,
 368.
- Kethe, 291. See Keith.
- Keduana comes to Scotland with Regulns, 187.
- Kildare. See Cilledara.
- Kilrymont, 185. See St. Andrews.
- Kinadius, Kinak, Kinart, Kinat, Kinath.
 See Kenneth.
- Kinat sinister. See Conard Cerr.
- Kindrochit. See Chondrochedalvan.
- Kinec, Kinet, Kineth. See Kenneth.
- Kinel (Kinneil, Linlithgowshire), Scrwanus comes to, 416.
- Kinet, son of Luthren, 150. See Cinioth.
- Kineth Kerr. See Conad Cerr.
- Kingarth. See Cindgaradh.
- Kinghorn, Kinkhorne, Kingorin, Kyngorn
 (Fifeshire), Alexander III. killed at, 208,
 290, 303, 306, 338, 388.
- Kinloss, Kinlos, Kinlois (Moray), the body of Duff hidden under the bridge at, cxlii.
 151, 174, 205, 289, 302; abbey of, founded by David I., 388.
- Kinne, 172. See Cinge.
- Kinross, lxxxiv. lxxxv. cxiv.
- Kintyre, Cindtyre, Ciunnatire, 67, 72, 74, 83,
 351, 359; numbers of the clan Gabran in,
 314; king of, 355.
- Kirkudbrythe (Kirkudbright), clxxxv.; castle of, 215.
- Knath kere, 148. See Conad Cerr.
- Knock Cariber, battle at. See Cnoc Cuirpre.
- Knut, 224. See Canute.
- Konerlay, 303. See Kenbray.

- Kryn, 206. See Crinan.
 Kyan, 149. See Cinge.
 Kyanactei, St. Boethius goes to the, 411.
 Kyhurean, son of Gigurnus, 200. See Cail-tram.
 Kynach, 301; Kynad, 305. See Kenneth mac Alpin.
 Kynad, 305; Kynath, 335. See Conad Cerr.
 Kynat, 151; Kynedus, 179; Kynet, 204; Kyneth, 302; Kynetus, 177. See Kenneth.
 Kynel, son of Luthren, Luchrem, 150, 286. See Cinioch, son of Lutrin.
 Kyngorn, 303, 338. See Kinghorn.
 Kyloss, 151. See Kinloss.
 Kynnath, 152; Kynneth, 152; Kynnet, 206. See Kenneth.

LACHTNENE, son of Toirbene, abbot, 69.
 Laddonia, 289. See Lothian.
 Ladnum, son of Donald, slain by the men of Moray, 371.
 Laenauc, son of Masgnic clop, 16.
 Lahoulan, 336. See Lulach.
 Laicht, Laicht Alpin (Wigton), incorrectly identified by Chalmers with Laicht Castle; Alpin, son of Echach, slain there, clxxxv.
 Laighsi, the, of Leinster, 321.
 Laignechi (the Lagenians), battle with, 9.
 Lambert de Lounis, 211.
 Lamin, Lanind, son of Etheor, 134, 145.
 "Lancilot de Lac," by Walter Mapes, referred to, 382.
 Laodana, 174; Laodonia, 302. See Lothian.
 Largaw (Largo, Fifeshire), in the district assigned to St. Andrews, 186.
 Lasren, abbot of Hi, dies, 68.
 Latium, 103.
 "Layamon's Brut," Sir F. Madden's opinion as to its source, liii.; extracts from, relating to the Picts, 155.
 "Leabhar Gabhala," the, xlvi. lxix.; extract from, 125, 322, 323.
 Leamidon (Laomedon), son of Ilus, 330.
 "Lecain, Book of," referred to, xxxi. xxxii. xxxiii. xxxiv. xxxv. xxxvi. lxviii. lxix. cxi.
 Ledend, 327. See Leithenn.
 Leeds. See Loida, Loidis.
 Legates, Papal, the Scots not bound to admit, unless on a special commission not embracing England, 265, 277.
 Legeoin, 168; Legionum civitas, 223. See Caerleon.
 Leicestershire, in Danelaga, 154.
 Leinster, men of, 78, 326, 343, 366, 367; woman of, 99; the seven Laighsi of, 321; Maelmorda, king of, 367.
 "Leinster, Book of," referred to, xxxvi. xxxvii.
 Leithenn, Ledend, Letenn, son of Cruithne, 30, 34, 325, 326, 327.
 Leithreid, Leithrig, battle of, 67, 345.
 Lennae, 179. See Lothian.
 Lennox, Malcolm, Earl of, 291; mormaor of, 374.
 Leo, Brude, 5, 26, 397.
 Leot, goes to Rome, 10.
 Lescelyne, Andrew de, 292.
 Lesmoir. See Lismoir.
 Letenn, 325. See Leithenn.
 Lethead, 127.
 Lethfoss, 6.
 Letho, son of Angus mor, 311.
 Letir, 89.
 Leuchars. See Loeres.
 Leuenax, 291. See Lennox.
 Leuene, island (St. Serf's Inch, Lochleven, Fifeshire), Servanus founds a monastery there, 417.
 Leycestershire, in Danelaga, 154.
 Liaccmaelin, Liagmaolan, battle at, 350, 402.
 Libren, son of Illafind, son of Cerball, his two sons slain, 69, 347.
 Liff, river (between Perthshire and Forfarshire), lxxxv.
 Limfanan, 302. See Lumphanan.
 Limna, valley of, 353. See Glenlemlenna.
 Lincoln, William the Lyon does homage to King John at, 227; the earl of, 275.
 Lincolnshire, in Danelaga, 154.
 Lindabae (Lundaff, now Kinloch, Perthshire), many Picts drowned at, 350.
 Lindesay, David de, 291.
 Lindisfaine. See Mcdeant.
 Lingaran, battle of (Nechtan's Mere, in the parish of Dunnichen, Forfarshire), 11.
 Linlithgow, part of the county embraced in the district of Manand, lxxx.

- Liodguald, son of Eegulf, 12.
 Lismoir, Lesmoir, Lugdach, abbot of, 67;
 Neman, abbot of, 68; Eocha, abbot of,
 70, 347; Jarnlagh, abbot of, 352.
 Lloygyr, 121. See Loegria.
 Loaran, Loarn mor, son of Erc, king of Oirir Alban, 18, 52, 59, 308, 311, 316;
 (Lorimonia), 333; his sons, 312; slain by Mureertach mae Erea, 53; buried at
 Iona, 151, 174, 204, 288, 301.
 Loarn beg, son of Erc, 18, 308.
 Loarn, Cinel (tribe of Loarn), one of the great clans of Dalriada, its war-munster, 312, 313, 314; its subdivisions, 313; its genealogy, 316; inhabited the district of Lorn, exxii.; Dunolly its stronghold, exxiv.; slaughter of, 72, 350; naval battle
 at Arddeanesbi with the clan Gabran, 74, 355.
 Loehaber, district of, exxiii.
 Locha da Eiges, battle of, 67.
 Locha Lein, 368.
 Lochdacaech (Waterford), Galls of, expelled from Erin, 363.
 Locb Deabhra (probably Lochindorb), 103.
 Lochene, son of Fingen, king of the Picts,
 dies, 70, 348.
 Loebene, son of Nechtan censota, slain,
 70, 347.
 Lochlan (Scandinavia), expedition by the son of the king of, 78; Galls of, 366.
 Lochlans (Scandinavians), 403; plunder
 Fortrenn, 405; their king besieges Al-clyde, 405; defeated by the men of Fort-renn, 405.
 Locbne, 347. See Lochene.
 Locres (Lenchars, Fifeshire), castle of, 214.
 Locrinus, eldest son of Brutus, becomes king of the third part of Britain, 121, 240;
 Anglia his portion, 222, 279; calls his kingdom Lloygyr (Loegria), 121; his brothers said to have been his vassals, 222, the assertion denied, 246, 279; having overcome Humber, becomes king also of Albania, 222.
 Loegria, Lloygyr, the kingdom of Locrius, 121, 240, 279; its extent, 121, 153; the same as Anglia, 222, 243, 279; separated from Scotia by the wall of Severus, 244;
 King Edward I. not the direct successor of the British kings of, 245; no supremacy over the rest of Britain possessed by the kingdom of, 246; the Britons driven out by the Saxons, the Saxons by the Danes, 247, the Danes by the Saxons, and the name changed to Anglia, 248.
 Loichrois, numbers of the township of,
 312.
 Loida (probably Leeds), Cadroe visits, 116.
 Loidis (Leeds), Penda slain near, cxvi.
 cxvii.; held to be Lothian, cxvii. n.
 Loingsich, Longsech, son of Congall, 309, 317.
 Loirgeclat, battle at, 73, 254.
 Loncetna, daughter of Echadhe eachbheoil, 319.
 London, Luggina civitas, Londonia, 132,
 262, 277, 382; founded by Brutus, 222; Cadroe visits, and miraculously stays the progress of a fire there, 116.
 Longsech, son of Conall, 309. See Loing-sich.
 Loogdae, battle near, 356.
 Loonia. See Lothian.
 Lorimonia (Lorn, son of Erc), 333.
 Loriu, Lorn. See Loarn.
 Loth of Lothian, 382.
 Lothian, Londian, Lowdiao, Louthian, Lao-
 dana, Laodonia, Laddonia, Loonia, Loinæ, Lennæ, Loviæ, Lownes, Ybandonia, lxviii. lxxxi. 382; one of the five divisions of Scotland in the twelfth century, lxxxvii.; its extent, 214; when so named, lxxxix.; ceded to Malcolm, son of Kenneth, cxlvii.; Culen, son of Iedulf, slain there, cxlii. cxlii. 151, 174, 179,
 205, 289, 302.
 Loudian, 382; Louthian, 214. See Lothian.
 Lovia, 179; Lowdian, 382; Lownes, 205.
 See Lothian.
 Lulaire (probably Carlowrie), battle of,
 exxxv. 85.
 Lucius, procurator of Rome, slain by Arthur,
 383.
 Luctai, son of Parthai, 23, 24, 323.
 Luctach-etothlach, son of Corbre crungen, 144.
 Lufanan, 152. See Lumphanan.
 Lugad, son of Bairiud, 311.
 Lugad, son of Caplene, 311.

- Lugdach, Luigide, of Lissmoir, dies, 67, 346.
 Lugdina civitas (London), Cadroe visits, 116.
 Luglaigh, 63. See Lulach.
 Lugubalia (Carlisle), Roderic defeated there, 298.
 Luigidig, son of Ellatig, 134.
 Luigide, 346. See Lugdach.
 Luimin, slain, 367.
 Luirig, son of Sarran, king of the Britons, 52; extends his power over the Saxons, offends his brother Cairnech by building a fort within the precincts of his monastery, 53; is slain by Murcertach mac Erca at Cairnech's instigation, 54.
 Luke, St., his remains carried by Constantius to Constantinople, 183.
 Lulach, Luglaigh, Luthlach, Lahoulan, Dulach, Gulak, son of Gillacomgan, king of the Scots, cxviii. 30, 63, 65, (son of Macbeth) 119, (grandson of Boede) 131, 296, 300, 306, 317, 336, 400; fatuous, 152, 175, 206, 289, 302; his title to the throne through his mother Grnoch, cxlvii. 131; called in the "Prophecy of St. Berchan," the "Tairbith," 102; slain, 65, by Malcolm, by stratagem, 78, in battle, 369, at Essie in Strathbogie, 152, 175, 180, 206, 289, 302; buried at Iona, 152, 175, 302, 306.
 Lunphanan, Lunphanan, Lunfanen, Lunfano, Limfanan, Lufanan (Aberdeenshire), Macbeth slain at, 152, 175, 180, 289, 302.
 Lutblach, 300. See Lulach.
 Luto-feirnn, battle of, 349.
 Lydia, in Asia Minor, 107.
 Lynch, Rev. John, his "Camhrensis Ever-sus" referred to, lxviii.
 Lyons, Council of, 264, 283.
- MACABEDA, 180. See Macheth.
 Macbeataid, son of Muredagh cloin, king of Kerluachra, slain, 368.
 Macbeth, Macbethad, Macbeathadh, Macabeda, Macbrethach, Maket, Macheth, son of Finlaig, Fingel, king of the Scots, cxviii. 44, 63, 102, 119, 123, 196, 300, 305, 336, 490; his claim to the throne through his wife, Grnoch, cxlvii.; his largesse to the poor at Rome, 65; dethroned by Siward, 210; slain, 65, 78, 206, at Lumphanan, by Malcolia, 152, 175, 180, 289, 302, in battle, 369; buried at Iona, 152, 175, 289, 302, 305.
 MacCulloch, Magnus, Continuation of Fordun ascribed to, x.
 Macdeicill Angus, son of Erc, 308.
 MacDuf, 336. See Indulf.
 Macduib, 63. See Kenneth, son of Duib.
 MacFirbis, Duald, an Irish sennachy, xxxvi. xxxvii.; extracts from his Annals, lxxiv. 401.
 Mac Foircellaigh, chief of the Culdees, at Hi, 372.
 Macgilladuibh, hermit at Hi, 372.
 Machabeus, Judas, Robert Bruce compared to, 293.
 Macheth, son of Fingel, 302; Macket, son of Fyngel, 152. See Macbeth.
 Mac Leanan, J. F., quoted with reference to the system of kinship among the Picts, cii.
 Macmanus, Senait, Annals of, lxxii.; extracts from, 343.
 Macmisi mor, Macmisi beg, sons of Erc, 308. See Fergus mor and Fergus beg.
 Macnia O'Uchtan, lector of Kelis, drowned in coming from Alban, 369.
 Mac Oigi, abbot of Aporcrosan, dies at Bangor, 359.
 Mac Rath (son of fortune), epithet applied to Grig son of Dungal, cxxxvi. 87.
 Madden, Sir Frederick, referred to, liii.
 Madianus, a companion of Regulus, 187.
 Madianus, a companion of St. Boniface, 422.
 Maelbrigil O'Rimeda, abbot of Hi, dies, 366.
 Maelbrigle, bishop, dies, 10.
 Maelbrigle, son of Dubican, dies, 10.
 Maelbrigde, son of Ruadri, 317.
 Maelcaith, Maelcaith, son of Scandail, king of the Cruithne, victor at Fedhaeoin, 69, 347; dies, 349.
 Maelcraigis O'Druiming, dies, 355.
 Maelcolaim. See Malcolm.
 Maelcron, son of Muredagh, half king of the Deisi of Munster, slain, 404.

INDEX.

- Maeldeüt, Maelded, son of Conaing, slain, 71, 349.
- Maelditraibh, son of Enganan, put to death, 352.
- Maelduin, Mallduin, son of Gillaodran, bishop of Alban, dies, 78.
- Maelduin, Maillduin, son of Macnac, son of Ronan, slain, 71, 349, 350.
- Maelduin, son of Rigullan, put to death, 350.
- Maeleduin, burning of, 348.
- Maelgwn, death of, 161.
- Mselmire, daughter of Kenneth mac Alpin, dies, 363.
- Maelmorda, son of Murchad, king of Leinster, slain, 367.
- Maelmure, his "Leabhar na h-uidre" referred to, xxxii.
- Maelruanaigh O'Eiden, king of Aidne, slain, 368.
- Maelruha sails to Britain, 71, 350; founds a church at Aporcrosan, 72, 350; dies there, 74, 355; his successor, 75, 357.
- Mael-echlainn, son of Domnall, king of Tara (Malachy II.), engages with Brian in a great hosting against Athcliath, 366.
- Maelsechlainn, Maelsechnall, son of Maelruanaidh (Malachy I.), plunders Munster, 403; with the Gallgaidhel fights against the Gentiles, 360; dies, 8.
- Maelsechnall, king of the Irish. See Maelsechlainn.
- Maelsechnall, son of Donald, deprives Donald, son of Duncan, of his eyesight, 77.
- Maelsnechta, son of Lulach, 317.
- Maeluma, son of Baedan, 68.
- Macneoman, many Britons made prisoners in, 361.
- Magh Circin. See Circin.
- Magh Fortrenn. See Fortrenn.
- Maghline, in Ulster, mistaken by Chalmers for Mauchline, in Ayrshire, cviii.
- Maghsliab, at the Mounth, Kenneth, son of Malcolm, goes to, 96.
- Magnus, Earl of Caithness and Orkney, 291.
- Magnus Barefoot, alluded to as "Princeps Noricus," 118.
- Magog, son of Japhet, Goths named from, 3, 393.
- Magonius, bishop of Alexandria, baptizes Servanus, 413.
- Maian, son of Muredach and Erc, 52.
- Maigilunge, 350. See Muighe Luinge.
- Mailcaich, 347. See Maelcaich.
- Mailcun, king of Gwynnydd, 12.
- Maileduin, son of Conall Crandomna, dies, 73, 351.
- Maillduin, 349. See Maelduin.
- Maildarius, abbot, 115.
- Mair, son of Esro, son of Ethech, 134, 145.
- Mais, son of Fathecht, 24, 323.
- Mak Fингel, 305. See Macbeth.
- Makkus, king of the Isles; vassal of Edgar, 224.
- Malachias, the pre-baptismal name of Servanus, 42.
- Malcolm, 305. See Malduin.
- Malclum, 306, Malcolin, 289. See Malcolm.
- Malcolm, pronunciation of the name, 297.
- Malcolm, king of the Cumbri, vassal of Edgar, 224.
- Malcolm, son of Donald, king of the Northern Britons, dies, 77, 365.
- Malcolm I., Maelcolaim, Malcolin, Malcolm, son of Donsld, king of the Scots, cxli. 10, 22, 29, 62, 131, 133, 144, 151, 171, 174, 178, 205, 287, 288, 295, 299, 306, 315, 336, 337, 400; called in the "Prophecy of St. Berchan" the "Bedhbhdearg," 93; his alleged vassalage to Edward the Confessor, 225; invades Moreb (Moray), slays Cellach, penetrates England to the Thesis (Tees), 10; slain, 364, at Fodresach (Fetteresso), cxlii. cxlii. 10, by stratagem, by the men of Moray at Ulurn, cxlii. 151, 174, 179, 288, 302, by the Norwegians, 205; buried at Iona, 151, 174, 288, 302, 306.
- Malcolm II., Maelcolaim, Malcolim, Malclum, son of Kenneth, king of the Scots, cxlvii. cxlviii. 22, 29, 63, 131, 133, 144, 152, 175, 180, 206, 210, 289, 296, 300, 302, 305, 315, 336, 400; called in the "Prophecy of St. Berehan" the "Forranach," 99; bestows great gifts on the church, 131; battle at Carrun, 131; Lothian ceded to him, cxlvii.; dies, 65, 77, 169, 369, at Glammis, cxlii. 152,

- 175, 180, 302; buried at Iona, 152, 175, 289, 302, 305.
- Malcolm III., Maeclalim, Malcolm, Maelclum (Ceanmore), son of Duncan, Duncath, Donechat, king of the Scots, exlviii. 30, 63, 119, 131, 133, 144, 180, 206, 289, 296, 300, 302, 306, 336, 384; date of accession, 387; restored to the throne by Siward, 210; his marriage to Margaret, 210, 387; his family, 131, 210; his right to the crown of England, 384; does homage to William the Conqueror and William Rufus, clxv. 225, for English fiefs only, 281; length of his reign, 65; slain, with his son Edward, by the Northumbrians, 119, 141, 180, 211, 370, at Alnwick, 206, 302, at Inveraldan, 175, 289; buried at Tynemouth, 206, 302, at Dunfermline, 289, at Iona, 175.
- Malcolm IV., son of Prince Henry, king of the Scots, 133, 175, 181, 207, 211, 212, 290, 296, 300, 303, 337, 388; dies at Jedburgh, 175, 182, 207, 290, 303; buried at Dunfermline, 175, 207, 290, 303, 306.
- Malcolm, earl of Lennox, 291.
- Mald (Maud), daughter of Malcolm III., queen of Henry I., 387.
- Malduin, son of Donewald dunn, 171, 287; Malduin, son of Dognaldebrech, 197; Maelclom, 305; Maldoine, 335; Maolduin, son of Conall, 61; king of Dalriada, exxxvii.
- Malise, earl of Strathearn, 291.
- Malduin, son of Gilhadrau, 78. See Maelduin.
- Malmure O'Uchtan, comarb of III, dies, 369.
- Malpeder, Malpedir, son of Lorn, mormaor of the Mearns, slays Duncan, son of Malcolm, 175, 206, 289, 303.
- Malsnectai, son of Lulach, prince (mormaor) of Moray, dies, 370.
- Maltheus, a companion of Regulus, 187.
- Man, Isle of, in Danelaga, 154; Irish and Welsh names of, lxxxii.; Thomas Randolph, lord of, 291.
- Manand, Manann, Manonn, Manau, Eubonia (the Isle of Man, also a district in Scotland), 13; the boundaries of the district; the Welsh name Manau Gododin, lxxxi. exv.; possessed by the Picts, evii.; taken possession of by the Firbolg, 23; war against, 14; battle in, 66, 67, 73, 167, 343, 345, 354, 401; cleared of the Galls by Baedan, 128; earthquake in, 15.
- Mane, son of Fogso; Manine, son of Forgo, 134, 144.
- Mannia, 291. See Man.
- Manonn, 345. See Manand.
- Maolduin, son of Conall, 61. See Malduin.
- Mapes, Walter, confounded with Walter, archdeacon of Oxford, xlivi.; called Walter Napillis; his "Lancelot de Lac" referred to, 383.
- Mar, Marr, one of the subdivisions of Scotia, lxxxiv. 138; its extent; Donald, son of Eimio, mormaor of, 368.
- Marcao, son of Breodalaig, slain, 10.
- March, earl of, Patrick de Dunbar, 291.
- Mareschal of Scotland, Robert de Kethe, 291.
- Margaret, daughter of David, earl of Huntingdon, lxvii. 306.
- Margaret, daughter of Prince Henry, marries Conan, duke of Bretagne; Ross her marriage portion, 337.
- Margaret, queen of Malcolm III., 131, 175, 206, 296, 300, 302, 306, 336, 337, 383; her marriage, 210, 387; her children, 387; dies of grief, 141, 170, 370.
- Margaret of Norway, betrothed to Edward of Caernarvon, 217, 262, 275, 301; Edward I. makes the dissensions which followed her death a pretext for interfering in Scotland, 218, 262, 277.
- Maria, daughter of Malcolm III., marries Eustace, count of Boulogne, 131, 387; buried at St. Savionr's, Bermondsey; her epitaph, 132.
- Marianus Scots, his Chronicle, xxxviii.; extracts from, containing the earliest notice of the name Scotia, as applied to Scotland, 65; an important authority for the period from Malcolm II. to Malcolm Canmore, exlv. exlviii.
- Marita. See Margaret.
- Marius, 298. See Menric.
- Mark, bishop of Sodor, imprisoned by Edward I., 219.

INDEX.

- Mark, the anchorite, his edition of the "Historia Britonum," xxiv.
- Marlos, 8. See Melrose.
- Martan, Sarran dies in the house of, 52.
- Martyr, Cairnech the first martyr of Erin, 55; Donuan and 150 other martyr clerics burned, 69, 346.
- Mary, St., church dedicated at St. Andrews to, 187.
- Maserfelth. See Cobboy.
- Masguic clop, son of Ceneu, 16.
- Matha, 140.
- Mathgernan, his son put to death, 73, 354.
- Matilda, the empress, marries Geoffrey, earl of Anjou, 211, 385; receives the homage of David I., 225; David fights in her behalf against Stephen, 212, 253.
- Matilda, daughter of Prince Henry, 337.
- Matilda, countess of Huntingdon, queen of David I., 211, 213, 337; buried at Scone, 337.
- Matilda, daughter of Malcolm III., queen of Henry I., 131, 211, 252, 300; buried at Westminster, 132.
- Matilda, grand-daughter of Malcolm III., marries Stephen of Blois, 131.
- Mattadanus, brother of Cadroe, 111.
- Maucloun, 207; Mauchum, 306. See Malcolm.
- Mauri, the Moors, 395.
- Mauricius, emperor of the Romans, 421.
- Mauritius, a companion of Regulus, 187.
- Maurius, 156. See Meurie.
- Maximus, the emperor, 163.
- Maxwelle, Eustace de, 291.
- Maya (the Isle of May, at the mouth of the Firth of Forth), Adrian suffers martyrdom there; the church there a place of pilgrimage, clx. 423, 424.
- Mearus, Merns, Moerne, Meiernys (Kincardineshire), a district in the north-east of Scotland, lxxxiv. 136; called Magh Circin, xxii.; men of, cxxxvi. cxlii. 10; Malpeder, mormaor of, 175, 181, 206, 303.
- Mecgetawc, 124. See Mocetauc.
- Mechwynn, 389. See Methven.
- Medcant, Metcaut, Medgoit, Metgoit (the island of Lindisfarne), the church of, founded, 70, 347; the chief seat of the Columban Church, clv.; St. Cuthbert dies there, 14; Urbgen and his people shut up there by Deodric, 13.
- Medrant falls at the battle of Camlann, 14.
- Meicen, Meigen, battle of, 12, 162.
- Meiernys, 207. See Mearns.
- Meigen, 162. See Meiceu.
- Meigle. See Migdale.
- Melrose, 303. See Melrose.
- Meige, son of Cobhai cailbrech. See Moalgi.
- Melos, one of the Cyclades, 107.
- Melrose, Kenneth mac Alpin extends his kingdom to, 299; church of, founded and endowed by David I., 133, 388; Alexander II. buried there, 182, 207, 290, 303, 306.
- "Melrose, Chronicle of," Ailred probably author of part of it, lvii.
- Meneted, Menetethe. See Menteith.
- Menevia. See Cillmuine.
- Menteith, Meneted, Menetethe (a district in the south of Perthshire), lxxxiv. 136; John de, custos comitatus de Menteith, 291; appeal in the case of the earldom of, carried before the Pope, 263.
- Meorne, 303. See Mearns.
- Merc, plain of (the Merci), 139.
- Merchianun, son of Gurgust, 16.
- Mercia, separated from North Anglia, 14.
- Merdofatha, 151. See Ioverdufatha.
- Merinach, a companion of Regulus, 185, 187.
- Merlin, Merlynge, lived in the time of Vortigern, 387; prediction regarding Scotland, 117; Arthur made king through his influence, 382.
- Merus, 175. See Mearns.
- Metcaut, 13; Metgoit, 70. See Medcant.
- Methven, Mechwynn (Perthshire), battle of 339.
- Meuric, Marius, Maurius, son of Arviragon, king of the Britons, defeats Roderic, assigus Caithness to the Picts, sets up a stone at Westymar in memory of his victory, 122, 155-160, 298.
- Mhanann, 343. See Manand.
- Michael, St., church of, dedicated at St. Andrews, 187.
- Middlesex, in Danelaga, 154.
- Midhaise, epithet applied to Constantine, son of Aed, cxli. 91.

- Migdele (Meigle, Perthshire), 188.
 Mileadh, Milidh (Milesius), sons of, 45, 47, 319.
 Milo, king of Spain, 333.
 Minredhach, son of Armkellach, 287. See Muredach.
 Minvircc, Britons defeated by the Dalriada at, 74, 354.
 Miracles, fire extinguished by Cadroe, 116; cures wrought by the relics of St. Andrew, 140; a rock cleft at Dunbar through the intercession of John of Beverley, 223; cures effected and other wonders wrought by Servanus, 418, 419; the dead restored to life by St. Boethius, 411.
 Mircenlaga, Mirchenlaga, one of the three divisions of Britain, 153; its extent, the counties contained in it, 154.
 Mirenus, a companion of Regulus, 187.
 Moalgi, Melge, son of Cobthaig coelbreg. 134, 144.
 Mocetauc, Mecgetawc, Catohic (Muglock, in the Lennox), battle of, between the Picts and Britons, 15, 124, 358.
 Mocteus, 343.
 Modred, Moldreid, Mordred, son of Loth, defeats Arthur, and liberates Scotland, 247, 281, 382; crowned king of Britain, 382.
 Moeghanarde, 175; Moegohanard, 302. See Menzievaird.
 Moerne, 10, 136. See Mearns.
 Mogalama, son of Corpri cromeind, 315.
 Mogalandia, son of Luigdig, 134.
 Moin Vacornar, great slaughter of the Scots at, 10.
 Moldreid, 382. See Modred.
 Monacheden, Monehedne, Monetheteon, Monodedhno (on the banks of the Bervie), Duncan II. slain at, 175, 181.
 Monadh, 96. See Mound.
 Monaidh, 63.
 Monaigh, 100.
 Monaigh Craibe. See Monidcroib.
 Monanns, a companion of St. Adrian, 424.
 Moneclatu, 185. See Monichi.
 Monehedne, Monetheteon. See Monacheden.
 Moneth, 185. See Mound.
 Mongan, son of Donald, 316.
 Monichi, Moneclatu (Monikie, Forfarshire), Mouren, daughter of Unuist, born at, 185; Unnist dedicates a church there to St. Andrew, 186.
 Monidcroib, Monaigh Craibe (Moncreiff, Perthshire), battle at, cxxv. cxxvi. 74, 355.
 Mondedhno. See Monacheden.
 Monitcarno, Mons Carno, Mynyd Carno (Cairn o'Mount, in the Mearns), lxxxii.; battle at, cxxv. 15, 123, 356.
 Monnine, 344. See Darerca.
 Mons Acentus (the Cluniac priory of Montacute in Somersetshire), Edmund, son of Malcolm, dies at, 132.
 Montealto, William de, 291.
 Monteath. See Menteith.
 Montefixo, William de, 291.
 Montfort, Symon de, Earl of Leicester, 216, 260, 276.
 Monzievaird, Moeghanarde, Moegohanard, Morgoauerd (in Strathearn), Grig, son of Kenneth, slain at, cxlv. 175, 289, 302.
 Moon, two moons seen in the heavens, 387.
 Moray, Moravia, Morania, Moreb, Morref, Muref, one of the subdivisions of Scotia, lxxxiv. lxxxv. lxxxvi. lxxxvii. 136, 154; its extent, 214; Malcolm invades, 10; men of, slaughtered, 170; battle between men of Alban and men of; their chief, Angus, grandson of Lulach, slain, 371; men of, slay Ladmun, 371; Alan de, 291; Thomas Randolph, earl of, 291; Gillacomgan, mormaor of, burned, 368; Malsnectai, mormaor of, 370.
 Mordred, 281. See Modred.
 Moreb, 10. See Moray.
 Moredath, son of Arniukelec, 198. See Muredach.
 Morgaind, son of Donald, 317.
 Morglas, 416.
 Morgoauerd, 289. See Monzievaird.
 Morleo, king of the Picts, 6, 27, 398.
 Mormaors, of Alban, 77, 363; of Angus, xxii. 9; of Lennox, 374; of Mar, 368; of Mearns, 175, 206, 289, 303; of Moray, 368, 370, 371.
 Morouia. See Moray.
 Morref, 214. See Moray.
 Mortality, great, 13, 14, 389, 390.
 Morven, district of, cxiii.

- Moses, Scots nation had its origin in the time of, 398.
- Moshora, a river of Scythia, 394.
- Motla, son of Donald, son of Faelan, king of the Deises of Munster, slain, 367.
- Moubray, Roger de, 291.
- Mound, Mounth (the chain of mountains extending from Ben Nevis to the head of the Dee, and thence to the sea), lxxxii. 96, 135, 185, 186 ; a waste tract, its extent, 214.
- Mounth, Cairn o', a pass over the Mounth, lxxxii. See Monitarno.
- Mouren, daughter of Unuist, born at Monikie, 185 ; a church dedicated to her at St. Andrews, where were fifty nuns, 187.
- Muckros, 185. See St. Andrews.
- Mughdorn (Cremorne, county Monaghan), 321.
- Mugroio, Mugron, comarb of Hi, dies, 169, 365.
- Muighe Luinge, Maigiluinge (a monastery in Tyree), burning of, 72, 350.
- Muin, 325. See Mund.
- Muiravonside, parish of, in the ancient district of Calathros, lxxx.
- Muirbulg. See Murbulg.
- Muireadhach, 61. See Muredach, son of Aincellach.
- Mull, island of, cxiii.
- Muminenses (people of Munster), city of the, 108.
- Munait, Mund, Muin, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 397.
- Munna, 95.
- Munster, 127, 360 ; Conaing, king of, 367 ; Motla, king of the Deises of, 367 ; Maelcroo Muredag, half king of the Deises of, 404 ; Maelsechlan plunders, 403.
- Murbulg, in Dalriada, 309 ; battle at, 75, 356.
- Murcertach O'Brian, receives a camel from the king of Alban, 170.
- Murecertach mac Erc, son of Muredach and Erc, 52 ; expelled from Erin and Alban, betakes himself to Luirig, king of Britain, to learn military science, 53 ; slays Luirig at the instigation of Cairnech, assumes the sovereignty of Britain, Caithness, Orkney, and Saxonia, takes Luirig's wife, 54 ; marries the daughter of the king of France, 54 ; the Franks and Saxons make war on him, he overthrows them, goes to Ireland, overcomes the provincial kings, and assumes the sovereignty, 56.
- Marecertach, son of Toirdelbach, dies, 119.
- Murdac, son of Arinkellet, 171. See Muredach.
- Murdabw, 335. See Muredach son of Aincellach.
- Murechach, son of Brian, king of Erin, slain, 367.
- Murechat, son of Arinchellac, 130. See Muredach.
- Mured, king of Ulster, his sons seize North Britain, 146.
- Muredac, son of Huargale, economist of Hi, dies, 359.
- Muredach, Muireadhach, Murechat, Murdac, Moredath, Murezant son of Aincellach, chief of the clan Loarn, and king of Dalriada, 75, 130, 171, 177, 287, 335, 356.
- Muredach, son of Angus beg, first settled in Isla, 311.
- Muredach, son of Baetan, 317.
- Muredach, son of Crecan, comarb of Hi, dies, 366.
- Muredach, grandson of Daitbi, king of Dalriada, 20, 61.
- Muredach, son of Eoghan, 52.
- Muredach, son of Erc, 309.
- Muredach, son of Lorn mor, 312, 316 ; his sons, 313.
- Muredach son of the mormaor of Lennox, 374.
- Muredach bolg, son of Olchu, 309.
- Muredach bollgreich, son of Semoin, 134.
- Muref. See Moray.
- Murezant, 177. See Muredach, son of Aincellach.
- Murgal, son of Nae, dies, 354.
- Muritius, grandson of Baetan, dies at Hi, 373.
- Mur Ollambian, 320. See Ollamb, Mur.
- Muscleburg (Musselburgh, near Edinburgh), the nobles of Scotland pledge fealty to Alexander II. there, 212.
- Mynyd Carno, 123. See Monitarno.
- NACHTALICU, son of Gigberti, 187.
- Nachtan, son of Chelturan, 187.

- Nactam, son of Fochle, 286. See Nethan, son of Fide.
- Nadsluag, son of Angus mor, 311; son of Ronan, 317.
- Nae, son of Daniel, dies, 350. See Daniel.
- Naedan, war between his grandsons and those of Gartnait, 348.
- Nainndisi, 10; explained, xxi.
- Nairn, James, minister at Holyroodhouse, referred to, lv.
- Napillis, Walter, 383. See Mapes, Walter.
- Nathabeus, one of the companions of Regulus, 187.
- Neachtan, grandson of Uerp, 399. See Nectu.
- Nechtan, son of Conaing, 310.
- Nechtan, son of Conall, 309.
- Nechtan, son of Cruidne, 30, 31, 38, 325, 326, 327.
- Nechtan, son of Doirgart, slain, 353.
- Nechtan, son of Ferchar, 317.
- Nechtan, son of Unuist, 185.
- Nechtan neir (St. Nathalan), his death, 72, 350.
- Nectan, king of the Picts, baptized by Boniface at Restennot, 423. See Necthou.
- Nectan, king of the Picts, restored to life by St. Boethius, 410, 411. See Necton.
- Nectan, son of Dergard. See Nection, son of Derilei.
- Nectan, son of Fotie, Fode, 173, 201. See Nethan, son of Fide.
- Nectan, grandson of Uerd. See Nectu.
- Nectan celchamoch, 285; Nectane celchaniech, 200. See Necton morbet.
- Necthan, son of Canand, dies, 69, 346.
- Necthou, Nechtan, Nectan, Ferthen, Jactan, Eactan, son of Derelei, Dergard, Dergert, Amfredeth, king of the Picts, cxxi, cxxxv., 7, 29, 150, 173, 201, 286, 399; obtains the kingdom, after the defeat of Elpin at Seone, 75; baptized by Boniface at Restennot, 423; drives the family of Hi across the Dorsum Britanniae, 74, 354; accepts the Roman usage as to Easter, and the tonsure for his clergy; sends to Jarrow for architects, clvii.; founds Rosmarkie and other churches, clviii.; put in chains by Drust, 74, 355; defeated by Angus, son of Fergus, at Monitcarno, 356; goes on pilgrimage, 74; dies, 75.
- Necton morbet, morbrec, morbreac, son of Erip, Nethan chelemot, Netthan thelchamoth, Nectane celtaniech, Nectan celchamoch, king of the Picts, 6, 28, 149, 172, 200, 285, 399; restored to life by St. Boethius, 410; dedicates Abernethy to St. Bridget, 6, 28, 399.
- Nectu, Nectan, Nactan, Netthad, Neachtan, grandson of Uerd, Uerb, Uerp, Irb, Yrb, king of the Picts, evi. 7, 28, 173, 286, 399.
- Neill, the Clan, Cairnech the first bishop of, 55.
- Neill, son of Cernn, slain, 353.
- Neimhid, the Clan, 32; Herimon makes an alliance with, 50; they take Alban, 58.
- Neirin, the bard, 12.
- Neithon, king of Strathclyde, xv. 15.
- Nellen, son of Murcertach mac Erca, the gens Nellen descended from him, 55.
- Nellus (Niel), king of Ireland, 146.
- Nelus, Neolus, Neolms, Niulus, Neyile (Iulus), chief of the Chorischi, 109; king of Athens, 378; of Greece, x.; of Scythia, 330; his descent from Japhet, 330.
- Nem, son of Bairfind, 311.
- Nem, son of Conaing, 310.
- Neman, abbot of Lesmoir, dies, 68.
- Nembrotica turris (the tower of Babel), 146.
- Nennius, Irish version of, by Gillacaemhin, xii. xxii. xxxiv. xxxvi. xxxvii.; the "Historia Britonum" ascribed to, xxiv.; notice of the mss. of his work, xxv.; his mode of reckoning, xxv. xxvi.; quoted with reference to the Britons of Armorica, xcix.
- Neoil, 145. See Neuil.
- Neolms, 378; Neolus, 330. See Nelus.
- Nephan, his death, 356.
- Nernius, a companion of Regulus, 187.
- Nethan, Nectan, Nactam, son of Fide, Fotie, Fode, Fochle, king of the Picts, 150, 173, 201, 236.
- Nethan chelemot, 149; Netthan thelchamoth, 172. See Necton morbet.
- Neue, W. le, referred to, lxxiii.
- Neuil, Neoil, son of Fenius farsaid, 134, 145.
- Newbattle Abbey (Midlothian), founded by David I, 388.
- Newerk, Henry de, deacon of York, 275.
- Neyile, 330. See Nelus.

- Nisll, son of Ede, 9.
 Niall O'Conn, slain, 367.
 Niethniell, put to death, 352.
 Niger, king of the Scots, 10. See Dubh.
 Nile river, 118; St. Servanus comes with a great company to, 414.
 Ninia, St., the southern Picts converted by his preaching, cv. cl., and the Strathclyde Britons, cl.; extent of the Chnrch organized by him, its apostasy, its restoration by St. Kentigern, cliv.
 Niulus. See Nelus.
 Noah, 24, 134, 145, 323, 330, 332.
 Noda, Node, son of Nonail, 134, 145.
 Noe, abbot of Cindgaradh (Kingarth), dies, 359.
 Noegaw, 335. See Eogan.
 Noethach fail, 144. See Nuadat fail.
 Nonail, Nonael, son (grandson), of Goidil-glais, 134, 145.
 Noreham (Norham, on the Tweed), peace made between King John and William the Lyon at, 213.
 Northampton. See Northampton.
 Norici, 330.
 Nericus princeps, 118, refers to Magnus Barefoot, king of Norway, xlvi.
 Normandy, William the Lyon taken to, 227, 256.
 Normans, slay Malcolm III., 119, 141, 170, 180; their conquest of the Saxons, 280, 383, 384.
 Northampton, Symon, earl of, 144; William the Lyon attends the parliament held at, 227.
 Northamptonshire, in Danelaga, 154.
 Northmen, ravage Pictavia, cxl. 8, 9; driven out of Scotland, 330; Inhar and Amlaib, kings of; their ravages, 361; of Britain and Ireland, 362; defeated in a great battle by the Saxons, 363; Gallgael used to be called, 403, 404.
 Northumberland, Northumbria, Henry, earl of, 207; Eadulf Cudel, earl of, cedes part of his territory to Malcolm, lxxix.; William the Lyon, earl of, 212; Henry, son of David I., made earl of, 212.
 Northumbria, extent of the kingdom of, lxxix.; Deira called, 154; invaded by the Scots, 230; subject to the king of Scot-land; 249, 253, and on that ground ex-empted from taxation by the See of Rome, 249; occupied by Henry II. 255.
 Northumbrians, Paulinus the apostle of, cli. cliv.; baptized, with their king Edwin, by Run, son of Urien, clv. 13; the chief seat of their church fixed at York, clv.; Christianity suppressed among them on the invasion of the pagan Penda; the Columban Church introduced by Oswald, clv.; after the Council of Whitby, the Columban Church superseded by the Roman under the auspices of Wilfrid, clvi.; converted to the faith by Scots missionaries, 250; defeated by the Picts, and cease to receive tribute from them, 11.
 Norway, 154; subdued by Arthur, 247, 281.
 Norway, sea of (the North Sea), 135, 136, 153.
 Norwegians, Constantine, son of Kenneth, slain by, 151, 174, 178, 204, 288, 301, Indulf slain by, 151, 174, 179, 205, 289, 302; harass the Scots, 292.
 Nottinghamshire, in Danelaga, 154.
 Nrurim, Aed slain at, cxxxiv. 9.
 Nuadat-fail, Noethach-fail, son of Elchada-olclaim, 134, 144.
 Nuns, fifty, attached to the church of Mouren at St. Andrews, 187.
 Nuts, abundance of, 345.
- OAN, chief of Egg, 355.
 Obeth, son of Eliud, father of St. Servanus, 412.
 Ocha, battle of, 18.
 Ochils. See Okhel.
 O'Cianan, Adam, an Irish sennachy, lxviii.
 O'Cianan, John, "The Tract on the Picts" (No. 42), ascribed to, lxviii.
 O'Conor, Charles, of Belnagare, the "Dusn of Alban," and some other pieces furnished to Pinkerton by, xiii. xxxvi.
 O'Conor, Charles, the "Irish Annals" published by, xiii.; his edition of "Tighernac," xxxviii. xxxix.; of the "Annals of Inisfallen," liv.; and of the "Annals of Ulster," lxxii.

- O'Curry, Eugene, his discovery of an Irish version of the "Tripartite Life of St. Patrick," xxix.; the date assigned by him to it, xxx., and to the "Synchronisms of Flann Mainistreach," xxxi.
- Odaudanus. See Adomnan.
- Odba, battle of, 78.
- Odeich, numbers of the township of, 312.
- O'Dungan, John, an Irish sennachy, probably the author of the "Tract on the Scots of Dalriada" (No. 41), one of the compilers of the book of "Hy Many," lxviii.
- Oenbegan, 136. See Aenhecan.
- Oengus. See Angus, Onnust.
- Offa, son of Aedlfred Flesaur, 11.
- Ogmaich, Ognain, son of Onegus, 134, 145.
- Ohan, king of the Britons, 70. See Hoan.
- Oirir Alban, Oirir Gael. See Argyll.
- Oirir an deas, Oirir an tuaith, divisions of Argyll, lxxxvii. lxxxviii.
- Oisiric, son of Albruit, heir-apparent of the Saxons, slain, 70.
- Oissn, 348. See Osbiu.
- Oistin, son of Amlaib, king of the Northmen, treacherously slain, 362.
- Oittir, the black, slain, 367.
- O'Kelly, king of O'Many, slain, 368.
- Okhel, mount (the Ochils, a range of hills in Perthshire), 416.
- Olcan, bishop of Airthermuige, receives land from St. Patrick, 17, 142; builds a church at Derekan, 142.
- Olchn, son of Eocho muindreamar, his eleven sons, 309.
- Olfincta, king of the Picts, 5, 324, 396. See Finechta.
- Olifaunt, William, 291.
- Ollaigh, arx, 357. See Dunolly.
- Ollamh, the first king of the Cruithneach who reigned at Tara, civ. 320.
- Ollamh, Mur (at Tara), 320.
- O'Lochlan, king of Ireland, 372.
- O'Maeldorad, abbot, 370.
- O'Maeldraig, comarb of Hi, dies, 78.
- O'Many (Hy Many, the tribe and territory of the O'Kellys in county Galway and county Roscommon), O'Kelly king of, 368.
- Om, son of Olchn, 309.
- Onhecan, 23. See Aenhecan.
- Onbes, 400. See Onnist.
- Onnan, king of the East Angli, slain by Penda, 14.
- Onnist, Onnis, Onbes, Oenegus, Denegul, son of Urguist, Fergus, Fergusagin, Frud, Oengus, king of the Picts, 7, 29, 150, 173, 200, 286, 400; death of, 360.
- Orcaneia, Orcæ. See Orkney.
- Ordas, Ordasima, 153; in Danelaga, 154.
- Orewin (Irvine, Ayrshire), 215.
- Orkney, Orcæ, Orkadia, Orcaneia, Orkaneya, Orkenneye, 153, 195; in Danelaga, 154; extent of, 215; Cruithne take possession of, xvi. 23; sovereignty seized by Murchertach mac Erca, 54; Galls of, 78; ravaged by Brude, 72, 351; expedition of Aidan, son of Gabran, to, 345; attack on, 353; Ebdon dies in, 374; Magnus, earl of, 291; Siuchraid, son of Lodur, earl of, 367.
- Ormekellet, 305. See Aincellach.
- Ortigia (the island of Delos, one of the Cyclades), 107.
- Osbiu, son of Aedlfred, 11.
- Oscoris, a river of Scythia, 394.
- Osfird, son of Edguin, 11.
- Osguald. See Osunald.
- Osguid, Ossin, Ossu, Oswiu, son of Aedlfred, king of the Angles, 11, 12, 13, 70, 348; paternal uncle of Tolargan, cxvii. clxxxvi.; takes refuge among the Picts or Scots, xci.; defeats Penda, cxvi. cxvii. 71, 348, 349; the Britons of Strathclyde, the Scots of Dalriada, and part of the Picts fall under his power, cxvii. clxxxxi.; dies, 71, 350; his daughter dies in the monastery of Ild, 354.
- Osgndu, son of Aedlfred Flesaur, 11.
- Oslach, son of Ailguin, 12.
- Oslapf, son of Aedlfred Flesaur, 11.
- Oslaph, son of Ailguin, 12.
- Osmer, son of Ida, 11.
- Osrit, son of Aldfrid, put to death, 354.
- Ossa, son of Aedlibrith, 11.
- Ossi, Ossn. See Osguid.
- Osnalt, Osunald, son of Etalfraith, Eadfred, king of the North Angli, xci. xcii. 70; introduces the Columban Church into Northumbria, clv.; hosting of the Saxons against him, 70; takes refuge at Iona, xci.;

- overthrows Catguollan, king of Gwynnedd, 13; falls in battle, 70, 347, slain by Penda at Cochboy, cxv. 14, 15.
 Oudecant, son of Outigir, 16.
 Ougen, king of the Picts, 15. See Uven.
 Outigir, son of Eliud, 16.
 Owen, king of the Picts. See Uven.
 Oxenefordshire (Oxford), in, 154.
- PACTOLUS, river, 107.
 " Paisley, the Book of," x.
 Palamedes, son of Nauplius, 379.
 Palgrave, Sir Francis, referred to, lx.
 Palladins preaches to the Scots, 152, sent by Pope Celestine I., 331, 422.
 Palus Mæotis, 4, 394.
 Pannonia, St. Adrian born in, 423.
 Pant, Pout, Bont, Brude, 5, 26, 324, 396.
 Panta, Pantha. See Penda.
 Pardan, son of Eocho find, 310.
 Paredur, 161. See Peretur.
 Partalan, son of Agnoin, Parthai, son of Historech, 23, 24, 323.
 Pathmos (Patmos, in the Ægean), 107.
 Patras (in Achaea), St. Andrew put to death and buried there, 138; the city plundered by Constantius, 183, and relics of St. Andrew removed by him and Regulus, 185, 375.
 Patrick, St., 80, 81, 422; goes to Ireland, 6, 18, 28, 152, 387, 398; welcomed to Dalriada by the sons of Erc; promises the kingdom of Alban to Fergus, son of Erc, 17, 59, 142; founds many churches in Dalriada, 17; converts the Scots, 109; three reliquaries of, lost at sea, 369; comarab of (abbot of Armagh), 372.
 "Patrick, St., Tripartite Life of," notice of, xxix.; extract from (No. 3), 17; Joce-line's Life of, lii.; extract from (No. 20), 142.
 Paulinus, the apostle of the Angles of Northumbria, cli. cliv. 341.
 Pechts. See Picts.
 Penda, Pendle, Panta, Pantha, Planta, son of Pybba, king of the Britons, 13, 14; defeats Oswald, 70, and Etuin, son of Ailli, 70; invades Bernicia, cxvi.; suppresses Christianity in Northumbria, clv.; defeated by Oswy, 348; slain, 13, 15, 71, 349; at Uinuaed, cxvi.; his son dies, 72, 350.
 Penrith, Peynerrie, Alexander III. does homage for, 217, 228, 259.
 Pensandus, a companion of St. Boniface, 422.
 Peohtes, 155. See Picts.
 Peretur, Paredur, slain, 14, 161.
 Persians, their attire, 395.
 Pertz, G. H., referred to, xxxviii.
 Petreius, prior of the Cluniac monastery of St. Saviour's, Bermondsey, 132.
 Petrie, George, referred to, xxvii.
 Peynerrie, 217. See Penrith.
 Phasis, a river of Scythia, 4, 394.
 Pheradach, son of Finleich, 187.
 Pherath, son of Bergeth, probably Ferat, son of Batot, king of the Picts, lviii. 188.
 Phiachan, son of Pheradach, 187.
 Philippus, a companion of Regulus, 187.
 Phillips, Sir Thomas, of Middlehill, referred to, xvi. xvii. xli. lxv.
 Phinguiueghert, son of Unuist, 185.
 Phitonissa (a prophetess), speaks to Saul in the guise of Samuel, 250, 282.
 Piccardach. See Piets.
 Pictavia, Pictinia, its extent, boundaries, and seven provinces, xxxiv. lxxxvi. civ. cvii. 135; the name passes into Albania, after the accession of Donald, son of Constantine, xxxix.; devastated by the Danes and Northmen, 8, 9; seized by Kenneth mac Alpin, 8, 137, 299; St. Boniface lands in, 423. See also Cruith-intnaith.
 Pietavis, Pictabis, Pictairis, in France, built by the Cruithneach, xcvi. 24, 30, 34, 35, 325.
 Piets, Pictores, 67, 71, 74, 349, 354, 355, 358; Piccardach, 74, 75, 76; one of the four great tribes who inhabited Britain in the seventh century, lxxxviii.; origin of the name from the practice of tattooing their skins, 3, 33, 163, 395; their Welsh name Gwydyl Fichti, xlvi. xlix. c. 123, equivalent to Scotti Pieti, cviii. 137.
 The earliest form of the legend of their settlement in Scotland contained in the "Addititious to the Historia Britonum," xxxiii. 23; the Irish form of the legend, xxxiv. 30, xlvi. 125; the Welsh form, xlvi. 122;

Roderick, king of, comes from Scythia, conquers Alban, 122, 155, 199, in the time of Vespasian, 298; defeated and slain by Meuric, 122, 156, 199, 298, near Carlisle, 199, 298; Caithness assigned to the remnant of them to inhabit, 122, 159, 198, 199; subdue the Irish Scots whom they found there, 199; seek wives of the Britons, 122, 160, 298, of the Gwyddyl, 123, but are obliged to obtain them from Ireland, 123, 160, 298, on condition that their children should speak Irish, 199, and that succession should be in the female line, xviii. 298; analogous case of the Britons of Armorica, xcix. ;

A Gothic race, called Agathyrsi by Virgil, brought from Scythia to Britain by Gratian and Valentinian, 163; seek wives of the Britons, but are obliged to obtain them from Ireland, 164;

Driven out of Scythia by Agenor, prince of Egypt, come to Ireland with thirty ships, but are refused access, pass over to Scotland, obtain wives from Ireland, 381. See also Cruithneach.

The first inhabitants of Argyll, cviii. 137; drive out the Britons from Albania, 280; possess the whole of Scotland north of the Forth and Clyde before the arrival of the Scots, xciv.; date of the foundation of their kingdom, civ.; their capital Inverness, exiv.; their territory south of the Forth, cvii.; subjugated by Oswy as far as the Sidlaw hills, cxx.; separated from the Scots by Drumalban, cxii. 148, 171, 287; conquer Dalriada in time of Alpin, son of Echach, cxxx.; their intermixture with settlers from Ireland, whose issue, called Scoti, plot against them, 202; with the Scots harass the Britains after the departure of the Romans, 164; defeat the Angles at Lingaran, and are relieved from tribute, 11; with the Saxons subdue the Britons, 120; battle with the Saxons, 73, 352; defeated by the Saxons at Manand, 73, 354, one hundred and fifty ships of, wrecked at Irois Cuissine, 75; many drowned at Lindabae, 350; battle with the Britons at Mocetae (Catohic), 15, 76, 124, 357, 358; battle among themselves in Circin, 76; battles of Moncrieff, Scone, Monicarno, Drnmdearg, 75, 76, 355, 356; under Hungus utterly defeat Athelstane and the Saxons, 139, 184; plundered by Amlaib and Imhar, 361; many slain in a hosting against the Dugalls, 362; crushed by the Scots, 117, 330, 384, their chiefs being treacherously slain, xx. liv. cxc. exci. 165, 202, 298, 334, 341; date of the event, 203, 209; defeated by Alpin, clxxxvii. 209; fall under the dominion of the Scots in the time of Alpin, 172, 288, 299, 383; subjugated by Kenneth mac Alpin, clxxxvii. 8, 84, 151, 174, 177, 209, 288, 299, 301, 305, 334, 336, who led the Scots "mira calliditate" from Ergadia into Pictavia, 151, 174, 288, 301; influences which combined to effect the overthrow of the Pictish kingdom, exciv.

Their law of succession, c.-ciii. cxviii. cxxxv.; peculiarity in regard to the names of their kings, ci.; number of their kings variously stated, lxv.; variations in the lists of kings, cxiii.-cxvi.; Kenneth mac Alpin and three succeeding kings called kings of, cxxxv. 361, 302; the "Pictish Chronicle" gives the kings of the district in which Brechin is situated, the later lists those who reigned at Scone, cxvi.; date of foundation of the kingdom, civ.; capital at Inverness, exiv.; duration of their dynasty, 135, 148, 203, 287, 298, 330, 334, of the Piets and Scots to Baliol, 208.

Allotted to St. Andrew as a field of missionary labour, 138; converted to the faith but once; the dress of their priests symbolic of this, 201; the southern Piets converted by St. Ninian, the northern by St. Columba, cv.; date, cli.; the diverse constitution and spirit of their respective churches, ciii.; the Columban Church soon embraces all Pietland, clv.; St. Boethius arrives among them, 410;

- restores to life their king, Nectan, 411; St. Boniface goes to evangelize them; baptizes their king, Nectan, 423; St. Servanus goes on the same mission, clix. 416; Nectan submits to the Roman usages, and the Columban clergy are expelled, clvii. 74, 354; this change the subject of the "Legend of St. Boniface," clviii.; probably a diocesan episcopacy established, clix.; St. Columba superseded as patron saint by St. Peter, and he by St. Andrew, clix. clxiv.; influence of Columban clergy in the overthrow of the Pictish kingdom, clx. exciv.; their return to influence shadowed forth in the "Legend of St. Adrian," clxi. 424; his mission really indicates a Scottish occupation of Pictland, clxii.; those conquered by Oswy placed under the jurisdiction of Wilfrid, bishop of York, cxviii. clvi.; Trumwin appointed their bishop, cxix.clvi.
 "Pictish Chronicle," the (No. 1), xii.; notice of, xviii. clxvi.; probably compiled by the monks of Brechin, xxiii. cxxvi., as recording the kings of the district in which Brechin is situated, cxxvi.; text of, 1.
 "Picts, Tract on the," from the "Leabhar Gabhala" (No. 14), xlvi.; text, 125.
 "Picts and Scots, Chronicle of the" (No. 29), in the "Register of the Priory of St. Andrews," lvi. clxxi.; text, 171.
 "Picts and Scots, Chronicle of the" (No. 32), probably translated from the "Chronicle of Lochleven," ix. clxxiii.; text, 194.
 "Picts and Scots, Chronicle of the" (No. 36), lxv. clxxv.; text, 285.
 "Picts, Tract on the" (No. 42), gives a new form of the Pictish legend, lxviii.; text, 318.
 "Picts, Tract on the" (No. 43), lxviii.; text, 322.
 "Picts, Tract on the" (No. 44), lxix.; text, 323.
 Pilgrims from all quarters resort to St. Andrews, 140.
 Pinkerton, John, his "Inquiry into the History of Scotland," xii.; various chronicles edited by him, xviii. li. lviii. lxx. lxxiii.
 Pitelpin, Basalpin (in the Carse of Gowrie), Alpin, father of Kenneth, slain there, clxxxiv.
 Planta, 70. See Penda.
 Pledan, son of Eocho find, 310.
 Poison, milk used as an antidote to, 31, 36, 326.
 Policornus, king of Thrace, falls in love with the daughter of Cruithne, 30, 34, 325.
 "Policronicon," 385. See Higden.
 Polmont, parish of, in the district of ancient Calathros, lxxx.
 Pompeius, Cneius, 108.
 Pout, Pant, Bont, Brude, 5, 26, 324, 396.
 Popilton, Populton, Robert de, xix.
 Populton, William de, xix.
 Poponeuet, 149. See Vipoig.
 Porry, the heath, 197.
 Portent, two moons seen in the heavens, 387.
 Portugal, Portingale, Gayelglas comes to, 387.
 Portus reginae (Queensferry), 184.
 Potentia, comes to Scotland with Regulus, 187.
 Priam, king of Troy, 330.
 Principius, a companion of St. Boniface, 422.
 "Prophecy, Metrical" (No. 11), notice of, xlii.; text, 117.
 Pybba, 14.
 RADHARC, Radhard, Amdrach, Andarch, Amthar, son of Donald, 179, 289.
 Raichinueramon, 301. See Rathinveramon.
 Raith Bethach, 76. See Rathbethach.
 Raith Inverament, 174; Raitinueramon, 288. See Rathinveramon.
 Ramsay, William de, 291.
 Ranald, king of the Dugalls, expelled from Erin, invades Alban, 363.
 Ranald, son of Gofraighe, king of the Isles dies, 366.
 Ranald, son of Somerled, defeats the men of Skye, 373; his sons, with Thomas, son of Uchtraig, ravage Derry, Columcille, and Inisowen, 373.
 Randolph, Thomas, Earl of Moray, Lord of Man and Annandale, 291.
 Ranulphi, 291. See Randolph.

- Rasay, river. See Rosis.
 Rathbethach, Cathasagh slain at, 76, 357.
 Rathero (near Slane, county Meath), 79.
 Rath Cruachan, 127.
 Rathethart, 349. See Srathaethairt.
 Rathindruad, battle of, 68, 168, 346.
 Rathinveramon, Rathveramon, Raith Invera-ment, Raitinueramon, Raichinueramon (a place at the confluence of the Almond with the Tay, near Scone), Donald, son of Alpin, dies at, cxxxiv. 151, 174, 288, 301 ;
 Constantine, son of Culen, slain at, cxliv.
 cxlii. 152, 175, 179, 289, 302.
 Rathus Rothia, Eccach-rothai, Ecdraig bua-daig, great-grandson of Symon Brek, x.
 134, 144 ; the first who came from Ireland into Scotland, Rothesay named from him, 380 ; conducts the Scots from Ireland into Scotland, x.
 Rathveramon, 175. See Rathinveramon.
 Recca, occupied by the Firbolg, 23.
 Recharnn founded, 70.
 Redda, Reuda, Rether, Rothir, great-grandson of Fergus, son of Ferchard, 134, 144 ;
 seizes Galloway, Argyll and the Isles, xi.
 cxvi. cxii. 202, 298.
 Red Sea, 379 ; Servanus and his company cross dryshod, 414.
 Reeves, William, D.D., referred to, xvii.
 lxxiv.
 Regnall, king of the Dugalls, defeated at Tinemore, cxli. 9.
 Reguillon, 347 ; Regullan, 310. See Ri-gullan.
 Regulus, St., instructed in a vision to hide part of the remains of St. Andrew at Patras, 183, 375 ; directed to carry them to Scotland, 139, 184, 376 ; lands with them at Kilrymont, 139, 185, 202, from which he proceeds to Forteviot, thence to the Mounth, where he meets Hungus, 185 ; returns to Monikie and Kilrymont, assisting in the consecration of land there,
 186 ; abbot of St. Andrews, with jurisdiction over the third part of Scotland, 140 ;
 dies, and is buried there, 377.
 Rein, son of Mair, 145.
 Rescobie. See Roscolbin.
 Restinot (Restennot, Forfarshire), St.
 Boniface lands there, 423.
 Rether, xi. See Redda.
 Rether, son of Rowieu, 144. See Rothir.
 Retigirn, son of Oudecant, 16.
 Reuda, 298. See Redda.
 Riafich, son of Gomer, 134.
 Riagal, of Bangor, 402.
 Riagan, son of Augns mor, 311.
 Richard I., 211 ; receives the homage of William the Lyon at Canterbury, 227 ; formally remits the concessions extorted
 by his father from William, clxix. 212, 257.
 Richard, bishop of St. Andrews, consecrated, clxvii.
 Richard of Devizes, his "Winchester Annals," xlvi.
 Richmond (in Yorkshire), William the Lyon taken to, 301.
 Riderch, Rodercus, king of Strathclyde, xciv.
 xcvi. eliv. 12, 15 ; unites the petty states of Cumhria into one kingdom, and fixes his capital at Alc Clyde, xciii.
 Riemmelth, wife of Osguill, 11.
 Righ Monaigh, Rigmonath, Rigmund. See
 St. Andrews.
 Rigullan, Regullan, son of Conaing, slain,
 69, 347.
 Rithi, siege of, 353.
 Robert I. See Bruce, Robert.
 Robert II., 340, 389 ; his death, 390.
 Robert III., 340.
 Robert, prior of Scone, and bishop of St.
 Andrews, 190 ; consecrated by Thmrstan, clxvi. 191.
 Robert, a monk, sent by Adebald, bishop of Carlisle, is appointed prior of St. Andrews, 192.
 Robert, presbyter of Tynningham, enters the priory of St. Andrews, 193.
 Robert, bishop of Glasgow, imprisoned by Edward I., 219.
 Robertach, comarb of Hi, dies, 364.
 Robertach, sou of Ferdommach, comarb of
 Hi, dies, 369.
 Robertson, Joseph, LL.D., referred to, xiv.
 Rodchada, Rothotha, sou of Ogmaich, Ogimain, 134, 145.
 Rodercus, xciv. xcvi. See Riderch.
 Roderic, king of the Picts, comes from Scythia, and conquers Alban, 122, 155 ;

- defeated and put to death by Meuric, 122, 156.
- Roderic, son of Donald, plunders Derry, Columcille, and the north of Ireland, 373.
- Roin, Rowein, son of Arndil, 134, 144.
- Roisin, son of Thrir. See Rosin.
- Rokesborw, 214. See Roxburgh.
- Rollant, son of Uchtraig, king of Galloway, dies, 373.
- Romans, the Britons seek help from, 165, 243; the Britons seek help from the Scots and Picts against, 381; build walls for the protection of the Britons, 163, 243, 244, 382; pilgrims to St. Andrews, 140.
- Roman territory, the Cruithneach pass across, 30.
- Rome, 103, 386; Macbeth at, 65; Dunwallawn goes on a pilgrimage to, 124; Cadwaladr Vendigeit goes to, 162; Indrechtaig suffers martyrdom on his way to, 169.
- Rome, See of, its claim to the superiority of Scotland, 216, 219, admitted by the Scots, 236, as based upon the Donum Constantini, 246; St. Servanus holds for seven years, 414; St. Boniface elected to, 421.
- Rona, river Rhone, 118.
- Ronan, abbot of Cindgaradh, dies, 76, 357.
- Ronan, son of Aidan, 317.
- Ronan, son of Angus mor, 317.
- Ronan, son of Tuathal, dies, 168.
- Ros, Rossia (Ross-shire), one of the subdivisions of Scotia, lxxiv. lxxxv. lxxxvii. 136; its extent, 215; the Scots (Chorischi) occupy, 108; marriage portion of Margaret, daughter of Prince Henry; William, earl of, 291.
- Roscollin, Roscolbyn, Roscolpin, Roscolpin (Rescobie, Forfarshire), Donald, son of Duncan, dies at, 175, 181, 289, 303.
- Ros deorand, numbers of the township of, 312.
- Rosin, Roisin, son of Thrir, Ther, 134, 144, 315.
- Rosis (the Rasay in Ross-shire), a Scots colony (Chorischi) reaches, excii. 108.
- Rossfochan. See Iroisfoichne.
- Rosslyn (Midlothian), battle of, 389.
- Ross na Righ, Aidan makes submission to Baedan at, 127.
- Rotansag, Rotechtag, son of Fingan, pnt to death, 72, 351.
- Rothir, son of Roin, Rether, son of Rowein, Rothir, son (grandson), of Arndil, 134, 144, 315.
- Rothissaye (Rothesay, in Bute), called from Rathus Rothia, 380.
- Rothotha, 145. See Rodchada.
- Rowein, son of Arndil, 144. See Roin.
- Roxburgh, Rokesborw, castle in Tyndale, 214; Stephen pursues David as far as, 212.
- Royth, son of Run, 11.
- Ru, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 397.
- Ru, king of the Picts, 6, 27, 398.
- Ruadach, son of Ferchar, 317.
- Ruadri, son of Morgaind, 317.
- Rum, son of Urbgen, baptizes Eadguin, his daughter Eanfled, and a vast number of the Northumbrians, clv. 13.
- Run, xxix. 11.
- Run, son of Arthgal, king of the Strathclyde Britons, xxix. xcvi. 15.
- Russell, Patrick, Continuation of Fordun ascribed to, x.
- Ryan, Loch (Wigtownshire), clxxxv.
- Ryderchen. See Riderchen.
- Rymer, Thomas, bis "Foedera" referred to, lxii.
- Rymont (Regius mons), Kilrymont, 188. See St. Andrews.
- SABAUDIA, 282. See Savoy.
- Sabrina, 153. See Severn.
- St. Andrews (Fifeshire), Muckros, Righ Monaigh, Rigmorath, Rigmund, Rymont, Chilrymont, Kilmont, Kilremonth, the relics of St. Andrew brought thither by Regulus, 139, 176, 186; founded and dedicated to St. Andrew with much solemnity by Hungus, 186, 202; twelve crosses erected to mark the limits of the land so consecrated, 186; becomes a place of pilgrimage, and of refuge, 140; as extensive district assigned to the church there as an endowment; its boundaries, 186; seven churches (chapels) erected, 187 ; made by Hungus chief city and metropolitan see, 376 ; the inhabitants exempted from military service and taxation, 187 ; Alexander I. grants fresh endowments and privileges, 189 ; the grant by Hungus of the Cursus Apri renewed by Alexander, for repairing of the neglect into which the services of the church had fallen, 190 ; the king's equipments presented to the church in memory of his gifts, 190 ; the Scots occupy it, excii. 108.

Culdees of, their mode of life, 188 ; Constantine, son of Aed, abbot of the Culdees of, is buried there, cxli. 151, 174, 178, 205, 288, 301, 305, 364 ; Tuathalan, abbot, 76, 357.

The priory (Augustinian, 93) founded by Alexander I., 191 ; Robert, the bishop, applies to Adebold of Carlisle for a prior ; Robert, a monk from the church of St. Oswald's, is sent ; for a time no canons appointed, 192 ; King David I. visits St. Andrews ; the Cursus Apri and other lands are assigned as an endowment to the priory, 193.

The cathedral founded by Malcolm IV., 388 ; consecrated, 389 ; becomes the chief seat of the Scottish Church in the time of Constantine, son of Aed, clxiii. ; the diocese and its population, clxiv. ; the bishop called bishop of the Scots (Episcop Scotorum) clxiii. 190 ; the election of bishops gives rise to contests about the independence of the Scottish Church, clxvi. clxvii. ; the archbishop of York claims jurisdiction over, clxvi. ; Bishops of—Robert, prior of Scone, consecrated by Thurstan, clxvi. 190, 191 ; Arnold, clxvii. ; Richard, clxvii. ; David crowns Alexander II., 176 ; John, 226 ; Arnold, 388.

The foundation of, antedated by four centuries, clxvii. clxxiv. clxxxiii. ; the date, according to Fordun, clxxviii. clxxxii. ; the falsification of the chronicles for the purpose of giving a higher antiquity to the Scottish kingdom chiefly traceable to the community of, clxxx.

Kings buried at, 151, 174, 178, 205, 288, 301, 305, 364.

St. Clair, Henry de, 291.
 St. Davids. See Cillemuine.
 St. Fillans, cxxxvi.
 St. Johnston (Perth), battle of, 390.
 St. Mary, convent of, founded by David I., 133.
 St. Nicholas, convent of, founded by David I., 133.
 St. Saviour's, Bermondsey, a Cluniac monastery ; Mary, daughter of Malcolm III. dies and is buried there, 132.
 Salomon, king of Hungary, receives the sons of Edmund Ironsides, 210.
 Sancto Claro, Henricus de. See St. Clair.
 Saracens, 387 ; the sacrilegious ravages of Edward I. in Scotland compared to those of, 233.
 Sarrau, king of the Britons, overcomes the Saxons and the Cruithneach ; marries Babona, daughter of Loarn, 52.
 Savoy, count of, assists Edward I., 282.
 "Saxon Chronicle," the, quoted, cxl.
 Saxonia, cxliv. 118 ; its limits ; name changed to Lothian, lxxix. ; invaded by the Scots, 10.
 Saxons, lxxxvii. 88, 94, 104, 234, one of the four tribes inhabiting Britain in the seventh century, lxxxviii. ; are called over from Germany by the Britons to aid them against the Scots and Picts, lxxxix. 165, 383, 387, but they oppress them, 165 ; they drive out the Britons from Loegria (Anglia), 247, 280, 361, 383 ; are themselves driven out by the Danes, 247, 280, 383, 384 ; expel the Danes, and found the kingdom of Anglia, 248, 280 ; their seven kingdoms united by Egbert, 203 ; subdued by the Normans, 280 ; ravage Strathclyde, 15, 124 ; Cruithnechan fights against, 45 ; fight with the Picts, 73, 352 ; defeat the Picts at Mangan, 354 ; defeated by the Britons at Badon, 15, 161 ; Sarrau, king of the Britons, establishes his power over, 52 ; Luirig extends his power over, 53 ; sovereignty assumed by Murcertach mac Erc, 54 ; with the Franks make war on mac Erc, 56 ; with the Picts subdue the Northmen, 121 ; under Adelstan defeat the Northmen, 363 ; fight with the Galls, 364; defeat Aidan, 68, 346; defeat the men of Alban, 366, 369; defeated six times by Kenneth mac Alpin, 299; their depredations in Ireland, 167, 343; devastate the plain of Bregia, and destroy many churches, 351; hosting of, against Oswald; heir-apparent slain, 70; Indrechtaig suffers martyrdom among, 169, 360.

Augustine introduces Christianity among them, 387; date according to Fordun, clxxviii.; they receive the faith, 68; the first Saxon convert baptized, 69; Aidan, bishop of, 71, 348.

Scandail, son of Murcertach mac Ercæ; the gens Scandall descended from, 55; his son put to death, 72.

Scanlan, son of Cathal, king of the Eoganachs of Locha Lein, slain, 368.

Scannal, son of Bee, son of Fiachrach, king of the Cruithne, 348.

Schevez, William, Archbishop of St. Andrews, x.

Schithia, 292. See Seythia.

Schropschire, in Mirchenelaga, 154.

Seith (Skye), people of, 71, 319.

Scone, Scoan (Perthshire), 21, 84, 97, 102; Castellum Credi, Caislen Credhi, Collum crednlitatis at, cxxv. 9, 75, 355; Belachoir, Bellathor, probably at or near, excii. 8, 178; chief seat of the Pictish kingdom, lxxxvi.; the kingdom of which it was capital, exxxvii. clxiv. 19; national assembly held by Constantine and Cellach at, 9; Drust, son of Ferat, slain at, cxxxii. clxxxix. exci.; Elpin defeated at, cxxv. 355; Alexander III. crowned at, 176; Robert Bruce elected king at, 389; Baliol crowned at, 388; Matilda, queen of David I., buried at, 337; the abbey, founded by Alexander I., 387; given by him to St. Andrews, 190; Robert, first bishop of, clxvi. 190; Robert, first prior of, 192.

"Scone, the Book of," x.

Scota, daughter of Pharaoh, wife of Gaide-lus, x. 146, 194, 330, 378, 379; gives name to Scotland, 3, 109, 117, 146, 166, 197, 241, 280, 304, 334, 378, 379, 393; her epoch, 330.

Scotia (Ireland), 161, 380, 393; called the Island of the Scots by Isidore, 241; called Scotia Major, 380.

Scotia (Scotland), the name applied to no part of present Scotland before the tenth century, lxxv.-lxxvii.; before that called Alban, Albania, lxxv. 143, 222, 241, Albion, x., from Albanactus, 135, 222; but the name Scot not then applied exclusively to the inhabitants of Ireland, lxxvi.; next called Pictavia (q.v.), from the Picts, 135; on the destruction of the Picts called after Scota (q.v.) by Ethach Rothay, xi.; earliest notice of the application of the name, 65; limits of the district to which the name first applied, lxxvii. lxxix. lxxxvi. 154; the country to the north of the Forth only so called, 341; still so applied after it had an extended meaning, cxlviii.; called Albania after the accession of Donald, son of Constantine, exxxix., towards the end of his reign Scotland by the Saxons, cxli., and generally in the reign of Malcolm II., cxlviii.; called, in contradistinction to Ireland, Scotia Minor, 380; topographical description of, 135-137; 214-215; divided into seven provinces, their names and limits, lxxxiv. lxxxv. lxxxvi. 136; its divisions in the twelfth century, lxxxvi. lxxxvii. 154; inhabited in the seventh century by four races, lxxxvii.; their localities and capitals, exiv.; their relative position in the eighth century, exxii.; in the eleventh, under Malcolm II., cxlvii.; peopled from Ireland, 146 (See Scots); divided from Loegria by the wall of Severns, 243, 244; the Rerecross of Stanmoir, its south boundary, 204; taken possession of by the sons of Mured, king of Ulster, 146; ravaged by Roderic, leader of the Picts, 155.

Controversy about the independence of, clxv.-clxxxii. 216, at first a controversy about the independence of the Church, clxvi.-clxxii.; superiority of, claimed by Boniface VIII. for the See of Rome, 216, 219, as included in the Donum Constantini, 246, 274; the claim admitted by the Scots, 236, 246, 261, 268, 269, 270, 272, 292, in gratitude for the victory over the Saxons at Tynemonth, the Pope being for a long time their only metropolitan, 248; its independence recognised in the treaty of marriage between Edward and Margaret of Norway, 218; claim of the archbishop of York to jurisdiction in, 219; the nobles consult Edward as to the succession, 338; Edward's letter to Boniface, claiming superiority over, 221; kings of, alleged to have been vassals of the kings of England, 222, 223, 224; miracle wrought at Dunbar in evidence of subjection, 223; the nobles at York bind themselves to do homage to Henry II., 226, 227; acknowledge their vassalage on the death of Alexander III., 228; so also the competitors for the crown, 228; John Baliol does homage, 229, but under compulsion, 283; rebels, 229, invades England, 230, is defeated and the country subdued by Edward, 231; the Instructions of the Government of, in reference to the claims of Edward, 232; contained twelve dioceses in the time of Edward I., 239; its ancient hostility to England; not subject to any king of the Britons or Saxons, except for a short time to Arthur, 247, 248; freed from Arthur by Modred, 247, 281; maintained independence amid the changes Loegria underwent, 248; always a secure refuge for fugitives from England, 257; as the fief of Rome, not subjected to a census like England, but protected in independence against the Saxons and Angles, 249; the homage rendered by its kings only for fiefs in England, 252, 258, 259, 273, 281, 282, 384; the action of the nobles at the death of Alexander III., 217, 260, 276, and the engagement at the betrothal of Edward and Margaret proofs of independence, 218, 262, 275; Honorius III., Celestine I., and Innocent IV. decide that appeals from Scotland lie only to the Holy See, 263, 274; Edward's demand to control the coronation of the king of, 264, 273; and to levy a tithe for a crusade, 265, 273; papal legates bound to have a separate commission for the kingdom of, 265, 277; muniiments of the kingdom carried off by Edward I., 266.

Effect of this controversy in corrupting the chronicles, clxvii.-clxxiv.; the tradition of Brutus and Albanus rejected, and a Scottish kingdom interpolated before the Pictish, clxx.; the high antiquity thus given to the Scottish kingdom, clxxi. clxxxiii.; two sets of chronicles thus produced, one antedating the foundation of St. Andrews, the other that of the kingdom, clxxiv.; these perversions all more or less connected with St. Andrews, clxxxii.; Fordun's attempt in the same direction to harmonize the chronicles, clxxvii. clxxxii.

The Christianity of, from two different sources; the Church of the northern Picts and Scots Columban, of the southern Picts and Angles Roman, cliii.; the consequent difference in their constitution and spirit, clii.-cliv.; the Church founded by St. Ninian, its apostasy, its revival by St. Kentigern, cliv.; the expulsion of the Columban clergy and their return, clvii. clxi., their influence in promoting the overthrow of the Picts and the establishment of the kingdom of Kenneth, clx. xciv.; Adrian's mission really a Scottish occupation of Pictland, clxii.; claims of the archbishop of York to authority in, 219; Scottish Church admits the supremacy of the English, clix.; contained twelve dioceses in the time of Edward I., 239.

"Scotland, Description of" (No. 17), notice of the tract, xl ix.; text, 135.

"Scotland, Description of" (No. 34), notice of the tract, lxi.; text, 214.

"Scotland, Tracts relating to English Claims of Superiority over" (No. 35), lxi.; text, 216.

"Scotland, Letter to the Pope from the Barons of" (No. 37), lxvi. clxxvi. 291. Scots, origin of the name, 3, 46, 109, 117, 145, 146, 166, 197, 241, 280, 298, 304, 334, 376, 379, 393; called Gatheli (Gael), 137, 166, 197; one of the four tribes inhabiting Britain in the seventh century, lxxxviii.; the name not applied exclusively to the inhabitants of Ireland when it alone was called Scotia, lxxvi.;

Come from Choriscon in Lydia, reach Cloyne in Ireland, take Armagh, Kildare, Cork, Bangor, pass over to Iona, enter Ross-shire, and call the country so occupied Scotland, cxi. 107, 108; Boece gives the same direction to this invasion, cxiii.; this probably the colony which settled at St. Andrews in time of Kenneth, cxii.

Named from Scota, come from Egypt to Ireland, cross to Argyll, drive out the Britons (Picts) from Albania, and give it the name Scotland, 240, 241, 243, 280.

Come from Scythia, 292, 298, 333, to Spain and Scotland under Gaidelus, and expel the Britons and Picts, 292.

Degenerate Britons, who losing their proper name of Albanenses, were named from Scota, 304.

Descended from the Greeks through Gaidelus, not from the Trojans, 378; never subject to the Britons or Romans, 380; their freedom from foreign domination, 381, 384; harassed by numerous enemies, 384.

Descended from the Piets and Gwydyl, 123; their kings sprung from Brntus, 117; constantly plot against the Piets, 202, 298; treacherously slay the Pictish chiefs at a banquet, exc. cxci. 165, 202, 298, 341; date of the event, 209; drive the Piets to the mountains, 341; occupy the country from sea to sea, and give their name to it, 165, 299; extended their dominion over the Pictish territory in the time of Kenneth, 151, 174, 177, 204, 288, 301, 383; harassed by the Northmen, 118; Scots in Caithness subjugated by the Piets, 199; attire of, 395; language of (lingua Scota), See Gaelic.

Development of the Scottish fable, xi. cix. cxlix.; their first appearance as assailants of the Roman province, cix. cxlix., subsequently as allies of the Piets, cix. 164, 382, in the time of Severns, 243; they help the Britons against the Romans, Arthur makes war on them, 382; on both occasions they came from Ireland, cix. 197, 298, 341, their customs and language Irish, 197, and return to Ireland, cix.; their first permanent settlement that of the three sons of Erc, cix. cxli. 18, 39, 52, 308, in Argyll, 341; the date of it, ex.; their kings the first kings of Alban; afterwards for a time confined to Dalriada, cxi. cxli.; the independence of the kings of Dalriada obtained, cxii.; conquered by the Piets in the time of Alpin, son of Echach, cxxxii. cxlii.; the kings from Alpin, son of Echach, to Kenneth mac Alpin, were consequently of Pictish race, cxxxii. cxxxii. cl.; the kingdom subsequently founded by Kenneth mac Alpin, first Pictish, afterwards Scottish, cl.; the founders of the second Scottish kingdom under Kenneth, a fresh colony who came from Ireland under Redda to Galloway, clxxxix. exci. excii. 202, 298, whether Alpin, the last king of Dalriada, had led his people, cxiii. 149, 172, 288; the two royal families which sprang from Kenneth, and their principal seats, cxlvii.; variations in the lists of kings, cxvii.-cxxxiii., and in the epoch assigned them, through perversions of the chronicles, clxvii.-clxxxiv.; duration of their dynasty in Alban, xlvi. clxx. 148, 197, 288, 330, 335, from Kenneth to Alexander I., lvi. lxv. 176, 209, 290, 303, to William I., lxvii. 306, of the Piets and Scots, to John Baliol, 208.

Conversion of, 167, 292; on occasion of the arrival of the relics of St. Andrew, clxv. 248, and by the preaching of Regulus and his companions, 376; receive the faith from the preaching of Palladius, 331, 387, and adhere to it without apostasy, 152; Christians before they came to Scotland, cl.; their conversion preceded that of the Saxons or Angli by four centuries, 287, 273, 386; date of it, 331, according to Fordun, clxxviii.; their Church freed from Pictish domination by Grig, 151, 174, 178, 204, 288, 301, 305. See also Scotland, Dalriada.

Scots, 383. See Scythians.

"Scots, Chronicle of the" (No. 16), notice of, xlvi. clxvii.; text, 130.

"Scots and Piets, Chronicle of the" (No. 23),

- James Gray's transcript of, lli. clxx.; text, 148.
- "Scots, Chronicle of the" (No. 40), notice of, lxvii.; text, 304.
- "Scots of Dalriada, Tract on the" (No. 41), notice of, lxviii.; text, 308.
- "Scots, Tract on the" (No. 45), lxix.; text, 330.
- "Scots, Chronicle of the" (No. 50), notice of, lxxiii.; text, 378.
- "Scots, Chronicle of the" (No. 38), its variations in the lists of kings, lxvi.; text, 295.
- "Scots, Chronicle of the" (No. 39), notice of, lxvii.; text, 298.
- Scots Sea (the river Forth), 341, 423; the name Britain extended only to, 380.
- Scotterwatre, the river Forth, 136; inference as to the authorship of the tract (No. 17), from the word Romane applied to the name, cli.
- Scuagh munere, Sluagh maner, Stuagmuner, one of the boundaries of the kingdom of Dalriada, 148, 171, 287.
- Scythia, Scithia, Scita, name Scotia derived from, 3, 145; Scots from, 292, 298, 333; Picts driven from, by Agenor, 381; Picts under Roderic come from, 122, 155, 199, 298; Valentinian and Gratian bring the Picts from, 163.
- Scythians, their origin, character, and territory, 3, 4, 393, 394; described by Herodotus, 383; allotted to St. Andrew as a sphere of labour, 138, 188.
- Sealhant, son of Regagane, 149. See Selvach.
- Sealnach, 288; Sealvanach, 335. See Selvach.
- Sebald, son of Siggar, 11.
- Sechnusag, son of Garlhan, slain, 346.
- Sechnusag, son of Airmidhag, dies, 72; put to death, 351.
- Segene, 168; Seghine, 71. See Seigine.
- Seghuisse, battle of, 70, 347.
- Seigine, Seigni, Segene, Seghine, abbot of Ili, founds Recharm, 70; dies, 71, 168, 348.
- Seimhniu, 127.
- Selbac, Selbach, Selbagh. See Selvach.
- Selim, son of Cinan, slain at Carleon, 14.
- Selvach, Selbac, Selbagh, Seluad, son of Ferchar, Fergus, king of Dalriada, 20, 177; builds Dunolly, 73; destroys it, 356; fights with Duncan m-becc at Ardeancesbi; goes on pilgrimage, 74, 355; his sons taken captive, 76; battle at Irroisfoichne, 355; dies, 356.
- Selvach, Sealvach, Seluak, Sealhant, Sealvanach, son of Eogan, Heochgain, Cogan, king of Dalriada, cxxix. 130, 149, 198, 288, 305, 335; called Icalulanc, son of Eoganan, 172.
- Sem, son of Mair, 134.
- Semoin, son of Brie, 134. See Symon Brek.
- Senchormac, son of Cruitlinde, 133, 144.
- Seneschal of Scotland, Walter, 291.
- Seres (the Chinese), their attire, 395.
- Servanus, St., lxxiv.; the circumstances of his birth; his name Malachias, 412; baptized by Magonius, refuses a kingdom, becomes a monk at Alexandria, elected bishop of the Canaanites; instructed in a vision to go to Constantinople, and to Rome, where he becomes bishop, 413; again ordered to remove; crosses the Alps and reaches Scotland, 414-416; Fife assigned to him and his followers, 416, 210; Brude, king of the Picts, desires to kill him, but is cured by him of a deadly disease, 417; the island in Loch Leven given to him by Brude, lxi.; founds the monastery there, and builds many churches in Fife; lives as an anchorite; his temptation, 417; his miracles at Tullibody, Tillicoultry, Alva, Aithrey, 418; lives at Dunning; slays a dragon there; cures performed by him, 419; his death, 420; probably belonged to the same mission as St. Boniface, clix.
- Servandus, a companion of St. Boniface, 422.
- Servius, his explanation of the name Picts, 163.
- Setna, son of Fergus beg, from whom sprang the Cinel Coneridhe, 310.
- Setna, son of Olchu, 309.
- Setone, Alexander de, 292.
- Severn, river, Sabrina, one of the boundaries of Loegria, 121, of Cambria, 153.
- Severns, the Emperor, slain at York, 382; his wall, built for protection of the Britons

INDEX.

- against the Scots and Picts, separates Scotia from Loegria, 243, 244.
- Sguerthing, son of Soemil, 11.
- Shinah, son of Lutheren, 187.
- Shropshire, in Mircenelaga, 154.
- Sibbald, Sir Robert, referred to, iv.
- Sicinus Sinus, 107.
- Siggar, son of Beydelg Brond, 11.
- Silvius, one of the companions of Regulus, 187.
- Simal, Simul, son of Drust, put in chains, 74, 355.
- Sin, son of Roisin, 134, 144, 135.
- Sinchraid, son of Lodur, earl of Orkney, slain, 367.
- Sinon hrick, 144. See Symon.
- Sireis, 186. See Ceres.
- Sirna, Sirne, son of Dem, Dein, 134, 144.
- Skye, Seith, Island of, 128; people of, 171, 349; men of, defeated by Ranald, son of Somerled, 373.
- Slamanan (Linlithgowshire), meaning of the name, lxxxii.
- Slanoll, a king of the Cruithneach of Alban, whg ruled Erin, in Tara, 321.
- Sleibh Mis, 48.
- Sleibine, abbot of Hi, goes to Ireland, 76, 358; returns, 76; dies, 168, 358.
- Sletheuma, 186.
- Sliabh Elpa, 128.
- Slines, Malcolm, son of Kenneth, dies at, 289. See Glammes.
- Sluagadach goes to Rome, 10.
- Sluaghmaner, 71.
- Snow, great fall of, 67, 345; wine-snow, 320.
- Sodor, Mark, bishop of, 219.
- Soemil, king of the North Angles, first separated Deira from Bernicia, 11.
- Soghains, the seven, 321.
- Solen, son of Cruithne, 30, 31, 34, 38, 325, 326, 327.
- Solon, son of Conain, king of the Britons, slain at Caerleon, 68, 346.
- Somarlidiens, defeat of their fleet, in Buchan, 10.
- Somerled, son of Gilleadamnan, and his sons, slain, 372.
- Somersetshire, called by the British Glastenon, 154.
- Sortes Virgilianæ, employed by Beanus to convince Cadroe, 112.
- Soules, William de, 291.
- Spain, 146; Scots come from Egypt to, 241, 292; Gadel (Gaizilglas) lands in, x. 195, 333, 380; date of its conquest by Charlemagne, 387.
- Spaniards, their costume, 395.
- Spaynze, 380. See Spain.
- Spe (Spey), river, lxxxv. 136; formed the northern boundary of ancient Scotland, lxxviii. lxxxvi. lxxxvii. cxlviii.
- Spiny, Spyny, castle of, in Moray, 214.
- Sradeern, Sraith herni. See Strathearn.
- Sraithcarraim Srathacaun, Srathearn (Strathcarron, Stirlingshire), battle of, cxvi. 70, 72, 348.
- Sran, son of Esro, 134.
- Sratha-cluaidhe (Strathclyde), 361.
- Srathaethairt, Rath ethart, battle of, 71, 349.
- Sruithlinn (probably the Linn of Campsie, on the Tay, cxliv), 97.
- Staffordshire, in Mircenelaga, 154.
- Stagna Dera'm, 10.
- Stallo, king of France, slain by Arthur, 383.
- Standard, battle of the, 212.
- Stanmoir (on the borders of Yorkshire, Durham and Westmoreland), Kenneth penetrates to, 10; Rere-cross of, the southern boundary of the Scots, 204.
- Staterius, king of Scotland, slain by Dunwallon, 222.
- Stephen, king of England, marries Matilda, grand-daughter of Malcolm III., 131; creates Prince Henry earl of Northumberland, 207, 212, receives his homage, 225; David I. fights against him in the interest of the Empress Matilda, 212, 253.
- Stevenson, Rev. Joseph, referred to, xiii. lx. lxvi.
- Stewart, Robert. See Robert II.
- Stewart, Walter, 340.
- Stirling, Strivelin, Strivelyn, Stryvelin, 131, 175, 181, 207, 290, 303; castle of, in Lothian, 214; battle of Stirling bridge, 389.
- Stone of Destiny, heloenged originally to Pharaoh, king of Egypt; brought to Spain by

- Gaizilglas, 333; the kings of Spain crowned on it; brought to Ireland by Symon Brek, x. 196, 333; taken to Scone by Fergus, son of Erc, 197, 335, by Scota, 286; kings of Scotland crowned on it, 197; carried to Westminster by Edward I, 197, 266, 280.
- Strabolgin, 182; Strabolgy, 206. See Strathhogie.
- Strathallan, Strathalin, Strathalnn (Stirlingshire), Aed slain in battle there, cxxxv. 151, 174, 288, 301.
- Stralbogie, Strathbolgin, Strathbolgyn, Strathbolgin, Strathbologia, Strabolgy (Aberdeenshire), 152, 175, 180, 206, 289, 302.
- Strathearron. See Sraitheairinn.
- Strathclyde, Strat Clnt, Stratha-Cluaidh (or Cumbria), extent of the kingdom of, lxxix.; till the time of Riderchen divided into several petty states, xciii.; ravaged by the Saxons, 15, 124, by the king of the Lochlans, 407; kings of, xcvi. 15. See also Cumbria.
- Strathearn, Sradeern, Sraithherni, Stratb eryn (in Perthshire), 136; Northmen defeated in, 9; Malise, earl of, 291.
- Stratone, Alexander de, 292.
- Stregwalii, Alfred, king of the, 223.
- Strivelin, Strivelyn. See Stirling.
- Stuagmuner, 287.
- Suartgar, slain, 367.
- Succession, law of, among the Picts, c. cxviii. cxxxv.
- Sudreyar, or Sudreys, the Norwegian name for the Hebrides, lxxxvii.
- Suevi, in Germany, 4, 394.
- Suevi (the Swedes), 210.
- Suffolk, in Danelaga, 154.
- Suibne, son of Cuirthre, abbot of Hi, goes to Ireland, 358; dies, 71, 349, 358.
- Suibne, son of Kenneth, king of Galloway, 77, 369.
- Surrey, Sutherlandshire, in Wessenelaga, 154.
- Sussex, Suthsexshire, in Wessenelaga, 154.
- Sunthamptonshire (Hampshire), in Wessene laga, 154.
- Suthereyshire. See Surrey.
- Sutherland (Sutherland), William, earl of, 291.
- Sutbsexshire. See Sussex.
- Syferth, sylregulus, vassal of Edgar, 224.
- Symon, earl of Northampton, 144.
- Symon Brek, Symond Bret, Sinon Brich, son of Milo, Semoin, son of Brice, 134, 144; king of Spain, brings to Ireland the stone on which the kings of Spain were crowned, becomes king of Ireland, xi. 196, 333; comes to Scotland, 381.
- Syna, river (the Shannon), 108.
- Synod held at Tours, 54.
- Syon, Mount, 414.
- Syward, earl of Northumberland, dethrones Macbeth, 210.
- TACITUS, his remark on the division of Scotland by the Forth and Clyde, lxxxviii.
- Tae (Tay), river, lxxxiv. lxxxv. 136.
- Tagalad, 286; Tagaled, 173. See Galam cennaleph.
- Tairpirt Boetter, burning of, 354, 356.
- Talagach, 200; Talalad, 150. See Galam cennaleph.
- Talarg, son of Amile, 200. See Talore, son of Aniel.
- Talarg, son of Keeter, 200, Keother, 172. See Talore, son of Achivir.
- Talarg, son of Mendeleghe, 200. See Talore, son of Muircholaich.
- Talargan, son of Anfrud, 286. See Taloren.
- Talargan, son of Drustan, 173, 202, 287. See Taloren.
- Talargan, son of Engus, 287. See Talorgen, son of Onnist.
- Talargan, Falargan, son of Fergus, king of the Picts, defeats the Dalriada at Knock Cariber, 357; slain in battle with the Britons at Mocetane, 15, 76, 124, 168, 358.
- Talargan, son of Tenegus, 173, 202. See Talorgen, son of Onnist.
- Talargh, son of Keocher, 285. See Talore, son of Achivir.
- Talargn, son of Amfrud, 150. See Talloren.
- Talbaern, the bard, 12.
- Taliessin, the bard, 12.
- Tallorce, Talorcan, Talargan, Thalargon,

- Talarn, Tolarcain, Tolargan, Tolartach, son of Enfret, Enfreth, Anfrat, Ainfrit, Amfrud, Anfrud, Confrnd, king of the Picts, clxxxi. 7, 28, 71, 150, 173, 286, 399; not of Pictish race; his father, Ainfrit, son of Aethelfrit, king of Northumbria, cii. clxxxvi.; must have obtained the throne through his mother, cxviii.; dies, cxviii. 71, 349.
- Talorc, son of Achivir, 28. See Talore.
- Talorc, son of Ainel, 28. See Talore.
- Talorc, son of Uuid, 28. See Talore.
- Talorc, son of Uuthoil, 400. See Talorgen.
- Talorcen, son of Enfreth, 28. See Tallorcen.
- Talorcen, Talargan, Thalargan, son of Druisten, Drustan, king of Atholl, 29, 150, 173, 202, 289, 400; put in chains by his brother Nectan, cxxxii. 73, 354; delivered into the hands of the Picts, 357, and drowned, 75.
- Talore, Talorc, Talarg, Talargh, Balarg, son of Achivir, Aithivir, Keothere, Keother, Keeter, king of the Picts, 6, 28, 149, 172, 200, 285, 398.
- Talore, Talore, Talarg, Tolarag, Tholarg, Tolarg, son of Aniel, Ainel, Amile, Anul, Anuf, king of the Picts, 6, 28, 149, 172, 200, 285, 398.
- Talore, Talore, Tollarg, Tolerg, son of Wid, Uid, Fooith, Fethar, Fetebar, Fechar, king of the Picts, cvi. 7, 28, 150, 173, 286, 399; dies, 71, 348.
- Talorg, Tolair, son of Acithaen, Aithican, dies, 72, 351.
- Talorg, Talarg, Tolorg, Golorg, son of Muircholaich, Murtholoic, Mordeleg, Madoleg, Mendeleghe, Tauxdelog, king of the Picts, 7, 28, 150, 172, 200, 286, 399.
- Talorgen, Talorcen, Talargan, Falargan, son of Ounist, Oinuist, Dereagus, Teneagus, Engus, king of the Picts, 7, 29, 150, 173, 202, 287, 400.
- Talorgen, Talorg, Tolore, son of Wthoil, 8, 29, 400; joint king with Drest son of Constantine; their names in several of the chronicles corrupted into one word, Dostolorg, 150; Drustalorg, 173; Duf Tolorg, 202; Dustalorg, 287.
- Tarain, 27. See Tharain.
- Taram, son of Gede, 398. See Tharain.
- Taran, Tharan, Turan, son of Entifidich, Enfidaig, Enfidaid, Anfudeg, Amfredeth, Amfodech, Amseidh, king of the Picts, exxi. 7, 29, 150, 173, 201, 286.
- Tarbith (misfortune), epithet applied in the "Prophecy of St. Berchan," probably to Lulach, 102.
- Taren, 200. See Tharain.
- Tataguenn, the bard, 12.
- Tea, wife of Herimion, 47.
- Teamhair (Tara), 39; kings of the Cruthneach of Alban who reigned in, 320.
- Tech Duinn (i.e., Donn's house, now the Bull Island, off Bantry Bay), 49.
- Tecmant, son of Teuhant, 16.
- Tede. See Tweed.
- Tees, Thesis, river, Malcolm I. penetrates England to, cxli. 10; David I. advances to, 212.
- Teimmen of Cillegarad, dies, 356.
- Teloche, in Kintyre, battle of, 345.
- Telpuil, son of Urben, 16.
- Temys, 386. See Thames.
- Tenagus, 151; Tcnegus, 174; Tenogns, 301. See Angus.
- Tethothrecht, 285. See Dectotric.
- Teudebur, Teudubr, Teudur, son of Beli, king of Strathclyde, xciv.; dies, 15, 124.
- Teuhant, son of Telpuil, 16.
- Teutous, 140.
- Thalarg, son of Ythernbuthib, 187.
- Thalargan, son of Drustan, 150. See Talorcen.
- Thalargon, sou of Confrud, 173. See Talorcen.
- Thames, Temys, Thamesis, 118; England subdued by Grig as far as, 386.
- Thana, son of Dudabreach, 188.
- Tharain, Tharan, Tarain, Thorau, Taren, king of the Picts, 6, 27, 149, 172, 200, 285.
- Tharan, son of Enfidaig, Amfredeth, Aufudeg. See Taran.
- Theacha, son of Erchada, 134. See Deatha.
- Their, Ther, Thrir, son of Rothir, Rothrir, Rether, 134, 144, 315.

- Theodosius, the Roman province cleared of the Scots by, cix.
- Theodotion, emperor of the East, 138.
- Thesis. See Tees.
- Thiernai, son of Faleg, 145. See Tigernaig.
- Thoe, Thri, son of Boi, Boib, 134, 145.
- Thomas, St., of Cauterbury. See Becket.
- Thomas, son of Uchtraig, plunders Derry, Columcille, and Inisowen, 373.
- Thrace, 107; the Cruithneach come from, 30, 33, 319, 322; Policoruu king of, 30, 325.
- Thri, 145. See Thoe.
- Thrir, son of Rothrir, 315. See Their.
- Thule, Ultima, Tyle, 108.
- Tbulucus, a companion of Regulus, 187.
- Thurstan, archbishop of York, consecrates Robert, bishop of St. Andrews, clxvi. 191.
- Tigernaig, Thiernai, son of Fallaig, Faleg, 134, 145.
- Tighernac, his "Annals," notice of, xxviii; extracts from, 66; "Continuation of the Annals," li.; extract from, 141.
- Tigheraoch, son of Muredach and Erc, 52.
- Tigris, river, 118.
- Timothy, St., his remains carried to Constantinople by Constantius, 183.
- Tinmore, battle at, between Constantine and Regnall, exl. 9.
- Tioningham (Haddingtonshire), church of, 193.
- Tiny (the Tyue), 248. See Tynemouth.
- Tirig, 204. See Grig.
- Titus, the emperor, destroys Jerusalem, 387.
- Todd, Rev. J. H., D.D., referred to, xvi. xxii. xxxvi. xxxviii. lxviii.
- Toe (probably the river Tay), cxliv. 97.
- Toirdealbach, grandson of Brian, king of Eri, slain, 367.
- Tola (a plain in Munster), battle of, 167, 344.
- Tolair aithican, 72. See Talorg.
- Tolarean, 71. See Tallorcen.
- Tolarcan, son of Drostan. See Tallorcen.
- Tolarg, son of Anuf, Anul. See Talore.
- Tolarg, son of Congus, defeated by Brude, son of Angus, 75, 356; drowned, 76, 357.
- Tolarg, son of Fechar, Fooith. See Talore, son of Wid.
- Tolargan, son of Ainfrift. See Tallorcen.
- Tolargan, son of Fergus. See Talargan.
- Tolargau maphan, dies, 355.
- Tolartach, son of Aufrait. See Tallorcen.
- Tolerg, son of Fetebar. See Talore, son of Wid.
- Tollarg, son of Fethar. See Talore, son of Wid.
- Tolore, 398. See Talore, son of Aniel.
- Tolore, son of Uuthoil. See Talorgen.
- Tolorg, son of Mordeleg, 150, Tauxdelog, 286. See Talorg, son of Muircholaich.
- Tomnat, wife of Ferchar, dies, 352.
- Tonaculmel, 149. See Canutulahama.
- Tonsure, coronal, the community at Hi receive the, 74.
- Toraic, Toraighe (Tory Island, off the coast of Donegal), plundered, 69, by Dungal, 75, 356.
- Toraidhli, church of, built, 69.
- Toulouse, Henry II. marches against, 212.
- Tours, Synod held at, by Cairach, the bishop, 55.
- Trad O'Mailfeabhaill, chief of Cinel Fergus slain, 374.
- Triduana, an abbess, 423.
- Trim, 175, Trin, 302. See Crinan.
- Trinovantum (London), built by Brutus, 222.
- Trostan, 325. See Drostan.
- Troy, Brutus comes to Albion from, 222; usage of, in regard to primogeniture, 223; the Scots nation had its origin long before the destruction of, 379.
- Tramwin, appointed bishop of the Picts, who were subject to the Angles, cxix. cxx. clvi.; his flight from Abercorn, cxx. clvi.
- Tuatha Dea, 48.
- Tuatha Fidhbha, Figda, a tribe of Britons, 326, slain at Ardleannhnachta, 31, 36, 326. See Fea.
- Tuathal, son of Aidan, 310.
- Tuathal, son of Angus mor, 311.
- Tuathal, son of Artgus, primate of Fortrenn, and abbot of Dunkeld, clxii. 361, 404.
- Tuathal, son of Morgan, dies, 71, 349; his sons, 310.
- Tuathal an blomaidh, son of Olchn, 309.

- Tuathlain, abbot of Cind Righ Monaigh (St. Andrews), dies, 76.
- Tuathan, son of Conall, 309.
- Tuilltigh, the Brit, Eocha, son of Run, described as, cxxxvi. 87.
- Tuitio, son of Conall, 309.
- Tula-amain burned, 351.
- Tuligobtuan (Tullibody), miracle wrought there by Servanus, 418.
- Tuligecultrio (Tillicoultry), miracle wrought there by Servanus, 419.
- Turan, son of Amsedeth. See Taran, son of Entifidich.
- Tutagual, son of Clinoch, 15.
- Tweed, Tede, river, 154; Kenneth mac Alpin extends his kingdom to the, 203, 299.
- Tyle, 108. See Thule.
- Tylianus, St. Boethius enters the monastery of, 410.
- Tyndale, its extent, 214; Alexander III. does homage for, 217, 228, 259.
- Tyndrum (Perthshire), lxxxiii.
- Tynemouth (Northumberland), Hungus defeats Athelstane at, 183, 248; Malcolm Canmore buried at, 206, 302.
- Tyssilio, "Brut" ascribed to him, xliv.
- UACHAILL, the pool of, 318.
- Uaisnenil, Uasnem, poet of the Cruithneach, 32, 41, 329.
- Ugaine mor, Hugune mor, son of Eodaig buadaig, Eccach rothai, 134, 144.
- Ui Cennselaigh (the county of Wexford), 125, 325, 326.
- Uidnnist. See Unuist.
- Ui Failge (Offaly, in Leinster), foray in, 77.
- Uileo, Brude, 324.
- Uinuaed (probably the Carron, Stirlingshire), Penda slain at, cxvi. cxvii. n.
- Uip, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 397.
- Uipo, king of the Picts. See Vipoig.
- Uladh (the ancient name of Ulster, subsequently of that part of it only which comprehends the counties of Down and Antrim), 108, 324; the three tribes which occupied the coast opposite Scotland, xlvi.
- Uleo, Brude, 5, 26, 324.
- Ulfa, Ulpa, son of Cruithne, 30, 31, 34, 325, 326, 327.
- Ulidiants, Ultonians, Ulot, Uloth, Ultu (the inhabitants of Uladh), in Eamain; their return, 67, 345; obtain the sovereignty of Manand, 129; plundered by the Dalriati, 352; destroy three ships of the Galls of the Isles, 371; Mured, king of, 146.
- Ulisses, 108.
- Ulnem, 288. See Ulurn.
- Ulot, Uloth, 345. See Ulidiants.
- Ulpa, 325. See Ulfa.
- Ulrum, 179. See Ulurn.
- Ulster. See Uladh.
- "Ulster, Annals of," notice of, lxxii.; extracts from, 343.
- Ultonia, Ultonians, Ultu. See Uladh, Ulidiants.
- Ulurn, Ulum, Ulrum, Ulnem, Wlru (near Forres), Malcolm I. slain at, cxlii. 151, 174, 179, 288, 302.
- Umania, 76. See Eamain.
- Umfraville, Ingeram de, 191.
- Unen, king of the Picts. See Uven.
- Ungaria, 423. See Hungary.
- Ungus. See Unuist.
- Unuist, Uidnnist, Hungus, Ungus, Angus, son of Wrguist, Uurguist, Hurgust, Fergus, Ferlon, king of the Picts, cxxiv. cxxv. 8, 29, 150, 173, 183, 202, 287, 400; defeats Elpin at Moncreiff and Scone, clxxxvi. 74, 355, Nechtan at Cairn o' Mount, 356, and Drust at Drumdearg, 74, 356, 401; lays waste Dalriada, takes Dunadd, burns Creich, and takes Dungall and Feraclac, sons of Selvach, cxxxii. clxxxii. 76, 357; defeats the Dalriada at Dromacathmail, 357; expels the Scots from Dalriada, clxxi.; makes war on the Britons; St. Andrew, in a vision, directs him how to obtain victory, 139, 184, 376; gains a great victory, 139, 184, at Tynemouth, 183, 248; receives the relics of St. Andrew from Regnlus, and dedicates Kilrymont to St. Andrew, 140, 186, with the formality of laying a turf on the altar, 187; the event antedated in the chronicles by four centuries, clxvii. clxxxiv. clxxxii. clxxxiii.; erects churches in honour of St.

- Andrew at Kindrochit, Monikie, and Forteviot, 186; is baptized, with all his household, by Regulus, 376; St. Andrew becomes the patron saint of the kingdom, clix.; dies, 76, 358.
- Urad, son of Bargoit, king of the Picts, 29. See Wrad.
- Urban, son of Grat, 16.
- Urbgen, son of Cimare, 12, 16.
- Urcal, Brude, 5, 26, 324, 397.
- Urcint, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 397.
- Urenid, Urerin, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 398.
- Urfeir, Brude, 5, 26, 324, 397.
- Urgaint, Brude, 324, 397.
- Urgant, Brude, 5, 26, 324, 397.
- Urgart, Brude, 5, 26, 325.
- Urgeist, king of the Picts, 27. See Wurgest.
- Urgnith, Brude, 5, 26, 324.
- Urgrid, Urgrith, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 397.
- Urleo, Brude, 324.
- Urmuin, Urmund, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 398.
- Urpant, Urpont, Brude, 5, 26, 324, 397.
- Urthuile, put to death, 72.
- Uruip, Brude, 5, 26, 325, 397.
- Usconbutis, Usconhest, king of the Picts, 6, 27, 172, 285, 398.
- Usfraen, son of Giulgis, 11.
- Uuradech uetla, king of the Picts, 28. See Wradech.
- Uven, Unen, Eogana, Coganan, Egganus, Doganan, son of Unuist, Hungus, Hunge, king of the Picts, 8, 29, 150, 173, 202, 287, 400.
- VACCÆ ALBÆ INSULA (Island of Bophin, off the west coast of Mayo), 71, 349; Columbanus (Colman), bishop of, 350.
- Valentinian and Gratian bring the Picts from Scythia to Britain, 163.
- Vallis draconis (Dragon's Den, in the parish of Dunning), Servanus slays a dragon there, 419.
- Vasconis (Gascony), 282.
- Venedocia (Gwynnedd), part of Cambria, 153.
- Verpempnet, 200. See Vipoig.
- Vespasian, the emperor, 382; Picts enter Britain in time of, 199, 298; destroys Jerusalem, 287.
- Vessy, William de, 275.
- Vindecastra (Winchester), Cadroe visits, 116.
- Vipoig namet, Uipo ignaviet, Poponeuet, Wmpopwall, Verpempnet, Vipoguenech, king of the Picts, 6, 27, 149, 172, 200, 285, 398.
- Virgil, the Picts the Agathirsi of, 163.
- Vision, seen by Regulus, 139, 183, 184, 375; Hungus, 139, 183, 376; Faiteach, 109; Beanus, 110, 112, 113; Cadroe, 114; Eliud and Alpia, 412; Servanus, 413, 414, 415, 416.
- Vist, Uist, king of the Picts, 6, 27, 398.
- Vortigern, Vorage, Guortigern, xxxvi.; his period, lxxxix. 161; usurps the throne of Britain, invites the aid of the Saxons against the Scots and Picts, lxxxix. 383, 387.
- WALES, Wallia, 282; Cambria called, 153, 222, 279; subdued by Arthur, 281; Britons take refuge in, 304; Belinus, king of, 223; laid under interdict, 388.
- Wallace, William, put to death, 389.
- Walter, seneschal of Scotland, 291.
- Walter, archdeacon of Oxford, confounded with Walter Mapes; book given by him to Geoffrey of Monmouth, xlvi.
- Wandalis, Scots derive their origin and name of Gaideli from, 166.
- Warenne, earl of, 211, 275.
- Warewykshire, in Mirchenelaga, 154.
- Waspasius. See Vespasian.
- Welsh Chronicle in the "Red Book of Hergest," liv.; extracts from, 161.
- Wemyss, David de, 291.
- Werdo fata, 301. See Inverdufatha.
- Weril, the British name of the river Firth, 136.
- Wertermore, Athelstane penetrates to, exl.
- Wessenelaga, one of the three divisions of Britain, its extent, 153.
- Westminster, St. Peter's, 132; the Stone of Destiny carried to, 197.
- Westmoreland, part of the kingdom of Cumbria or Strathclyde, lxxix.; invaded by the Scots, 230; subject to the king of Scotland, 249, 253; exempted from taxa-

- tion by the See of Rome on that account, 249; people of, converted to the faith by Scots missionaries long before the English, 250; invaded by Henry II., 255.
- Westymar, West-mering, 157; Gwysmenruc, 122; a stone erected there by Meuric to commemorate his defeat of the Picts, 122.
- Whitherne (Whithorn, in Galloway), first Christian church in the south of Scotland built by St. Ninian at, c. clxxv.
- Wigton, county of, clxxxv.
- Wilfrid, bishop of York, and of part of the Pictish territory, cxviii.
- William the Conqueror, his conquest of England, 280, 383; receives homage from Malcolm III., clxv. 225.
- William Rufus, receives the homage of Malcolm III., 225; gives refuge to Duncan, son of Malcolm, 211; deposes Donald, king of the Scots, and sets up Duncan, and afterwards Edgar, clxv. 225.
- William I., son of Prince Henry, king of Scotland, 135, 175, 182, 207, 211, 213, 290, 296, 300, 303, 337; his genealogy, iii. clxvii. 133, 144; earldom of Huntingdon bestowed on him, 144, and the earldom of Northumberland, 212; does homage to Henry II. at York, clxix. 226, for the honour of Huntingdon, 254; invades Northumberland, 225, taken at Alnwick, 212, thence to Richmond, and thence to the king of England in Normandy, 225, 227, 256, 301; certain pledges extorted from him in captivity, 256, which Richard I. afterwards renuits, clxix. 257; liberated the following year, 225; attends the Parliament at Northampton with his nobles, on the summons of Henry II., 227; does homage to Richard I. at Canterbury, 227; and to John at Lincoln, 226, 227; gives satisfaction to John for the unsanctioned marriage of his daughter to the Count of Boulogne, 227; makes peace with John at Norham; his daughters given as hostages, 213; does homage with his barons to Henry III., 225; his homage done only for his English fiefs, 281; dies, 373, 388, at Stirling, 175, 207, 290, 303; buried at Arbroath, 175, 182, 207, 290, 303, 306.
- William, earl of Ross, 291.
- William, earl of Sutherland, 291.
- Williams ap Ithel, John, his edition of the "Annales Cambriæ" referred to, xxvii.
- Willzam Mamrenence (William of Malmesbury), 386.
- Wiltshire, Wyltesire, in Wessenelaga, 154.
- Winchester, Vindecastra, Cadroe visits, 116.
- Wind, great, 76, 352, 358.
- Wlru, 179. See Ulurn.
- Wmpopwall, 172. See Vipoig.
- Woman of great size thrown out of the sea, 361.
- Wrad, Urad, Pherath, Ferat, Fergus, Fera-dagus, Ferach, son of Bargoit, Bergeth, Barot, Batot, Badoghe, Bacoc, king of the Picts, clxxxviii. 8, 29, 150, 173, 188, 202, 287, 400; according to the "Chronicle of St. Andrews" their last king but one, lviii.; had his seat at Meigle, cxvii.
- Wradech uecla, Uuradech netla, Ferdach fyngal, Feredak, Feredach finlegh, Stra-dach singel, king of the Picts, 6, 28, 149, 172, 200, 285, 398.
- Wurgest, Urges, Urgeist, king of the Picts, 5, 26, 324; probably one of the Brudes, cv.
- Wyltesire. See Wiltshire.
- Wyntoun, Andrew of, his Cronykil, ix. lvii. lxxiii.; quoted with reference to Nectan's ecclesiastical foundations, clviii.
- YBANDONIA, 151. See Lothian.
- York, Euoracnum, Severns slain at, 382; Cadroe visits, 116: the chief seat of the Northumbrian church, clv. clvi.; constituted by Calixtus metropolitan see of the Northumbrians and the Scots, 342; Wilfrid, bishop of, cxviii.; Ecgfrid divides the diocese into four parts, cxix.; jurisdiction north of the Humber assigned to the archbishop of, clxvi.; claim of the archbishop to authority in Scotland, 219; the claim resisted, clxvi.; John of Beverley bishop of, 223; Thurstan, bishop of, clxvi.; Henry de Newerk, dean of, 275;

William the Lyon does homage, and the nobles of Scotland pledge themselves by a special convention as liegemen to Henry II. at, 226, 227; Alexander II. marries Johanna at, 213.	Ysabella, 306. See Isabella. Ywerdon (the Welsh name of Ireland), lxxv. 123.
Yric, 224. See Eric.	ZEGULF, son of Sebald, 11.

NOTE.—On page 447, David Dalrymple, Lord Hailes, has been inadvertently referred to in place of Sir James Dalrymple.

DUE DATE

GLX SEP 30 1924

Printed
in USA

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES

0044049552

941

SK26

r4402727

941•
SK26

